SCHULTZ IS HELD FOR BURGLARY

Proprietor of Store Identifies the Man as the Burglar

WAS CAPTURED AT WAYNE

Chas. Schaefer Naps Schultz Under Suspicion. Is Known in This Village as Party Who Stole Cow Hide

John Schultz was arrested at Wayne by Deputy-Sheriff Thomas Curran, of Campbellsport, early Sunday morning, and is now held at Fond du Lac county jail charged with the robbing of Knickel & Straub's store at Campbellsport on the night of February 3. Schultz has been identified as the man who entered the store the day before the robbery under the guise of looking for clothing.

The capture was made by Chas. Schaefer, proprietor of a saloon at Wayne. Schultz entered Mr. Schaefer's saloon about 10:30 P. M. Saturday and asked for a drink, but the proprietor refused to give him any, he then left the place and went to another saloon later coming back. During the time he was absent, a telephone message was received that a party stole a rig and horse of Mich. Meyer, living 2 miles south of Allenton. Mr. Schaefer at once suspected the man. He soon after found the horse and rig near Henry Schmidt's blacksmith shop. When Schultz returned, Mr. Schaefer at once took charge of the thief. The deputy-sheriff of Campbellsport was at once notified, who later arrived and took the prisoner to Campbellsport, and later to Fond du Lac. Joe. Straub one of the proprietors of Knickel & Straub's store, accompanied the deputy-sheriff to Wayne, and at once identified the prisoner as wearing one of the stolen suits.

On the night of February 3, the general store of Knickel & Straub in the village of Campbellsport was entered through a back window and fifteen suits part blue serge and part gray were stolen. The maker's name on the suits were "Hart, Schaffner & Marx" and "Kirschbaum & Co." Six leather suit cases were also taken.

The only thing so far connecting Schultz with the crime is the fact that on the afternoon of the day preceding the robbery he entered the store and looked over a number of suits. He made no purchase alleging that he could not find the right shade.

On Sunday morning Mr. Meyer was notified that the horse and rig were recovered and sent to Wayne to claim the outfit.

Schultz is the same party that early this winter stole a cow-hide of L. Rosenheimer and sold same to Phil. McLaughlin, the butcher. He was sentenced to the West Bend county jail for 30 days. He at this time gave his name as Joe. Reed. He also at one time last summer was employed as a farm hand on the Frank Van Epps farm near this village.

There has been a reward of $25 out for information regarding the Campbellsport robber or robbers. Mr. Schaefer no doubt will receive the reward.

Wm. Knickel on Monday swore out a warrant for the arrest of J. H. Scholzer, alias Murray, alias Reed, alias Schultz, charging him with the robbery of the Knickel & Straub store. Too severe a punishment cannot be given, as he is no doubt a professional robber and crook.

REFUSED TO PAY HER TAXES

Miss Zaun of Jackson Refused to Pay Her Taxes

A WARRANT IS ISSUED

Town Treasurer Has Warrant Issued for Her Arrest

(West Bend News)

John Kannenberg, treasurer of the town of Jackson, last week made a complaint against Emily Zaun of the village of Jackson, for refusing to pay her personal property tax and a warrant was issued for her arrest.

Constable E. B. Woldt, assisted by Arthur F. Krueger, tried to serve the warrant on Monday, but failed to do so, but after another attempt on Tuesday morning they placed the woman under arrest and brought her to Justice Rolfs' court in this city. After a hearing, in which the defendant admitted that the town assessor, Henry Kaschner, had served notice on her of the amount of her personal property assessment, $15,000, and that she did not appear before the board of review of her town; also that she had at all times from four to five thousand dollars in her home, judgement was rendered in favor of the town of Jackson in the sum of $116.83 and costs, and unless this judgement is paid today, her personal property will be attached by the sheriff and if that is not sufficient the real estate will also be taken and sold to satisfy the claim. Kuechenmeister & Barney appeared for the town of Jackson. Miss Zaun had no lawyer.

After the proceedings were over in court Miss Zaun refused to drive home with the constable and his assistants, but walked home instead.

The action of Treasurer Kannenberg is to be commended and it is the first time in the history of Washington county that a treasurer has seen fit to take such action in the enforcement of the law and the performance of his duty. Miss Zaun is reputed to be quite wealthy and refused to make oath as to the amount of money she possessed. The assessor assessed her $15,000 and notified her of his action but she failed to appear before the board of review of her town and the assessment stood.

For a number of years past she was assessed $7,000 and always paid the taxes on this amount.

TAX LAW IS UPHELD

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT HOLDS CORPORATION TAX IS CONSTITUTIONAL.

LONG CONTEST AT AN END

Justice Day Reads Decision—Law Provides That All Incorporated Bodies Shall Pay Tax on Net Income Above $5,000.

Washington.—Without a dissenting opinion the Supreme court of the United States Monday handed down its decision holding the corporation tax law constitutional. Thus ended a controversy waged almost continuously since President Taft suggested its enactment to congress.

Justice Day read the decision in the corporation tax case suits testing the law having been brought from every section of the country. By its affirmation the revenues of the national treasury are increased annually more than $25,000,000 from the tax on the net incomes of corporations doing business for profit, in addition to which the principle of the right to levy such a tax is vindicated and, the most of all, that for which the government has been striving, access to the books of the big corporations and full publicity with regard to their affairs is absolutely assured.

The main points of the opinion, as read by Justice Day, are:

It was within the power of the senate to insert the corporation provisions in a tariff law which originated in the house.

The tax is an "excise tax on the doing of business," which is exactly the basis on which the government defended the law.

The provisions of the law are not the arbitrary exercise of a power. This was urged in argument as one reason why the law should be held unconstitutional.

The tax is regarded as measured by income rather than being a tax on income.

Of all the objections to the tax raised by suits in all parts of the country none of them was found sufficient to nullify the law.

Near the outset of the opinion is the statement that the tax "is imposed not upon the franchises of the corporation, irrespective of their use in business, nor upon the property of the corporation, but upon the doing of corporate or insurance business, and with respect to the carrying on thereof in a sum equivalent to one per centum of the entire net income over and above $5,000 received from all sources during the year—that is, when imposed in this manner, it is a tax upon the doing of business with the advantages which inhere in the peculiarities of corporate or joint stock organizations of the character described. As the latter organizations share many benefits of corporate interests it may be described generally as a tax upon doing business in corporate capacity."

The tax is one per cent. of the entire net income over and above $5,000 received from all sources.

"The Income," said Justice Day, "is not limited to such as is received from property used in the business strictly speaking, but is expressly declared to be upon the entire net income above $5,000 from all sources excluding the amounts received as dividends on stocks in other corporations, joint stock companies or associations, or insurance companies also subject to the tax. In other words, the tax is imposed upon the doing of business of the character described and the measure of the tax is to be the income with the deduction stated, received not only from property used in business, but from every source."

Justice Day drew the distinction between the corporation tax and the former income tax law, which was declared unconstitutional, in answering objections that had been raised against the corporation tax. He said the income tax was held to be direct because imposed on property simply because of its ownership.

"In the present case," said Justice Day, "the tax is not payable unless there is a carrying on or doing of business in the designated capacity and this is made the occasion for the tax, measured by the standard prescribed. The difference between mere ownership of property and the actual doing of business in a certain way."

