CREDITORS TO TAKE ACTION

Move Made to Sequester Holdings of Wisconsin Cheese & Butter Co.

LIABILITIES ARE HEAVY

Assets Amount to $20,000, While Debts are Alleged to Exceed That Figure.

(Fond du Lac Reporter)

At a meeting of the creditors of the Wisconsin Cheese and Storage company Thursday March 2, it was decided to secure the services of Attorney John E. O'Brien to protect their interest. The incorporators and principal stockholders in the company were H. S. Sackett, Henry Treleven and L. T. Treleven and the capitalization was $20,000.

LIABILITIES ARE HEAVY.

Mr. Sackett died on Jan. 31, and it is alleged, that the affairs of the corporation were left in a somewhat chaotic state. The liabilities are said to be between $20,000 and $25,000, and it is the desire of the creditors that the entire assets be sequestered.

CLAIM TO HAVE WITHDRAWN.

Most of the creditors are prominent business men of the city and landholders throughout the county. A feature of the case will be the alleged withdrawal of two of the stockholders who claim that they had severed their interest with the company some time before the death of Mr. Sackett.

John Stack was the chairman at the meeting of the creditors and Henry Cavanaugh was the secretary. The attorney who will represent the gentlemen was selected by ballot.—Fond du Lac Reporter.

Many Cattle Tested.

The number of cattle subjected to the tuberculin test in Fond du Lac county since August 1, 1910, is 2560. There were 140 animals which reacted to the test and which were sent to Madison to be killed. Of the condemned cattle only 4 out of 140 were found to be without tuberculosis lesions. Considerable sentiment in favor of the tuberculin test has developed since the statements made by veterinarians to the effect that large quantities of milk from infected cattle was being sold in the city of Fond du Lac.

LOCALS WIN FROM RIPON

Ripon High School Five Defeated by Locals. Score 35 to 11. Juniors Defeated.

BASKETBALL SEASON TO END

Last Night, Friday's Game with Ripon on Ripon Expected to End Season.

The basketball game played here last week Friday evening was well attended. The preliminary game between New Prospect and the Jr. High School Team resulted in a victory for the New Prospect lads. This game was very rough. A few of the players ought to have been taken out of the game on account of their roughness, instead of playing basketball they were having a slugging match with each other.

The game between the local High School and Ripon High School Quintettes ended with a victory for the locals. The visitors were outclassed and outplayed at all times. The passing of the locals was very good. They often times had the ball in their possession passing it around the hall for a few minutes. The score at the end of the second half was 35 to 11. Winning this game meant a great deal for the locals, as they defeated the claimants of the Fox River Valley championship.

The basketball season for the locals is expected to end with last night, Friday's, game at Ripon. An account of the game will be given in next week's issue.

Obituary.

Death for the fourth time since last September knocked at the door of the home of Carl Meilahn, residing two miles north-east of the village, when it called away, Mr. Henry Kuecker, aged 91 years, an uncle of Mrs. Carl Meilahn. Death was due to old age, he had been ailing for some time, but only a few days prior to his death was he forced to go to bed.

Mr. Kuecker was born in Koelplin, Germany, on July 17, 1820. He immigrated to this country in 1855, settling at Milwaukee, later moving up to a farm near Barton, where he resided up to June 1909, when he came to make his home with his niece, Mrs. Carl Meilahn and family. His wife predeceased him in death last November.

The funeral was held Tuesday at 1 P. M. from the Ev. Luth. St. Lucas church with interment in the congregation's cemetery. Rev. F. Greve officiated.

The bereaved relatives have the sympathy of the STATESMAN office together with its many readers.

Resolutions of Respect.

At a regular meeting of the board of directors of the Campbellsport Mutual Fire Insurance Company, held on March 2, 1911, a committee was appointed to draw up resolutions of condolence and respect, on the death of Ignatius Klotz, late President of the company. The following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased God Almighty to take from among us our late president, Ignatius Klotz; and

Whereas, We desire to express our recognition of his long and faithful service, therefore be it

Resolved, By the board of directors of the Campbellsport Mutual Fire Insurance Company, that while we bow in humble reverence to the will of the Most High, we cannot help but to mourn the loss of him who has been taken from our midst.

Resolved, That in the death of Ignatius Klotz this board laments the loss of one of its best and most active members, whose endeavors were always exerted to the best interests and welfare of the company; in whose integrity and business ability we placed the utmost confidence; a friend and member who was dear to us all; a citizen whose good and noble life was a guide to his fellowmen.

Resolved, That we hereby extend to his family, in this hour of affliction, our heartfelt sympathy.

Resolved, That these resolutions be made a part of the records of this board, and a copy thereof be sent to the family of our deceased member, also to the Campbellsport News and the Kewaskum Statesman for publication.

STOLEN FURS RECOVERED

Theft Committed at Warehouse of Feld & Feld at Plymouth is Ferreted Out.

DOWNFALL OF MEN

Henry Wicht, Employed by the Firm, Confesses and Implicates Another.

The short road to wealth must have been strongly pictured to Henry Wicht and Andrew Fischer as they were arrested for the theft of mink skins, which were reported as being stolen last week Thursday night from the warehouse of Feld & Feld. Wicht was arrested Monday and in a confession implicated Fischer who was also arrested the same day and in a preliminary hearing before Police Justice Chaplin in the Police court Tuesday, the pair were bound over for trial to the April term of the Circuit court, Wicht in the amount of $1,500 bail and Fischer in the amount of $1,000. The latter furnished bonds for his freedom, but Wicht is confined in the county jail awaiting trial.

Wicht was an employee of the firm and the firm suspected him. On Sunday, himself and wife went to Sheboygan with a suitcase or grip, which contained a large number of the purloined skins which they left at the home of a relative.

Wicht was arrested early Monday morning, when he came to work and after a rigid examination, confessed to the deed and connected Andrew Fischer, son of vealed the hiding place of the balance of the stolen furs, so all have been recovered.

Fischer has retained Attorney M. C. Mead to defend him. The penalty of guilt is a sentence of from one to five years in Waupun.—Plymouth Reporter.

Street Car Line Almost Certain.

It now looks as if the street car line through this village is assured, as the Milwaukee Northern is advertising for the sale of $500,000 gold bonds at five per cent interest. The reason for the sale of the bonds is because the company contemplates doubletracking its line in the near future from Milwaukee to Cedarburg, and also to extend its line from Cedarburg to Fond du Lac, through West Bend, Barton, Kewaskum, Campbellsport and Eden. When completed it will mean that transportation can be had from Chicago to Green Bay. The constantly increasing of traffic, which is particularly heavy during the summer months is the cause for this action.

To Make Extensive Improvements.

Joseph Eberle, proprietor of the Farmers Hotel in this village, will as soon as the weather permits make extensive improvements with his building. The alterations to be made are, the building to be raised so that it will be even with the sidewalk, a new iron front with plate glass windows, a flat roof, and a complete change of the interior. When finished Mr. Eberle expects to have one of the finest places in the village. Louis Brandt has the contract for doing the carpenter work.

Tax Payers Take Notice.

Village Treasurer Wm. Ziegler reports that there are a number of people who have not paid their taxes. A final settlement with the county treasurer will be made within a few days, so all those still owing for taxes are requested to pay at once, or they will be placed on the delinquent list.

Ball Park Sold.

