GEORGE NUGENT, Editor.

THE ELECTION OF 1897.

The result of the elections last week is about what was to be expected in nearly every case except in Ohio, which the administration party nearly lost, though President McKinley's own state. Perhaps another exception might be made in the state of New York, which was carried by the Democrats for chief justice for the court of appeals by about 80,000 majority, though McKinley had over 200,000 majority last year.

In the New York case the cause for the change is easily determined. The Democrats made their campaign against the odious Raines license law, which has become very obnoxious to the masses of the people with its extreme interference with personal liberty. It is just what might be expected in Wisconsin if a Republican legislature should enact a prohibitory law. The money question did not enter the campaign in any phase, though an attempt was made to introduce it in the municipal campaign in the city of Greater New York by silverites favoring the ticket headed by Henry George for mayor.

What the strength of the George movement might have been will never be known, the death of the candidate from the fatigues of the campaign, four days before the election, disintegrating the forces. It is the opinion of close political observers that the George vote might have reached to 60,000 to 80,000 if it could have been held together, but it could not have affected the result, as the Tammany candidate has so large a plurality that the full possible George vote under any circumstances could be deducted from it and still leave a plurality over the next highest candidate. Tammany could not have been defeated by any possible combination with its stand on the Raines law. It is true that the vote for Low, the candidate for mayor on the Citizens' ticket, and for Tracy, Republican, exceeded the Tammany vote by a few thousands, but the combined vote could not have been held for either candidate, or for any other candidate. The result of the election shows clearly that the Tracy ticket was intended to prevent the election of Low, but it was not needed for that purpose.

In Ohio the fight was against the domination of Senator Hanna, and it came near being successful, the Republicans having but a bare majority of the legislature, and even that is threatened by contested elections. In Maryland a similar revolt against the Democratic boss, Senator Gorman, was successful, and that hitherto staunch Democratic state will hereafter be represented in the senate by two Republicans. Kentucky remains Democratic through the free silver platform antagonized the gold Democrats and drove them from the support of the ticket. Iowa, on the other side, remains Republican, though by a reduced majority, and the silver fusionists succeeded in holding Nebraska, the state of Wm. J. Bryan.

The mere fact of its being an off-year and the continuance of the hard times make it certain that the administration party would lose largely in the elections. The silverites will of course take courage from the results, but it is apparent that the money question had little to do with the outcome. Next year will come the congressional elections, and the application of the off-year rule of politics makes it extremely probable that the Republicans will lose largely and may possibly lose control of the house of representatives. Next year there will be no national convention to formulate a platform, and it will simply be the field against the administration, with a free-for-all in each state, a go-as-you-please contest without platforms of any kind, so far as the general line-up of parties is concerned.

The next real contest on national issues, where parties can be formed to cover the whole country, will not come until three years hence, when the issues may be really different from what they would be at this time. Nobody can tell this year what the political situation will be in 1900. Anything is possible within the next three years so far as party lines is concerned. The country is now threatened with international complications which may gravely instead of being settled. The only thing for the people to do is to wait for the political situation to become established and present the questions upon which they must divide when the next contest comes. If the present administration so executes its trust as to deserve the confidence of the people, in 1900 it may obtain a new lease of power; but if, on the contrary, it does not meet popular approval, the large majority of last year will melt away.

ST. MATIAS SIFTINGS.

Some of our people attended the kirns at Ashford last Thursday. A number of Kewaskum people were hunting in this vicinity last Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. M. Schladeveiler Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Schiltz. S. C. L. Hayward of Fond du Lac called on his daughter, Grace, here last Sunday. Katie Brodzeller has returned home after spending a few weeks with friends at Ashford. Mrs. Peter Pesch and son, William, accompanied by Mrs. J. A. Pesch of Campbellsport made a trip to Fond du Lac one day last week.

PUTTING LIFE INTO DEAD MONEY.

Postmaster-General Gary has made some very remarkable statements concerning the value of postal savings banks in bringing hoarded money into circulation. He says: "Postal savings banks would put the breath of life into the dead money of the United States. Have you ever thought what a dead thing money is when not in use? It is the deadest thing in the universe. There are many millions of such money in the country. It is hoarded away in stockings, buried under hearthstones, tucked away behind rafters and planted here and there in the earth, because the owners have no faith in private savings institutions. They have faith in the government, and they would bring out and deposit their money in the postal savings banks. As to how much of such money there is in the country, you can guess just as well as I can. I have asked a number of men what they think the average of hoarded money would amount to per capita. Some have estimated that it would be $10, others $15, and some less. Suppose, for instance, it was $5 per capita; this would make the enormous sum of $350,000,000. I don't believe it would be less than that, though I would not like to prophesy. Such hoards are usually greater than is supposed. Some of them amount to hundreds and some thousands of dollars."

Those who object to postal savings banks for fear they would gather up the small savings of a community for transmission to Washington, thus depriving that community of some of its loaneable wealth, should take notice of the compensating feature of bringing into circulation the hoarded money of the country. Money sent to Washington, much of which will come from hiding places, will not be hoarded in the treasury vaults. It will be invested and made to draw interest, and will thereby be added to the circulation of the country. It will be transformed from idle into active wealth.—Chicago Record.