Justice Day first considered whether, as claimed, the law made an unconstitutional distinction between the corporations and partnerships or individuals. He said there was a substantial difference between the carrying on of business between corporations taxed and the same business when conducted by a private firm or individual.

Measurement of the tax by the net income of the corporation or the company received by it from all sources was defended by Justice Day in his opinion as not being so unequal and so arbitrary and baseless as to fall outside of the taxing power.

FIGHT TWO BATTLES

REBELS MEET REVERSES IN NORTHERN MEXICO.

Machine Gun Fire Repulses Insurrectionists, Who Attack Diaz' Force of 300 at Agua Prieta.

Mexico City.—Conditions bordering on panic reign throughout northern Mexico. According to reports received here Sunday the federal troops were victorious in two battles fought against the revolutionists in which 100 men were killed and wounded.

At Agua Prieta, across the border from Douglas, Ariz., 500 rebels Sunday attacked 300 federal troops, but were unable to withstand the fire of the machine guns and retreated. The rebels were armed with rifles only. The total casualties are placed at thirty-five.

The rebels have answered President Diaz' order suspending the civil guarantees with an order to give no quarter. This is taken here to mean that the fighting hereafter will be marked by all the barbarity of medieval times.

Thoroughly aroused by the spread of brigandage and vandalism incident to the revolution, and determined to protect property, the Diaz government will wage against the lawless element a pitiless war of extermination.

Resurrecting a provision of the Mexican constitution not used for 15 years, and acting under its authorization, the government will set aside for six months certain personal guarantees.

All persons detected in the act of highway robbery, of raiding a village or farm, or train wrecking, or cutting telegraph or telephone wires or even of removing a spike from a railroad track or throwing a stone at a train will be summarily shot.

The bill providing for this drastic measure was sent to the permanent commission of the federal congress. It was signed by Miguel Macedo, secretary of the department of the interior, and says its enactment is the wish of the president.

FREED OF BRIBERY CHARGE

Illinois Legislators Declared "Not Guilty" of Conspiracy in Connection With Furniture Contracts.

Springfield, Ill., March 13.—After three and one-half hours' deliberation, during which time about twenty-one ballots were taken, the jury in the trial of State Senator Stanton C. Pemberton of Oakland and of former representative Joseph S. Clark of Vandavia, who are charged with entering into a conspiracy to secure money corruptly for their votes in awarding the contract for the furnishing of the senate and house chambers of the statehouse, returned a verdict of "not guilty."

At the first trial, two months ago, the jury failed to agree.

Pemberton and Clark were members of a special committee named by the legislature to purchase furniture for the house of representatives. It was charged that they attempted to secure a bribe from representatives of furniture companies, which bid on the contract.

END DANVILLE PROBE

GRAND JURY ADJOURNS AFTER RETURNING 14 INDICTMENTS AGAINST ELECTION WORKERS.

REPORT SCORES CORRUPTION

Resolutions Adopted Urge the Enactment of Rigid Laws to Stop Practices—County Judge and Election Commissioner Are Scored.

Danville, Ill.—The Vermilion county vote inquiry, started eight weeks ago, was ended Tuesday, almost a complete failure. The grand jury was dismissed until April 17, after returning but 14 indictments for political offenses. No politicians or prominent men were indicted, the accused being precinct captains and workers about the polls.

In extenuation of the failure to accomplish anything of importance the grand jury made public a set of resolutions which, in view of their final report, was considered remarkable. They claim that evidence was concealed.

The indictments returned charge conspiracy to buy votes and perjury.

The resolutions adopted follow: "The grand jury now completing its work has discovered that a most astounding state of political corruption prevails in Vermilion county and in Danville township especially; that the election laws have been flagrantly violated and that vast sums of money have been frequently used in corrupting the electorate.

"That owing to the suppression of evidence and a well-planned conspiracy to conceal crime by the wholesale commission of perjury the corrupt politicians have rendered it extremely difficult for the grand jury to obtain proof of the violation of the election laws.

"That political corruption has frequently found encouragement in the acts of political public officials, a notable instance of recent occurrence being found in the appointment of W. C. Brown as election commissioner of Danville by County Judge Lawrence N. Allen.

"That frequent attempts have been made by men prominent in political and business circles in Danville to induce the grand jury to abandon the investigation of election bribery, the apparent purpose being to shield men high in the public service from exposure through indictment of their criminal supporters."

The grand jury further demanded that drastic legislation be enacted remedying the present laws providing for the punishment of vote buyers as well as vote sellers, as the present laws are declared to be unconstitutional in so far as the punishment of vote buyers is concerned.

News Notes of Wisconsin

Madison.—Somewhat of a flurry has been caused among the northern members of the legislature by the discovery that under the terms of a bill introduced by Assemblyman Urquhart, creating a new county in the northwestern part of the state, the jurisdiction of Sawyer county over the Dietz family and their trials on various charges might be seriously affected. The proposed new county takes in the Dietz farm, and under the Wisconsin law, if the bill should pass and be published before May 2, the trial of John Dietz might have to go to the new county. The statute provides that cases arising in territory annexed to new counties, which are created "before the case proceeds to trial" must be handled by the new county. Lawyers here do not believe the Dietz case will "proceed to trial" and will not until the trial has been actually begun.

Oconto.—A mare belonging to Edward Classon received a kick on one of the hind legs a few days ago and the case developed into tetanus. Dr. W. J. Classon of this city injected 20,000 units of anti-toxin and since then the animal has been improving, having recovered from the lockjaw, but still suffering from the kick received upon the leg. This case demonstrates the efficiency of the use of anti-toxin in the case of tetanus in animals.

Coudery.—Mild weather has destroyed the ice logging roads and caused the breaking up of logging camps in this district three weeks earlier than usual. Every outgoing train is filled with homeward bound lumberjacks. The past winter has been ideal for logging operations and the output has been the largest for several years. About 5,000 men were employed in camps in this county during the season.

Green Bay.—At the annual meeting of the Kewanee, Green Bay and Western, the Ahnapee and Western and the Iola and Northern roads held in this city, the following officers were elected: President, S. S. Palmer; vice-president, J. A. Jordan; secretary-treasurer, C. W. Cox; general manager, F. B. Seymour; auditor and cashier, J. C. Thurman; freight and passenger agent, J. B. Call.

Madison.—Governor McGovern has appointed the following to the third national peace conference to be held in Baltimore, May 3 to 5, inclusive: Patrick Cudahy, Milwaukee; ex-Lieut. Gov. Emil Baensch, Manitowish; E. B. Northrup, Racine; P. Benson, Superior; President C. R. Van Hise, Madison, and Dr. Edward Evans, La Crosse.

Stevens Point.—The body of the youth killed by a circus train near Mosinee last summer has been identified as that of Sammy Justus by his father, who came here from Omaha, Neb., to recover the remains. The undertaker who buried the body has been fined for not securing a burial permit.

Fond du Lac.—Frank Schaub, a former ball player, now serving a two-year sentence for perjury alleged to have been given in a suit for divorce from his first wife, has taken an appeal to the state supreme court.

SYNOPSIS.