Last Thursday A. G. Koch negotiated a transaction, whereby he sold his five acre piece of land, known as the ball park to Otto Habeck. Consideration is kept private. The land is already under cultivation. Mr. Habeck instead of renting same for a ball park will raise grain on it.

Will Resume Factory Work.

The Enger-Kress Pocketbook Co., had quite a force of men at work in the knitting mills building during the past week and as a result the building will shortly be ready so that the manufacture of pocket-books can be resumed. Twelve new books can be made and a lot of leather and other material was also received last week, and considerable new patterns were cut. Some men may be put on this week, but on next Monday the force will be considerably increased. The insurance adjusters were in the city on Tuesday and a settlement is made by the insurance companies the Enger-Kress Co. will not be able to state what their future plans are.—West Bend Pilot.

Carp Plentiful.

Carp were quite plentiful the forepart of the week. Scores of people could be seen every day just below the dam spearing and catching the finny tribe with dip-nets. The reason for the quantity of carp is due to the breaking of the dam, and the finny tribe seeking shelter under the ice. It is estimated that several tons of said fish were captured. It was quite a curiosity to see the large number of people spearing and catching the fish. If that class of finny tribe were all removed it would no doubt be much better for the other fish, as the carp are known to destroy the spawn of all fish.

To Resume Grinding.

The brush dam on the local mill pond is now completed. Backhaus & Marx, proprietors of the local roller mill wish to announce to the public that they are again in a position to do grinding, and solicit the patronage of all. The brush dam is only a temporary dam. A new concrete dam will be built later this summer.

TELL OF PROGRESS

SOUTHERN COMMERCIAL CONGRESS OPENS AT ATLANTA—MANY SPEECHES.

TAFT AND ROOSEVELT THERE

Presence of Prominent Men From All Sections of Country Adds Dignity to Important Gathering—Exemplifies Growth of 50 Years.

Atlanta, Ga.—The presence of President Taft, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, Secretary of War Dickinson, Woodrow Wilson, governor of New Jersey, together with all the governors of the southern states and some of the foremost business men of the nation at the opening of the Southern Commercial congress here Wednesday added dignity to a convention whose importance to the country at large and to the south in particular will be second to none. Coming as it does just fifty years after the division of the states in civil strife, it exemplifies that great commercial union that has sprung from the ashes of a dead revolution to bind the North and the South firmly in the bonds of mutual interest.

Three men of world-wide reputation occupied the attention of the convention with addresses of much interest. Secretary Wilson delivered a speech on agriculture in the South, George Westinghouse spoke on "Electricity in the Development of the South," and George W. Perkins addressed the convention on "Business Efficiency in Southern Progress."

During the three days of the convention many speeches were delivered. These discourses were headed by a speech from Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida on "The Southern Renaissance." The second speech of national importance will be by Senator Money of Mississippi on "The Obligation of the Panama Canal." The third national utterance was from the lips of Former Senator James Gordon of Mississippi, who brought a message "From Yesterday to Today." He was followed by Dr. Clarence J. Owens, commander-in-chief of the United Sons of Confederate Veterans, who spoke on "Today and Tomorrow." Colonel Roosevelt was the fifth speaker. President Taft made the closing remarks of the convention, taking for his topic, "A Greater Nation Through a Greater South."

MOBILIZE ARMY IN TEXAS

Taft Sends 20,000 Troops and Navy to Mexican Border Ostensibly for Maneuvers.

Washington.—An army of approximately 20,000 men, representing all branches of the service, is mobilizing along the Mexican border of the United States.

It is officially stated, and the administration made special efforts to substantiate the statement, that the sole purpose of this unusual mobilization was maneuvers on a grand scale for the training of officers and men.

While every effort was made in official circles here to give this great movement the appearance of a simple preparation for maneuvers there were persistent rumors that the government was preparing for more serious eventualities. Confidential reports from Mexico of late have encouraged the belief of many that conditions in the Mexican government are far from being as satisfactory as official assertions seek to indicate.

There was a report in Washington Tuesday that urgent representations had been made to the state department that unless the United States government immediately made adequate preparations to protect American and foreign interests in northern Mexico appeal would be, if it had not already been, made to Great Britain to do so. The report could not be definitely confirmed.

The White House itself gave out a statement after the meeting of the cabinet, in explanation of the massing of troops, and reading as follows:

"The war department is mobilizing a division at full strength at San Antonio, Tex., for the purpose of field training of officers and men, and for the further purpose of holding maneuvers involving possible operations against Galveston. There will be assembled at Galveston a force of three regiments for the defense of that place against theoretical attacks by the navy."

Plot to Kill Taft.

Spokane, Wash.—The police authorities of this city believe that they have unearthed an anarchistic plot to take the lives of President Taft, Mayor N. S. Pratt of Spokane and one or two other persons in the arrest of three men here Monday.

Marchers May Disband.

STARTS ON LONG TRIP

ROOSEVELT TO TOUR THE SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST.

Will Participate in Many Important Events During the Next Two Months.

New York.—Former President Roosevelt left Wednesday on a two months' tour of the south and southwest. A $10,000 dinner, a reunion of the Rough Riders, a day spent in presiding over ceremonies to be held in the town of Roosevelt, Ariz., to mark the opening of the Roosevelt dam, one of the greatest engineering feats in the west, and long hunting and fishing trips in and about the Rockies are some of the things which will enliven the peregrinations of the former president.

In Birmingham he addressed a Child Labor Commission. New Orleans entertained the ex-Rough-Rider with a $10,000 banquet given under the auspices of the Commercial club of Louisiana. The annual convention of "Cattle Raisers," one of the most powerful organizations in the state of Texas, was addressed by the Colonel at San Antonio. The next stop in the itinerary was Albuquerque, N. M., where the ex-Rough Rider spent two days among his old friends of the saddle. From there he went to Grand Canyon, Ariz., where a short address was delivered. Then on to Phoenix for the opening of the Roosevelt dam.

In Los Angeles, Colonel Roosevelt will speak at the invitation of Governor Johnson of that state.

San Francisco, the termination of his trans-continental trip, will receive some ten days of his time. Here he will divide his time between the University of California, at Berkeley, where he will deliver the Earl lecture, six in number; and his headquarters in the city where he will receive visitors from the Pacific slope.

No definite arrangements, other than a personal promise to be present at the opening of the new Y. M. C. A. building at Reno, have been made, though it is probable that he will visit friends in Oregon and Nevada for an intermediate period, after which he will visit Seattle and Spokane. No speeches to be delivered in those states are yet announced; nor is the length of his stay. At the conclusion of his visit he will probably go to some place in Idaho, thence to Sand Point, Montana, and home through the north and middle west.

SEVEN INDICTED FOR FRAUD

Alaskan Development Company Officials Accused of Using 300 Citizens to Make Coal Entries.

Detroit, Mich.—Government investigation into alleged Alaskan land frauds involving approximately 48,000 acres of land, valued at more than $50,000,000, resulted in the issuance Monday of an indictment by the local federal jury, charging seven individuals with conspiracy against the United States. The defendants are Wilbur W. McAlpine, Albert H. Roehme, George W. Ross, Frank D. Andrus, Arthur Holmes and McCurdy C. Le Beau, all of Detroit, and John M. Bushnell of Chicago. The foregoing are officials of a company known as the Michigan-Alaska Development company.

The contention of the government is that the defendants conspired to induce between 200 and 300 individuals to become stockholders in the Michigan-Alaska company by making "fraudulent and fictitious locations of certain Alaska coal lands," thereby violating the land entry laws of 1916, which made it illegal for more than four persons to form a company for locating Alaska coal lands and taking out patents on more than 640 acres.

