NUMBER 29

GEORGE T. CARLIN Candidate for Superintendent of Schools.

Next Tuesday is election day. While a great deal of space has been devoted to the candidates let us not get away from the fact that no amount of printer's ink, nor array of superlative adjectives can make a man any better. Geo. T. Carlin of West Bend is a man who is not given to "tooting his own horn" attends strictly and energetically to the work in hand, uses no hypocritical methods to gain his ends, and is in short, an honest, upright, everyday man.

Now, voters, the matter rests with you to decide who shall be the next county superintendent. Let us all get together; put our shoulders to the wheel and give one great, grand boost for Geo. T. Carlin, of West Bend, Wis.
West Bend, Wis., Mar 23, 1911.
I have been in a position to observe Mr. Carlin's work as a teacher while he taught at Richfield, this county. His work has always been very satisfactory, and his school well governed.
F. W. Buckley,
Supt. Schools Washington Co.

Otto Luedtke of Kewaskum has bought a Model T. Ford Touring Car from A. J. Klein, representing the Ford Co. Mr. Luedtke is an up-to-date practical young farmer, has only last summer put up a new dwelling house with all modern improvements, such as steam heating, water works, etc. Mr. Luedtke believes in spending the money where the whole family gets the benefit from it and also makes it comfortable while he is living.—Lomira Review.

—It often happens that a feller's usefulness ends when his salary is raised. There's no greater point of interest in any community than an honest citizen.

—Judge the efficiency of the candidates for superintendent by the work they are now doing. Certainty is what a man seeks now days. Those in school work say W. V. Buckley is the man for Superintendent.

MYSTERY IN THE SCHOLZEN CASE

Defendant Not Wearing the Same Clothes as When He Entered the Jail

COAT HAS CHANGED COLOR

(Fond du Lac Reporter)
The preliminary examination of John H. Scholzen, charged with the robbery of the Knickel and Straub general store at Campbellsport on the night of Feb. 3, held before Justice Blewett Friday, developed a mystery that would baffle the brain of Sherlock Holmes. When Scholzen entered the jail he was wearing a light coat, according to the positive testimony of Sheriff Graham. When arraigned in court this morning Scholzen was attired in a dark one. How Scholzen secured the dark coat is not only the matter of uncanny speculation, but what has become of the other coat is equally mysterious. The jail was searched from top to bottom but not so much as a button of it could be found.
The identity of the coat is a matter of no little importance to the state. Mr. Knickel was positive that he could identify it as one of those stolen from his store. In fact he did identify it but was not so positive when he found that there was no trade mark in it corresponding to the goods he had in stock. It was then that Sheriff Graham and Under-sheriff Seeve were placed upon the stand. Sheriff Graham was certain that the coat Scholzen was wearing in court was not the one he was attired in when committed. Mr. Seeve was not so certain but stated that he believed that the defendant was wearing a lighter coat when brought to the jail.
William Knickel, of the firm of Knickel & Straub, Campbellsport, was the first witness for the state. He testified that on Feb. 2 Scholzen entered his store and asked to be shown some boys' coats as he wished to buy one for his son, a boy of twelve. Scholzen, the witness said, gave the name of Murray. A number of coats were displayed and Scholzen finally left after stating that he would send the boy around. When the store was robbed, Mr. Knickel testified, he immediately suspected his visitor of the day before of being the thief and notified the authorities. Scholzen was arrested at Wayne, Washington county, by Deputy Sheriff Tom Curran, of Campbellsport, on March 12.

The case was adjourned until Tuesday when another unusual feature of ordinary examination was that a bench warrant will probably be issued for missing witness. Scholzen's defense was to have been an alibi. At the morning session Joseph Hoerig, a saloon-keeper from Kewaskum, testified that during the entire day prior to the robbery from an early hour in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, Scholzen spent the time in his saloon, Joseph Oswald, engineer of the sawmill at Jackson, Washington county, had been served with subpoena to complete alibi, as the defense alleges would have testified that Scholzen was in his company from 11 o'clock on the night of February 3 until an early hour in the morning. According to Constable Carew he served Oswald with a subpoena Saturday and the man promised to be here when the hearing was called. He failed to appear and the court will issue a bench warrant.
Scholzen when placed upon the stand on his own behalf this afternoon absolutely denied all connection with the robbery. He said that he had spent the day previous until about 6:45 o'clock in the afternoon at the Hoerig saloon at Kewaskum, had then caught a passenger train south, riding on the blind baggage as far as Jackson where he was kicked off by the train crew. He went to the sawmill nearby where he met Oswald, the engineer of the plant and was in the latter's company until morning.

"Mr. Buckley gave excellent satisfaction as teacher. He is a hard worker and is highly respected."
Dr. F. C. Grant,

Lena, Wis.
"Mr. Buckley is a wide awake, energetic and competent teacher. He has executive ability and common sense. His school is in excellent condition."
F. W. Bucklin,

"Mr. Buckley is an able man in the school room. He has given excellent service and improved our schools in many ways."
Albert W. Brown,
Jacob Frank,
Louis Portz,
School Board, Hartford.
"I heartily endorse Willis V. Buckley's candidacy for county superintendent of schools and sincerely urge his election."
W. E. Elmer,
Prin. Hartford High school.

His professional training in one of the leading normal schools of our state, together with his long experience in state graded schools, eminently fits him for this responsible position. For the past four years we have been mutually concerned in administering the school affairs of the city of Hartford, and in my opinion he has done his part thoroughly and well. He has been faithful to the public trust given over to his care. The people he has served are well pleased and as a recognition of his faithful work they are going to vote for him April 4th. The teachers under his supervision look upon him as an effective and loyal leader. His Board of Education speak of him only in terms of commendation. His character bears the closest inspection. He is positive and fearless in temperament, which is an important qualification for any public man, yet in no sense is he domineering. His high sense of justice and fairness is always in evidence. And then let us not forget that he is a Washington county product. We will make no mistake in electing him to the county superintendency of our schools.

Horse Stealing Charge is Made.

John Scholzen, who was arrested on a charge of robbing the Knickel and Straub general store at Campbellsport, and who was discharged by Justice Blewett Tuesday afternoon, following an examination lasting several days, was immediately re-arrested by Sheriff Graham on a charge of horse stealing.
John Meyer, a resident of Jackson township, Washington county, is the complainant against Scholzen in the horse stealing charge. He alleges that Scholzen stole a horse from him on the night of March 11. The sheriff of Washington county arrived in the city Wednesday afternoon from West Bend to take charge of Scholzen. In company with his prisoner, the sheriff left for West Bend late this afternoon. Attorney J. M. Gooding, who defended Scholzen on the Campbellsport robbery charge, will appear for him in the horse stealing affair.
Scholzen is a peculiar man. The authorities suspect that he knows of several episodes that have taken place in Fond du Lac county. When charged by Sheriff Graham with having pulled off several jobs in this county, Scholzen is said to have grinned and replied, "This county is easy."

141 PERISH IN FIRE

SCORES OF EMPLOYEES DIE BY JUMPING FROM BURNING SHIRTWAIST FACTORY.

