SCHWULST FOUND GUILTY

William Schwulst of Richfield Charged With Receiving Stolen Goods is Found Guilty

TRIAL VERY INTERESTING

Trial in the Circuit Court at West Bend Lasts Over a Week. A New Trial Asked For

The case of the State of Wisconsin vs. William Schwulst of Richfield, on a charge of receiving stolen goods, which has been on trial in the circuit court at West Bend since last week Wednesday, went to the jury at four o'clock last Thursday afternoon, the jury returning their verdict at nine o'clock last night Schwulst was found guilty.

W. O. Bove of Milwaukee, attorney for Schwulst, immediately moved for a new trial and the hearing will come up at West Bend next week.

A great many witnesses, were called in the progress of the case. The most sensational testimony as mentioned last week was that of "Milwaukee Dutch" who assisted the detectives of the Milwaukee road in securing evidence against Schwulst.

A large number of witnesses, called for the defense, testified as to Schwulst's good character, among them, we are informed, being the chairman of the town of Richfield, Schwulst and his daughters also went on the stand and denied all the charges, stating that the goods found in their house and alleged to have been stolen, had been bought by them from wholesale houses.

The trial has been most interesting, and the court room has been filled every day with spectators, many of them from Richfield, the home of the defendant.

Dist. Atty. H. A. Sawyer of this city, conducted the prosecution. Atty. Bove for the defense, was assisted by Atty. William H. Bennett of Milwaukee.—Hartford Press.

Why Do Away with the Law Supplement?

A bill has recently been introduced in the legislature at Madison, which if passed, would do away with the Law Supplement. It has always been the practice to circulate the laws of Wisconsin, by having the different newspapers send out law supplements with their papers soon after the legislature adjourns. What is the reason for this action? Should the people not know what has been done by the legislature? What is a better way in acquainting the citizens of the state with the state laws than by sending out law supplements with the local newspapers? If the bill will be passed it no doubt will be a saving for the state, but would this abolishment be a benefit to the people. Citizens beware. If you wish to know what has been done at the legislature, urge your representatives to kill this bill. Write to them at once. Do not put off until tomorrow, this is a very important question.

Predicts a Dry Season.

That the year 1911 will be a dry year is the prediction of L. M. Mann, United States engineer in charge of the government work on the Fox and Wolf rivers and lakes. On statistics compiled in his office he maintains that the dry seasons go in cycles of ten. The statistics show that from 1885 to 1895 was a dry period while the succeeding ten years saw heavier rainfall. The years since 1905 have been dry the rainfall steadily diminishing last year being the lowest. It is a notable fact that paper and pulp mill owners in Wisconsin have come to look upon the weather in the same light. They agree that the dry and wet years come in cycles of from eight to ten years and for that reason have fallen in to the use of steam for power instead of relying on the rivers.

Bill for Dry Auctions.

A bill has passed the assembly prohibiting the use of liquor at country auctions. It is claimed that at many auctions drink has been handed out to freely with a result that some of those under the influence of it would bid up on articles far beyond their means and as a result good bids were stopped and the one selling would be loaded with worthless notes. It is said that it was common for the one making the sale to get from $500 to $1,000 of worthless paper. The bill was introduced by Assemblyman Denhardt, himself an auctioneer.

CAUCUS WELL ATTENDED

Peters Wins Over Guth for President by 29 Votes

LARGE TOWN CAUCUS HELD

Opposition for Town Offices Were Plentiful. Hubert Feltenz Declared Nominee for Town Treasurer. Fred Klein Loses Out for Supervisor by a Close Vote

The village caucus held in the village hall last Saturday evening was the largest caucus ever held in this village. Considerable opposition being the cause, which brought out the voters. Val Peters was nominated for president over L. D. Guth by 29 votes, Peters receiving 83 while Guth received only 54. There were 12 trustees in the field, six of which were nominated and who were as follows:—John Klassen, H. W. Krahn, H. W. Ramthun, B. H. Rosenheimer, John W. Schaefer and Steve Wollensak. All of the aforesaid mentioned were easy winners with the exception of Schaefer, who was nominated by only four votes, his opponent being Don Harbeck. For Clerk, Treasurer, Assessor, Supervisor and Constable there was no opposition. L. D. Guth nominee for Justice of the Peace for two years defeated his opponent, W. S. Olwein by over 30 votes.

Chairman Mertes appointed as caucus committee for the ensuing year Edw. C. Miller, John Brunner and Art. Koch.

The caucus in the town of Kewaskum on Saturday afternoon was also well attended as considerable opposition was in the field. A. B. Ramthun and Gerhard Feltenz were declared nominees for Supervisors. Fred Klein, who also made the campaign was a close second. The greatest fight was for treasurer, three candidates being in the field, namely: Hubert Feltenz, Albert Kocher and Wm. Muckerheide. The contest was very close between the three. Hubert Feltenz, however, was the choice of the caucus. Results of the election can be found in another column.

The caucus committee for the town next year will consist of John Oppenorth, Wm. Quandt and Frank Van Epps.

Open Air Schools Increase Rapidly.

Since January 1, 1907, sixty-five Open Air Schools for children afflicted with or predisposed to tuberculosis have been established in twenty-eight cities, according to an announcement made in a bulletin issued by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

The first Open Air School in the United States was established on January 1, 1907 by the Board of Education of Providence, R. I., at the instance of Dr. Ellen A. Stone. The next school was established in May of the same year at Pittsburg, a third one at Boston in July, 1908, and the fourth at Bellevue Hospital in New York in December, 1908. During the year 1909 ten schools in five different cities were opened; in 1910, sixteen schools in twelve cities were opened; and eight schools in five cities have been opened to April 1, 1911, while definite provision has been made for twenty-seven more schools in six cities. Many cities are considering the question and will act during the coming year.

That Mr. Carlin will perform his duties in a most satisfactory manner there is no doubt.

