AN ARMY DESERTER. A Man Named Tate Feared the Rigors of a Campaign

in Cuba. Tampa, Fla., June 2.-The transport Florida, which left here over two weeks ago with one of the largest expeditions Cuban army ever sent out from Tampa, returned here today. Confined on board with the grave charge of desertion against him, is an American who enlisted in the Florida, but who, according to Capt. Silver, who piloted the expedition to its desination, at the last moment, when al the supplies had been landed and the vol-unteers were ready for their march into the interior, showed the white feather time after the Florida had left Point Banes, where the landing was made, and nation to turn back and put Tate on shore it was finally decided to bring him to Tampa as a prisoner. Tate in de-fense of his action told Capt. Silver that he had killed a man on shore and did not dare stay with the volunteers for that reason. The officers place no confi-dence in this story, however, but be-lieve that the appearance of the insurgents who met the expedition and the stories of privation and hardships they told took all the fighting enthusi-asm out of Tate. What action will be taken in his case has not yet been de-

Spaniards Were Close at Hand. The main features of the Florida expedition have been published, but additional details were learned today from Pilot Silver and from Capt. J. H. Dorst, who had charge of the expedition. A though Spanish soldiers were within three miles of the landing place and two Spanish gunboats were only five miles away, absolutely no trouble was experienced in landing the soldiers. The Spaniards undoubtedly knew that stores and volun-teers were being put on shore, but they did not come near. There were no interruptions during the entire three days
The Florida spent in the harbor.
The transport was a series of the Americans, when, upon their departure the Spanish fleet would run into the harbor.

The transport was met by a crowd of 300 pacificos, old men and women, emaciated and almost naked, who had heard of her coming and who assisted with an engerness that was almost pathetic in unloading the cargo of the Florida. On the second day of the Florida's stay in the harbor a good-sized body of Cuban insurgents in command of Gen. Rayo appeared on the shore and the work of unloading was then pushed with the utmost vigor. The day previous the force under the day have had an engagement lasting several and the state of the harbor. The St. Paul was then detached and sent back to keep out of sight, with instructions to be ready, at a twenty-knot clip, to bring news to the commodore at any moment. From the American ships the Spanish batteries were in plain view, but no doubt under preconcerted arrangement, for they made no attempt to fire, and the flying squadron, after circling around, slowly Gen. Rayo had an engagement lasting several hours with a large body of Spanish troops which resulted in the defeat of the latter. The insurgents lost a dozen killed during the pursuit of the Spaniards. Word came that the steamer Florida was on the coast, and without stopping for rest or rations the insurgents took up the march to the sea, eighteen miles disthe march to the sea, eighteen miles dis-tant. No stop was made until the shore was reached, and although the insurgents bacon were broken open by them and the

A firing drill of the whole brigade of light artillery, ten batteries of four guns each, was held along the beach at Port Tampa today. All the artillery maneuvers were gone through with and the sight was an impressive one. For over an hour the artillerymen dashed up and down the long beach through the shallow water and over the hummocks of Picnic island,

LOW SHE LIES. Low she lies, who blessed our eyes Through many a sunny day; She may not smile, she will not rise The life has passed away! Yet there is a world of light beyond, Where we neither die nor sleep: She is there, of whom our souls were fond, Then, wherefor do we weep? The heart is cold, whose thoughts were told In each glance of her glad, bright eye; And she lies pale, who was bright, She scarce seemed made to die. Yet we know her soul is happy now,

Where the saints their calm watch keep That angels are crowning that fair brow, Then, wherefor do we weep? Her laughing voice made all rejoice, Who caught the happy sound; There was a gladness in her very step As it touched the ground. The echoes of voice and step are gone There is silence still and deep;

Yet we know she sings by God's bright thr Then, wherefor do we weep? That world of light, with joy is bright This is a world of woe; Shall we grieve that her soul has taken flight, While we dwell below? We buied her under the mossy sod. But one long, bright tress we'll keep;

Then, Wherefor do we weep? CARD OF THANKS. Our heartfelt thanks are herewith

Mother of the Khedivia.

