BIG FIRE IN CHINATOWN.

Employes in British Columbia Befuddled by Opium. MET DEATH IN SHACKS

Drugged Mongolians Rushed Blindly into the Flames at Chematur Mills.

Vancouver, B. C., Feb. 2.—Chinatown at the big Chematur lumber mills, near Nanaimo, the coal center of the province, have been almost completely destroyed by fire and a number of Chinese burned to death.

After work the Mongolians built a huge fire in the center of the Chinese quarter and proceeded to smoke opium. The houses were destroyed and the flames catching the flimsy cabins of the settlement gained headway before the opium-drugged Chinese realized their predicament.

They rushed blindly into the flames, secured the sidewalk and were witnessed by the white settlers who went to the rescue. It was then ascertained that at least two Chinese burned to death. A number of others were badly burned, and it is reported that several others are missing.

DETROIT FACTORY FIRE.

A Piano and Pipe Organ Factory is Burned. Detroit, Mich., Feb. 2.—The Clough & Warren company's piano and organ factory at Congress street west and sixth street, was partly destroyed by fire today.

The principal loss is in the center portion of the plant which is a store and a factory. The loss is estimated at $200,000. The factory which faces Sixth street and is a fire wall, were unimpaired, except by the fire which some contents are damaged by water.

The foreman of the factory says that the fire originated in a boiler in the basement containing sawdust and shavings from the wood-turning machines. There was no water in the boiler and no oil and it is supposed to have been a spontaneous combustion. There was something of a panic among the workmen, but all escaped without serious injury except Robert Ferguson, a finisher, who fell from the fourth floor and was injured.

COLUMBUS IS SCORCHED.

The Capital of Ohio the Scene of a Serious Fire. Columbus, O., Feb. 2.—The most serious fire in the city since the million-dollar Clifton hotel fire, broke out in the city today. A block of fine buildings in the heart of the business portion of the city were destroyed. The character of the businesses varied from dry goods to a gas company office building. The total loss will be about $200,000.

LOUISVILLE THEATER BURNS.

The Buckingham Destroyed in Earl Morning Hours. Louisville, Ky., Feb. 2.—The Buckingham theater, located on Jefferson street, between Second and Third, was destroyed by fire today. The fire was caused by a live wire in the scene room, and although a general alarm was given, the fire was not extinguished until the entire place was soot gutted. The loss is placed at $300,000, partly covered by insurance. Fred Rieder, Night Owl manager, which was playing at the theater this week, suffered a loss of $10,000.

YOUTHFUL TRAIN WRECKERS.

Five San Francisco Boys Arrested on a Serious Charge. San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 2.—Five boys, the oldest 16, have been arrested by Special Officer Thomas Madden of the Southern division of the police department for wrecking a train. All live with their parents and claim to be employed in the city. They were arrested on the tracks between the Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh streets, where they were near the tracks when the train was wrecked.

FATHER AND CHILD BURN.

Midnight Fire in a Dwelling Results in a Sad Tragedy. Sears, Mich., Feb. 2.—Fire last night in a house on the corner of Lewis and Second streets, seven miles north of here, after rescuing his wife and four children from the burning house. The fire broke out in the living room and spread to the bedrooms. The father was overcome and both perished in the flames.

RHYLAND STILL AGRIED.

Passengers Being Taken to Tugs and Tugged Ashore. Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 2.—The steamer Rhyland is still held aground on Cotton Patch shoals in the Delaware river. The passengers are being transferred to tugs, and will be taken to Lewisburg, Pa., where they are being held in a special train this afternoon.

To Operate a Lead Mine.

Blue Mountain, Wis., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Little or nothing has been done in the mining of lead in this county this winter, but it now seems that in the near future there will be considerable prospecting done in order to locate the place where lead ore is supposed to be found in large quantities. A large number of prospectors have now fallen into the hands of parties who are determined to push the work as soon as the spring thaw leaves the ground.

Non-Union Printer's Damages.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 2.—Fred Hess, Jr., who sued the San Francisco Typographical union to recover $25,000 damages for having been forced out of employment by the union, he being a non-union man, has been awarded $12,000 by a jury in the superior court.

Tax on Marriages.

Under the above caption an item in our last issue stated that at a session of the Lutheran synod conference, which was held in Wauwatosa on Jan. 23d, all who were present agreed that it was not right for the government to tax marriage certificates.

