BOWLING NOTES

The Klim Bims, a jolly good bunch from West Bend, accompanied by a War correspondent, a Red Cross official and a bunch of rooters, all dressed in gallant attire, were in the village last Sunday evening and bowled a match game with the L. R.'s. of this village, the latter winning by the overwhelming score of 138 points. After the match game, the local boys had Landlord Eberle prepare a fine spread for the occasion in honor of the visitors. During the time refreshments were served, P. Rosenheimer and General Winkler amused the crowd with their popular songs, solos and duets. A return game will be bowled at West Bend on the Opera House alleys next week Thursday evening. To the Public.

As we have been asked several times as to whether we will discontinue our Jewelry business, also whether we have ever had an offer to sell, will say, that we have no intentions whatever to discontinue our business, nor have we ever had an offer to sell our stock, which of course we will not, for we are here to stay. We will hereafter, as before, sell all our goods under the same motto "QUALITY FIRST, THEN PRICE." Our many satisfied customers can tell you what that means. We also wish to state that we thank our many patrons for the past favors extended to us, which have been greatly appreciated. We most sincerely trust that we may count you among our customers in the future, as in the past, and assure you our every effort to please.

FREIGHT WRECKED TRAFFIC TIED UP

Flange on the Wheel of a Car Breaks on Bridge Causing a Bad Smashup.

Way freight No. 292, southbound was derailed on the Schomberg bridge, four miles north of Campbellsport last week Saturday morning shortly after 10 o'clock. The train crew, which was in charge of Conductor Wm. Hallett, escaped injury. Traffic was delayed for over seven hours.

The accident was caused by the breaking of one of the flanges on the wheel of a freight car loaded with barley from Minneapolis consigned to Milwaukee. Three cars left the track piling upon one another as they fell through the bridge. Five other cars were badly damaged. The contents of the cars were strewn along the tracks for some distance. The engine just escaped and remained on the track. Two of the cars were loaded with barley, one with hard coal, one with hay and the remaining with merchandise.

The wreck occurring on a bridge, that structure being completely damaged, had to be repaired before traffic could be resumed. Two wrecking crews, one from North Fond du Lac and another from Milwaukee were dispatched to the scene. While they were at work rebuilding the track and bridge, all trains both north and south bound were sent via the Lake Shore division. Train No. 105 due here at 3:26 P. M. was the first train to arrive in the village. It carried the mail and express of the noon train. It went as far as the wreck, where passengers were transferred from the north, and proceeded to back up to Milwaukee and then sent over the Lake Shore division.

The neighborhood of Eden seems to be a hodo for the Northwestern line along this division, as wrecks in that vicinity have frequently occurred.

This was the second wreck of the week that Conductor Hallett was in, the first one being at Rockfield last week Monday, when a beam brake broke and threw a box car zig zag across the track. A similar accident happened to the evening passenger train, known as 107, last Saturday evening, while the train was pulling out of Milwaukee, luckily the trouble was discovered before very much damage could be done. Outside of a few broken windows, a broken door and a shake up of the passengers in the smoker, no other damage was done.

Otto Groeschel Writes.

We are in receipt of a letter from Otto Groeschel of Stambaugh, Mich., renewing his subscription to the Statesman. Otto is well known in this vicinity, being a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Groeschel of this village. He is now holding the responsible position as cashier of the Commercial Bank of Stambaugh, Mich. His letter reads as follows: "Think it about time that I paid my subscription to the Statesman as I see it is marked February 1910. I enclosed herewith check of $5.25 for two years subscription to the Statesman and one year Mc Call's Magazine.

We are having fine winter weather, about eighteen inches of snow on the level and nice steady cold. Have had it 35 degrees below this winter, but the past three or four weeks averaged about 5 below every night. It is dry cold and a fellow don't mind 30 below here as much as you do zero weather at Kewaskum.

We have organized a "Commercial Club" here as you can see by this letter-head and we intend to do wonderful things in the near future.

That is one thing that Kewaskum needs and it is up to young fellows to get it started. We pay a membership fee of $10.00 which includes dues for six months after which the dues are $10.00 per year. We have a membership of over a hundred now with more coming in. Shake off the cob-webs and get in line for A Commercial Club for Kewaskum, Wisconsin."

Mr. Groeschel is treasurer and chairman of the transportation committee of the aforesaid mentioned club.

Creditors Accept Terms.

A settlement on the 50 per cent basis has been accepted by the creditors of the Fond du Lac Cheese and Butter company. The settlement will be made within thirty days or as soon as the claims can be filed and all claims will be paid in cash by the manager of O. A. Piggott, president and manager of the company. The preferred creditors will receive an additional 25 per cent, which will also be paid by Mr. Piggott on Saturday showing he had sustained losses for the past two years. One dear resulted in a loss of $30,000 and the recent fire at his warehouse caused a direct loss of $30,000.

Pyre in Dramatics.

Mr. Walton Pyre, the well known director, will be with us in Groeschel's hall, to-morrow, Sunday, evening. He will entertain the people with dramatic readings and impersonations. The proceeds of the evening will go to the benefit of the local High School. Everybody is urged to hear Mr. Pyre, as it is a great treat that he has consented to give his readings and impersonations to the people of this community.

Resigns as General Manager.

B. G. Broad has resigned his position as general manager of the Milwaukee Northern railway and has accepted a similar position with a tug line engaged in towing business between Albany and New York. John St. John has been appointed general manager to succeed Mr. Broad. The change will go into effect on March 1.

Gives Birth to Twins.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Koenen, living just outside the village limits are again the proud parents of twins, a girl and a boy, who were born last Sunday. This is the third pair of twins that were born to them within six years, four of which are girls and two are boys.

Are Near Allenton.

The prospecting party of the Northwestern Iron company has come within four miles west of Allenton and the farmers in that vicinity are very anxious to find out if there is any considerable amount of ore deposit. If ore is found the farmers will certainly make a fortune out of their land.—Hartford Press.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE HELD TO GIVE AN ART EXHIBIT

The Farmers' Institute Held Thursday and Friday was well Attended.

The Farmers' Institute held in Groeschel's hall Thursday and Friday was a success. A large number of farmers were in attendance at all sessions on both days. Good exhibits of grain showed what can be done in this vicinity.

The institute was opened Thursday morning by President Peters of the village, who extended a cordial welcome to all. Mr. Stiles, the conductor, proceeded with an interesting talk on Soil Conservation. He was preceded by Supt. McKerrrow, who spoke on Tuberculosis. In the afternoon lectures by Michaels gave an interesting talk on Silo and Stilage, Supt. McKerrrow on Good Feeding and Mr. Stiles on Good Cows. The local public school entertained the audience in the evening with a very appropriate program, while Mr. Stiles gave a talk on Farmer and Education.

Friday morning the discussions of Crop Rotation, Clover and Corn and Clean Dairies were discussed by Mr. Stiles and Mr. Michaels. In the afternoon all were entertained with the interesting lectures on Alfalfa, Creameries and Roads by the Messrs. Michaels, Stiles and Hirst. Bulletin No. 24 was distributed to all free at the opening of the institute on Thursday morning. This book is a very handy book and should be read, word for word by everyone who received one.