James Wilson or Jimmy as he is called by his friends. Jimmy was rotund and looked shorter than he really was. His ambition in life was to be taken seriously, but people steadily refused to do so, his art is considered a huge joke, except to himself. He is asked people to dinner everywhere expected a frolic. Jimmy marries Bella Knowles, they live together a year and are divorced. Jimmy's friends arrange to celebrate the first anniversary of his divorce. Those who attend the party are Miss Katherine McNair, who every one calls Kit, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Brown, the Misses Mercer, Maxwell Reed and a Mr. Thomas Harbison, a South American civil engineer. The party is in full swing when Jimmy receives a telegram from his Aunt Selma, who will arrive in four hours to visit him and his wife. Jimmy gets his fun from Aunt Selma and after he marries she doubles his allowance. He neglects to tell her of his divorce, as she is opposed to it. Jimmy takes Kit into his confidence, he tries to devise some way so that his aunt will not learn that he has no longer a wife. He suggests that Kit play the hostess for one night, be Mrs. Wilson pro tem. Kit refuses, but is finally prevailed upon to act the part. Aunt Selma arrives and the deception works out as planned, as she had never seen Jimmy's wife. Jimmy's Jap servant is taken ill, his face is covered with spots. Bella, Jimmy's divorced wife, enters the house and asks Kit who is being taken away in the ambulance. Bella insists it is Jim. Kit tells her Jim is well and is in the house. Bella tells Kit it wasn't Jim she wanted to see, but Takahira, the Jap servant, as she wished to secure his services.

"It's immoral," I protested. "It's immoral to steal your—"
"My own butler!" she broke in impatiently. "You're not usually so scrupulous, Kit. Hurry! I hear that hateful Anne Brown."
So we slid back along the hall, and I rang for Takahiro. But no one came.
"I think I ought to tell you, Bella," I said as we waited, and Bella was staring around the room—"I think you ought to know that Miss Caruthers is here." Bella shrugged her shoulders.
"Well, thank goodness," she said. "I don't have to see her. The only pleasant thing I remember about my year of married life is that I did not meet Aunt Selma."

I rang again, but still there was no answer. And then it occurred to me that the stillness below stairs was almost oppressive. Bella was noticing things, too, for she began to fasten her veil again with a malicious little smile.
"One of the things I remember my late husband saying," she observed, "was that he could manage this house, and had done it for years, with flawless service. Stand on the bell, Kit."

I did. We stood there, with the table, just as it had been left, between us and waited for a response. Bella was growling impatient. She raised her eyebrows (she is very handsome, Bella is) and flung out her chin as if she had begun to enjoy the horrible situation.
I thought I heard a rattle of silver from the pantry just then, and I hurried to the door in a rage. But the pantry was empty of servants and full of dishes, and all the lights were out but one, which was burning dimly. I could have sworn that I saw one of the servants duck into the stairway to the basement, but when I got there the stairs were empty, and something was burning in the kitchen below.

Bella had followed me and was peering over my shoulder curiously.
"There isn't a servant in the house," she said triumphantly. And when we went down to the kitchen, she seemed to be right. It was in disgraceful order, and one of the bottles of wine that had been banished from the dining room sat half empty on the floor.
"Drunk!" Bella said with conviction. But I didn't think so. There had not been time enough, for one thing. Suddenly I remembered the ambulance that had been the cause of Bella's appearance—for no one could believe her silly story about Takahiro. I simply left her there, staring helplessly at the confusion, and ran upstairs again; through the dining room, past Jimmy and Aunt Selma, past Lella Mercer and Max, who were flirting on the stairs, up, up to the servants' bedrooms, and there my suspicions were verified. There was every evidence of a hasty flight; in three bedrooms five trunks stood locked and ominous, and the closets yawned with open door, empty. Bella had been right; there was not a servant in the house.
As I emerged from the untidy emptiness of the servants' wing, I met Mr. Harbison coming out of the studio.
"I wish you would let me do some of this running about for you, Mrs. Wilson," he said gravely. "You are not well, and I can't think of anything worse for a headache. Has the butler's illness clogged the household machinery?"
"Worse," I replied, trying not to breathe in gasps. "I wouldn't be running around—like this—but there is not a servant in the house! They have gone, the entire lot."

"That's odd," he said slowly. "Gone! Are you sure?"
In reply I pointed to the servants' wing. "Trunks packed," I said tragically, "rooms empty, kitchen and pantries full of dishes. Did you ever hear of anything like it?"
"Never," he asserted. "It makes me suspect—What he suspected he did not say; instead he turned on his heel, without a word of explanation, and ran down the stairs. I stood staring after him, wondering if every one in the place had gone crazy. Then I heard Betty Mercer scream and the rest talking loud and laughing, and Mr. Harbison came up the stairs again two at a time.

"How long has that Jap been ailing, Mrs. Wilson?" he asked.
"—I don't know," I replied helplessly. "What is the trouble, anyhow?"
"I think he probably has something contagious," he said, "and it has scared the servants away. As Mr. Brown said, he looked spotty. I suggested to your husband that it might be as well to get the house emptied—in case we are correct."
"Oh, yes, by all means," I said eagerly. I couldn't get away too soon. "I'll go and get my—" Then I stopped. Why, the man wouldn't expect me to leave; he would have to play out the wretched farce to the end!
"I'll go down and see them off," I flushed lamely, and we went together down the stairs.

Just for the moment I forgot Bella altogether. I found Aunt Selma bonneted and cloaked, taking a stirrup cup of Pomona for her nerves, and the rest throwing on their wraps in a hurry. Downstairs Max was telephoning for his car, which wasn't due for an hour, and Jim was walking up and down, swearing under his breath. With the prospect of getting rid of them all, and of going home comfortably to try to forget the whole wretched affair, I cheered up quite a lot. I even played up my part of hostess, and Dallas told me, aside, that I was a brick.

Just then Jim threw open the front door.
There was a man on the top step, with his mouth full of tacks, and he was nailing something to the door, just below Jim's Florentine bronze knocker, and standing back with his head on one side to see if it was straight.

He Was Nailing Something to the Door.

"What are you doing?" Jim demanded fiercely, but the man only drove another tack. It was Mr. Harbison who stepped outside and read the card.
It said "Smallpox."

"Smallpox," Mr. Harbison read, as if he couldn't believe it. Then he turned to us, huddled in the hall.
"It seems it wasn't measles, after all," he said cheerfully. "I move we get into Mr. Reed's automobile out there, and have a vaccination party. I suppose even you blasé society folk have not exhausted that kind of diversion."

But the man on the step spat his tacks in his hand and spoke for the first time.
"No, you don't," he said. "Not on your life. Just step back, please, and close the door. This house is quarantined."

CHAPTER V.

