Bonano

IS SIMPLY INCOMPARABLE

Do not compare BONANO with coffee, tea or chocolate, because it is incomparably better. Why should you prefer other drinks to BONANO, the clean, sanitary drink?

You know how clean, and good the pulp or meat of a banana is when peeled,—no dust, no dirt, no worms. This pulp is dried, granulated and roasted. No drugs, no flavoring, except the delicious flavor imparted to it by nature in the process of roasting.

BONANO is not picked like the coffee berry and handled by countless hands and contaminated with dust and dirt; it is not picked and rolled by hand as are the tea leaves of China and Japan.

It is just the clean, pure, wholesome meat of the best of fruits, peeled, dried, granulated and roasted in a sanitary manner by machinery. It is as good as it is pure.

Try BONANO and enjoy its tempting aroma, its fruity, fragrant flavor.

It strengthens and nourishes while it refreshes.

Packed only in dust-proof cans and sold for 25 cents, you get seventy-five cups of the cleanest, best and most economical drink, simply incomparable.

These golden words of truth are quoted from a booklet booming a town that believes in itself and is going forward with rapid strides because its people work together for the common good. Its population increased nearly 100 per cent during the past ten years, while another town similarly situated, only twenty-five miles away, has increased only about 1 per cent in thirty years. Why the difference? The other town is cut up into cliques and factions. Some sets won't trade or neighbor with other sets. The result is that thousands of dollars every month are sent out of that town for mail order purchases, whereas in the town first mentioned, where the people stick together, it has been estimated that the home merchants get about 98 per cent of the trade.

"We are mutually dependent, every one of us," remember that, and "become a soldier of the common good." Patronize home industries. Trade at home. Don't be selfish and a libel.

Best Kind of Potatoes for Wisconsin Growers

"As regards the varieties of potatoes now grown, the mixture of type due to the dissemination of local varieties has resulted detrimentally to the seed trade and commercial table stock," says Mr. J. G. Milward of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin. "The varieties raised commercially in Wisconsin include the Rural New Yorker, Burbank, Peerless, Late, Carman No. 3, and Sir Walter Raleigh. The standard early varieties embrace the Early Ohio, Rose and Triumph. Among the late varieties the shipments of the long white Burbank are often mixed with imitative types as the Late Pride and White Star.

"In the case of the early varieties the Early Rose especially is badly mixed with pink or rose colored varieties such as the Houlton Rose, King, etc.

"The large commission houses of the middle west agree that it is the substitution of these varieties for the standard types that is the most injurious factor in lowering the quality of the commercial stock shipped from Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan.

"There is apparently no reason to believe otherwise than that Wisconsin stock, if properly assorted and graded, can average as high in quality and appearance as shipments from the important potato centers of Maine and New York."

TELEPHONE SUPPLANT-ING THE TELEGRAPH

An Improvement in Train Dispatching Methods That Means Greater Economy and Safety.

TELEPHONE DISPATCHING IS SIMPLE

Dispatcher Calls Any Station and Rings the Bell as Long as He Pleases with a Single Motion

Dispatching trains is without doubt one of the most important of the many problems of railroading. Not only the regulation of traffic, but the safety of many thousands of lives is dependent upon the man who handles the train sheet. The minimizing of danger and the smooth handling of a large number of trains over a single division are made possible by this vigilant watcher, who must work hard and think quickly while the messages pour in and out of his little office.

Transmitting these messages and orders over the wires in the most efficient and economical way is a problem today before every busy railroad. Ever since the day when a man ran ahead of a train with a flag, the telegraph has been linked with train dispatching. It has always been the accepted thing for the prospective railroad man first to become a telegraph operator.

But in the past few years all this has been changed. Railroad managers have turned to the telephone for this work because of its economy, safety and convenience. A verbal message, it is evident, is of greater value than one translated into dots and dashes.

The first installation of up-to-date telephonic apparatus for railway train dispatching was in 1907. Not only since then but also previous to that date, when the equipment had not reached its present state of perfection, not a single accident has been reported resulting from the use of the telephone.

