Senate.

The Senate was stormswept on the 25th by such passionate debate, such extraordinary demonstrations in the crowded galleries, and such dramatic personal exchanges between the conspicuous figures of the Senate, as to make the day one of the most memorable in the annals of the upper branch of Congress. Cuba was the theme, and seeined to stir all the pent-up emotions of months. It brought about the complete displacement of appropriation bills, threatening their failure, and the advancement of the Cuban question to the very front of Senate business. It disclosed also that the resolution demanding of Spain the immediate and unconditional release of Julio Sanguilly, having on a test vote secured the right of way, would be resisted by protracted debate. The Allen resolution, for sending battleships to Cuba, came up soon after the Senate opened at 11 a. m., and Mr. Allen severely arraigned Spain for cruelties against women and children. Mr. Morgan (Ala.), who reported the resolution for the immediate release of Sanguilly, followed in a calm speech, reciting the breach of treaty rights in Sanguilly's case. At the request of Mr. Morgan, the Allen resolution was referred to the committee on foreign relations, the assurance being given that it would re-House.

The House is evidently drifting on toward final adjournment with an easy conscience. All the appropriation bills have been sent to the Senate. Final action was had on both the agricultural and army bills on the 25th, and a bill was passed to clothe postoffice inspectors with the power of United States marshals in the matter of making arrests. There was an echo of Mr. Bryan's visit to the House the day previous after the journal was read. Mr. Barrett (Rep., Mass.) called attention to the fact that the Congressional Record contained these words: "During the reading of the bill, Mr. Bryan entered the hall, and there was lond apprause on the Democratic side," He asked whether the Record's testimony to the truth of history was proper. "The chair considers it a very improper thing to put in the Record." replied the speaker emphatically. "Is it there?" he asked. "It is," replied Mr. Barrett, "and I move that it be stricken out of the permanent record." "The motion is unaccessary," said the speaker sharply: "The chair will order a stricken from the Record." Representative Sulzer of New York today introduced a bill declaring war between Spain and her colonies and the United States. The bill provides "that war be declared to exist between the kingdom of Spain and her colonies and the United States of America and their territories, and that the President is authorized to use the whole land and naval force of the United States to carry the same into effect and to issue to private armed vessels of the United States against the vessels, goods and effects of the government of the said kingdom of Spain and the scale of the Enriced States against the vessels, goods and effects of the government of the said kingdom of Spain and the subjects thereof."

The House on the 26th passed the Senate international monetary conference bill. Deof Mr. Morgan, the Allen resolution was referred to the committee on foreign relations, the assurance being given that it would receive speedy consideration. At 5:30 p. m. Mr. Allison asked that unanimous consent be given for a recess from 6 to 8 p. m. Tais was agreed to. In the evening Mr. Pettigrew asked unanimous consent to proceed with the Indian appropriation bill. This was given with the understanding that it did not displace the Cuban resolution as to Julio Sanguilly, which was to retain its right of way, as to unfuished business. There was more talk about Cuba, but no action was taken.

After the dramatic Cuben debate in the more than passing interest. The Indian bill was considered up to 1 o'clock, when for three hours a general discussion of the Sanguilly case and the effect of the pardon occurred. Mr. Frye, who stirred the gelleries to fever heat yesterday, stepped into the middle aisle and said he hoped the Sanguilly resolution would be allowed to go to the calendar without further discussion. During the debate Mr. Lodge said: "It took twenty-three months for diplomatic negotiations, and when the case was presented to the Senate and to the bar of public opinion we have a pardon the next

The House, after five hours' struggle on the 27th, passed the anti-railroad ticket scalping bill by a vote of 142 to 51. The adversaries of the measure resorted to fill-bustering tactics, but they were defeated by an overwhelming majority. At the conclusion of the debate the reading of the engrossed copy of the bill was demanded. It was purely a technical point, made in the hope of postponing the final vote until the ist and thus decreasing the chances of the bill passing the Senate. But this technicality was circumvented by the House remaining in session and voting down repeated motions to adjourn while the bill was being engrossed by the clerks. The bill applies only to interstate commerce transportation. It requires all carriers subject to the interstate commerce act to provide agents, authorized to sell their tlekets, with certificates, and makes it a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $1600 or imprisonment for one year for any person not duly authorized to sell sekets. It requires carriers to redeem unused tickets and makes the forgery or counterfeiting of tickets punishable by imprisonment for two years. A number of minor bills were passed during the day under suspension of the rules.