From the Tree of Love.
There is hardly any use trying to describe what followed. Anne Brown began to cry, and talk about the children. (She went to Europe once and stayed until they all got over the whooping cough.) And Dallas said he had a pull, because his mill controlled I forgot how many votes, and the thing to do was to be quiet and comfortable and we would get out in the morning. Max took it as a huge joke, and somebody found him at the telephone, calling up his club. The Mercer girls were hysterically giggling, and Aunt Selma sat on a stiff-backed chair and took aromatic spirits of ammonia. As for Jim, he had collapsed on the lowest step of the stairs, and sat there with his head in his hands. When he did look up, he didn't dare to look at me.
The Harbison man was arguing with the impassive individual on the top step outside, and I saw him get out his pocketbook and offer a crisp bundle of bills. But the man from the board of health only smiled and tacked at his offensive sign. After a while Mr. Harbison came in and closed the door, and we stared at one another.
"I know what I'm going to do," I said, swallowing a lump in my throat. "I'm going to get out through a basement window at the back. I'm going home."
"Home!" Aunt Selma gasped, jumping up and a ammonia bottle. "My Home?"

Jimmy groaned at the foot of the stairs, but Anne Brown was getting over her fears and now she turned on me in a temper.
"It's all your fault," she said. "I was going to stay at home and get a little sleep—"
"Well, you can sleep now," Dallas broke in. "There'll be nothing to do but sleep."

"I think you haven't grasped the situation, Dal," I said icily. "There will be plenty to do. There isn't a servant in the house!"
"No servants!" everybody cried at once. The Mercer girls stopped giggling.
"Holy cats!" Max stopped in the act of hanging up his overcoat. "Do you mean—why, I can't shave myself! I'll cut my head off!"
"You'll do more than that," I retorted grimly. "You will carry coal and tend fires and empty ash pans, and when you are not doing any of those things there will be pots and pans to wash and beds to make."

Then there was a row. We had worked back to the den now, and I stood in front of the fireplace and let the storm beat around me, and tried to look perfectly cold and indifferent, and not to see Mr. Harbison's shocked face. No wonder he thought them a lot of savages, browbeating their hostesses the way they did.
"It's a fool thing anyhow," Max Reed wound up, "to celebrate the anniversary of a divorce—especially—"
Here he caught Jim's eye and stopped. But I had suddenly remembered. Bella down in the basement! Could anything have been worse? And of course she would have hysteria and then turn on me and blame me for it all. It all came over me at once and overwhelmed me, while Anne was crying and saying she wouldn't cook if she starved for it, and Aunt Selma was taking off her wraps. I felt queer all over, and I sat down suddenly. Mr. Harbison was looking at me, and he brought me a glass of wine.

"It won't be so bad as you fear," he said comfortingly. "There will be no danger once we are vaccinated, and many hands make light work. They are pretty raw now, because the thing is new to them, but by morning they will be reconciled."
"It isn't the work; it is something entirely different," I said. And it was Bella and work could hardly be spoken in the same breath.
If I had only turned her out as she deserved to be, when she first came, instead of allowing her to carry through the wretched farce about seeing Takahiro! Or if I had only run to the basement the moment the house was quarantined, and got her out the arway or coal hole! And now time was flying, and Aunt Selma had me by the arm, and any moment I expected Bella to pounce on us through the doorway and the whole situation to explode with a bang.
It was after eleven before they were rational enough to discuss ways and means, and, of course, the first thing suggested was that we all adjourn to low stairs and clean up after dinner. I could have slain Max Reed for the notion, and the Mercer girls for taking him up.

"Of course we will," they said in a duet. "What a lark!" And they actually began to pin up their dinner gowns.
It was Jim who stopped that.
"Oh, look here, you people," he objected. "I'm not going to let you do that. We'll get some servants in to-morrow. I'll go down and put out the lights. There will be enough clean dishes for breakfast."
It was lucky for me that this started a new discussion then and there about who would get the breakfast. In the midst of the excitement I slipped away to carry the news to Bella. She was where I had left her, and she had made herself a cup of tea, and was very much at home, which was natural.

"Do you know," she said ominously, "that you have been away for two hours? And that I have gone through agonies of nervousness for fear Jim Wilson would come down and think I came here to see him."

AH, WHO KNOWS?

"Do you know," she said, "I didn't want to come to this place at all. I had an idea that it would be awfully stupid."
"And haven't you found it stupid," he asked.
"You know I haven't."
"How should I know?"
"No place could be stupid if you were there."
"It is very nice of you to say so."
"I shall be so sorry when you leave. It has been the most glorious week of my life."
"I am glad to know that; but I hope there may be many more glorious weeks in store for you."
After he had gone to the tennis court and left her alone on the wide veranda, she sighed and said to herself:
"How sad it is that a woman is denied the right to tell a man she cares for him! Who knows what would have happened if I might have told him all?"

Another Kind.
"Ha!" said the Russian count, with a fierce scowl on his Muscovite features. "This worm of an American writer has insulted me with his pen!"
"Has he written a biting satire about you?" inquired the fair charms, to whom he spoke.
"Nothing so gentlemanly!" yelled the count. "He has named his play after me!"

EDITOR BROWNE
Of The Rockford Morning Star.

"About seven years ago I ceased drinking coffee to give your Postum a trial.

"I had suffered acutely from various forms of indigestion and my stomach had become so disordered as to rebel almost every sort of substantial food. My general health was bad. At close intervals I would suffer severe attacks which confined me in bed for a week or more. Soon after changing from coffee to Postum the indigestion abated, and in a short time ceased entirely. I have continued the daily use of your excellent Food Drink and assure you most cordially that I am indebted to you for the relief it has brought me.

"Wishing you a continued success, I am
Yours very truly,
J. Stanley Browne,
Managing Editor."

Of course, when a man's health shows he can stand coffee without trouble, let him drink it, but most highly organized brain-workers simply cannot.

The drugs natural to the coffee berry affect the stomach and other organs and thence to the complex nervous system, throwing it out of balance and producing disorders in various parts of the body. Keep up this daily poisoning and serious disease generally supervenes. So when man or woman finds that coffee is a smooth but deadly enemy and health is of any value at all, there is but one road—quit.
It is easy to find out if coffee be the cause of the troubles, for if left off 10 days and Postum be used in its place and the sick and diseased conditions begin to disappear, the proof is unanswerable.

Postum is not good if made by short boiling. It must be boiled full 15 minutes after boiling begins, when the crisp flavor and the food elements are brought out of the grains and the beverage is ready to fulfill its mission of palatable comfort and renewing the cells and nerve centers broken down by coffee.

"There's a Reason."

BILLS INTRODUCED COVER WIDE RANGE

NEARLY EVERYTHING TOUCHED UPON BY 1,500 MEASURES BEFORE LEGISLATURE.

APPROPRIATION BILLS LEAD

With More Coming in Daily, Prospects for a Short Session Grow Dim—Solons May Not Finish Up Work Before June.

Madison.—Nearly 1,500 bills have been introduced in the legislature, and more are coming nearly every day. There were about 1,600 bills introduced in the last session, and it is probable that this number will be exceeded long before the present session is over. In the assembly over 1,000 bills have been introduced, which is more than was introduced in this house during the entire session of 1909. The senate has not had so many bills as two years ago, but the number will come near that of the session of 1909 before the close of the session.

The high number on the list is bills dealing with appropriations. There have been 147 bills bearing appropriations introduced in both houses up to the present time. Next to appropriations, schools and matters connected with them are the favorite, running up to well over 100. Fish and game have nearly ninety bills to their credit, while bills relating to courts and procedure number nearly the same.

