CROPS AND PRICES.

As reports come in from County fairs we are forcibly reminded of a kind providence. Never before have they been more successful in the way of finance or exhibits. The exhibits of the agriculturists, especially, have been very flattering. Never before have the hardy sons of toil had better returns for their labor. Never before have the people of Wisconsin had more reason for thanksgiving, as we all depend upon the brawny men who till the soil. The success of each and all is measured, to a large degree, by the success of the sturdy farmer. We all rejoice at the sight of his well filled bins of grain and at the very idea of his cellar overflowing with vegetables of every variety. Since this is the condition at present, what more is needed to complete the happiness of all. But, you say, although products are abundant, prices are inversely proportional and so little is gained by our good crops. True, prices are much lower than fifteen or twenty years ago, but this is true of commodities which the farmer has to purchase, also.

We think we are safe in saying that prices of clothing and all manufactured articles have declined fully as much within the last fifteen or twenty years as have prices of farm products. However, we must admit that prices are quite low, just at present, for such products as are produced in large quantities in this vicinity. There are sections of the country, however, that were not blessed with bountiful crops; and when their insufficient supply becomes used up, demands will be made for our surplus, and consequently prices must rise. Thus it is when the proper distribution of the farmer's products begins, the demand will increase, and advanced prices must follow.

The following are among the casts which are building a monument to the memory of Gen. Algecl's speech upon Chickamauga battle ground: "Monuments give perpetual expression to a sentiment which language is too limited to portray and too ephemeral to preserve." "The world erects monuments not as a solace for the dead but as an inspiration for the living." In speaking of the dead soldiers and their graves he said: "It is not their graves, it is their deeds that live. Men look towards the firmament for the names of heroes, and rarely where their bones are buried."

As explaining why he gave $500,000 to a church of which he is not a member, James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern R. R. Co., said, among other things: "Almost all other denominations have in their flock those who are able to help their church work in every material way; but the Catholic church, with its large number of working men and women, coming from almost every clime, have little else than their faith in God and the aid of those earnest and devout men who have been placed in charge of their spiritual welfare."

The typographical errors in our journal number indicate rush work equal to that of closing up time on a daily paper. For instance, in eulogizing a veteran of the late war, The Milwaukee Sentinel read "he was born sudden," instead of "he was a born soldier," and, again, in speaking of a horse-race, it read "she was crowded through in 2:14" instead of "she was crowded through in 2:14." We are all tarred with the same stick.

The school superintendent of the state has sent out a list of 116 books, from which town clerks and county superintendents are to make selections for school libraries. Town treasurers retain, from the state school fund, 10 cents for every person of school age in the district, for the purchase of books. It seems that the act is a satisfactory and the libraries must be purchased.

The recent action of the solons of Kewaskum, in appointing a committee to act upon the matter of street lighting, indicates that our village fathers are of a progressive turn of mind, to say the least; and, we earnestly hope that, inasmuch as there is an electric light plant here, the report of the committee will favor getting the best to be had.

When a traveling man first proposed to girde the globe with nothing save good health for a starter, some newspapers predicted that no good would result. However, it has proven to be the means of opening up a new source of earning a livelihood, and many who are engaged in it would not do anything else, if they could.

The ferrying of cars across Lake Michigan, instead of hauling them by rail, between points north of Chicago, rather places the Garden City in the light of being an impediment to fast freights. The plan proposed is feasible but not profitable.

The recent report that the Minneapolis mill-owners have formed a combination for their own mutual benefit, reminds us that with wheat selling at low prices, per bushel, flour should be 50 per hundred pounds.

of the Cream City are preparing for the presentation which is to take place on the 16th and 17th, although the announcements as to special rates from railroads running into the metropolis of Wisconsin. However, we presume, rates announced for the Exposition will prevail from this point, viz: $1.95 for the round trip.