OTHERS KILLED IN PANIC

Fire Marshal's Inquiry Reveals Fact Workroom Was Death Trap—That Disaster Result of Cigarette Smoking—86 Victims Are Identified.

New York.—Of the 141 employees, mostly girls and women killed in a fire in Triangle Shirtwaist factory at the corner of Greene street and Washington place Saturday, 86 have been identified.

Seventy of the bodies were those of girls and young women, the remaining sixteen those of men. There are 12 injured in the hospitals. Scores of others more or less seriously hurt were taken to their homes.

The building was occupied by a number of factories, and at least 1,500 persons were at work when the fire started.

The victims were either burned to death or were crushed into lifeless forms on the pavements when they leaped to escape the swift rush of fire which quickly enveloped the building.

Not since the burning of the excursion steamer General Slocum, off North Brother's island in 1904, when 1,020 persons perished, has the city been so excited by a fire horror.

At least fifty of the victims were killed by leaping from the windows of the seventh floor, and floors above.

Many perished in the flames on upper floors, remaining, afraid to leap until the fire surrounded them.

Although the fire started on the eighth floor, it spread eventually to the basement and gutted the whole building. The blaze started in the cutting room of the Triangle Waist company, on the eighth floor. This concern occupied the upper three floors of the building.

Joseph Devonty, a Brooklyn automobile dealer, who was passing the building when the fire started, says that it was 12 minutes after the alarm was turned in before there was a stream of water on the blaze.

By that time there were 30 dead on the sidewalks. The scene was sickening. With wild shrieks the girls leaped from the windows, and, above the din and roar of the flames, their bodies struck the street and sounded like claps of thunder.

The extension ladders of the fire men reached only to the seventh floor. The firemen were unable to get above that with scaling ladders because of the intense heat and the dense smoke pouring from the upper windows.

Unable to reach the upper floors, the firemen resorted to the use of life nets. In most instances the nets proved to be worthless. Some of them broke under the pressure of a single body. Others were torn by two or more persons alighting in them at the same time. One net was lying in the street after the fire with six bodies tangled in it.

Grocery wagons and even pushcarts were pressed into service to get the wounded people, most of whom were young girls, to drug stores and hospitals. Stores in the neighborhood were turned into temporary morgues.

A great crowd gathered around the scene of the fire. Factories in the neighborhood were soon emptied of their employes.

Some of the revelations brought out by Fire Marshal Beers in his public inquiry into the causes of the fire show that the poor girls in that panic rush to escape from the flames found traps at every turn.

It seemed that the very arrangement of the workroom was a trap, with 700 women, jammed back to back at their machines. When the panic started, the narrow aisles became blocked with chairs and the girls were in confusion before they even started for the doors. Then there was a scarcity of exits, the inward opening doors and the death trap "fire escapes."

"The fire, without any question, started from a cigarette or a match thrown into a pile of lawn clippings—light cotton stuff," said Marshal Beers. "There was no gasoline about the place, so far as I could learn and the machinery power was furnished by electric motors. But I can prove that cigarette smoking was no uncommon practice among the men employed in the factory."

"The fire started at 4:40 o'clock, Samuel Bernstein, the superintendent for the Triangle company, and a boy tried to put it out with buckets of water, but fought it for only a minute and a half. The alarm was not turned in for five minutes."

"While Bernstein was fighting the fire, Edward Brown, the machinist, was trying to get the girls in line to march to the fire escape and to the elevator doors. But the poor things, in most cases, understood only Yiddish and did not know what he was saying to them."

GREEK CONFESSES MURDER

Headless Body of Man Who Insults Woman Found After Slayer Tells of Crime.

Chicago.—A hacked and terribly mutilated body—all that remains of Frank Barbaresos—was found Tuesday in an old box which had been hidden under the back porch of a building at 733 Sebor street.

The finding of the body was the culmination of an all-day search by the police following dispatches received from Kansas City telling of a confession by Achilles Penetarakis and his wife Angelique, who was arrested in the Missouri city.

The tragedy was enacted a week ago. Achilles says he killed Barbaresos because the latter attacked his wife. Saturday night a week ago Achilles had gone to market to buy provisions, leaving Angelique and Barbaresos in the house together. When he returned the wife was weeping. Angelique put her face on her husband's breast and said their guest had asked the wife to elope with him. Achilles turned upon his false friend and grappled with him.

"I killed him," Achilles said, simply. "He was a traitor. He was strong, but so was I, and when he fell I was on top. With an ax I crushed his skull. He deserved death, and in my country death alone avenges his crime."

TAFT LORIMER AID?

EDWARD HINES ASSERTS PRESIDENT URGED CHICAGOAN TAKE SEAT IN SENATE.

WOULD BE TARIFF BILL ALLY

Chicago Lumberman Gives Sensational Testimony Before Illinois Legislative Committee Investigating Bribery Charge.

Springfield, Ill.—Accountability for the candidacy of William Lorimer for the United States senatorship, and impliedly his election thereto, was laid at the door of President Taft Tuesday by Edward Hines, the first witness before the Helm bribery committee. The Chicago lumberman testified for the first time since the Lorimer case started.

Mr. Hines admitted that he was interested in the election of Senator Lorimer and said that he conferred in Washington with Aldrich in April, 1909. Mr. Hines said further that he was in Washington from February to June, 1909, and that at that time he was a witness before one of the congressional committees.

Mr. Hines testified that he became interested in the election of a United States senator from Illinois at the solicitation of several United States senators at Washington, who requested him, as he was a citizen of Illinois, to give them an opinion on the outlook. President Taft desired a senator elected from Illinois, they said, as soon as possible, and they wished to know if Congressman Lorimer would not become a candidate, as it was understood that all factions could agree on Lorimer.

Mr. Hines testified further that Senator Aldrich asked him to urge Lorimer to become a candidate, as the president personally requested him to do so. Hines said Lorimer promised to give the subject consideration. The witness insisted that President Taft earnestly desired Lorimer to become a candidate, as he would be an ally in passing the tariff bill.

When asked whether he promised financial reward to members of the legislature or any one else, Mr. Hines entered an emphatic "no." To every question in regard to money being used to secure the election of Lorimer, Hines replied that a pecuniary consideration, or the creation of a fund, was not promised to or solicited for anyone. Money, he said, to be used in the election of Lorimer, never was broached in any conversation.

Questions were asked regarding his affiliations with various banks, the depositories of his lumber companies, and in regard to his personal banking account. John J. Healy, attorney for the investigators, asked the witness to furnish as soon as possible to the committee a list of his depositories, and the names of the banks in which he was interested. In the examination that followed Hines declared that he at no time heard that money was used to accomplish the election of Lorimer.

The next witness to take the stand was John I. Hughes, a director of the Lorimer bank. He declared that to his mind "William Lorimer was the greatest man that ever lived since the time of Christ."

Hughes in a eulogy of Lorimer further declared that he interested himself in the election of the senator, as he was his personal friend, and solicited the support of every one in his acquaintance, but that he at no time used money.

Indict New York Banker. New York.—Joseph B. Reichmann, former president of the Carnegie Trust company, was Tuesday indicted by the grand jury on a charge of misdemeanor in the conduct of his office in making an alleged false report.

