Geo. Nugent, Editor.

CONGRESS will convene on Dec. 3, and our representative therein, S. S. Barney, left for Washington last Thursday.

TO-DAY is the sixteenth anniversary of the death of Jeff Davis, the ex-confederate general—and his memoirs go marching on.

WE see by the Milwaukee papers that a New York Hill is being used by the Democrats to check the Republicanward flow of Western votes.

THE "new woman" is evidently becoming right blooming serious down in Kansas, as thirty-five ladies of Topeka have decided to attend church in bloomers.

THE Advocate, a Japanese newspaper, denounces the war which England proposes to wage against the Ashantees, and trusts that the latter will whip the "bloody Britons."

THE recent appointment of John L. Peak of Kansas City as minister of the United States to Switzerland is no indication that our relations with that country have become peaked.

THE action of the Chicago authorities in ascertaining the names and residences of all idle boys of school age is a good move, as "tab" might well be kept upon such urchins in all cities.

THE Hawaiian minister to the United States authorizes the statement that the New minister, Hatch, will not ask for a protectorate at the coming session of congress, but that he will do his best to get Hawaii annexed to the United States.

THE assistant secretary of the Interior department has decided that where a pension has been obtained fraudulently, the attorney procuring the same is not entitled to the fee and must refund it. This will tend to make pension attorneys more particular about pushing claims hereafter.

WILLIAM ONIONS has been convicted 325 times for drunkenness in London courts. In his case, a small quantity of liquor that would have no effect on ordinary persons makes him violent and gets him into trouble.—Ez. It is probably the extreme change, from an onion to a whisky breath, that staggers him.

THE fastest type-setting on record is 70,700 Ms of the type in which our village ordinances appear this week, and was accomplished in a contest at Chicago recently by Geo. W. Green of Boston on a Linotype machine. The amount set is equal to a whole week's work by hand, figuring ten hours a day and seven days a week.

THE report of the secretary of agriculture, as sent out from Washington, says that the total number of animals inspected at the slaughter-houses was over 18,000,000, or an increase of more than 5,500,000 over the previous year. We shouldn't wonder, when we stop to consider that animals are now butchered like saw-logs in this country.

THE Wisconsin correspondent of the Chicago Chronicle says there will be a special session of the legislature to re-appoint the legislative districts; that W. H. Upham will be renominated for a second term; and that Philetus Sawyer will be elected senator by the legislature of 1897 to succeed W. F. Vilas, if the Republicans should have a majority to that body.

SPAKING of the recent lead of the Pennsylvania Central railroad toward a reduction in the price of upper berths of Pullman cars, the Chicago Chronicle says: This is a step, though not a very long one, in the right direction. The proper course for the railways to adopt is to build and operate their own sleeping cars and as fast as their contracts with the Pullman company expire. It is doubtful whether in any other branch of commerce can there be found any parallel to the contracts by which the great trunk lines have turned over the cream of their passenger business to an independent corporation. It is more than doubtful whether, even in the railway business, such jug-handled contracts would be made unless there was something more in them for the officials making the contract than for the railway corporation bound by it. As for the present concerted move for the railway agents, it will probably result only in the calm response of the Pullman company that "there is nothing to arbitrate."

IN as much as there is a law in this state against boycotting, the following definition, by the Chicago Inter-Ocean, may prove interesting: The word "boycott" signifies, when used as a noun, a conspiracy to injure another by refusing to work for him, to sell to him, or to have any ordinary business dealings with him. It is also used as a verb, signifying to form or take part in a conspiracy of this kind. The word was first used in 1880, when, at the instance of Mr. Parnell, a conspiracy against Captain Boycott, a farmer in Connemara, Ireland, and an agent of Lord Earne, was formed by the land leaguers. The men refused to work in his fields or to allow any one else to work there. In this way he was forced to give up his agency and leave the country, and from that time the word "boycott" was used in Ireland to describe similar treatment to that accorded to this agent; and, from Ireland, the word spread throughout the English world.