Locals Win.

The basketball games played here last Friday evening were largely attended. Both games being very interesting. The High School girls and City girls entertained the audience as a curtain raiser. The high school girls winning by a score of 7 to 0.

The main game was the one played between the Cedarburg High and the local High. This game was very close from the time the referee blew the whistle for the start until the final whistle of the time-keeper. Both teams were evenly matched, but the local boys outplayed the visitors in passing and throwing baskets. The score at the end of the first half was 14 to 7 in favor of the locals. In the second half the visitors made a very hard effort to win and at one time they thought they had the game as they scored 5 points before anyone could take a breath. The score finally ended 25 to 18 with Cedarburg at the short end.

The game was not as clean as games played heretofore on the local floor. From a spectators standpoint it looked more like prize fighting, with Cedarburg doing the roughing, of course it must be admitted that the locals did some roughing, but it was due to the fact that their opponents were forcing them to it. The visitors nevertheless were gentlemen.

Young Man Breaks Leg.

While returning home after the mask ball held by the base ball association last Saturday evening, where he had been assisting as a waiter, Ed. Miller, a driver for the Brewing company, slipped on the ice covered sidewalk between the Wittmann and Westenberg residences early in the morning and fractured his right leg above the ankle. In attempting to recover himself, his full weight came upon the leg, which resulted in the fracture. He was removed to his home, medical aid summoned and the fracture reduced. His many friends hope for a complete union of the fracture. He will be laid up for six weeks or more.—West Bend News.

Mr. Miller is the popular beer distributor for the West Bend Brewing company in this village. No matter what kind of weather Ed was sure to be in the village every morning with a load of beer. He is well known by everyone in this vicinity. It is the hope of this community that Ed. will soon again be able to make his regular deliveries in this village.

Deceased was born in Germany on December 12, 1859, when a girl of 7 years she together with her parents came to this country, settling in Chicago, where she resided up to the time of her marriage to Fred Bleck on September 20, 1909, when she came to her present home.

The funeral was held Thursday morning from the St. Lucas church with interment in the congregation's cemetery. Rev. F. Greve officiated.

CARD OF THANKS.

We hereby wish to express our sincere thanks to all those who assisted us during the illness of my beloved wife and to all those who attended the funeral.

400 Rifle Shots a Minute.

Expert machinists are at work in the United States government shops in Springfield, Mass., perfecting improvement on a French gun that can be carried by almost every soldier, and is said to be almost as destructive as the Maxim. The new firearm is called the Benet-mercier, and has a capacity of 400 shots a minute. It differs from the Maxim, which has a capacity of 600 shots a minute, in that it weighs only 20 pounds, and can be carried by each member of a regiment.

LA FOLLETTE AGAIN ELECTED SENATOR

LEGISLATORS BALLOT TO RETURN BADGER STATESMAN FOR A SECOND TERM.

ONE REPUBLICAN PROTESTS

Vote of Senator Whitehead of Janesville, Who Cast His Ballot for General Winkler, the Only Dissension in Ranks of Party.

Madison.—With only one republican senator, John M. Whitehead, opposing the election, and strictly according to schedule, the Wisconsin legislature, voting as separate bodies, re-elected Robert M. La Follette to the United States senate.

Except that the upper house delayed action in order to give Senator A. W. Sanborn, who was unable to arrive on time, an opportunity to vote, there was no deviation from the program as arranged.

Senator Whitehead's unexpected action in casting his ballot for Gen. Frederick C. Winkler of Milwaukee was the only sensation of the senatorial election. Otherwise the votes were cast on strictly party lines, and at no time was there the slightest doubt as to the outcome.

The senate's first and decisive ballot resulted as follows:

La Follette (Rep.), 24; Charles H. Weiss (Dem.), 4; John C. Kleist (Soc. Dem.), 2; Gen. F. C. Winkler, 1. The total number of votes cast was 31.

In the assembly Senator La Follette received a majority on the first ballot, which resulted as follows:

La Follette (Rep.), 59; Charles H. Weiss (Dem.), 27; John C. Kleist (Soc. Dem.), 12. The total number of votes cast was 98.

Although the separate elections made the senior senator's election no more certain than it was before the ballots were cast, both houses met later in joint session for the closing formal joint vote.

Following his election Senator La Follette appeared before the joint session and delivered a short speech of acceptance.

MAN'S DEATH IS A MYSTERY

Badly Cut and Burned, Victor Gustafson of Westboro Claimed Robbers Assaulted Him.

Ashland.—Victor Gustafson of Westboro died here the victim, he claimed, of a vicious assault by burglars. He said that two masked men entered his house at night and assaulted him with an ax, set fire to the house and departed. He regained consciousness sufficiently to crawl out of the burning building, and was found sitting in the snow, severely burned and cut. He was 58 years old and is said to have been despondent. From the nature of his cuts, some doubts are thrown on his story.

Erickson Remains on Pal Board, Madison.—Halford Erickson of Superior has been reappointed to the railroad commission by Gov. McGovern.

Since the organization of the commission in 1906, Halford Erickson has been a member of it. Previously he had been state commissioner of labor, census and industrial statistics.

Charges Against Water Company, Racine.—The city council will file a complaint with the state railroad commission charging the Racine Water company with discrimination in rates. Consumers outside the city limits are given lower rates than those within it. An effort will be made for municipal ownership of the plant.

Suffrage Bill Introduced, Madison.—Assemblyman Kemper has introduced in the assembly a measure to submit the question of woman's suffrage to popular vote at the general election in November, 1912.

Pioneer Octogenarian Dead, Manitowoc.—William Echtenaucher, a pioneer settler of this city, who with his wife celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding a few weeks ago, is dead at the age of 80.

COMMISSION REMITS FEES

Threatened Trouble Between State Treasurer and Grain and Warehouse Body Is Averted.

Madison.—The misunderstanding between the Wisconsin Grain and Warehouse commission and State Treasurer A. H. Dahl over the remittance of fees held by the former on July 31 last has been cleared up. Former State Senator George B. Hudnall of Superior, representing the commission, turned over to the state treasurer a check for $2,100 as the unpaid balance of the money in the inspection fund of the commission on July 31 and the suit threatened by the treasurer to compel payment will not be brought.

Under the law the commission is required to turn over to the state treasurer the unexpended balance in its fund on July 31. At that time there was about $6,000 in the fund, but the commission believed it would need part of this to pay its expenses until the receipts of the fall work began to come in. In August it turned over $3,500 and retained the balance.

As more than sufficient funds came in during the fall and winter months to pay the expenses of the commission, it was able to remit to the state treasurer the balance due, but it failed to do so promptly and Treasurer Dahl got after it.

CRUSHES SKULLS WITH CLUB

Lumber Jack Slays Two Companions With Sled Stake in Free-for-All Fight at Camp Near Merrill.

Ashland.—In a free-for-all fight between lumberjacks at Mellen two men were killed and several received minor injuries. The dead are Adams of Superior and John Gordon, a camp foreman.

Martin Miller was arrested and rushed to the jail at Ashland to avoid further trouble.