NINETY BURNED TO DEATH

Russian Theater Destroyed by Flames Trapping Audience Before They Can Escape—Forty Injured.

St. Petersburg.—Ninety persons, many of them children, were burned to death and forty others injured in a fire that destroyed a moving picture theater at Bologote Monday. In the stampede that followed the first appearance of the flames forty or more persons were burned and crushed. Many of these are expected to die. The toll of death may reach 125.

About 300 persons were in the theater watching the moving-picture exhibition when the fire broke out. A sudden cry called the attention of the audience to flames that crept along the side of the theater. In a minute the crowd of men, women and children were panic-stricken.

They fought each other in their efforts to get to the exits. Women fainted and others trampled on their unconscious forms. Children were knocked down by their excited elders.

SECRETARY OF INTERIOR PRESENTS RESIGNATION AND TAFT APPOINTS WALTER L. FISHER.

GIVES ILL HEALTH AS REASON

Retiring Official Bases His Request Entirely Upon His Condition and Receives Warm Praise in Letter From the President.

Washington.—Richard A. Ballinger's resignation as secretary of the interior was accepted by President Taft and Walter L. Fisher of Chicago was Tuesday appointed as his successor.

Mr. Ballinger tendered his resignation in a letter on January 19, being on the condition of his health. The president replied at once, expressing his confidence in Secretary Ballinger, his reluctance to accept his resignation, and requested the secretary to remain in office until the close of the session of congress. Immediately on the adjournment of congress Secretary Ballinger renewed his request.

Tuesday President Taft, in a letter, formally accepted the resignation and Mr. Fisher was appointed as his successor, his commission being signed immediately by the president. Mr. Fisher will take office immediately.

The correspondence between the president and the secretary is not voluminous, but displays beyond question the confidence which Mr. Taft has reposed in Mr. Ballinger throughout the long siege and the indignation with which he has viewed the attacks on the secretary's personal and official integrity.

"I have had the fullest opportunity," the president says in his letter accepting the resignation, "to know you, to know your standards of service to the government and the public, to know your motives, to know how you have administered your office and to know the motives of those who have assailed you."

"I do not hesitate to say that you have been the object of one of the most unscrupulous conspiracies for the defamation of character that history can show."

And in the conclusion of his letter the president declares that "every fiber of my nature rebels against such hypocrisy" (referring to the attacks on Ballinger's character) "and nerves me to fight such a combination and such methods to the bitter end, lest success in this instance may form a demoralizing precedent. But personal consideration for you and yours makes me feel that I have no right to ask for a further sacrifice."

The president goes on to declare it evident that he has been himself, the ultimate object of the attack, and says that to insist on Mr. Ballinger's remaining in office "with the prospects of further efforts against you, is selfishly to impose on you more of a burden than I ought to impose."

Clear Up Friar Land Cases.

Washington.—Complete exoneration of the officers of the Philippine government of charges of irregularities or improprieties in connection with the administration, sale or lease of lands in the islands is combined with pointed criticisms of the inadequacy of the laws to prevent monopolies in what are known as the friar lands in both the majority and minority reports of the house committee on insular affairs submitted to the house Friday.

Moor Kills a Frenchman.

Melilla, Morocco.—E. Mangin, the chief of the French military mission at Pez, was killed by the son of the Moorish minister of war Tuesday, because the officer had caused the execution of two native soldiers.

Wisconsin Judge is Accused.

Milwaukee.—Dispatches from Crandon, county seat of Forest county, northern Wisconsin, say County Judge John A. Walsh was arrested Tuesday on charges of grafting in sums of $300 named in each warrant.

EXTRA SESSION CALL

TAFT ISSUES PROCLAMATION CONVENING CONGRESS APRIL 4.

Bailey Tenders Resignation, Then Withdraws It—Tariff Board Bill Defeated.

Washington.—Ninety minutes after the Sixty-first congress ended Saturday President Taft called the Sixty-second to meet in extraordinary session on April 4.

The proclamation states the purpose of calling the extra session is to get action on reciprocity. It calls attention to the fact that the house passed the McCall bill, but that the senate had done nothing. In support of his demand, the president cites the fact that the agreement with Canada forces him to do all in his power to get legislation carrying out that agreement enacted.

It was at the request of the Democrats that President Taft fixed the date of the extra session on April 4.

Just before the closing hour of the Sixty-first congress Senator Bailey telegraphed his resignation to Governor Colquitt of Texas. The immediate cause of his action was disgust over the attitude of his Democratic colleagues in voicing support of the initiative, referendum and recall by voting to accept the constitution of the prospective state of Arizona. Subsequently he withdrew his resignation.

Out of the smoke of the closing battle emerge these results of larger interest:

Positive Results—Provision of $3,000,000 for the fortification of the Panama canal.

Provision for two new battleships. Recodification of the judicial code—regarded as most important for the amelioration of the law's delays.

Creation of forest preserves in the southern Appalachian and White mountains.

Negative Results—Failure of the Canadian reciprocity agreement and consequent certainty of an extra session.

Failure of permanent tariff board bill, which passed the senate, but was killed by a filibuster in the house.

Failure of the resolution to admit to statehood Arizona and New Mexico killed by a filibuster in the senate.

Failure of the proposal to increase the rate of postage on the advertising sections of the large magazines; but a commission provided for to investigate the subject.

Failure of the resolution providing for the direct election of United States senators.

Failure of the general age pension bill.

Failure to act on Ballinger-Pinchot investigation reports.

HILLES IS TAFT'S CHOICE

Formal Announcement He Will Become President's Secretary April 4.

Washington, D. C.—Official announcement was made that Charles D. Hilles, assistant secretary of the treasury, would succeed Charles D. Norton as secretary to the president on April 4, the day of the opening of the extra session of congress.

Formal announcement also was made by Mr. Norton that he would become vice-president of the First National bank of New York on April 5.

Legislature is Held Legal.

Columbus, O.—The present session of the Ohio general assembly is constitutional. The supreme court handed down that ruling Tuesday, thus making all acts of the legislature effective. There had been a question as to the constitutionality of the session.

Columbia Budget $2,775,000.

New York.—The budget of Columbia university for the academic year 1911-12 calls for a total expenditure of $2,775,000, the largest on record.

SUFFERED 23 YEARS

Mrs. J. H. Bourland, San Saba, Texas, writes:

"For twenty-three years I was a constant sufferer from chronic catarrh. I had a severe misery and burning in the top of my head. There was almost a continual dropping of mucus into my throat, which caused frequent expectoration. My entire system gradually became involved, and my condition grew worse. I had an incessant cough and frequent attacks of bilious colic, from which it seemed I could not recover. My bowels also became affected, causing alarming attacks of hemorrhages. I tried many remedies, which gave only temporary relief or no relief at all. I at last tried Peruna, and in three days I was relieved of the bowel derangement. After using five bottles I was entirely cured. I most cheerfully recommend the use of Peruna to any one similarly afflicted."

FEARED THE SCREECH OWL

Woman Was Not Superstitious, but She Cut Short Her Visit to the Country.

"I'm not a bit superstitious, not in the least bit, but—I don't ever want to hear another screech owl in the night," said a woman who remained in the country until the holidays. "Positively, I believe I should go mad if I ever heard that blood-curdling sound again."

