A Progressive and Prosperous Village Having Many Resources--Early History.

The Public Spirited, Leading and Progressive Men--Their Business, with Descriptions.

To all readers who are interested in the village, all branches of history which illustrate the evolution of a crude frontier settlement into a promising and prosperous village, are deeply interesting.

Some of the finest specimens of mounds in the United States have been found in this region. These usually assume the form of some animal or were built for defense.

The Indians who have inhabited this territory were the Foxes, Sacs, Menomonees and Potawatomies. Many of our old residents can remember when the two latter tribes were still here.

The first church was built by the Catholics, but the first church organization was the Dutch Reformed. The origin of the enterprises here now is mentioned in the editorial.

Kewaskum is an Indian name, and was given to the village by J. T. Van Vechten, now living in Watouasa. Five denominations furnish spiritual institutions: namely, Catholic, Lutheran, German, Methodist, Evangelical Lutheran and Reform.

The public school has been kept at a high standard. It is a joint school in which both the town and village contribute to its support.

The press is represented by the Statesman, which was founded by its present owner, C. E. Krahn, in 1885. It is independent in politics and is devoted to the welfare of Kewaskum.

ments. Mr. Kemmel has created a large business here through his individual efforts and his ability to make goods whose merit and superiority over similar products gives them a preferred standing with the trade.

forts have afforded a generous stimulus to the prosperity and growth of the village. Personally, he is liberal and progressive, and always voices any move for general good, so he is a valuable man to Kewaskum.

ADOLPH ROSENHEIMER.

generous of Moritz and Adolph Rosenheimer. These represent greatly diversified business requirements, and demand in their management ability and talent far above the average intellect.

It is the duty and obligation of those who have lost beloved ones to erect a fitting memorial to their love and sympathy in the shape of a tombstone or monument. Mr. Klein's mission is to furnish time goods, and he has seen of his work warrants us in saying that it is equal to the best to be found anywhere.

This business dates back twenty-seven years, so its history is very essential in the village. It represents the old-time trade of the village, and a just appreciation of Mr. Witzig's labor, and a just appreciation of his general good will.

Mr. Miller is fully entitled to a detailed and glowing notice for his reputation as a landlord who will always bring him business. He is one of our best citizens, and is now making a lead for an Illinois dealer.

years in Minneapolis working at his trade, and very artistic in production. The creamery is under the same control, and has some 300 patrons.

The trade in hardware, stoves, tinware, etc., forms a considerable item in our commercial aggregate. It is supplied by several dealers here, and the leading ones being the subject of this sketch, C. F. Behnke, who is now in his sixth year of business.

This firm are accomplished business leaders, and very artistic in production. The creamery is under the same control, and has some 300 patrons.

It requires good ability to make a success of the very business and keep up the stock. Mr. Shultz seems to be the right man in the right place as his horses are good lookers and drivers and his vehicles are in first-class shape.

The trade represented by Mr. Wright is one which reflects the talent and genius of its followers in the work produced, so it is that a good painter must be original.

A business house, like that over which Mr. Mayer presides, is a credit to the village, and stands as an evidence of the progress and prosperity of the village.

Saved The Pastor's Wife

People who want to hear the Rev. J. Gunderman, the Baptist minister at Rives Junction, Mich., may have noticed that his thoughts were not wholly on his sermon, and that there was a look of intense anxiety upon his face, but surely a person may be excused for not thinking wholly of his work when his wife may be near death at home, and such was the state of Mrs. Gunderman. A severe attack of Grip was followed by Pneumonia. During nine weeks she suffered all the unspeakable agonies of this terrible disease, and would have died but for that invincible cure, Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Of her frightful cough Rev. Gunderman wrote: "She had terrible paroxysms of coughing, lasting two or three hours, until it seemed as though she would die in one of them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery. It was quick and highly satisfactory in results, allaying the irritation and inducing free expectation. It's a pleasure to recommend such a valuable medicine, as the results in the case of my wife were marvelous." This miracle-working remedy has, for 30 years, shown such wonderful results in those desperate maladies as Croup, Whooping Cough, Consumption, Pleurisy, Hemorrhage, Grip, Pneumonia and Bronchitis, while sufferers feel its infallible force at once in Asthma, Hoarseness and Hay Fever. It saves children from dreadful Whooping Cough or frightful Croup; for Coughs, Colds and all Bronchial Troubles. Dr. King's New Discovery is the quickest, surest cure in the world. Price 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed. A trial bottle free. At all druggists.