It is estimated that a grand parade of at least 17,000 persons will be formed on Grand avenue, over fifty different business firms having spoken for positions in the industrial line of march. The committee on arrangements has made plenty of provision for music, having employed sixteen brass bands and two drum corps, besides other bands will be furnished by societies. Among the expected guests are Govs. Algecl of Illinois and Jackson of Iowa. The visiting governors will be invited to address large audiences in the Academy of Music on Wednesday afternoon, at which place 1,000 seats have been reserved for governors and their staffs, old settlers, common councilmen, general committee-men, county officials, press representatives and court judges.

One of the interesting features of the parade will be the wheelmen's division, which will be led by mounted policemen and 100 soldiers on bicycles.

Taken as a whole, the celebration will undoubtedly present a grand opportunity to see old camping ground of Solomon Juncos at its best.

Surveyor Chas. F. Leins, of West Bend, surveyed some land for Charles Fleischmann and Henry Schmidt & Bros. on Monday and Tuesday of this week.

Mrs. Sedorf and children, of Kankakee, Ill., visited with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jung, Jr., and relatives, the fore part of this week. She returned home Thursday.

We hear our town treasurer, Henry Schneider, exchanged his 40-acre farm for Mr. Perey's saloon and dance hall at Kewaskum, the fore part of this week. Mr. Schneider is well known, and no doubt will make a good saloon keeper. We wish him success.

The young people here gave a surprise party to Miss Lena Baumgartner, Sunday evening; and, that all had a good time in dancing was shown by some returning at 3 o'clock next morning. Her many friends in attendance wish her many more such happy occasions. The Martin's favorite band furnished the music.

FARMINGTON FLASHES.
Did you welcome the Kewaskum Statesman's first visit.
Boys get your horns ready and march towards Fillmore on Tuesday next. Da giebts wieser was.

Law suits and donnerwetter are all the go in town of Fredonia Da ist es bei uns in Farmington doch ganz anders.

Winter is now close at hand the time when a newspaper is a welcome guest; therefore, subscribe for the STATESMAN.
We noticed in one of our county weeklies that Fillmore has two correspondents. The next thing on the programme will be a new paper at that place. We hope it will be a dandy.

Last Monday evening our young folks attended a kushing bee at C. Schaele's and one Tuesday evening at G. Zetler's in town of Fredonia. A good time is reported from both occasions. Who is next on the programme?
Shnell, our general cheese at present confined to the are feet. Gust. Zetler's

Christopher Brookmeyer is on the list.

Gilbert McDougal is attending the high school at Fond du Lac.

Albert Keohn is visiting a few days with his daughters in Milwaukee, this week.

Kittie Goss, of Fond du Lac, is visiting relatives and friends here this week.

Our public school commences a week from Monday, with Miss Gerie Corbett, of Mitchell, as teacher.

The Misses DeNeven, of Fond du Lac, and Mr. Weller, of Chicago, spent Wednesday fishing on Long lake.

The farm and all its contents, excepting three horses belonging to A. Krelley, was destroyed by fire, Wednesday night. Origin of the fire is unknown.

The agents for the Campbellport Village Fire Insurance company reported good success, having written a number of policies in this village, with promises of several more.

The weather still continues very dry, and a number of farmers are complaining of scarcity of water, one party coming a distance of 2 miles to get water for his stock. Long lake still holds her own, which is a great convenience for farmers near by.

Died at Calvary station, Monday, Oct. 9th, Mrs. Delia Beau wife of John L. Beau of that place. In the prime of life, happiness, and contentment, surrounded by friends and acquaintances who held her in high esteem Mrs. Beau was called from this earthly career. The deceased, who was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Arimond of Duncle, leaves in addition to her parents, her husband and two children to mourn her loss. The funeral took place Wednesday morning, there having been over 100 conveyances in the lonely train which followed the remains to Mt. Calvary cemetery. Services were held in St. Francis church, the Rev. Fr. Heidenman of Chicago officiating, assisted by Rev. Fr. Marcus of St. Peter's and Lawrence of Mt. Calvary. The many floral offerings and the large attendance of sympathizers testify to the great esteem in which the deceased was held.

