REAPING THE WHIRLWIND

It is easy enough for English, German and American newspapers to demand retribution for the slaughter of the ministers and subjects of these respective governments in China; but it would be more to the point if somebody would specify the form that this retribution is to take. If the jealousies of the powers prevented the rescue of the legations in Peking when rescue was possible, the jealousies of the same powers are not likely to be less in evidence when a plan of avenging the crimes which have been committed is submitted to them.

Thus far the powers have made a miserable botch of the Chinese affair. For more than half a century the governments of the West have been inviting an uprising against foreigners in China. From the day that Great Britain jammed her opium down the throats of the hapless Chinese at the point of the bayonet to the day that Germany stole the better part of a province as compensation for the murder of two Jesuit missionaries whom she herself has driven out of the empire in the past, the relations of China with the Western powers have been a record of theft, fraud and force. They have stolen all her seaports except one; they have robbed her of her own power to preserve order within her own domains; they have conspired with rebellious subjects to weaken the force of her government; they have pressed in on her from every side, and like huge vultures looked forward greedily to the day when the corpse of the oldest empire and the oldest civilization extant would be theirs to devour. They have sown the wind for half a century, and now that they are reaping the whirlwind they profess to stand in amazement before the crop they have raised. After many years, fraud is being paid in fraud, deceit in deceit, force in force, rapine in rapine, and the blood of the innocent is atoning for the crimes of the guilty.—Detroit News.

In denying that he promised independence to the Filipinos, Admiral Dewey shows that he still believes we should treat them equally well as the Cubans in this respect when he says: "We are responsible to the world for the orderly conduct of affairs in Cuba, and until a stable government is established there I cannot see how we can withdraw. We are confronted with a similar situation in the Philippines. The world looks to us, and no matter which party wins in November, the United States cannot relinquish the islands until a responsible and stable government is set up there." This proves conclusively that while the admiral may not have promised so much, he favors giving "independence to the Filipinos" on the Cuban plan.

SINCE Miss Margaret Sheehan, the former secretary of Illinois council No. 420 of Knights and Ladies of Security, pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiracy to defraud the organization out of $6,650, there is a suspicion that she was a lady of suspicion in name only.

THE American Bicycle trust should attribute the closing of the Sterling bicycle works at Kenosha to the presidential nomination of their outspoken enemy Wm. J. Bryan, as otherwise it may hurt their tried and true friend McKinley in his campaign for re-election.

Now that Great Britain is having trouble in China as well as in South Africa, reports of contemplated Fenian raids into Canada again seem in order. Meanwhile, Maud Gonne may create a fresh bit of news by stirring up a teapot-tempest in Ireland.

THE boycotting of innocent Mongolian laundymen in this country may not atone for the crimes of the guilty in China, but it will tend to rid the United States of a class of people who are undesirable at best.

AND now even Stubborn Stebbins has withdrawn from the contest for the Republican nomination for governor and leaped onto the La Follette bandwagon.

It seems that New York is not to be slighted in Col. Bryan's campaign, as he is already billed to make six speeches in as many cities of that state.

SOME Wisconsin scribes are cutting and leading trees at Plum Lake for fun, while others are "log rolling" at home "for keeps."

THE "white man's burden" has again been lessened in Alabama by the lynching of a negro ravisher.

The regular soldier of the British army owes his nickname of "Tommy Atkins" to a pure accident. Years ago Sir Garnet Wolsey, now commander-in-chief of the armies of Great Britain, published a little book called "The Soldier's Pocket Book of Field Service. In illustrating the manner of properly filling out field reports he happened to use the name "Thomas Atkins." The Pocket Book is the English soldier's military Bible, and the name "Thomas Atkins" was at once adopted as his proper nickname. Later on Thomas was abbreviated to "Tommy," and the accidental name passed down into history.—X.

UNPLEASANT BUT TRUE.

E. L. Godkin, former editor of the New York Evening Post and The Nation and a sturdy supporter of McKinley in 1896, declares that he has a "deep-seated prejudice against Wm. McKinley and the men who surround him and act with him."

"My opinion of them, formed long ago," says Mr. Godkin, "is that they are the most dangerous set of scoundrels of which any civilized country was ever beset."

It would be difficult to put the case more clearly. The men whom Mr. Godkin has in mind are not the members of the cabinet—though some may be included—but the syndicates, promoters, speculators and financial bandits who are using a weak president as a catspaw.

This view is not pleasant, but it must be faced. The record of the past three years fully confirms it. Those who deny it or seek to break its force are merely playing into the hands of men whose sole object in public life is to feather their own nests and promote their own fortunes.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

An old farmer in Virginia fixed the drought question by planting onions and potatoes in alternate rows, as the onions were strong enough to draw tears from the eyes of the tubers, thereby moistening the roots and producing a big crop.—Exchange.

America sells nearly three times as much as she buys; Germany buys over $250,000,000 worth more every year than she sells; while Great Britain last year actually bought twice as much as she sold.