CARLIN ELECTED SUP'T OF SCHOOLS

Geo. T. Carlin of West Bend Wins Over Willis V. Buckley of Hartford by an Overwhelming Majority. Large Vote Polled in the County

Last Tuesday's election resulted in an overwhelming victory for Geo. T. Carlin of West Bend, who was elected superintendent of schools of Washington county, by defeating Willis V. Buckley of Hartford. Carlin carried 14 out of 20 precincts. West Bend and Hartford both polled a large number of votes, more than at any time in the history of both places. Both cities were also very loyal to their home candidate. Every possible means was taken to get out a large vote in these cities.

The vote throughout the whole county was very large in spite of the very disagreeable weather, a good number of women casting their ballot.

The vote in the county for superintendent was as follows:—

Will Build the Extension.

W. A. Comstock, president of the Milwaukee-Northern Electric road, announced Friday, while on a visit to Milwaukee from Detroit, that the company would begin the grading next fall for an extension of the road from Cedarburg to West Bend. This has long been the objective point of the line. "We shall probably do considerable double tracking on the line between Milwaukee and Thiensville this year" said Mr. Comstock. "The extension to West Bend however, will not be ready until some time next year." He said there was no importance to be attached to the recent increase of $1,000,000 in stock of the company, a corresponding amount in bonds having been retired.—West Bend Pilot.

ELECTION VERY INTERESTING

The Election Last Tuesday Was Very Interesting, Both in Village and Town

GUTH WINS OVER OLWEIN

L. D. Guth Defeats W. S. Olwein for Justice of the Peace by 31 Votes. Hubert Feltenz Defeats Albert Kocher for Town Treasurer

The election last Tuesday was one, if not the most interesting election ever held in this village. At this election nearly all votes were cast. Great effort was made in getting all women to vote. Fifty-four of the fairer sex braved the disagreeable weather to go to the polls. Most all were taken there with an automobile. This was the heaviest woman vote ever cast in the village. Thirteen of the women voted for Carlin, while forty-one cast their ballot for Buckley.

Of the male vote 164 were cast, of which Carlin received fifty-five and Buckley ninety-nine.

The only opposition on the village ticket was for Justice of the Peace. W. S. Olwein running stump against L. D. Guth, the latter however won by 31 votes.

The vote in the town was also heavy, 160 being cast. There was opposition for Treasurer and Supervisor, which made the election very interesting. Hubert Feltenz was decided the victor for treasurer over Albert Kocher and Henry Koenen. The vote for said office was: Feltenz 75, Kocher 63, Koenen 18. Gerhard Feltenz defeated Fred Klein for supervisor by 20 votes. Feltenz received 90, while Klein received 70.

The vote for county superintendent was Buckley 92, Carlin 57.

SERIAL STORY

When a Man Marries

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART
Author of The Circular Staircase, The Man in Lower Ten, Etc.

SYNOPSIS.

James Wilson or Jimmy as he is called by his friends. Jimmy was reticent and looked shorter than he really was. His ambition in life was to be taken seriously, but people steadily refused to do so. His art is considered a huge joke, except to himself. If he asked people to dinner everyone expected a frolic. Jimmy marries Bella Knowles; they live together a year and are divorced. Jimmy's friends arrange to celebrate the first anniversary of his divorce. Those who attend the party are Miss Katherine McNair, who every one calls Kit, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Brown, the Misses Mercer, Maxwell Reed and a Mr. Thomas Harbison, a South American civil engineer. The party is in full swing when Jimmy receives a telegram from his Aunt Selma, who will arrive in four hours to visit him and his wife. Jimmy gets his funds from Aunt Selma and after he marries she doubles his allowance. He neglects to tell her of his divorce, as she is opposed to it. Jimmy takes Kit into his confidence, he tries to devise some way so that his aunt will not learn that he has no longer a wife. He suggests that Kit play the hostess for one night, but is finally prevailed upon to act the part. Aunt Selma arrives and the deception works out as planned, as she had never seen Jimmy's wife. Jimmy's Jap servant is taken ill, his face is covered with spots. Bella, Jimmy's divorced wife, enters the house and asks Kit who is being taken away in the ambulance? Bella insists it is Jim. Kit tells her Jim is well and is in the house. Bella tells Kit it wasn't Jim she wanted to see, but Takahiro, the Jap servant, as she wished to secure his services. Harbison steps out on the porch and discovers a man tacking a card on the door. He demands an explanation. The man points to the placard and Harbison sees the word "Smallpox" printed on it. The man tells him he is an officer of the board of health and tells him the house is under quarantine and that the guests will have to remain in the house until after the quarantine is lifted. The guests suddenly realize their predicament, the women shed tears, the men consider it a good joke. Harbison pleads with Kit to tell him the real situation of things. She finally tells him of Bella's incarceration in the basement.

At half-past four o'clock we gave up. "It's gone," I said. "I don't believe you wore it here. No one could have taken it. There wasn't a soul in this part of the house, except the policeman and he's locked in."

At five o'clock we put her to sleep in the den. She was in a fearful temper, and I was glad enough to be able to shut the door on her. Tom Harbison—that was his name—helped me to creep upstairs, and wanted to get me a glass of ale to make me sleep. But I said it would be of no use, as I had to get up and get the breakfast. The last thing he said was that the policeman seemed above the average in intelligence, and perhaps we could train him to do plain cooking and dish-washing.

I did not go to sleep at once. I lay on the chintz-covered divan in Bella's dressing room and stared at the picture of her with the violets underneath. I couldn't see what there was about Bella to inspire such undying devotion, but I had to admit that she had looked handsome that night, and that the Harbison man had certainly been impressed.

At seven o'clock Jimmy Wilson pounded at my door, and I could have choked him joyfully. I dragged myself to the door and opened it, and then I heard excited voices. Everybody seemed to be up but Aunt Selma, and they were all talking at once.

