chicago, Ill., July 6.—By a great display of coolness and expert precision firemen today prevented a panic among 800 people, of whom 150 were women, employed in the factory of the Illinois Cancempany. The building was of six stories. Flames broke out in the third story. Those in the lower stories rushed safely into the street by the stairways, but the employes on the floors above were cut off from escape by the ordinary means and crowded to the windows, many preparing to jump.

The fire escapes were overcrowded, but by strenuous exertions the police kept the 100 or so who came down this way from panic. The ladders were quickly run up to the fourth story and firemen kept the frenzied prisoners, among whom were 150 women, in order. Various Builders' Unions. Kenosha, Wis., July 5 .- [Special.] Labor troubles are again disturbing the rest and quiet of this city and it is feared that before the end of the week all the that before the end of the week all the building in the city will be at a standstill. A few days ago the hodearriers of the city organized a union and the first action of the union was made yesterday when eight men working on the new factory building for the Hosiery works demanded an increase of 25 cents a day. The demand was refused and the men at once quit work. In symmathy with the once quit work. In sympathy with the movement of the hodcarriers, the masons at work on the building quit Monday evening. It is understood that the same programme will be carried out on all the programme will be carried out on all the buildings now under construction in the city and a general strike will be ordered until the contractors agree to meet the new scale. The contractors held a meeting and have decided that it will be impossible for them to meet the demands of the men. The union is backed by the Federation of Labor and it is thought that a long tie-up will follow. The strike may prove very serious, as over 600 men are employed in this kind of labor in the

Madison, Wis., July 6.—[Special.]—
One of the most important of the many accessions that have been recently made to the priceless stores of original manuscripts in the possession of the State Historical society has just come to hand in the form of the journals of Rev. Dr. Jackson Kemper, donated by his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth G. Adams of Nashotah, whose husband, Rev. Dr. William Adams, founded the famous Episcopal seminary, Nashotah house.

Dr. Kemper's grandfather, an officer in the army of the Palatine, emigrated to America in 1741 and settled in Dutchess county, N. Y., where the reverend doctor's father, a colonel in the Revolutionary army, was born, and where, also, in the town of Pleasant Valley, the future bishop was born December 24, 1789. In 1824 Dr. Kemper was sent west as the first missionary bishop of the American Episcopal church, his field of effort comprising the diocesse of Missouri, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas and Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas and was accessions that have been recently made school of Oshkosh and the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. He is a son of Col. Peter Meiklejohn, once a prominent Free Soil Democrat. His prother, Andrew Meikeljohn, lived in Weyauwega.

Mr. Meiklejohn was principal of the high school in 1877 and later attended the Oshkosh normal school. In 1880 he graduated from the law school of the Michigan university. Upon the completion of his studies in the law school he located in Fullerton. Neb., where he took up the practice of law. His political experience began with his election as prosecuting attorney of Nance county. He held this office three years.

Mr. Meiklejohn was elected to the Senate of Nebraska in 1886. In 1887 he was chairman of the Republican state conmittee. In 1888 he was elected lieutending province of the product of the school of the school of the Michigan university. Upon the complete of his studies in the law school of the Michigan university. In 1892 he was elected member of Congress and again in 1894. He was a candidate for governor, but failed to be elected. Senator Thurston recommended him to the President as a suitable man for the office of assistant secretary of war, which resulted in his appointment. In this capacity he presided over the war department in the absence of Secretary Alger and sits in cabinet meetings when his superior is away.

Episcopal church, his field of effort comprising the dioceses of Missouri, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska. The bishop was a most faithful diarist and in the course of his wanderings through the great lake region met with many interesting people and curious adventures, continually getting glimpses of earlier pioneer life and customs. These notes and diaries so diligently composed have been preserved, together with some of Dr. Kemper's letters, by Mrs. Adams, who has kindly turned them over to the State Historical society. These manuscripts are written in pencil, and are blurred, though sufficiently legible. Being a contribution to the original manuscripts owned by the society that throw light on the early history of the middle Northwest, they are of particular value to this library, because they supplement a collection because they supplement a collection bearing on this phase of history that has no peer of its kind elsewhere in the world. large number of claims against the banking house, which closed its doors in 1895. Mrs. Slocum had loaned money to Urban J. Lewis, cashier of the bank. When the bank failed an examination of the estate of Lewis showed that he was insolvent. Mrs. Slocum then brought suit against the bank, claiming that the business had never been incorporated and that all the stockholders in the bank were liable for her claim, as the business had been transacted as a partnership. The suit has been tried three times and each time it has been non-suited. If the Supreme court should decide the case in favor of the plaintiffs in the action it will involve the claims of over 100 people and the stockholders of the defunct bank will lose fully $50,000.

THIS DOG DESERVES TO LIVE.

He Disarms a Policeman Who Sent to Kill Him.