"You know they say in the country that if a screech owl comes crying around the house it's a sure sign of death. Of course, I've no faith in that sort of nonsense, but all the same the coachman's mother died after the owl's first appearance."

"The owl came back and one of the employees died. It came back again and I decided that, after all, I didn't want to spend Christmas in the country and lighted back to town. The coachman said something about 'the old rule,' and I just naturally packed up my duds and bought a ticket for New York."

"Ugh-h! I shiver now whenever I think of that owl in the apple tree."

Music Hall Losing Vogue.

Music halls have increased very little in the last few years. Some have gone back to drama. Others have been run partly with drama. Others have gone over to picture entertainments. The picture houses have not immensely added to their own by new buildings.—London Stage.

HONEST CONFESSION

A Doctor's Talk on Food.

There are no finer set of men on earth than the doctors, and when they find they have been in error they are usually apt to make honest and manly admission of the fact.

A case in point is that of a practitioner, one of the good old school, who lives in Texas. His plain, unvarnished tale needs no dressing up:

"I had always had an intense prejudice, which I can now see was unwarrantable and unreasonable, against all much advertised foods. Hence, I never read a line of the many 'ads' of Grape-Nuts, nor tested the food till last winter.

"While in Corpus Christi for my health, and visiting my youngest son, who has four of the ruddiest, healthiest little boys I ever saw, I ate my first dish of Grape-Nuts food for supper with my little grandsons.

"I became exceedingly fond of it and have eaten a package of it every week since, and find it a delicious, refreshing and strengthening food, leaving no ill effects whatever, causing no eructations (with which I was formerly much troubled), no sense of fullness, nausea, nor distress of stomach in any way.

"There is no other food that agrees with me so well, or sits as lightly or pleasantly upon my stomach as this does.

"I am stronger and more active since I began the use of Grape-Nuts than I have been for 10 years, and am no longer troubled with nausea and indigestion." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

EMERY IS CHOSEN DESPITE PROTESTS

GOVERNOR DISREGARDS OPPOSITION TO REAPPOINTMENT OF FOOD COMMISSIONER.

BOARD OF CONTROL NAMED

Former Omro Pastor and Chippewa Falls and Merrill Men Are Given Posts—Prof. Cowner and Judge Cowie to Retire from Board.

Madison.—Despite opposition, Gov. McGovern reappointed J. Q. Emery, of Albion, Dane county, state dairy and food commissioner for a term ending the first Monday in February, 1913, at an annual salary of $3,000. He also named five members of the state board of control. They are:

Dr. Alma J. Frisby, Milwaukee, for the term ending in April, 1912.

W. H. Graebner, Milwaukee, for the term ending in April, 1913.

Dr. P. H. Lindley, Chippewa Falls, for the term ending in April, 1911.

Ralph E. Smith, Merrill, for the term ending in April, 1914.

The Rev. Daniel Woodward, Omro, for the term ending in April, 1915.

Two of those named, Dr. Frisby and W. H. Graebner, are members of the present board and their reappointment was expected. Two other members of the present board, Prof. A. D. Conover, Madison, and Judge R. Cowie of Whitewater, were not reappointed.

Of the new members, the Rev. Woodward is the minister whose support of Gov. McGovern in the primaries last fall drew down on him the condemnation of his presiding elder, which led the Rev. Woodward to withdraw from the Methodist church, of which he had charge.

Dr. P. H. Lindley is a well known politician of Chippewa Falls, who has been mentioned in previous administrations for an appointment.

Another appointment announced is that of Dr. W. F. White, Watertown, to be a member of the state board of health for the seven year term ending in February, 1918.

The governor also reappointed Thomas J. Cunningham, Chippewa Falls, to the Wisconsin state civil service commission.

JUDGE CHARGED WITH GRAFT

Arrest of Jurist, Latest Development in Forest County Investigation, Causes a Sensation.

Crandon.—A sensation was caused in the graft prosecution in Forest county when James A. Walsh, county judge, was arrested on three different warrants charging him with graft. The present sheriff being under indictment, the warrants were served by the marshal of Crandon.

Walsh has always stood in high esteem in the county and was a power in its affairs and its politics. He served as district attorney in the county from 1903 to 1906, and was elected county judge in 1909, taking office the year following. On the first warrant on which he was arrested, Judge Walsh is charged with the sale of a public office for $300. It is charged that he made an appointment and had the appointee sign over his salary of $300.

A. E. Himley, former county clerk, is a co-defendant with Judge Walsh in the second warrant, although Mr. Himley has not been arrested. They are charged jointly with larceny as bailee of $300. In the third warrant, C. G. Himley, a brother, also former county clerk, is charged with Judge Walsh in securing $268.80 under false pretenses.

DIETZ TO BE TRIED MAY 2

Postponement Is Agreed to Because of Inability of Mrs. Dietz to Appear in Court.

Hayward.—The case against John Dietz, Mrs. Dietz and Leslie Dietz, jointly charged with the murder of Oscar Harpe on October 8, 1910, was again continued by agreement between District Attorney S. J. Williams and John Dietz until May 2. Dietz has not yet employed counsel and was advised by Judge Reid to do so. The principal reason for continuance given by District Attorney Williams was that Mrs. Dietz is still in confinement and unable to appear for trial.

Theater—Church Burned.

Richland Center.—The Orpheum theater was totally destroyed by fire of unknown origin. The theater had been used as a church by the United Brethren congregation, whose building was burned a few weeks ago.

FAIL TO CONFIRM BADGERS

Congress Adjourns Without Taking Action on Nominations of Many Wisconsin Appointees.

Washington, D. C.—With the adjournment of congress the following nominations for Wisconsin postmasters have failed of confirmation: J. Henguent, Algoma; M. E. Barbeau, Appleton; H. A. Pease, Cumberland; J. F. Shaw, Ellsworth; L. C. Fensel, Kewaunee; H. G. Kress, Manitowoc; C. F. Henrize, Menomonee Falls; Julius Means, Antigo; J. D. Strickland, New Lisbon; C. G. Morgan, Oakfield; W. A. Jones, Oconomowoc; R. G. Sharp, Oconto; R. Downend, Osceola; H. L. Peterson, Sturgeon Bay.

The nominations of Guy D. Goff for district attorney and Menry A. Weil for marshal for the eastern district and the nomination of Frank L. Gilbert for collector of internal revenue for the western district have also failed of confirmation. The probabilities are that Goff for district attorney and Gilbert for collector will be renominated.

None of these nominations have been reported or rejected in committee and so are eligible for renomination by the president, if he so chooses. Postmasters whose terms have expired and who have been removed will hold their offices until their successors are appointed and qualified.

COMMISSIONERS ORGANIZED

County Highway Officials Form State Association and Adopt Resolution for Good Roads.

Madison.—The county highway commissioners of Wisconsin at a meeting here organized a permanent association to be called the State Association of County Highway Commissioners and elected the following officers:

President, George F. Post, Spring Green; vice-president, F. M. Sargeant, Ladysmith; secretary and treasurer, Prof. W. O. Hotchkiss, Madison.

The association listened to Senators J. S. Donald of Mount Horeb, Timothy E. Burke of Green Bay, and E. E. Browne of Waupaca, who explained the highway bills pending before the legislature. The association appointed a committee which drafted resolutions expressing the views of the association on the creation of an unpaid state highway commission and the subject of good roads.

