

Kewaskum Statesman.

Communications should be accompanied by the name of the writer, not necessarily for publication, but as evidence of good faith on the part of the author.

GEORGE NUGENT, Editor.

1897.

With this the first issue of the STATESMAN in 1897 our hopes are earnestly for better times. However, hopes will not change the fact the new-born year is heavily handicapped by the number of banking houses which closed within the last month of 1896.

In concluding we only desire to impress the importance of a forewarning which we trust will not prove discouraging; and, in the meantime, let everyone settle down to the idea that time alone, accompanied by the actual practice of economy and industry, will bridge us over the visible hiatus in 1897.

All that "Judge Lynch" now lacks of becoming popular in this state is the pardon of John B. Koetting, who admitted being guilty of what he was sentenced to five years in Waupun for.

The fair Lillian Russell will have to hustle to keep pace with Anna Held, as the latter sang upon the streets of Pittsburg Christmas day and sold her photograph and autograph for the benefit of the poor.

An exchange says that "in medieval times women enjoyed being kissed on New Year's day under the mistletoe." However, many ladies have since enjoyed such treatment at diverse times and even under protest.

The legislature will meet on the 13th of this month. However, we have yet to learn of any important legislation to be offered affecting this quarter, unless it be the village incorporation matter; but, then, there are other places deeply involved to look after that.

There will be "a clean sweep" at the court house in West Bend next Monday, "storm or shine." For the first time in the history of the county, a full set of Democratic officials will be succeeded by Republicans. However, we hope that the latter will prove to be so uniformly courteous and attentive to their duties as the former were.

There seems to be something in the report that the Dodge county Pioneer "sold out" in the late campaign, as articles of incorporation of the Dodge County Publishing company were filed with the register of deeds at Juneau last Monday. The company will launch the Dodge County Democrat next week with a circulation of 5,000 copies.

The Boston Post seems to have hopes of the Democrats getting together again, as it says: "Whatever may be said of the silver question, whether it is to be galvanized as a living issue for four years to come or is to disappear as an element of party politics, one thing is clearly evident, and this is that the Democratic party must get together or it will never get anywhere. If it does not get together, there is nothing in the immediate future for the Democracy but defeat, national and local."

In a recent interview the richest woman in America, Hetty Green, said: The trust is the biggest political question of the day. It destroys competition, and competition is the life of trade. Trusts keep young men with small means from getting into business in a small way. The public has the wrong idea about fighting trusts, however. My way would be to get after the individuals who form a trust, instead of attacking the corporations. The majority of the stockholders of a corporation are innocent of any wrong intent. They are against trusts, too. If the corporations are attacked, they suffer. Now, if instead of attacking the corporation, the public would look for some vulnerable points about the financial leaders of such schemes, the right parties would suffer. The conspiracy charge might work in some cases. In other deals fraud could be discovered. There have been very few railroad reorganizations in which some fraud was not committed."

Pronunciation of Maceo.

Everybody will be interested to know the correct pronunciation of the name of the Cuban general Maceo, in whose fate our people have taken such an interest. The Cubans pronounce the word as though it were spelled "Mah-say-o," with the accent on the second syllable; and this, of course, must be accepted as correct. In Madrid, however, the name is pronounced as if it were spelled "Mah-tha-yo," with the accent also on the second syllable, "ce" before a vowel having the value of "th" in Spanish. It is interesting to note that in both cases the accent is according to the rule for the pronunciation of Latin words, which provides that in words of more than two syllables, if the penult is long, it is accented, but if it is short, the accent is on the ante-penult.

Illegal Liquor Selling Cases at Eden.

The illegal liquor selling cases, mentioned in these columns some time ago, came up for trial before Justice Adams at Eden on Dec. 26 with Dennis Daily, Michael McGrath and John Batzen present together with their attorney, J. H. McCrory. However, Dist. Atty. Swett had the cases discontinued, whereupon the aforesaid defendants were arrested on a new count.

NEW FANE FLATS.

N. J. Mertes of Kewaskum was here last Tuesday.

A party was held at King's last Sunday, and all who attended report as having had a good time.

Our miller, John Heberer, is busy grinding feed. The mill is running every day except Saturdays and Sundays.

Two of our boys were arrested last Tuesday and brought before Justice Hanson, where the case was continued till Jan. 7th.

The infant child of Mat. Schladweiler died last Saturday and was interred in the St. Michaels cemetery last Tuesday, Rev. Muenzer officiating.

AFTER LITTLE PETE'S MARRIAGE.