John White, a chum of Miller, got into a fight outside a saloon and Miller rushed to his assistance. He says that three lumberjacks had his chum cornered, and grabbing a sled stake, he proceeded to clear the field.

He crushed the skulls of Adams and Gordon, and they never spoke after they fell. With the two men at his feet he remained in undisputed possession of the field, but submitted quietly to arrest.

Madison.—Consideration of proposed legislation to help county fairs throughout the state will be part of the program at the annual convention of the Association of Wisconsin Fairs, to be opened in this city next Wednesday. It is thought that arrangements will be made for delegates to appear before legislative committees handling these matters.

Fond du Lac.—With his face almost eaten away by rats and birds, his body frozen, Frank Heidtke, aged 30, was found in an outbuilding at the rear of a saloon. Heidtke disappeared seven weeks ago, leaving his wife and children. It was believed he had gone west. The authorities state the man had been dead fully seven weeks. A carbolic acid bottle found near the body told the story.

Racine.—While driving across Deck's crossing in the southwestern part of Kenosha county, the carriage containing Monroe Hicks, a well known farmer from the town of Salem, and Lucius Pease of South Dakota, was struck by a fast Northwestern freight train. Both men were thrown over twenty feet. Hicks died on the train while being taken to a hospital, while Pease has both legs broken, is injured internally, and not expected to live. The dead man is one of the most prominent farmers of Kenosha county. Pease, who had been Hicks' boyhood friend, had been visiting him.

CREDITORS WILL GET HALF

Settlement of 50 Cents on the Dollar Accepted on Liabilities of Fond du Lac Dairy Products Firm.

Fond du Lac.—Rather than have the matter get into the bankruptcy courts, more than 200 creditors of the Fond du Lac Cheese and Butter company, representing liabilities aggregating $207,570.06, meeting here recently, voted to accept a settlement of 50 cents on the dollar. Creditors having warehouse receipts, amounting to $289,992.56, held out for 75 per cent, refusing the 50 cent basis. It was not until O. A. Piggott, general manager and president of the cheese and butter company, agreed to pay the additional 25 per cent, that a settlement was made. Claims of general creditors of the cheese factory men and banks total $118,500.

DAIRYMEN TO MAKE APPEAL

Waukesha Association Determined to Fight Tuberculin Test Decision in Federal Supreme Court.

Madison.—It has been decided by the Waukesha Dairymen's association to appeal the tuberculin test ordinance to the United States supreme court. The action is taken in an attempt to reverse the decision of the Wisconsin supreme court upholding the Milwaukee ordinance providing that all cows producing for Milwaukee consumption must be subjected to the tuberculin test.

It was also decided to take immediate steps to test the state tuberculin law. The statute provides that no cattle can be sold for dairy or breeding purposes in Wisconsin without undergoing the tuberculin test.

INGRAM IS GIVEN WAR GAVEL

Handsome Black Oak Relic of Civil Strife Days Presented to the Assembly Speaker.

Madison.—A gavel made from a black oak tree which stood on Camp Randall, now part of the grounds of the University of Wisconsin, nearly half a century ago, when it was used as a military camp for Wisconsin's civil war soldiers, was presented to Speaker Charles A. Ingram of the assembly by a committee of grand army men consisting of Adj. Gen. Fred A. Bird and Patriotic Instructor H. W. Rood of the Wisconsin department and Past Commander William Small of the Lucius Fairchild post. The gavel was carved by Mr. Small and is unusually artistic.

School Board Is Defeated.

Manitowoc.—School boards in Wisconsin cannot institute actions against teachers for alleged breach of contract without the authority of a vote of the electors of the district. This important decision, said to be the first in Wisconsin on the question, was handed down this morning by Judge Kirwan in circuit court in the case of the school district No. 2 of this city against Miss Gertrude Paine, a former teacher. The board sued for $500 after Miss Paine had left to accept a position with another school.

Wisconsin News Notes.

Neenah.—With an expected attendance of at least 2,000 dairymen from this and adjoining states the annual state convention of the Wisconsin Dairymen's association will be held in this city on February 8, 9 and 10. A very interesting program has been arranged. The annual banquet followed by a program, which has been prepared by the Neenah Business Men's association, will take place on the evening of February 9. The business meetings will be held on the last day of the convention.

Monroe.—Imbued with tales of daring in dime novels and yellow newspapers, an 18 year old lad, named Winslow, walked into the store of W. A. Becker, held up the proprietor and several customers at the point of a revolver and looted the cash register of $4.35. He wore no disguise and was arrested a few minutes later.

Marinette.—Three days after she had been awarded $2,800 damages against the city for injuries sustained in a fall on a defective sidewalk, Mrs. Frank Perkins, in attempting to board a street car, fell and was dragged over a half block by one foot. She will sue the street car company.

Sheboygan.—August G. Meyers, defeated for county clerk at the recent election, has filed a libel suit, demanding $10,000 damages from Gus Schiereck and the Plymouth Reporter. Meyers claims that a libelous article, charging him with grafting, which appeared in The Reporter just before the election, caused him to be defeated.

New Richmond.—In a row on Main street Rockford Clark was shot and seriously wounded by his half brother, Tip Clark. Four shots were fired from a .32 caliber revolver at close range, all taking effect, one shot in the lungs, one in the abdomen, one through the right hand and another in the left thigh.

Marinette.—Entering a pawnshop on the pretense of wishing to purchase a revolver, William Brown, aged 19, sent a bullet from the weapon through his right lung. He was discouraged over failure to make his fortune in the west.

Eau Claire.—April 1, if not sooner, will witness the start of the erection of the $100,000 Y. M. C. A. building in Eau Claire. It is expected to have the plans and specifications in the hands of the contractors within two weeks.

Antigo.—The great new sawmill of the Antigo Lumber company, built to replace the one destroyed by fire, one of the largest and best equipped in the United States, has gone into commission.

Beloit.—The glee and mandolin clubs of Beloit college are planning a concert tour through northern Wisconsin.

Kenosha.—Dr. J. B. Spaulding, health commissioner here, has been found not guilty in a Chicago court, on a charge of abduction. The accusation was made by a young woman of that city after the doctor had complied with her request in having her child adopted.

Racine.—Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, one of the wealthiest women of Racine and widow of the late Chauncey Hall, a pioneer banker, is dead after a short illness, aged 72. She was a daughter of A. Loomis, who settled in Racine over sixty-five years ago

INSIDE HISTORY.

Some Self-Explanatory Letters.

Battle Creek, Mich., Jan. 7, '11.

Dr. E. H. Pratt,

Suite 1202, 100 State St., Chicago, Illinois.

My Dear Doctor:

"Owing to some disagreement with magazine several years ago they have become quite vituperative, and of late have publicly charged me with falsehoods in my statements that we have genuine testimonial letters.

"It has been our rule to refrain from publishing the names either of laymen or physicians who have written to us in a complimentary way, and we have declined to accede to the demand of attorneys that we turn these letters over to them.

"I am asking a few men whom I deem to be friends to permit me to reproduce some of their letters over their signatures in order to refute the falsehoods.

"We have hundreds of letters from physicians, but I esteem the one that you wrote to me in 1906 among the very best, particularly in view of the fact that it recognizes the work I have been trying to do partly through the little book, 'The Road to Wellville.'

