WATCH REPAIRING.

Watches need attention, all machinery does. And the better the watch the more particular the owner should be to have it looked after. Watches should be oiled every eighteen months or two years, even if they are doing satisfactory work. Oiling involves cleaning, for fine dust finds its way inside the watch and eventually works an injury. If you have watch repairs to be done we want your work. We promise to do it right at a reasonable price. We will set and regulate your watch and do it with our compliments; or you can step in at any time and set your watch by the Regulator.

JEWELRY REPAIRING

is an important branch of our business—we give careful painstaking attention to it. We try to have our work give satisfaction—such as will win your confidence if you leave your repairing with us.

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL WINS AND TIES

Local Girls Play a Tie Game with Menomonee Falls. Boys Win From the Hartford High.

The basket ball games played in Groeschel's hall last week Friday were very well attended, one of the best crowds that ever witnessed a basket ball game, turned out to cheer the locals to victory. The first games played were between the Menomonee Falls High School girls and the local High School girls. The game was very interesting from beginning to end. It also required an extra ten minutes of playing. At the end of the second half the score stood 4 to 4. In the ten minutes of extra play each team was only able to score a point on a free throw after which it was declared a tie game.

The second game, which was played between the Hartford High School boys and local Quintette, was the best and fastest ever played on the local floor. It was a game with good playing and headwork all the way through. Hartford starting as if they were going to wipe the earth with the locals, but it did not take very long until the tricks were turned. The visitors were completely outplayed and outclassed. At no stage of the game were the locals in danger. No bouquets can be given to any individual, but must be given to the local five, as their team work was superb. The final score was 39 to 13.

After the games a social hop was given at which all those who remained enjoyed a most sociable time.

Will Build County Home.

At the adjourned meeting of the County Board, held yesterday, that body appropriated $25,000 for the erection of a new county home for poor in this city and also $1600, for a central heating, light and power plant, to be erected between the asylum and the new county home. Architect J. E. Henen of Fond du Lac was given the contract to draw up preliminary plans, which will be submitted to the county board for approval on Tuesday March 21, 1911, at 10 A. M. to which time the board then adjourned.

The building committee having charge of the addition to the asylum, and composed of Philip Schellinger, C. Friday, and Christ. Reis, will also act on the other contemplated buildings.—West Bend News.

Makes Acquaintances.

Willus Buckley of Hartford was in the village last Saturday making the acquaintance of the citizens of this village. Mr. Buckley is a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Schools of Washington County at the coming spring election. Mr. Buckley is a man well qualified for the office, if elected we are convinced he will perform his duties as county superintendent in a most satisfactory manner. Mr. Buckley has made many friends on his short visit in this village.

Announcement.

At the solicitation of my friends who supported me two years ago, I have decided to again become a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Schools for Washington County at the coming Spring election.

I will if elected, dispose of my interest in the bookstore and be prepared to give the people an earnest, vigorous, and impartial administration.

REMMEL'S FOUNDRY, KEWASKUM, WISCONSIN

Up-to-Date Foundry Which is of the Most Modern Type With all Modern Machinery Manufactures Many Articles.

The above is a very good picture of Remmel's Foundry located in this village. It is a foundry of the most modern type with all modern machinery. It is an enterprise of which the village can and should feel proud, as there are but few establishments like this one, even in the larger cities.

Nic. Remmel, the sole owner, has gone to a very heavy expense in fitting up this place. A few months ago he installed a hoisting machine. The machine is a labor saver. One man with the aid of this machine is able to handle several thousand pounds of castings and hoist same to any part of the building.

The foundry is only a trifle over a year old, but during this time, castings have been made, which were shipped to all parts of the States. Only first class moulders are employed. All castings made are guaranteed to give the best of satisfaction. Not only is Mr. Remmel in a position to turn out castings in the foundry, but he is also in a position to manufacture various articles as he owns a machine shop. Following is a partial list of the articles manufactured by him. Tank Pumps, Kettles, Tank Heaters, Pump Jacks, Boilers, Crates, Fire Doors and Frames, Cast Moulds.

If you have any broken casting, which you wish to have repaired, bring the same to the Foundry. You will be saving money by doing so. If Mr. Remmel is as successful in the foundry business as he is in the machine shop business, Kewaskum will soon be boasting of one, if not the best foundry, in this section of the country.

The Mammoth Spring Cheese company is a creditor to the extent of $520.67 and the East Menasha has a claim of $649.30. There are two notes for $500 each. H. S. Sackett was the sole owner of the company. The administrator has been instructed to sell the perishable goods.

The Harmony orchestra of West Bend will furnish the music. Everybody is cordially invited to attend this sociable event. It will be the big event of the season. This will also be the last dance before lent.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR MISS ACKER

County Superintendent of Schools is Nearly Asphyxiated.

GAS WAS TURNED OFF

Awoke in Time to Avoid Death From Deadly Fumes.

(Fond du Lac Reporter)

Miss Ruby M. Acker county superintendent of schools, narrowly escaped death by asphyxiation while sleeping at her boarding place on East Second street.

Before lying down in her room Miss Acker lighted a small gas heater, which she used for some time. Shortly after she went to sleep the gas man called at the house for the purpose of making some repairs and turned off the gas in the building. When he completed his work he turned the gas on again and was unaware of the fact that he had also turned on the gas in the heater in Miss Acker's room.

The deadly gas fumes awakened the county superintendent, who had considerable difficulty in turning off the gas and opening the windows in order to purify the poisoned atmosphere. Her friends consider her escape from death a narrow one.—Fond du Lac Reporter.

Art Exhibit well Attended.

The Art exhibit which was held in the Temperance hall last Saturday and Sunday was well attended. Those that did not see the exhibit are certainly something minus, as the pictures shown were of the most beautiful designs, among which were some of the best paintings in existence. The proceeds netted from the exhibit were used for the purchasing of such pictures as are of great importance for the local schools. The exhibit was conducted by the Misses Alice Henry, assistant principal, and Lilly Schlosser teacher in the Primary department.

Dance a Success.

The dance given by the Band boys last Sunday evening was both a financial and social success. About 30 couple participated in the merriment. The music furnished by the Quintette was such that could not be excelled by any orchestra. All present report a most enjoyable affair and hope that the Band boys will make this event an annual affair.

Installs New Lathe.

Nic. Remmel has this week installed in his machine shop a new turning lathe. This lathe is 18 feet long and has a 30 inch swing. It's weight is 8,600 lbs. With this lathe Mr. Remmel is now able to do all kinds of work, such as he never has been able to do before.

