STRIKE ALMOST OVER.

Nearly All of the Cars Running in Milwaukee.

The Strike Leaders, However, Claim They Have a Chance to Win.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 11.—Yesterday was a quiet Sunday for Milwaukee, the like of which was never before seen here. Not a street car was running and at sundown the police had not made an arrest on any charge. The mercury showed 92 degrees in the shade and the sidewalks were thronged with people strolling to the parks and beer gardens, while thousands were gathered about by buses and other conveyances. The reason for this peculiar state of affairs was the strike of the men of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Company, who went out a week ago to enforce their demands of an increase in pay from 19 to 20 cents an hour and also recognition of the union. Hoodlums had created a disturbance through the week by stoning cars and "vexing" policemen and imported motor-cars. Therefore it was deemed best to attempt to run any cars on Sunday, when the streets would be crowded with people.

Shortly before noon there was a parade in which the westerners and capitalists of the town and said strikers turned out with 200 men in line. There were about 2000 men in the parade. The strikers, however, were not in line. The fact is that the company was not allowed to run any cars on Sunday, as by so doing a riot or a dozen of them, would probably be precipitated. Directors Payne and Pister held a friendly and harmonious conference with the strikers on Friday evening, which was regarded as reaching, although no results were reached. Fire Sweeps a Northern Michigan Village. Families Left Destitute—Loss Will Aggregate a Half Million.

Lansing, Mich., May 11.—Fire which started Saturday afternoon practically destroyed this city. The flames broke out in the lumber district at about 3 o'clock, spread to the docks and warehouses on the bay front and finally cut through the business center of town and on to the residence part, destroying everything in its path. Nothing could be done to stop the flames without water engine, and not until midnight did the fire burn itself out.

GOLD WITHDRAWALS.

A correspondent wrote to the Chicago Chronicle, last week, as follows: "A large number of your readers desire to have you inform them, in next Sunday's issue, upon what account or accounts the gold is withdrawn from the treasury of the United States. If convenient, give each item."

As the reply contains some interesting matter, we give it in full, as follows: "It is not possible to give each item. People who withdraw gold from the treasury by presenting greenbacks and Sherman notes for redemption are not required to state and do not choose to state the accounts on which they make the withdrawals. The government does not make the redemption of its notes conditional. It simply redeems, asking no questions, though for certain reasons an effort is made in some cases to trace the gold after it has been withdrawn."

It can be stated with entire confidence in a general way that gold is withdrawn from the treasury on three principal accounts or for three principal purposes, and in point of time, if not of amount, second to heard in anticipation of a collapse to the silver standard and a high premium on gold; third, when the government is making a sale of bonds for the purpose of paying gold coin for them.

The proof that these are the main purposes for which gold is withdrawn is ample. Large sums in gold are drawn from the treasury in New York and shipped directly to Europe. This is a fact of observation and no secret is made of it. But at one time certainly withdrawals were greater on the second account. In his last annual report Secretary Carlisle stated that the withdrawals in December, 1894, and in January and the early part of February, 1895, were $13,000,000 in excess of the amount taken for export. These withdrawals, unparalleled before the day of redemption, unmistakably indicate that there was widespread apprehension of a collapse to silver and a premium on gold. This apprehension was allayed by the first bond issue. Then there were withdrawals to obtain gold for payments on this first issue. It is estimated that withdrawals for this purpose amounted to nearly $20,000,000. Considerable withdrawals were made for the same purpose when the popular loan was issued. But the principal withdrawals since Feb. 8, 1895, have been for export. It should be stated, however, that the withdrawals for export have been very greatly increased by the alarm of foreign investors. Fearing a collapse to the silver basis here and the payment of our securities in 50-cent dollars, they have sent those securities home in great quantities, taking away gold in exchange for them."

The Democratic state central committee met in Milwaukee last Tuesday and elected G. W. Peck as chairman. L. W. Nieman, the managing editor of the Milwaukee Journal, was placed on the committee instead of Roman Czerninski. The date set for holding the state convention is June 23, when delegates to the Democratic national convention of July 7 will be elected.

Dowry in Palmetto, Fla., it would appear that the whites are inclined to plot against the blacks; as, last Monday, an attempt was made to regulate a 14-year-old negro boy who bested the marshal's son in a "scrap." However, the black lad's father proved to be so handy with a gun that the regulators were routed after losing one-third of their number. This seems to be a case whereof it might be said that "the colored troops fought nobly."

The Metropolitan Traction Company of New York has developed a thorough means for getting over the rough places in the traction business. If a grip breaks going around a curve, the gripman must pay. If he runs down a pedestrian, the damages will constitute a lien on his wages, perhaps for the rest of his life. If a passenger falls against a car window and breaks it, the conductor has to foot the bill. This makes things very smooth for the company, although the employes may not find it so. In view of the rumor that similar rules have been proposed for one of the lines in this city, it is pertinent to suggest that the plan of getting men to work for nothing and find themselves has its limitations.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Uprogs going into the metropolis of Wisconsin last Tuesday we noticed that those who arrived upon the same train preferred to walk rather than take any chances on a street car. We also saw that busses in charge of ex-street railway employes were well patronized by residents of the Cream City. Then, too, we learned that the running of carriages is generally encouraged by all Milwaukeeans who believe in the municipal ownership of the street cars, so that the boycotting of street cars in Milwaukee will probably continue until snow flies, unless the strikers or the street railway company give up soon. However, in either event, the acts of charity, the deeds of justice, the many expressions of violence and the general good behavior being indulged in by members of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees will redound to the credit of organized labor long after the strike is over.