One of the noticeable features is the great number of labor bills which have been introduced, no less than sixty such bills being on the records of the two houses. The subject of taxation is represented by over seventy bills. Insurance is also a fruitful field, and fifty bills have been introduced up to the present relating to the regulation of insurance companies or agents. But thirty bills have been introduced dealing with banking, but among them are two bills of great importance, the bill providing for the guarantee of bank deposits and the segregation of the savings deposits.

Cities and municipalities are as usual well to the fore with bills relating to them. Over 100 bills of this kind have been introduced. The range of subjects in the bills already introduced includes everything from advice to congress which comes in the shape of nearly thirty bills, to constitutional amendment which have thirty designs for changes in that ancient institution to ferret bills, game and taxes. Legislative "log rolling" and guessing contests in the newspapers are among the subjects treated.

With this mass of legislation it is impossible to tell when the legislature will adjourn. Optimistic legislators assert that the adjournment will come early in May, others claim it will be well along in June before the legislators shake the dust of Madison from their feet.

PRISON CHARGES CANARDS

Complaints Against Deputy Warden Baumel Are Found Groundless by Special Probe Committee.

Madison.—The special committee of the legislature which investigated the charges of incompetency and misconduct filed with the governor against Deputy Warden John Baumel of the state prison at Waupun found them unsubstantiated, and so reported to the governor.

The committee found that complaints apparently originated with employees of the prison who had been disciplined for violating the rules relating to the striking of prisoners, and similar conduct. The complainants, it seemed, did not approve of Warden Towne's favorable attitude on the question of paroles and other prison reforms.

Defeat for Text Book Bills.

Madison.—Two bills relating to the change of text books in schools held up the assembly for three-quarters of an hour and were then indefinitely postponed. The bills provided that text books could not be changed within a period of five years, and gave considerable jurisdiction to county boards over boards of education in changing text books.

To Draft Park System.

Grand Rapids.—Through the efforts of the City Federation of Women's Clubs, Warren H. Manning, a landscape gardener of Boston, Mass., will draft a city plan of improvements, which include a park system along both sides of the Wisconsin river.

Rabies Fatal After 15 Months.

Milwaukee.—John Gottswald, a machinist, is dead of hydrophobia, the germs of which lay dormant in his system since December 8, 1909, when he and his son were bitten by a neighbor's dog.

Would Abolish Park Board.

Madison.—Assemblyman C. J. Johnson is drafting a bill to abolish the state park board and to delegate the work to the state forestry department.

TO PAY ALL EXPLOSION LOSS

Powder Company Will Rebuild Town of Pleasant Prairie and Settle for Damages—Three More Dead.

Pleasant Prairie.—The Dupont Powder company officials and directors, after a meeting in the ruins of their plant, promised to rebuild the village and to pay every cent of actual loss sustained by any person as a result of the explosion. The promise was made by J. P. Laffey of Wilmington, Del., general counsel counsel for the company.

Three more deaths, caused indirectly by the explosion, are recorded. They are:

William P. Robinson, assistant cashier of the First National bank of Kenosha, who died of heart disease following the shock.

Margaret Kingman died at Bristol as a result of the shock.

Mrs. Caroline Hartl died at a Kenosha hospital from the shock. The company plans to rebuild at least a portion of the mill at once. The managers admit, however, that the plant here is too large and said that a large amount of the business previously done here will be transferred to the new plant at Hibbing, Minn.

The plan to rebuild the plant will be resisted by the residents of Kenosha county and bills will be introduced in the legislature that either will make powder making impossible here or impose such inspection and restrictions as to make a repetition of the explosion impossible. State Senator Isaac Bishop announced that two bills are ready for introduction to put stringent regulations around the handling of explosives in Wisconsin.

The losses caused by the explosion will be held by the company as "moral obligations" and will be paid without a legal fight.

CITY PLUNGED IN DARKNESS

Fire Destroys Racine Electric Light and Power Plant With $140,000 Loss—Makes Factories Idle.

Racine.—Fire which completely destroyed the power house of the Milwaukee Light, Heat and Traction company here, entailing a loss of over $140,000, plunged the entire city into total darkness, brought street car and interurban traffic to a complete standstill and will result in the closing down of a number of factories in the city which depend on electricity for motive power.

The blaze started in the roof of the power house directly over a new switchboard, and in two minutes had gained such headway that firemen were forced to confine their efforts to saving adjoining buildings. For a time it seemed as if the big factory of the Miller Shoe company, the Racine theater and the car barns would also go.

The power house is situated in the heart of town, within a block of the city hall. After a stubborn battle the department managed to prevent the flames from spreading, but were unable to save any of the equipment at the power house.

It may be weeks before the system will be in running condition, and unless temporary lighting systems can be installed, business houses, theaters and residences with electric connections will be forced to fall back upon lamps and candles.

MOTORMAN IS BOUND OVER

George Thieme Must Answer to Manslaughter Charge for Connection With Sheboygan Car Horror.

Sheboygan.—Charged with manslaughter in the fourth degree, Geo. Thieme, motorman of the street car which plunged through an open bridge into the river here on February 9, bringing death to three women, was bound over for trial at the next term of the circuit court under bonds of $1,000, which were furnished by the company. He was held as an agent of the street railway company.

CENSURE FOR STEPHENSON

Assembly Passes Resolution Criticizing Junior Senator for Vote on Legality of Lorimer Election.

Madison.—The assembly, by a vote of 52 to 23, adopted the Ballard resolution commending Senator La Follette and condemning Senator Stephenson for their votes for and against declaring vacant the seat of United States Senator William Lorimer.

The resolution now goes over to the senate, where there is little doubt of its adoption.

Assemblyman Stern, republican, made an opening speech against the resolution, taking the ground that if the legislature took any action at all it should be in the form of a resolution mentioning no names, but merely telling the United States senators that the Wisconsin legislature regretted its seating of the Illinoisan. His substitute resolution was voted down as was a similar resolution offered by Assemblyman Biehler, democrat.

The following voted in favor of the adoption of the resolution: Ballard, Berg, Berner, Biehler, Bingham, Binner, Clark, Draper, Ellingson, French, Frye, Gilbertson, Gilbreay, Goff, Gulleson, Hahn, Haight, Hull, Axel Johnson, Chris Johnson, L. L. Johnson, J. R. Jones, Kahn, Kamper, Katzbach, Kay, Kealy, Kletzenroff, Kneen, Knight, LaBudd, Lentz, Long, Mahon, McConnell, Metcalf, Millar, Monson, Nye, O'Connor, Onstad, Potts, Raymond, Roycraft, Rupp, Schulz, Spoor, Stevens, Stevenson, Vindt, Welis and Ingram. Total, 52.

MILITIA OFFICERS TO TEXAS

Wisconsin National Guard Regimental Heads Are Invited to Join U. S. Troops on Mexican Border.

Madison.—Acting on a long dispatch from the war department today, Adj. Gen. C. R. Boardman of the Wisconsin national guard has asked high officers of the guard if they will join the United States troops now being mobilized in Texas near the Mexican border.

