Kenosha, Wis., May 4.-[Special.]-A great reform wave has struck this town and during the next few days there is liable to be some excitement. The police have taken a sudden change in dealing with persons who have violated minor city ordinances. Cyclers who have tried to take the sidewalks at crossings where the roads were almost impassable have been arrested and fined. Saloonkeepers who dared to keep their doors open after 11 o'clock at night have also been ar-rested and fined. Other petty offenses have been dealt with in a similar man-ner and the residents are beginning to kick. Last night one of the local pas-tors attacked the police department and tors attacked the police department and criticised it severely. After a week's debate, which has taken a wide range, the Senate on the 2d passed the naval appropriation bill, the entire day was given up to the subject. A large part of the time set apart for general debate was devoted to political questions foreign to the immediate subject. The bill as it passed is substantially as it was reported from the committee on appropriations, except for the reduction of the battle-ships from four to two. The Senate refused to decrease the number of new seamen authorized by the House bill. Mr. Chandler's amendment directing the secretary of the navy to examine into the merits of the methods of propelling ships by direct action upon the water, was agreed to.

The first skirmish over the Senate amendment to the naval appropriation bill reducing the number of battleships from four to two occurred in the House on the 4th, when Mr. Boutelle, the chairman of the naval committee, moved to request a conference of the Senate. Mr. Boutelle undertook to chastise some of the senators for their inconsistence. He characterized the Senate's action as "I remarkable change of front." He referred to the fact that when four battleships were provided for by the House the public mind had been "greatify lindared and excited by wars and rumors of wars." The Senate, he argued, had contributed largely to this state of the public mind. He rehearsed briefly the warlike message of the President with reference to Venezuela and the precipitate action of the House and Senate.

rehearsed briefly the warlike message of the President with reference to. Venezneja and the precipitate action of the House and Senate.

The opponents of four battleships sustained an overwhelming defeat in the House on the 5th, on the proposition to accept the Senate amendment to the naval appropriation bill reducing the number to two. Mr. Sayers (Dem., Tex.), ex-chairman of the capropriations committee, made the motion, and in its support argued that the question presented was purely a business one, and he appealed to the house not to allow political matters to influence its judgment. He proceeded to contrast the appropriations of the bresent session with the available revenues. Mr. Boutelle, chairman of the naval committee, who replied to Mr. Sayers, thought it unfortunate that "these business facts" had not been brought into the House when we were undertaking to regulate bottindary lines in South America and in other ways asserting the primace? of the republic." Not a suggestion was made then that less than four should be authorized. At that time also, he said, he had the best of reasons for belleving that, the Senate would agree to four ships; indeed, the feat was that the upper branch of Longress would go further and authorize six. A special of der was adopted to set aside the 6th and the 13th for the consideration of private pension bills, ten minutes debate to be given to each bill. There are 405 private pension bills, ten minutes debate to be given to each bill. There are 405 private pension bills on the calendar. At 4:15 the House adjourned.

The House on the 6th served notice, 6n the Senate and the country that it had transacted its business and was ready for the final adjournment by passing, without division, a resolution for final adjournment Monday, May 18. The reading was received with an outburst of applause from members on both sides of the House. Mr. Wheeler (Den., Ala.) denounced the majority for proposing to desert their posts. He said that during the campaign of 189 the Republican party had need for a new extradition treaty be-tween the United States and Germany, 432 Walnut street, between Fourth and in the judgment of the German embassy here, as revealed in the published diplopartment for last year. This need was made apparent by the case of a certain Jacob David, an American chizen arrested early last year at Meisenhelm, Germany, and surrendered by the German authorities to the Illinois authoritie Jacob David, an American chizen arrested early last year at Meisenheim, Germany, and surrendered by the German authorities to the Illinois authorities on a charge of forgery. When his case came before the court of Illinois the prisoner was indicted on six counts for harceny, forgery and embezzlement. He confessed his guilt of the latter charge and was sentenced, to attention being paid to the other charges.

Of course this raised at once the question of the right of the United States to obtain the extradition of a fugitive on one charge and then try and convict him on another. The German ambassador here made the point immediately, supplementing his statement of the case by an expression of the hope that the government of the United States would exert all its legal power to bring to account the officials who had been guilty of a violation of the treaty rights of Germany.

Secretary Gresham in a long letter ex-Secretary Gresham in a long letter explained that David actually secured an advantage in being permitted to plead guilty to the lesser charge, that the proceedings were regular and that therefore he saw no ground for attempting to bring to account the officials of the Illinois court. This explanation, however, failed to meet the views of the German government and in April of last year the ambassador here wrote Secretary Gresham a note so stating and concluding as follows:

"As the United States government declares that it cannot undertake to guarantee in each particular case that no repetition of such proceedings shall occur, the only thing that remains to be done in the opinion of the imperial government is to settle the point by a new treaty of extradition, so that such treaty, as the law of the law, of the law, of the law, or the law.

What he said.