IN LINCOLN'S HONOR

MARTYRED PRESIDENT'S BIRTH-DAY CELEBRATED AT SPRINGFIELD, ILL.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE PRESENT

Taft Briefly Addresses Joint Session of Legislature and Is Principal Speaker at Elaborate Banquet Held in Chamber of Commerce.

Springfield, Ill.—President Taft was the honored guest of Illinois at the celebration of the 102nd anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln and the 50th anniversary of the departure of the great emancipator from Springfield for the White House in Washington. There were many other distinguished guests from many sections of the country.

President Taft and his party arrived early in the afternoon, having been brought in Congressman McKinley's private car on the interurban from Decatur, where they were met by Representative Israel Dudgeon of Morris, chairman of the joint legislative committee in charge of the program. As soon as Mr. Taft alighted from the car the parade was formed with Maj.-Gen. Edward C. Young of Chicago as grand marshal and Adj.-Gen. F. S. Dickson as his chief of staff.

The First regiment, from Chicago, acted as an escort to the president, and that regiment's band furnished the military music, turning out eighty-five strong. The parade moved down Capitol avenue to the state house, as the presidential salute of twenty-one guns was being fired.

Arriving at the capitol the president entered the building and was received by the two houses of the legislature in special joint session. To the lawmakers he made his first address of the day, speaking briefly but spiritedly. Mr. Taft and the other visitors were then escorted to the old Lincoln home at Eighth and Jackson streets.

From the home the visitors were taken to Oak Ridge cemetery, where the martyred president's remains rest beneath the new monument. Mr. Taft and the other guests entered the memorial chapel in the monument and reverently viewed the priceless Lincoln relics preserved there. These include much of Lincoln's correspondence and the famous autobiography which he wrote on one sheet of paper. The party also viewed the empty sarcophagus in which Lincoln's body lay for many years.

The culmination of the day's events was the great banquet in the arsenal in the evening under the auspices of the Lincoln Centennial association and the Springfield chamber of commerce.

DIAZ TROOPS SLAY FAMILY

Massacre Aids to Rebels and Seize $1,500,000—Forty Federals Killed in Battle.

Galveston, Tex.—Reports of the massacre of an entire family of Insurrectos in Pueblo, State of Pueblo, Mexico, and seizure of $1,500,000 gold, were brought here Monday on a steamer from Frontera, Mexico.

Passengers said that recently the government, upon information that Aguilera Salano, a prominent Pueblo merchant, was acting as a treasurer for Insurrectos, sent troops with a machine gun to his house. They took possession but found the place apparently deserted.

Finally a secret cellar is said to have been discovered where Salano and his family were hiding. All surrendered, whereupon, it is alleged, the troops immediately shot the entire family to death. Search of the premises is said to have revealed more than $1,500,000 in gold and negotiable securities.

GIRL SHOT BY FIANCE DEAD

Aurora Sheriff Guards Life of Man Who Fired on Young Girl.

Aurora, Ill.—Miss Florence Sabolm, sixteen years old, who was shot five times by her sweetheart, George Karasee, last Tuesday night, died in St. Charles hospital here.

The death of the girl resulted in a unanimous demand that Karasee's case be rushed to a speedy trial. Crowds of excited friends of the girl, known as the "Queen of Little Hungary," gathered at the Aurora jail when they learned that she had died. Chief of Police Frank Michels refused to allow anyone to enter the jail to see the prisoner, fearing that an attempt would be made on his life.

Karasee shot the girl while they were eloping to Geneva to be married and robbed her of $138.

G. O. P. IN LOVE FEAST

OLD GUARDS AND PROGRESSIVES HOLD ANNUAL DINNER.

Roosevelt Declares for Fortification of Panama Canal, Reciprocity and Direct Vote for Senators.

New York.—In a speech Monday night Theodore Roosevelt declared that he was in favor of the Canadian reciprocity agreement, of fortifying the Panama canal and the election of United States senators by popular vote.

The declaration was made at the twenty-fifth annual dinner of the Republican Club of New York city, which the warring factions of old guards and progressives turned into a love feast on Lincoln's anniversary.

Twice during the evening policies of President Taft were applauded. They were reciprocity with Canada and the canal fortification plans. Mr. Roosevelt said he was delighted to see the club uphold the plans of the president in these laudable efforts. "I hail the reciprocity arrangement," he said, "because it represents an effort to bring about a closer and more intimate and a more friendly relationship of mutual advantage on equal terms between Canada and the United States."

Rev. Frank W. Gunsaulus of Chicago, the orator of the evening, drew an outline of Lincoln's character and filled it in with historical allusions to the great things he accomplished.

A toast was drunk to the president of the United States just before the introduction of Secretary of the Navy Meyer, who had been sent to the banquet as a representative of the president. A telegram from the president was read, in which he expressed regret at not being able to attend the meeting personally.

William Barnes, Jr., newly elected chairman of the Republican state committee, who led in the fight against Colonel Roosevelt at Saratoga, was seated at the right of the president and entered into an animated conversation several times during the dinner.

WILL SUE LUMBER BARONS

Department of Justice Is Preparing Its Case—Report of Commissioner Sent to Congress.

Washington.—Two sharp blows at the so-called lumber trust were struck by the administration Tuesday.

One was a statement from the department of justice that suit is to be filed against the combine based on complaints of discrimination, blacklisting, price raising and apportionment of territory.

The other was a report by Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, showing the enormous extent of the holdings of the timber interests, giving warning of a monopoly at no distant date, relating the steady increase in prices and predicting still greater advances by those who are engaged in cornering the forest resources of the country for speculative purposes. This report was sent to congress by President Taft.

Some of the features of the commissioner's findings, after several years of investigation of the industry, are: Concentration of a dominating control of our standing timber in a comparatively few enormous holdings, steadily tending toward a central control of the lumber industry.

Vast speculative purchase and holding of timber land far in advance of any use thereof.

An enormous increase in the value of this diminishing natural resource, with great profits to its owners.

Equally sinister land monopoly.

"There are many great combinations in other industries," says the commissioner, "whose formation is complete. In the lumber industry, on the other hand, the bureau finds now in the making a combination caused fundamentally by a long-standing public policy. The concentration already existing is sufficiently impressive. Still more impressive are the possibilities for the future."