The telegram from Washington asks Gen. Boardman to invite his officers to go to Texas at federal government expense, "for observation and instruction." Acting on the federal invitation, Gen. Boardman invited the following officers to take advantage of the offer: Col. G. H. Joachim, Madison, first regiment; Col. Frank W. Grutzmacher, Ripon, second regiment; Col. Orlando Holway, La Crosse, third regiment; Capt. R. W. Mueller, Milwaukee, Troop A; Capt. P. C. Westfahl, Milwaukee, first battery, and Gen. John B. Edwards, Mauston, surgeon general.

These names will be submitted to Washington in case the officers decide to go south, and the war department undoubtedly will approve orders for them to accompany the regulars.

BOARD OF CONTROL ELECTS

Graebner Chosen President of Reorganized Body—State School at Sparta May Be Investigated.

Madison.—The new state board of control held its first meeting today to organize for the work of coming five years under the law passed two years ago. All the new members were here. They elected these officers: President, W. H. Graebner, Milwaukee; vice-president, Almah J. Frisby, Milwaukee; corresponding secretary, Ralph E. Smith, Merrill.

The board did not act upon the election of secretary as the term does not expire until July 1. At that time the board's elections of the various superintendents of state penal and charitable institutions expire. The board probably will not take action on these elections until the end of the fiscal year, June 30.

It was rumored that there were complaints against the management of the state public school at Sparta and that there was a serious movement seeking to persuade the board to demand the immediate resignation of Supt. C. M. Bright. It is said that some of the members of the board are not satisfied with conditions at Sparta.

LIVED LONG WITHOUT EATING

Men and Animals Have Made Some Remarkable Fasts a Matter of Record.

The record for fasting, so far as humanity is concerned, is held by Granie, a French murderer, who determined to starve himself to death, and from the day of his arrest refused to eat. In spite of every effort on the part of his warders, who first tried tempting him to eat by placing the most dainty meals in his cell, and when that failed, attempted feeding him by force, he held out for 63 days, at the end of which time he died. Up to then the longest authenticated fast on record was that accomplished by Giovanni Succell, who fasted at the Royal Aquarium, London, for 45 days. But these records sink into insignificance when compared with the fast of the pig of Dover, enshrined in Dr. W. B. Carpenter's "Manual of Physiology." This pig weighed 160 pounds and was entombed for 160 days by the fall of a portion of the chalk cliffs. When dug out it weighed only 40 pounds, but to the surprise of its owner was alive.

WOULD LIE AWAKE ALL NIGHT WITH ITCHING ECZEMA

"Ever since I can remember I was a terrible sufferer of eczema and other irritating skin diseases. I would lie awake all night, and my suffering was intolerable. A scaly humor settled on my back, and being but a child, I naturally scratched it. It was a burning, itching sensation, and utterly intolerable, in fact, it was so that I could not possibly forget about it. It did not take long before it spread to my shoulders and arms, and I was almost covered with a mass of raw flesh on account of my scratching it. I was in such a condition that my hands were tied.

"A number of physicians were called, but it seemed beyond their medical power and knowledge to cure me. Having tried numerous treatments without deriving any benefit from them, I had given myself up to the mercy of my dreadful malady, but I thought I would take the Cuticura treatment as a last resort. Words cannot express my gratitude to the one who created 'The Cuticura Miracles,' as I have named them, for now I feel as if I never suffered from even a pimple. My disease was routed by Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and I shall never cease praising the wonderful merits they contain. I will never be without them, in fact, I can almost dare any skin diseases to attack me so long as I have Cuticura Remedies in the house. I hope that this letter will give other sufferers an idea of how I suffered, and also hope that they will not pass the 'Cuticura Life Saving Station.'" (Signed) C. Louis Green, 929 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 29, 1910.

Went Swimming at 92.

The Grand Old Man of Highgate Ponds, William McKenzie, long known as "grandfather" by his fellow members of the Highgate Lifebuoy Club, has passed away at his North London home. He was in his ninety-third year.

Up to six weeks ago Mr. McKenzie was bathing in Highgate Ponds, where he had bathed for many years. His unflagging regularity at the age of 92 probably constitutes a record in nation. Until three years ago he joined in the winter lifebuoy bathing sports. His practice was to walk over the two miles from Highbury and back for his swim.—London Chronicle.

Cause and Effect.

"I see from the papers," said Dawson, "that there is a great scarcity of chorus girls this year."
"It was afraid there would be," said Wiggles. "It's only another case of cause and effect. The French champagne crop has practically failed, and lobsters are scarcer than hens' teeth this season."—Harper's Weekly.

MILD, GENTLE LAXATIVE

FOR WOMEN GIVEN FREE

So many of the ills of women are due to habitual constipation, probably because of their false modesty on the subject, that their attention cannot be too strongly called to the importance of keeping the bowels open. It is always important to do that, regardless of the sex, but it is especially important in women.
From the time the girl begins to menstruate until menstruation ceases she has always vastly better prospects of coming through healthy if she watches her bowel movements. If you find yourself constipated, with bad breath, pimply complexion, headaches, belching gas and other symptoms of indigestion and constipation, take a small dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup.

are now in effect to California, and shrewd, far-sighted persons are taking advantage of them to visit that state and buy land in the famous Marquette tract in Sutter County, near Sacramento, California, because the rise in value that will inevitably follow the holding of the Pan-American Exposition, San Francisco in 1915, will bring them handsome returns, to say nothing of the good income that can be made from fruit raising, dairying, and general farming. To Incline Toward Mercy.

Jim had been far from a good boy during the day and toward nightfall he realized the fact fully. Being well acquainted with the workings of family discipline, he essayed a little diplomacy. "Shall you tell father about me?" he inquired of his mother. "Certainly I shall tell him," responded his mother, with sorrowful firmness. "Shall you tell him before dinner or after dinner?" asked the culprit. "After dinner," was the announcement. "Mother," and Jim gave a wiggle of anticipation, "couldn't you have a blueberry pudding for his dessert? Couldn't you do that much for me, mother?"—Youth's Companion.

Her Wedding March.

A young girl who had never heard of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," but was familiar with the more popular parody on it, was a witness to a wedding ceremony in an uptown church recently. As the betrothed pair walked with dignified tread toward the altar to be wed and the organ pealed forth Mendelssohn's inspiring march, the young girl was plainly shocked. When she arrived at her home she told her mother of the ceremony and innocently exclaimed: "What do you think, mother, they played 'Gee Whizz! I'm glad I'm Free!'"

"Well," said Dr. Thirly promptly, "hold on, then, till I'm done carving."

TOWNS IN RUINS FROM POWDER MILL EXPLOSION

Blast in Big Plant Near Kenosha Wipes Out the Villages of Pleasant Prairie and Bristol and Jars Country Within a Radius of 100 Miles Like Earthquake Shock.

ONE KILLED, SCORES INJURED; LOSS, $2,000,000

Cause of First Explosion, Which Set Off Many Tons of Dynamite, Is Unknown—Disaster Followed by Mass Meetings of Citizens With the Motive of Preventing the Rebuilding of Powder Plant.

Kenosha.—The immense plant of the Laffin-Rand Powder company at Pleasant Prairie, was completely wrecked by the greatest explosion in the history of the powder industry in America, causing the known death of one man, E. S. Thompson, the injury of hundreds of others, and a loss in property to the plant and real estate within a radius of 100 miles which, when tallied, will probably exceed $2,000,000. Seventeen men working at the plant at the time escaped death almost miraculously.