Anne Browne was in the center of the group, waving her hands, while Dallas was trying to hook the back of her gown with one hand and hold a blanket around himself with the other. No one was dressed except Anne, and she had been up for an hour, looking in shoes and under the bed corners of rugs and around the bed clothing for her jeweled collar. When she saw me she began all over again.

"I had it on when I went into my room," she declared, "and I put it on the dressing table when I undressed. I meant to put it under my pillow, but I forgot. And I didn't sleep well; I was awake half the night. Wasn't I, Dal? Then, when the clock downstairs in the hall was chiming five, something roused me, and I sat up in bed. It was still dark, but I pinched Dal and said there was somebody in the room. You remember that, don't you, Dal?"

"I thought you had nightmare," he said sheepishly.

"I lay still for ages, it seemed to me, and then—the door into the hall closed. I heard the catch click. I turned on the light over the bed then, and the room was empty. I thought of my collar, and although it seemed ridiculous, with the house sealed as it is, and all of us friends for years—well, I got up and looked, and it was gone!"

No one spoke for an instant. It was a queer situation, for the collar was gone; Anne's red eyes showed it was true. And there we stood, every one of us a miserable picture of guilt, and tried to look innocent and debonaire and unsuspecting. Finally Jim held up his hand and signified that he wanted to say something.

"It's like this," he said: "Until this thing is cleared up, for heaven's sake, let's try to be sane! If every fellow thinks the other fellow did it, this house will be a nice little hell to live in. And if anybody—here he glared around—"If anybody has got funny and is hiding those jewels, I want to say that he'd better speak up now. Later, it won't be so easy for him. It's a mighty poor joke."

But nobody spoke.

CHAPTER VII.

We Make an Omelet.

It was Betty Mercer who said she was hungry, and got us switched from the delicate subject of which was the thief to the quite as pressing subject of which was to be the cook. Aunt Selma had slept quietly through the whole thing—we learned afterward that she customarily slept on her left side, which was on her good ear. We gathered in the Dallas Browns' room, and Jimmy proposed a plan.

"We can have anything sent in that we want," he suggested speculatively, "and if Dal doesn't make good with the city fathers, you girls can get some clothes anyhow. Then, we can have dinner sent from one of the hotels."

"Why not all the meals?" Max suggested. "I hope you're not going to be small about things, Jimmy."

"It ought to be easy," Jim persisted, ignoring the remark, "for nine reasonably intelligent people to boil eggs and make coffee, which is all we need for breakfast, with some fruit."

"Nine of us!" Dallas said wickedly, looking at Tom Harbison, who was out of earshot. "Why nine of us? I thought Kit here, otherwise known as Bella, was going to show off her housewifely skill."

It ended, however, with Mr. Harbison writing out a lot of slips, cook, scullery maid, chamber maid, parlor maid, furnace man, and butler, and as that left two people over—we didn't count Aunt Selma—he added another furnace man and a trained nurse. Betty Mercer drew the trained nurse slip, and, of course, she was delighted. It seems funny now to look back and think what a dreadful time she really had, for Aunt Selma took the grippe, you know, that very day.

It was late that I should go back to that awful kitchen, for of course my slip said "cook." Mr. Harbison was butler, and Max and Dal got the furnace, although neither of them had ever been nearer to a bucket of coal than the coupons on mining stock. Anne got the bedrooms, and Lelia was parlor maid. It was Jimmy who got the scullery work, but he was quite crushed by this time, and did not protest at all.

"I Hope You're Not Going to Be Small About Things, Jimmy."

Max was in a very bad temper: I suppose he had not had enough sleep—no one had. But he came over while the lottery was going on and stood over me and demanded unpleasantly, in a whisper, that I stop masquerading as another man's wife and generally making a fool of myself—which is the way he put it. And I knew in my heart that he was right, and I hated him for it.

"Why don't you go and tell him—them?" I asked nastily. No one was paying any attention to us. "Tell them that, to be obliging, I have nearly drowned in a sea of lies; tell them that I am not only not married, but that I never intend to marry; tell them that we are a lot of idiots with nothing better to do than to trifle with strangers within our gates, people who build—I mean, people that are worth two to our one! Run and tell them."

He looked at me for a minute, then he turned on his heel and left me. It looked as though Max might be going to be difficult.

While I was improvising an apron out of a towel, and Anne was pinning a sheet into a kimono, so she could take off her dinner gown and still be proper, Dallas harked back to the robbery.

"Anne put the collar on the table there," he said. "There's no mistake about that. I watched her do it, for I remember thinking it was the sole reminder I had that Consolidated Traction ever went above 39."

Max was looking around the room, examining the window locks and whistling between his teeth. He was in disgrace with every one, for by that time it was light enough to see three reporters with cameras across the street waiting for enough sun to snap the house, and everybody knew that it was Max and his idiotic wager that had done it. He had made two or three conciliatory remarks, but no one would speak to him. His antics were so queer, however, that we were all watching him, and when he had felt over the rug with his hands, and raised the edges, and tried to lift out the chair-seats, and had shaken out Dal's shoes (he said people often hid things and then forgot about it), he made a proposition.

"If you will take that infernal furnace from around my neck, I'll undertake either to find the jewels or to show up the thief," he said quietly. And, of course, with all the people in the house under suspicion, every one had to hall the suggestion with joy, and to offer his assistance, and Jimmy had to take Max's share of the furnace. (Yes, I had broken the policeman to them gently. Of course, Anne said at once that he was the thief, but they found him tucked in and sound asleep with his back against the furnace.)

"In the first place," Max said, standing importantly in the middle of the room, "we retired between two and three—nearer three. So the theft occurred between three and five, when Anne woke up. Was your door locked, Dal?"

"No. The door into the hall was, but the door into the dressing room was open this morning."

"From three until five," Max repeated. "Was any one out of his room during that time?"

