MR. DAGGETT'S FOOLISH BEHAVIOR.

Some queer men get into the legislature, and they seem to think that they will have no other chance to make their names famous. A great share of the bills introduced come from that reason alone. "Farmer" Duggett of Outagamie county appears to have outstripped all the rest of the members this winter in legislative folly with his joint resolution instructing a committee to prepare a bill to protect matrons, misses and old maids from the evils of tight-lacing. Mr. Dagggett has really made his name famous, though perhaps not in the way he intended. He wanted to pose as a reformer of fashions and habits, but he has been made the butt of ridicule all over the country, and he wishes that he had never been young. His fellow members and the newspaper men have made so much fun of him and his resolution that he has belatedly for mercy and promised never to offend again, but Anti-Corset Dagggett will be his name for the rest of his life.

There has been much speculation as to Mr. Dagggett's individual status, since he made his appearance as a social reformer. In Madison it was generally understood that he was a single man and that his knowledge of the evils of tight lacing was (to put the mildest construction on it) only theoretical, but that is a mistake. Mr. Dagggett has a wife and a young lady daughter. One would naturally suppose such being the case, that he had regulated his own family in the corset line before trying to reform the women of the whole state, but the truth appears to be that he has been unable to do so. Mrs. Dagggett appears to be a woman who knows her own mind, and she confesses to wearing corsets herself, and to abet her daughter in so doing. To give Mr. Dagggett full credit it must be admitted that he has protested against the practice, but his protests have been in vain. The man who cannot pass a pet bill through his own family ought not to attempt the greater contract of getting it through the legislature.

Mr. Dagggett's females plead that they do not lace, and that they wear their corsets loosely, but that is a manifest dodging of the question. The most fashionable women in the fashionable world make the same excuse. Who ever heard of a woman who would admit that her form was unduly compressed in that way? Nobody. The dear creatures all insist that they could easily make their waists much smaller than they are. It is a natural defense to a pernicious habit.

Theoretically Mr. Dagggett is all right. Practically he hasn't a leg to stand on. Women cannot be driven to resist the decrees of fashion. They would bid defiance to the most stringent legislation on the subject of attire and personal adornment or personal disfigurement if it were only fashionable. They know that they would be healthier and consequently more beautiful if it were not for the restrictive corset, but that makes no difference. If Mr. Dagggett's pet idea were to become a law the women of the state would rise in rebellion against it, and they would be supported therein by the majority of the male population. Let the legislature once begin to regulate the attire of the people and nobody knows where it would stop. Many men have habits which are equally foolish, and the legislating influence might be extended to include them. Tight boots would appear to be an evil to some other wise legislator. Another would see in high collars a menace to the public health. From clothes the law might extend to other things, and little by little the people would be hampered down by laws on every side until not the least personal liberty would remain.

The human family is all right as it is, Mr. Dagggett. The people are their own judges as to what they shall wear, eat and drink. The old Blue Laws of Connecticut sought to regulate everything in the lives of the people, but they are obsolete. Mr. Dagggett should subside. He is not the stuff from which great reformers are made. The corset is beyond his reach, and it is well that it is so. Sit down, Mr. Dagggett.

ST. MATTHIAS SIFTINGS.

P. Pesch of Newburg spent kirmes with relatives here. A wood-chopping bee was held at S. Ketter's place Tuesday. Herman Volz and family from Boltoville spent kirmes at the residence of his mother. Philip Fellenz of Herbert is sojourning with relatives and friends at his former home here. Miss Margaret Gotsacker of the Cream City is spending a few weeks' vacation at home here. Miss Mary Kaas returned home here Monday after an extended visit with relatives at Barton.

St. Mathias day was duly celebrated at the Catholic church here on Feb. 24th, with Rev. Ph. Vogt of Kewaskum officiating. A number of friends accepted the invitation of Miss Katie and P. Brodzeller last Sunday, despite the inclemency of the weather, and enjoyed the party immensely.

Joseph Goss returned to Madison last Monday, after spending Sunday at home. The Misses Klotz entertained a number of friends at their home last Sunday evening.

John Wenzel, Sr., and Stella Klotz went to Oshkosh last Saturday and returned Monday.

Miss Catherine Fellenz returned to Dundee last Sunday, after spending a couple of days at home. Rosalia Remmel of Kewaskum attended the teachers' institute here and was a guest of the Misses Goss.

Miss Flora Kohler accompanied Mrs. Chas. Broughton to Fond du Lac and spent Saturday and Sunday there.

The Old Bachelor's club is no more. It seems the members have decided to follow the example of their last year's president.

Chas. Broughton and wife were here from Fond du Lac visiting Mr. and Mrs. Kohler last Saturday and the day previous.

John Mager of Milwaukee and Maria Rengermann of Waucousta were married by Justice Jacob Arimond here last Saturday.

A number of friends gathered at the O'Brien home Tuesday evening and held a party. Games were played and a general good time was had.