Overworked.
St. Louis (enthusiastically)—I equal that there's any pleasure to equal that of keeping one's lawn in good order. I play my hose on it all day.
Towler—I pity the poor hose. I can imagine it singing, "I don't want to play in your yard."—New York Recorder.

A Good Excuse.
Housekeeper—Your milk is as thin as water today.
Milkman—Well, mmm, it was very foggy this morning when we milked.—New York Weekly.

Ecstic Physiology.
Old Farmer Reed was driving some of the boarders over the beautiful New Hampshire hills, where the winding roads are either up hill or down hill and a level space is not found in many miles. As he urged the strong, wiry horses up one of the steep ascents, he worked out the following line of argument: "Now, I s'pose you city folks think it kinder tough to make the critters pull up these hills, but 'tain't so mean as you think. It's a big sight meaner to run 'em down hill, an' I'll tell yer why. Now, when a boss runs up hill, his vitals press on his innards, but when you run him down hill, his innards press on his vitals. An' that's a sight worse, now ain't it?"—Youth's Companion.

An Example.
"Many a mean man has been discovered," put in Snuggs as he ate his quick lunch, "but we have one of them out in Stockton that's entitled to consideration."
"What's his record?" inquired Doggs as he calculated that he had time for another piece of pie.
"He makes his wife live on soap so she will not wear out her false teeth," replied Snuggs.—Philadelphia Call.

Not Water.
"Papa," quoth the young boy, "here is a story about a sea serpent, and yet the naturalists say the serpent does not live in water."
"My experience," rejoined the old man, "leads me to side strongly with the naturalists."
The young boy did not understand fully until about 15 years later, when he tumbled.—Detroit Tribune.

Ready to Settle "In His Mind."
"I believe, sir, you are selling building lots in McCue's addition to Millipias," remarked a small man with a thin neck that appeared to be too long in the back and wrinkled just above his collar.
"Yes, sir; that's what I'm doing," remarked the real estate agent cheerfully. "I'm selling lots there every day."
"I'd like to get a building lot in a desirable suburb," and the little man ducked his head and stretched his neck to get his collar below his wrinkles, or the wrinkles above his collar, in order to facilitate conversation.
"Well, this is a desirable suburb."
"Are you, sir, prepared to offer special inducements to desirable parties?"
"Well, of course, that depends upon their desirability," replied the agent suspiciously.
"I suppose, sir, you wish to encourage the arts and manufactures in building up your little city?"
"Yes, of course."
"And would make it an object for artists and manufacturers to locate in your suburb?"
"Well—er—yes, I guess so."
"Then, sir, you and I can talk business." The little man nearly crawled through his collar. "I am happy to learn, sir, that you appreciate that the arts and manufactures are absolutely necessary to material progress. Now, if you will but donate a site, I will settle in your midst, teach the concertina and set a soap factory here's nothing but soap and water."—

Where He Paused.
"Now," said the eminent politician to his secretary, "let's draft a sort of personal platform for my campaign. In the first place, we're in favor of the bloomer. Got that written?"
"Yes, sir."
"We believe in the new woman and the bicycle."
"Yes, sir. Anything about the currency?"
"S-h! Don't mention the currency yet. We want to cover all the ground we can, of course, but we can't go clear through the whole encyclopedia, you know."—Washington Star.