So to-day telephone dispatching methods are in vogue among many of the most important railroads, which means new standards of controlling the movements of trains. It has resulted also in the development of new types of apparatus designed especially for this important task.

The apparatus employed for telephone train dispatching is simple and substantial. In practically all cases a heavy copper line, consisting of two copper wires weighing 210 pounds per mile, is installed, and upon this are connected as many way stations as desired. At each station is a device known as a selector, which permits the dispatcher to call that station and ring bell as long as he pleases with a single motion and without calling any other station on the line. He also is given a signal when the bells ring, so that he is at all times informed whether any station is out of order.

The scheme permits of the installation of siding telephones at water tanks, drawbridges, sidings, shops, round-houses and other such places along the line, so that train crews and others can get direct communication with the dispatcher at all these points. In addition, portable telephone sets are coming into extensive use not only on wreckers but on regular freight and passenger trains as well.

The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad has installed telephone and selector equipment over practically its entire system. A number of roads are now using telephone equipment over more than one thousand miles of track, including the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, Pennsylvania lines of Pittsburg, the New York Central, the "Big Four", the Illinois Central, Canadian Pacific, Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul system and the Louisville and Nashville. It is estimated by the Western Electric Company, which has supplied over 90 per cent of the railroad telephones now in use in the United States that more than 37,000 miles of track have been equipped with the new-fashioned method of controlling movements.

The spread of its use among the railroads is another of the wonders of the telephone.

MOVING DAY WARNING

Bulletin Telling How to Disinfect Houses Which May Contain Tuberculosis Germs is Sent Out by State Association

The possible dangers of moving into a house, the former tenants of which are unknown and a cheap and efficient means of disinfection are contained in a bulletin issued by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association.

A bulletin issued annually by the association upon the known danger of the undisinfected house and the habit of the American people to move on May 1.

Investigations conducted in various cities of the state have shown that many cases of tuberculosis are due to families moving into an undisinfected house, the former occupant of which was a consumptive. It is in an attempt to prevent this that the warning is issued and a method of disinfection is given.

The formaldehyde disinfection is employed by the New York City health department. In preparing the house, all outside cracks in windows, doors, walls or floor should be closed with cotton or strips of cloth. It also should be remembered that, after the gas has been generated, it is necessary to leave the house as soon as possible. It is possible after disinfection, to rush in and open doors and windows. It is recommended that the disinfection should last over night, or from six to ten hours.

Formaldehyde is a gas put on the market in the form of a solution in water. The gas is regenerated by pouring the solution on crystals of potassium permanganate.

For this purpose a metal pail is placed in the center of each room on newspapers or a piece of asbestos. In the pail, after it has been warmed, is placed one-half pound of potassium permanganate crystals for each 1,000 cubic feet of air space to be disinfected. Not more than one pound of crystals should be placed in one pail.

Formaldehyde is then poured over the crystals in the proportion of one pint to one-half pound of crystals. The reaction takes place immediately, and the gas will be driven off in great clouds.

So soon as the chemicals have been put together, one should go to the exit. If, after the room has been aired after disinfection, the odor of formaldehyde persists, it can be neutralized by hanging sheets or towels in the rooms and sprinkling them with ammonia water.

The cost of materials for disinfecting is slight. A drug store charges 20 cents per quart for the formaldehyde solution and 35 cts. per pound for the potassium permanganate crystals. Thus, the total cost for a house of 10,000 cubic feet would be only $2.75.

Take the Home Paper.

No paper can be published without home patronage and every man is interested in keeping up a home paper. If a railroad or factory is wanted, the newspaper is expected to work for it. If a public meeting is wanted for any purpose, the newspaper is called upon for a free notice. If any of the societies have a reception or supper of any kind the newspaper is expected to give the necessary notice. The newspaper must puff the schools and everything else to advance the interests of the business men of the place, and then give them a handsome notice when they pass away. And yet some of them do nothing to keep a home paper. Look over your home paper and notice those that are advertising, thereby helping to support it and also getting value received by the business through this advertising medium, then suppose this paper should go to the graveyard, what would you do then to keep your town before the public eye and also take that little flyer in advertising that you are liable to want to take at some one time when business gets slack? Your home paper covers a radius of a number of miles and if you want to bring business to your town and keep it coming day after day you should advertise in your home paper every issue. Your newspaper with a good advertising patronage is sure to stay and every day gain new subscribers to its list.

