Some years ago there was started in right foothold. It was pointed out that paper was being used very extensively in the manufacture of car wheels, rowing shells, wash basins and half a dozen the matter was dropped as far as outside ompany has managed to push forward the idea with some degree of bout to be formed, and the manager of that it will have to be a success, be-cause there is too much money behind the concern to make it otherwise.

This manager was asked what paper bottles were available for, and he an-swered quite promptly, if not altogether sarcastically;

"Everything that glass is used for." Then he added: "We are now negotiating for the purchase of some of the finest machinery to be found in a newly established shop. We have this to claim for our bottle. It cannot be broken uness with unnecessary force. That is just where the saving is to come in. No more leakage or breakage, and consequently less loss to not only the sumer, but the merchant as well. intend to make a big bid for the eign trade. The wine merchants of Eu ope lose an immense sum annually through breakage in a ship's hold or otherwise. No matter where the glass ottles break, they are broken, and the loss is just as great all around. We can make a paper bottle for about onehalf the cost of glass bottles, and, in addition, they will be found perfectly water-tight, as well as air-tight. We have made innumerable experiments, and in all of them we found that, while have made it was comparatively easy to make pa-pler mache air-tight around wine, it was ot so easy to do so in the case of beer. Why this is so the brewers may ex-plain. But we have overcome that difficulty, too. Another point that should be remembered in the manufacture of paper bottles is that there is little day ger of freezing. Still another is that in packing them away absolutely no straw, waste or such is required, and the absence of these means a large saving in space. In the next few years you will find paper bottles all over the world."—New York Mail and Express.
