Fond du Lac Team Wins the Basketball Game.

Fond du Lac, Wis, Dec. 14.—[Special.]—The Co. E team defeated the Y. M. C. A. of Cincinnati last evening in a game which, although the scores were not close, was interesting. The score at the close of the first half was 17 to 4 and at the close of the second half 34 to 4, the visitors not being allowed to score during that half. The visitors did not get here until 7:39 o'clock last evening and were tired out and this may have been one of the reasons why no better showing was made. The second game will be played this evening and an interesting contest may be looked for.

How England Secures Horses. In the Senate on the 14th Pettigrew's resolution asking for information as to whether the flag of the Philippine republic had ever been saluted by the American forces in the Philippines came up. Mr. Pettigrew called for the ayes and noes on the motion to lay on the table. The vote resulted 41 ayes to 20 nays. The Senate agreed to the House resolution for a Christmas holiday adjournment on the 20th of December until the 3d of January and then at 1:05 p. m. adjourned. The House on the Sth adopted a special order for the consideration of the currency bill beginning on the 11th. The general debate will continue until Friday; on Saturday amendments may be offered under the five minute rule, and on the following Monday the vote will be taken. The Democrats, Populists and Silverites presented a solid front against the adoption of the resolution and every Republican voted for it. Mr. Dalzeli offered the resolution and said there was no disposition upon the part of the majority to unduly press the bill. It presented single propositions which had already been debated in the House.

The debate on the currency bill began in the House on the 11th, the opening speech being delivered by Mr. Overstreet (Rep., Ind.). Other speakers were Mr. Dolliver (Rep., In.), Mr. Maddox (Dem., Ga.) and Mr. McCleilan (Dem., N. Y.). House.

England Shocked by the Catastrophe at Modder River.

London, Dec. 14.—Gen. Methuen's repulse is the gravest catastrophe suffered by the British since the war began. Apart from the serious losses, already known to amount to at least 300, the moral effect of so complete a check to such an eagerly-hoped-for advance, cannot but be prejudicial to the British. Gen. Methuen, to, still remains in a serious position. From his offensive strategy, he now passes to the defensive. The best he can report is that he is holding his own and preparing an intrenched position, where he will be compelled to await a Boer attack. Thus he has been compelled to surrender the initiative to the London, Dec. 14.-Gen. Methuen's re enemy.

It is now feared in London that the nation will soon hear that the detached posts guarding Gen. Methuen's long line of communications with De Aar have been completely overwhelmed, leaving Gen. Methuen isolated. In that case it will be impossible for him to reconnoiter more than six or seven miles from his intrenchments and likewise impossible for him to replenish his stores and ammuni-

All England is shocked by the news of Gen. Methuen's defeat. Gen. Gatacre's reverse was bad enough, but the universal cry was, "Wait till Gen. Methuen and Cry Ruller have delivered their sal cry was, "Wait till Gen. Methuen and Gen. Buller have delivered their blows!" The earlier dispatches were sufficient to dash such hopes, but nevertheless the optimists declared that further accounts would tell of British success. The official dispatch shows matters even worse than the first report indicated.

FEELING RUNS HIGH. People Demand the Immediate Dispatch of Reinforcements.

London, Dec. 14.—While the outwardly calm attitude of the press and people here during the present crisis commands here during the present crisis commands admiration, there is an under-current of intense indignation against the war office and the government which threatens to have a serious addition in the blunders of the generals and the further evidences of the breakdown of the transport and intelligence departments which are daily coming to light.

It was freely predicted this morning, even in high military circles, that the South African campaign will last until June. It was also expected that Gen. Methuen would have to retire south of the Orange river, as it was claimed he could not hold out long at the Modder river, where his ammunition and food supplies were not expected to last over a week. In fact, it was said that his line of communications was probably already

The war office has received a message stating there were 650 casualties among the noncommissioned officers and men of the Highland brigade at Magersfontein. The brigade lost 10 officers killed, 38 wounded and 4 missing.

The collowing list of the officers killed.

Continuing, the St. James Gazette urges the government to take the White Star's steamships, from the Oceanic down, and send another army corps to South Africa.

The Westminster Gazete, a Liberal newspaper, which had actively opposed the war, says: "We are bound to carry the campaign to a successful issue," and adds: "The reckoning with the government will come later on."

A Desperate Battle. Modder River, Cape Colony, Tuesday, Dec. 12.—Details gathered by a represen-tative of the Associated press among the wounded British and Boers give some idea of the desperate nature of the figh at Magersfontein.

The Highlanders did all that the most gallant troops in the world could do, but it was impossible to face the terrible fire of the Boers. The British artillery again saved the situation and divides the honors of the day with the Scots. The betterie worked for house wades and batteries worked for hours under a galling rifle fire. According to the Boer stories, it was impossible for the burghers to have escaped fearful loss. One Boer prisoner said a single lyddite shell killed or wounded over seventy, and that two other shells burst over two bodies of Boers ensconced behind the range, doing fearful damage.