What Trees to Plant.

"The trees used in planting have much to do with the future success of the orchards," states Prof. Moore. "Thousands of inferior trees are being planted each year. The true standard upon which to purchase is the age. The two-year-old tree is usually best for commercial planting although one-year-olds are quite generally used. In ordering nursery stock deal direct with the nurseryman rather than through agents, unless you know them personally. State the kind of trees wanted, refuse substitutes and be willing to pay a good price for the right kind of trees. Take good care of trees upon arrival, to assure healthy growth when they are planted.

"The best time to plant a new orchard in Wisconsin is the early spring, as fall planting results in winter killing in many instances. Plant as early in the spring as the soil and weather will permit, carefully pruning the roots and top closely when the tree is set. Do not fertilize newly set trees as excessive fertilization prevents the development of an extensive root system. Prune the top closely so as to form the head of the tree and develop the branches.

"The best varieties for Wisconsin which have been found to be hardy and productive for commercial purposes include, Wealthy, Duchess, McMahon, Fameuse, Northwestern Greening, McIntosh, Longfield, Dudley, Tolman Sweet and Yellow Transparent, of which the first five are most popular."

Bad Habits.

The worst habit that boys can fall into is that of loafing around on the streets at night. It is then they cast their lot in slippery places when at any moment they are likely to fall from grace. All good and noble lessons taught them by their mothers are there counteracted and nullified. They learn nothing that is good but everything bad. The boys who spend their evenings in the sacred precincts of home, with good books for their companions are the future hope of this republic; they will fill our legislative and congressional halls and sit in judgment upon men and measures, while the boys who run the streets will fill our penitentiaries, almshouses and lunatic asylums. Parents who are responsible for these broken laws of decency will have broken hearts and bowed down heads in the awakening years that will inevitably follow.

Grafting Not of Modern Origin.

"Grafting" is not of modern origin. It is as old as the history of human government. We read of what a hard time the old Egyptian and Persian kings had in keeping their satraps on the square, and Greek and Roman history abounds in references to the stealing of the big officials. Official corruption in the Roman empire was much worse than it is anywhere among men today. Bad as things are today, they are an improvement upon what they were in the olden time.

Do Not Get Discouraged.

Do not be discouraged too soon. A woman took a woman's magazine, and she studied it faithfully for ten long dreary years, and found no advice in it which would comply to the commonplace needs of one in her humble station. But she kept on, wading patiently through suggestions for wearing diamonds and the proper gown to wear automobiling, and how to get moth out of ermine, and was at last rewarded: She read in a late number that coal oil and lemon juice will cure a bunion. She had no bunion, but she may have some day, and a bunion is a great deal nearer to her than the automobile, the diamonds or the ermine cloak.

"Apple trees should be sprayed immediately to kill the eggs and the hatching young of the apple aphid," says Prof. J. G. Sanders, head of the entomology department and in charge of the nursery inspection work of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin. "The eggs of the aphid are very abundant this spring and are tiny oval formations of black color. The aphid preys especially upon young foliage of the apple, pear and mountain ash trees and is of the family of sap-sucking insects."

SHELLS SEAR JUAREZ

VICTIMS FILL THE STREETS

Historic Post Office and Other Buildings Burn, Adding to Horror of Scenes of Carnage as Insurrectos Charge Through Streets.

El Paso, Tex.—What was perhaps the fiercest battle of the Mexican revolution was fought at Juarez, Mexico, but without definite result. It is estimated that from 30 to 60 rebels and federalists were killed and about 100 wounded in the skirmishes.

Incendiaries had added to the horrors of war. Fire was started in the post office and had soon destroyed all mail and the official records. It then spread to other buildings and caused heavy property loss.

The post office is one of the most historic buildings in Mexico, having been the capitol of Benito Juarez when he was rallying his troops to drive Maximilian out of Mexico.

A demand for the surrender of Juarez was sent to General Navarro by leading insurrecto officials. The message was delivered by the insurrectos to Judge Francisco Carbajal, federal peace commissioner. He sent it to Navarro by request.