A Landlord Who Took Advantage of a Tenant.
The war department clerk who lives in the suburbs for economy was almost ready to fight when The Star man met him.
"What's the matter?" inquired The Star man.
"Didn't I see something in The Star the other day about the meanest men in the whole world?" he asked.
"I wouldn't be surprised. There are so many of him that he feels slighted if I don't get into the papers at least seven days in the week."
"Well, I've come across one that you ought to get out an 'extra' for."
"Can't do that, I fancy, but tell me about him, and we'll try to have him get into the regular edition."
"Will you put him in display type next to reading matter and at the top of the column?"
"I can't promise position until I have heard the story. What about him?"
The department clerk shook himself over or twice to steady his feelings.
"You know," he said when he had got himself into shape for expression, "that for the sake of economy I rented a house in the suburbs?"
"What suburbs?" inquired the guileless reporter.
"That's all right," continued the clerk. "I rented a house in the suburbs, for which I paid $20 a month, and I have paid it regularly," he added, to avert suspicion. "It wasn't much of a house either, but the location was pleasant, and my wife liked the neighbors, so we put up with the objectionable features, hoping that when we had proved ourselves to be good and reliable tenants we might be able to prevail on our landlord to make the needed improvements. We didn't become very ardent until we had been in for five or six months, but we might as well have been so from the beginning, for the owner wouldn't do a blessed thing. The doors needed locks, the walls needed papering, the plumbing was out of whack, and there was absolute necessity of an extra room for a kitchen. Finding we couldn't get the owner to do anything, and my wife having a little money of her own, we concluded to put the repairs on ourselves, and we did it, even to building the kitchen."
"You must have a right nice place now," ventured The Star man.
"That's what we thought," went on the clerk, "and yesterday I took the owner out to look at it and let him see what an improvement we had made, thinking he would be moved to reimburse us for the outlay."
"And didn't he?" asked The Star man in an of-course-he-did tone.
The clerk shook his head mournfully.
"Wasn't he pleased with it?" continued the questioner.
"Oh, yes," said the clerk warmly. "He was greatly pleased. I never saw a man more tickled, and he told us he didn't think it was possible to add so much to the desirability of the house."
"Isn't he going to do anything?" persisted the reporter.
"Oh, he's done it," snapped the clerk.
"Sent me a notice today to the effect that he was going to raise the rent $5 a month on me," and The Star man muffled his tears with those of the clerk.—Washington Star.

No Doubt About It.
Mrs. Fairview—Doctor, do you think my husband fully realizes his condition?
The Doctor—I do. Basked me today if I was a married man.—Life.

The Prisoner, my lord, is an orphan.
At an early age he lost his mother, his only mother, my lord.—Pick Me Up.

It Wasn't a Fight.
"So he thrashed you, did he?" asked the justice of the man with one eye closed and a lump on the top of his head.
"Me! Thrashed me!" exclaimed the prisoner scornfully. "Well, I guess not. Maybe you don't know that I'm a fighter."
"You don't look like a very successful one," suggested the justice.
"Well, I'm a crker. That's what I am," replied the prisoner, with some show of pride. "He couldn't lick me, not even if he had a meat ax to sort of push the game along."
"I presume next you'll claim there wasn't any fight," said the justice.
"Right you are," returned the prisoner. "There wasn't no fight."
"But he certainly did something to you."
"That's what he did, but he didn't lick me. I guess I know what kind of a fighter I am, an' no man of his build could get away with me."
"Then what did he do?" inquired the justice becoming a trifle impatient.
"He hypnotized me."
"Hypnotized you? Do you know what hypnotism is?"
"Sure thing. I read about it in the papers, an' once I see a feller do the trick."
"Well, never mind him. Tell me about the affair last night. How was it done?"
"W'y, I called him a liar an' hit him, an' he jest made a few quick motions with his hands, an' I was in a trance for 'bout half an hour."
"Ten dollars and costs. Call the next case."
"All right, judge," returned the prisoner. "I don't care nothin about the fine, but I want the thing to be right on the books. Jest you see that it reads $10 for bein hypnotized an' not for bein licked, an' I won't make a whimper. So long as I'm in set right before the public I don't care what the fine is. But I wasn't licked, judge. Be sure an' get that down."—Chicago Post.

SOCIETY DIRECTORY.