"I do not sell or attempt to sell the higher thought which is more important than the kind of food, but I have taken considerable pains to extend to humanity such facts as may have come to me on this subject.

"In order that your mind may be refreshed I am herewith enclosing a copy of your good letter, also a copy of the little book, and if you will give me the privilege of printing this over your signature I will accompany the printing with an explanation as to why you permitted its use in publication in order to refute falsehoods, and under that method of treatment I feel, so far as I know, there would be no breach of the code of ethics.

"I trust this winter weather is finding you well, contented and enjoying the fruits that are yours by right.

"With all best wishes, I am,

Yours very truly,

C. W. POST.

Dr. Pratt, who is one of the most prominent and skillful surgeons in America, very kindly granted our request in the cause of truth and justice.

Chicago, Aug. 31, 1906.

Mr. C. W. Post,

Battle Creek, Mich.

My Dear Sir:

"I write to express my personal appreciation of one of your business methods, that of accompanying each package of your Grape-Nuts production with that little booklet 'The Road to Wellville.' A more appropriate, clear headed and effective presentation of health-giving auto-suggestions could scarcely be penned.

"Grape-Nuts is a good food in itself, but the food contained in this little article is still better stuff. I commend the practice because I know that the greed and avariciousness, the consequent graft and other types of thievery and malicious mischief generally can never be cured by legislative action.

"The only hope for the betterment of the race rests in individual soul culture.

"In taking a step in this direction, your process has been so original and unique that it must set a pace for other concerns until finally the whole country gets flavored with genuine, practical Christianity.

"I shall do all that lies in my power to aid in the appreciation of Grape-Nuts, not so much for the sake of the food itself as for the accompanying suggestions.

"Visiting Battle Creek the other day with a friend, Dr. Kelly of Evanston, Illinois, while I was consulting with Mr. Gregory, my friend visited your factories and came away greatly amazed, not only at the luxurious furnishings of the offices generally and the general equipment of the place, but with the sweet spirit of courtesy and kindness that seemed to fill the air with a spiritual ozone that was good to breathe.

"The principles expressed in the little booklet, 'The Road to Wellville,' I well know are practical and they work in business of all kinds, including sanitariums, as will be fairly tested before time is done.

"I know you will not regard this letter of appreciation as an intruding one. It is simply the salutation of good fellowship to you from a man who, although he has never seen you, feels drawn to you by the kinship of thought.

"The only thing that makes a man live forever in the hearts of his countrymen and his race is the good that he does. Your position in this respect is an enviable one and I wish to extend my congratulations."

Yours respectfully,
E. H. PRATT.

FIGHTING THE WHITE PLAGUE

Educational Posters by the Thousand to Be Displayed All Over United States.

During the next three months, the bill boards of the United States will display 20,000 educational posters on tuberculosis, according to an announcement made by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

This will conclude the campaign begun a year ago, when the National Bill Posters' association donated free space to the tuberculosis cause, the Poster Printers' association offered free printing, and nine paper manufacturers gave the paper for the posters. The combined value of these several donations for this three-month campaign is nearly $100,000.

The posters are in six different designs and are all printed in three colors. They are seven feet wide and nine feet high. Already nearly 2,500 of these posters have been hung on the bill boards of 46 different cities, and it is planned to distribute 20,000 more before April 1 in over 400 towns and cities. Any anti-tuberculosis society in the United States may receive free of charge, except for transportation, as many of these posters as can be hung on the boards in its territory. The National association with the tuberculosis committee of the National Billposters and Distributors are conducting the campaign.

The posters show in graphic form how fresh air, good food, and rest cure tuberculosis; how bad air, overwork and closed windows lead to consumption; and how the careless consumptive menaces the health of his family by spitting on the floor.

TAFT FORBIDS WAR

SENDS ORDER TO HAITI AND SAN DOMINGO TO STOP QUARREL.

PROTECTORATE GIVES RIGHT

United States Guarantees Dominican Debt and Has Power to Inform Haitians They Cannot Interfere With American Interests.

Washington.—That there must be no war between Haiti and San Domingo was the peremptory order issued by President Taft Tuesday night to the American minister at San Domingo.

This is the first time that such an order has ever gone from the White House. The order is made possible by the fact that the United States, by guaranteeing San Domingo's debt to European nations, made of that republic a protectorate of this government, and consequently gave the United States the power to tell Haiti that she cannot interfere with American political institutions in San Domingo.

The act of the president with regard to San Domingo and Haiti illustrates what will be the effect of the proposed moral and financial protectorate over Honduras. With ten millions of American money invested in Honduras and with the convention recently signed by Secretary Knox and the minister of Honduras, the president can, when the occasion demands, forbid either Guatemala or Nicaragua to attack Honduras and forbid hostilities at any time between Honduras and any Central American state.

San Domingo and Haiti have been quarrelling for over a year about a frontier line. San Domingo claimed the right to extend one of her roads across the traditional border, and this brought up the old question of the frontier. Both nations armed for the conflict and sent troops to the scene of trouble. The president offered his good offices. There were some perfunctory acknowledgements of the favor, but the armies remained in camp.

U. S. AIDS DIAZ TO END WAR

Troops Ordered to Four Texas Towns to Stop Smuggling of Arms to Rebels.

Washington.—Arrangements were made Tuesday through the department of state, the war department and the department of justice for the United States to end the revolution in Mexico.

This action was taken at the instance of representatives of American financiers having large investments in the republic of Mexico and comes after the Mexican government, through its diplomatic representative here, Ambassador De La Barra, has fallen utterly to get any response to its representations that the revolution is being fostered by the violation of neutrality laws that prohibit the shipping from one country to another of arms and munitions of war to be used against the constituted government of that country.

Orders were issued to move United States troops, with pack trains, from Fort Sam Houston to Brownsville, Laredo, Eagle Pass and Del Rio, on the Mexican border. These troops will patrol the border from Brownsville to El Paso to prevent further shipments of arms and ammunition to the Mexican revolutionists from their agents in the United States.

The Mexican embassy was notified that the troops would be dispatched at once to the four points specified on the Rio Grande. If the troops ordered to move are found insufficient additional forces will be provided, as once in action the United States will proceed aggressively to put an end to the smuggling that has been going on in violation of the neutrality laws.

PHILLIPS DIES OF WOUNDS

Author Who Was Shot Down by Crazy Violinist Succumbs to His Wounds.

New York.—David Graham Phillips, the novelist, who was shot down on Monday by Fitzhugh C. Goldsborough, the crazed violinist, who afterward killed himself, died Tuesday night at Bellevue hospital.

He made a valiant fight for life and, for a time, the surgeons thought he might pull through. At nine o'clock he suffered a hemorrhage of the right lung, which was performed by one of the bullets.

While the surgeons were working over the author his sister and brother entered the ward. Phillips recognized them. He pressed his sister's hand.

"I'm feeling very weak," he told her. "I don't know if I can pull through."

Soon he was seized with another hemorrhage. He lapsed into unconsciousness at 10:30 o'clock. Just before that he said, feebly: "I feel cold. It's all over."