$50,000 FIRE AT WITTENBERG

The next convention will be held in Green Bay, 1914. There are at present 525 camps in the state.

Drainage Bill Interests Farmers.

Madison.—Assemblymen representing agricultural districts are receiving numerous letters from constituents asking for copies of the drainage bill and it is very likely that the farmers of the state will be heard from in no unmistakable manner in regard to these measures. There is a good deal of opposition on the part of farmers to any extensive change in the drainage code and some lively arguments over the drainage bills may be expected when they come up for hearings.

Hts Foreign Language Teaching.

Madison.—People who believe foreign languages should be taught in the public schools of Wisconsin are up in arms over the discovery of a bill in the assembly which strikes out the provision in the statutes permitting instruction in foreign languages in graded schools.

News Notes of Wisconsin

Racine.—In an explosion at the Mitchell Motor Car company's plant, Frank M. McNear, aged 35, superintendent of the assembling room, lost his life, and John Foley, aged 50, night watchman, was terribly burned about the head, face and arms. McNear entered the assembling room and taking a lantern, walked between the two ovens. It is believed that he walked into "live gas" from the ovens, for there was a terrific explosion that blew out the end of the building, all the skylights in that section of the factory and demolished the ovens. It is thought that the loss will total $15,000 or $20,000.

Marquette.—John Marsch is the new owner of the Wisconsin and Michigan railway. Marsch, whose home is at Iron Mountain, Wis., got control at the annual meeting in Chicago, after purchasing bonds and stocks of the company and elected himself and two brothers to the directorate. The line was one of the John R. Walsh properties and extends from Peshtigo to Iron Mountain, seventy miles.

Chippewa Falls.—An interurban car ran over Michael Schmitz, aged 50, in front of the Ottawa hotel, cutting off both his legs above the knee. He died in ten minutes. He was a blacksmith at Tomahawk and was enroute from Tomahawk to Eau Claire to visit his aged mother. He was trying to enter the closed vestibule when the car started dragging him under the wheels.

Sheboygan.—At Plymouth, Michael Straub fell and broke his neck, causing almost instant death. Mr. Straub was 66 years of age and had been a resident of Plymouth for a number of years. At the time of the accident he was on his way to the depot, intending to take a train for London to visit his daughter.

Eau Claire.—Ernest Rolland, arrested here on a forgery charge, was taken back to Ottawa, Can., as a paroled prisoner from a penal institution in Canada. At the death of his aged father he was released, as his mother was quite ill. Christmas he came here and passed a forged check.

Waukesha.—Mrs. Catherine Hibel, aged 58, committed suicide by tying a stone to a cord around her neck and jumping into a cistern. Her mind has been more or less affected the past five years, since her husband broke his neck in a fall down stairs.

Manitowoc.—Reports of coal receipts on the Great Lakes, just issued, place this city in fifth place with 948,000 tons, leading the second class.

Wausau.—Three launches, the largest having accommodations for fifty passengers, have been received by C. Marriam of Waupaca, who will inaugurate a passenger boat service on Lake Wausau this summer between this city, Rothschild Park and Rib River.

Madison.—Dr. Hermon C. Bumpus, business manager of the university, recently elected at a salary of $5,000 a year, has arrived and started to study the minute details of the financial administrative end of the university.

SERIAL STORY

When a Man Marries

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART
Author of The Circular Staircase, The Man in Lower Ten, Etc.

Copyright 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

SYNOPSIS.

James Wilson or Jimmy as he is called by his friends Jimmy was rotund and looked shorter than he really was. His ambition in life was to be taken seriously, but people steadily refused to do so. His art is considered a huge joke, except to himself. If he asked people to dinner everyone expected a frolic. Jimmy marries Bella Knowles; they live together a year and are divorced. Jimmy's friends arrange to celebrate the first anniversary of his divorce. Those who attend the party are Miss Katherine McNair, who every one calls Kit, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Brown, the Misses Mercer, Maxwell Reed and a Mr. Thomas Harbison, a South American civil engineer. The party is in full swing when Jimmy receives a telegram from his Aunt Selma, who will arrive in four hours to visit him and his wife. Jimmy gets his funds from Aunt Selma and after he marries she doubles his allowance. He neglects to tell her of his divorce, as she is opposed to it. Jimmy takes Kit into his confidence, he tries to devise some way so that his aunt will not learn that he has no longer a wife. He suggests that Kit play the hostess for one night, be Mrs. Wilson pro tem. Kit refuses, but is finally prevailed upon to act the part. Aunt Selma arrives and the deception works out as planned, as she had never seen Jim's wife.

"It might be scarlet fever," Max broke in cheerfully. "I say, scarlet fever on a Mongolian—what color would he be, Jimmy? What do yellow and red make? Green?"

"Orange," Jim said shortly. "I wish you people would remember that we are trying to eat."

The fact was, however, that no one was really eating, except Mr. Harbison, who had given up trying to understand us, considering, no doubt, our subdued excitement as our normal condition. Ages afterward I learned that he thought my face almost tragic that night, and that he supposed, from the way I glared across the table, that I had quarreled with my husband!

"I am afraid you are not well," he said at last, noticing my food untouched on my plate. "We should not have come, any of us."

"I am perfectly well," I replied feverishly. "I am never ill. I—I ate a late luncheon."

He glanced at me keenly. "Don't let them stay and play bridge to-night," he urged. "Miss Caruthers can be an excuse, can she not? And you are really fagged. You look it."

"I think it is only ill humor," I said, looking directly at him. "I am angry at myself. I have done something silly, and I hate to be silly."

Max would have said "Impossible," or something else trite. The Harbison man looked at me with interested, serious eyes.

"Is it too late to undo it?" he asked. And then there I determined that he should never know the truth. He could go back to South America and build bridges and make love to the Spanish girls (or are they Spanish down there?) and think of me always as a married woman, married to a dilettante artist, inclined to be stout—the artist, not I—and with an Aunt Selma Caruthers who made buttons and believed in the Cause. But never, never should he think of me as a silly little fool who pretended that she was the other man's wife and had a lump in her throat because when a really nice man came along, a man who knew something more than polo and motors, she had to carry on the deception to keep his respect, and be sedate and matronly, and see him change from perfectly open admiration at first to a hands-off-she-is-my-hosts-wife attitude at last.

"It can never be undone," I said soberly.

Well, that's the picture as nearly as I can draw it; a round table with a low centerpiece of orchids in lavender and pink, old silver candlesticks with filigree shades against the somber wainscoting; nine people, two of them unhappy—Jim and I; one of them complacent—Aunt Selma; one puzzled—Mr. Harbison; and the rest hysterically mirthful. Add one sick Japanese butler and grind in the mills of the gods.

Every one promptly forgot Takahiro in the excitement of the game we were all playing. Finally, however, Aunt Selma, who seemed to have Takahiro on her mind, looked up from her plate.

"That Jap was speckled," she asserted. "I wouldn't be surprised if it's measles. Has he been sniffing, James?"

"Has he been sniffing?" Jim threw across at me.

"I hadn't noticed it," I said meekly, while the others choked.

Max came to the rescue. "She refused to eat it," he explained, distinctly and to everybody, apropos absolutely of nothing. "It said on the box, 'ready cooked and predigested.'"

He declared she didn't care who cooked it, but she wanted to know who predigested it."