The boys brought a chivari To him that very night And raised a regular jamboree, Which was no more than right.

The bells and saws rang out To celebrate the affair— With many a clash and bang They then did fill the air.

But the happy bridegroom fled And took his spouse along; They crept into some place unknown With not a thought of wrong.

The boys then asked his dear mamma Where little Pete did go. She said he went to Hammasa— They then went in a row.

To find that little cuss And make him pay the beer; They raised a regular little fuss— Ah, he! how they did cheer.

Well, after seeing Peter was gone And leaving them alone The boys did quit their noisy fun, But anger in their faces shone.

For such a mean and dirty trick— To even not set up some beer— Would surely make somebody sick, No matter, far or near.

The boys the way then homeward led And let the couple sleep; But when they went apart they said He'll not get off so cheap.

For once a week thereafter then They went to his cottage door And brought their chivari again, Which raised the roof and floor.

And little Pete did cuss and swear— Revenge he said he'd take— But could not scare those sturdy boys Who all that noise did make.

Upon a morning clear and bright He thought he'd drive to town; His wife told him that such was right— She wanted to buy a gown.

But when he looked his harness o'er To hitch up his old mare, He found it not on rack nor floor— No harness then was there.

Those ever naughty little boys Had taken that leather stuff And put it on his cow— How Pete did open his guff.

Oh, how his little wife did yell And curse those naughty boys; She wished them all into h—l And made a fearful noise.

The boys of course did not mind that And played them all the more, And everywhere there was a chat— How will we make Pete sore.

They brought their weekly chivari For twelve weeks in a row— The beer they did not want to see— They just loved Pete so.

And at his new revolver there They simply laughed outright— No matter how that cuss did swear He did not dare to fight.

And so the battle rages on— It keeps on day and night; Pete will go crazy before long— He only sleeps with light.

For fear of a surprise at night He'll lead up his big gun; But let him do whatever he might, The boys will have their fun.

A burden now his life will be As long as he stays there; As long as he's gone will end That nightly shivery beer.

GRAFTON FARMER KILLED BY A TRAMP.
The Murderer Hid in a Hollow Tree but was Captured and Nearly Lynched by a Posse of Citizens.

An Associated press report states that John Helmes, an 80-year-old farmer whose home is located about one-half mile from Grafton, Ozaukee county, was shot in cold blood last Saturday afternoon by a tramp named Ferdinand Wagenknecht with evident intent to rob the old gentleman. Two shots are said to have lodged in Helmes' head and another passed through his neck.

The murderer was pursued by a posse of citizens, who pressed him so closely that he hid in a hollow tree, after burying his revolver in the snow. However the enraged friends of Mr. Helmes found the criminal, and would have lynched him for a few cold heads among them. As it was he was taken to Grafton and finally lodged in jail at Port Washington.

About five months ago Wagenknecht called at the Helmes farm, asked for and received a meal and went away seemingly grateful therefor. Last Sunday he reappeared and reminded Mr. and Mrs. Helmes of his former call. He was again given a meal, and upon finishing it he sat down in the front room and conversed with the couple until Mrs. H. went to the rear of the house for something, when she heard three successive shots fired and jumped through a window yelling "murder!"

Later she arrived at the home of a neighbor and announced that her husband had been killed by a tramp, whereupon a posse was formed and the criminal captured as stated above.

The length of life may be increased by lessening its dangers. The majority of people die from lung troubles. These may be averted by promptly using One Minute Cough Cure, —Chas. Miller.

Of all our foreign trade 9-10ths is directly or indirectly with Great Britain. Even a large part of the business done by our merchants with the continent passes, in one way or another, through English hands, while the greater part of our freight, both on the Atlantic and the Pacific, is carried by British steamers. A war with Great Britain would mean an almost total cessation of foreign freight trade while the conflict continued, and the effects of such a disturbance of business would be almost ruinous.

Albert Glassapp Found His Wife and Children in Cleveland, O., With Gustav Role, a Boarder.

The wife of A. Glassapp, a farmer in the town of Lyndon, Sheboygan county, left home last July with Gus. Role, who boarded with the Glassapp family, and also took the children—Otto, aged 6, and Emma, 4 years old. Mr. G. regretted the loss of his children and had been searching for them until last Thursday a week ago, when he located all of the missing parties at 22 Moltke street in Cleveland, O., and reported the matter to the police of that place. When taken to the police station the children were overjoyed upon meeting their father, but they were held subject to the judicial determination of the case against their mother.

Later—Glassapp and his wife became reconciled and returned home with their children, while Role was sentenced to the workhouse.