VOTE PROBE IS BEGUN

REPORTER GOES BEFORE GRAND JURY, ACCUSES OFFICIALS.

Repeats Story That City Attorney and Sheriff Had Openly Admitted They Had Bought Votes.

Danville, Ill.—The investigation into the alleged trafficking in votes in Vermilion county during the last election is in full swing before the county grand jury. One of the first witnesses called was R. H. Frankenberger, a reporter on a Danville newspaper, who accuses Frank W. Jones, city attorney, of openly admitting that he had purchased votes.

Frankenberger told the grand jury the same story, which, published last Saturday, brought forth prompt denial from City Attorney Jones and Sheriff John T. Shepard, for whom, Frankenberger said under oath, Jones admitted buying the votes. The conversation in which the alleged admission of Jones took place was related by the newspaper man to the grand jury, according to his version of it.

He was followed before the grand jury by G. A. Martin, a newspaper man from Indianapolis, who was sent here to "cover" the election fraud story, and who told the same story as did Frankenberger. Martin carried into the grand jury room notes he said he prepared after coming from Jones' office Saturday, when the alleged conversation took place. These notes purported to be as near to a verbatim report of the conversation as Martin then could remember.

Frankenberger, just before leaving the grand jury room, also told of alleged offers of vacations and other "good things" which he said had been made to him if he would not go before the grand jury. He gave the grand jury the name of the man he said made this offer to him.

PROGRESSIVE LEAGUE FORMED

Republicans Announce They Are to Fight for Popular Government—Many Reforms Advocated.

Washington.—Organization of the Republican Progressive league by progressive Republican senators, representatives, governors and others—an organization which will seek to "fight for the establishment of popular government"—was announced here Monday. Plans of the new league were concluded at a meeting Saturday night, at which time a declaration of principles was signed, a constitution adopted and the following officers elected: President, Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., Oregon; vice-president, Representative George W. Norris, Nebraska, and Gov. Chase Osborn, Michigan; treasurer, Charles R. Crane, Chicago.

Executive Committee—Senator Moses E. Clapp, Minnesota; Senator Joseph L. Bristow, Kansas; Representative E. H. Hubbard, Iowa; Representative Irvine L. Lenroot, Wisconsin; Representative-Elect William Kent, California; Gifford Pinchot, Pennsylvania; George L. Record, New Jersey.

The declaration of principles signed by nine Republican United States senators, the governors of six Republican states, thirteen members of the house and others in part follows:

"The object of the league is the promotion of popular government and progressive legislation.

"Popular government in America has been thwarted and progressive legislation strangled by the special interests, which control caucuses, delegates, conventions and party organizations.

"The Progressive Republican league advocates the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people; direct primaries for the nomination of all elective officials; the direct election of delegates to national conventions, with opportunity for the voter to express his choice for president and vice-president; amendment to state constitutions providing for the initiative and referendum and recall, and a thorough general corrupt practice act."

MARINES END CHINESE RIOT

The volunteers were compelled to use a Maxim gun and killed and wounded forty rioters. The viceroy immediately sent troops from Wuchang and now has the situation in thorough control.

"The Notes, Probably."

SYNOPSIS.

Lawrence Blakeley, lawyer, goes to Pittsburgh with the forged notes in the Bronson case to get the deposition of John Gilmore, millionaire. A lady requests Blakeley to buy her a Pullman ticket. He gives her lower 11 and retains lower 10. He finds a drunken man in lower 10 and retires in lower 9. He awakens in lower 2 and finds his clothes and bag missing. The man in lower 10 is found murdered. Circumstantial evidence points to both Blakeley and the man who stole his clothes. The train is wrecked and Blakeley is rescued from a burning car by a girl in blue. His arrest is broken. The girl proves to be Alison West, his partner's sweetheart. Blakeley returns home and finds he is under surveillance. Moving pictures of the train taken just before the wreck reveal to Blakeley a man leaping from the train with his stolen grip. Investigation proves that the man's name is Sullivan. Mrs. Conway, the woman for whom Blakeley bought a Pullman ticket, tries to make a bargain with him for the forged notes, not knowing that they are missing. Blakeley and an amateur detective investigate the home of Sullivan's sister. From a servant Blakeley learns that Alison West had been there on a visit and Sullivan had been attentive to her. Sullivan is the husband of a daughter of the murdered man. Blakeley's house is ransacked by the police. He learns that the affair between Alison and his partner is off. Alison tells Blakeley about the attention paid her by Sullivan, whom she was on her way to marry when the wreck came. It is planned to give Mrs. Conway the forged notes in exchange for Sullivan.

We crowded out of the elevator at the fourth floor, and found ourselves in a rather theatrical hallway of draperies and armor. It was very quiet; we stood uncertainly after the car had gone, and looked at the two or three doors in sight. They were heavy, covered with metal, and sound proof. From somewhere above came the metallic accuracy of a piano-piano, and through the open window we could hear—or feel—the throb of the Cannonball's engine.

"Well, Sherlock," McKnight said, "what's the next move in the game? It is our jump, or theirs. You brought us here."

None of us knew just what to do next. No sound of conversation penetrated the heavy doors. We waited uneasily for some minutes, and Hotchkiss looked at his watch. Then he put it to his ear.

"Good cracked on!" he exclaimed, his head cocked on one side, "I believe it has stopped. I'm afraid we are late."

We were late. My watch and Hotchkiss' agreed at nine o'clock, and, with the discovery that our man might have come and gone, our zest in the adventure began to flag. McKnight motioned us away from the door and rang the bell. There was no response, no sound within. He rang it twice, the last time long and vigorously, without result. Then he turned and looked at us.

"I don't half like this," he said. "That woman is in; you heard me ask the elevator boy. For two cents I'd—"

I had seen it when he did. The door was ajar about an inch, and a narrow wedge of rose-colored light showed beyond. Then, with both men at my heels, I stepped into the private corridor of the apartment and looked around. It was a square reception hall, with hats, and a couple of chairs. A lantern of rose-colored glass and a desk light over a writing table across made the room bright and cheerful. It was empty.

None of us were comfortable. The place was full of feminine trifles that made us feel the weakness of our position. Some such instinct made McKnight suggest diversion.

"We look like an invading army," he said. "If she's here alone, we will startle her into a spasm. One of us could take a look around and—"

"What was that? Didn't you hear something?"

The sound, whatever it had been, was not repeated. We went awkwardly out into the hall, very uncomfortable, all of us, and flipped a coin. The choice fell on me, which was right enough, for the affair was mine, primarily.

"Wait just inside the door," I directed, "and if Sullivan comes, or anybody that answers his description, grab him without ceremony and ask him questions afterwards."

The apartment, save in the hallway, was unlighted. By one of those freaks of arrangement possible only in the modern flat, I found the kitchen first, and was struck a smart and unexpected blow by a swinging door. I carried a handful of matches, and by the time I had passed through a butler's pantry and a refrigerator room I was completely lost in the darkness. Until then the situation had been merely uncomfortable; suddenly it became grisly. From somewhere near came a long-sustained groan, followed almost instantly by the crash of something—glass or china—on the floor.