The Khedivia mother (who is also nown as "Princess Eminah") is a woman of rare beauty; a complexion in which the rose and the lily blend is enhanced by her brilliant black eyes and hair, while the faultless contour of her exquisite erene countenance comports admirably with the majestic figure of a woman who indeed every inch a Queen; one cannot calize that the youthful woman is the other of the sedate Khedive, says the Humanitarian. Her charming sister-in-law, the Princess Fatmah, whose guest I was, is equally youthful in appearance, and one would never suspect her to be the mother of two married offspring, the eldest of whom is fully 26 years old.

This sunny-natured woman seems to arry the spring of perpetual girihood in her regally poised head, the energy of oveflowing vitality dominates her every action, but her wonderful eyes hold one spellbound by their ever changing depths, which my most critical scrutiny never enabled me to fathom, nor can I describe their color whether him block. their color, whether blue, black or brown.

The rare beauty of these ladies may be a hereditary trait from their Caucasian ancestry, of which they manifest as great ride as does the European regarding his Saxon origin, and I had indisputable evi-dence that their brilliancy of complexion was due only to nature and the bath, not to cosmetics, of which, however, the Orient has no deficiency. Another Legend Gone.

Another familiar legend," says the Critic, "has been relegated to the limbo of the untrue, and it is a question if there will be anything left for the next generation to pin its faith to. This time it is the 'Prisoner of Chillon,' beloved of and quoted by every school girl. In the long there was shown a circle worn in the stones by his feet by walking round and round a pillar to which he was chained. M. Vuillet, one of the members of the grand council of Vaud, was horrified to find that, in repaving the cell, the 'Chemin de Bonivard,' one of the souvenirs and attractions of the country, had disappeared. He brought the matter before the council, and was chagrined to learn that the famous track had not been made by the captive, whom Byron made famous, but had been industriously scraped by successive keepers at Chillon, who, for exhibiting it, had received large pourboires from sympathetic and senting there was shown a circle worn in Profitable Sheep. The distinctively local breed of sheep on the Cheviot hills, lying along the border of England and Scotland, is the Cheviot, typical specimens of which are graphically depicted in the accompanying illustration from Farm and Home. The old Cheviot sheep was a leggy, thin-wooled animal, though very hardy and vigorous, enduring the vicissitudes of storms and colds nearly as well as black-faced sheep. The modern Cheviot is a compact, well-formed sheep, well filled out in the quarters, with no undue amount of daylight be low it. The tails of all Cheviots are eft long enough to reach the hocks. This needed protection, especially to he udders of ewes, is rendered pracicable on account of the dry nature of the usual forage, which obviates the langer of scouring. The legs below he knees and hocks, as well as the face, is covered by a close growth of short, stiff, white hair. The fleece is so ense and close as to be almost impenetrable to rain and cold. The ewes clip from five to seven pounds each, rams two to three pounds more. The mutton is finely marbled, juicy and palatable.

Relative Value of Wheat and Oats.

Regarding the relative value of wheat ind oats much depends on the soil and onditions. The production of stray axes the land, though straw is given ut little value as a portion of the rop. Estimating a yield of twenty 217 pounds of wheat straw to 100 oounds of grain and 128.4 nounds of traw to 100 pounds of grain in oats. according to such estimates wheat would remove from the land 1,200 pounds of grain and 2,604 pounds of straw, while oats would remove 1,280 nounds of grain and 1 6421/ a traw per acre. With wheat there would consequently be removed from he soil in the grain for each ton 15.1 ounds phosphoric acid, 8.8 of potash and 34.2 pounds of nitrogen, the straw moving 2 pounds phosphoric acid, 10.5 of potash and 9.5 of nitrogen. With oats a ton of 2,000 pounds would emove, in the grain, 11.9 pounds of hosphoric acid, 9.8 of potash and 39 f nitrogen, the straw removing 1.2 unds of phosphoric acid, 27 of potash nd 7.6 of nitrogen. Wheat thus cares off the more phosphoric acid and more nitrogen, while oats carries off nore potash.