The demand was signed by Gonzales Garza, provisional secretary of state, and declared that the insurrectos practically had possession of the town and asked Navarro if he wished to surrender. The message was carried by Gerald Brandon, a Mexico City newspaper correspondent. Navarro refused to comply.

Bullets from across the river still endanger the lives of El Pasoans. Vincente Pesedes was shot dead in his home in the southern part of the city, increasing to four the death list in this city since the battle began. Ten others were wounded.

About the middle of the afternoon the insurrectos, who until that hour appeared to have the upper hand in the fight, began a retreat toward the river under heavy fire from the federalists in the vicinity of the Plaza, on which the post office faces.

The federalists poured shrapnel with their one remaining gun as the rebels fell back. Two shells struck in El Paso, one in the Santa Fe stock yards and the other in rear of the El Paso laundry. While the apparent retreat of the rebels was in progress the post office was fired.

The wounded on both sides, who have been lying in the sun where they fell without food, water or medical attention, are to be brought to this city. A number of Americans started the movement, first asking Col. E. Z. Steever, commanding the United States troops, for permission. He agreed on the conditions that Tomas Torres, Mexican consul in El Paso, agree also. Torres made no objection and a message was dispatched to General Navarro asking him to have the federalists cease firing while the wounded were removed.

The battle has had the sanction of Francisco I. Madero, the rebel chief, who authorized the attack during the night.

The insurrectos used their homemade guns on Juarez with considerable success. While the federalists used their big guns with splendid effect, they did not have the success expected. Many of their guns were silenced by the attacking rebels.

All day the battle raged, the insurrectos swarming through the streets of Juarez and meeting the heavy fire of the federalists with an equally vigorous volley of musketry.

The rebels claim the town, and while it is true that they actually control more territory than do the federalists, the position of the government forces is so well fortified that it is well-nigh impregnable.

The strength of the federal position is largely due to the fact that the rebels are scattered. If the rebels were lined up in battle formation they probably could storm the federal strongholds.

The rebels have forced the fighting in the face of the deadly fire of the federal machine guns.

They dared not gather in too great number for an attack on the federalists because the artillerymen of General Navarro many times demonstrated the accuracy of their range when they shelled adobe houses behind which insurrectos had sought protection, a half mile from Juarez.

General Navarro is said to have mined most of the houses in Juarez, and when he gets word of an insurrecto gathering it is believed he will be able to inflict a terrible slaughter.

Tijuana, Lower California.—Three companies of rebels, 250 men, are camped in the buildings of Tijuana. The town was taken by assault, the battle lasting four hours. Estimates of the dead and wounded place the number at seventy-five.

TELLER ADMITS THEFT

BANK OFFICIAL OF CLEVELAND ARRESTED AND CONFESSES.

Julius Hopkins Is Sent to Jail Charged With a Shortage of $115,000.

Cleveland, O., May 9.—Julius W. Hopkins, paying teller of the First National bank, who was arrested, is said to have confessed to peculations amounting to $115,000 during the last eight years.

A warrant issued by United States District Attorney Day specifically charged him with the theft of $60,000.

According to the bank officials Hopkins confessed to them three days ago. Hopkins, according to this alleged confession, had been taking small amounts for eight years and by juggling his entry accounts he succeeded in evading disclosure. He was in charge of the correspondence and, according to the officials, his accounts would show a certain amount of money in transit, whereas the actual amount was below his figures. He handled a million dollars almost constantly. Most of the embezzled money, bank officials say, was invested in a manufacturing concern of which Hopkins was the head.

When arraigned before United States Commissioner Waiter, Hopkins waived a preliminary hearing and was bound over to await action of the grand jury. Bond was fixed at $60,000 and was taken to jail. It is asserted that he claimed to have lost the money in unsuccessful business deals.

Charles E. Farnsworth, cashier of the First National bank, made the following statement:

"One of our trusted employes, Julius W. Hopkins, is a defaulter in the sum of $114,850, which amount he has abstracted from express packages containing currency sent us by the national banking department at Washington.