The House galleries were thronged with visitors all day on the 1st, but the croz dewith visitors all day on the 1st, but the croz dewitnessed nothing beyond the dullest of routien matters until the last half hour of the session, when the bill to prohibit the transmission of detailed accounts of prize fights by mail or telegraph was brought up. This led to a very lively skirmish, in which prize flighting was denounced on all sides and the advocates of the bill insisted that The Senate turned on the 27th from the stirring theme of Cuba to the commonplace appropriation bills, giving the entire day to the postoffice bill. The debate was mainly on the question of an investigation into the cost of carrying the mails on the roalroads. It brought out much criticism of the alleged extravagant charges for this mail carriage. A controversy between the Knights of Labor and the Metropolitan Street Railway company of the District of Columbia, over the discharge of employes, aroused a general discussion of labor questions. Mr. Alleu (Pop.) of Nebraska endeavored to secure the reconsideration of a bill granting an extension of the Metropolitan company's lines. He asserted that the company had discharged certain employes because they belonged to the Knights of Labor. He wanted the employes reinstated before the bill should become a law. The discussion became qu'te personal, Messirs, Gallinger and McMillan resenting Mr. Allen's remarks and declaring that the committee had fully investigated the matter. Finally Mr. Allen's motion was tabled by a vote of 30 to 24.

Victor Berger Champions the Measure-Children Who Work.

Madison, Wis., March 3 .- [Special.]tures yesterday afternoon took up the Milwaukee Federated Trades council la-bor bill, which Victor Berger had been championing since its introduction, and spent several hours discussing its pro-visions. Mr. Berger, the well-known editor, was the first speaker and he dis-cussed the bill in sections. In manu-facturing cities, he said, children worked while their parents were idle, carning $3 a week, while their fathers might be earning $9. What was saved by cheaper wages had to be paid for workhouses and jails. Mr. Berger referred to the age limit established in other countries and the revolution it had wrought. He laid stress on the fact that the Evening Wisconsin, which he characterized as a very consequent of the stress of th

A BARREL FIDDLE.

Ingenious Scheme of a New Englander to Provide Himself with Music.

A fiddle made from an ordinary barrel and a few odd pieces of lumber has just been constructed by a Massachusetts genius, and, greatly to the surprise of ll, himself included, it is a success. H. H. Heusted is the name of this enerprising amateur instrument maker, who, however, is no amateur musician, ut, on the contrary, a violinist and cello but, on the contrary, a violinist and cello player of no mean order.

It was the lack of a cello which was indirectly responsible for the production of this unique instrument. Although an enthusiastic player, with abundant time at his disposal, he had no instrument with which he could beguile the long and monotonous hours of his work as assistant station agent at Prospect Hill, East Somerville, Mass.

The station is in the residential portion of the city, and throughout the day there are long hours when the station agent has practically nothing to do. He often thought of the amusement to be derived from the possession of a cello, and the

from the possession of a cello, and the more he thought of it the more he want-ed one. So he finally decided to make one for himself, and after much planning selected a barrel as the most promising thing for the purpose.

The specimen chosen was what is known as a half barrel. It was of elm known as a half barrel. It was of elm wood which from long standing in the garret of the Heusted household had become thoroughly seasoned. In the middle, just between the hoops, the cello maker cut an oblong opening about four inches in length and three in width. The barrel was then scraped and sandpapered inside and out, after which it was securely headed up and treated to a double coat of the best varnish. The body was then complete, and after being thoroughly complete, and after being thoroughly dried was ready for the finishing touches which were to transform a sugar barrel into a musical instrument.

A small piece of black walnut was, th very little work and a common ckknife, converted into a tailpiece. For Jackshite, converted into a tanpiec. For the high bridge a piece of well seasoner spruce was used. The same kind of woo was used in making the finger board The neck was made of white pine, am the keys were whittled out of rock maple These various parts were then put together with glue and securely fastened to the barrel in their proper places, after which the whole affair was put away to dry and "set" before having the strings put in place.

Mr. Heusted had to stand a lot of good-natured joking from his many friends while he was waiting for the time to come when he could bring forth his barrel cello when he could bring forth his barrel cents and confound the skeptic by producing sweet sounds from this seemingly crude product of brains and a jackknife. No sick child ever watched with more care.
Every draft was excluded, and the room in which the final drying process was gong on was always kept at an even tem-erature. Finally, however, the strings were put in place, and the curious instru-nent ready for trial.

ment ready for trial.

It was with no little trepidation that the creator of this odd looking affair brought it forth and drew the bow across brought it forth and drew the bow across the strings. The sound produced was not at all unpleasant, and after the strings had been properly tightened the whole was found to be a very respectable cello, upon which could be executed almost anything adapted to that instrument. When it is played in connection with the violin, the music is very entertaining, and Mr. Heusted has no reason to be ashamed of himself as a musical instrument maker. ent maker. Ordinary cello strings are used on this barrel fiddle, which is not half so un-gainly as one might imagine.

DDDDDDDDDDDDDDDDDD Pill Clothes.

The good pill has a good coat. The pill coat serves two purposes; it protects the pill, enabling it to retain all its remedial value, and it disguises the taste for the palate. Some pill coats are too heavy; they will not dissolve in the stomach, and the pills they cover pass through the system as harmless as a bread pellet. Other coats are too light, and permit the speedy deterioration of the pill. After 30 years exposure, Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills have been found as effective as if just fresh from the laboratory.
