THE GALL FLY PEST.

The Insect Causes Great Havoc Among Forest Trees.

There is a fly here, called by the people lways as its egg-nursing medium and i ickness is the result. Always when the eggs of this insect have become deposited there is a swelling which gradually asthere is a swelling which gradually assumes the shape of a tumor on the human body. From this tumor sickness extends into the tree. The appearance of the tumor on the trunk is a statement to other flies that the wood of the tree is good for eggs, and in a little while a dozen tumors will bulge from the bark. The tree then, no matter what its size and health and majesty, is doomed. These tumors made by the gall flies grow was a row of mulberry trees, planted begoing through their sickness they dis-played every symptom which marks the human body similarly afflicted.—Texas

In this connection it is learned that as late as the 8th of last month Gen. Miles formally recommended the removal of the United States troops now quartered at Sanitago to some other port on the northern coast of America.

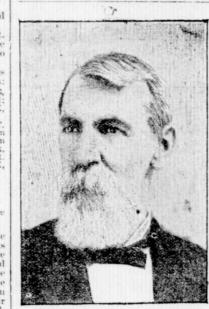

It is said that the rate of infection among the soldiers at Santiago is greater at this time, in proportion to the num-ber of men present, than last year. Gen. Miles, it is understood, called attention to this fact in his recommenda-tion and urged it as one reason for the prompt removal of the men to the North. Thus far his recommendations have not been carried out, but today Secretary Root and Gen. Miles had a conference

New York, Aug. 2.—Circulars issued by various carpet manufacturers announce increased prices on Brussels, velvets, tapestries and Axminsters. These advances are the direct result of advances made in carpet wools and a widening interest on the part of retail buyers. The agent of a large manufacturing concern said that he was certain that other advances would be made later, as prices were not yet on a parity with the cost of the raw material, expense of labor, and other necessary costs to the mills. vances would be made later, as prices were not yet on a parity with the cost of the raw material, expense of labor, and other necessary costs to the mills. The prosperity in the carpet trade has to all appearances been a healthy one, finding its source in the actual needs of consumers. In this fact, the more conservative agents base the assumption that there will be no carpet trust, at least for the present.

A Vote Winner. Some of the sentimental considerations that may influence an elector Ellis of Milwaukee were callers here are suggested in the following anecdote from a book entitled "Irish Life and Character:'

A political candidate, upon paying a econd visit to the home of a doubtful voter of the peasant class was much pleased though somewhat surprised on hearing the elector promise his support. "Glad to hear it," said the candidate.

I thought you were against me." "Sure I was," rejoined the peasant, but whin ve called the other day and stood by the pigsty, and talked for half n hour, ye didn't budge me an inch. Some years ago, so the story goes, he late Col. Ingersoll was passing through Cincinnati when he was acosted by a man who addressed him as ollows: "Mr. Ingersoll, I am a poor, hard-working man, have a family to upport, and want a favor." "Well." said Bob, "what can I do for you?" "I want to call a brand of my cigars after you and obtain permission to use your photograph," answered the man. "Certainly, my man, and I will give you a motto, if you desire." "I would thank you if you would," responded the man. Col. Ingersoll then wrote the following notto for the desired brand of cigars: 'We shall smoke in this world, but not

Gifts by Englishmen to the United States.

Much public interest was aroused during August, 1895, by the announcement of the award, by the Smithsonian institution, of the Hodgkins prize of $10,000 to Lord Rayleigh and Prof. William Ramsay for their remarkable discovery of a new element—argon—in the atmosphere. From time to time bequests have been made to the institution, but for the most part these have been comparatively small. In 1891, however, Thomas G. Hodgkins of Setauket, N. Y., expressed his desire to donate $200,000 to the Smithsonian fund. The regents accepted the sum, with the single condition ed the sum, with the single condition $100,000 of the gift shall be used, under this general purpose, for the especial one of the increase and diffusion of knowledge by investigating and spreading knowledge concerning all the phenomena of atmospheric air." In accordance with this provision, early in 1894 a circular was issaed offering "a prize of $10,000 for a treatise embodying some new and important discovery in regard to the na-ture or properties of atmospheric air." The first award of this prize was made The first award of this prize was made as mentioned above. Two grants of money were previously made from this fund to aid in the prosecution of special investigations on air, one of which is being carried on in Germany and the other in the United States.

Meanwhile, in November, 1892, Mr. Hodgkins died, at the advanced age of 89 years, and made the Smithsonian institute his residuary legatee. In conse-

The very common advice to feed clo ver to hens as an aid to egg production needs to have a caution attached to it. If hens have grain with the clover they will not probably eat too much of the lighter food for their good. But exclusive reliance on cut clover as winter feed for a day or two may so clog the gizzard with light indigestible food that when grain is given it only makes the matter worse by furnishing more heating material to ferment in the crop Wherever much grain is given to fowls

His constant refusal to borrow money has been mentioned many times Weakness, Earache, Malaria, Dropsy, is exemplified by many stories that are told of him. He paid off his employes every Saturday night, whether their nom inal salary ran by the week or month. He always tried, too, to give exact change to each man, although he did not have it all counted out beforehand. Very frequently he would find himself short of small change in paying his stablemen off, and he would sometimes ask one of his sons for change of a bill. If it happened that the son did not have enough change in his pocket, Mr. Bonner would not accept the loan even of a couple of dollars over night, but would rather give a $5 bill for $3 in change. Although confined to his bed on the Saturday night before his death, Mr. Bonner insisted that his son should pay all of the employes as usual.