"The bank is fully protected by a blanket guaranty policy, issued by London Lloyds, so that the loss will not fall upon the bank."

FREE LIST BILL IS PASSED

House by Vote of 236 to 109 Adopts Farmers' Bill—Now Goes to Senate.

Washington.—By the overwhelming vote of 236 to 109 the farmers' free list bill passed the house amid Democratic applause.

There were 24 Republicans voting for the bill on final passage, made up of the progressives from the middle west.

It is believed the decisive victory the bill got in the house will go far towards securing for it consideration in the senate, although it may not pass that body.

ASKS CONGRESS TO IMPEACH

Two Governors and Judge Are Attacked in Petition in Connection With McNamara Case.

Washington.—Impeachment of Governor Johnson of California, Governor Marshall of Indiana and Judge Collins of Indianapolis is demanded by citizens and trade union leaders of Duluth, Minn., as a result of the arrest and extradition of J. J. McNamara, secretary of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. Representative Miller of Minnesota filed the petition in the house. It protests against "this high-handed outrage," and "flagrant violation of constitutional rights."

The protest was referred to the committee on judiciary.

JAIL FOR TRUST OFFICERS

Senator Kenyon Proposes Amendment to Sherman Law—After Patent Owners, Too.

Washington.—Three changes in the Sherman anti-trust law were proposed in a bill introduced by Senator Kenyon of Iowa, who has just vacated the office of "trust buster" in the department of justice.

His bill would make jail sentences compulsory for individual violators of the law, and would provide that a patent shall be forfeited where the patentee joins with others to restrain trade.

The third change would make illegal the purchase or ownership of stock in a competing corporation engaged in interstate commerce.

SPIKES ON THE FENCE

PROBE IS ILLEGAL

COURT DECLARES LORIMER INQUIRY BY LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE IS VOID.

ORDERS RELEASE OF TILDEN

Habeas Corpus Writs Issued in Contempt Proceedings Are Sustained and Bankers Will Not Have to Appear Before State Senate.

Chicago.—Declaring the entire inquiry being conducted by the Helm committee into the election of Senator Lorimer to be without warrant of law, Judge A. J. Pettit sustained the writs of habeas corpus issued to prevent Edward Tilden, William C. Cummings and George M. Benedict from being taken before the bar of the state senate at Springfield to answer contempt proceedings.

He ordered the immediate release of the relators and assessed the costs of the hearing against the senate, every contention of the attorneys for the senate being denied.

One concession was made, however—the right of appeal made possible by the entry of judgment for costs against the respondents.

If the case is reviewed by some appellate tribunal, it will be appealed in the name of E. H. Hatfield, assistant sergeant-at-arms of the senate, who served the warrants on the packer and his associates more than a week ago.

Taking immediate advantage of this entry, John J. Healy, counsel for the Helm committee, prayed for appeal and was allowed ten days in which to file a bill of exceptions.

The motion was granted and bond of $250 was required of the appellant. It is conceded by those most closely connected with the investigation of the Lorimer scandal that this decision of Judge Pettit practically means the end of the Helm committee's activities, although another meeting of the committee will be held in Springfield.

Whether the investigation will proceed, it is stated, will depend largely upon the nature of the testimony brought out by the witnesses who have been subpoenaed to answer before the committee.

BOMB SUSPECTS ARE HELD

McNamara Brothers Are Arraigned on 19 New Indictments Charging Them With Murder.

Los Angeles, Cal.—J. J. McNamara, the Indianapolis union official, and his brother, J. B. McNamara, were arraigned on 19 new indictments charging them with murder in connection with the Los Angeles Times disaster October 1 last.

William Caplan, M. A. Schmidt, John Doe, Jane Doe, Richard Doe and John Stiles were also named in the indictments. The name of Ortie McManigal was not mentioned.

The courtroom was jammed with people, all but two of them men, and most of them obviously laboring men, when the brothers were led in by Sheriff W. A. Hammel and attended by a dozen officers. There was no demonstration.

No plea was entered, Attorney Rapaport, counsel for the defendants, having asked for and secured a postponement of the case until June 1.

Iowa Marshal and Bandit Slain—Another Robber Badly Wounded.

