GEO. NUGENT, Editor.

INDIANA has a bank failure in which three institutions closely connected are completely wrecked, and the cashier of the principal institution has fled. Perhaps Indiana has a state bank examiner, also.

The complete abandonment of the proceedings against Fred. T. Day, for wrecking the Plankinton bank of Milwaukee, of which he was president, in 1893, will be a great encouragement to other people who have been engaged in the same line of business.

A TEXAS postmaster who was in danger of removal has saved his official scalp by showing that twins have been born in his household twice and were followed by quadruplets. Before such a showing, the department could not stand, and the postmaster was re-appointed. He received his first appointment under the Harrison administration and was not disturbed by the Democrats when they came into power.

YOUNG George M. Pullman was disinherited by his father because of his failure to demonstrate a capacity to take care of wealth, and now he loses his prospective bride, a daughter of ex-Gov. Richard J. Oglesby of Illinois, through his family say that the loss of his fortune had nothing to do with her decision. On general principles, a man who is not worthy of being his father's heir is not worthy of the affection of any true woman.

SOCIETY people of Milwaukee are arranging for the annual charity ball, which is made each year the chief social event of the winter season and, despite all attempts of ultra-good people to make it unpopular, is always a financial success. Any class of people ought to be encouraged when they evolve a plan for raising money to alleviate the sufferings of the poor, especially when it is not contrary to law and contemplates spending their own money for that purpose.

AFTER a bank failure the people are always assured that the faithless official whose dereliction was the cause of the smash was "one of the most respected men in the community." That is just the kind of man to get into the confidence of capitalists, and his reputation for honesty and sagacity causes them to impose an unlimited trust in him. There should be such restrictions and safeguards placed around bank officials that it would be impossible for them to use trust funds for their own purposes.

The state is again having an epidemic of breaking banks. One collapsed at Edgerton a short time ago and brought down with it a branch bank at Lodi. Another at Antigo suspended last Saturday in consequence of alleged irregularities on the part of the cashier. In every case the public is assured that depositors will be paid in full, but that is something that usually proves to be nothing more than a dream. The office of state bank examiner was created to provide such a supervision over banks that such failures would be impossible, or at least exceedingly rare; but that appears also to have been a dream. The failure at Edgerton appears to be a very disastrous one, brought about by speculations on the part of the cashier, who found the hoards of the bank very convenient to put up as margins on the board of trade where he operated. It is well for the banks of the state that in some degree there has been a revival of business and of confidence after the late panic, for such failures in panicky times would precipitate others, and we would again have to undergo the financial horrors of 1893 and of other years when people lost all confidence in commercial institutions.

A resolution providing for the erection and maintenance of a county asylum for chronic insane was adopted by the county board Tuesday by a vote of 10 to 9. The asylum will be located on the Mayer farm immediately east of the fair grounds in West Bend, and is intended to be of such dimensions that it will accommodate at least 100 patients. Judging from reports of similar asylums in other parts of the state, the investment to be made by the county will be a profitable one, and this feature of it has induced many of the supervisors to cast their votes in favor of creating the institution.

The county board is still in session, and it seems that all matters coming up before that body is receiving fair and full consideration. On Wednesday last, the committee of the whole took a trip to the county farm for the purpose of giving a surprise party to the keeper and inmates, and perhaps to sample the various delicacies offered by the sumptuous table of the institution. From a distance we look upon this part of the proceedings of the County board as a rather queer method of ascertaining the manner of managing the county poor house and farm.

To give a public servant notice of the time when he will be called upon for the purpose of investigating the management of his trust, seems not conducive to good government. This, of course, is a time-honored custom in this county and is not easily abandoned.

The Philadelphia Press editorially asserts that "there are not enough artillerists in the United States to man the guns already in place at the important points on the coast. These great modern guns are complicated machines to handle, which require expert knowledge and experience. The War department wants this grave deficiency remedied by congress and no time should be lost at the coming session in meeting that demand."