"I was," said Tom Harbison promptly, from the foot of the bed. "I was prowling all around somewhere about four, searching"—he glanced at me—"for a drink of water. But as I don't know a pearl from a glass bead, I hope you exonerate me."

Everybody laughed and said, "Of course," and "Sure, old man," and changed the subject quickly. While that excitement was on, I got Jim to one side and told him about Bella. His good-natured face was radiant at first.

"I suppose she did come to see Takahiro, eh, Kit?" he asked delicately. "She didn't say anything about me?"

"Nothing good. She said the house was in a disgraceful condition," I said heartlessly. "And her diamond bracelet was stolen while she took a nap on the kitchen table"—he groaned—"and—oh, Jim, you are such a goose. If I could only manage my own affairs the way I could my friends! She's too sure of you, Jimmy. She knows you adore her, and—how brutal could you be, Jim?"

"Fair," he said. "I may have undiscovered depths of brutality that I have never had occasion to use. However, I might try. Why?"

"Listen, Jim," I urged. "It was always Bella who did things here: She managed the house, she tyrannized over her friends, and she bullied you. Yes, she did. Now she's here, without your invitation, and she has to stay. It's your turn to bully, to dictate terms, to be coldly civil or politely rude. Make her furious at you. If she is jealous, so much the better."

"How far would you sacrifice yourself on the altar of friendship?" he asked.

"You may pay me all the attention you like, in public," I replied, and after we shook hands we went together to Bella.

There was an ominous pause when we went into the den. Bella was sitting by the register, with her furs on, and after one glance over her shoulder at us, she looked away again without speaking.

"Bella," Jim said appealingly. And then I pinched his arm, and he drew himself up and looked properly outraged.

"Bella," he said, coldly this time, "I can't imagine why you have put yourself in this ridiculous position, but since you have—"

"Put myself in this position!" She was frantic. "It's a plot, a wretched trick of yours, this quarantine, to keep me here."

Jim gasped, but I gave him a warning glance, and he swallowed hard.

"On the contrary," he said, with maddening quiet, "I would be the last person in the world to wish to perpetuate an indiscretion of yours. For it was hardly discreet, was it, to visit a bachelor establishment alone at ten o'clock at night? As far as my plotting to keep you here is concerned, I assure you that nothing could be further from my mind. Our paths were to be two parallel lines that never touch." He looked at me for approval, and Bella was choking.

"You are worse than I ever thought you," she stormed. "I thought you were only a—a fool. Now I know you—for a brute!"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Handicapped.

"Now, what's the matter?" asked mamma.

"Why, boo-hoo, it's Tommy," he shrieked, plaintively. "He's making faces at me."

"Well," exclaimed mamma, "didn't I tell you not to play with Tommy?"

"W-w-well," he sobbed, "I ain't playin' with him. He's over in his yard makin' faces at me."

"Oh, well," said his mamma, "can't you make faces at him?"

"W-w-well, boo-hoo, I did," wailed Willie, "but he's so much homelier 'an me that he skins me every time."

A Real One.

"Is this a problem play?" asked the one-night stand critic of the manager.

"It is," replied that worthy.

"And what," asked the critic, "is the special problem presented?"

"How to get money enough into the box office for railroad fares to our next date," said the manager, with pointed brevity.

It will whiten the teeth, prevent and remove tartar, destroy all germs of decay and save your dentist's bills.

M'GOVERN REPLYS TO EX-GOV. HOARD

STATE EXECUTIVE IN ANSWER TO STATEMENTS CONCERNING UNIVERSITY REGENTS.

DECLARES CHARGES UNTRUE

Governor Asserts All Appointments Were Made from Standpoint of Fitness and Without Reference to Factional Politics.

Madison.—Gov. McGovern has issued a denial of ex-Gov. Hoard's charge that he is "reconstructing the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin upon a basis and for the main purpose of political partisanship for the La Follette faction in politics."

Mr. Hoard resigned as a member of the board of regents a few days ago, giving as a reason that Gov. McGovern was making over the university into a La Follette political machine.

"This accusation against me is false in every particular," Gov. McGovern said. "The fact is the precise reverse of the charge he makes. Every appointment to the board of regents of the university made by me was made without reference to factional politics, and solely and exclusively from the standpoint of the welfare of that institution. I trust this denial of his charge is categorical enough even to suit Mr. Hoard."

Gov. McGovern says Mr. Hoard concedes the regents appointed by him were well qualified, by education, experience and character, for membership on the board.

"But," says Gov. McGovern, "Mr. Hoard maintains that my motives in making these appointments transform what would otherwise have been excellent selections into flagrantly bad ones."

Referring to Mr. Hoard's statement that Gov. McGovern showed a factional spirit by failing to compliment his predecessor, Gov. Davidson, in his inaugural address, Gov. McGovern cites similar addresses by Mr. Hoard and other former governors as a justification for doing as he did.

DEATH CALLS OTTO RINGLING

Body of Noted Showman Is Brought to Baraboo, the Home of His Boyhood, for Burial.

Baraboo.—The body of Otto Ringling, second in age of the famous five Ringling brothers, present day rulers of the circus world, who died at the home of his brother, John, in New York City of uremic poisoning, has been brought here for burial. He was 52 years old. When, thirty years ago, the five boys left their home in Baraboo, Al. Ringling was the "silver cornet virtuoso;" Charlie was the "one-man band;" John was a song-and-dance specialist; Al was a juggler, and Otto was advance man, ticket taker, cashier and general business head.

He remained the latter during all the subsequent years, when the concert company became a circus, a "wagon show," when in 1889 it discarded wagons for rails; when from a one ring, unpretentious, five-cage "menageries hippodrome" it blossomed into a two, then a three, then by process of division, a six and nine-ring circus.

INCREASED BANK DEPOSITS

Flourishing Condition of Wisconsin's Financial Institutions Is Shown in State Commissioner's Report.