As every one wanted to laugh, every one did it then, and under cover of the noise I caught Anne's eye, and we left the dining room. The men stayed, and by the very firmness with which the door closed behind us, I knew that Dallas and Max were bringing out the bottles that Takahiro had hidden. I was seething. When Aunt Selma indicated a desire to go over the house (it was natural that she should want to: it was her house, in a way) I excused myself for a minute and flew back to the dining room.

It was as I had expected. Jim hadn't cheered perceptibly, and the rest were patting him on the back, and pouring things out for him, and saying, "Poor old Jim" in the most maddening way. And the Harbison man was looking more and more puzzled, and not at all hilarious.

I descended on them like a thunderbolt.

"That's it!" I cried shrewishly, with my back against the door. "Leave her to me, all of you, and pat each other on the back, and say it's gone splendidly! Oh, I know you, every one!" Mr. Harbison got up and pulled out a chair, but I couldn't sit; I folded my arms on the back. "After a while, I suppose, you'll slip upstairs, the four of you, and have your game." They looked guilty. "But I will block that right now. I am going to stay—here. If Aunt Selma wants me, she can find me—here!"

The first indication those men had that Mr. Harbison didn't know the state of affairs was when he turned and faced them.

"Mrs. Wilson is quite right," he said gravely. "We're a selfish lot. If Miss Caruthers is a responsibility, let us share her."

"To arms!" Jim said, with an affection of lightness, as they put their glasses down, and threw open the door. Dal's retort, "Whose?" was lost in the confusion, and we went into the library. On the way Dallas managed to speak to me.

"If Harbison doesn't know, don't tell him," he said in an undertone. "He's a queer duck, in some ways; he mightn't think it funny."

"Funny," I choked. "It's the least funny thing I ever experienced. Deceiving that Harbison man isn't so bad—he thinks me crazy, anyhow. He's been staring his eyes out at me—"

"I don't wonder. You're lovely tonight, Kit, and you look like a vixen." "But to deceive that harmless old lady—well, thank goodness, it's nine, and she leaves in an hour or so."

But she didn't. And that's the story.

CHAPTER IV.

The Door Was Closed. It was infuriating to see how much enjoyment every one but Jim and myself got out of the situation. They howled with mirth over the feeblest

"That's it!" I cried shrewishly.

Jokes, and when Max told a story without any point whatever, they all had hysteria. Immediately after dinner Aunt Selma had begun on the family connection again, and after two bad breaks on my part, Jim offered to show her the house. The Mercer girls trailed along, unwilling to lose any of the possibilities. They said afterward that it was terrible: She went into all the closets, and ran her hand over the tops of doors and kept getting grimmer and grimmer. In the studio they came across a life study Jim was doing and she shut her eyes and made the girls go out while he covered it with a drapery. Lollie! Who did the Bacchante dance at three benefits last winter and was learning a new one called "Eve!"

When they heard Aunt Selma on the second floor, Anne, Dal and Max sneaked up to the studio for cigarettes, which left Mr. Harbison to me. I was in the den, sitting in a low chair by the wood fire when he came in. He hesitated in the doorway.

"Would you prefer being alone, or may I come in?" he asked. "Don't mind being frank. I know you are tired."

"I have a headache, and I am sulking," I said unpleasantly, "but at least I am not actively venomous. Come in."

So he came and sat down across the hearth from me, and neither of us said anything. The firelight flickered over the room, bringing out the faded hues of the old Japanese prints on the walls, gleaming in the mother-of-pearl eyes of the dragon on the screen, setting a grotesque glow on a cabinet to nodding. And it threw into relief the strong, clear profile of the man across from me, as he stared at the fire.

"I am afraid I am not very interesting," I said at last, when he showed no sign of breaking the silence. "The illness of the butler and—Miss Caruthers' arrival, have been upsetting."

He suddenly roused with a start from a brown reverie.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "I—oh, of course not! I was wondering if I—if you were offended at what I said earlier in the evening; the—Brushwood Boy, you know, and all that."

"Offended?" I repeated, puzzled. "You see, I have been living out of the world so long, and never seeing any women but Indian squaws—so there were no Spanish girls!—that I'm afraid I say what comes into my mind without circumspection. And then—I did not know you were married."

"No, oh, no," I said hastily. "But, of course, the more a woman is married—I mean, you cannot say too many nice things to married women. They—need them, you know."

I had floundered miserably, with his eyes on me, and I half expected him to be shocked, or to say that married women should be satisfied with the nice things their husbands say to them. But he merely remarked apropos of nothing, or following a line of thought he had not voiced, that it was true but that a good many men owed their success in life to their wives.

"And a good many owe their wives to their success in life," I retorted cynically. At which he stared at me again.

It was then that the real complexity of the situation began to develop. Some one had rung the bell and been admitted to the library and a maid came to the door of the den. When she saw us she stopped uncertainly. Even then it struck me that she looked odd, and she was not in uniform. However, I was not informed at that time about bachelor establishments, and the first thing she said, when she had asked to speak to me in the hall, knocked her and her clothes clear out of my head. Evidently she knew.

"Miss McNair," she said in a low tone, "there is a lady in the drawing room, a veiled person, and she is asking for Mr. Wilson."

"Can you not find him?" I asked. "He is in the house, probably in the studio."

The girl hesitated. "Excuse me, miss, but Miss Caruthers—"

Then I saw the situation. "Never mind," I said. "Close the door into the drawing room, and I will tell Mr. Wilson."

But as the girl turned toward the doorway, the person in question appeared in it, and raised her veil. I was perfectly paralyzed. It was Bella! Bella in a fur coat and a veil, with the most tragic eyes I ever saw and entirely white except for a dab of rouge in the middle of each cheek. We stared at each other without speech. The maid turned and went down the hall, and with that Bella came over to me and clutched me by the arm.

"Who was being carried out into that ambulance?" she demanded, glaring at me with the most awful intensity.

"I'm sure I don't know, Bella," I said, wriggling away from her fingers. "What in the world are you doing here? I thought you were in Europe."

"You are hiding something from me!" she accused. "It is Jim! I see it in your face."

"Well, it isn't," I snapped. "It seems to me, really, Bella, that you and Jim ought to be able to manage your own affairs, without dragging me in." It was not pleasant, but if she was suffering, so was I. "Jim is as well as he ever was. He's upstairs somewhere. I'll send for him."

She gripped me again, and held on while her color came back.

"You'll do nothing of the kind," she said, and she had quite got hold of herself again. "I do not want to see him: I hope you don't think, Kit, that I came here to see James Wilson. Why, I have forgotten that there is such a person, and you know it."

Somebody upstairs laughed, and I was growing nervous. What if Aunt Selma should come down, or Mr. Harbison come out of the den?

"Why did you come, then, Bella?" I inquired. "He may come in."

"I was passing in the motor," she said, and I honestly think she hoped I would believe her, "and I saw that am—" She stopped and began again. "I thought Jim was out of town, and I came to see Takahiro," she said brazenly. "He was devoted to me, and Evans is going to leave. I'll tell you what to do, Kit. I'll go back to the dining room, and you send Taka there. If any one comes, I can slip into the pantry."

ALL SHE WANTED.

"Darling," said the happy old gentleman to the beautiful girl who was permitting him to hold her hand, "you are not going to marry me just for my money, are you?"

"Of course not," she replied. "Whatever caused you to think I might do such a thing?"

"I don't know. It was foolish of me to permit such a thought to come into my mind, wasn't it?"

"Of course."

"Forgive me, won't you?"

"Yes—this time."

"I will never think it again."