When a school-teacher goes into a new district to teach, of course (being a stranger) she will be subject to criticism; but, should this criticism go so far as to show disrespect for the teacher and even to injure her character? People should understand that no one can obtain a certificate to teach in any county unless they have a good moral character; and then, too, do not teachers have feelings, and may they not be wounded? Yes, and what young lady or gentleman is there who desires to mingle with people who are all smiles to their face and when their back is turned they maliciously use their tongue against them. Does not a teacher want recreation? After teaching from Monday morning until Friday night, after having their patience tried and their nerves shattered is there any one who would begrudge a teacher such recreation as can be found in the country? It seems that there are people who do this, who think that a teacher should not have any company or go out anywhere. Let them continue to think so if they will, but they will soon find that teachers will not conform to such ideas; they are hired to teach five days in the week, the other two days are their own to do as they please, and is it anybody's business that their own, so long as they act respectfully, and there certainly is no teacher who would act otherwise; it is too much education for that. It is hoped that the "gossip" concerning school-teachers will be dropped and not taken up again, and that proper respect should be shown them. A teacher is a benefit to a community in more ways than one if she can feel that the people are her friends and not enemies.

Frank Kass left last Monday for Bakerville, where he is visiting his brother and enjoying the sport of hunting.

A surprise party was tendered to Peter and Katie Brodzeller last Saturday evening. Dancing was kept up until an early hour the next morning.

It often happens that the doctor is out of town when most needed. The 2-year-old daughter of J. Y. Schenk of Caddo, Ind. Ter., was threatened with croup. He writes: "My wife insisted that I go for the doctor at once, but as he was out of town, I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which relieved the child immediately."

A bottle of that remedy in the house will often save the expense of a doctor's bill, besides the anxiety always occasioned by serious sickness. When it is given as soon as the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. Thousands of mothers always keep it in their homes. The 25 and 50-cent bottles for sale by L. Rosenheimer.

AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATION, MADISON, WIS., NOV. 11, 1897. The Experiment Station has already analyzed over 1,000 samples of sugar beets grown from seed distributed through members of the legislature last spring. Washington county has furnished nineteen of these samples. Farmers are urged to send in as many samples as possible in order to make showing for the county. All railway companies (not express companies) have kindly agreed to carry packages containing three beets each, free of charge. The station will furnish shipping tags and blanks, to be filled in by growers, on request. All beets analyzed must reach the station before December 1st, and none will be analyzed after that date, as we desire make a report of investigations as early as possible. W. A. HENRY, Director

WAYNE WAFTINGS.