"In the last 40 years concentration has proceeded that 195 holders, many interrelated, now have practically one-half of the privately owned timber in the investigation area (which contains 80 per cent. of the whole).

"This formidable process of concentration, in timber and in land, certainly involves grave future possibilities of impregnable monopolistic conditions, whose far-reaching consequences to society it is now difficult to anticipate fully or to overestimate."

Grand Junction, Colo.—R. A. Tawney, a sheep raiser of this city, has imported three karakule, or "sacred sheep," from Tibet at a cost of $10,000. The animals are to be crossed with the native sheep of this section in an effort to improve the quality of American wool.

HOUSE BY VOTE OF 221 TO 92 PASSES RECIPROcity BILL.

REPUBLICANS ARE DIVIDED

President's Policy is Victorious by a Decisive Vote After Representatives Indulge in Day of Stormy Debate.

Washington.—President Taft's reciprocity agreement with Canada was ratified in the house Tuesday through the support of an almost solid Democratic vote. The McCall bill carrying the agreement into effect was passed 221 to 92.

The bill reached the senate Wednesday under the supervision of Representative McCall, who was in charge of it in the house.

In the final vote on the passage of the bill 79 Republicans and 142 Democrats voted for it, and 87 Republicans and five Democrats voted against it. The Republicans were nearly evenly divided, while the Democrats represented almost an unbroken front. The Democrats got out 147 of their total members to vote on the bill, while the Republicans had only 166 of their membership present. The five Democrats voting against the bill were: Broussard, Estopinal and Pujol, Louisiana; Webb, North Carolina, and Hammond, Minnesota.

The victory came for the great peace trade pact with Canada after a day of stormy debate, which ended in a turmoil when Boutelle, for the committee on rules, presented a rule at 5:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon cutting off debate and amendments and providing for the taking of an immediate vote.

During recent sessions of congress the Democrats and progressives have fought all such closure or gag rules on the ground that they prevent due consideration of a pending measure. The rule was finally adopted on roll call by a vote of 198 to 107 after a stormy debate. This disheartened the opponents of the measure to the extent that little effort was made thereafter to prolong the fight.

ARCHBISHOP RYAN IS DEAD

Passes Away at His Residence in Philadelphia—Had a Notable Church Career.

Philadelphia.—Most Rev. Patrick John Ryan, D. D., LL. D., archbishop of Philadelphia, and one of the greatest archbishops on this continent, died Saturday at the archiepiscopal residence.

Archbishop Ryan, known as the greatest orator of the Catholic church in America, was born in 1831 in Thurles, County Tipperary, Ireland.

During the strike of the anthracite miners of Pennsylvania in 1900 Archbishop Ryan, who in 1884 had been made archbishop of the Philadelphia diocese, spent most of his time in the coal fields. Here his advice and consolation was much sought. His influence with the miners at that time was said to have kept many acts of violence from being attempted.

FLEES DANVILLE QUIZ

ALLEGED EMBEZZLER SUDDENLY GOES TO DETROIT.

Hardy H. Whitlock Alleged to Have Been Urged to Leave Before Subpoena Could Be Served.

Danville, Ill.—Hardy H. Whitlock, who was indicted for embezzling county funds, returned to Danville in custody of Sheriff Shepard and gave bond. In a statement, Mr. Whitlock said that he had received no subpoena.

Mr. Whitlock was asked to what extent he had purchased votes. He declined to answer the question, saying it would all be brought out at his trial and before the grand jury if he was called.

Mr. Whitlock suddenly changed his mind about remaining in Danville, and left for Detroit Monday. The statement is being freely made on the streets and about the courthouse that Whitlock was urged to return to Detroit before a subpoena for the grand jury could be issued for him.

Sheriff Shepard and his deputies began Monday serving bench warrants on some of the persons who have been indicted.

Seventy-six additional indictments for vote selling were ordered prepared by the jury.

CALLS MISS BARNARD A LIAR

Waterworks Expert at Oklahoma City Is Then Almost Mobbed by Citizens.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—A scene was precipitated in the main dining room of the leading hotel here when Dr. Alexander Potter, a New York city waterworks expert, gave the lie direct to Miss Kate Barnard, state commissioner of charities and corrections, and was almost mobbed by surrounding men.

The New Yorker is preparing a set of plans for a new waterworks system for the city and has lately engaged in the general row over that project. He said to Miss Barnard:

"Miss Barnard, you are no lady; you are hiding behind your petticoats to fight me."

Miss Barnard named the state commissioner of health as her authority.

"That is a lie," Doctor Potter replied. A man grabbed the New Yorker by the collar and hurled him against a pillar.

Historic Tudor Place

Family Home of a Descendant of Martha Washington

TUDOR PLACE, the old home of Mrs. Beverly Kennon and her grandchildren, occupies an entire city block in Georgetown, five and one-half acres, bounded by Thirty-second street, Thirty-first street, P street and Q street. Old residents of Washington sometimes say that the entire neighborhood was once known as Tudor place, and named in honor of the royal house of England. The Tudor place of today has on it the old house built a century ago by Thomas Peter.

Mrs. Beverly Kennon was born at Tudor place in January, 1816, and practically all her life has been passed there. She is in the line of direct descent from Martha Washington. Martha Washington's first husband, it will be remembered, was John Parke Custis. When she married George Washington she had one son, also a John Custis, who is mentioned as aid-de-camp to Washington at one period during the revolution. This young man married Eleanor Calvert, a descendant of the Lords Baltimore. From this marriage there were four children, one of whom was Martha Custis, who married Thomas Peter. It was Thomas Peter who built Tudor place and who was Mrs. Kennon's father. Her maiden name was Britannia Peter. She married Commodore Beverly Kennon of the navy.

Thomas Peter built Tudor place of good old-fashioned brick and covered it over with plaster. He made the halls wide, the ceilings high, the windows large and placed great columns in a little semi-circular cluster on the south side. Folks nowadays would say the house is a "rambling" one; at any rate, it runs east and west and is wider than three ordinary city houses. The plaster that covers the brick walls on the outside has hardened so that it looks to be sandstone, and it was laid on so well that it has "stayed put" during the storms of a century.

A Monument of Memories.

It is not surprising that the house is well built, and that it stands as a veritable monument of American memories, for all the skill of Dr. William Thornton was employed in its design and building. Doctor Thornton was the architect of the old capitol, the one that was burned, and he also designed the Octagon house in Washington. It seems fitting that the work of a man whose hand is seen in these other buildings of such close association with American history should also be seen in Tudor place, for not only is it quaint and beautiful, but is full of the memories and even the household gods and belongings of the great Washington.