WAYNE WAFTINGS.

Farmers have about finished their fall plowing. Louis Meyer now has a wind-mill on the top of his barn. Jacob Becker of Kewaskum called on his parents here last Sunday. Richard Frenz of Milwaukee is visiting his parents, near Kohlsville. John Weber of Hilbert, Wis., is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Jos. Marx.

We hope for a speedy recovery. J. J. Altenhofen of Milwaukee called on our saloon-keepers last Wednesday. My braun of Richfield has bought Christian Frost's farm for the sum of $2,300. Maggie McLaughlin of Milwaukee visited Mrs. Ed. Campbell several days this week. Frank Schubeck and Thomas Weber began the trip to their native land, Bohemia, last Monday. August Groth of Kohlsville moved to New Prospect last Wednesday, where he will reside in the future. Joseph Aufdermauer, an expert brick-cheese maker from Hustisford, is now employed by Petri Bros. Wm. Lochen attended the "diamond wedding" of his grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schwin, at Newburg.

The wedding of John Brinkman to Carrie Becker, both of our town, will take place at the bride's home next Tuesday. Fred. Patow and Peter Werner and wife from Cedar Creek, spent Sunday and Monday with the Andrew and Henry Martin families. John Weber, formerly one of our townsmen but now a resident of Hilbert, spent last Saturday with his daughter and relatives and friends here. Julius Bartel and Dora Broecker were married in the Lutheran church at Kohlsville last Thursday at 2 p. m. After the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home. The attendance was the largest of any wedding ever held in this vicinity.

Posters are out announcing a duck and turkey shoot here in the afternoon of Thanksgiving day. The raffle and shoot will conclude with a dance in the evening at Petri's hall. The prize to be drawn is Martin Leonard's Indian pony, and it is predicted that the raffle will be quite lively. There are some people who are constantly grumbling. If it rains, they grumble; and when it does not rain, they grumble. In summer the weather is too hot, and in winter too cold. If a neighbor is getting on rapidly, they are envious; and if he is making no headway, they say he is too lazy and deserves no success. When prosperous times are here, they intimate that the country is making too much progress; and when dull times are here, they declare that the country is going to ruin. Everything is wrong with them; they get up in the morning grumbling. It is always "the blackness of midnight" with them. There are no sunny days in their history, and when they "shuffle off this mortal coil" no one in particular mourns their departure, except those who graduate in the same school.—Exchange.

BEECHWOOD BEAMLETS.

John Schletter of Cascade made a brief call here Wednesday. Miss Anna Trapp of Milwaukee is staying with her parents here. William Schaefer is erecting a building for storing wood during the winter. Otto Leiper of Batavia made a brief call at the Beechwood creamery last Tuesday. G. W. Koch had the paper-hangers do a fine piece of work at his residence this week. Adolph Althaus and John Ryan of West Bend spent Sunday hunting in this vicinity. Chas. Koch is having his new building plastered inside by Weddig Bros. of Kewaskum. Miss Libbie Treviranus of West Bend is visiting a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. John Held. Miss Emma Butzke made a flying trip to West Bend last Wednesday and returned Thursday. Frank Klein, the white-washer, put a nice appearance on the walls of the reformed church last Wednesday. Fred. Stange celebrated the tenth anniversary of his marriage Monday, and all who attended reported a very glorious old time. Another tin wedding occurred at the home of Jacob Hornings last Tuesday evening, he and his wife having been surprised by quite a few neighbors. All had a good time.

ST. KILLIAN SHARPS. Mrs. Mary Kral is repairing her house. A boy was born to Ulrich Kuntz and wife lately. First snow and a cold wave here on Ashford kirknes day, 1897. Mrs. Mary Kahut of Ashford called on her sister, Mrs. Emmer, last Sunday. Mrs. Mack of Kewaskum called on her sons, Joseph and Conrad, here this week. Miss Annie Strobel and Johanna Heiser are learning dressmaking at Lomira. Leopold Mack and wife from Nebraska were here visiting relatives and friends lately. Joseph Kohl of Theresa, who worked for Casper Straub last summer, went home last week. Wenzel Dwaschack and wife feel happy over the arrival of a girl at their home last Sunday. George Traubert, who worked for P. Flash the past summer, will return home to Milwaukee this week. Miss Lizzie Dwaschack and Katie Melzer went to the Cream City this week, where they will stay for some time. Wm. Buchen, who was a butcher at Theresa for a long time, died suddenly last Thursday at his home there as the result of a paralytic stroke.

FARM FOR SALE. Mr. McCallahan offers to sell her farm of 120 acres in Sec. 5, town of Scott, Sheboygan county. The land is of the best, and the buildings are good and nearly new. For further information inquire of the undersigned, on the premises. (10) Mrs. P. McBrien.

A New Version. VENI. SODA. VIDI. VIGILI. —Truth.

ST. MICHAELS MITES.