I struck a fresh match, and found myself in a narrow rear hallway. Behind me was the door by which I must have come; with a keen desire to get back to the place I had started from, I opened the door and attempted to cross the room. I thought I had kept my sense of direction, but I crashed without warning into what, from the resulting jangle, was the dining table, probably laid for dinner. I cursed my stupidity in getting into such a situation, and I cursed my nerves for making my hand shake when I tried to strike a match. The groan had not been repeated.

I braced myself against the table and struck the match sharply against the sole of my shoe. It flickered faintly and went out. And then, without the slightest warning, another dish went off the table. It fell with a thousand splinterings; the very air seemed broken into crashing waves of sound. I stood still, braced against the table, holding the red end of the dying match, and listened. I had not long to wait; the groan came again, and I recognized it, the cry of a dog in straits. I breathed again.

"Come, old fellow," I said. "Come on, old man. Let's have a look at you."

I could hear the thud of his tail on the floor, but he did not move. He only whimpered. There is something companionable in the presence of a dog, and I fancied this dog in trouble. Slowly I began to work my way around the table toward him.

"Good boy," I said, as he whimpered. "We'll find the light, which ought to be somewhere or other around here, and then—"

I stumbled over something, and I drew back my foot almost instantly. "Did I step on you, old man?" I exclaimed, and bent to pat him. I remember straightening suddenly and hearing the dog pad softly toward me around the table. I recall even that I had put the matches down and could not find them. Then, with a bursting horror of the room and its contents, of the gibbering dark around me, I turned and made for the door by which I had entered.

I could not find it. I felt along the endless wainscoting, past miles of wall. The dog was beside me, I think, but he was part and parcel now, to my excited mind, with the Thing under the table. And when, after some search, I found a knob and stumbled into the reception hall, I was as nearly in a panic as any man could be.

I was myself again in a second, and by the light from the hall I led the way back to the tragedy I had stumbled on. Bronson still sat at the table, his elbows propped on it, his cigarette still lighted, burning a hole in the cloth. Partly under the table lay Mrs. Conway, face down. The dog stood over her and wagged his tail.

McKnight pointed silently to a large copper ash tray, filled with ashes and charred bits of paper.

"The notes, probably," he said ruefully. "He got them after all, and burned them before her. It was more than she could stand. Stabbed him first and then herself."

Hotchkiss got up and took off his hat. "They are dead," he announced solemnly, and took his note-book out of his hand.

McKnight and I did the only thing we could think of—drove Hotchkiss and the dog out of the room, and closed and locked the door. "It's a matter for the police," McKnight asserted. "I suppose you've got an officer tied to you somewhere, Lawrence? You usually have."

We left Hotchkiss in charge and went downstairs. It was McKnight who first saw Johnson, leaning against a park railing across the street, and called him over. We told him in a few words what we had found, and he grinned at me cheerfully.

"After awhile, in a few weeks or months, Mr. Blakeley," he said, "when you get tired of monkeying around with the blood-stain and finger-print specialist upstairs, you come to me. I've had that fellow you want under surveillance for ten days!"

CHAPTER XXX.

Finer Details.

At ten minutes before two the following day, Monday, I arrived at my office. I had spent the morning putting my affairs in shape, and in a trip to the stable. The afternoon would see me either a free man or a prisoner for an indefinite length of time, and, in spite of Johnson's promise to produce Sullivan, I was more prepared for the latter than the former.

Blobs was watching for me outside the door, and it was clear that he was in a state of excitement bordering on delirium. He did nothing, however, save to tip me a wink that meant "As man to man, I'm for you." I was too much engrossed either to reprove him or to return the courtesy, but I heard him follow me down the hall to the small room where we kept outgrown law books, typewriter supplies and, incidentally, our wraps. I was wondering vaguely if I would ever hang my hat on its nail again, when the door closed behind me. It shut firmly, without any particular amount of sound, and I was left in the dark. I groped my way to it, irritably, to find it locked on the outside. I shook it frantically, and was rewarded by a sibilant whisper through the keyhole.

"Keep quiet," Blobs was saying huskily. "You're in deadly peril. The police are waiting in your office, three of 'em. I'm goin' to lock the whole bunch in and throw the key out of the window."

"Come back here, you imp of Satan!" I called furiously, but I could hear him speeding down the corridor, and the slam of the outer office door by which he always announced his presence. And so I stood there in the ridiculous cupboard, hot with the heat of a steaming September day, musty with the smell of old leather bindings, littered with broken overshoes and handleless umbrellas. I was appalled with rage one minute, and choked with laughter the next. It seemed an hour before Blobs came back.

He came without haste, strutting with new dignity, and passed outside my prison door.

"Well, I guess that will hold them for a while," he remarked comfortably, and proceeded to turn the key. "I've got 'em fastened up like sardines in a can!" he explained, working with the lock. "Gee whiz! you'd ought to hear 'em!" When he got his breath after the shaking I gave him, he began to sputter. "How'd I know?" he demanded sulkily. "You nearly broke your neck gettin' away the other time. And I haven't got the old key. It's lost."

"Where's it lost?" I demanded, with another gesture toward his coat collar.

"Down the elevator shaft." There was a gleam of indignant satisfaction through his tears of rage and humiliation.

And so, while he hunted the key in the debris at the bottom of the shaft, I quieted his prisoners with the assurance that the lock had slipped, and that they would be free as lords as soon as we could find the janitor with a pass-key. Stuart went down finally and discovered Blobs, with the key in his pocket, telling the engineer how he had tricked to save me from arrest and failed. When Stuart came up he was almost cheerful, but Blobs did not appear again that day.

Simultaneous with the finding of the key came Hotchkiss, and we went in together. I shook hands with two men who, with Hotchkiss, made a not very animated group. The taller one, an oldish man, lean and hard, announced his errand at once.

"A Pittsburg warrant?" I inquired, unlocking my cigar drawer.

"Yes. Allegheny county has assumed jurisdiction, the exact locality where the crime was committed being in doubt." He seemed to be the spokesman. The other, shorter and rotund, kept an amiable silence. "We hope you will see the wisdom of waiting extradition," he went on. "It will save time."

"I'll come, of course," I agreed. "The sooner the better. But I want you to give me an hour here, gentlemen. I think we can interest you. Have a cigar?"

The lean man took a cigar; the rotund man took three, putting two in his pocket.

"How about the catch of that door?" he inquired jovially. "Any danger of it going off again?" Really, considering the circumstances, they were remarkably cheerful. Hotchkiss, however, was not. He paced the floor uneasily, his hands under his coat-tails. The arrival of McKnight created a diversion; he carried a long package and a corkscrew, and shook hands with the police and opened the bottle with a single gesture.

"I always want something to cheer on these occasions," he said. "Where's the water, Blakeley? Everybody ready?" Then in French he toasted the two detectives.

"To your eternal discomfiture," he said, bowing ceremoniously. "May you go home and never come back! If you take Monsieur Blakeley with you, I hope you choke."

The lean man nodded gravely. "Prost!" he said. But the fat one leaned back and laughed comically.

Hotchkiss finished a mental synopsis of his position, and put down his glass. "Gentlemen," he said pompously, "within five minutes the man you want will be here, a murderer caught in a net of evidence so fine that a mosquito could not get through."