Kewaskum Camp meets on the first three Tuesdays of each month in Kewaskum. Water Street.

POSTOFFICE HOURS.

7 a. m. to 8 p. m. 9 a. m. to 12 m. J. J. ALDEN, POSTMASTER.

LAOCONICAL LOCALS.

Street work is progressing nicely. The marsh fire is still on south of here. Andrew Piek was in town on business last Monday.

Five carloads of stock were shipped here this week. Charles Droske has removed to Kewaskum.

Pat. Kinney, of Eau Claire, is visiting his parents here. E. Miller returned home last Saturday from Milwaukee.

Michael Keller, the millwright, was in town last Saturday. Sheriff Jensen was in town sunning jurors last Tuesday.

Jo. Rosenheimer and family, of Schlegel, visited here Sunday. Wm. Weddig is still busy filing his mason work contracts for the season.

For SALE.—Coal heating stove, in good condition. Inquire at A. Lindback's. W. F. Schulze and wife of Lansing, Ia. are visiting relatives hereabouts.

John McLaughlin, of Fond du Lac, spent last Sunday here with his brother Patrick. Barbara Deutsch and Mrs. Schenck left Tuesday for St. Paulina, to visit friends.

The Chicago & Northwestern officials' private car passed through here Wednesday. Peter Loehem, U. S. deputy revenue collector, was here on official business Monday.

John Gindex and wife left for Milwaukee, last Tuesday, to take up their new place there. Mrs. J. McConnell, of Green Bay, is visiting with sister Immaculata, of the Catholic school.

Mr. Lieberman, of the Gutsch Brewing Co. of Sheboygan, was in town a few days this week. The dance posted for last Sunday at Perry's hall did not take place owing to unfavorable weather.

A grand ball and oyster supper is to be given at Deutsch's on Sunday, Oct. 20th. Don't miss it! F. Stark and family and Mrs. Arzbacher, of West Bend, spent last Sunday with H. W. Krahn.

The Kewaskum Creamery.

This village can justly feel proud in having the oldest established creamery in Washington county, because such an institution is a necessary adjunct to the leading market place of a farming country.

In concluding we might say that the comparative prices of products of the farm and dairy separately are so decidedly in favor of the latter branch that farmers in this vicinity will govern themselves accordingly and take more stock in cream cattle; and, if they do, the proprietors of "Kewaskum Creamery" will enlarge its capacity proportionately.

The Chicago & Northwestern Railway will soon place a new pumping engine here which is capable of filling the tank with water in ten hours. The south bound trains have been drawing heavily upon the water supply here lately owing to the wells at Eden having run dry, and the wind-mill chlorinator is unreliable, consequently the change will be a great improvement.

The Buffalo synod of the Lutheran church held a conference at the Moldvander church last Tuesday and Wednesday, and the following doctors of divinity were in attendance: Revs. C. Baum, of Milwaukee; W. Lange, of Oshkosh; C. Kuelner, of Random Lake; and R. Graham, of Jackson.

We acknowledge having been invited to a noon lunch last Wednesday evening also that we are not curious as to how they taste; therefore, the quibbles of Kewaskum who have not "been there" are respectfully referred to those who have.

The statue, Sacred Heart of Mary, donated to the Catholic church here by Jacob and Margaret Harter (deceased), was dedicated on the 4th inst. Rev. Vogt, the local pastor, was assisted in the ceremony by Rev. Wildart, of South Oshkosh.

Hy. Schneider, of the town of Wayne, has traded his 40-acre farm for the property of Mr. Percy. Both of the properties having been estimated at $3,000, each, the trade was an even one. Hy. will open up a saloon here soon in the Percy place.

If our correspondents will use the expression "J. H. Jenkins and wife" instead of "Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jenkins," for instance, it will greatly facilitate the work of compiling our paper, and at the same time obtain for them our earnest support in their writings.

