Bats Make a Handy Pouch for Carrying Pick-Up Lunches.

The bat when walking carries its tail rved downward and inward, so that the membrane joining it to the hind legs forms a pouch or bag, into which a large insect can be pushed after it is snatched. This is done by slightly spreading the folded wings, bringing the feet forward to increase the capacity of the tail pouch, and then bending the neck and thrusting the head beneath the body. In spite of violent struggles, the insect rarely es-capes, and a somewhat similar method is oved by the bat when on the wing. been noticed to always bend up its tail so as to form a receptacle for its prey.

HOW THEY GET THEIR FIRE.

Indagascar Savages Are the Most Ingenious in the World.

Various savages have different methods of kindling fire. In New Holland a pointed stock is twirled between the palms of the hand until the wood on which it stands begins to smoke, and at last breaks by sticking one bit of wood upright in the earth, cutting a slit in it lengthwise. the earth, cutting a slit in it lengthwise, in which they rub another bit of wood with a protruding piece until it flames. The most ingenious method is, however, that followed by the inhabitants of west-ern Madagascar. These use a string of animal hide, by which they twirl the up-right stick rapidly and hasten the fire lighting. To us who have merely to strike a match under the mantelpiece the value of fire is little appreciated, but sup-pose that we were caught in the wilder-ness without a match, how would we go about lighting the fire to warm ourselves about lighting the fire to warm ourselves or cook our food?