Haag was quite a good-natured young man who said little or nothing to anyone. He never seemed to be in want for anything, and often spoke of his father, who lives in Tyner City, Marshall county, Ind., as being a man of means, and it is presumed his father kept him supplied with money. He came to this city about two years ago. He claimed to have been a member of the Central Suicide club of New Jersey, and that when his time came to die he would die like a mar. He often said that it was not far off, and three weeks ago said he would die before June.

Gen. Lee used to tell a story about a Bonesho and commenced at Guisberg's darky that served in the war. It seems that during the heat of the battle the general and his attendants were posted on a small knoll watching the course of he action. They descried a colored soldier racing toward them, leaping over obstacles in his path, his face blanched with fear. He rushed up and fell headlong on the ground in front o Lee crying. "Oh, massa general, let me stay here." Lee saw at once that the man was almost frightened to death and useless as a soldier. It disgusted him somewhat, but his curiosity was aroused, and he asked: "Did you come here to get out of the way of the bullets?" Productiveness of the Elberta Peach-How to Make a Cheap and Practical Causeway-Good Device for Smoothing Ground-Farm Notes.

The Elberta Peach. Among the whole list of peaches both old and new, there is no variety that has attained a higher place in public estimation than the Elberta. It isliked equally well by the grower and consumer. About twenty-five years ago Dr. Samuel H. Rumph, of Georgia, raised about 12,000 seedling peach trees from the seeds saved from the very choicest named varieties, and in the whole lot there was but one that he leemed worthy enough to be preserved. This was the product of a cross between the Chinese Cling and Crawford Early. He bestowed upon it the name Elberta, in honor of his wife, and it has in turn been an honor to its namesake. Knowing something and hoping more of its good qualities, he planted extensive orchards of it, from which he shipped 'arge quantities of choice fruit, and realized profitable returns. It was not long before other peach growers learned of the good qualities of the Elberta and began to plant it; first in the Southern States, where it had already proved its value beyond question, and then in the northern peachgrowing sections. It has proved to be one of the standards in all regions, from Georgia to Michigan, and from Connecticut to California.-American Fattening Animals Quickly. The old saying that time is money is doubly true with regard to fattening animals. There is no profit in slow fatening of anything. The largest amount of rutritious food that can be digested and assimilated is always the mos profitable for the fattening animal. The food required for maintenance of the animal to merely keep it in store condition is just so much wasted if no more than this goes with it. This does not mean that fattening animals are to be given food without limit. That will njure digestion, and then, no matter how liberal the feeding, the animal will not thrive. Old animals are generally fattened slowly. For this reason their flesh is tough. But if they are fattened quicily, as they may be by combining ome grain with succulent food, their flesh will have the tenderness and sweetness that are commonly associated with the flesh of young animals.

Agriculturist.

Device for Smoothing Ground, Many people sow their grain and cover it with the harrow simply. A good br sh and a rough roller ought to follow the harrowing, but much better than the simple harrowing (which leaves the land in ridges to dry out rapidly), is an arrangement like that istrated in the engraving. A heavy wide plank is attached to 1 e rear of the harrow; the ridges are thus level and any lumps that may have been left are pulverized. But, best of all, the soil is pressed down over the seed, causing it to sprout more rapidly, and giving it a better chance to get hold of the ground with its roots.

Warming Ground by Plowing It. It used to be the practice of a farmer of our acquaintance to replow the part the garden yet unplanted whenever a new piece was to be put to use. The whole garden was plowed as early as possible, and the parts devoted to peas, lettuce, onions and other hardy plants were planted at once. When corn, beans and the tenderer plants were to put in the ground was replowed, ixing the manure thoroughly with the soil, and also imprisoning a new supply of warm air from the surface. In this way the soil was made much warnier for the late-planted crops than it could be by cultivation without plowing .-

Too Early Sowing of Root Crops. Most of the roots, like beet, carrot, parsnip and turnip, are true biennials, growing their root the first year and sending up their seed stalk after the root has been partly dried out and is replanted the following spring. But in our hot summers this drying out, which usually requires a whole winter, is accomplished in midsummer. The result is that the very early planted seed of beet, carrot and other root makes its root growth early in the season and by fall is ready to send out a seed stalk. This, of course, makes the root worthless. The common radish is one of these natural biennials that always tend to become annual when early planted. If seed is put in the ground any time before midsummer, it will produce seed pods before cold weather comes. Rich Soil for Early Potatoes. A Practical Causeway. The usual method of building a causeway is to lay down two rows of stone, to stretch flat rocks across from one row to another, and to cover the whole with earth. The two rows of stones soon work together, while brush and other rubbish will work in and clog the drain. A better plan is shown in the accompanying sketch, taken from the Orange Judd Farmer. A few six-inch drain tiles are laid down, and both ends are covered with wire netting. The whole is then covered with earth to make the roadway. Such a drain cannot clog, nor can the

It is much easier to feed whole grain than to grind it, but it is better to put the labor to it than to lose in the feed. Ground grain can be more intimately mixed with coarse food, and in that respect it not only serves to balance the ration, but the combination of foods cheapens the whole and more perfect digestion results.