A minister of that denomination now informs us that the real question discussed on that line was "Are the marriage certificates, which are generally issued by our pastors, good before the courts? If they are, they should be stamped; if not, they need not be stamped."

Any misrepresentation which the previous item contained is due to having gleaned our information from a report published in one of the Cream City dailies.

Times Have Changed.

"No such times as there used to be," sighed the gray haired but vigorous traveling man who was enjoying himself with the usual Saturday night crowd.

"There was a time when they were booming those western towns that I saved about all my expense money, and that was a mighty big item in flush times."

"Give us your recipe, old man."

"It's of no use now. They're humping along on rock bottom out in that country. But then money was no object. When approaching a boom town, I'd discover some resident of the place aboard the train and casually let drop to him that I was looking for a good real estate investment. The result was it was worth from $50 to $100 a drop. I'd start innocently for a hack, knowing as well as I lived I'd never reach it. Some speculator would seize me by the arm, introduce himself, put me in his private carriage, whirl me to the best hotel, get me the best room, make a date to drive me over the place and solemnly inform me that the town was mine."

"Live high? Higher than a wild price? They would take no money at the bar, the hotel clerk never had a bill against me and I couldn't spend a cent. It was one constant round, as the boys say. You know my line then. I sold to one man in a place and only called on him once a year. He always had me in kept room and shared in the good things. I made a pile of money, for expense bills ran high those days, but I guess it is just as well for me that the bottom dropped out. A man's stomach won't stand everything."—Detroit Free Press.

Could Stand It No Longer.

Mrs. Firmly was working savagely away with the hash knife when her next door neighbor called.

"What in the world is that?" asked the visitor.

"That," with more vicious jabbing than before, "is what is left of Firmly's camera. I'm destroying the last vestige of it. I have pulverized the lenses, burned the frames and am now chopping the rest of the infernal machine into shreds. I'll show him. That thing has cost us a young fortune. He has bought every attachment and improvement that has been placed on the market. They filled a saratoga trunk and there were plates enough to roof a greenhouse."

"I might have become reconciled, but he never took a picture that you could recognize, and yet he was always at it. Three of the children went down with the crop because he would have us on the front porch to be photographed. The negatives looked as though some one had swiped the glass with a whitewash brush loaded with lampblack. He had us out in blizzards, rainstorms and the hottest weather just to experiment. Every shot was a dismal failure, but he always had excuses and was just going to produce something that would be a work of art. He'd invite friends by the score to have their pictures taken, and two-thirds of them are mad because nothing ever came of it. I've argued and pleaded and wept, but he has kept buying and making failures."

"But won't he be very angry?"

"He can't get half as mad as I am," with an awful stab, "if he can ever find hide or hair of this camera when I'm through with it, he's welcome. If he buys another, I'll get a divorce."—Detroit Free Press.

Pay of Old Time Architects.

As near as we can discover the architect of "yo olden time" did not receive for his services a very exorbitant sum. Recently some members of the French school at Delphi unearthed several slabs of marble which bear inscriptions of great interest, dating as they do from the fourth century before Christ. The inscriptions, which cover about 200 lines, give the price of work for building operations in Greece at the period named, and from them we learn that an architect was paid at the rate of $150 per annum or less. This was little enough surely, even if its purchasing power is multiplied, as it should be, five or six times. Sir Christopher Wren received for his services the magnificent sum of $1,000 per year for more than 20 years while rebuilding London. His head draftsman received about $300 per year, while assistants received from $80 to $125 per year. French and German architects were not even so well paid at the same period. Bad as this was, it was better than the remuneration many of the older architects received, for in the far east if an artist made a noble design and erected a building worthy of admiration his chances of being "suddenly removed" by order of the king were many. This step was taken in order to prevent a rival king from obtaining the services of an architect, and it was able to so improve his plans that a finer and nobler building would be executed.—Architecture and Building.

The Elusive Jack Rabbit.

The jack rabbit is a prairie institution that gives the settler's dogs plenty of exercise. When the settler sees a jack rabbit for the first time—starts him up suddenly on the prairie—he imagines that by a quick movement he can lay his hands on him. The rabbit is awkward, appears to be lame in every joint, holds up one foot as though it pained him and altogether creates the belief that he is a dilapidated wreck of an ungraciously animate thing. The settler is surprised that he cannot grab him. The settler's dog also is confident that he can quickly make an end of the rabbit. He bristles, runs leisurely toward the rabbit, doubles his speed, doubles it again, triples it, quadruples it, and the whole time, lo, the rabbit disappears. There is some flying grass, a vanishing streak of light, a twinkling of two prodded feet extended rearward, and he is gone. The dog sits on his haunches and concludes that it was a dream and that he did not see a rabbit at all.—Christian Work.