Mrs. John Schmidt left for Fond du Lac last Saturday, where she will visit her mother for a few weeks previous to going to her future home at Madison, S. D.

L. C. Kohler, our shoe dealer, is closing out the remainder of his winter stock of footwear at cost prices. Don't fail to get some of these bargains.

E. B. Rook, the night operator at this station, went to Ives this week with a view of accepting the position of day operator there, but he concluded to return to his job here. Walter Gillett of Fond du Lac attended to the night work at the depot during Mr. Rook's absence.

Monday last upon returning home from hunting Henry Wagner left his gun loaded and within reach of the children at his place north-west of here. As a result Willy, his 11-year-old son, accidentally shot and instantly killed his 3-year-old sister. The entire charge of the gun struck her in the face, mangling it beyond recognition and tearing away part of the head.

A teachers' meeting was held here last Saturday. Twenty-four teachers from the southeastern part of the county were present and all showed interest in the topics discussed. Supt. Keats conducted the meeting. The following topics were discussed: School management and school discipline, Graduation from Common Schools, Relations of Parents and Teacher, Uniformity of Text Books, Necessary School Apparatus, School-room Decoration, Classification of Common Schools, Punishments, and others too numerous to mention. The next meeting will probably be held in April, and teachers have been requested to prepare papers on certain subjects for it.

Conrad Brinkmann, whose death was reported in last week's issue of this paper, was born in Hanover, Germany, on Feb. 11, 1822. He was married to Wilhelmine Meier in his native country, came to America in 1851, and after residing at Milwaukee for 8 years, came to Kohlville, where he resided until his death. Mr. Brinkmann was an industrious intelligent man, whose demise is mourned by a wife and 4 children—Conrad and August of this place, John of Allenton, and Mrs. Lorenz Klier of St. Lawrence. His remains were interred in the St. John cemetery, with Rev. Frank officiating. May he rest in peace.

THERE will no doubt be popular opposition to the bill in the legislature providing for taking away from the people the right to elect superintendents of schools. The matter of school supervision and the licensing of teachers ought to be safe as close to the people as possible. There is a constant movement going on to centralize all official power, and the people should oppose it in every instance.

Bowen, Koepka & Milka have been sawing wood the past week for Brown & McDougall.

Mrs. W. Romaine of New Prospect is staying with her mother, Mrs. Hennings, during the latter's sickness.

Dr. J. J. O'Neil is the busiest man in town. From all accounts he is on the go from morning until night, attending to his patients.

Little Mammie Bowen celebrated the anniversary of her birth last Saturday and was presented with a number of gifts by her friends.

Mrs. Hennings is reported as being no better. Her daughter, Mrs. J. Fort, also her grand-daughter, Mrs. Roscoe, of South Dakota have come to see her.

A Compositor's Trials. "Speaking of handwriting," said an old newspaper man, "the worst in the profession since the Greeley myth was that of Col. J. F. Barton. Mrs. Furlong is sick with la grippe. Mrs. O. Cummings has just recovered from an attack of la grippe. Miss Maggie Arimond spent a few days of last week at E. J. Arimond's. Farmers are making good use of the sleighing by hauling wood to market. "There used to be a funny story about him current among printers, and I'll tell for what it's worth: One night a tramp printer drifted into a western office where the colonel was in charge and applied for a job. The foreman put him to work, and he pegged along all right until just before the hour of going to press, when Barton sent in a rush editorial based on a late news telegram. The new man got a piece from about the middle of the copy. He looked at it frowningly, turned it upside down a couple of times and finally began setting type. 'Read that in your sticks!' yelled the foreman, and when the new man carried his matter to the foreman it was put into the forms in a jiffy. What he set up ran about like this: "The miscreant who wrote the copy before me is responsible for my fate. No human being can read it. He cannot read it himself. Tonight I shall jump a freight and probably fall off and be killed. My blood be on his head!" "This remarkable paragraph, appearing without rhyme or reason in the middle of Barton's brilliant editorial, astonished readers of the paper the next morning. When the colonel recovered himself sufficiently he got a club and rushed down to the office, but the tramp printer had cashed his string and vanished.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Stop Coughing

Every cough makes your throat more raw and irritable. Every cough congests the lining membrane of your lungs. Cease tearing your throat and lungs in this way. Put the parts at rest and give them a chance to heal. You will need some help to do this, and you will find it in

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

From the first dose the quiet rest begin; the tickling in the throat ceases; the spasm weakens; the cough disappears. Do not wait for pneumonia, and stop coughing at once. Your cough will stop without delay.

Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral should be over the lungs of every person troubled with a cough.

Write to the Doctor.

Usual opportunities and long experience eminently qualify us to give you the best remedy for your cough. Tell us what your symptoms are, and we will send you a free trial bottle without cost.

Address, Dr. J. C. Ayer, Lowell, Mass.

CHRISTENED FOR DEWEY.

The Admiral Pans on the Size of His Hat.