Madison.—According to a report issued by State Bank Commissioner A. E. Kuolt, the state banks and trust companies showed great prosperity at the close of business March 7.

There were on that date, 525 state and savings banks, an increase of seven over the number on Jan. 7, the date of the last report. Their total resources and liabilities March 7 were $167,943,506.72, an increase of $4,444,906.11 over the amount given Jan. 7.

The total deposits on Jan. 7 were $140,971,500.51, an increase over the deposits on Jan. 7 of $3,365,430.28. This is considered the real proof of the banks' prosperity.

Dairy Product Totals $18,000,000.

Madison.—The state food and dairy inspector announces that the dairy product of Wisconsin for 1910, totals $78,000,000. The report showed 1,928 cheese factories, 1,005 creameries, eighty-eight skimming stations and nineteen condensaries.

Convert Brewery Into Grist Mill.

Neenah.—The Fourth ward brewery in West Neenah is to be converted into one of the largest grist mills in eastern Wisconsin.

HOARD RESIGNS AS REGENT

Political Partisanship in University Management Given as Reason for Withdrawal by Ex-Governor.

Madison.—Ex-Gov. W. D. Hoard has sent to Gov. McGovern his resignation as a member of the board of regents of the state university. Before going south early in the winter Mr. Hoard resigned as president of the board. A little later Regent Magnus Swenson, who succeeded him as president, resigned from the board, and it was said at the time that Gov. Hoard would soon do likewise. It has been well understood here that both men were not in sympathy with what looked to them as a policy to conduct the university on political lines. That this view was true is borne out by the letter of resignation of Gov. Hoard, which is as follows: "Fl. Atkinson, Wis., March 29, 1911.—Hon. Francis E. McGovern, Governor, Madison, Wis. Sir: I hereby tender my resignation from the board of university regents to take effect at once. Failing health and an unwillingness to longer remain as a member of a body that has lately been reconstructed upon the basis and for the main purpose of political partisanship for the La Follette faction in politics are my chief reasons for resigning.

"I do not believe that a great state school like our university can be wisely, honestly or efficiently administered from so narrow a standpoint. Respectfully yours, W. D. HOARD."

Both Gov. McGovern and President Van Hise of the board of regents have given out statements denying with great emphasis that there is any political partisanship in the board, as charged by Ex-Gov. Hoard.

TWO RIVERS HAS BAD FIRE

Two Warehouses Destroyed With a Loss of $25,000 and Flames Threaten Large Area.

Two Rivers.—Fire caused a loss of $25,000 or more to the J. F. Conant company of Two Rivers, successors to the Two Rivers Woodware company, the fire starting from sparks from a locomotive. The sparks caught in the grass and spread to the warehouses of the company, two of which were destroyed. The warehouses were filled with manufactured goods, pails, etc., which are a total loss.

The fire threatened to spread and residences for two or three blocks were vacated on account of the intense heat.

A marsh extending for several blocks caught fire and a high wind which prevailed fanned the flames and threatened to spread the fire over a wide area.

Upholds Civil Service.

Madison.—The senate committee on state affairs recommends that the Owen bills on civil service be indefinitely postponed. One of these bills abolished the present state civil service commission and created one of five members to serve without pay and the other allowed state employees not under civil service and those in the exempt class to solicit funds for political purposes.

Utility Bills Become Laws.

Madison.—Gov. McGovern has signed two public utility bills, the first validating valuations placed on public utilities by the state railroad commission not made within the six months required by law, and the second extending the time in which the commission may take valuations of public utilities from six months to one year.

REFORM BILL IS INTRODUCED

Administrative Measure Seeks Uniform Accounting and Business in Local and State Departments.

Madison.—The administrative bill for a supervision of the accounts of all cities, towns and villages, together with certain departments of state government has been introduced in the assembly.

The bill creates a state board of public affairs, consisting of the governor, the president of the university, the secretary of state, the chairman of the finance committees of the assembly and senate, and three persons to be appointed by the governor with the senate's approval.

The board is given jurisdiction with a view of establishing a uniform accounting system. The cost of living, immigration problem and tax and labor commissions are to be included in the work of the board. It is to take over duties now imposed on the governor and attorney general, of investigating as to the money in the vaults of the state treasurer and in depositories.

This bill is one that was favored by Gov. McGovern in his message.

PREDICTS 1911 WILL BE DRY

U. S. Engineer Mann of Neenah Asserts That the Years of Drouth Run in Cycles of Ten.

Neenah.—That the year 1911 will be a dry year, is the prediction of L. M. Mann, United States engineer in charge of the government work on the Fox and Wolf rivers and lakes. He bases his forecasts on statistics compiled and on records in his office. He maintains the dry years go in cycles of ten years. From 1885 to 1895 there was a period of ten dry years. From 1895 to 1905, the years were wet. The next six years have been dry and Mr. Mann states the years will continue dry until 1915. In this connection, paper manufacturers bear out Mr. Mann. They maintain the dry and wet years alternate in cycles of from eight to ten years, and for that reason are falling back on the use of steam instead of water power.

PURE FOOD SHOW ON MAY 1

Model General Store Will Be Original Feature of Exhibition at Milwaukee—Many Entries Received.

Milwaukee.—With nearly five weeks remaining before the opening of the Pure Food show in this city on May 1, a sufficient number of entries have been received to insure an exhibition as large as that of last year.

The list of entries includes not only manufacturers of food products, but those who make the latest and most scientific apparatus for the preparation of food in the kitchen.

A new feature in food shows is a contemplated model "general store," the department store of the country cross roads and the small town. It is planned to run one of these stores as it should be run that merchants from the small towns and country may learn how better to display and arrange their goods.

HORSE IS HOLDING HIS OWN

Statistics Show an Increase in Number and Value in Wisconsin During the Last Four Years.