Telephones for Constantinople. Constantinople, Turkey.—The chamber of deputies Tuesday ratified the concession for the exclusive operation of a telephone system in Constantinople and the suburbs to the American-Anglo-French syndicate.

SEEK MEN "HIGH UP"

NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN CARNEGIE TRUST COMPANY.

Attorney Lewis Gives Important Testimony—Prominent Men Interested in Case of Nation-Wide Interest.

New York.—Additional indictments against high officials of the Carnegie Trust company are looked for as a result of the testimony given before the grand jury by Liston L. Lewis, former counsel for the trust company.

District Attorney Whitman, it is said, possesses conclusive evidence that the executive committee of the trust company, over which Joseph B. Reichmann presided as president, knowingly made a false report of the company's assets on August 31, 1910, and mutilated the minutes of a meeting held August 23 in order to conform to suggestions of the state banking department.

Both the original minutes and the substituted minutes are in existence and it will be possible to produce them in the prosecution of the officials responsible for the transaction.

Another interesting feature of the developments was the supported statement that Samuel Untermyer, the well-known corporation lawyer, has become the attorney for the combination represented by Charles H. Hyde, Mayor Gaynor's city chamberlain; William J. Cummins, the master promoter of the trust company, and Joseph B. Reichmann, its former president.

MANY REFORMS IN CALIFORNIA

Legislature Adjourns After Putting Through Progressive Program.

Sacramento, Cal.—The California legislature adjourned after enacting into law practically all the reforms on which Governor Johnson made his campaign as a progressive. Among the more important laws placed on the statute books were the following:

Enlarging the powers of the railroad commission; authorizing the physical valuation of railroads; prohibiting the employment of women for more than eight hours a day; the Oregon primary law; the Australian ballot abolishing party emblems; an anti-betting law.

Oklahoma Fight in High Court. Washington.—The fight over the removal of the capital of Oklahoma from Guthrie to Oklahoma City began in earnest in the Supreme court of the United States Tuesday when Guthrie's claim was presented to the court in a printed brief.

Honduras Has New Chief. Tegucigalpa, Honduras.—President Davila resigned his office Tuesday and Dr. Francisco Bertrand took the oath of office as president immediately afterward.

Follows Friend in Suicide. Viroqua.—Brooding over the suicide of an acquaintance a year ago, Gerry Davis of Purdy left a note saying that he had left and would not return. A search disclosed his body dangling at the end of a rope in a patch of woods.

Bank Directors Must Be Residents. Madison.—The assembly has ordered engrossed the bill forbidding any non-resident of the state being a Wisconsin bank director.

NEW YORK CAPITOL WRECKED BY FIRE

PALATIAL $27,000,000 STATE HOUSE AT ALBANY IS A MASS OF RUINS.

LOSS PLACED AT $10,000,000

Firemen Unable to Cope With Flames Which Sweep Unchecked Through Marble Walls of Magnificent Edifice—No Insurance on Structure.

Albany, N. Y.—Fire swept, smoke strewn, and water drenched, New York state's magnificent $27,000,000 capitol stands a partial wreck by flames that started in the assembly library, burned away the entire west wing and did damage estimated at $10,000,000 before the flames were declared under control after raging more than four hours.

The library was a seething furnace when the firemen arrived. They were badly hampered in their early operations and the flames soon ate out into the corridors and to the entry room of the assembly chamber.

The fire quickly gutted the assembly library, destroying all bills, documents and papers, some of them dating at far back as 1776. These are irreplaceable. The library also contained all the documents of the code and judiciary committee of the present session. These were all destroyed.

Owing to the proximity of the state library, the firemen broke through an air shaft and flooded it.

The $1,000,000 ceiling of the western staircase, considered one of the finest examples of mural art in the world, early fell a prey to the flames, which then continued their sweep along the hall toward the senate chamber, reached the elevators near the state library and began to sweep up the shafts.

In less than an hour from the discovery of the fire the flames leaped into the state library with a roar, and its inflammable contents were licked up like oil.

The firemen had several narrow escapes from falling walls and by being trapped when the flames had eaten through supposedly fireproof doors, but all managed to escape.

The loss upon that portion of the capitol building destroyed is doubtless in the neighborhood of $6,000,000. This amount does not include the furnishings nor the contents of the state library.

There is no insurance whatever, as it has not been the policy of the state to insure its buildings, save in the case of certain hospitals and asylum plants.

A defective electric wire is said to have caused the fire.

More money was reported to have been wasted in the construction of the New York state capitol than on any other public structure in America. It was estimated when its construction was authorized by the legislature in 1863 that the building as planned would cost $4,000,000. According to the state records for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30 last, the total amount expended had been more than $25,000,000, and the original plans had not been carried out.

GOOD ROADS PASS IN SENATE

Measure Providing Highway Commission and State Aid to Towns Goes Through Upper House.

Madison.—With practically no opposition the senate passed the first of the big bills to be acted upon at this session—the Donald good roads bill, carrying an appropriation of $350,000 a year for the improvement of the public highways in Wisconsin, which went through by a vote of 26 to 2.

The bill as passed by the senate, gives state aid to every county that makes expenditures for highway improvement along lines laid down by a commission of experts. This means that if several towns in a county decide to spend a specified aggregate sum in improving highways, the state will lend a helping hand with the use of money and the giving of the best scientific advice available. The amount of state aid is to be in proportion to the amount raised by taxation in the several counties for improvement of roads. The state tax is to be 1/4 of a mill and for every 1/4 of a mill raised by the county, the state is to add 1/4 of a mill.

To Advance Shipping Rates. Marinette.—There is to be a slight advance in freight rates by transportation companies operating on Green Bay, as it is claimed they must get better rates or go out of business.

SYNOPSIS.

James Wilson or Jimmy as he is called by his friends, Jimmy was rotund and looked shorter than he really was. His ambition in life was to be taken seriously, but people steadily refused to do so, his art is considered a huge joke, except to himself. If he asked people to dinner everyone expected a frolic. Jimmy marries Bella Knowles; they live together a year and are divorced. Jimmy's friends arrange to celebrate the first anniversary of his divorce. Those who attend the party are Miss Katherine McNair, who every one calls Kit, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Brown, the Misses Mercer, Maxwell Reed and a Mr. Thomas Harbison, a South American civil engineer. The party is in full swing when Jimmy receives a telegram from his Aunt Selma, who will arrive in four hours to visit him and his wife. Jimmy gets his funds from Aunt Selma and after he marries she doubles his allowance. He neglects to tell her of his divorce, as she is opposed to it. Jimmy takes Kit into his confidence, he tries to devise some way so that his aunt will not learn that he has no longer a wife. He suggests that Kit play the hostess for one night, be Mrs. Wilson pro tem. Kit refuses, but is finally prevailed upon to act the part. Aunt Selma arrives and the deception works out as planned, as she had never seen Jimmy's wife. Jimmy's Jap servant is taken ill, his face is covered with spots. Bella, Jimmy's divorced wife, enters the house and asks Kit who is being taken away in the ambulance? Bella insists it is Jim. Kit tells her Jim is well and is in the house. Bella tells Kit it wasn't Jim she wanted to see, but Takahira, the Jap servant, as she wished to secure his services. Harbison steps out on the porch and discovers a man tacking a card on the door. He demands an explanation. The man points to the placard and Harbison sees the word "Smallpox" printed on it. The man tells him he is an officer of the board of health and tells him the house is under quarantine and that the guests will have to remain in the house until after the quarantine is lifted. The guests suddenly realize their predicament, the women shed tears, the men consider it a good joke.