BOLTONVILLE BARDS.

ORITUARY.

DIED.—ALTEHOFFEN—Anton, at Milwaukee, on Tuesday morning, Nov. 25, 1895, aged 38 years.

Deceased was born in Kewaskum on Jan. 26, 1857, and married Louisa Altenhofen (nee Schneider) in 1879; three children were born to them, the only boy of whom died 8 years ago, leaving two daughters to mourn his demise together with their mother, as well as a sister and a brother.

The departed had been sick for a year previous to his death, and only resided in Milwaukee about 18 months, whither he went from here.

The funeral took place yesterday at Calvary cemetery in Milwaukee, Rev. Grome officiating.

DIED.—WAGNER—August, on Nov. 23, 1895, aged 71 years.

The deceased was born in 1824 at Tschirn Kreis Buzau, province of Schlesien, Germany. In 1852 he married Beate Wagner, (nee Lebelt) and one child (which died during infancy) was born to them. He removed to this country in 1875 and settled in the town of Kewaskum, 2 1/2 miles east of here, where himself and wife shared the comforts of rustic life until they secured a competency and moved into this village, about 6 years ago.

Among the many associates and acquaintances of this duty-loving man, there was not one who did not love him; but all can say, with one accord, "Well done! Thy life was well spent! The example thou hast shown is well worthy of patronage! Thy remembrance alone will be a guidance to many who are to remain yet awhile before taking their everlasting farewell of earth."

Mr. Wagner was, indeed, a man respected and loved by all who knew him; in him the young, as well as the old, found a true friend, and many are the remembrances of kind words and actions which young and old alike treasure up for the departed one.

Mr. Wagner was a kind and loving husband, and though childless he was always as a father to the children of his acquaintance, who will long remember his pleasing countenance and kind words. In his home he was hospitable and genial, and though he lived with only his wife for company, scarcely a day passed without several callers, who either came to cheer the well-meaning couple or to sun themselves in the radiance of good nature which ever seemed to permeate the home of the Wagners.

The interment took place last Tuesday, at the Lutheran cemetery here, Rev. Greve officiating, and a large concourse of friends followed the remains to their final resting place.

In the review of such lives we find a confirmation of the sentiment expressed in the following lines from Tennyson:

Howe'er it be, it seemed to me, 'Tis only noble to be good! Kind hearts are more than coronets, And simple faith than Norman blood.

DIED.—BOWEN—Ruth, wife of David C. Bowen, at the residence of her daughter in Westfield, Marquette county, Wis., Nov. 14, 1895.

The last illness (gastric catarrh) was of short duration, but her suffering was intense. Death came to her relief just before midnight, and she sank into that sleep "from which none ever wake to weep."

Funeral services were held at the house on Nov. 17th, the 54th anniversary of her marriage, and Rev. H. Griffiths made an appropriate address founded on Job, 5th chapter and 25th verse.

Mrs. Bowen was the daughter of Philip F. Handy. She was born in Mendon, Mass., Oct. 29, 1814, and was the second in a family of four sisters, Mrs. Leafy Fuller, who died in Westfield about fourteen years ago, being the eldest. There are two sisters still living.—Mrs. Thankful Thompson of Portage and Mrs. Lydia Thompson of Berlin. There is also an aged brother living in Auburn, N. Y.

She was the mother of eight children, five of whom are living.—Mrs. Julia E. Fuller of Westfield, Wis.; Mrs. Hannah Haskin of Campbellsport, Wis.; Edward F. of Marshfield, Wis.; Frank H. of Berlin, Wis., and George E. Bowen of Beaver, Wis.

There are fifteen grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. The oldest son, Andrew, died of disease contracted in the army about two months after his discharge in 1863.