There are candlesticks from Mount Vernon, and cut glass, varying only a trifle from the design of modern ornaments of the same kind. Two great glass shades surround them, not from Mount Vernon, however, but from the table of the last royal governor of Virginia. There is an engraving of the family at Mount Vernon, also a little mahogany desk.

There are two engravings of Trumbull's paintings of the death of Montgomery at Quebec and of the battle of Bunker Hill. Both are from Mount Vernon. A camp stool used by Washington is there. It is a massive affair, very much heavier than the camp stool of today, and covered with leather. Washington used it throughout the revolution.

In the Eighteenth century America did not have as many silver ornaments and playthings as a single jewelry store has today, and when Washington wanted to present little Columbia Peter, Mrs. Kennon's oldest sister, with a silver rattle of exquisite design tipped with red coral, he had to send across the Atlantic for it.

It was many weeks in getting to America, but it was a good one, and had four little silver bells that tinkled throughout Columbia's baby days, and then was put away for good. It is at Tudor place now.

Much of the Washington silver is there, too. The "G. W." china and some of the "M. W." china is in a cabinet together with an egg cup and a coffee cup sent to Washington by Louis Philippe of France.

BOY HOLDS POLICE AT BAY

Seventeen-Year-Old Sheboygan Lad Threatens Mother and Fires on Officers Seeking His Arrest.

Sheboygan.—After threatening his mother and sister, according to the officers, and holding the police of Sheboygan at bay with a shot gun, Frank Dafropowski, aged 17, fled to Sheboygan Falls where he barricaded himself in an abandoned building and was arrested only after a revolver battle.

The police were called by his mother, who declared to them that her son had threatened her and her daughter.

When they arrived to place the youth under arrest, he dodged into a closet and reappeared with a shot-gun. Threatening them with death, he drove the officers, August Puls and Arthur Hoberg, from the house, and as they retreated, fired twice, neither shot taking effect. He then fled and was finally cornered in an abandoned building near Sheboygan Falls.

When darkness made it possible to approach the building without detection, Chief of Police Scheck, to distract Dafropowski's attention, fired a fusillade of bullets through the roof of the building.

His ruse succeeded, for while the prisoner awaited an attack through the roof, a door was battered down and the officers surrounded and disarmed him.

The youth, who has been in the hands of the police before, is said to be more powerful physically than many men.

WOULD PENSION TEACHERS

Senator Hoyt Introduces a Bill Providing a Retirement Fund for Wisconsin Educators.

Madison.—A bill providing for a teachers' retirement fund for the pedagogues of the state has been introduced in the legislature by Senator George E. Hoyt of Menomonie Falls. In the main it is similar to the bill which passed the legislature two years ago, but which Gov. Davidson vetoed. The retirement or pension fund will be made up of appropriations by the state, levies on salaries of teachers and receipts from several other sources. To be eligible as a beneficiary under this bill a teacher must have taught a certain length of time, reached a certain age, and contributed a certain amount to the fund. The Wisconsin State Teachers' association will actively urge the passage of the bill.

State Boundary Fixed.

Duluth, Minn.—The boundary line between Minnesota and Wisconsin in the St. Louis river is changed by a decision handed down by Judge Page Morris in United States court. In determining riparian rights in controversy, Judge Morris held that the new channel fixed by the government in 1899 is the boundary between the states instead of the old channel. The variation at points amounts to 1,000 to 2,000 feet.

SWEARS NO WARNING GIVEN

Conductor of Ill-Fated Sheboygan Car Testifies That Bridge Signals Were Not Displayed.

Sheboygan.—That no signals were displayed to show that the bridge was to be opened, and that the car was within a car's length of the approach when the draw started to open, was the testimony of Conductor Frank Weber at the inquest here over the bodies of the three women who met death when a Sheboygan street car plunged through an open draw.

George Thleme, motorman of the ill-fated car, was unable to appear, being still confined to his bed as a result of the shock.

Conductor Weber swore that he felt the car slip on the rails, although the motorman had set the brakes. Then the motorman attempted to turn the lever and succeeded in turning it five times, lessening up slightly on the brakes. When he saw it was impossible for him to stop the car he shouted to people standing nearby: "Hold her, boys; I can't stop her."

If an effort had been made to resuscitate victims of the plunge into the draw some of them at least, would not be dead, is the opinion of a local physician.

The first body was out of the car six minutes after it entered the water. Life has been found in bodies that have been in water more than twenty minutes, and persons who have been in water twenty minutes have been resuscitated.

No attempt was made, it is declared, to resuscitate any of the victims.

The street car which was removed from the river, has been torn to pieces by souvenir hunters. The controller of the car has been stolen and much of the brass work has been torn out.

STATE DEATH RATE IS 12.1

Health Board Figures Show Increase But It is Attributed to More Thorough Registration.

The death rate due to pneumonia is given at 8.6, and for tuberculosis 8.4.

During the year 5,775 persons under the age of 1 year died. Twenty-seven died of infantile paralysis.

The chief causes of death were as follows: Pulmonary tuberculosis, 2,034; other tuberculosis, 362; typhoid fever, 540; diphtheria, 369; scarlet fever, 293; pneumonia, 2,453; meningitis, 493; cancer, 1,522.

WOULD CREATE NEW COUNTY

Plan to Take Territory from Ashland, Price and Sawyer Counties and Make Park Falls Capital.

Madison.—Park Falls, Price county, comes forward with a new county scheme which affects the rearrangement of northern Wisconsin geography and unsettles the boundary lines of at least four counties. The bill will be introduced by Assemblyman Urquhart and is designed to make Park Falls a county seat. This is accomplished by detaching territory from Price, Ashland and Sawyer counties.

Ten townships are taken from Price county, ten from Ashland and four from Sawyer, which will constitute the new county. In order to make up for the territory taken, four townships are added to Price county and ten townships are taken from Bayfield county, and given to Ashland county. The Apostle Islands now divided between Ashland and Bayfield counties are given to Bayfield.

The bill will be introduced by request and is likely to precipitate a big contest.

LIVE MINK

Has an Old Relic of Washington. One of the most interesting relics of George Washington is owned by the city of Salem. It is a medallion in wood, carved after a sketch from life. The same artist executed both the sketch and carving, which gives the relic added value. He was Samuel McIntire, native genius with a gift for portraiture. He studied Washington when the father of his country visited Salem on his tour of the east, and made the medallion shortly afterward, to adorn the arch over the west entrance of Washington square, Salem. Here the effigy remained from 1807 until 1850, when the arch was taken down to give place to an iron fence, still in use.