CHAPTER VI.

A Mighty Poor Joke.

Of course, one knows that there are people who in a different grade of society would be shoplifters and pickpockets. When they are restrained by obligation or environment they become a little overkeen at bridge, or take the wrong sables, or stuff a gold-backed brush into a muff at a reception. You remember the ivory dressing set that Theodora Bucknell had, fastened with fine gold chains? And the sensation it caused at the Bucknell cotillion when Mrs. Van Zire went sweeping to her carriage with two feet of gold chain hanging from the front of her wrap?

But Anne's pearl collar was different. In the first place, instead of three or four hundred people, the suspicion had to be divided among ten. And of those ten, at least eight of us were friends, and the other two had been vouched for by the Browns and Jimmy. It was a horrible mix-up. For the necklace was gone—there couldn't be any doubt of that—and although, as Dallas said, it couldn't get out of the house, still, there were plenty of places to hide the thing.

The worst of our trouble really originated with Max Reed, after all. For it was Max who made the silly wager over the telephone, with Dick Bagley. He bet five hundred even that one of us, at least, would break quarantine within the next 24 hours, and, of course, that settled it. Dick told it around the club as a joke, and a man who owns a newspaper heard him and called up the paper. Then the paper called up the health office, after setting up a flaming scare-head, "Will Money Free Them? Hoard of Health versus Millionaire."

It was almost three when the house settled down—nobody had any nightclothes, although finally, through Dallas, who gave them to Anne, who gave them to the rest, we got some things of Jimmy's—and I was still dressed. The house was perfectly quiet, and after listening carefully, I went slowly down the stairs. There was a light in the hall, and another back in the dining room, and I got along without any trouble. But the pantry, where the stairs led down, was dark, and the wretched swinging door would not stay open.

I caught my skirt in the door as I went through, and I had to stop to loosen it. And in that awful minute I heard some one breathing just beside me. I had stooped to my gown, and I turned my head without straightening—I couldn't have raised myself to an erect posture, for my knees were giving way under me—and just at my feet lay the still glowing end of a match!

I had to swallow twice before I could speak. Then I said sharply: "Who's there?" The man was so close it is a wonder I had not walked into him; his voice was right at my ear. "I am sorry I startled you," he said quietly. "I was afraid to speak suddenly, or move, for fear I would do what I have done."

It was Mr. Harbison.

"I thought you were—it is very late," I managed to say, with dry lips. "Do you know where the electric switch is?"

"Mrs. Wilson!" It was clear he had not known me before. "Why, no; don't you?"

"I am all confused," I muttered, and beat a retreat into the dining room. There, in the friendly light, we could at least see each other, and I think he was as much impressed by the fact that I had not undressed as I was by the fact that he had, partly. He wore a hideous dressing gown of Jimmy's, much too small, and his hair, parted and plastered down in the early evening, stood up in a sort of brown brush all over his head. He was trying to flatten it with his hands.

"It must be three o'clock," he said, with polite surprise, and the house is like a barn. You ought not to be running around with your arms uncovered, Mrs. Wilson. Surely you could have called some of us."

"I didn't wish to disturb any one," I said, with distinct truth.

"I suppose you are like me," he said. "The novelty of the situation—and everything. I got to thinking things over, and then I realized the studio was getting cold, so I thought I would come down and take a look at the furnace. I didn't suppose any one else would think of it. But I lost myself in that pantry, stumbled against a half-open drawer, and nearly went down the dumb-watter." And, as if in judgment on me, at that instant came two rather terrific thumps from somewhere below, and inarticulate words, shouted rather than spoken. It was uncanny, of course, coming as it did through the register at our feet. Mr. Harbison looked startled.

"Oh, by the way," I said as carelessly as I could. "In the excitement, I forgot to mention it. There is a policeman asleep in the furnace room. I—I suppose we will have to keep him now," I finished as airily as possible.

"Oh, a policeman—in the cellar," he repeated, staring at me, and he moved toward the pantry door.

"You needn't go down," I said feverishly, with visions of Bella Knowles sitting on the kitchen table, surrounded by soiled dishes and all the cheerless aftermath of a dinner party.

"Please don't go down!—it's one of my rules—never to let a stranger go down to the kitchen. I—I'm peculiar—that way—and besides, it's—it's mussy."

Bang! Crash! through the register pipe, and some language quite articulate. Then silence.

"Look here, Mrs. Wilson," he said resolutely. "What do I care about the kitchen? I'm going down and arrest that policeman for disturbing the peace. He will have the pipes down."

"You must not go," I said, with desperate firmness. "He—he is probably in a very dangerous state just now. We—I—locked him in."

The Harbison man grinned and then became serious.

"Why don't you tell me the whole thing?" he demanded. "You've been in trouble all evening, and—you can trust me, you know, because I am a stranger! because the minute this crazy quarantine is raised I am off to the Argentine Republic," (perhaps he said Chili) "and because I don't know anything at all about you. You see, I have to believe what you tell me, having no personal knowledge of any of you to go on. Now tell me—who has you hidden in the cellar, besides the policeman?"

There was no use trying to deceive him: He was looking straight into my eyes. So I decided to make the best of a bad thing. Anyway, it was going to require strength to get Bella through the coal hole with one arm and restrain the policeman with the other.

"Come," I said, making a sudden resolution, and led the way down the stairs.

He said nothing when he saw Bella, for which I was grateful. She was sitting at the table, with her arms in front of her, and her head buried in them. And then I saw she was asleep. Her hat and veil laid beside her, and she had taken off her coat and draped it around her. She had rummaged out a cold pleasant and some salad, and had evidently had a little supper. Supper and a nap, while I worried myself gray-headed about her!

"She—she came in unexpectedly—something about the butler," I explained under my breath. "And—she doesn't want to stay. She is on bad terms with—with some of the people upstairs. You can see how impossible the situation is."

"I doubt if we can get her out," he said, as if the situation were quite ordinary. "However, we can try. She seems very comfortable. It's a pity to rouse her."

Here the prisoner in the furnace room broke out afresh. It sounded as though he had taken a lump of coal and was attacking the lock. Mr. Har-bison followed the noise, and I could hear him arguing, not gently.

"Another sound," he finished, "and you won't get out of here at all, unless you crawl up the furnace pipe!"

When he came back, Bella was rousing. She lifted her head with her eyes shut and then opened them one at a time, blinked, and sat up. She didn't see him at first.

"You wretch!" she said ungratefully, after she had yawned. "Do you know what time it is? And that—!" Then she saw Mr. Harbison and sat staring at him.

"This is Mr. Harbison," I said to her hastily. "He—he came with Anne and Dal and—be is shut in, too."