They moved to Kewaskum, Washington county, Wis., in 1864; and, through all the trials and privations incident to pioneer life, she displayed a most patient and courageous spirit, never murmuring, but cheering and encouraging all those about her, both by precept and example. She never joined any particular church, but always attended whatever church was nearest whenever possible, often having walked three miles for that purpose. Her convictions of right and duty were very firm, and she faithfully adhered to them at whatever cost to herself. In 1872 she moved to Beaver, a Clark county, Wis., where they lived until nearly four years ago, since which time they have made their home with their daughter in Westfield.

FARMING IN NORTH DAKOTA.

An ex-Resident of Kewaskum Gives a Sketch of Wheat Raising in the Land of No. 1 Hard.

To the STATESMAN:

The many questions asked during my short visit to Kewaskum have led me to believe that your readers will be interested in the following relative to North Dakota:

The soil is of a rich black hue, with just enough sand mixed in to keep it from baking in case of drought, and it is invariably mellow, which saves farmers the work of cultivating before seeding in the spring. After breaking, which is easily done with a silky or gang-plow, the farmer seats himself on his machine and starts his team, which if accustomed to the work require no more guiding till they arrive at the other end, when he guides them around and back again. This is done in the spring, and as there are neither stumps, stones nor any fences (except around pastures) to contend with, the farmer finds it opportune to indulge in the prevailing habit of smoking a pipe. In the fall the operation is repeated, but is called "back-setting" instead of breaking, and then the land is ready for a crop the following year.

When spring opens, which is generally the latter part of March, the farmer takes his seeder or drill, plants his grain and harrows it, when it is left until harvest. The yield is from 10 to 40 bushels per acre, and is always more than enough for one's bread and seed. For instance, when Richard county farmers threshed from 20 to 40 bushels per acre it was only considered a "good crop" as they had seen better.

I will now endeavor to show the progress made by some former residents of your county since they went to North Dakota, beginning with Geo. Warner, Sr., who left about 20 years ago with $1,800. He purchased a quarter section in Dakota and has accumulated $25,000. He threshed 6,100 bushels of wheat, besides raising his own oats, and has enough meadow land for his cattle.

Geo. Warner, Jr., who once worked in the Kewaskum Flouring Mills, now owns a farm of 40 acres and a general merchandise store worth $6,000.

I could relate many more instances of farmers who have made like headway there, but space forbids, suffice it to say that all who know how to farm have been equally as successful compared with what they possessed when they arrived in the land of No. 1 Hard. W. G. PEESCHBACHER.

BARTON BUDGET.

The creamery here has closed for the season.

Harvey Albricht is on the sick list with inflammation of the bowels.

Nigh Bros have a grand display of holiday goods on their counters.

The ice house here has been sold to Bergman & Maier of Milwaukee.

C. R. Wilson, the lumberman, has taken a final departure from here.

P. Fraser is contemplating a tour through Minnesota and the Dakotas.

Christ Van Ratz of Barton has the position of track watchman on this section.

Mr. Kick of Rhipelander, Wis., has taken C. R. Wilson's place as our lumberman.

L. E. Nigh and wife of Campbellsport called on their many friends here this week.

Miss Pearl Taylor spent a few days last week visiting friends in Menominee Falls.

Mrs. Theo. Brandemeihl of Milwaukee is visiting relatives and friends here this week.

E. Schugeld has been retained as foreman at the ice house by the new company.

Chas. Weis left last Monday for Milwaukee, where he has a position delivering milk.

A. J. Taylor has been hauling lumber from here for his new residence in West Bend.

The coopers' hammers have commenced ringing again, which makes Barton seem more business-like.

J. J. Forbes of Milwaukee, who represents the American Sunday School union, is here working up a class.

Albinger & Horn have purchased a new well-drilling machine. All orders left with them will receive prompt attention.

A family gathering was held at the residence of J. R. Taylor, Thursday, and several well cooked chickens were disposed of.