The detectives glanced at each other solemnly. Had they not in their possession a sealskin bag containing a wallet and a bit of gold chain, which by putting the crime on me, would leave a gap big enough for Sullivan himself to crawl through?

"Why don't you say your little speech before Johnson brings the other man, Lawrence?" McKnight inquired. "They won't believe you, but it will help them to understand what is coming."

"You understand, of course," the lean man put in gravely, "that what you say may be used against you."

"I'll take the risk," I answered impatiently.

It took some time to tell the story of my worse than useless trip to Pittsburg, and its sequel. They listened gravely, without interruption.

"Mr. Hotchkiss here," I finished, "believes that the man Sullivan, whom we are momentarily expecting, committed the crime. Mr. McKnight is inclined to implicate Mrs. Conway, who stabbed Bronson and then herself last night. As for myself, I am open to conviction."

"I hope not," said the stout detective quizzically. And then Alison was announced. My impulse to go out and meet her was forestalled by the detectives, who rose when I did. McKnight, therefore, brought her in, and I met her at the door.

"I have put you to a great deal of trouble," I said contritely, when I saw her glance around the room. "I wish I had not—"

"It is only right that I should come," she replied, looking up at me. "I am the unconscious cause of most of it. I am afraid. Mrs. Dallas is going to wait in the outer office."

I presented Hotchkiss and the two detectives, who eyed her with interest. In her poise, her beauty, even in her gown, I fancy she represented a new type to them. They remained standing until she sat down.

"I have brought the necklace," she began, holding out a white-wrapped box, "as you asked me to."

I passed it, unopened, to the detectives. "The necklace from which was broken the fragment you found in the sealskin bag," I explained. "Miss West found it on the floor of the car, near lower ten."

Knowledge of the World.

Everybody but a fool keeps good friends with waiters, for, whether these have any union or not, they are a big-fisted brotherhood, and more than once I have seen every waiter in a restaurant, even as a swarm of bees, fall aboard some "bad man," and when he came to in the hospital he would look like Quixote after the swine drovers got through with him. With all their tricks and knowledge of the world, waiters are singularly unspoiled, good-natured and agreeable, and they are full of interesting, often scientific, information. They see a side of humanity that nobody else ever sees, mostly the comedy and picaresque side. Considering their housed-up condition, it seems remarkable how much they know about what is going on. When not busy they are always enthusiastically engaged in swapping pointers and information, which, in a way, accounts for some of them getting rich in Wall street.

NURSE TELLS OF SKIN CURES

"I have seen the Cuticura Remedies used with best results during the past twenty years. In my work as a nurse, many skin disease cases came under my observation, and in every instance, I always recommended the Cuticura Remedies as they always gave entire satisfaction. One case in particular was that of a lady friend of mine who, when a child, was afflicted with eczema which covered her face and hands entirely, breaking out at intervals with severer torture. She could not go to school as the disfigurement looked terrible. I told her to get at once a set of Cuticura Remedies. After the use of only one set she was perfectly well."

"A grown lady friend was afflicted with salt rheum in one of her thumbs, and she was cured by the Cuticura Remedies. Still another lady had dry salt rheum in both palms of her hands every fall of the year. They used to be so painful she could scarcely wet her hands until she began to use the Cuticura Remedies which cured her. I have also seen them cure children of ringworm. The children's faces would be all circles and rings around the cheeks, and the neck, and after treatment with the Cuticura Soap and Ointment they were completely cured. My husband had rheumatism on his arm and I used the Cuticura Ointment. It made his arm as limber and nice, whereas it was quite stiff before I began to apply the Ointment."

"Last May I had an ingrowing toe nail which was very painful, as the side of the nail was edging right down in the side of my toe. I cut the nail out of the cavity it made, and of course applied the Cuticura Ointment to the part affected. It soothed it and in less than ten nights it was all healed through constant use of the Ointment. Ten days ago I had my left hand and wrist burned with boiling lard, and Cuticura Ointment has completely cured them. I have just recommended the Cuticura Remedies to another friend, and she is pleased with the results and is recovering nicely. I will gladly furnish the names of the people referred to above if anybody doubts what I say." (Signed) Mrs. Margaret Hederson, 77 Highland Ave., Malden, Mass., Oct. 1, 1910.

IT IS A MISTAKE

Many have the idea that anything will sell if advertised strong enough. This is a great mistake. True, a few sales might be made by advertising an absolutely worthless article but it is only the article that is bought again and again that pays. An example of the big success of a worthy article is the enormous sale that has grown up for Cascarets Candy Cathartic. This wonderful record is the result of great merit successfully made known through persistent advertising and the mouth-to-mouth recommendation given Cascarets by its friends and users.

Like all great successes, trade plikes prey on the unsuspecting public, by marketing fake tablets similar in appearance to Cascarets. Care should always be exercised in purchasing well advertised goods, especially an article that has a national sale like Cascarets. Do not allow a substitute to be palmed off on you.

TO FORTIFY CANAL

TAFT IN SPEECH DECLARES PANAMA CUT MUST DEFEND ITSELF.

HOPES FOR $5,000,000 SOON

President Declares America's Right is Incontestable and Policy is Defended—Estimates Cost at $12,000,000—War Still is Possibility.

New York.—President Taft, in a speech Saturday night at the annual banquet of the Pennsylvania society in this city, opened an active campaign for the fortification of the Panama canal by the United States. He declared that the right of this country to accomplish that result was incontestable and defended such a policy. The president believes that the present session of congress will appropriate $5,000,000 to begin the work. In the senate, the president has been told, the sentiment for fortification is almost two to one. The house seems pretty evenly divided, but not along partisan lines. Most of the members appear to have an open mind, however. President Taft will bring all of his influence to bear in favor of fortification. In his speech he said that there were absolutely no treaty obligations in the way of fortifying the canal; that the United States had every right and reason to protect what was purely an American waterway. The president said he yielded to no man in his love of peace and hatred to the senate arbitration treaties of a broader nation than had ever come before that body or any other legislative body of the world. At the same time Mr. Taft cautioned his hearers that universal peace was still a long way off and he could not conceive of any patriotic American being willing to allow an attacking force free and equal use of a waterway which was built by Americans largely as an instrument for the defense of their country. The president quoted from diplomatic history to prove his position unassailable, and said:

"If we have to retain a part of our navy to defend the canal on both sides, then the canal becomes a burden and not an instrument for our defense. It ought to defend itself, and we should have fortifications there powerful enough to keep off the navies of any nations that might possibly attack us." The estimated cost of the fortification, the president declared, is $12,000,000, "hardly more than two per cent. of the cost of the canal, and a first premium for insuring its safety that is not excessive."
"War is still a possibility," said the president, "and a president, senator or congressman who ignores it as something against which proper precaution should be taken subjects himself to just criticism and condemnation."

FIND TOBACCO FRAUD

CLAIMED NATION CHEATED OUT OF $5,000,000 ANNUALLY.

"Wrapper" Material is Alleged to Have Been Brought in on "Filler" Rates by Importers.