Policeman Glenn had an encounte with a big dog near Ironville, O., the other day. The animal was getting to be somewhat ill-tempered and parents were afraid it might bite their children is they passed the house on their way to chool. Complaints were lodged at the colice station, and Officer Glenn was dealled with a double-barreled shotgun to beet the name.

The dog spied the officer before the patrolman got a peep at him. The animal seemed to divine what the po-liceman was there for and that he had designs on his life. The dog appeared to fully understand the danger of the gun the officer carried, and instead of rush-ing out in front of the policeman, as had been the dog's usual practice, the animal been the dog's usual practice, the animal took a circle round the house, taking good care to keep out of the officer's sight. In turning the corners the dog would peer around them both ways to see that the coast was clear. The dog kept gatting clears and clear to the percent of the percent ept getting closer and closer to the po-ceman's heels, and at a spot where a favorable opportunity presented itself the big animal pounced on the officer's back with such force as to throw him headlong branch nearest the main stem that to the ground.

The dog grabbed the officer over the breast and shook him so hard that he dropped his gun. Then the dog grabbed him by the legs and gave him another shaking, but in all the shakings the patrolman got, no blood was drawn. The dog then picked up the gun and trotted away with it in his mouth in the direction of the river, and it is believed the animal dropped it into the Maumee. The dog has been taking a vacation since the row.

QUEEREST PEARL FOUND.

It was the Exact Shape of the Torso of a Man. A unique and beautiful gift was presented to Louis XIV. of France by a Genoese, Gianctino Sameria. It was a pearl weighing a hundred grains, and had been brought from the Indies by one had been brought from the Indies by one of this gentleman's relatives. But the most striking part of the matter was not its weight, but its form. It was the exact shape of the torso of a man from the neck to the knees. Sameria had the pearl amounted in so artistic a manner that it was the wonder of the French court. The pearl was utilized for the body of an armed warrior. The head and arms were of hammered gold, tacked body of an armed warrior. The head and arms were of hammered gold, tacked to the pearl by gold nails. The casque and plumes were also made of gold and set with diamonds. The cloak and sash wer of gold enameled in blue with gold fleur-de-lis scattered over it; the legs from the knees down were of gold; the lance was of gold with a single diamond for its head, shaped to a point. Three large diamonds form a perfect fleur-de-lis, and are surmounted by a gold crown, set with diamonds, having a small fleur-de-lis on top. An angel, also made of hammered gold and carrying a trumpet in one hand, supports the large fleur-de-lis and crown with the other.

The trophies lying on the pedestal are lis and crown with the other.

The trophies lying on the pedestal are a drum set with diamonds, a cuirass, buckler, another casque, a turban, a banner with a diamond for the head of the staff; a bow and arrow with a diamond point, a saber and a gun. Thirty-two large diamonds, rubies and topazes in alternation form the border of the pedestal, which is supported by four gold sphinxes.

The Alert Little Chipmunk. An acquaintance surprised me the other day by the question, "What is a chipmunk—how does he differ from a squirel?" I thought everybody knew this ay sprite of the roadsides. He is a true uirrel, about the size of the common of one, and of the same reddish tone, thich, like his brother of the trees, is which, his brighter in winter than in summer, when the long, warm, handsome fur. suitable for cold weather and the nuptial time, is replaced by a warm-weather suit of a cooler, shorter, and paler sort. His distinguishing marks are two white stripes along the side of the back from the foreshoulder to the root of the tail, each bordered by a black line, making him the creativest of our lesser oundruneds. him the prettiest of our lesser quadrupeds and giving to him, as with erect ears and trailing, bushy tail he scuds along the trailing, bushy tail he scuds along the fence or scampers in and out of a brush pile—for he is a true ground-squirrel, rarely going even upon the trunk of a tree—an air of dandy pride and alertness that is most engaging. In the far West there are four-lined and checkered ones.

Our chipmunk is the familiar of the old stone wall, and where in some parts of the country these are disappearing, the chipmunk is disappearing, too, while any a skunk and woodchuck also find demselves dispossessed.—Ernst Ingersoll

One-third of the geese come from the government of Vilna, and many more have come long distances which would be sufficiently as a sides with knives. The difficulties of this kind are entirely avoided by a new kind of cake dish, from which it is an easy matter to withdraw the contents. The new dish consists of a plain base with a round edge, around which a government of Vilna, and many more have come long distances, which would ruin their feet, to prevent which they are "shod," as it is called, before setting out on their journey to Warsaw. That is, they are driven first through tar poured on the ground, and then through sand. After this operation has been repeated several times their feet become covered with a hard crust which protects them during their long march on hard ground.

Perpetual Blackberry Patches.

When a man plants blackberries he has a plantation that with care and spraying with fungicides to prevent blight can be kept for all time.