Four rooms were shot in the woods near here this week by W. Backhaus, Aug. Degner and Fred. Andrae; and, as a result, the jaws lunched at J. Blake's last Wednesday evening and suppered at N. Merz's Thursday night.

The Rosenheimer Bros. have engaged a practical man to drain their farm with a system of filing which promises to become the "proper paper" in the way of farm fertilizing hereabouts.

Mrs. James Maddock, of Chicago, who has been stopping with her sister, Mrs. E. Schmidt, for the past three weeks, returned Wednesday, accompanied by her sister.

Another invoice of new furniture was received by Mrs. J. Zwasehka last Wednesday, making her stock so complete that one cannot fail to find what is wanted.

Rev. G. Muenzer, of St. Michael's, took the train here Thursday forenoon for Milwaukee to attend the reception of Archbishop Kazan on his return from Rome.

Rev. W. O. Schmidt, of Elmore, is now filling the appointment at the German M. E. church, instead of Rev. F. T. Bohl, who removed to Honey Creek, Wis.

Rev. Molendauer took the train, last Thursday for Rosendale, Fond du Lac county, where he attended the funeral of a child of one of his flock.

Mrs. Huntington, of Lehigh, Mich., Mrs. Taylor of West Bend, and Mrs. Knapp, of Barton, were visiting with Marshal Casey and wife last Sunday.

Mr. Stoddard was here last Thursday in the interest of the Frick Engine Manufacturing company of Waynesboro, Penn.

Oscar Oberreich, who has been employed in the Klein Marble Works, will leave soon for his home in Plymouth, Wis.

Joe. Klein, Sr., returned from Marathon county, last night, where he has purchased 80 acres of land for $900. It will now be in order for one of our cigar factories to get out the "Kewaskum Statesman" brand of cigars.

Joe. F. Huber, of the West Bend Democrat, gave us a fraternal call last Tuesday while in town on business. John Wunderle and wife, from the town of Addison, visited Mrs. P. Wunderly Sunday.

Mrs. Fleischman, sister of Mrs. Dr. Hausman, left on a visit to Evansville, Ind., Tuesday. Joseph Mack and Philip Strobel, of St. Killian, gave us a friendly call last Thursday.

CAMPBELLSPORT CHANGES.

Dr. Orvis went to Oakfield, Saturday, on professional business. Night Operator Smallwood, of Kewaskum, was in town Friday.

Jacob Shaleff and family went to West Bend, Saturday, for a visit with M. Schneider and family. S. Wenner, of Milwaukee, will locate here and open a clothing store in the building owned by I. Klotz.

Wm. Wadler and his daughter, Olga, went to Milwaukee to attend the Exposition. L. Rhodes and N. C. Michaels are both kept busy drilling for more water, many wells having run dry.

The attendance at the school has increased this week, quite a number coming from outside of the district. W. H. Feber and wife of New London, Wis., made a call at his former home in the town of Auburn.

Mrs. Lena Berg, who has been here several weeks under the treatment of Dr. Orvis, has greatly improved and returned to her home. John Loeb, of Saeman, Loeb & Kinchel, has gone to Chicago to complete the purchasing of their line of goods for the winter.

Mrs. Eli Stobel, after spending a month visiting with her parents at her old home in Independence, Ia., returned last Monday evening. Our accommodating baggage man, Mr. Boechler, keeps bringing us messages, "increasing cloudiness with showers," but we find no relief in the rain which follows.

We were greatly grieved on hearing of the sad and sudden death of Mrs. John Bean of Calvary, Wisconsin. Deceased is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arimond of Dundee. Sister M. Romona, who died at St. Joseph's Convent last Thursday, was taken to her home at Sublette, Ill., for burial last Friday. With Undertaker Henry Wenzel in charge.