This Washington relic is kept in the freeroom at the Essex Institute, Salem, where it is frequently studied by artists and others as an odd and striking likeness of the great American whom no two artists pictured alike.—Boston Globe.

Always Worrying.

The late John H. Barker, of Michigan City, who left a fortune of over $30,000,000 to his 14-year-old daughter, was strongly opposed to speculation. "Do not speculate," Mr. Barker once said in an address to young men. "Speculators stand on shaky ground. They know no peace."
Mr. Barker smiled.
"In fact," he said, "a speculator is always worrying about the money market, while his wife is always worrying about the market money."

HEREDITY Can Be Overcome in Cases.

The influence of heredity cannot, of course, be successfully disputed, but it can be minimized or entirely overcome in some cases by correct food and drink. A Conn. lady says:
"For years while I was a coffee drinker I suffered from bilious attacks of great severity, from which I used to emerge as white as a ghost and very weak. Our family physician gave me various prescriptions for improving the digestion and stimulating the liver, which I tried faithfully but without perceptible result."
"He was acquainted with my family history for several generations back, and once when I visited him he said: 'If you have inherited one of those torpid livers you may always suffer more or less from its inaction. We can't dodge our inheritance, you know.'"
"I was not so strong a believer in heredity as he was, however, and, beginning to think for myself, I concluded to stop drinking coffee, and see what effect that would have. I feared it would be a severe trial to give it up, but when I took Postum and had it well made, it completely filled my need for a hot beverage and I grew very fond of it."
"I have used Postum for three years, using no medicine. During all that time I have had absolutely none of the bilious attacks that I used to suffer from, and I have been entirely free from the pain and debilitating effects that used to result from them."
"The change is surely very great, and I am compelled to give Postum the exclusive credit for it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

SERIAL STORY

When a Man Marries

Needles and pins, Needles and pins, When a man marries His trouble begins.

CHAPTER I.

At Least I Meant Well.

When the dreadful thing occurred that night, every one turned on me. The injustice of it hurt me most. They said I got up the dinner, that I asked them to give up other engagements and come, that I promised all kinds of jollification, if they would come; and then when they did come and got in the papers, and every one—but ourselves—laughed himself black in the face, they turned on me! I, who suffered ten times to their one! I shall never forget what Dallas Brown said to me, standing with a coal shovel in one hand and a—well, perhaps it would be better to tell it all in the order it happened.

It began with Jimmy Wilson and a conspiracy, was helped on by a foot-square piece of yellow paper and a Japanese butler, and it emmeshed and mixed up generally ten respectable members of society and a policeman. Incidentally, it developed a pearl collar and a box of soap, which sounds incongruous, doesn't it?

It is a great misfortune to be stout, especially for a man. Jim was round and looked shorter than he really was, and as all the lines of his face, or what should have been lines, were really dimples, his face was about as flexible and full of expression as a pillow in a tight cover. The angrier he got the funnier he looked, and when he was raging, and his neck swelled up over his collar and got red, he was entrancing. And everybody liked him, and borrowed money from him, and laughed at his pictures (he has one in the Hargrave gallery in London now, so people buy them instead), and smoked his cigarettes, and tried to steal his Jap. The whole story hinges on the Jap.

The trouble was, I think, that no one took Jim seriously. His ambition in life was to be taken seriously, but people steadily refused to. His art was a huge joke—except to himself. If he asked people to dinner, every one expected a frolic. When he married Bella Knowles, people chuckled at the wedding, and considered it the wildest prank of Jimmy's career, although Jim himself seemed to take it awfully hard.

We had all known them both for years. I went to Farmington with Bella, and Anne Brown was her patron of honor when she married Jim. My first winter out, Jimmy had paid me a lot of attention. He painted my portrait in oils and had a studio tea to exhibit it. It was a very nice picture, but it did not look like me, so I stayed from the exhibition. Jim asked me to. He said he was not a photographer, and that anyhow the rest of my features called for the nose he had given me, and that all the Greuze women have long necks. I was not. After I had refused Jim twice he met Bella at a camp in the Adirondacks and when he came back he came at once to see me. He seemed to think I would be sorry to lose him, and he blundered over the telling for 20 minutes. Of course, no woman likes to lose a lover, no matter what she may say about it, but Jim had been getting on my nerves for some time, and I was much calmer than he expected me to be.

"If you mean," I said finally in desperation, "that you and Bella are in love, why don't you say so, Jim? I think you will find that I stand it wonderfully."
He brightened perceptibly.
"I didn't know how you would take it, Kit," he said, "and I hope we will always be bully friends. You are absolutely sure you don't care a whoop for me?"
"Absolutely," I replied, and we shook hands on it. Then he began about Bella; it was very tiresome.

Bella is a nice girl, but I had roomed with her at school, and I was under no illusions. When Jim raved about Bella and her banjo, and Bella and her guitar, I had painful moments when I recalled Bella learning her two songs on each instrument, and the old English ballad she had learned to play on the harp. When he said she was too good for him, I never batted an eye. And I shook hands solemnly across the tea table again, and wished him happiness—which was sincere enough, but hopeless—and said we had only been playing a game, but that it was time to stop playing. Jim kissed my hand, and it was really very touching.

We had been the best of friends ever since. Two days before the wedding he came around from his tailor's, and we burned all his letters to me. He would read one and say: "Here's a crackerjack. Kit," and pass it to me. And after I had read it we would lay it on the fire, and Jim would say, "I am not worthy of her, Kit. I wonder if I can make her happy?" Or—"Did you know that the duke of Belford proposed to her in London last winter?"

Of course, one has to take the woman's word about a thing like that, but the duke of Belford had been mad about Maude Richard all that winter.

You can see that the burning of the letters, which was meant to be reminiscently sentimental, a sort of how-silly-we-were-it-is-all-over-now occasion, became actually a two hours' eulogy of Bella. And just when I was bored to death, the Mercer girls dropped in and heard Jim begin to read one commencing "dearest Kit." And the next day after the rehearsal dinner, they told Bella!

There was very nearly no wedding at all. Bella came to see me in a frenzy the next morning and threw Jim and his two hundred odd pounds in my face, and although I explained it all over and over, she never quite forgave me. That was what made it so hard later—the situation would have been bad enough without that complication.

