Communications should be accompanied by the name of the writer; not necessarily for publication, but as evidence of good faith on the part of the author. Write only upon one side of paper, and in living names and dates, so careful to make them plain and distinct.

GEO. NUGENT, Editor.

Our state paper suggests that something is the matter with Mr. La Follette's liver, but others think it is his gall.

We are afraid that if John L. Sullivan gets to be mayor of Boston he will become ambitious and want to be governor or congressman or president, or all of them one after another.

Judge Grosscup says that the United States government is in no sense so characteristic. Terms he thinks that the handling of the U. S. mail is controlled by a trust. The judge has a great head, for dodging the issue.

CHAIRMAN E. D. COE of the Republican State Central committee has been appointed pension agent at Milwaukee, a position which pays $4,000 a year. He will now have to resign the chairmanship, as to retain it would draw too much of bossism in state politics, and it would also be contrary to the rules of the civil service.

If a boon companion lies down on the floor and challenges you to make a target of him with a revolver, at the same time saying that you could not hit a barn-door, it is not safe to make the trial for you might accidentally hit him. William Schlicht of Sheboygan took the wrong course in Milwaukee a few months ago, in a case of that kind, and a jury at Port Washington has given the wounded man a judgment of $3,000.

The near approach of the winter season has abated the Klondike fever somewhat, but spring will bring it on again more fiercely than ever. In a few years there will be less difficulty in reaching the new gold region, but the rigors of the Arctic climate can never be lessened, and the gold hunter will have to endure privations from which most men would shrink. The deposits of gold in the Klondike regions will not soon be exhausted, for fresh discoveries will be made from year to year. The present gold fields are confined to the beds of the streams, but in time they will be followed to their source, as was the case in California.

The public attention is again forcibly directed to the Cuban question by a statement that the American minister to Spain has delivered to the Spanish government an intimation that the United States will feel called upon to interfere to put an end to the war in Cuba unless it is brought to a close soon. It is not likely that the American government has taken so decisive a step, since it is utterly at variance with the administration policy so far in the matter. More likely, when the truth shall become known, the government has gone no farther than to intimate a willingness to mediate between the Spanish government and the insurgents.

Gov. SCOFFIELD has placed an insurance of $500,000 on the state capitol, paying a premium of $2,000 for three years. The state house had never been insured before and the action has excited a great deal of comment, but there seems to be no reason why the state should not insure its property as well as the individual. State capitols have been destroyed by fire in the past and the same may happen at any time in Madison as well as in Harrisburg. In such a case the people of Wisconsin would feel the drain of an added half-million dollars when it came to rebuilding. Criticism in another direction, however, has more foundation. Wisconsin insurance companies would have liked a chance to take a portion of the risk, but it has all been given to outside companies, and some of them are foreign companies at that. The Wisconsin companies are as sound and reliable as any and they should have had the business or part of it, while foreign companies should have been barred entirely.

Judge Fish of Racine has pronounced sentence of disbarment against Benjamin M. Goldberg, a former lawyer of Waupaca county, on the ground of unprofessional and corrupt conduct. The trial was a long one and many witnesses were examined, principally to prove the charges of crooked dealings made by other members of the bar. Judge Fish says in his decision that much of the testimony given in defense of Goldberg was clearly false, and it is likely that some trials for perjury will follow. In fact the enemies of Goldberg have already declared that they will continue their work by having him prosecuted on such charges. Goldberg claims that he has been made the victim of spite and that the court was prejudiced against him. He will appeal to the Supreme court and hopes to have the sentence set aside. His partner, Hoxie of Clintonville, testified on the trial that he was the one who transacted the business in one case where crookedness was charged against Goldberg, and Judge Fish at once gave orders that he should be prosecuted on his own admission, characterizing it in scathing terms as a disgrace to the legal profession. Hoxie was convicted before Judge Webb at Fond du Lac and suspended from practice for two years. Now that the work of prosecuting lawyers for crooked dealings has been commenced, it should be kept up until ratsals will not dare to enter the legal profession, and in time the profession will not be so crowded that attorneys will be driven to such devious ways to make a living.

The treaty of peace between Turkey and Greece has been signed, and thus another great European international complication is ended. Greece was the victim of the false conclusion that Christian Europe would take her part against the Turk, but Christian Europe is divided into nations which are all fearful that their neighbors may become too powerful for them, and Christianity was overshadowed by national selfishness and ambition, so that the Turk was in no danger from them.

The aggressions of the British government has brought on another war with the wild tribes of Afghanistan, and a large army has been sent into the field against them. Russia has undoubtedly had a hand in fomenting the "troubles." She covets a greater share of Central Asia, and her ways of obtaining new territory are as dark and mysterious as those of John Bull.

A Minister Writes on Postal Savings Banks.

We are in receipt of many copies of letters written by prominent men on the above named subject, but the following will suffice to show the feeling of Chicago clergymen, who have thus far expressed themselves on the subject: The Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones of All Souls' church says: "I rejoice in the work being done in the interest of the postal savings bank law. I have been in the habit of saying that if it was given me to insure the enactment of just one law in the interest of the public good, I would unhesitatingly call for one that would establish a system of postal savings banks. Nothing would so stimulate our people to habits of economy and encourage thrift. More than that, it would eventually work out the larger banking and currency problems of the government. Our present system of private savings banks has so betrayed the poor that they have well nigh lost courage. Every postmaster in the country, from the backwoods to the city, ought to be authorized to accept in trust any moneys offered him under a maximum sum named at any given time, and the whole credit of the nation ought to be the pledge for the faithful discharge of the trust. Certificates of deposit ought to be as easily obtained as postal cards, and their face value be as unquestioned, and when a minimum sum in deposits is reached a minimum sum in deposits is reached or more ought to be insured."

SUIT FOR FRAUD.

Congressman Joseph W. Babcock is a defendant in a very interesting law suit, wherein Geo. E. Potter, a former stockholder in the Necedah Lumber company, is the plaintiff and in which Potter declares that through a fraudulent combination and conspiracy he was defrauded out of the sum of $41,700. The complaint in the case reads somewhat like a novel, and it is one of those old stories where it is alleged that the person defrauded became insane and that his business partners took advantage of the fact. In fact the suit is brought in the name of the plaintiff's wife, Lottie E. Potter, as guardian of him.—Milwaukee Daily News.

NO GAG FOR THE PRESS.

One of the most interesting and important opinions handed down by the Wisconsin Supreme court in recent years was filed at Madison last Tuesday. The opinion is in the case of the proceedings for contempt of court by Judge W. F. Bailey of Eau Claire against H. C. Ashbaugh and L. A. Doolittle. Because of its importance the case caused much excitement throughout the state at the time it was pending. The opinion was written by Justice Winslow and is of particular interest to lawyers and newspaper publishers. The court says: "We are well persuaded that newspaper comments on cases finally decided prior to the publication cannot be considered criminal contempt."

J. W. Baggett of Oak Grove, Fla., had an attack of the measles, nearly three years ago, and the disease left him with very severe pains in the chest. "I thought I would die," he writes, "but to my great joy, I was saved by Chamberlain's Pain Balm." Pains in the chest nearly always indicate the approach of pneumonia, and by promptly applying this liniment on a flannel cloth, which should be bound on the chest, an attack of pneumonia may be prevented. It is always prompt and effectual. For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by L. Rosenheimer.