Record Royal Highlanders—Wounded Lieut. Wauchope, J. Cuthbertson, Capt. Cameron, Lieut. St. J. Harves, Lieut. Berthon and Lieut. Talt, who was formerly the amateur golf champion. Missing: Capt. Cumming-Bruce, Capt. McFarlane and Lieut. Ramsay.

MORST OF THE WAR.

England Shocked by the Catastrophe

According to the Boer stories, it was impossible for the burghers to have escaped fearful loss. One Boer prisoner said a single lyddite shell killed or wounded over seventy, and that two other wounded over seventy, and that two others ensconced behind the range, doing fear-ful damage.

Work of the Sharpshooters.

All agree that the Boers fought throughout with the utmost gallantry. Their sharpshooters seldom missed the mark.

A Seaforth Highlander says that while he was lying wounded on the field he saw a Boer of typical German appearance, faultlessly dressed, with polished top boots, a shirt with silk ruffles and a cigar in his mouth, walking among the anti-like, picking off the British. He was quite alone and it was apparent from the frequent use he made of field glasses that he was singling out officers. Mike Eisker of Hatley Held for Ashe was singling out officers.

Another wounded Boer says that a Lyddite shell, fired on Sunday, fell in the middle of an open-air prayer meeting held to offer supplications for the success of the Boer arms.

All the wounded are full of praise for the treatment they received from the medical department on the battlefield.

The war office has received from Gen. Gatacre the following list of casualties furnished by a correspondent who was permitted to visit the Boer camp with the chaplains and is believed to be reliable: Second Royal Irish, 10 killed, 32 wounded; First East Lancashires, 1 wounded; Second Northumberlands, 12 killed, 27 wounded. All the above wounded men are prisoners.

London, Dec. 14.—The British war office has heard nothing of the story of the relief of Ladysmith. The officials do not credit the report, as they add, the is believed to be practically impossible. The scenes at the war office this morning when Gen. Methuen's casualties were posted were highly dramatic. There was a steady incursion of anxious inquirers from the moment the doors quirers from the moment the doors opened and there was intense excitement when an official appeared bearing the ominously-long list of names. An undertone of condemnation of the inactivity of the war office before hostilities began, which has resulted in the British forces being inferior in numbers to the Boers, has found its way to the surface. This feeling was expressed in strong terms at the war office, where crowds of anxious men and women congregated before the doors or walked through the lobby, reading the bulletins all through the lobby, reading the bulletins all through the day and evening. When it was announced, after midnight, that no more news would be given out until morning, they slowly dispersed. Many women were unable to control their emotions and wept bitterly. most serious outbreak of modern times.

Going a little further back to the time of the great and prolonged Peninsula war, Wellington thought he was a fortunate man if he could direct an army corps of 30,000 British troops, while the great Marlborough, at Blenheim, led to victory, and against fearful odds, an army of 16,000 strong.

Lord Wolseley was expected, in the Egyptian war of 1885, to scatter the forces of the Mahdi, a very considerable force, consisting of over 50,000 men, while Lord "Bobs," as the hero of Candahar is playfully called, that is to say, Lord Roberts, could rely on no more than 13,000 European troops to oppose the

The Sawyer-Goodman timber sawed. The Sawyer-Goodman mill is now running for the winter and the N. Ludington mill will start up after the holidays. Several of the Menominee mills will run this winter and 40,000,000 or 50,000,000 feet of lumber will be sawed before spring on the Menominee. This is something very unusual as in former years the mills here invariably closed for the entire winter.

COURT AT SUPERIOR.

Divide Wisconsin Into Northern and Southern Districts and Remove Court from Madison.

West Superior, Wis., Dec. 14.-[Spe ial.]-It is now proposed by prominent nembers of the Douglas county bar that n effort be made to have the state of Wisconsin redistricted with regard to the erms of federal court. It is claimed that the interests of the patrons of both e Eastern and Western district courts uld be better satisfied if the state were divided into Northern and Southern dis ricts instead of Eastern and Western At present, it is claimed by attorneys ere, 90 per cent. of the business enter-ng the federal court at Madison orignates here, and attorneys attending that court are compelled to travel 300 miles to attend court. The bill has been prepared and forwarded to Washington providing for a term of federal court in this city, but some of the members of the bar are in favor of taking a bigger the oar are in favor of taking a bigger bite while they are at it. It is suggested that should Judge Bunn of the federal court retire soon, it would be in line to have a Northern man appointed to take his place, and if that were secured it is figured that it would not be a hard matter to get the seat of the federal court reproved from Medican to some city in this noved from Madison to some city in this ocality—notably Superior.

The Whole Truth!

There's nothing so bad for a cough as coughing.