They went abroad on their wedding journey, and stayed several months. And when Jim came back he was fatter than ever. Everybody noticed it. Bella had a gymnasium fitted up in a corner of the studio, but he would not use it. He smoked a pipe and painted all day, and drank beer and would eat starches or whatever it is that is fattening. But he adored Bella, and he was madly jealous of her. At dinners he used to glare at the man who took her in, although it did not make him thin. Bella was flirting, too, and by the time they had been married a year, people hitched their chairs together and dropped their voices when they were mentioned.

Well, on the anniversary of the day Bella left him—oh, yes, she left him finally. She was intense enough about some things, and she said it got on her nerves to have everybody chuckle when they asked for her husband. They would say, "Hello, Bella! How's Bubbles? Still banting?" And Bella would try to laugh and say, "He swears his tailor says his waist is smaller, but if it is he must be growing hollow in the back." But she got tired of it at last. Well, on the second anniversary of Bella's departure, Jimmy was feeling pretty glum, and as I say, I am very fond of Jim. The divorce had just gone through and Bella had taken her maiden name again and had had an operation for appendicitis. We heard afterward that they didn't find an appendix, and that the one they showed her in a glass jar was not hers! But if Bella ever suspected, she didn't say. Whether the appendix was anonymous or not, she got box after box of flowers that were, and of course every one knew that it was Jim who sent them.

To go back to the anniversary: I went to Rothberg's to see the collection of antique furniture—mother was looking for a sideboard for father's birthday in March—and I met Jimmy there, boring into a worn-hole in a seventeenth century bedpost with the end of a match, and looking his nearest to sad. When he saw me he came over.

"I'm blue today, Kit," he said, after we had shaken hands. "Come and help me dig bait, and then let's go fishing. If there's a worm in every hole in that bedpost, we could go into the fish business. It's good business."
"Better than painting?" I asked. But he ignored my gibe and swelled up alarmingly in order to sigh.

"This is the worst day of the year for me," he affirmed, staring straight ahead, "and the longest. Look at that crazy clock over there. If you want to see your life passing away, if you want to see the steps by which you are marching to eternity, watch that clock marking the time. Look at that infernal hand staying quiet for 60 seconds and then jumping forward to catch up the procession. Ugh!"

"See here, Jim," I said, leaning forward, "you're not well. You can't go through the rest of the day like this. I know what you'll do: You'll go home to play Grieg on the piano, and you won't eat any dinner." He looked guilty.

"Not Grieg," he protested feebly. "Beethoven."
"You're not going to do either," I said with firmness. "You are going right home to unpack those new draperies that Harry Bayless sent you from Shanghai, and you are going to order dinner for eight—that will be two tables of bridge. And you are not going to touch the piano."

He did not seem enthusiastic, but he rose and picked up his hat, and stood looking down at me where I sat on an old horse-hair covered sofa. "I wish to thunder I had married you!" he said savagely. "You're the finest girl I know, Kit, without exception, and you are going to throw yourself away on Jack Manning, or Max, or some other—"

"Nothing of the sort," I said coldly, "and the fact that you didn't marry me does not give you the privilege of abusing my friends. Anyhow, I don't like you when you speak like that."

Jim took me to the door and stopped there to sigh.

"I haven't been well," he said, heavily. "Don't eat, don't sleep. Wouldn't you think I'd lose flesh? Kit"—he lowered his voice solemnly—"I have gained two pounds!"

I said he didn't look it, which appeared to comfort him somewhat, and, because we were old friends, I asked him where Bella was. He said he thought she was in Europe, and that he had heard she was going to marry Reggie Wolfe. Then he sighed again, muttered something about ordering the funeral baked meats to be prepared and left me.

That was my entire share in the affair. I was the victim, both of circumstances and of their plot, which was mad on the face of it. During the entire time they never once let me forget that I got up the dinner, that I telephoned around for them. They asked me why I couldn't cook—when not one of them knew one side of a range from the other. And for Anne Brown to talk the way she did—saying I had always been crazy about Jim, and that she believed I had known all along that his aunt was coming—for Anne to talk like that was sheer idiocy. Yes, there was an aunt. The Japanese butler started the trouble, and Aunt Selina carried it along.

CHAPTER II.

The Way It Began.

It makes me angry every time I think how I tried to make that dinner a success. I canceled a theater engagement, and I took the Mercer girls in the electric brougham father had given me for Christmas. Their chauffeur had been gone for hours with their machine, and they had telephoned all the police stations without success. They were afraid that there had been an awful smash; they could easily have replaced Bartlett, as Lolita said, but it takes so long to get new parts for those foreign cars.

Jim had a house well uptown, and it stood just enough apart from the other houses to be entirely maddening later. It was a three-story affair, with a basement kitchen and servants' dining room. Then, of course, there were cellars, as we found out afterward. On the first floor there was a large square hall, a formal reception room, behind it a big living room that was also a library, then a den, and back of all a Georgian dining room, with windows high above the ground. On the top floor Jim had a studio, like every other one I ever saw—perhaps a little mussier. Jim was really a grind at his painting, and there were cigarette ashes and palette knives and buffalo rugs and shields everywhere. It is strange, but when I think of that terrible house, I always see the halls, enormous, covered with heavy rugs, and stairs that would have taken six housemaids to keep in proper condition. I dream about those stairs, stretching above me in a Jacob's ladder of shining wood and Persian carpets, going up, up, clear to the roof.

The Dallas Browns walked; they lived in the next block. And they brought with them a man named Harrison, that no one knew. Anne said he would be great sport, because he was terribly serious, and had the most exaggerated ideas of society, and loathed extravagance, and built bridges or something. She had put away her cigarettes since he had been with them—he and Dallas had been college friends—and the only chance she had to smoke was when she was getting her hair done. And she had singled off quite a lot—a burnt offering, she called it.

EMPIRE VS. HOOSIER STATE.
Ho was a pompous New Yorker, and when he struck Washington street with his line of talk he was one of the greatest men who ever crossed the Alleghenies, says Indianapolis Star.

"Why," he spluttered, "you folks out here are 'way behind the times. In my town we have everything that makes life worth living. We have our opera, we have our clever men, we have our wonderful buildings, we have the Atlantic ocean, we have progress, civilization, lovely women, many men, bewildering and beautiful restaurants, the splendor of which the poets could not have described; marvelous summer resorts, where a gay galaxy of merry-makers cavort and make the night light with their jests and laughter; we have the mighty captains of finance, who direct the nation's resources."