Paton, Ia.—Two men were killed in a battle between a posse and two safeblowers near here in a schoolhouse. One of those killed was Marshal Busby. The other was a robber. The other bandit was probably fatally wounded.

The robbers broke into the post office at Paton, blew open the safe and took several hundred dollars in stamps and money.

Queens Good Friends Again.

London.—The unpleasantness which arose after King Edward's death between Queen Alexandra and Queen Mary has been smoothed over.

HOLDS PLAN IS WRONG

ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION INCORPORATION HELD IMICAL TO THE COUNTRY.

Attorney General Advises President of Danger to Public in Project—Power Too Great.

Washington.—Attorney General Wickersham, in an opinion given to the president, has condemned the Rockefeller foundation as unwise and inimical to the interests of the United States, inasmuch as it is calculated to perpetuate the huge fortune which John D. Rockefeller has amassed.

As a result, it is believed the bill creating the foundation will be vetoed if it is sent to the president for signature.

Mr. Wickersham holds that the inevitable result of such an incorporation would be not only to keep intact the millions of John D. Rockefeller for his descendants, but to continually increase this wealth in the hands of a few, regardless of what philanthropic motives might have inspired the plan.

Further objection is made to the creation of a corporation with powers so broad that its directors might take any action they chose in furtherance of what they might consider the promotion of human progress, subject only to congress' right to repeal the charter.

Senator Gallinger introduced the bill, and two weeks later had it reported favorably from committee. Of the incorporators and first board of directors, two were Mr. Rockefeller and his son, and two others his personal representatives, thus giving the Rockefeller interests control as long as they desired to hold it.

No restrictions were placed on their procedure, except that the charter might be annulled and that they should each year report to a cabinet officer what work the corporation had done.

Hence, the power granted, Mr. Wickersham believes, is entirely too great to be placed in the hands of any set of individuals. His stand in the matter doubtless will set a precedent which will work to prevent the perpetuation of individual fortunes in the future by corporate means.

FAVOR NEW INAUGURAL DATE

Majority of Congress Approved Last Thursday in April—Change Certain of Ratification.

Washington.—A change of the date of the inauguration of the president is assured of ratification of the Sixty-second congress, and it is not improbable that similar action will be taken to change the date of holding the national elections.

This assurance has been given by a two-thirds majority of both houses of congress to Representative Henry of Texas, chairman of the house committee on rules, who introduced recently a joint resolution providing for the submission of this proposal to the legislatures of the states.

The proposed amendment of the Constitution of the United States changes the date of the inauguration from March 4, usually an inclement day in Washington, to the last Thursday of April.

The date of holding national elections would be changed from the first Tuesday in November to the first Tuesday in April preceding the expiration of the terms of the president and members of congress.

HEALTHY KIDNEYS ESSENTIAL TO PERFECT HEALTH.

When healthy, the kidneys remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily from the blood; when unhealthy, impure matter is absorbed causing diseases and symptoms. To attain perfect health keep your filters right. You can use no better remedy than Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. O. W. Erwin, 308 Third St., Little Falls, Minn., says: "My whole body became bloated and swollen and at night I had to gasp for breath. Kidney secretions were in terrible condition and to bend my back was agony. Life was one constant round of suffering and I really thought death would be a relief. I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and today am a well, happy woman."

Breaking a Hobo's Heart.

Manager Gus Hartz was standing near the opera house box office when one of two panhandlers who had entered the lobby approached him, and, holding out an addressed and sealed envelope, begged for the price of a postage stamp.

"It's for me mudder, boss," he sneveled. "Youse wouldn't turn down er guy fer de price er de stamp, would youse?"

"Never," said the manager, deftly grasping the envelope and throwing it through the box office window. "Here, Fred," addressing himself to Treasurer Fred Coan, "stamp this and have it mailed."

The velocity of the proceeding fairly took the panhandler's breath away. Then, backing away to where his partner awaited him, he whispered, "Nothin' doin', bo—the guy's wise."—Cleveland Leader.

The Most Beautiful Thing.