By that time Bella had seen how handsome he was, and she took a hair-pin out of her mouth, and arched her eyebrows, which was always Bella's best pose.

"I am Miss Knowles," she said sweetly (of course, the court had given her back her name), "and I stopped in tonight, thinking the house was empty, to see about a—a butler. Unfortunately, the house was quarantined just at that time, and—here I am. Surely there cannot be any harm in helping me to get out?" (Pleading tone.) "I have not been exposed to any contagion, and in the exhausted state of my health the confinement would be positively dangerous."

She rolled her eyes at him, and I could see she was making an impression. Of course she was free. She had a perfect right to marry again, but I will say this: Bella is a lot better looking by electric light than she is the next morning.

The upshot of it was that the gentleman who built bridges and looked down on society from a lofty, lonely pinnacle agreed to help one of the most gleaming members of the aforesaid society to outwit the law.

It took about 15 minutes to quiet the policeman. Nobody ever knew what Mr. Harbison did to him, but for 24 hours he was quite tractable. He changed after that, but that comes later in the story. Anyhow, the Harbison man went upstairs and came down with a Bagdad curtain and a cushion to match, and took them into the furnace room, and came out and locked the door behind him, and then we were ready for Bella's escape.

But there were four special officers and three reporters watching the house as a result of Max Reed's idocy. Once, after trying all the other windows and finding them guarded, we discovered a little bit of a hole in an out-of-the-way corner that looked like a ventilator and was covered with a heavy wire screen. No prisoners ever dug their way out of a dungeon with more energy than that with which we attacked that screen, hacking at it with kitchen knives, whispering like conspirators, being scratched with the ragged edges of the wire, frozen with the cold air one minute and boiling with excitement the next. And when the wire was cut, and Bella had rolled her coat up and thrust it through, and was standing on a chair ready to follow, something outside that had looked like a barrel moved and said, "Oh, I wouldn't do that if I were you. It would be certain to be undignified, and probably it would be unpleasant—later."

We coaxed and pleaded and tried to bribe, and that happened, as it turned out, to be one of the worst things that we had to endure. For the whole conversation came out the next afternoon in the paper, with the most awful drawings, and the reporter said it was the flashing of the jewels we wore that first attracted his attention. And that brings me back to the robbery.

For when we had crept back to the kitchen, and Bella was fumbling for her handkerchief to cry into and the Harbison man was trying to apologize for the language he had used to the reporter, and I was on the verge of a nervous chill—well, it was then that Bella forgot all about crying and jumped and held out her arm.

"My diamond bracelet!" she screeched. "Look, I've lost it!"

Well, we went over every inch of that basement, until I knew every crack in the flooring, every spot on the cement. And Bella was nasty, and said that she had never seen that part of the house in such condition, and that if I had acted like a sane person and put her out, when she had no business there at all, she would have had her freedom and her bracelet, and that if we were playing a joke on her (as if we felt like joking!) we would please give her the bracelet and let her go and die in a corner; she felt very queer.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Clever.

"This young man who wants to marry you, Clara—what do you know about him?"

"I'll be frank with you, papa. I know little or nothing. I met him at the seaside in June and from the very first I felt that I could love him."

"But you are taking great chances, my dear. He may be an adventurer. Isn't there any special thing that commends him—in addition to his regard for you?"

"Yes, papa. He told me that he intended to model his business career on your own ambitious rise and remarkable success."

"Hum. Send him to my office tomorrow, my dear."

Too Calculating.

"Aren't you going to marry Miss Pertle?"

"Not me; she's too up-to-date for me!"

"How is she so up-to-date?"

"I telephoned her last week that I would be up the following night to propose, and she went and sold the moving picture rights of my proposal to the highest bidder."

CLEAN ELECTIONS AIM OF NEW BILL

CORRUPT PRACTICES MEASURE
CONTAINS ORIGINAL FEAT-
TURES OF IMPORTANCE.

IS ENDORSED BY GOVERNOR

Pamphlet Issued at State Expense, to Set Forth Party Platforms and History and Political Records of Candidates Is Among Provisions.

Madison.—A new corrupt practices bill embodying several new and important provisions has been given the final touches by the committee on elections, and reported to the assembly. The measure is a substitute for the corrupt practice bills of Assemblymen Clark and Kay and of Senator Husting. In the conference on the bill the committee has had the advice of Gov. McGovern, Lieut. Gov. Thomas Morris, Senator Husting and others, and it may be taken to represent the executive's views on the subject.

The present bills upon the subject are devoid of several of the features of the substitute. One provision will be the publication of a booklet for state office candidates only, in the bill's present shape, but which may be inclusive of senators, assemblymen and congressmen in the final draft.

This pamphlet, to be published at state expense, will contain statements about the candidate's life, his personal platform, his attitude toward public interests, etc. Furthermore, and as marking the effectiveness of the proposed law, it is to be provided that such statements must be made under oath.

Limitations as to the amount a candidate may expend in primary and election campaigns will be an important feature of the act. Weekly reports on expenditures must be made by the candidate, his committee or manager.

A provision as yet untried elsewhere makes a candidate elected through corrupt practices, in violation of this act, subject to disqualification. On petition through legal channels, a candidate so violating the law may be brought before a circuit court to be tried by the judge in chambers in or out of term, for failure to abide by the law in the above respect. This disqualification liability is in addition to the liability to criminal prosecution, and makes the corrupt practices act as nearly absolutely protective of the interests of justice in elections as can well be conceived.

SOLONS TO HEAR ROOSEVELT

Invitation to Deliver Address Before
Wisconsin Legislature Accepted by Former President.

Madison.—Theodore Roosevelt, on April 15, will deliver at least one and probably two speeches, here, President Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin, and Speaker Ingram of the assembly, by means of telegrams, have secured the consent of the former president to visit Madison on his way to New York from the Pacific coast.

The present plans include a speech to the legislature in the assembly chamber, to which only special guests of the members will be invited. After the speech in the assembly the former president is expected to be conveyed to the university gymnasium where he will find a thousand students and townspeople to hear him.

MAY SELL WINE TO MINORS

Kenosha Judge Rules That Druggists
Are Under Less Restriction Than Saloonkeepers.

Kenosha.—In the circuit court Judge E. B. Beiden has handed down a decision in regard to the sale of liquor by druggists, which holds that druggists are not liable to prosecution for selling liquor to minors on the same basis as saloon men. Action was taken in the case of the State vs. William E. Pomeroy, who had been arrested charged with selling a bottle of wine to a schoolboy. The court held that a druggist sold liquor under a special permit and that as the liquor was sold not to be drunk on the premises, it was impossible to hold him under the same law as a saloon man would be held for selling to minors.

Foresters to Meet at New London,
Neenah.—It is announced the annual meeting of the Fox River Valley Foresters' association will be held at New London on March 26.

MAY SOLVE STUMP PROBLEM

Soo Railroad Will Build Giant Puller
and Seek Prize Offered by Wisconsin Advancement Association.

Superior.—The Soo railroad has entered the contest of the Wisconsin Advancement association for the $1,000 prize for the most practicable device for pulling the large pine stumps with which the soil of the northern part of the state is dotted. There is also method in its entry, for the device will be used to clear up many sections along its own right of way.

