GREAT HACIENDAS OF MEXICO from the long campaign.

These Comprise All the Requisites of a Small Town.

The house of a great bacienda is imposing in appearance, on account, usual ly, of its size rather than of its architectural proportions. It is generally built around a large court, and, whether of one or two stories, conveys the impression of having been erected solely with a view to durability and spaciousness.

The construction is invariably of stone or sun-baked bricks, plastered and paintmusketry. This structure contains the offices, apartments for the owner, for the two or three principal employes and their families, and for the servants, store-rooms, stables for saddle and for carriage horses, carriage space, and an inlefinite number of spare rooms, according to circumstances.

Conveniently situated in relation to the main building are the habitations of employes, the huts of the peons, sometimes the posada or inn, for the accommoda tion of travelers, the church (which usually is a pretentious structure), the store, where every commodity of peasant life is for sale, the vast stables for horses, mules and oxen, storehouses for the prod-uce of the hacienda, and others for agricultural implements, the wheelwright, blacksmith, and carpenter plants, the saddler's and cobbler's shops, the loom, the bakery—in sum, all the attributes of village, which a hacienda of this class is, practically, having a population of from 500 to 1500 inhabitants.—Prince A. de Iturbide in North American Review.

Cables War Department About Situa-Washington, D. C., May 11.—Gen. Dis has cabled the war department con-erning the situation in the Philippines.

Manila, May 11.—6:45 p. m.—Mr. Higgins, manager of the Manila-Daguapan railway, and two of his assistants who had remained inside the insurgent lines to protect the property of the railway company, arrived at San Fernando on yesterday. They had been informed by the insurgents that they would be no longer responsible for their safety if they remained longer within their lines. Mr. Higgins corroborates the stories that have been told of the demoralization of the Filipinos, and says that the rebels are looting all the natives' property. Mr. Higgins adds that now is the time for the Americans to strike hard.

Differences Between Partners Leads to Appointment of a Receiver.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 11.—The coming sale of the Evening News, the most influential afternoon paper in the state is attracting considerable attention, and it is understood that several syndicates have been organized with the intention of buying it. The partners, W. J. Richards, Delavan Smith and Charles Williams, have differed regarding the policy of the paper, and Richards demanded a dissolution of the partnership. This was refused, and suit was entered by Richards to enforce the contract of copartnership, and to expedite matters a receiver was appointed.

The Supreme court has decided that Richards is entitled to a sale of the paper, and the receiver will give notice and sell the property at public auction. Richards and Smith will both bid for it and others will do the same. It is not believed that the purchaser will get it under $500,000, and at may go $100,000 higher.

If Richards is not the successful bid der he will start a new afternoon paper.

THE GARDENING HABIT In the spring the rural fancy

Lightly turns to gardening, And the tyro at the business Thinks that it is just the thing. Spade and hoe and rake he's buying,

Then the yard of small dimension He is ripping up the back. Old tin-cans and glass and brickbats

Plot of ground he means to use

He unearths while he is spading

Every morn and eve he's toiling Till at last the digging's done And in seeds he's then investing For the garden just begun.

There's a little bed of lettuce In another peas he'll chuck: There are beds for beans and onions Beets and other garden truck. Then when all the seeds are planted He stands back and points with pride

To the garden that all summer Will for table well provide. But the trouble's just commen

For this tiller of the soil, Who so proudly calculated On the products of his toil: For the neighbor's hungry chickens

Play the dickens with the seeds, And the beds so nicely plotted Soon display a crop of weeds. There's another week of toiling

In attempts to make it pay, Then the man who dug the garden Gives the hens and weeds full sway. And when friends are asking questions, And expressing their surprise,

He declares he did the digging Just to get some exercise. -Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph eligible to membership. The convention decided that in the future the members of the union shall sell only to regular game dealers, and then only at current market prices. The dealers will be required to contribute a certain amount of money each year to the union's treasury. The principal object of the union is to support the families of such poachers as may be arrested and sent to prison. A cast-iron resolution forbids all members from killing game in the closed seasons, the argument being that the game laws must be enforced. The Netherlands code provides a fine of 100 florins and a term of imprisonment for killing game out of season.

The dealers will be required to contribute a certain amount of the sicted soil. Sprinkle with water, but very gently, so as not to wash the seeds out, and cover the box with a piece of glass and set it where it will be warm. Treated in this way the seeds will quickly germinate. Keep them moist, but not wet, and when the plants have attained the third or fourth leaf transplant them, placing them slightly deeper in the soil than they were before.

When they begin to grow give a little manure water once a week, and, as they need it, transfer to larger pots or the window-boxes where they are to remain.