Madison.—That the horse is holding his own in spite of automobiles is evident from the reports given out by the department of horse breeding at the University of Wisconsin, which show that the total number of horses in Wisconsin increased 73,068 head in the last four years, and values for the same increased $26,331,852. In 1906, the average value was $91.65; in 1910, $121. The total value of horses and mules in Wisconsin in 1910 was given as $81,524,000.

Farm School for Racine.

Racine.—The county board of supervisors has adopted a resolution appropriating $30,000 for the establishment of a school of agriculture in Racine county. News Notes of Wisconsin

Fond du Lac.—All slot machines that do not return cash are not gambling devices, according to the verdict of a jury in the case against a local saloon keeper. This decision brings the war inaugurated by the Rev. A. H. Zechiel to a sudden close. Several saloon keepers have pleaded guilty to the same charge and paid fines.

Mantowoc.—The profit of the Manitowoc Water company for the last few years is so much in excess of 7 per cent, the rate given by the commission in a decision as a fair return on public utilities, that it covers the business value of the plant, is the unique claim made by attorneys for the city in the condemnation suit before the state railroad commission.

Grand Rapids.—The body of Thomas Shadkowski was found floating in the river. The body was badly disfigured. The deceased had been missing from home over a year and it was thought that he had left for the west. No one suspected that he had met with an accident. Mrs. Shadkowski, his mother, was buried a few days ago.

Kenosha.—It is announced that John B. Maloney, postmaster for the last five years, has resigned his position and Attorney Robert Verne Baker, former district attorney, named to succeed him. The retiring postmaster is to have a leading part in the organization of a new fraternal association at Sheboygan.

Madison.—The monuments to be erected by the state bar association over the graves of Judge E. G. Ryan, in Forest Home cemetery at Milwaukee, and Judge Luther S. Dixon, in Forest Hill cemetery at Madison, will be shipped from Vermont soon.

IS EPILEPSY CONQUERED?

New York Physicians Have Many Cures to Their Credit.

New York, April 4.—Advices from every direction fully confirm previous reports that the remarkable treatment for epilepsy being administered by the consulting physicians of the Dr. Waterman Institute is achieving wonderful results. Old and stubborn cases have been greatly benefited and many patients claim to have been entirely cured.

Persons suffering from epilepsy should write at once to Dr. Waterman Institute, 122 East 25th st., Branch 63, New York, for a supply of the remedy, which is being distributed gratuitously.

Eggsacking.

Dr. J. S. Slack, the English food expert, said in a recent lecture in Duluth:

"The secret of health is two meals a day with an occasional fast. But people won't avail themselves of this superb secret. It is too unpleasant—like the fresh egg."

"A gentleman, after cutting the top off a soft-boiled egg, summoned the waiter and said:

"Waiter, take this egg back to the kitchen, wring its neck, and grill it for me."

Much Easier to Handle.

Scribbler—Ah, like yourself, he adores poetry?

Mabel—Oh, no. But you see poet's can't fight. The last lover of mine he tried to throw out was a football player!

Generous Advice.

"If the Japanese want to fight us," said the nervous man, "why don't they begin?"

"Perhaps," replied the calm and collected person, "they are waiting for more tips from our military experts on how to proceed."

CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Made Safe by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Grantville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—MRS. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.F.D., Grantville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing woman's ills such as inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life.

44 Bu. to the Acre

Is a heavy yield, but that's what John Kennedy of Ontario, Alberta, Western Canada, got from 40 acres of Spring Wheat in 1910. Reports from other districts in the province since showed other excellent results—such as 44 bushels of wheat from 120 acres, or 35 1/2 bushels per acre. 25,000 and best yields were numerous. As high as 120 bushels of oats to the acre were obtained from Alberta fields in 1910.

AID TO MARRIED HAPPINESS

Southerner Evolves the Panama Cocktail Which Makes Man Thoughtful of Wife.

Russell Hopkins, a southerner, who lives in the St. Regis, is responsible for the Panama cocktail. He and Charles Luther Burnham were talking over Hopkins' latest concoction, which had been placed in the little book kept by the bartender.

"You take half a pony of brandy, half a pony of curacao, a third of dry gin and French or Italian vermouth, and there you are—there's your drink before dinner," said Hopkins.

"Yes," interposed Burnham, "it's a cocktail, all right. One of your friends came in here the other day with more than $300 in his wallet. He was initiated into the mysteries of the Panama cocktail. He seemed all right when he left, but he was found the following day in a ferry house hugging a set of furs he had bought for his wife. From what could be gleaned from him he had, on a passably warm day, thought his wife ought to have new furs, and with that idea, he went to a store and spent all the cash in his pocketbook for a set."—New York Press.

His Interest.

"You are going to interest yourself in this reform enterprise?"

"Certainly," replied Senator Sorghum.

"But I thought it was unfavorable to your friends."

"It is. And I'm going to interest myself in it far enough to let me offer suggestions that will render it impractical."

Unfortunate Allusion.

COFFEE HEART
Very Plain in Some People.

A great many people go on suffering from annoying ailments for a long time before they can get their own consent to give up the indulgence from which their trouble arises.

A gentleman in Brooklyn describes his experience, as follows:

"I became satisfied some months ago that I owed the palpitation of the heart from which I suffered almost daily, to the use of coffee. (I had been a coffee drinker for 30 years) but I found it very hard to give up the beverage.

"One day I ran across a very sensible and straightforward presentation of the claims of Postum, and was so impressed thereby that I concluded to give it a trial.

"My experience with it was unsatisfactory till I learned how it ought to be prepared—by thorough boiling for not less than 15 or 20 minutes. After I learned that lesson there was no trouble.

"Postum proved to be a most palatable and satisfactory hot beverage, and I have used it ever since.

"The effect on my health has been most salutary. The heart palpitation from which I used to suffer so much, particularly after breakfast, has disappeared and I never have a return of it except when I dine or lunch away from home and drink the old kind of coffee because Postum is not served. I find that Postum cheers and invigorates while it produces no harmful stimulation." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Ten days' trial proves an eye opener to many.