The railroad has set aside a fund of $25,000 to be used in developing a powerful puller, mounted upon skids or traction wheels. It is supposed that the apparatus will follow the lines of a power skidder such as is used in the lumber camps, although the mechanics are not limited in their scope to any one design.

In lower Michigan, where the same conditions prevail over certain sections, a coterie of men joined capital and purchased an old wrecking crane from one of the railroads, and mounted it upon traction wheels. Moving under its own power, and with the strength to lift a loaded boxcar, it was able to travel the length of a field, clearing the stumps for a distance of fifty or more feet to either side, and furthermore, stacking them in windrows for fences, for transportation to the turpentine mills, or for burning. In a majority of cases they were used for fences. The company cleared land for $10 an acre and made money.

There is no question that the efforts of the Advancement association for betterment of agricultural conditions will, within a few years, convert the stumpy maze of northern Wisconsin into one of the garden spots of the country.

ADVANCE VOTES FOR WOMEN

James Bill, Providing for Vote of People on Equal Suffrage, Is Favored by Senate Committee.

Madison.—Suffrage for women in Wisconsin took a forward step when the women's suffrage bill was reported out of committee with recommendation for passage. The only dissenting member of the committee is Senator Albers. The committee's vote on the suffrage bill by Senator David C. James of Richland Center was 6 to 1, the affirmative votes being cast by Senators Donald, chairman; Gaylord, Hoyt, Martin, Perry and Teasdale. The James bill puts the question of votes for women "up to" the present voters of the state, the intention being to have them register their opinions at the next general election. It is conceded generally that the bill will pass the senate, and it is claimed by Senator James and others that it will have a safe margin in the assembly.

MISS EDNA FEWSON RESIGNS

Purchasing Agent of State University
Gives Up Position—Board of Regents Accepts Resignation.

Madison.—Miss Edna Fewson, purchasing agent of the University of Wisconsin, has resigned her position, and her resignation has been accepted by the executive committee of the regents.

Miss Fewson came particularly into public notice about a year ago when her right to hold the position as purchasing agent was challenged by Madison merchants with whom she had been in controversy over the right of the university to buy its supplies elsewhere than in Madison.

The court upheld Miss Fewson's title to the position, but recently her bill for attorney's fees paid in defending her title was disallowed by Secretary of State Frear.

cusation of Plover Farmer That

She called to a stepson who was in the barn but before he appeared Krueger killed the woman, firing the contents of a double barreled shotgun into her breast.

Krueger was the dead woman's fourth husband. Two of her previous husbands met tragic deaths in Kentucky.

FIVE FIREMEN ARE PLUNGED TO DEATH

CATASTROPHE ATTENDS BLAZE IN BUSINESS DISTRICT OF MILWAUKEE.

GO DOWN WHEN ROOF FALLS

Fifteen Others Who Were Fighting
Flames from Top of Five-Story
Structure Have Miraculous Escape
—All Are Severely Injured.

Milwaukee.—Fire which broke out in the basement of the five-story Friend building, 354 Broadway, occupied by the Middleton Manufacturing company, resulted in the deaths of five firemen and injury to fifteen more, and a loss to the Middleton company of $150,000.

The dead are:
Capt. Jacob Hentz, engine company No. 28.

Richard J. Burke, driver, engine company No. 9.
Lieut. John Houlihan, engine company No. 9.

Fred L. Elchhorn, truckman, engine company No. 14.
Louis Hammond, driver of truck company No. 5, sustained a fracture at the base of his skull and died after an operation.

Nineteen firemen, who had been detailed to chop holes in the roof, were carried down to the basement of the building when the roof caved in. Four were probably instantly killed and only the barest luck saved fifteen from a terrible death, when roof and timbers from the floors fell in such a manner as to shield them from the tons of falling debris. The fifteen firemen were all severely injured.

The members of the two fire companies stationed on the roof could be seen by the thousands of persons gathered in the rear of the building just before the roof fell. While the firemen were unaware of their danger, just before the roof caved in, the crowd realized the peril, but its shouts of warning were changed to cries of horror as the calamity occurred. The struggling firemen could be seen for an instant only, and then they disappeared.

The crash of the walls threw bricks wide upon the firemen working near. Several were injured by these fragments.

Led by Assistant Chief Young the firemen entered the burning ruins, and tore away savagely at what they then realized must be the funeral pyre of their comrades. One after another, they were overcome by the heat and smoke, but as soon as one man was forced to seek fresh air another was there to take his place.

The blaze was discovered in the basement of the building by W. C. Middleton, president of the company. Thirty men and thirty women employees were driven through rear windows to fire escapes and fire escape landings by the smoke, and many of these were taken down on ladders thrown up as soon as the trucks arrived.

The employees were crowded on the platforms and they had scarcely left through the windows before they were completely enveloped in clouds of dense black smoke. Two girls, in their rush to escape, fell from the second story to the ground. Their injuries were not serious.

For a time it appeared that the flames would soon be gotten under control, but the blaze appeared to reach more inflammable material in some part of the building and with a rush, little short of an explosion, began to destroy the large structure with almost indescribable rapidity.

The burned building adjoins the Adolph Landauer & Son wholesale dry goods concern, which suffered a loss of $5,000 a few days previous. Also the electrical supply plant of Julius Andrae & Sons company, which was destroyed in a former location two months ago.

This city has suffered an unprecedented number of disastrous fires within the past ten days, among which are:

J. P. Lindeman, tinware factory; building burned; loss, $70,000.
Hilly Lumber company; yards burned; loss, $150,000; one fireman lost life; property worth $2,000,000 in valley menaced.

Adolph Landauer & Son; three stores suffered loss of $7,500; property worth $50,000 saved by quick action of department.

Minn. Billiard factory; factory destroyed; property loss, $90,000; four lives lost; sixty people forced to jump from burning building.

Greve Show Print company; property loss, $60,000; eighteen families driven from beds in early morning; several narrow escapes.

News Notes of Wisconsin

Madison.—Railroad lunch counters will no longer be able to charge practical prices for pie, if the Teasdale bill, No. 2358, becomes a law. Neither will they be able to "frisk" the traveling public for sandwiches, doughnuts and similar food when the conductor yells "All Aboard!" If they do they will be liable to a fine of from $25 to $100, which is the penalty provided in the Teasdale bill.

Wausau.—After having secured the body of a young man killed by a train here last summer, which he believed to be that of his son, Samuel P. Justus of St. Joseph, Mo., is reported to have received a letter from his son saying that he is alive and well in Memphis, Tenn. The body claimed by Justus was found by the railroad tracks at Mosinee last summer after a circus train had passed through.

Milwaukee.—John F. Dietz of Cameron dam notoriety has closed a contract with the New Star theater, a burlesque house, by the terms of which his daughter Myra and himself will give a description from the stage of the theater of their experiences during Dietz's recent conflict with the authorities. Dietz's motive is said to be to raise funds to defend himself in his own trial.

Washburn.—Claiming that he had discovered the art of welding copper, which has been lost to the world for centuries, Joe Parent, a blacksmith employed at Roy's camp, near Bayfield, says he has been offered $30,000 for his secret process, but will hold out for a larger offer. He is reported to have a number of samples which seemingly show a perfect weld.