Acquitted.

"I am innocent," he protested. The mob was sweeping the guards aside.

"I am innocent."

A blow of the sledge, and the grilled door of the cell gave way.

"I am innocent," he shrieked, the rope about his neck; "before heaven, innocent!"

Ah, at last they hear him! The man concludes that it was a dream and that he did not see a rabbit at all.—Christian Work.

Passion had shrouded up and vanished at the touch of logic.—Detroit Journal.

—A robe which Alfred Miritz has had made of twelve coon-skins is being exhibited at Arey Perschbacher's place. As the furs are well matched in color they make such a fine robe that Alfred values it at $40, and he has already received a letter of inquiry from a Fond du Lac doctor who contemplates buying it.

—A china wedding was held by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schmidt of the Eagle hotel, on the occasion of the 20th anniversary of their marriage, last Saturday evening. A party of about twenty friends surprised the couple, with the result stated, and a general good time was had by all.

—The 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nordhaue, who underwent a surgical operation for appendicitis two weeks ago, died last Tuesday evening at 8:30. The operation had been successful and the patient was getting along well until blood poisoning set in. The funeral takes place today at 10:00 a. m., from the Lutheran church here.

—From a letter received by relatives here, we learn that David Rosenheimer and wife found a few days' stay at the national capital city to be the most interesting and instructive portion of their wedding trip, up to Jan. 29th, thanks to courtesies extended to them by Congressman Barney. The latter was kept indoors owing to a sore throat, but he introduced the young couple to Congressman Jenkins, who showed them the navy and military building, introduced them to the secretary of the navy and the secretary of war, took them to President McKinley's room in the White house, showed them the sword which the government presented Admiral Dewey on the victory at Manila, models of all our naval vessels, oil paintings of all the secretaries of war, navy and presidents; visited the parlors of the White house and showed them where some of our deceased presidents have lain in state. The couple also viewed the house of representatives in session and visited the public library building, which is said to be the finest in the United States and was planned by the greatest architect in the world, Mr. Smithmeyer, who is a native of Wien, Austria, and to whom the couple were introduced.

—After receiving letters of introduction from Congressman Barney to consuls in Germany, the couple left Washington last Sunday night for New York to spend Monday there and then embark for Europe.

He is the Fault of It All. Home, the place of birth, rest, recuperation and training, often is not the place of joy and pleasure that it should be. Sometimes the mother is burdened with a heap of cares and troubles that wear away the smiling countenance of her teens, and every effort she makes to be pleasant seems in vain. Poverty, large family and inefficient households are the opposing forces which she cannot overcome.

Flynn fared as well as Mr. Bannon.

—The birthday party, which was given by members of the Epworth league in the Good Templar hall, was well attended. The evening was spent playing indoor games, and the ladies served refreshments. The event netted $32, which will go toward paying the debt on the M. E. parsonage. —John Dieringer, who was reported seriously ill last week, died Tuesday at 4 a. m. The deceased was an orphan, his parents having preceded him in death several years ago. He came here from Nebraska to spend the winter with relatives. The funeral services were held in the St. Matthew church, with Rev. Dieringer of St. Francis (cousin of deceased) officiating. The remains were taken to Nebraska for burial.

—Having sold and erected 28 wind-mills during the past year—some geared mills and some pumps of different makes, but most of them Aermotors—I find that everybody is "stuck on" the roller bearing Aermotor, because it runs so easily. Consequently I have finally concluded to sell only the best made—the roller-bearing steel-wheel Aermotor—which I will put upon your barn, with grinder, complete and ready to do any kind of work in an ordinary wind, for $95. The handlers thereof do not go around to the farmers, like the Monitor fellow (Mr. Brown of Berlin) did with my man, and sell a wooden wheel and grinding mill (to Wm. Gidle) for $177 that cost me $92 on 30 days' time. I did not want any of that kind of work to go on any longer; then they gave me $20 out of the sale and put it up themselves. N. C. MICHEALS.