"Are you sure you won't?"

"Certainly. Why shouldn't I be sure?"

"There's no reason why you shouldn't be sure; but I want you to do something for me."

"What is it, sweetheart?"

"Write me a lot of silly letters so that I shall have something to fall back on in case your children and grandchildren make trouble for us."

THE YOUNG BRIDE'S FIRST DISCOVERY

Their wedding tour had ended, and they entered their new home to settle down to what they hoped to be one long uninterrupted blissful honeymoon.

But, alas! the young bride's troubles soon began, when she tried to reduce the cost of living with cheap big on baking powders.

She soon discovered that all she got was a lot for her money, and it was not all baking powder, for the bulk of it was cheap materials which had no leavening power. Such powders will not make light, wholesome food. And because of the absence of leavening gas, it requires from two or three times as much to raise cakes or biscuits as it does of Calumet Baking Powder.

Thus, eventually, the actual cost to you, of cheap baking powders, is more than Calumet would be.

Cheap baking powders often leave the bread bleached and acid, sometimes yellow and alkaline, and often unpalatable. They are not always of uniform strength and quality.

Now the bride buys Calumet—the perfectly wholesome baking powder, moderate in price, and always uniform and reliable. Calumet keeps indefinitely, makes cooking easy, and is certainly the most economical after all.

HEAD SOLID MASS OF HUMOR

"I think the Cuticura Remedies are the best remedies for eczema I have ever heard of. My mother had a child who had a rash on its head when it was real young. Doctor called it baby rash. He gave us medicine, but it did no good. In a few days the head was a solid mass; a running sore. It was awful, the child cried continually. We had to hold him and watch him to keep him from scratching the sore. His suffering was dreadful. At last we remembered Cuticura Remedies. We got a dollar bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, a box of Cuticura Ointment, and a bar of Cuticura Soap. We gave the Resolvent as directed, washed the head with the Cuticura Soap, and applied the Cuticura Ointment. We had not used half before the child's head was clear and free from eczema, and it has never come back again. His head was healthy and he had a beautiful head of hair. I think the Cuticura Ointment very good for the hair. It makes the hair grow and prevents falling hair." (Signed) Mrs. Francis Lund, Plain City, Utah, Sept. 19, 1910. Send to the Potter Drug & Chem. ## TAFT AND CLARK IN FULL ACCORD

Odd Comity of Political Opinion Between Leaders of Opposing Parties.

BOTH ARE FOR RECIPROCITY

President is Now Without Party in House—Injured by His Poor Aids—Clark's Blunder Hurts His Future—Party Discipline Gone.

By WILLIS J. ABBOT.

Washington.—"What," asked a prominent Republican representative in congress of me the other day, "will the Democrats do in their next convention? Are they going to make their ticket Taft and Clark (Champ) or shall it be Clark and Taft?" Within a minute or two another Republican representative—the latter from Ohio, the first was from Kansas—stopped at my seat in the hotel lobby with the remark, "I won't vote for Taft on a Democratic ticket or a Democratic platform. You fellows can have him if you want him."

All of which conversation, and much more like it, unnecessary to quote here, grew out of the Taft reciprocity treaty, but even more out of the speech which the president made at the Pan-American conference so ably presided over by John Barrett.

Taft and Clark in Accord.

No doubt the press associations have carried the text of this speech, and the accompanying one made by Champ Clark, the Democratic leader in the house of representatives and its next speaker. But at the risk of repetition I wish to call attention to this curious comity of political opinion between two leaders of opposing parties:

Taft—Mr. Clark is in favor of reciprocity agreements with all parts of the world and so am I.

Clark—I am in favor of reciprocity, not only with Canada, but with all the South and Central American republics. In fact I am in favor of reciprocity with all the nations on earth.

Twenty-four hours later the house passed the McCall bill, giving effect to the Taft treaty and passed it by Democratic votes. The strongest speech in its behalf was made by Champ Clark, who may be Taft's antagonist in the next presidential campaign. The bitterest opponents of the measure were Republicans. The Iowa delegation of Republicans voted as a unit against it. The Democratic chairman of the next ways and means committee defended it; the Republican leader on the floor, Mr. Dalzell, bitterly opposed it.

Reactionaries Bitter Against Taft.

What does all this portend? Further breaking down of party lines? So far as the house of representatives is concerned President Taft is a president without a party. The bitterness with which Republicans, who only a month ago were declaring that he was regaining his old-time popularity, now speak of him, is only paralleled by the way Democrats in 1896 spoke of Cleveland, their only president since the civil war. But this time the Democrats while applauding the Taft policy, do not applaud Taft, nor do they show any indication of a divided party. True a few did vote against the reciprocity program, but they were those who explained in the party caucus that they were bound by pledges given to their constituents which took precedence of caucus obligations. Essentially the Democrats in the house were as united as the Republicans were divided.

Has Antagonized Old Guard Leaders.

The bearing of this on the coming presidential election is most important. President Taft, who certainly will seek renomination, and probably will get it, has antagonized by his reciprocity treaty and by the speeches and messages with which he has defended it, the most influential members of his own party. In the house of representatives he had hardly a defender of his own political faith whose name would be recognized by the country at large as that of a leader in the councils of the G. O. P. His defenders—or the defenders of his measure—were mainly Democrats.

Supported by Democrats.

But the Democrats stood for the issue and not for the man. They claimed that he was merely preaching Democratic doctrine and that they would not desert their cardinal principle of a freer commercial interchange of commodities with foreign peoples merely because it found new expression in the state papers and public utterances of a Republican president. Champ Clark, in the best speech he ever made in the house, defended the bill—but Champ is himself an active candidate for the Democratic nomination. Oscar Underwood, chairman of the ways and means committee, was a valiant lieutenant on the floor, and applauded the president's policy—but no Republican nominee for the presidency would ever get the Underwood vote. So stands the political situation on the Democratic side.

But I do not overstate the attitude of Republican leaders when I say that at the present moment there are many of them who do not hesitate to say that their program is to renominate President Taft and defeat him for re-election precisely as was done with President Harrison in 1892. This animosity does not proceed wholly from his advocacy of the reciprocity project, though it has found its most open expression since he pressed that treaty upon congress. It is at this writing most frankly voiced in the house, but I have heard enough confidential talk among senators to feel certain that when the treaty reaches that body the revolt against Taft, if less noisy, will be more sinister and threatening.

People Favor Reciprocity.

And yet no one who watches public sentiment in the country will doubt that outside of a few restricted localities—interested especially in the protection of their own products—the people approve the reciprocity program. The question is whether Taft has the force and the cleverness to go back of his Republican organization and appeal directly to the people as Roosevelt did and as Bryan did in his own party. The belief among politicians here is that he has not the qualities which would enable him to attempt this successfully.

Taft Not Popular.

President Taft, who really ought to be the most popular man in his party, because of his geniality and fine address, is in fact one of the least popular. He has suffered from a succession of incompetent, or at least, impolitic private secretaries and is well on the way to add to that list with the retirement of the wholly unlamented C. D. Norton. He suffers from the stupidity of his cabinet officers, notably Hitchcock, the postmaster general, who has forced a fight upon all the magazines in the country by his proposition to increase the rates of postage on magazines, by charging a special rate upon the advertising sections. The proposition is of course absurd, and impossible of enforcement for the very simple reason that some of the most widely circulated magazines are "made up" in such a way that it would be mechanically impossible to determine what might be the weight of the advertising columns, and what of the distinctively literary columns in any issue.