Kipling's Present.

Rudyard Kipling recently received from a little 5-year-old girl, an ardent admirer of "Roses Red and Roses White," a tray on which she had painted White," a tray on which she had painted some blue roses. The gift was thus acknowledged: "My Dear Miss Hunt: Your nice little present of 'Blue Roses' has come to me, and I write at once to thank you for it. I am going to use it for a pen tray, as I have not got one, and it will live between a Burmese idol, who gift on my penyiner and a little who sits on my penwiper, and a little who sits of my penwiper, and a free figure of an Arab, who nods his head when he isn't doing duty as a paper-weight. I am glad you find it so easy to get at blue roses. They are the kind of flower that grows scarcer as one grows older, but forget-me-nots are always in fashion. With ever so many thanks, be-lleve me, my dear Miss Hunt, yours sin-cerely, Rudyard Kipling."

> Berry Culture. Every farmer should raise enough berries to supply the family all the year. September is the month to plant them, and when this is properly done a good > crop can be grown the first year. A northern slope that will drain well is best. A great many make the mistake of getting the soil too rich for strawberries, and get a big crop of vines with very little fruit. Land that will grow a good crop of corn is just right, and when properly planted and cultivated will always produce plenty of fine berries. The soil should be cleared of all weeds and rubbish, well pulverized with disk or cultivator and harrow, and then plowed deep and thoroughly pulverized after plowing. Mark rows three feet apart and set the plants in deep, putting a half pint of water with each plant and packing the dirt firmly around the roots. Late in the fall they should be mulched with clean straw, marsh hay or corn stalks. Cleaning the Cellar. The first house cleaning in spring should be done in the cellar, removing whatever is left of the vegetables and fruits put up for winter use, and after clearing away mould from the walls giving them a coat of fresh whitewash, into which a weak solution of carbolic acid has been put in making it. This will destroy latent germs, which more often originate in the cellar than anywhere else. After the cellar is cleaned and whitewashed place a few lumps seem to be somewhat moist. File Cutting and Glass Polishing

Cause Inevitable Disease.

File cutting and glass polishing are the Cause Inevitable Disease.

File cutting and glass polishing are the two trades in which the operatives are constantly subjected to the slow and stealthy growth of industrial disease. The danger in their case is even more alarming than in those which have been previously dealt with, as the power which daily menaces them is that most pernicious and treacherous evil, lead poisoning, says the Fortnightly Review. In the case of file cutters the mischief is contained in the bed upon which the file is placed for cutting. This is composed of metallic lead, for although other substances have been tried, it is declared that none of them give the desired amount of resistance without resilence obtained by a lead bed. My committee has recently reported in great detail on the hazardous nature of the file-cutter's industry. It is sufficient here to state

The Perpetual Pompadour. The French hairdressers have had no really successful ideas for the coiffure since they reintroduced the pompadour, which bids fair to hold its own safely through a couple more seasons. In Paris and in New York recently women in the exprise, have worn their lofty, popular. vening have worn their lofty pompa ours frosted quite white in front with a ice powder that is slightly perfumed nd a towering bow of black velvet rib-on perches high on the crown. This is a type of head-dressing that shows off a type of head-dressing that shows off a fresh, rosy skin to the greatest advantage, and women are almost ignoring their once-cherished jeweled combs.

Occasionally three combs, with bediamonded edges and very short teeth, are thrust in at the back of the pompadour and show a glittering line across the head, but other than this very few new devices for the use of combs have been has recently reported in great detail on the hazardous nature of the file-cutter's industry. It is sufficient here to state that the risks inseparable from his occupation are greatly augmented by the evil conditions under which the trade is conducted. Cleanliness, ventilation, sanitary conditions, and legitimate hours of labor with all that is entailed and understood by these simple-sounding remedies, would revolutionize the health statistics of the file trade, but the difficulty is to obtain these conditions. The rooted customs of this industry are such as in many cases to baffle and defy the administrators of the law.

Glass polishing is dangerous in that the powder with which the edges of cutglass are treated contains 60 to 70 per cent. of oxide of lead. Here, again, the same remedies are demanded, and fortunately they are not so difficult of attainment. In both these cases the poison pursues its victims with a malice as relentless as it is appalling, which kills or maims as surely as does any explosion or accident by violence.

Who adhered tenaciously to his friends through good and evil report, and the man whose friendships were such that through evil report of personal dishonor never dared assail them; the man of little taste for letters, and the man of courtly manners; the man of few words and the man whose dearning; the man of few words and the man whose were deemed himself sitting in an elevated pulpit with a mighty sounding-board, with a whole widespread people for a congregation—how could they understand each other?