The grizzled old street cleaner, who was listening to his airy peroration, paid heed for a few moments, then he said:

"You may have all that, but they're one thing you ain't got. You ain't got no litterhooch, and that's where us out here in Indinarry is strong."

CURED HER BABY OF ECZEMA

"I can't tell in words how happy the word 'Cuticura' sounds to me, for it cured my baby of itching, torturing eczema. It first came when she was between three and four weeks old, appearing on her head. I used everything imaginable and had one doctor's bill after another, but nothing cured it. Then the eczema broke out so badly behind her ear that I really thought her ear would come off. For months I doctored it but to no avail. Then it began at her nose and her eyes were nothing but sores. I had to keep her in a dark room for two weeks. The doctor did no good, so I stopped him coming.
"For about two weeks I had used Cuticura Soap for her every day, then I got a box of Cuticura Ointment and began to use that. In a week there was a marked improvement. In all I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and my baby was cured of the sores. This was last November; now her hair is growing out nicely and she has not a scar on her. I can not praise Cuticura enough, I can take my child anywhere and people are amazed to see her without a sore. From the time she was four weeks old until she was three years she was never without the terrible eruption, but now, thanks to Cuticura, I have a well child." (Signed) Mrs. H. E. Householder, 2004 Wilhelm St., Baltimore, Md., May 10, 1910.

The Chief Need.
A pale, intellectual-looking chap, wearing eyeglasses and unshorn hair, visited Tom Volk, the athletic instructor, not long ago and asked questions until the diplomatic athlete finally became weary.
"If I take boxing and wrestling lessons from you, will it require any particular application?" he asked.
"No," answered Volk, "but a little arnica will come in handy."—Cleveland Leader.

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over 40 years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment will cure you right in the privacy of your own home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands, some of them the worst of cases.

It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. The only one good enough that its makers dare to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. There's no secrecy. It will bear examination. No alcohol and no habit-forming drugs are found in it. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't take it. Don't trifle with your health. Write to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.,—take the advice received and be well.

CANADA GETS $1,500 TROPHY.

NATIONAL CORN EXPOSITION, AT COLUMBUS, OHIO, AWARDS TROPHY FOR PECK OF OATS GROWN IN SASKATCHEWAN.

Again Canada is to the fore, and has secured at the National Corn Exposition just closed at Columbus, Ohio, the magnificent Colorado silver trophy valued at $1,500, for the best peck of oats. These oats were grown by Messrs. Hill & Son, of Lloydminster, Saskatchewan, and, as may readily be understood, were of splendid quality to have been so successful in a contest open to the world, and in which competition was keen. At the same Exposition there were exhibits of wheat and barley, and in all these competitions, the grain shown by Canada secured a wonderful amount of attention, and also a number of awards. During recent exhibitions at which grain from Western Canada was given permission for entry, it always took first place. At the Spokane Interstate Fair, last fall, where the entries were very large, and the competition keen, the Province of Alberta carried off the silver cup, given by Governor Hay, for the best state or province display, and a score of prizes was awarded Canadian exhibitors for different exhibits of wheat, oats and barley threshed and in the sheaf. Vegetables also received high awards. A pleasing feature of these exhibits was they were mostly made by farmers who had at one time been American Citizens and were now farming in Canada. The Department of the Interior is just in receipt of a magnificent diploma given by the Tri-State Board of Examiners at the Fair held in Cincinnati last fall for agricultural display by Canada.

The Surveyor-General of Canada has just completed a map showing that a large area of land was surveyed last year in the northern portion of Saskatchewan and Alberta in order to be ready for the rush of homesteaders to that district during the coming spring and summer. It is understood surveys covering several hundreds of thousands of acres will be made in addition to these during the coming summer.

A return just issued by the Dominion Lands Branch shows that 48,257 homestead entries were made last year as compared with 37,061 in 1909; of this 48,257, 14,704 were made by Americans. North Dakota coming first on the list with 4,810, Minnesota gives 2,528, South Dakota 1,123, Wisconsin 745, Washington 730, Michigan 706, Iowa 615, while other states show less, but with the exception of Delaware, District of Columbia and the Indian Territory, every state and territory contributed.

The prospects for an abundant crop in all parts of Western Canada for 1911 are said to be excellent. In the districts that required it there was an ample rainfall last autumn, and the snowfall during the present winter is greater than in many previous years. Both are essential factors to the farmers, who look upon the moisture that these will produce as being highly beneficial.

A large immigration from the United States is expected, and the demand for literature and information from the various Government Agencies located at different points in the States is the greatest it has ever been.

Since the above was written word has been received that in addition to honors won at Columbus, Ohio, Canada won first and second on wheat and first and second on oats, as well as diplomas.

Norman Cherry of Davis, Saskatchewan, who was in the reserve for first on wheat, secured the award, with G. H. Hutton of Lacombe, Alberta, second. J. C. Hill & Sons got first on oats besides the silver trophy. G. H. Hutton took second in oats.

"You don't make very good music with that instrument," said the innocent bystander to the man behind the bass drum as the band ceased to play.

"No," admitted the drum-pounder; "but I drown a heap of bad."

TAKE A DOSE OF PISO'S THE BEST MEDICINE FOR COUGHS & COLDS

FOR DELICATE BREAD

EXCELLENT RECIPES THAT ARE WELL WORTH NOTING.

May Be Made of Whole Wheat, Gluten, Rice or Corn—The Most Nourishing of Food—Pudding for Children.

Whole Wheat Crisps (especially good for children)—One cup rich cream, sweet or sour, one-quarter cup sugar, one salt spoonful sugar, two cups fine granulated wheat flour, or enough to make a stiff dough.

Knead fifteen minutes, or till stiff enough to roll out thin as a wafer. Cut with a biscuit cutter, and bake on ungreased tin in a very hot oven. The sugar will sweeten the sour cream sufficiently.

Rice Crusts—Cook one cup of cold boiled rice in the double boiler in milk enough to make a thin mixture, and until the rice is very soft. Add one tablespoon full of sugar, a little salt, one egg and flour enough to make it hold together. Spread on the pan, having the mixture one-third of an inch thick. Bake in hot oven. Split and eat with syrup.

Wafer Biscuit (for invalids)—One pint flour, one tablespoonful butter, one saltspoonful salt, white of one egg, warm new milk enough to make a stiff dough.