W. H. Gordon intends to move to West Bend, where he has a position as gate-tender at a railroad crossing. He has rented his residence to J. Herbst.

Matilda Kircher and John Herbst were joined in the holy bonds of matrimony on the 26th inst., Rev. J. H. Holstein officiating. Mr. Herbst is a well-known cooper of this place, and the couple will reside in Barton. We join with their many friends in wishing them success.

NEW PROSPECT NOTES.

The programme for last Sunday was hunting.

L. B. Van Blarcom closed his cheese factory last Saturday.

A. Faulk and wife will celebrate their 5th wedding anniversary to-morrow.

B. G. Romaine of Byron spent last Wednesday in this vicinity.

Walter Romaine's wife was quite ill last week but is now better.

J. W. Bell and wife and Mrs. Davis were guests of L. B. Van Blarcom and family last Wednesday.

Quite a number of young people attended Miss Rush's concert Saturday night and they say it was good.

B. D. Romaine has made quite an improvement on his residence by putting in new windows of the latest style.

L. Van Blarcom and wife entertained their relatives and neighbors last Monday evening in honor of J. Davis of Oregon.

Miss Celia Van Blarcom returned from Fond du Lac on the 22nd inst., and Dr. Hildreth can be proud of the dental work he did for her.

C. Holz, wife, and father and mother, have moved into W. Jandre's house up near the river, and will stay there this winter. We are pleased to see you back again, Chasly.

G. M. Romaine is siding part of his house over and will put in new windows, so as to make it more comfortable for the winter. Next summer he intends to remodel the wing.

John Van Blarcom and Chas. Richter left here a week ago highly elated with grand ideas of the pinneries; but, upon reaching Green Bay, their courage took flight, and they returned satisfied that the climate would not agree with them.

DUNDEE DOINGS.

Miss Katie Michels of Kewaskum is visiting at A. Brown's.

Mr. Euel of Ellenville is the guest of his brother, Rev. E. J. Ruel.

A number of people were out Tuesday taking advantage of our first sleighing.

Mrs. Westerville of Eden visited with her niece, Miss Rush, last Saturday and Sunday.

Michael O'Connor has taken a contract to saw several cords of wood for M. Cahill.

The Romaine & Moritz band furnished the music for T. Alex of Waldo last Thanksgiving night.

Edward Roehl is the possessor of a new cutter recently purchased from N. F. Michals of Campbellsport.

The musical entertainment, given on last Saturday evening under the direction of Miss Kittie Rush, was well attended.

A large drove of cattle and several loads of sheep were driven from here to Campbellsport last Wednesday for shipment by Farrell & Reinhardt.

A small party from here and our neighboring village went out on a rabbit hunt last Sunday; but, as they had no game to show, they no doubt met with poor success.

Peter M. Huch, who spent his boyhood days in this village, called upon some old-time friends and also transacted business for a St. Louis tobacco firm here this week.

R. J. Romaine has purchased what was known as the German Reformed church from N. East, who is to move it on the farmer's place; and the land goes back to the mill property now owned by J. Arimond.

The death of Carl Sicker took place at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. Rampfelin on the 22nd inst. She was 82 years of age, and the interment took place at the German Lutheran cemetery last Tuesday at 2 p. m., Rev. E. J. Ruel officiating.

A Happy Thought.

She (on the evening of the wedding day)—Oh, Harry, just look what a large piece of the wedding cake has been left! Whatever shall we do with it?

He—I tell you what, my dear. I'll send it to the night watchman at our works; then I shall be sure he won't sleep tonight.—Staatsanzeiger.

ORITUARY.

DIED.—ALTEHOFFEN—Anton, at Milwaukee, on Tuesday morning, Nov. 25, 1895, aged 38 years.

Deceased was born in Kewaskum on Jan. 26, 1857, and married Louisa Altenhofen (nee Schneider) in 1879; three children were born to them, the only boy of whom died 8 years ago, leaving two daughters to mourn his demise together with their mother, as well as a sister and a brother.