The Board of Directors of the Campbellsport Mutual Fire Insurance Company met at the secretary's office last Thursday evening for the transaction of routine business. They report the company in a prosperous condition. H. Wallihan, formerly night operator at Eden, has been transferred to Campbellsport to act as agent for a few days. The agent there is taking a few days' lay off. A man by the name of J. E. Moore is acting as night operator in Eden at present.

The undisposed of cases on the docket in Justice Hanson's court are: Farrell & Rheinhard vs. Ryan, and Johnson vs. Ryan, are called for hearing the 11th and 12th, respectively. The former is the result of a sheep deal, while the latter is a claim for wheat sold last spring.

A. E. Nigh made a trip to New Casel this week. The steam shovel has taken its departure again. John Seebam is visiting friends at Whitefish Bay. Mrs. Frank Bertram was taken dangerously ill Wednesday.

J. Singles, of Whitefish Bay, called on his parents here Monday. C. J. Suckow has had the hole south of the depot filled with gravel. Mrs. H. Kircher has received 100 tons of coal this fall customers.

Mrs. A. Boden is visiting relatives and friends in Milwaukee this week. E. Schugel is repairing the ice house so as to be ready for the winter harvest. J. Wilson, father of C. R. Wilson, our genial lumberman, was in town last week.

Mrs. A. Huntington left for Appleton, Monday, where her father and a sister reside. Boys, where are the bells? You will need them in a few days, for cupid is working hard now days.

W. H. Gordon called on friends in Boltonville last Saturday. Bill likes to look at home once in a while. C. E. Taylor was ran into last Wednesday a week ago, by a team while returning from the County fair.

The Columbus society held its first meeting of the season last Sunday evening and elected officers for the ensuing year. The Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co. is giving evening entertainments here this week. Wednesday evening a prize was given to the best looking young lady, Elma Schuegel.

Frank Woodford, of Appleton, and Miss Emma Van Epps, of Fond du Lac, are visiting with the former's parents. Frank came through from Appleton on his wheel in seven hours. Frank Pfler, of Young America, died, Oct. 8th, at the residence of John Knoeck. He had not been well for several years. He was at work husking corn for Mr. Knoeck and, not feeling well as usual, went to the house, where he was taken with bleeding at the nose, which resulted in his death. Deceased was 72 years old. Funeral was held yesterday (Friday) at the Catholic church.

Ernst Frankenberg and wife have returned from a trip to St. Paul. They were accompanied by the latter's sister, Mrs. Egger, and son Carl. A number of the wideawake, sociable young people of this city organized a club Tuesday evening to afford amusement during the winter. The name of the club is "The Acme Social Club of West Bend," and it promises to become "the" club of the city.

The church bell rings at 7 a. m. and 5 p. m. Albert Heipp spent a few days in Milwaukee. J. Smith, of Barton, visited G. Jung last Sunday. P. Drielen, of Kewaskum, called on relatives here.

Miss Lizzie Kenney called on friends in the Cream City. D. Murphy, of Minnesota, is visiting with relatives here. Stephen Calahan and son made a short call on his folks here. C. Webster and wife spent Sunday with S. Row and wife. G. Taylor, of Scott, made a short call on friends here last Monday. Wm. Gordon and wife, of Barton, were seen here last Saturday. William Bailey has accepted a position as blacksmith with Henry Clemens.

Kate Ryan and her grandmother spent Saturday and Sunday at Random Lake. M. Mulvaney has taken the position of Otto Miller in the mill here, and the latter will go to school in Ripon. Beechwood Beamlets. For full line of clothing call at C. Koch's. Look out there, Fred; the boys are laying for you. Moonlight husking parties are quite the "fad" at present. Winter goods are arriving daily at J. F. Drescher & Co's. J. P. O'Connell is making great progress in improving his new farm. Eddy Kreutzinger, of Campbellsport, spent Wednesday with his parents. Mr. Lindback, of Kewaskum, made a business call on friends here Tuesday. A party of young people drove to Sheboygan Falls, last Sunday, to visit friends and relatives.