A newspaper recently invited its readers to state in a few words what they considered the most beautiful thing in the world. The first prize was awarded to the sender of the answer: "The eyes of my mother." "The dream of that which we know to be impossible" suggested an imaginative person, and this brought him second prize. But the most amusing thing was that which read, "The most beautiful thing in the world is to see a man carrying his mother-in-law across a dangerous river without making any attempt to drop her in."

Now What Did She Mean?

At a recent wedding a baby had shrieked without intermission to the great annoyance of the guests, etc. As the bridal party was leaving the church a slight delay occurred. One of the guests seized the opportunity to say to the first bridesmaid:

"What a nuisance babies are at a wedding!"

"Yes, indeed!" answered the bridesmaid, angrily. "When I send out invitations to my wedding I shall have printed in the corner, 'No babies expected.'"—Judge.

FOOD IN SERMONS

Feed the Dominie Right and the Sermons Are Brilliant.

A conscientious, hard-working and successful clergyman writes: "I am glad to bear testimony to the pleasure and increased measure of efficiency and health that have come to me from adopting Grape-Nuts food as one of my articles of diet."

"For several years I was much distressed during the early part of each day by indigestion. My breakfast seemed to turn sour and failed to digest. After dinner the headache and other symptoms following the breakfast would wear away, only to return, however, next morning."

"Having heard of Grape-Nuts food, I finally concluded to give it a trial. I made my breakfasts of Grape-Nuts with cream, toast and Postum. The result was surprising in improved health and total absence of the distress that had, for so long a time, followed the morning meal."

"My digestion became once more satisfactory, the headaches ceased, and the old feeling of energy returned. Since that time I have always had Grape-Nuts food on my breakfast table."

"I was delighted to find also, that whereas before I began to use Grape-Nuts food I was quite nervous and became easily wearied in the work of preparing sermons and in study, a marked improvement in this respect resulted from the change in my diet."

"I am convinced that Grape-Nuts food produced this result and helped me to a sturdy condition of mental and physical strength."

"I have known of several persons who were formerly troubled as I was, and who have been helped as I have been, by the use of Grape-Nuts food, on my recommendation." Name given by Postum Company, Battle Creek, Mich.

When a Man Marries

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

SYNOPSIS.

James Wilson or Jimmy as he is called by his friends. Jimmy was round and looked shorter than he really was. His ambition in life was to be taken seriously, but people steadily refused to do so, his art is considered a huge joke, except to himself. If he asked people to dinner everyone expected a frolic. Jimmy marries Bella Knowles; they live together a year and are divorced. Jimmy's friends arrange to celebrate the first anniversary of his divorce. The party is in full swing when Jimmy receives a telegram from his Aunt Selma, who will arrive in four hours to visit him and his wife. He neglects to tell her of his divorce. Jimmy takes Kit into his confidence, he tries to devise some way so that his aunt will not learn that he has no longer a wife. He suggests that Kit play the hostess for one night, be Mrs. Wilson pro tem. Aunt Selma arrives and the deception works out as planned. Jim's Jan servant is taken ill. Bella, Jimmy's divorced wife, enters the house and asks Kit who is being taken away in the ambulance. Bella insists it is Jim. Kit tells her Jim is well and is in the house. Harbison steps out on the porch and discovers a man tacking a card on the door. He demands an explanation. The man points to the placard and Harbison sees the word "Smallpox" printed on it. He tells him the guests cannot leave the house until the quarantine is lifted. The guests suddenly realize their predicament; the women shed tears, the men consider it a good joke. The all important question arises as to who is to prepare the meals and perform the other household duties. Harbison finally solves the matter. After the lifting of the quarantine several letters are found in the mail box undelivered, one is addressed to Henry Llewellyn, Ioulique, Chile, which was written by Harbison. He describes minutely of their incarceration, also of his infatuation for Mrs. Wilson. Aunt Selma is taken ill with grippe. Betty acts as nurse. Harbison finds Kit sulking on the roof. She tells him that Jim has been treating her outrageously. Harbison fully believes that she is Mrs. Wilson, tells her that she doesn't mean the things she is saying about her husband. Kit starts downstairs, when suddenly she is grasped in the arms of a man who kisses her several times. She believes that Harbison did it and is humiliated.