To Prevent Attacks of Insects. All fruit trees should be sprayed without regard to whether they have een attacked by insects or disease or attacks than to remedy an evil after it appears. It costs more to repair damige than to ward off danger. In some States; such as California, spraying of trees and vines is enforced by law. If the grower neglects his duty he is considered as one maintaining a public uisance, and some official is ordered to spray the orchard and add the cost to the tax bill of the negligent grower. Spreading Manure. Manure on the farm is seldom an abundant article, and it is frequently over the poorest spots of the field more liberally than on the portions that are fertile. By so doing the farmer can utilize his manure to the best advantage and in a few years have his land

Rinse with clean cold water and place them where dust cannot reach them. Borax may be used freely in all water used for milk cans with advantage.

Give the Calf the First Milk, Because it is easier to milk while the cow's bag is full and a full stream will flow, and also because the saliva in the calf's mouth, full of saliva and milk this year will be worth $2,000,000. makes milking unpleasant for the milker, it is the habit of many farmers to milk what they want for the house and let the calf take what is left. It is very generous to the calf for such farmers to do this. But we can tell them it is a may prove expensive. mistaken generosity, for the first milk, having much less fat than strippings, that there are worse enemies to fruit is better either to make the calf grow than the San Jose scale.

The Happiest Farmer in America. A little farm well tilled, A little barn well filled, A little wife, a boy, a girl, The happiest trio in the world. We've plenty to eat and plenty to wear, And a little money to go to the fair; We have no mortgage, we have no deb Over which to wriggle, foam and sweat, We have a plenty and some to spare, We give to the needy whoever they are. I am contented, I'm nobody's slave. For more than this I do not crave: I am contented-a boon to save. 've all there is-this side the grave. -C. J. Elen.

Pulverizing the Soil. The mechanical condition of the soft has much to do with the acquiring of plant food by crops. The roots may have difficulty in deriving nutriment from a clod, but if the clod is powdered the roots can at once utilize all the substances contained therein. It also re quires more moisture to dissolve clods than can be spared, especially in summer. By working the soil fine not only is the ground more capable of holding moisture, but the feeding capacity of the roots is greatly increased.

Profit in ! mall Fruits. Small fruits can be produced with but little labor every year after the vines are well established. Raspberry and blackberry canes will require the most work in late fall and in cutting out old wood in winter, and will bear crops for years. A strawberry bed. family.

The striped bug which destroys cucumber vines may be destroyed by placing a tight box over the vines (such as a cheese box), and pouring a teaspoonful of bisulphide of carbon on the ground. Allow the box to remain over the vines half an hour. The substance is very volatile, hence fire must be spread over the land injudiciously. It avoided in its use. Tobacco dust around the vines is also excellent.

Diseased Fruit Trees. There should be no hesitancy on the part of the farmer in cutting down a tree that is blighted, as the sooner it is done the less the liability of disease appearing in other trees in the orchard. To allow a tree to remain in order to save it by the application of some remedy is to incur a risk. Every portion of a diseased tree should be consigned to the flames.

Best Butter. Gilt-edge butter is not due wholly to the excellence of the cow, but also to the intelligence and management of the farmer who attends to the stock and looks after all the details necessary in order to produce a superior article, and thus get the highest prices. Farm Notes. Peach pits for planting should not be taken from the grafted trees. A good garden helps the wife to get a satisfactory meal for tired men. Perhaps the contrary animal thinks you are an unreasonable creature.

To be a good four-in-hand driver, or whip, one must either take a course of whip, one must either take a course of instruction under some good master or learn through the hard school of experience. A number of our best whips are pupils of the celebrated Howlett, of Paris, who is an authority on coaching.