The departed had been sick for a year previous to his death, and only resided in Milwaukee about 18 months, whither he went from here.

The funeral took place yesterday at Calvary cemetery in Milwaukee, Rev. Grome officiating.

DIED.—WAGNER—August, on Nov. 23, 1895, aged 71 years.

The deceased was born in 1824 at Tschirn Kreis Buzau, province of Schlesien, Germany. In 1852 he married Beate Wagner, (nee Lebelt) and one child (which died during infancy) was born to them. He removed to this country in 1875 and settled in the town of Kewaskum, 2 1/2 miles east of here, where himself and wife shared the comforts of rustic life until they secured a competency and moved into this village, about 6 years ago.

Among the many associates and acquaintances of this duty-loving man, there was not one who did not love him; but all can say, with one accord, "Well done! Thy life was well spent! The example thou hast shown is well worthy of patronage! Thy remembrance alone will be a guidance to many who are to remain yet awhile before taking their everlasting farewell of earth."

Mr. Wagner was, indeed, a man respected and loved by all who knew him; in him the young, as well as the old, found a true friend, and many are the remembrances of kind words and actions which young and old alike treasure up for the departed one.

Mr. Wagner was a kind and loving husband, and though childless he was always as a father to the children of his acquaintance, who will long remember his pleasing countenance and kind words. In his home he was hospitable and genial, and though he lived with only his wife for company, scarcely a day passed without several callers, who either came to cheer the well-meaning couple or to sun themselves in the radiance of good nature which ever seemed to permeate the home of the Wagners.

The interment took place last Tuesday, at the Lutheran cemetery here, Rev. Greve officiating, and a large concourse of friends followed the remains to their final resting place.

In the review of such lives we find a confirmation of the sentiment expressed in the following lines from Tennyson:

Howe'er it be, it seemed to me, 'Tis only noble to be good! Kind hearts are more than coronets, And simple faith than Norman blood.

DIED.—BOWEN—Ruth, wife of David C. Bowen, at the residence of her daughter in Westfield, Marquette county, Wis., Nov. 14, 1895.

The last illness (gastric catarrh) was of short duration, but her suffering was intense. Death came to her relief just before midnight, and she sank into that sleep "from which none ever wake to weep."

Funeral services were held at the house on Nov. 17th, the 54th anniversary of her marriage, and Rev. H. Griffiths made an appropriate address founded on Job, 5th chapter and 25th verse.

Mrs. Bowen was the daughter of Philip F. Handy. She was born in Mendon, Mass., Oct. 29, 1814, and was the second in a family of four sisters, Mrs. Leafy Fuller, who died in Westfield about fourteen years ago, being the eldest. There are two sisters still living.—Mrs. Thankful Thompson of Portage and Mrs. Lydia Thompson of Berlin. There is also an aged brother living in Auburn, N. Y.

She was the mother of eight children, five of whom are living.—Mrs. Julia E. Fuller of Westfield, Wis.; Mrs. Hannah Haskin of Campbellsport, Wis.; Edward F. of Marshfield, Wis.; Frank H. of Berlin, Wis., and George E. Bowen of Beaver, Wis.

There are fifteen grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. The oldest son, Andrew, died of disease contracted in the army about two months after his discharge in 1863.

They moved to Kewaskum, Washington county, Wis., in 1864; and, through all the trials and privations incident to pioneer life, she displayed a most patient and courageous spirit, never murmuring, but cheering and encouraging all those about her, both by precept and example. She never joined any particular church, but always attended whatever church was nearest whenever possible, often having walked three miles for that purpose. Her convictions of right and duty were very firm, and she faithfully adhered to them at whatever cost to herself. In 1872 she moved to Beaver, a Clark county, Wis., where they lived until nearly four years ago, since which time they have made their home with their daughter in Westfield.