Pleasant Prairie, a village of modest homes, housing more than 700 people, was practically destroyed. More than 150 houses were wrecked, and hundreds sent into the streets seeking shelter. Scores were injured by falling walls.

Bristol, a village six miles from the plant, was wrecked, nearly all of 160 houses being damaged.

Pleasant Prairie is situated about six miles from Kenosha, and the plant which was wrecked is the western distributing point of the powder trust. The fact that the explosion came after the employees had left the plant accounts for the small loss of life.

An area of 100 miles felt the shock, and a general belief that there had been an earthquake was prevalent. Skyscrapers rocked in Chicago and panics in theaters followed; hundreds of plate glass windows in Kenosha were shattered; foreign residents of South Bend, Ind., rushed to church to pray; Benton Harbor, Mich., people thought a bank had been wrecked by burglars and rushed into the streets armed; Michigan City, Ind.; Racine, Wis.; Corlis, Wis.; Grand Haven, Mich., and Milwaukee felt the explosion.

Shortly after the first explosion came another, and this was followed by two more. The plant covered 190 acres, the buildings being small and separated to keep a fire from spreading. Now, however, the flames spread rapidly and building after building was blown into fragments.

The cause of the explosion is unknown. The powder in the glaze room, where the finishing work is put on black blasting powder, was the first to go, and the three black powder magazines were next and a dynamite magazine containing fully three carloads of the explosive came last.

One of the glaze cylinders was hurled two miles and crashed through the roof of a building.

It is known that there were 170,000 pounds of dynamite standing on side tracks at the plant in one magazine, and 86,000 pounds of black blasting powder in another magazine. Both of these magazines were blown up. The magazines contained 8,000 kegs of giant powder, finished; 25,000 kegs of giant powder, unfinished; 150 tons finished dynamite, and 130 tons of dynamite in process of manufacture.

With the territory surrounding the powder plant wrecked by the explosion a waste of dismantled homes, the first concerted move the day following the disaster was toward the elimination of the powder works menace from the county.

Indignation meetings have been held in Pleasant Prairie and in Kenosha and the effort to safeguard the homes is to be carried to the state legislature.

The people of surrounding towns have about recovered from the shock of the terrible explosion which jarred cities miles away from the scene and was thought to be an earthquake by thousands in Chicago and other like cities.

The company has had trouble with residents of Kenosha county following previous explosions. Two years ago a suit brought against the company on the ground that it was a public menace was won by the company. The recent disaster has aroused the people to greater efforts. Gathering in the ruins of a store in Pleasant Prairie, the people of the village, almost wiped out, sent a wire to Madison demanding that their representative in the legislature secure legislation to prevent the rebuilding of the plant. If this fails, they are likely to demand that the laws covering inspection of powder plants be strengthened. A petition with 5,000 signers is expected to grow out of this meeting.

NOTES OF THE DISASTER

The explosion caused the clogging of the intake pipes supplying water to the Illinois Steel company's plant at Chicago and made necessary the shutting down of the works for three hours.

Hardly a house in the thickly populated farming country in a radius of five miles from Pleasant Prairie is habitable as a result of the explosion.

The question of liability for the damages inflicted is a serious one with the victims. The destruction of their homes, in most instances, is the overwhelming calamity. No attempt has been made to accomplish anything but a temporary patching of the shattered buildings.

The question of damages will be taken up with the officials of the powder company. The people are not asking damages as much as they are insisting that the plant be removed from Pleasant Prairie. They claim that their property has been rendered valueless by the explosion and that even if their homes were rebuilt the women and children have been so terrified that they would not consent to live in the vicinity of the plant again.

Some idea of the force of the explosion can be obtained from the fact that dynamite, when exploded, travels at the rate of 240 miles a minute. Tests have shown that 500 pounds loaded into one of the larger cannons will hurl a projectile through eleven and one-half inches of best steel armor. Gunpowder has practically one-half the force of dynamite. In the explosion there were 170,000 pounds of dynamite and 86,000 pounds of powder. A combined explosion of these explosives in this amount would hurl a projectile through 512 feet of the best steel armor plate, or more than one and one-third city blocks of solid steel.

The condition of Joseph Flinn, the engineer injured, is serious. He is suffering from internal injuries and shock.

Engineer Flinn has given a statement of the cause of the explosion.

"It began with the glaze mill," said Flinn, "the high power powder in the hot cylinders was what let go. Any one of a number of causes, overheating of the gears or friction in the cylinder might have done it."

Coroner Stanton declares that he will summon as witnesses not only every man connected with the plant at the time of the explosion, but also the officials of the powder company. District Attorney Henry Hastings has been asked by the coroner to personally conduct the inquest.

Dale Bumbach, manager of the western branch of the E. I. Dupont-De Nemours Powder company, owner of the mill, has inspected the site of the destroyed plant. He said he cannot imagine what might have started the series of explosions.

One of the most serious accidents resulting from the explosion was in Kenosha. Mrs. Ernest Bonsell was driving in a grocery wagon, carrying her year-old babe in her arms. The horse was frightened by the crash of the explosion and the glass windows smashing on the cement pavements, and ran away. Mrs. Bonsell and her babe were thrown to the street, and the mother probably fatally injured. The baby fell on its mother's body and escaped unhurt.

At the home of Homer Crawford, about a mile from the plant, a baby had been born but the day before. When neighbors, after the shock, went to the Crawford home, Mr. Crawford was senseless on the floor, his head struck by a falling door. Mrs. Crawford, seriously ill, lay in bed protecting her baby.

BODY FOUND A MILE AWAY

Only One Arm and Trunk of Victim of Pleasant Prairie Powder Mill Explosion Remained Intact.

Pleasant Prairie.—Part of the body of E. S. Thompson, the foreman of the glazing mill, was found today in a swamp near the railroad tracks about a mile from the scene of the explosion. The trunk and one arm were found.

The fragments were found by Jacob Davidson, an employe of the powder mill.

I. H. Beland of Truesdel will probably lose his eyes from flying glass.

Trees for half a mile around Pleasant Prairie were stripped of branches and shorn off even with the ground.

Part of the body of E. S. Thompson, the foreman of the glaze mill, was found in a swamp about a mile from the scene of the explosion.

Two mules, one with both ears blown off, the other with one ear gone and most of the hide on one side missing, were brought out from the ruins.

WEAK BACKS MADE STRONG.

Backache in most cases is kidney-ache, and usually accompanied by irregularities of the urine. To remove the pain and weakness, you must cure the kidneys. Do so with Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Rosa Weimann, 1927 Greenwood Terrace, Chicago, Ill., says: "So intense were the rheumatic pains in my back, I felt like screaming. They gradually became more severe until they ran all over my body. I could not sleep and could hardly move. I steadily grew worse until I could scarcely open or close my hands. No relief was obtained until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. Soon I felt better and ere long the pain left." Remember the name—Doan's. For sale by all dealers, 50 cents a box. Kind but Careless. John P. Irish, the San Francisco orator and officeholder, was entertaining Joaquin Miller, the poet, one night. Upon hearing a particularly funny story by the host the poet fell off his chair in a paroxysm of mirth.