Waukesha.—After many years of effort on the part of the local G. A. R. and W. R. C., an order has been placed for a soldiers' monument in Waukesha county. The contract price is $3,600 and the time for completion is Sept. 1, 1911. It is hoped to have dedication ceremonies on the anniversary of the battle of Chickamauga, Sept. 20.

Eau Claire.—That northern Wisconsin has the best facilities for seed growing in the United States is the decision of P. L. A. Ferguson, a seed expert, who has purchased 3,000 acres of land near Stanley for a seed farm, after an investigating trip through the United States and Canada, covering 100,000 miles.

La Crosse.—With eight children dependent upon her for support, Mrs. Henry Haerter, a washerwoman, has begun suit against Henry Wick, an uncle of the children, to secure the custody of two other daughters, aged 5 and 6 years, whom Wick declares were entrusted to him by their father, who died recently.

Neenah.—Although she had been married once, Mrs. John Spaulding, aged 17, was forced to obtain her parents' consent to marry again, this time to Alva Spaulding, aged 34, a cousin of her former husband, who died a year after being married in 1909.

Sheboygan.—Word has been received in this city of the death of former Sheriff David Mantz of Rib Lake. Mr. Mantz for several years was engaged in the hotel business in Plymouth and moved to Rib Lake a few years ago.

DISFIGURED WITH ECZEMA

"Our little boy Gilbert was troubled with eczema when but a few weeks old. His little face was covered with sores even to back of his ears. The poor little fellow suffered very much. The sores began as pimples, his little face was disfigured very much. We hardly knew what he looked like. The face looked like raw meat. We tied little bags of cloth over his hands to prevent him from scratching. He was very restless at night, his little face itched."

"We consulted two doctors at Chicago, where we resided at that time. After trying all the medicine of the two doctors without any result, we read of the Cuticura Remedies, and at once bought the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Following the directions carefully and promptly we saw the result, and after four weeks the dear child's face was as fine and clean as any little baby's face. Every one who saw Gilbert after using the Cuticura Remedies was surprised. He has a head of hair which is a pride for any boy of his age, three years. We can only recommend the Cuticura Remedies to everybody." (Signed) Mrs. H. Albrecht, Box 883, West Point, Neb., Oct. 26, 1910.

A Dramatic Critic.
"And what is your father's business, my little man?" asked Rev. Fourthly, as he made his morning call on the infant class.

"He's a dam-at-it klick-it," said the little chap, whose father wrote dramatic criticism for a newspaper.—Harper's Weekly.

No woman can be happy who has too much time to think of things that are none of her business.

Shillalah Still Useful.

The shillalah, which showed at Louth that it has not entirely lost its old importance as a factor in deciding elections, is no raw limb of a tree. It is almost as much a work of art as a well balanced cricket bat. The old shillalahs were as carefully looked after by their loving owners as is a rifle in the wilds. Cut from the sturdiest of young blackthorns, and showing as little taper as an ebony ruler, it was weighted with lead or iron at the end nearest the grip, so that its center of gravity was about four-fifths of the way from the hitting end. When properly seasoned by being kept in the neighborhood of the farm oven for a few months, it became a thing of supple steel. And the proper pronunciation of the name of this fearsome weapon is the melodious one of "shill-ally," with the accent on the "all."—London Chronicle.

Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organs soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for women's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

The Man—I think you are the worst-looking tramp I have ever seen. The Tramp—It's only in the presence of such uncommon good looks that I look so bad.

Very Vivid.

"In descriptive writing," said William Dean Howells, at a dinner at the Authors' club in New York, "a vivid phrase is always better than a half-dozen paragraphs."

"The vivid phrase is what every writer should seek. A phrase, I mean, something like that of the baby that shouted to its mother:

"Oh, mamma, tum an' see the man a-buttering bricks!"

Dark Days Coming.

"Say, Jim, here's a preacher in New York who says men should sew, cook, wash the dishes and get their own breakfast."

"What's the use of rubbing it in? Guess we all know we'll have to pretty soon."

The KITCHEN CABINET

BEAUTY without virtue is like a flower without fragrance.

Labor conquers everything.

Cocktails.

The cocktail is a very popular beginning to a dinner, the object of which is to stimulate the appetite for the heavier dishes which are to follow. The gustatory nerves are very sensitive, and if abused by too highly-seasoned foods, lose the power to appreciate the more delicate and flower-like flavors which it should be our pleasure to enjoy.

Mint and Lemon Cocktail.—To one quart of strong lemonade, made with four lemons, add one cup of tea infusion, a few sprigs of fresh mint and a sprinkling of red pepper. Sweeten to taste, pour over crushed ice and serve with a lemon curl on top of the glass.

Clam Cocktail.—For every cocktail required, take one teaspoonful of lemon juice, one teaspoonful of vinegar, a quarter of a teaspoonful of walnut sauce, one-half a teaspoonful of mushroom catsup, a pinch of salt, and a dash of tabasco sauce. Pour this mixture over eight little neck clams and serve in a well-chilled glass. This cocktail is favored for luncheon and suppers.

Pineapple Cocktail.—For each glass take a tablespoonful of pine apple and lemon or orange juice and one-half of a tablespoon of grated orange peel. Sweeten to taste. Pour over a little chilled ice in the bottom of the glass and add a little iced water.

Lemon Cocktail in Lemon Cups.—Prepare as many lemons as there are guests to be served by cutting off the round end until they will stand firmly, and then cutting off the pointed end about a quarter of the way down. Empty the lemons and scrape well. Make a strong lemonade, and add an equal quantity of grape juice. Chill and fill the cups with the mixture. Place the lemon cups on a paper dolly on a small plate.

Sauces for Oyster Cocktails.—One teaspoonful each of horseradish and tomato catsup, salt, pepper and tabasco to taste and two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Mix well, chill and serve on oysters.

Catsup, horseradish, walnut and mushroom catsup with lemon juice makes a sauce well liked.

THE child who grows up with no memory of a kitchen in which it was privileged to "play cook" has lost part of the joy of life.

Little Housekeepers.

The mother who will not be bothered with a child "messing around in the kitchen," as she may call it, has only herself to thank when the child, a young woman, refuses to interest herself in cooking and household affairs. It is natural for a little girl to want to make things, and when cooking is being done to want to share in the work. Of course, the cook or mother may not want to be bothered, but when she remembers that a child well started and interested in work will make a difference in her whole life, she surely would not call it bother.

Let them have their own small utensils, use them and keep them in order. They will learn many more valuable lessons besides the knowledge they gain in cookery.

Household Hints.

Keep small cloths for wiping meat and washing fish. These may be burned after using, and thus save the laundering of them. Many careful housewives have these rags hemmed and marked, and so kept for its special purpose, but time is more valuable to most women, and rags are usually plentiful.

To remove mildew, soak the article in a weak solution of chloride of lime for several hours. Rinse in cold water.

When grating a new nutmeg begin at the opposite end from the stalk, as it will prove hollow.

To remove the odor of onion from the breath, eat a banana.

The odor of fish or onion on the hands may be removed by a little hot vinegar.