They talk around the Capitol about this measure of Hitchcock's being inspired by the "muckraking" tendencies of the magazines.

Strict Party Discipline No More.

On the same day Senator Bailey, a Democrat of Texas, a man who declared in the course of his eloquent remarks that he never had voted for a Republican and never would, rose in the senate and warmly defended the claim to a seat of Senator Lorimer, Republican; and in the house of representatives at the other end of the capitol, President Taft's reciprocity treaty was given right of way by Democratic votes. It then became opportune to wonder whether there was any longer strict party discipline.

The bitterest foes of Lorimer are Republicans who might be expected to stand by him. The strongest advocates of the Taft reciprocity treaty are Democrats, who it might be thought would not aid the president in accomplishing just at the moment when he is about to become a candidate for president, a successful stroke of statesmanship. If the reciprocity treaty is to go through at all it will be by Democratic votes. If President Taft is to go before the country with that as his chief achievement and his principal recommendation for renewed confidence on the part of the voters, he will owe it mainly to the Democrats in house and senate. But if he is to appeal, as he will have to appeal, to the nominating convention as a Republican, it will become necessary for him to admit that one of the very last acts of his first administration was the negotiation of this treaty and the effort to force it through congress against the will of his own party.

Will Crane and Lodge Support Taft?

The treaty is now in the senate and people are wondering as to the fate it will meet there. The senators are a little bit touchy concerning their dignity as the arbiters of treaty relations. The standpatters are decidedly in the majority. But setting aside the mere matter of the success or the failure of the treaty, people are watching the action of certain prominent senators with a view to getting a line on how they are going to treat Taft in his coming campaign for renomination. It is going to be important for him to know how Crane and Lodge of Massachusetts and how Bourne of Oregon stand. Those are far-distant spots, but there is some reason to believe that these three gentlemen who are very astute politicians, and two of whom at least are known to be unfriendly to the treaty, if they should fight it could only be whipped into line by the threat of an extra session, and if so castigated, would not be particularly enthusiastic about another term of Taft.

Imagining Vain Things.

Several weeks ago—it fact just before the Democratic caucus in January—I expressed in these columns these opinions:

1. That although a majority of the Democrats in the house did not desire Champ Clark for speaker they would nevertheless elect him.
2. That though a majority of the Democrats in the house did not desire a committee on committees they would nevertheless create one.

The second part of each of these predictions has been fulfilled. Champ Clark has been elected speaker as far as he can be until the Sixty-second congress actually organizes. The committee on committees is in existence and is doing its worst.

And the Democracy of the house which has been so loudly praised for its unity and harmony—by the little bunch who are running matters—is like the heathen raging and imagining vain things.

Disatisfied With Clark for Speaker. Among the vain things it imagines is that the vote in caucus for Champ Clark for speaker may yet be rescinded, and some other Democrat chosen. This I think wholly improbable, although there is a very serious sentiment back of the rumor. It would be absolutely impossible if there should be an extra session called to follow fast upon the heels of the present congress, for in that event the discontented faction in the Democratic party would have no time to get together and plan to overthrow the caucus nomination of Clark. It is to be kept in mind that the caucus was purely unofficial, made up in large part of men who were not at the time members of congress, though they will be after March 4. This fact affords the malcontents a plausible excuse to demand a hearing.

The Hon. Champ has not strengthened his position with his own party since his party honored him with the unanimous choice for the speakership. He seems to have been tactful when he should have been frank; garrulous when he should have been silent. Representatives tell me that an outspoken expression of opinion from Mr. Clark is the hardest thing in Washington to get. Disavowing all responsibility for the selection of heads of committees—an honor to which all veteran congressmen aspire—he nevertheless is the most influential force, perhaps, the controlling force in the distribution of these coveted prizes. "But if you go to him," said one of the disgruntled ones, "to urge the appointment of a friend to a chairmanship, he declares with a certain stolid dignity that he has nothing to say about it. Yet if you go to one of the members of the ways and means committee which is supposed to be choosing these committees, you get behind a closed door and hear in a whisper this: "See Champ Clark!"

Clark's Annexation Blunder.

Of course the first trouble sprang from his pronouncement for the annexation of Canada. Well, the United States and Canada are getting along pretty well as matters now stand. An almost united Democracy in the house stood for the treaty negotiated by a Republican administration. All went merry as a wedding bell until in a moment of humor or possible perverted oratory the Hon. Champ Clark interjected his proposition that the treaty was one step toward annexation. Now, anybody else could have done that without awakening hostility to the treaty. Champ Clark himself could have done it a year ago without arousing more than a casual laugh, and renewing the old joke about twisting the British lion's tail. But today Mr. Clark is the probable speaker of the house, a position rightfully described as second in power only to that of president of the United States. And furthermore he is an avowed aspirant for the one position in our government which is superior to that of speaker of the house. Is it any wonder that Canadian and British, or for that matter, all European papers express wonder that so great an American statesman should voice the views of the jingoes?

It is not for me to collate these expressions of foreign journalistic opinion. They are being printed daily in this and other newspapers. But I can say something concerning the consensus of opinion among representatives and senators here in Washington. That opinion is that Mr. Clark has put himself out of the running for the presidency by just one ill-advised utterance. When he said, I think humorously, that the treaty was the first step toward annexation, people wondered what he might say in the presidency if he were elected to that high office.

Seeks American Registry for Ships.

Congressional procedure and particularly what Gov. Woodrow Wilson calls government by committee, occasionally brings up curious complications. There is pending before the committee on merchant marine and fisheries a bill providing for the admission to American registry of seven steamships, owned by the United Fruit company and all built abroad. They ply between United States and Central and South American ports, and are owned, just as the corporation they serve is owned, by citizens of this nation. Probably for reasons of protection in the constantly arising complications with the turbulent peoples of the Caribbean and Spanish main, the owners wish them transferred to American registry. As the situation now stands Great Britain dodges responsibility for any interference with the business of the company or the operation of the ships on the plea that the company is American; the United States avoids any responsibility by pleading that the ships are British. And there you are. Given the right to fly the American flag, having been bought with American capital, managed by Americans who are willing to conduct them under the somewhat burdensome navigation laws, they would be entitled to American—or rather United States—protection.

Thus far this desire has been blocked, not voted down in the house, not even defeated by a vote in the committee to which the measure was referred. That committee is overwhelmingly in favor of the bill, but a minority has prevented its consideration. Some weeks ago four members, all Republicans and spokesmen of the shipbuilding interests, seeing there were enough members present to pass the bill, slipped swiftly out of the door to the committee room and broke a quorum, thereby preventing any possible action.

The above sales were made by me personally, and when the fact is considered that I am doing a large amount of work in portrait and picture framing, and that I spend several days each year on the farm, this is the largest individual sales statement on record. This and my previous annual statements are evidence of my efforts to satisfy my customers, who are all ready and willing to assist me in increasing my sales. I will give any individual a new piano, free of charge, who can say they heard me make any remark detrimental to my competitors or their respective lines. My motto is that I would rather go down in defeat than try to advance my interests by injuring my competitors. I also contend that the United States is a vast territory and we should not get fussy if we occasionally lose a sale we expected to make.

I am located at 107 Mill street where I carry a line of samples of portraits and a stock of frames, mouldings, and scenic pictures. I am thankful for past favors and will make prices on anything in my line worth considering.