ANNUNCIATION

Easter
One of the Oldest of Festivals

EASTER, celebrated all over the world by the Christian churches as the anniversary of the resurrection of Christ, is one of the oldest festival days known. Of its origin little can be learned, but the name is said to have been derived from that of the goddess of the heathen Saxons, called Ostra, Osterr, or Eastre. She was the goddess of the east, the revival of the new day and fresh activity, particularly of the coming of the spring and the revival of nature.

As the Christian Easter signifies a new birth into life everlasting, the analogy between the revival of the natural life in the spring after the long winter of bright and the resurrection of the Savior is quite evident.

The month of April was dedicated by the Saxons to this goddess and the name, Oster Monat, is still used by the Germans to denote it. The Latin races of the south of Europe and the Russians have derived the word Easter from the Aramaic word "pasah" (pass over) and Easter is called by the Spanish "pascua," while the Italians speak of it as "pasque," the French calling it "pasques" and the Russians "paskah."

One of the first policies of the early Christian church was the practice of turning as many as possible of the pagan festivals into holy days and giving them a religious significance.

Easter, the spring festival of the pagans, the resurrecting of the natural life, was therefore seized eagerly upon and made a day of rejoicing signifying the resurrection of Christ and the hope of new spiritual life.

In the first days of the religious observance of Easter the people went to the church clothed in special dress and the priests recited humorous poems and told funny stories. This odd observance was so abused by the people, however, and so much license was taken that a few years later the day was changed into one of silent rejoicing.

It was not until A. D. 340 that the first real Easter hymn was written. St. Ambrose was the author of this and it was typical of the spring and the resurrection and filled with the faith of the new life to come.

As Easter typifies new birth it is also easy to trace the old pagan idea that the egg was the beginning of life and understand how it came to be accepted in the Christian mind as the symbol of the life eternal. This idea goes back to the ancient Egyptian

Jans, who worshiped the beetle because that insect was thought to have the power of burying itself and rising again. When its eggs were discovered the symbolism was transferred to them.

The first colored eggs were a vivid red, typifying the blood of Christ, and as early as 1589 these eggs were the treasured exchanges among all classes. In the expense book of Edward the First of England there is a record of Easter eggs, one item calling for 450 eggs stained with gold.

The Druids held the egg as a symbol of the sun and believed that it hatched from itself the earth and other planets. Their priests and officers proclaimed their official position by wearing an egg encased in gold and suspended around the neck by a chain. The Syrians believed that the gods from whom they descended were mysteriously hatched from eggs, and the Chinese go even farther and believe that the world was formed from an egg. From the yolk there stepped forth a human being called Poon-koo-wong, who waved his hand, and the upper half of his late covering, the egg shell, became the heavens, the lower half turning over to form the earth.

The Easter bunny is said to have been the bird which at one time drew the chariot of the Goddess of Spring and was turned into a hare. Every year however, at the coming of spring the hare remembers, and in commemoration of its original bird nature lays eggs as an offering to Spring and Youth it symbolizes. This may be the reason that on Easter eve German families place a nest full of sugar eggs and real eggs somewhere in the garden that the children may hunt for them on Easter morning.

Another connection between Easter and the hare is the latter's relation to the moon. Easter is really a lunar holiday and in ancient times the hare was a symbol for the moon.

Numerous superstitions and legends are connected with Easter day, the oldest and most widespread of which is that which makes the sun participate in the general rejoicing by dancing in the sky. This superstition is traced back to the days of ancient paganism when the people engaged in fantastic dances at the festival of Osterr.

In Scotland, that land of superstition, it is said that the sun turns around in the sky three times on Easter morning like a wheel and then gives three great leaps through space, and so general is the belief that many people still get up early on Easter morning to see this phenomenon. Many country people still believe in that ancient superstition that to see a lamb when first looking out of the window on Easter morning will bring great good luck, especially if its head be turned toward the house. It is also so lucky to meet a lamb on Easter day, as that is one form that the devil cannot take.

However, aside from the eggs, Easter is about the only stated occasion that is not made the excuse for a tremendous dinner.

However, money often keeps lent all the year around.

SPINSTER LOSES HER TEETH

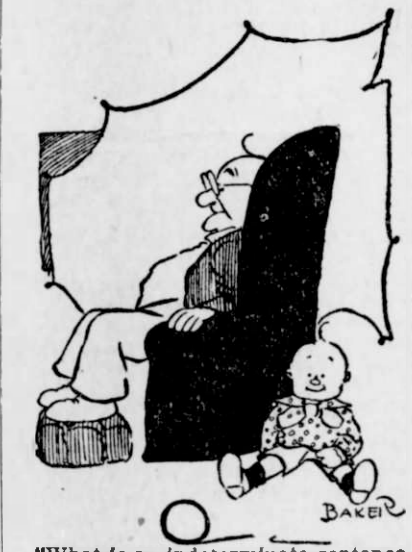

Go Astray in Mails and Lady Puts It Up to the Postmaster General.

A Jersey spinster intrusted her false teeth to the mails, and they went astray. Postmaster General Hitchcock received the following appeal from her:

"Dear Sir—I suppose you have received a note from the Camden postmaster that the upper plates of my teeth have been lost in the mails. They were mailed at Camden on January 1. I should like very much to hear from you. If you are unfortunate enough to have store teeth, you know how inconvenient it is to have to do without them, and I have not had them even a year. I paid $35 for them, and I cannot afford to get any more just now. So will you kindly do what you can for me, and as quickly as possible?"

"P. S.—They were very good teeth." The postmaster general put one of the best inspectors in the service on the job to find the missing ivories.