There's nothing so good for a cough as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

The 25 cent size is just right for an ordinary, everyday cold. The 50 cent size is better for the cough of bronchitis, croup, grip, and hoarseness. The dollar size is the best for chronic coughs, as in consumption, chronic bronchitis, asthma, etc.

How Dogs Shook the Persimmon Tree.

A gentleman who lives in the suburbs has a fine persimmon tree in his yard, which this year bore a very large crop. The members of his family are exceedingly fond of the fruit and look forward with many happy expectations to the time when the frost will fall each year and put the finishing touches to the crop. 'The other day," said the gentleman. "I visited the tree, which is a good distance from the house, and found that someone had been there and taken a plentiful supply away. The grass around the tree was trampled down as if a regiment of the contract of ment had been camped under it. Sup-posing that tramps had got into the grounds, I determined to watch the next night to apprehend them if the trick should be repeated. Going out to the tree after dark I found instead of tramps about 100 dogs. The dogs would jump at the trunk of the tree in a body and by that means shake off a quantity of the should be repeated. Going out to the tree after dark I found instead of tramps about 100 dogs. The dogs would jump at the trunk of the tree in a body and by that means shake off a quantity of the over-ripe fruit, which they devoured with avidity. It is the first time I ever heard of dogs eating persimmons and I enjoyed the sight so much that I refrained from shooting into them."—Memphis

CHAPTER III.

THE BEGINNING OF THE NEW VOY. AGE.

He paddled steadily along, the constantly-increasing smoothness of the water aiding him, and was presently among the first of his prizes. These were even more numerous than he had supposed, though the decreasing swells had additionally disclosed some, even before he left the boat. He used his twine advantageously, and also some pieces of line that were hanging to the fragments of spars, and soon had quite a tow. Now several of the larger pieces of the wreck, which he had espied from the boat, were come up with and also appropriated, and by this time he had the material for onite a raft. His eyes were the second. This was to step a rude mast and set a little leg-of-mutton sail. This last he made from a fragment of canvas, and with the aid of his knife and the invaluable twine. His final task completed, he next hurriedly put in the piece of broken spar, the oar, and at last the crackers and water. Then he turned with a tired but cheerful look to Miss Lake. "Ship is ready. All aboard." She rose heavily and tried to smile in return. At once a pitying expression came into his face, and he hurried for ward and took her hand.

"Poor girl! you are almost exhausted. Lean on me, now, and we will soon be aboard the craft."

He rested a moment or two, exchanged signals of all's well with his companion, and then proment or two, exchanged signals of all swell with his companion, and then proceeded with his work. At last he had a kind of clumsy raft finished. The next thing was to make it of service. At this point he decided to go back and try to paddle the boat to the spot. In merely collecting the fragments and in fastening them texether he had thought he could be a spot with the could them to two them he pushed off. "Is there sign of any?"

He looked carefully around.
"I don't see any immediate show; but we may catch one soon. Let me make you a suggestion. You are worn out and ought to have some sleep. I will fix you up a place, and you take off that preserver and lie down. Even if you can't sleep you will rest, and that will help ver and lie down. Even if you can't sleep you will rest, and that will help on a great deal."

After some little opposition she finally neented to this. She did not think that he should sleep, but she could rest, as he did. He therefore made her as good a such as he could, using his jacket and ouch as he could, using his jacket and improvising a most of the canvas, and improvising a kind of Fiji pillow out of the life-preserver. Arva curled herself down and pulled the rude coverlid over her. She really felt comparatively comfortable. Then her tired mind relaxed, and before she had the lost idea of such a thing she was

"Oh, Mr. Keene, what is it? You have done too much. You should not have exerted yourself so."
"It is nothing. I'll be all strong again in a minute. I only laid out a little too much strength after a very light breakfast."

Cut out this ad, and send it to us with 50c, and we will forward this elegant, high-grade genuine Stradivarius model violin that retailers ask $5.00 and upward for. No teacher necessary as we furnish a fine book of instructions free.

Cut out this ad, and send it to us with 50c, and we will forward this elegant, high-grade genuine Stradivarius model violin c. O. D., subject to your approval. You have the privilege of thorough examination at the express office; if perfectly satisfied pay the agent the balance, together with return charges and you get the bargain of a life-time, or if you remit cash in full with order you save return charges and we guarantee to refund money if you say so. This violin is an exact copy of the genuine Stradivarius model violin, is of an elegant roddish brown color, has solid ebony trimmings; the tone is excellent, being much finer than produced by many higher-priced instruments. We furnish this violin strung up and with an extra set of fine steel strings, a good high-grade bow, a case of rosin, a fine instructor—all complete in a heavy marbleized pasteboard box. Our prime reason for selling this outfit for such a pittance is that everything to eat wear and use, is furnish ed on receipt of only 10° to partly pay postage or expressage and as evidence of good faith the 10° is allowed on first purchase amounting to $1°° or above. OUR MONTHLY GROCERY PRICE LIST FREE.