Don't miss the shoot and dance at Petri's hall next Thursday. Miss Carrie Baumgartner returned to Milwaukee, last Thursday, after spending a week with her parents, relatives and friends here. The Petri Bros. will hereafter close their store Sundays at 1 p. m. The store will also be closed on Thanksgiving day. Patrons will have plenty of time to do their trading during other days of the week. Lately, while Mr. Sell was cleaning out the spring used for watering cattle on his farm, he found some blacksmith tools therein. The farm was formerly owned by Chas. Brant, who had a blacksmith shop thereon, which burned down four years ago, and the tools had been missing ever since. The marriage of John Brinkman to Carolina Becker took place at the bride's home last Tuesday at 2 p. m. The bride was attended by Carolina Baumgartner and Maggie Claer, while Fred. Becker and Peter Jung were the groom's men. Rev. Liehkaemper officiated. The young couple will live at Allenton, where the groom is engaged as a painter. Ye correspondent joins with their many friends in congratulating them. ELMORE ETCINGHS. Chris. Tischauer was here from West Bend last Tuesday. A turkey shoot and raffle will be held at Wm. Klumb's next Thursday. Ernst Reinhardt has purchased a horse from August Bilgo of Ebelville. Mrs. Seifert of Fond du Lac was here visiting at Frank Mauch's last week. Frank Kleinhaus has improved Jac. Hassinger's buggy with a new coat of paint. Henry Kleineschay, who had been working for Jacob Ferber, is home again. While the Schmidt family band was playing at the Ashford kirmes last week, Phil. had the misfortune to break the neck of his bass violin. POLAND CHINA BOAR. The instinct to lay by stores for "a rainy day" is the instinct of self-preservation and of civilization. It has led to the development of life-insurance companies and banks and savings-institutions of all sorts. It leads the well-to-do to foreign high rates of interest in order that the incomes from their wealth may be as certain and secure as possible. It is this same instinct that leads careful persons of limited means to turn to the government as the only absolutely safe custodian for their small savings. In establishing postal savings banks a nation carries its people forward a step in civilization, inasmuch as it is giving to them an additional security against misfortune. A person who puts his savings into the postal savings bank will know that when hardship and want overtake him, whether because of misfortune or declining years, his money will be forthcoming. The fact that there is such a safe place of deposit provided will induce many to make provision against future want who otherwise would prefer themselves to become charge upon society when misfortune overtakes them or when old age finds them unprepared to earn a support by their labor. To the persons for whom the postal savings bank is intended, the rate of interest paid on deposits is of minor importance. What such persons want above everything else is absolute security against loss. They want to eliminate from life the danger that in their declining years they may find themselves without the means of sustaining existence. Congress should establish a system of postal savings banks for the people of the United States without further unnecessary delay.—Chicago Record. A little child of J. R. Hays, living near Colquitt, Ga., overturned a pot of boiling water, scalding itself so severely that the skin came off its breast and limbs. The distressed parents sent to Mr. Brush, a merchant of Clinton, for a remedy, and he promptly forwarded Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The child was suffering intensely but was relieved by a single application of the Pain Balm. Another application or two made it sound and well. For sale by L. Rosenheimer. Professor Andre, the missing accountant, and his party, who ascended last July in an attempt to cross the Arctic regions, and of whom nothing has been heard since that time, will be searched for by Victor, a steamer sent out by the Government of Tromsø. The vessel started on its perilous voyage with a crew of fifteen men and provisions for eight months. An attempt to run a corner in potatoes, it is said is being made by some of the Wisconsin potato raisers and dealers. It is said that some dealers have about 100,000 bushels of the tubers stored near Milwaukee, which they refuse to sell. LOCAL MARKET REPORT. WAYNE WAFTINGS.

Don't miss the shoot and dance at Petri's hall next Thursday. Miss Carrie Baumgartner returned to Milwaukee, last Thursday, after spending a week with her parents, relatives and friends here. The Petri Bros. will hereafter close their store Sundays at 1 p. m. The store will also be closed on Thanksgiving day. Patrons will have plenty of time to do their trading during other days of the week. Lately, while Mr. Sell was cleaning out the spring used for watering cattle on his farm, he found some blacksmith tools therein. The farm was formerly owned by Chas. Brant, who had a blacksmith shop thereon, which burned down four years ago, and the tools had been missing ever since. The marriage of John Brinkman to Carolina Becker took place at the bride's home last Tuesday at 2 p. m. The bride was attended by Carolina Baumgartner and Maggie Claer, while Fred. Becker and Peter Jung were the groom's men. Rev. Liehkaemper officiated. The young couple will live at Allenton, where the groom is engaged as a painter. Ye correspondent joins with their many friends in congratulating them. ELMORE ETCINGHS. Chris. Tischauer was here from West Bend last Tuesday. A turkey shoot and raffle will be held at Wm. Klumb's next Thursday. Ernst Reinhardt has purchased a horse from August Bilgo of Ebelville. Mrs. Seifert of Fond du Lac was here visiting at Frank Mauch's last week. Frank Kleinhaus has improved Jac. Hassinger's buggy with a new coat of paint. Henry Kleineschay, who had been working for Jacob Ferber, is home again. While the Schmidt family band was playing at the Ashford kirmes last week, Phil. had the misfortune to break the neck of his bass violin. POLAND CHINA BOAR. The undersigned have a large Poland China boar for service at their place, 4 1/2 miles north of Kewaskum.—FERDIE BROS., P. O. address New Cassel, Wis. (8) Security and Chance.