New York.—That the government has been deprived annually of between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000 of duties it should have received from tobacco imports from Cuba, by means of a misuse by importers of the "wrapper" and "filler" classifications, is declared here to have been disclosed by a country-wide investigation by the treasury department.

According to the story, tobacco trade figures show that cigar makers who turn out pure Havana cigars must have six per cent. of their stock in wrapper, while the figures of the treasury department show a fraction under one-fifth of one per cent. of the Cuban importations classified as and paying duty as "wrapper."

Advance reports on this investigation show, it is said, that the Cuban importations have been admitted under a classification which in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1909, deprived the custom house of between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000 and treasury department officials are quoted as saying that approximately the same sum had been lost to the government annually for at least five years.

From the investigation thus far, however, it was the belief that this loss was more in matter of long established trade custom than fraud.

Collector Loeb is quoted as saying "we know the tobacco trade has been getting the best of us, but we do not know to what extent, and the investigation has not proceeded far enough to determine that."

The assertion made is that it is an open secret that thousands of pounds of Havana leaf, suitable for wrappers, is brought into the country under the classification of "filler" at $1.20 less duty per pound.

END TALK ON RECIPROCITY

Canadian and United States Conference Agree on Tariff Pact, But Withhold Details.

Washington.—The state department announces that the Canadian tariff reciprocity pact has been agreed upon. A joint statement was issued Saturday by the United States and Canadian negotiators which read:

"The negotiators have reached an understanding, which, when certain formalities are completed, will be made public at Washington and Ottawa. It is thought this may be done Thursday."

In submitting the agreement to the senate and to the house, President Taft will avoid submitting it as a treaty, which would require a two-thirds vote in the senate. Concurrent legislation in both branches of congress making the stipulated rates apply to Canada can be made effective with a majority vote in each branch of congress. While the details are withheld, it is understood in a general way that the Canadian duties on American manufactures are scaled down from 2 1/2 to 5 per cent.

This is another form of Canada granting its intermediate tariff instead of its general tariff on American manufactures.

TEN MILLION PEOPLE IN THE CANADIAN WEST BY 1920

"Toronto Star," Dec. 16th, 1910.

The prediction is made that before 1920 Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia will have ten million people. It is made not by a sanguine Western journal but by that very sober business newspaper, the New York Commercial. It is based upon actual observation, upon the wheat-growing capacity of the Canadian West, and upon the prospects of development following the building of railways. The writer shows how the position of leading wheat market of the world passed from Milwaukee to Minneapolis and thence to Winnipeg. Canada's wheat-growing belt is four times greater than that of the United States, and only five per cent of Canada's western agricultural area is under cultivation. There are 170,000,000 acres of wheat lands which will make these Western Provinces richer, more populous, more dependable for food supplies than the Western States can ever become. The center of food supremacy will change to Canada, and 25 years more will give this country 40,000,000 population west of Ontario.

All these estimates of population are in the nature of guesses, and must not be read too literally. But the enormous area of wheat-growing land, the rapid construction of railways, and the large volume of immigration are facts which must be recognized. They point to the production of an ever-increasing surplus of wheat and other cereals. However rapidly the urban, the industrial and commercial population of Canada may increase, the increase of home consumption is hardly likely to keep pace with that of the production of wheat; for a single acre of wheat will provide for the average annual consumption of four people.

While production in Canada is thus running ahead of consumption at a prodigious rate, consumption in the United States is overtaking production, and the surplus for export is growing smaller year by year. It is true that the limit of actual power to produce wheat is as yet far away. By methods of intensive cultivation, such as prevail in France, the production could be greatly increased. But with the overflowing granary of Canada so close at hand, it seems likely that our neighbors will begin to import from us, turning their own energies more largely to other forms of agriculture.

It must be remembered that while the Northern States resemble Canada in climate and products, the resemblance diminishes as you go southward. The wheat belt gives place to a corn belt, and this again to semi-tropical regions producing cotton, tobacco, cane-sugar, oranges and other tropical fruits.

The man who secures a farm in Western Canada at the present time secures an investment better than the best of bond of any government or bank. It is no unusual thing for a farmer in Western Canada to realize a profit of from $5 to $10 per acre. There are thousands of free homesteads of 160 acres each still to be had, and particulars can be obtained by writing your nearest Canadian government agent.

Few people realize the grave danger of neglecting the kidneys. The slightest kidney symptom may be Nature's warning of dropsy, diabetes or dreaded Bright's disease. If you have any kidney symptoms, begin using Doan's Kidney Pills at once.

W. P. Miller, Pender, Nebr., says: "I spent over $1,000.00 trying to get well, but my life was despaired of. The doctors said I had torn the ligaments of the kidneys apart. I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and they were the first remedy that helped me. Were it not for them, I would have had to give up work."

Remember the name—Doan's. For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

It is no use holding up the divine throne if you're treading on the children's toes to do it.

Woman's Danger Periods Made Safe

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. Here is proof:

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express what I went through during the Change of Life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold. I had creepy sensations and could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I had a tumor."

"I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it has worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish this letter."—Mrs. Nathan B. Groaton, 51 No. Main St., Natick, Mass.

ANOTHER SIMILAR CASE.

Cornwallville, N. Y.—"I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for some time for Change of Life, nervousness, and a fibroid growth."

"Two doctors advised me to go to the hospital, but one day while I was away visiting, I met a woman who told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and I know it helped me wonderfully. I am very thankful that I was told to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Wm. Boughton, Cornwallville, N. Y., Greene Co.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as those above—they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no stranger—it has stood the test for years.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

Prizes for Xmas Seal Sales to be Awarded.

With 150 towns and cities of the state to be heard of, receipts from the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals in Wisconsin today exceed the total sale in 1909. Saturday night $23,865.30 had been received by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association.

Milwaukee receipts are little more than half in, while several large cities are included in the 170 still to be heard from.

No announcement of prize winners has been made by the association although the returns, according to the rules, had to be in by 6 o'clock on Jan. 14. Due to misunderstanding on the part of several local campaign managers, some cities did not get their returns in on time. Several technical questions arose, in regard to this and other points, and a committee was appointed to settle all disputes and award the prizes.

It is expected that a final report will be made by this committee in a day or two, and that the winners will be announced by the middle of this week.

In practically every way records of previous years have been broken according to the incomplete returns. The state record will be greatly exceeded, while several cities have set new marks in per capita sales. Large sales were made in the big cities of the state, but several smaller cities made phenomenal sales.

Plan to continue the anti-tuberculosis fight along lines more extensive than ever are under way as a result of the large income from Red Cross seals. Organization work will be perfected throughout the state and the educational movement extended to every city, town and village.

The association feels that the enormous seals sale is a unanimous expression of the public's approval of the white plague fight, and that the success of this years work will far exceed that of the past.

FOR SALE.—Show cases cheap if taken at once. Inquire at this office. tf

Lithia beer is a social drink. It promotes sociability. Not to say that one does not enjoy a glass of Lithia beer alone, but when used in company with others it is an enlivening beverage and brightens any occasion.

After the theatre friends appreciate a glass or two of Lithia beer together, at home, or at the cafe and it is a splendid adjunct to a lunch or supper. Its soothing tonic effect guarantees a good night's sleep.