Mix salt with flour; rub in the butter, add the beaten white of egg and milk enough to make a stiff dough. Beat half an hour with a rolling pin without ceasing. Break off a little piece of dough at a time and roll it out as thin as paper. Cut into large rounds. Prick with small wooden skewer and bake quickly without browning.

Gluten Wafers (gluten is a preparation of wheat flour without the starch)—Half a cup of sweet cream and one saltspoonful of salt. Stir in gluten flour enough to make a stiff dough. Knead and roll out very thin. Cut into rounds and bake a delicate brown on an ungreased tin.

Hasty Pudding—Put one quart of water on to boil. Mix one pint of corn meal, one teaspoonful of salt and one tablespoonful of flour with one pint of cold milk. Stir this gradually into the boiling water and boil half an hour, stirring often. Eat it hot with milk and only in cold weather.

To Launder Wool Caps.

Wash cap in luke warm water with Ivory soap that has been boiled to a jelly, add a little borax, do not rub cap, just squeeze with hands, as rubbing pulls cap out of shape. Rinse in lukewarm water with a little borax; do not hang cap on clothes line; make a head form as near to the shape of the cap and the size of the head to be worn on, as possible. Make firm by sewing a piece of muslin the shape of cap. Stuff form with excelsior or clothes; have form stuffed tight and evenly; if cap has shrunk, make form larger than cap; if inclined to stretch make smaller; put cap on form to dry in a hot place. If above directions are followed your cap will not look as if it had been laundered, but it will look as if it just came from the store, and will not be out of shape.

Baked Fish With Oatmeal Balls.

For this dish the middle cut of a good cod is the best. A convenient size is about two pounds in weight. Wash it, remove the skin and allow it to stand with a little salt sprinkled over it for a few hours. Then dry it and place in a large pudding dish that has been well buttered. Pour in one cupful of milk and the same of water, and bake for half an hour. Mix together half a pound of oatmeal, six ounces of chopped suet, and seasoning of salt, pepper and chopped parsley. Bind with a beaten egg and a little water. Make into small balls, cover with fine dry oatmeal, and dip into the pudding dish. Allow all to cook for another half hour.

Hickory Nut Ice Cream.

Pound one pound of shelled hickory nut meats in a mortar until they are a fine paste; add them to a quart of cream and set one side while you prepare a custard made from a pint of milk, three eggs and a cup of sugar; keep stirring until it thickens, so that it will not curdle; take from the fire, add another cup of sugar, and set where it will cool; when quite cold add the cream with the hickory nut meats, then freeze.

Creamed Celery and Egg.

A leftover of creamed celery was re-warmed by setting dish in cold water and letting come to a boil, then pushed to less hot place on stove. Just before removing from heat two leftover hard-boiled eggs were chopped and cut into the cream. Served on toast as a supper dish.

Hot Milk Cake.

One cupful of sugar, two eggs, one cupful of flour, pinch of salt, one teaspoonful baking powder, and one-half cupful of hot milk. Beat well and bake. A little grated chocolate may be added for a dark cake or a few nuts or cocoanut.

Splendid Cake.

Two cups sugar, one cup butter, four eggs, four cups flour, one cup warm water, one-half teaspoon soda, one teaspoon cream of tartar, one teaspoon extract lemon, one-half teaspoon vanilla. One-half of above for one cake.

News Notes of Wisconsin

Baraboo.—The only triplets living who were named by Abraham Lincoln reside in this city. The three brothers were born in South Starksboro Addison county, Vermont, May 24, 1861, the forty-fifth birthday anniversary of Queen Victoria. The advent of the three sons into the home was an event of such great importance that it was decided to write to the president to suggest names for them. President Lincoln readily responded, naming one Gideon Wells Haskins in honor of the secretary of the navy, one Simeon Cameron Haskins for the secretary of war and Abraham Lincoln Haskins for himself. Between Gideon and Lincoln there is a striking resemblance and a stranger never knows to which he is speaking. The family is of English descent and came to America long ago. The Haskins brothers are among the oldest triplets living. Each recurring birthday of the martyred president is religiously observed by all of them.

Manitowoc.—"When is a wife not a wife" is a question that is bothering George Schweda and his willom bride and the answer will have to come through the leniency of the court. Mrs. Schweda last year applied for a divorce and was granted an interlocutory decree in April. Under the new law, this does not become permanent until April next and then a full year must elapse before either may marry. However, Schweda and his wife have made up. They talked things over and decided they had been foolish and planned another wedding. The trousseau was ready and all the arrangements made, but when the groom presented himself at the office of the county clerk he was refused a license.

Neenah.—But for the timely arrival of rescuer, Joseph Seidel of Sherwood might have been drowned in Little Lake Butte des Morts. Seidel was fishing along shore and got onto thin ice, which broke through. Phillip Schweitzer and Edward Melle of Neenah came to his rescue at great danger, breaking through themselves. Stretching out over the ice, Schweitzer grabbed Seidel as he was going down the second time. Application will be made for a hero medal from the Carnegie hero commission.

Tomahawk.—County Surveyor Thomas Kilroe had a narrow escape from death when he discovered the trigger wire of a set gun just as he was about to step against it. The gun had evidently been set for deer and had the surveyor struck the wire a charge of buckshot would have been instantly buried in his body.

Oshkosh.—This city has acquired an important new industry in the Davis Threshing Machine company. Erection of the new plant is to begin at once.

Madison.—The common council of Madison has voted down a resolution abolishing the salary of $300 a year for aldermen and $1,000 for the mayor.

Green Bay.—The business men of this city are making efforts to induce one of the eastern transportation companies to establish a line between this port and Buffalo.

A man recently visited the art museum in Chicago and wandered about, looking at the paintings with more or less interest. He finally stopped in front of a portrait which showed a man sitting in a high-backed chair. There was a small white card on the picture, reading: "A portrait of E. H. Smith, by himself." The man read the card and then chuckled to himself. "What fools these city folks are!" he said. "Anybody who looks at that picture would know Smith's by himself. There ain't any one else in the picture."—Chicago Tribune.

No Need to Be Good.

A little Shaker Heights girl surprised her parents last week by refusing to be scared into being good. "It's no use telling me Santa Claus won't come, or that the angels will write it down in their book if I'm naughty, mamma," she said. "I might as well tell you that they think up in heaven that I'm dead."

"But why should they think that, dear?" "Because, I haven't said my prayers for two weeks."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