Irish thought the poet had a seizure of some kind and he rushed to the sideboard, took a bottle of whisky and stuck the top of it into Miller's mouth, hoping to revive him. Presently Miller waved his hands feebly and Irish removed the bottle. "What is it?" asked Irish solicitously.

"Remove the cork!" whispered the poet, hoarsely. "Remove the cork!"—Saturday Evening Post.

Warned. A serious-minded New Yorker, who, because of his dignified outlook on life, has sent his son, aged twelve, to a particularly strict and proper boarding school in New England, unexpectedly visited the school last week.

Ascertaining the location of his young hopeful's room, he climbed the four flights of stairs necessary to reach it—and entered. On a mammoth placard suspended from a steel engraving (presented to the youth as a Christmas gift by his admiring parent) was the cheerful sentiment: "Don't spit on the ceiling. We have lost our ladder."

Brought the Tears. An unusual incident marked a recent fire in New York. The fire started in the cellar of a five-story tenement and before it was extinguished the 18 families in the building and all the firemen were weeping copiously from inflamed eyes.

In the cellar many bags of onions had been stored. The chief fireman allowed the tenants to remain in the building, assuring them that the fire was confined to the cellar. They did not stay, however, when the onions had got well aflame.

Backache

Is only one of many symptoms which some women endure through weakness or displacement of the womanly organs. Mrs. Lizzie White of Memphis, Tenn., wrote Dr. R. V. Pierce, as follows:

"At times I was hardly able to be on my feet. I believe I had very pain and ache a woman could have. Had a very bad case. Internal organs were very much diseased and my back was very weak. I suffered a great deal with nervous headaches, in fact, I suffered all over. This was my condition when I wrote to you for advice. Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

A woman who is sick and suffering, and won't at last try a medicine which has the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, is, it would almost seem, to blame for her own wretchedness. Read what this woman says:

Richmond, Mo.—"When my second daughter was eighteen months old I was pronounced hopelessly invalid by specialists. I had a consultation of doctors and they said I had a severe case of ulceration. I was in bed for ten weeks, had sinking spells, and was pronounced to be in a dangerous condition. My father insisted that we try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and brought me six bottles. I soon began to improve, and before it had all been taken I was as well and strong as ever—my friends hardly recognized me so great was the change."—Mrs. Woodson Braunetter, Richmond, Mo.

There are literally hundreds of thousands of women in the United States who have been benefited by this famous old remedy, which was produced from roots and herbs over thirty years ago by a woman to relieve woman's suffering.

Read what another woman says:—
Jonesboro, Texas.—"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for myself and daughter, and consider it unequalled for all female diseases. I would not be without it for anything. I wish every mother in America could be persuaded to use it as there would be less suffering among our sex then. I am always glad to speak a word of praise for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and you are at liberty to use this testimonial."—Mrs. James T. Lawrence, Jonesboro, Texas.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, is it not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering from the same trouble?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for her advice—it is free and always helpful.

Backache

Is only one of many symptoms which some women endure through weakness or displacement of the womanly organs. Mrs. Lizzie White of Memphis, Tenn., wrote Dr. R. V. Pierce, as follows:

"At times I was hardly able to be on my feet. I believe I had very pain and ache a woman could have. Had a very bad case. Internal organs were very much diseased and my back was very weak. I suffered a great deal with nervous headaches, in fact, I suffered all over. This was my condition when I wrote to you for advice. After taking your 'Favorite Prescription' for about three months can say that my health was never better."

The Farmer's Son's Great Opportunity

Why wait for the old farm to become your inheritance? Begin now to prepare for the future. Prosperity and independence are yours. A great opportunity awaits you in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, where you can secure a Free Homestead or buy land at reasonable prices.

Now's the Time
—not a year from now, when land will be high. The Indian secured from the abundant crops of wheat, oats and barley, as well as cattle raising, are causing a steady advance in prices. Government returns show that the number of settlers from the U. S. was 80 per cent larger in 1910 than the previous year.

Many farmers have paid for their land out of the proceeds of one crop of 160 acres and pre-emption of 160 acres at $3.00 an acre. Fine climate, good schools, excellent railway facilities, low freight rates, wood, water and lumber easily obtained.

For pamphlet "Last Best West," particulars as to suitable location and low settlers' rates, apply to Dept. of Immigration, Ottawa, Can., or to Canadian Gov't Agent.

A POLICY TODAY

is just AHEAD of Tomorrow's Trouble

JOIN NOW

Madison, Wis., April 3, '05.

I have examined the plan of insurance of the Beavers Reserve Fund Fraternity and I do not hesitate to give it my unqualified endorsement. It is CHEAP and SAFE and gives what NO other fraternal society doing business in THIS state gives, viz: A plan of insurance combining the BEST features of "OLD LINE" insurance and fraternal assessment plan with a provision by which benefits may be realized during life.

L. M. Sturdevant,
Attorney General.

Madison, Wis., March 30, '05.

I have carefully examined the plan of the Beavers Reserve Fund Fraternity and do not hesitate to give it my hearty approval. The plan is one which insures long life to the order. It seems to combine the safety and stability of old line insurance companies with the cheapest of fraternal orders.

I carry eight thousand dollars insurance and consider my two thousand dollars in the Beavers as good as the best.

F. T. Tucker,
Assistant Attorney General.

This is to certify that I am acquainted with the Beavers Reserve Fund Fraternity, which I believe to be one of the best insurance of the kind in force at the present time. I can safely recommend it to all who desire to provide for their family in the hour of need.

J. J. McGillvray,
State Senator, Black River Falls, Wis.

To Whom It May Concern:

After having given some thought and attention to the proposition contained in the Beavers Reserve Fund Fraternity insurance association, I concluded that the scheme was a favorable one for me, and I took a policy in the same. I carry insurance in both co-operative and old line companies, and from my information, I am of the opinion that I have made no mistake in taking out the Beaver policy.

O. G. Munson,
State Senator, Viroqua, Wis.

Satisfied After Investigating.

I have recently given some attention to Beavers Reserve Fund Insurance. From my investigation and examination of their plan of insurance, their by-laws and the plan of policy issued by them, I am convinced that it is excellent fraternal insurance. I carry three policies in old line companies, and have been generally prejudiced against fraternal insurance. It seems to me, however, that the Beavers Reserve Fund comes nearer to old line insurance than any other fraternal insurance, and of course it is much less expensive than old line. I have taken out a Beaver policy for $3000 which is their limit.

Senator S. M. Marsh,
Pres. of Commercial Bank, Neillsville, Wis.

To Whom It May Concern:

This is to certify that I am a firm believer in fraternal insurance, and have carried such insurance more than ten years. Events of recent graft exposure by some of the old line companies has simply served to confirm my belief. I can cheerfully say that I have investigated the plan of the Beavers' Fraternity and come to the conclusion that it is the best and safest insurance of its kind offered at the present time. They are upon safe and correct principles. I like their methods and mode of doing business. I regard them as the best of all fraternal orders. Have made application myself for a $3000 policy with the Beavers to be added to the insurance I now carry.

Dated October 10, 1905. J. M. Becker,
Judge of Green County Court.