ST. MICHAEL'S MITES. Our school will commence on next Monday with Alma Hanks as teacher. Hubert Schneider is beginning to put up an addition to his barn, rather late in the season. Wonder what kind of beer that is which they sell in Kewaskum, because well we promised not to tell. It was rather a poor speculation to buy a new (?) kind of potato last spring, when new potatoes are only a drug on the market. Farmers hereabout will soon be through with their fall work except plowing, for which the ground is too hard and dry. Mr. Schiller, living two miles southwest of here, has returned from the asylum at Oshkosh; hope that he will regain his health, as he has the reputation of being a hard working man. We wish the editor, as well as the proprietor of the STATESMAN success in their enterprise; hope that they may succeed in gaining the confidence of public at large, without which as a matter of course, success is not possible in the publication of a newspaper.

NEW PROSPECT NOTES. Born, to C. Schneider and wife, a girl. We think the STATESMAN a very good paper and wish it success. A new arrival has come to stay at William Gander's. Henry Uelman is repairing the Jersey school house this week. Lizzie Forsyth, of Waucoosa, is a guest of Celia Van Blarcom. Mr. Winters came home Tuesday for the first time since last spring. L. B. Reed and wife spent Sunday at Nels Tice's in the town of Forest. L. B. Van Blarcom attended the Board of Trade, Monday, in Fond du Lac. Elmer Furlong and family have moved into their new, commodious dwelling. Mrs. Martin and daughter, Jennie, spent Sunday with relatives in Dundee. The threshing machine is in the neighborhood again finishing up contracts. Two men representing the Wafer Yeast company passed through here on Wednesday. Mr. Driekman has built an addition to his house, it being quite an improvement to our village. B. G. Romaine and wife, of Byron, spent Friday and Saturday of last week visiting relatives in this vicinity. A party of young men in this vicinity were out hunting last Sunday. They got three rabbits and a good wotting. The dance at Mr. Harefield's last Saturday night was not well attended by the girls, only four having been present. El. Van Gilder's husking bee was well attended last Saturday night. All report having had a pleasant time; but, oh, the dust! James Blackman had his house painted and is now putting a cellar under it. It has been reported so often that the bird is near by—make some provision for your physical health at this season, because a cold which an attack of pneumonia or typhoid fever may make you an invalid all winter. First of all be sure that your blood is pure, for health depends upon pure blood. A few bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla will be a paying investment. It will give you pure, rich blood and invigorate your whole system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier.

Failure of the Latest Attempt to Lessen the Perils of Hatteras.

Just before you enter the village of Westville by the Outgoing road stands the Makepeace mansion. Its faded green blinds are shut, and the grass grows rank close up to the doors and underpinning. Its materials still look and feel as if they were laid down by the hands of a man who had found her once already in a state of unnatural exhilaration, and who was so much in love with her that he would have done anything to win her.

A TAIN IN THE BLOOD.

By John Abbe.

The wedding eve came; the guests were arriving; the groom in fine apparel and radiant face, with his bride, who was as lovely as the dawn, awaited their expected moment. No one knew but the minister and the bridegroom that the bride was not the same as she had been when she was first seen by the groom.

A ROMANCE OF THE WAR.

Grateful Union Soldier Discovers His Benefactor Thirty Years After.

An interesting war story comes to light from an incident that occurred at the battle of Antietam. A young soldier, who was then a boy, was wounded and left for dead on the battlefield. He was found by a young girl, who was a nurse, and she nursed him back to health.

They Had Been Filled Up with Shot by a Swindling Mexican.

The average peddler or vender in Mexico is a swindler of the worst kind. The petty tricks and deceptions they practice will illustrate the character of the birds.

Wine will be Cheap.

Certain brands of wine should be cheap this year. There seem to be great quantities of Bordeaux in some of the European cellars, as the owner of a large vineyard near Bordeaux has sent out circulars offering to sell cases of all wine.