A friend of Dewey's recently joined the admiral at Manila, and in the course of conversation made laughing allusion to the many articles named for him since May 1. He writes that his recital pleased Dewey and his bright eyes twinkled as he replied: "I did not imagine that little target practice before breakfast on the 1st of May would bring a new adjective into the language, but look here, I have a Dewey watch—and it's a number one watch, too—with a case made from the Maine." Then he continued: "One of the manufacturers who had named a hat after me wished to send me one, and write me asking what size I now wore." "And your reply?" "Oh, I told him the same size that I wore before May 1."

It is not often the privilege of mortals to pass informal conversation with a live hero and go away carrying back to your private life the ideal that you cherish. Dewey is the typical, genial, natural American. He is a nervous, quick-witted man, who eschews public life and who is a "private" man in the truest sense of the word. He is a natural and overthrown his inferiors in rank and importance. One goes out of his presence with the feeling of having been in the presence of a man, the idol of 70,000,000 of people, without having been made to feel the insignificance of being in the presence of such a man. He is an American of the Americans—not a demigod for the masses, but a man who has the heart of his garments.—Washington Post.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Senate.

Senators Kreutzer and Bissell were the only absentees at the session of the senate on the 24th. Several petitions in favor of the 2-cent postage stamp were referred to a committee on education reported for passage the bill providing for an inspection of schools for the deaf and Senator Lamoreux's bill allowing towns and villages to form joint high schools. The committee on territorial jurisdiction reported on the school tax vote and on the bill providing for the election of a high school from the country are obliged to pay. Mr. Harvey's bill relating to the administration of the courts was also reported. The following Assembly bills were introduced: A bill to amend the act in relation to the conveyance of a widow or heirs of a deceased person, and a bill to amend the act in relation to the conveyance of a widow or heirs of a deceased person. The bill to amend the act in relation to the conveyance of a widow or heirs of a deceased person was introduced by Mr. Harvey. #### Romantic Marriage.

Facts are sometimes more interesting than a stranger than fiction. A modern Boston marriage recently resulted from a combination of romantic circumstances that make the ordinary society novel dull, stale and unprofitable.

It is not often a real romance is attached to the modern marriage, but there can be such a remarkable combination, for it has occurred in all places of the world—in this very town. Less than a year ago a swell young bachelor, breakfasting at his club, began reading his morning mail which brought considerably brought in with his first course. Among various invitations was one for a dinner party at a fashionable restaurant. The hostess's name was utterly unknown to the recipient. ### New England's Fish Trade.

The exportations of fish from Boston have been steadily gaining during the past few years. Thus for the financial year of 1904 it was $3,500,000. In 1905 it was $4,500,000, in 1906 it was $5,000,000 and in 1907 $5,500,000, the total in 1908 exceeding $6,000,000. On the Pacific coast the salmon export trade has grown greatly in importance. The Boston Globe points out that the acquisition of Porto Rico and the temporary protectorate over Cuba, carrying with them a great reduction in custom charges, assures to the fishing industries of this country new markets and greater opportunities than ever before. Massachusetts will not discard the sacred codfish as an emblem just yet.

Nerves Destroyed by Catarrh.

Nerves Restored by Pe-ru-na.

MR. ROBERT B. MANTELL, THE GREAT ROMANTIC ACTOR.

Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio: "Dear Sir—The bottle of Pe-ru-na at hand. It is splendid and most invigorating; refreshing to the nerves and brain. It is the best of the best. I have ever used. It makes me feel like a new man. Yours sincerely, R. B. Mantell."

through the nerves, invigorating the mucous circulation. Mrs. C. C. Filler, of 134 1/2 South Fourth street, Columbus, O., writes: "For ten or fifteen years I have been afflicted with nervous debility. I was suffering from a chronic catarrh of the bladder, which had destroyed my nerves. I was unable to do any work, and my health was in a most deplorable condition. I had consulted several physicians, but they were unable to do me any good. I had given up all hope, when I was advised to try Pe-ru-na. I bought a bottle and used it according to the directions. In a few days I began to feel better, and in a few weeks I was able to do my work. I am now in perfect health, and I am able to do any work. I am very grateful to you for having discovered this wonderful medicine. It has saved my life. I will be glad to recommend it to all who are afflicted with nervous debility. Yours truly, C. C. Filler."

Dr. Hartman's latest book, entitled "Winning Back the Nerves," is a most valuable work. It is a complete treatise on the treatment of nervous debility, and is a most valuable work. ### She Kept Her Secret.

A day or two later Anne went up to the mountains to convey letters to her mother. She also protested against one of the protestations of his friends, and followed, returned to Dublin with her mother. She kept her secret.

Thackeray's Philosophy of Life.

The concrete illustration of ideas in character is what interests Thackeray and what he interests us with. But in his mind, that faculty which never ceases to be active, and which is the source of his interest in life, is what he is interested in. He is interested in life, and he is interested in life.