If your wheat does not appear promsing apply from fifty to 100 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre upon it. The effect will be quickly noticeable and the wheat will appear to take on a new growth at once. The nitrate is somewhat expensive, but the results at harvest time will show that the increased yield will nearly pay for the fertilizer. Sow a patch of oats to be cut as green ood. The oats should be cut just as he seeds are in the milky stage, which arrests the nutritious matter in the stalks and renders them palatable. They are cured the same as is done with hay. Farmers who use oats in this manner run them through a fodder cutter (stalks and heads) and sprinkle a little cornmeal over them. They are highly relished by cattle and horses.

A Paying Investment. "The property owners of a village cannot make a better paying investment than in the maintenance of a wellorganized Improvement Society," writes John Gilmer Speed, in the Ladies' Home Journal. "Through such a society the value of every piece of property in a village, and the neighborhood thereof, may be enhanced in value; village life may be made to take on new interests and new dignities; stagnation may be kindled into an exhilarating activity. Let the people beome interested in a Village Improve ment Society and they will soon begin to discuss plans and policies with a gratifying alertness. They will discuss how best to secure a public library: erial not very rich and which itself | they will talk over the ways and means of getting running water into the town; they will argue over the best way of establishing a fire department; they will study drainage and sanitation, any kind they will recognize the value of street low. But except where topdressing can lights when the moon is shining on another part of the world; and when they vote on these questions they will vote with entire intelligence, and they will and it will trample and cut up the go away from the retings refreshed by what they have heard, and what they have done."

An Easy Calling. One of the peculiar callings in New York is that of the "pricers." Their business is to learn for the proprietors of the great shopping stores who em ploy them the prices at which their competitors are offering goods. These pricers are both men and women. They are put to all sorts of devices to obtain samples, for every store is on the lookout for them and constantly endeavoring to thwart them. London, May 5 .- Col. North, the soealled "Nitrate King," while presiding at a meeting at the Nitrate company's Worn with the exposure of army life on the frontier, and poisoned by the contin-um drinking of alkali water, Joseph Fle-gauf returned to Philadelphia eight years ago, broken down in health and unable offices in the Woolpack building today, fainted in his chair and expired at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Although the death of Col. North is believed to have been due to heart disease, it is stated that shortly before his demise he ate a dozen oysters sent to him from a restaurant in the vicinity of the company's offices. The shells have been kept and will be examined.

A couple of doctors were summoned almost immediately after the colonel hostile Indians.

and Mr. Flegauf came near such a fate as that. A long time before his time was out he was taken seriously ill, but he stuck to his post until an honorable dis-charge was finally given to him. When he reached Philadelphia, the Indian fighter was scarcely more than skin and bones, and for three weeks he lay desperately ill in a hospital. He felt dizzy, and his stomach felt as if it had dried up. These symptoms were accompanied by bloody dysentery, which no medicine seemed to relieve.

After two years of suffering, Mr. Flegauf came to New York and was treated by several physicians. These did not agree, some calling his disease catarrh of the stomach, and other chronic diarrhoea. In speaking to a reporter about his ill-ness Mr. Flegauf said the doctors helped him, but, with all the money he spent for There will be a post-mortem examination him, but, with all the money he spent for advice and medicine, he was able to work only a small part of the time. Since moving to his present home, No. 517 West Forty-second street, in New York, about a year ago, Mr. Flegauf has been so ill that his voice and hearing almost left him. Then all medicines failed, and the sick man had little hope of recovery. At this critical time Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People were recommended to Mr. of the remains.

The officials of the nitrate company are very reticent about the matter and were even reluctant to admit that the colonel The death of Col. Why it Has Been Found Necessary to Use a Slow-Burning Ammunition. When larger guns were first constructed, requiring a larger charge of powder, a serious drawback was experienced. It was found that after firing a few shot from them the firing chamber was badly damaged, being in some cases cracked. "Nitrate King" in detail through successive stages which have led to Additional thickness of material in this part of the gun proved only a temporary remedy, as the violence of the explosion his possession of a fortune exceeding $100,000,000. His far-sighted business bodily removed layer after layer of the inner surface. Here was a serious prob-lem, and steps were immediately taken to investigate the cause of this local ties for money-making that were not ap-parent to others. Gradually he secured control of the greater part of the nitrate rupture. It was soon discovered that the evil was due to the too rapid burning of the powder, which, being converted almost instantaneously into gas, exerted an enormous pressure in the firing cham-ber before the bullet had commenced its motion down the barrel. As the press-ure is proportionate to the amount of powdered used, that produced by a small charge would not be sufficient to give rise to these destructive results. A simple experiment will illustrate this disruptive action. If a sheet of stiff paper be held between the fingers and gradually approached with a sharp penknife the paper will be pushed forward without being penetrated. If, however, the knife be suddenly brought to the paper the latter will be pierced. We have here all the difference between a sustained and a sudden pressure, and a complete resemblance to the action in a gun. If the pressure he slowly and steadily generated pressure be slowly and steadily generate the bullet will move forward; if sudden became famous.