Dishes may be cleansed with vinegar after using them for fish.

A few drops of onion juice and a garnish of a few pieces of lemon adds to beefsteak.

When roasting spareribs baste them with sweet cider.

The colder eggs are the more quick by they will beat up.

Nellie Maxwell.

Mustard in England.

Mustard is grown in England to a considerable extent in the eastern countries and the Fen district and to some extent in the Midlands. It is ordinarily grown in heavy black soil but it is generally believed that the crop draws a great deal of strength from the soil. For that reason it is not especially popular. The yield an acre is variable, ranging from twenty to thirty bushels, but twenty bushels is usually considered a fair yield. The seed rate is usually about three to four pounds an acre when drilled in rows from ten to twelve inches apart.

It Depends on the Liver.

"Is life worth living?—that depends upon the liver." Yes, and that again depends upon what you eat, and how you eat.

Henry Ward Beecher once said: "A man with a bad liver cannot be a good Christian." Henry made some mistakes, but in this statement he was eminently correct. It is only another version of a phrase frequently used by the editor of the Care of the Body: "As a man eateth so is he."—Los Angeles Times.

Cheerful Anticipation.

"Have you seen my 'Descent Into Hell?'" asked a poet.
"No," said Curran, warmly; "I should be delighted to see it."—From Clark's "Eminent Lawyers."

Doubts.

The Stranger—Are you quite sure that that was a marriage license you gave me last month?
The Official—Of course! What's the matter?
The Stranger—Well, I've lived a dog's life ever since.—Sketch.

Colds and Chills Bring Kidney Ills

February, March and April are the backache months, because they are months of colds, chills, grip and pneumonia, with their congesting, weakening influence on the kidneys. Colds, chills, or grip strain the kidneys and start backache, urinary disorders and uric acid troubles. You feel lame, weak and tired and have headache, dizzy feelings, achy muscles and joints; too frequent, painful urinary passages, sediment, etc. Chills hurt the kidneys. Likewise well kidneys often prevent taking cold, by helping to pass off the waste matters of cold congestion. Doan's Kidney Pills are very useful in the raw winter and spring months. They stop backache and urinary disorders, keep the kidneys well and prevent colds from settling on the kidneys. Strong testimony proves it. What better evidence could you ask?

CONVINCING PROOF FROM GRATEFUL USERS

TERRIBLE CASE OF DROPSY.

Lebanon, Ind., Man Gives Vivid Description of His Suffering.

John T. Anderson, 613 W. Main St., Lebanon, Ind., says: "I was taken suddenly with agonizing pains through my kidneys, followed by a stoppage of the urine. I called in a physician, but he gave me only temporary relief, by drawing the urine with a catheter. I was soon in such agony I could not lie in bed, and for four weeks sat in a chair, propped up by pillows. After about a month, it seemed as if something burst and I passed a regular flood of water, mixed with blood and mucus. After that I had not a particle of control over the secretions. The doctor said he could do no more for me, and every one thought I would die. My friends marvel at my recovery. Nine boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills saved my life and made a permanent cure. I gained 28 pounds and have had no trouble since."

TEN YEARS OF SUFFERING.

Restored at Last to Perfect Health by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Narcissa Waggoner, Cartersville, Ill., R. F. D. No. 2, says: "For over ten years I suffered terribly with backaches, headaches, nervous and dizzy spells. I was restless at night and in the morning arose so tired as to be almost unable to do my household work. The kidney secretions were unnatural and gave me a great deal of trouble. One day I suddenly fell to the floor where I lay for a long time unconscious. Three doctors who treated me diagnosed my case as paralysis and said they could do nothing for me. As a last resort I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and was permanently cured. I am stronger than before in many years and my kidneys are in perfect condition."

County Board Proceedings.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED.

Resolution No. 19.
Resolved, by the Board of Supervisors of Washington County, that Resolution No. 6, passed Nov. 22nd 1910, be and the same is hereby rescinded, for the balance of this annual meeting of this board, and that bills may be allowed which were filed since Nov. 23rd, 1910;
Resolved Further, That such part of the rules governing this board which obliges resolutions etc. to lay over for at least one session, shall not apply to further sessions of this annual meeting of this board.
W. S. Melcher.

Resolution No. 20.—Not adopted.

Whereas the County Farm as now located is one of the best farms in the county; the soil of the same being far superior in natural fertility to the soil at the insane asylum and lands adjacent thereto, the soil at the asylum being light sandy soil.

The farm now owned for the Insane Asylum is not sufficient for both institutions, and it will cost more per acre to buy additional land adjoining the Asylum for the use of the County Poor Farm than the county would receive on a sale of the present County Poor Farm. The barn, silos and outbuildings on the present County Poor Farm are in good condition and if a change were made new buildings would have to be erected in addition to the purchase of acreage. If a change in a location is made it would require a new building for the inmates of the County Poor House which would be as great an expense as to erect a new building at the present location. If a change were made the effects of proximity of the insane to the county poor would be detrimental to the mental faculties of the county poor and would result shortly in a large increase of the insane who would be a complete and total charge on the County and would result in a necessary increase of the attendants, for the same. A removal to the proximity of the city would tend to increase the difficulty of caring for the poor by reason of their wandering away to public places and injury to passing trains. That the proposed plans for the buildings proposed to be erected at an expense of $25,000.00 is largely in excess of any building needed.

Therefore be it resolved that the location of the County Poor Farm be and remain unchanged.
Thomas Hayes.

And Resolved further, that the plans, drawings and specifications for such additions to said Washington County Asylum for the Chronic Insane submitted by said committee with their said report be and the same hereby are adopted and approved by this board.
Frank Weis.

Resolution No. 22.
Resolved, that in case of the death and burial in any of the cemeteries in the county of Washington of any indigent inmate of the County Asylum or of the poor house, the clergyman of the religious denomination to which such indigent inmate belonged, who officiates at the funeral of such indigent inmate, shall receive from the county for such burial services a sum of money not to exceed five dollars.
Henry Lemke.

Resolution No. 23.
Resolved, by the Board of Supervisors of Washington County, Wisconsin:—

That the county erect a suitable home for the poor on the asylum farm in the City of West Bend, together with a central heating, lighting and power plant, to be utilized jointly for the insane asylum and county home; that said home building be erected suitable for the accommodation of from 25 to 40 inmates.
And for the purpose of carrying into effect the above resolution, it is further resolved that the chairman of this board appoint a committee of three from the members of this board whose duty it shall be to procure preliminary sketches, plans and specifications for such home and central lighting plant, together with estimates of the probable cost thereof, and submit the same to this board at any adjourned meeting thereof.
And said committee is hereby authorized and empowered to do all things necessary, proper and expedient in the premises and to bind the county by contract thereof.
That said committee shall enter upon the discharge of its duties forthwith.
Theo. Koenings.

The deceased was born Aug. 12, 1829 at Friedeburg, Brandenburg Germany. After finishing the parochial school he entered the gymnasium at Koenigsburg in 1838, and after the death of his mother, in 1843, his uncle sent him to the Gymnasium of Neu-Ruppen, from which he graduated in the year 1849.