John Marx, Sr., is slowly recovering from his illness. Joseph Laubach and wife spent last Sunday at Adell. Joseph Foltz of St. Mathias was in our burg last Sunday. John Abbley, the Scott cheesemaker, was on our streets last Sunday. Joseph Wiese of St. Lawrence passed through here enroute to New Fane recently. The turkey shoot at Nic. Schaefer's last Saturday was not very well attended. Joseph Dwaschack and wife from New Fane called on friends here last Sunday. Mrs. Mat. Fellenze of Kewaskum called on Gerhard Jung and family last Sunday. Mat. and Lizzie Theisen left for Port Washington last Saturday and returned Monday. Anton Walter and wife are visiting relatives at Burlington, Wis., since last Saturday. John Tausch is the owner of two young horses, which he bought at Ashford lately. Miss Almira Carroll of New Fane was a caller in our burg last Sunday and Monday. Willy and Lena Schneider left last Sunday for New Coeln, where they are employed for the winter by their brother, John. If you can say a good word, say it like a prince. If you are full of bile and disposed to be mean about the moonshine or lantern, or a bicycle bell, keep your mouth shut. If you want to throw something at somebody, throw cologne or roses. Don't throw bricks, bats, or mud. If you must kick, go around behind the barn and take a good one at yourself, for if you feel that way you're the man who needs kicking.

BARTON BARDS. Rev. Whaley of Boltonville was here last Monday. Number 4 has arrived at the home of Philip Barber. The Kickapoos gave their last show here Sunday night. Miss Jennie Kapfer was at Kewaskum last Saturday. Mr. Eisenman and son, John, were at Newburg on business last Friday. Nigh Bros. furnish the lumber for Kippenhans' new house at West Bend. Theo. Rinders has bought property at Dotyville and will soon leave for that place. Station Agent Henry Schlamer looks more like a man since he received his uniform. Frank Puer, who worked at Hartford the past summer, is wintering at home here. Mr. Volksman, traveling agent for Kieser & Co., called on his customers here last Tuesday. Miss K. Schmitt, who was attending school at Racine, returned home last Wednesday. "Kickapoo Ben" was summoned before Justice Dunkel and paid $5 for assaulting G. Koening. Frank Bertram was the lucky winner of the 17-pound turkey raffled by Peter Jansen lately. Adam Braun has moved his household goods into the Camel house, where he will remain during the winter. Miss Clara Voelksen was the lucky winner of the silver knives and forks which were given away by the Kickapoos. Fred. Trotel of West Bend and Jessie Ostrander were man and wife last Saturday at the Washington house. Justice Sievers tied the knot.

MY FRIEND CHARLOTTE. I once had a friend most dear to my heart, 'Tis years, alas, since we met; Yet, though they swiftly fly on the wings of time, I wonder, does she think of me yet. Does she think of the jolly bygone days, When the heart from sorrow was free, When the soul was filled with sunshine and joy, And we were happy as happy could be? Does she remember the fun we used to have, Or her heart could ever grow cold, That the gem of her friendship should no more be, As in the happy days of old. (The mine, There must be a spot somewhere in her heart, No matter how small it may be, Where memory dwells but is not dead, That I know is kept sacred for me. —LAURA A. SCHARFER.

BOLTONVILLE BUDGET. Katie Ryan spent last Saturday at Random Lake. A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Matt. Geib last Wednesday. Mrs. Ed. Riley and family have moved to West Bend. Wm. Glover and family entertained company from Cascade last Sunday. C. H. Mau celebrated the anniversary of his birth at home here last Tuesday. Rev. A. D. Whaley is a delegate at the Wauwatosa convention this week. The Ladies' Aid society met at the home of Mrs. Leroy Gordon last Thursday. Miss Forest of Neomah is teaching the "frame school" and stopping at W. R. Wescott's. Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Bruhy of West Bend passed through here last Sunday on a tandem bicycle. Mr. and Mrs. George Riley have returned from a wedding trip to Chicago and are now at home. A surprise party was given at the home of Mrs. Blau last Tuesday and at Mrs. Wendel's on Thursday. The STATESMAN and either the weekly Sentinel, Journal or Wisconsin of Milwaukee for $1.75 a year. Call at the postoffice.

Its effects are instantaneous and satisfactory, and I cheerfully recommend it, especially for cramp, colic and diarrhoea. Indeed, we shall try and keep a bottle of it on our medicine shelf as long as we keep house." For sale by L. Rosenheimer. LITHIA BEER. Drink our Lithia Beer and feel its wonderful effects. It often happens that the doctor is out of town when most needed. The 2-year-old daughter of J. Y. Schenk of Caddo, Ind. Ter., was threatened with croup. He writes: "My wife insisted that I go for the doctor at once, but as he was out of town, I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which relieved the child immediately." A bottle of that remedy in the house will often save the expense of a doctor's bill, besides the anxiety always occasioned by serious sickness. When it is given as soon as the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. Thousands of mothers always keep it in their homes. The 25 and 50-cent bottles for sale by L. Rosenheimer.
