BUTLER IS CAPTURED.

Town of Lisbon Wife Murderer Taken to Waukesha for Safe Keeping. Waukesha, Wis., July 7.—[Special.]—James Butler, who is charged with having murdered his wife by cutting her to pieces with an axe at the home of her son in the town of Lisbon, this county, Tuesday night, was captured at an early hour this morning and brought to Waukesha. The capture was made by William Kuntz and his hired man, about two and one-half miles south of Delafield, in a barn owned by a brother-in-law of Butler. Butler made no resistance whatever.

JAMES BUTLER.

When darkness came on the man would make for the barn, and the theory proved correct. He waited until nearly 3 o'clock Tuesday night, in company with his hired man, he entered the barn and found Butler, who meekly surrendered. He said he had been in the house for some time and had been drinking. He had been drinking and was very freely about the crime and made no secret of it in any way.

The Wisconsin State board of health has our thanks for a copy of the twentieth report of that body.

Now that the parents of public school scholars in Milwaukee have voted on the question of the study of German, perhaps it might be well to poll the scholars.

The number of people killed in celebrating the Fourth this year, may move some statistician to show that more people lost their lives celebrating our independence than in fighting for it.

If his air-ship can be successfully propelled over the Arctic regions, Prof. Andree may come back and tell us about a current wind enough for the most glib-tongued lecturer on the frigid zone.

It's a hard thing to satisfy everybody. In Racine the authorities ordered the street sprinklers to leave a strip five feet wide on each side of the street unsprinkled, for the benefit of wheelmen, whereas the merchants are angry and say they won't pay their sprinkling tax.—White Water Gazette.

With one member of the Democratic team pulling in the direction of free trade, another toward protection, still a third in favor of free silver, and a fourth headed resolutely toward the gold standard, the Jeffersonian-Jacksonian band wagon is not making much progress.—Neshville Times.

South Milwaukee Republicans may have placed themselves in an unenviable light by objecting to the use of the Australian ballot system at the late election for the choice of city officers there, but a majority of five gives them the mayoralty of the new city just as surely as twenty times that number would.

It is reported that Rose Zoldoski, the Richland Center lady who was released from the State prison, longs to return to Wisconsin because she finds it difficult to earn a living in Oklahoma. Rose may eventually learn that women of her notoriety make a better living on the stage than anywhere else.

The legislature which convenes August 7 can take up all the new business it desires, but the disposition and the understanding is to deal only in such matters as it is absolutely necessary to take up. This will include the adoption of the new revised statutes, the consideration of the governor's vetoes, etc. A number of papers whose editors have not informed themselves, contend that the session is a useless one; but when they have examined the change and boiling down given the statutes, they will likely admit their error. The adjourned session will be about the most important of any session held for years—and probably occupy the last time.—Washington Times.

The pardon of the Younger brothers, "Cole" and "Jim," is well advised—not so much because they have rendered "nearly twenty-one years of honest, faithful and manly service to the state of Minnesota," but because there is every reason to believe they would go out into the world thoroughly reformed and by good, honest citizenship exercise a greater influence toward the betterment of mankind than if confined within a certain portion of stillwater for the rest of their lives. Those of us who will remember quite a part of the lives of the boys as having been a tragedy of errors—well, we likely can remember mistakes in our lives with feelings of regret also, especially on considering that we were never subjected to the evil influences which fell to the lot of the Youngers.

In delivering a Fourth of July oration at Mineral Point last Tuesday R. M. LaFollette "warned the people that the liberties enjoyed through the sacrifices of the revolutionary fathers and the heroes and statesmen of the civil war were to be preserved by the people from the assaults of an enemy more dangerous than foreign war or armed rebellions. That enemy was corporate power, which today dominates political parties dictating legislation, perverting administration and even influencing judicial action. He cited that aggregated capital was able to escape taxation through manipulation of legislatures, and as an illustration he cited that the personal property assessment of New York is less today by $60,000,000 than it was in 1857, thus casting upon the people an unjust proportion of the burden of government. Illustrating the baneful influence of corporations on legislation, he recalled the act by which the great city of Chicago is made the bond-slave of the street railway company for a term of fifty years; the defeat of the anti-pass measure and kindred legislation in the Wisconsin legislature last winter. For their own protection, he called upon his audience to give closer and more earnest attention to their duties in the caucuses and conventions of their respective parties as the only means at hand for the defense of the people's liberties until they can secure the election of a majority in a legislature that is not machine-made, and then we may confidently expect faithful public service from public officials."

Senator Chandler has added a provision to his amendment to the Tariff bill relating to railroad pools, a provision prohibiting the issuance of free passes.

ELASTIC STARCH has been before the people of the United States for twenty-three years, and is without doubt the greatest starch invention of the Nineteenth century. Last year its sales reached the unprecedented number of twenty million packages. It is prepared upon scientific principles by men who have had years of practical experience in fancy laundrying. It makes ironing easy, restores old summer dresses to their natural whiteness, and imparts to linen a beautiful and lasting finish. It is the only starch manufactured that is perfectly harmless, containing neither arsenic, alum nor any other substance injurious to linen, and can be used even for a baby's powder.