Sucked Poison From Snake-Bite.
Louis, the 10-year-old son of Albert Young, living near Baraboo, was bitten by a large rattle-snake Monday, while out with his brother, and the latter immediately sucked the poison from the wound. Afterwards the lad was taken home, where he recovered from the effects of the bite.

The law holds both maker and circulator of a counterfeit equally guilty. The dealer who sells you a dangerous counterfeit of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve risks your life to make a little larger profit. You can not trust him. DeWitt's is the only genuine and original Witch Hazel Salve, a well known cure for piles and all skin diseases. See that your dealer gives you DeWitt's Salve. All druggists.

Blood Drinkers.
The fire-eaters are dying out, but the blood-drinkers are on the increase. A New Orleans physician in the Times-Democrat of that city. "Go down to the slaughter pens, near the barracks, any morning, and you'll see a crowd of them waiting for their daily draught, fresh from the animals' veins. Most of the drinkers are people who show plainly the ravages of tuberculosis, but others are merely run down and debilitated and take the blood as a tonic. There are always women and children in the gathering, and while all classes of society are represented, it is one place at least where there are no caste distinctions. Their afflictions and the curious treatment they are taking give them a common meeting ground, and it is singular to see how they fraternize. You will find wealthy business men chatting confidentially with hoboes, and society ladies swapping symptoms with women in ragged calico. It's a queer sight."

A gentleman recently cured of dyspepsia gave the following appropriate rendering of Burns' famous blessing: "Some have meat and cannot eat; and some have none that want it; but we have meat and we can eat.—Kodol Dyspepsia Cure be thanked." This preparation will digest what you eat. It instantly relieves and radically cures indigestion and all stomach disorders. All druggists.

Latest Picture Postal Cards.
New fancy postal cards that are being extensively used in sending messages to foreign countries bear pictures of the national candidates of the two great parties. One set shows the pictures of McKinley and Roosevelt, and the other bears those of Bryan and Stevenson. Underneath the pictures are the words "Hurrah for Our Next President!"

The latest design for postal cards, however, is the picture of the disastrous fire at Hoboken. One of the steamers is seen burning at the dock, and there are pictures of the little tugs throwing water on the blazing boats. One noticeable picture is that of the steamer Sault burning, and at the bow is her commander, Capt. Mirow, who perished in her. A tug is seen throwing water on the steamer.—N.Y. Times.

After many intricate experiments, scientists have discovered methods for obtaining all the natural digestants. These have been combined in the proportion found in the human body and united with substances that build up the digestive organs, making a compound called Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and relieves food while the stomach troubles are being radically cured by the medicinal agents it contains. It is pleasant to take and will give quick relief. All druggists.

Oil in Arizona.
There is much excitement among the miners along the eastern part of San Diego county, Cal., over the discovery of what is supposed to be a bed of oil in the pot-holes district of the Colorado river, about 15 miles north of Yuma. A rush has been made for the scene of the discovery and a scramble for land within the belt is on to such an extent that some of the first locators were compelled to use rifles in protection of their rights.

An Epidemic of Diarrhoea.
Mr. A. Sanders, writing from Cocoa Grove, Fla., says there has been quite an epidemic of diarrhoea there. He had a severe attack and was cured by four doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He says he also recommended it to others, and they say it is the best medicine they ever used. For sale by L. Rosenheimer.

He Was a Single Man.
Mr. Spriggins (gently)—My dear, a Brighton man was shot at by a burglar, and his life was saved by a button which the bullet struck.
Mrs. S.—(weeily)—Nothing, only the button must have been on.—X.

The salvation of a great people is being worked out on scientific lines. Three important plans for bettering India's condition are development of the railway system, increase of irrigation where water can be obtained from great rivers, and efforts to diversify the occupations of the people. It is affirmed that the railways constructed during the last 20 years have prevented tens of millions of deaths. Irrigation works are more local means of relief, and have not always proven successful when dependent upon local rainfall.—Black Snow.—Recently in the Alps some of the natives were greatly worried at a fall of apparently black snow. Had it not been for a scientist who was on hand to explain that the blackness was caused by insects, the Alps might have furnished a miracle for future grandfathers to talk about by the winter fire. It is a fact that an insect microscopic flea as black as ink feeds in the winter upon the moss and lichens of the trees and rocks of the mountain tops. In mild weather, millions of these minute creatures fly in swarms, often taking advantage of a snowstorm to emerge. When tired they settle upon the snow, making it look black.—X.

"Bulls" Not Irish.

Those who are not Irishmen sometimes trespass on Irish property. A French cur, preaching about sudden death, said: "Thus it is with us. We go to bed well, and get up stone dead!"
An old French lawyer, writing of an estate he had bought, added: "There is a chapel upon it in which my wife and I wish to be buried, if God spares our lives."