SCALES ALL OVER HER BODY

"About three years ago I was affected by white scales on my knees and elbows. I consulted a doctor who treated me for ringworm. I saw no change and consulted a specialist and he claimed I had psoriasis. I continued treatments under him for about six months until I saw scales breaking out all over my body save my face. My scalp was affected, and my hair began to fall. I then changed doctors to no avail. I went to two hospitals and each wanted to make a study of the case and seemed unable to cure it or assure me of a cure. I tried several patent medicines and was finally advised by a friend who has used Cuticura on her children since their birth, to purchase the Cuticura Remedies. I purchased a cake of Soap, the Ointment and the Resolvent. After the first application the itching was allayed.

"I am still using the Soap and Ointment and now feel that none other is good enough for my skin. The psoriasis has disappeared and I everywhere feel better. My hands were so disfigured before using the Cuticura Remedies that I had to wear gloves all the time. Now my body and hands are looking fine." Cardinal Gibbons, the highest authority of the Roman Catholic church in America, has expressed his approval of Tuberculosis day, which is to be observed by the churches of the United States on or about April 30, and of the general organized anti-tuberculosis campaign, according to a report of an interview made public by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

The interview was granted by his eminence to H. Wirt Steele, executive secretary of the Maryland Association for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis, and Dr. Charles O'Donovan, one of the leading physicians of Baltimore. The cardinal expressed his entire sympathy with the plan of the Tuberculosis day movement and endorsed the program both of the Maryland association and of the national association.

Anton Thielmann, County Clerk.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE.

To the Honorable, the County Board of Supervisors of Washington County, Wis.

Gentlemen: Your special committee to whom was referred the matter of getting information regarding the advisability of building a County Home on the asylum farm in the city of West Bend, and for that purpose to visit other counties in the state where Asylums for the Chronic Insane and the County Home for the poor are located in close proximity to each other and run under one management, would respectfully report:

That in compliance with your instructions your committee visited the following counties, viz: Jefferson, Racine, Rock, Walworth and Waukesha. At all of these places we received the most courteous treatment and were furnished with all the information the Superintendents and others whom we interviewed were in position to give. The Racine institution was visited for the reason that no additional traveling expense was incurred by so doing, but since it maintains separate farms for the County Institutions the information gathered there is not available for our purpose.

The institutions in all the above named counties are close together and run under one management, that is to say, by one board of trustees and one general superintendent. The superintendent has his office and resides in the asylum, and the farm hand with his family live in the County Home, he being designated as overseer.

The Superintendent has charge of both county institutions and has the general supervision over the farm. The Overseer has charge of the farm work, live stock and all the teaming that is required. In short he is the hired man, and his wife has charge of the household of the County Home. The usual salary paid to the Overseer and his wife is $45.00 per month during the winter and $50.00 per month during the summer months.

We cite this incidentally as it is one of the items on which the county saves alone from four to five hundred dollars annually on salaries.

As a rule the Asylum and County Home are built from 200 to 300 feet apart. The heating, electric light and power plant is situated outside of, and at a point between the two buildings, so that heat and light can be conveyed to both buildings as required, at a minimum cost of labor and fuel. At all of these institutions they are equipped also with elevated tanks for water pressure, thus providing for fire protection and water service for both institutions.

The farms connected with these institutions, range in size from 300 to 400 acres of land, and these are worked for the inmates under the direction of the Overseer. As a rule the inmates of the County Home can not be relied on for labor on the farm; very few, if any being so employed.

We find that farms of reasonable size say from 250 to 300 acres can be worked to advantage as all asylums are supplied with a number of patients whose physical conditions is such as to render them good workers under proper direction. Farms of that size pay well under these conditions as shown by the low per capita cost of maintenance which ranges all the way from $2.25 to $2.51 per week.

We find also that none of the institutions are located more than three (3) miles from a Railroad station. This is considered an advantage for the reason that the cost of teaming and transportation is not so large as when the distance is greater. All whom we interviewed in regard to the matter of location freely admit that it is a great advantage to have the institutions located as close as convenient to railroad stations.

The data gathered at the different places visited is such as to convince your committee of the fact that greater economy results from combining the management of the Asylum and County Home under one head and having the buildings reasonably close together for the following reasons:

First.—Only one board of trustees is required.

Second.—One Superintendent instead of two.

Third.—One heating, lighting and water system including power is required instead of two.

To be more explicit we would state that since the farm hand at the asylum can reside at the County Home the cost of the Keeper amounting to about $1,000.00 would fall away. The trustees of the insane asylum in exercising general supervision over both institutions will have but comparatively little more work than they have now. The same is the case with the superintendent of the asylum. The amount of extra work imposed upon him will not be great so that on items one and two the saving amount to at least $1,000.00 annually.

By building and maintaining a single heating, lighting and power plant instead of two, the saving at the least calculation, counting original cost, labor and fuel and repairs amounts to more than $1,000.00 annually.

Taking into consideration also the fact that under combined management the work on the farm is done mostly by the patients of the asylum the saving is increased still more. Combined management therefore is by far the most economical in all respects.

We realize that the present County Farm consists of about 197 acres of excellent farm land, at the same time we are convinced that where all the farm labor has to be hired at current wages the best farm does not pay nearly as well as where labor is abundant.

Aside from this the farm is situated too far away from any railroad station. The cost of teaming from the market, the transportation of material for building is too great. Furthermore the County Home is now located in a thinly settled farming community; it can be reached only after a considerable drive and is therefore not as much under the public eye as a public institution of this kind should be.

After a careful consideration of the facts above stated, and after consulting a number of prominent citizens and tax payers of Washington County, your committee is of the opinion that the County's interests would be best subserved by providing for the building of a suitable County Home on the Asylum Farm in the city of West Bend. Your committee would therefore recommend:

1st.—That immediate provision be made for building a substantial and suitable County Home on the Asylum farm in the city of West Bend together with a central heating lighting and power plant which is to be utilized jointly for the asylum and the county home.

2nd.—That the present County Farm be disposed of as soon as the new County Home is ready for occupancy.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Thos. Koening,