An English lecturer on chemistry said: "One drop of this poison placed on the tongue of a cat is sufficient to kill the strongest man;" and an English lieutenant said that the Royal Niger company wished to kill him to prevent him going up the river until next year.

A merchant who died suddenly left in his bureau a letter to one of his correspondents which he neglected to seal. His clerk, seeing it necessary to send the letter, wrote at the bottom: "Since writing the above I have died."—X.

One Way of Looking at It.
"Look at this, will you?" exclaimed the estate and house-renting optimist. "This paper contains a record of 87 marriage licenses issued yesterday."

"Well, what of it?" said his pessimistic partner.
"What of it?" echoed the other. "Can't you see? Those 87 marriage licenses will lead to that number of inquiries for houses, flats, or eligible apartments. It's bound to stimulate business in this line, and we'll get our share."

"That doesn't follow at all. Those 87 licenses represent 174 persons don't they?"
"Yes."
"Probably all adults?"
"Undoubtedly. What of it?"
"Nothing," growled the pessimist, "except that 174 persons who have hitherto occupied 174 apartments will hereafter occupy 87. You give me a pain, you go; away from me!"—X.

No Claret Lemonade for Her.
She was a dream of dainty girlhood, all in softest white, with a great ruffled hat on her exquisitely poised head. She was with an elderly man, whose features were dipped in several layers of fat. They sat at a table within earshot of me, and he beckoned to a waiter.
"What would you like to drink, Mazie?" he asked in a fatherly style.
"A claret lemonade?"
"What are you going to have?" she asked.
"I think I'll have a stein of beer," said he.
"That's all right," said Mazie, and glancing at the waiter, she delivered her order. "You may bring me a tub of suds, too," she said.

And Mazie's gasp was drowned in the music of the orchestra.—Washington Post.

It Always Ends That Way.
They had just returned from their bridal tour when he gallantly said: "Now let us speak of business. Half of what I have belongs to you, and I do not propose that you shall have to beg for it. Being the head of the house, I shall carry the wallet, but I propose to hand you over a certain sum every Saturday night. It will be pin money."

"How good you are!" she exclaimed. "I think it only just and right. I know a dozen married men whose wives have to almost get down on their knees to get a dollar. I could kick such a man! How much do you think you can use a week?"
"A dollar, perhaps."
"A dollar? My wife trying to get along on a dollar a week! Why, you little darling, you shall have at least $10, and if that is not enough I shall make it $20 or $30."

It was the old story over again. He cut her down to $7, $6, $5, $4, $3, $2, and after 4 months she asked him for a dollar, when he turned on her with:
"What, more money! Do you think I have a gold mine? What on earth do you want money for?"
"But you get a few little notions."
"But you can't want a dollar's worth! Here's 30 cents, and I hope you will remember that these are hard times and that money is money!"—St. Louis Dispatch.

IS IT RIGHT
For an Editor to Recommend Patent Medicine?
From Sylvan Valley News, Brevard, N. C.
It may be a question whether the editor of a newspaper has the right to publicly recommend any of the various proprietary medicines which flood the market, yet as a preventative of suffering we feel it a duty to say a word for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. We have known and used this medicine in our family for 20 years and have always found it reliable. In many cases a dose of this remedy would save hours of suffering while a physician is awaited. We do not believe in depending implicitly on any medicine for a cure, but we do believe that if a bottle Chamberlain's Diarrhoea Remedy were kept on hand and administered at the inception of an attack, much suffering might be avoided, and in very many cases the presence of a physician would not be required. At least this has been our experience during the last 20 years. For sale by L. Rosenheimer.

JEWELER AND OPTICIAN. West Bend, Wis. ...

Broken Bric-a-Bracs.

Mr. Major, the famous cement man of New York, explains some very interesting facts about Major's Cement.

The multitude who use this standard article know that it is many hundred per cent. better than other cements for which similar claims are made, but a great many do not know why. The simple reason is that Mr. Major uses the best materials and ever discovered and other manufacturers do not use them, because they are too expensive and do not show large profits. Mr. Major tells us that one of the elements of his cement costs $2.15 a pound, and another costs $2.65 a gallon, while a large share of the so-called cements and liquid lime upon the market are nothing more than lime slabs dissolved in water or etric acid, and in some cases, altered slightly in color and odor by the addition of cheap and useless materials.

Major's cement retails at 12c and 21c a barrel, and when a dealer tries to sell a substitute you can depend upon it that his only object is to make larger profits.

The profit on Major's cement is as much as any dealer could make on any cement. And this is doubly true in view of the fact that each dollar gets his share of the benefit of Mr. Major's advertising, which now amounts to over $5,000 a month, throughout the country. Established in 1875.

Insist on having Major's. Don't accept any off-hand advice from a druggist. If you are all hands (and you will be likely to find that you are a good deal more so than you imagine) you can repair your rubber and leather articles with Major's Leather Cement. And you will be surprised at how many dollars a year you will thus save.

If your druggist can't supply you, it will be forwarded by mail (either kind) free of postage.