"Betty is making no end of a row," Max said, looking up from his game, "because the old lady upstairs insists on chloroform. In fact, Betty says the smell makes her ill."

"And she can inhale Russian cigarettes," Anne said enviously, "and gasoline fumes, without turning a hair. I call a revoke, Dal: You trumped spades on the second round."

Dal flung over three tricks with very bad grace, and Anne counted them with maddening deliberation.

"Game and rubber," she said. "Watch Dal, Max; he will cheat in the score if he can. Kit, don't have another clam while I am in this house. I have eaten so many lately my waist rises and falls with the tide."

"You have a stunning color, Kit," Lollie said. "You are really quite superb. Who made that gown?"

"Where have you been hiding, du kline?" Max whispered, under cover of showing us the evening paper, with a photograph of the house and a cross at the cellar window where we had tried to escape. "If one day in the house with you, Kit, put me in this condition, what will a month do?"

From beyond the curtain of a sort of alcove, lighted with a red-shaded lamp, came a hum of conversation, Bella's cool, even tones and a heavy masculine voice. They were laughing; I could feel my chin go up. He was not even hiding his shame.

"Max," I asked, while the others clamored for him and the game, "has any one been up through the house since dinner? Any of the men?"

He looked at me curiously. "Only Harbison," he replied promptly. "Jim has been eating his heart out in the den ever since dinner; Dal played the 'Sonata Appassionata' backward on the piano—he wanted to put through one of Anne's lingerie waists, on a wager that it would play a tune; I played craps with Lollie, and Flannigan has been washing dishes. Why?"

Well, that was conclusive, anyhow. I had had a faint hope that it might have been a joke, although it had borne all the evidences of sincerity, certainly. But it was past doubting now; he had lain in wait for me at the landing, and had kissed me, when he thought I was Jimmy's wife. Oh, I must have been very light, very contemptible, if that was what he thought of me!

I went into the library and got a book, but it was impossible to read, with Jimmy lying on the couch giving vent to something between a sigh and a groan every few minutes. About 11 the cards stopped, and Bella said she would read poems. She began with Mr. Harbison, because she declared he had a wonderful hand, full of possibilities; she said he should have been a great inventor or a playwright, and that his attitude to women was one of homage, respect, almost reverence. He had the courage to look at me, and if a glance could have killed he would have withered away. When Jimmy proffered his hand, she looked at it felly. Of course, she could not refuse, with Mr. Harbison looking on. "Rather negative," she said coldly. "The lines are obscured by cushions of flesh; no heart line at all, mentally small, self-indulgence and irritability very marked."

Jim held his palm up to the light and stared at it. "Gad!" he said. "Hardly safe for me to go around without gloves, is it?"

It was all well enough for Jim to laugh, but he was horribly hurt. He stood around for a few minutes, talking to Anne, but as soon as he could he slid away and went to bed. He looked very badly the next morning, as though he had not slept, and his clothes quite hung on him. He was actually thinner. But that is ahead of the story.

Max came to me while the others were sitting around drinking nightcaps and asked me in a low tone if he could see me in the den: He wanted to ask me something. Dal overheard. "Ask her here," he said. "We all know what it is, Max. Go ahead and we'll coach you."

"Will you coach me?" I asked, for Mr. Harbison was listening.

"The woman does not need it," Dal retorted. And then, because Max looked angry enough really to propose to me right there, I got up hastily and went into the den. Max followed, and closing the door, stood with his back against it.

"Contrary to the general belief, Kit," he began, "I did not intend to ask you to marry me."

I breathed easier. He took a couple of steps toward me and stood with his arms folded, looking down at me.

"I'm not at all sure, in fact, that I shall ever propose to you," he went on unpleasantly.

"You have already done it twice. You are not going to take those back, are you, Max?" I asked, looking up at him.

But Max was not to be cajoled. He came close and stood with his hand on the back of my chair. "What happened on the roof tonight?" he demanded hoarsely.

"I do not think it would interest you," I retorted, coloring in spite of myself.

"Not interest me! I am shut in this blasted house; I have to see the only woman I ever loved—really loved," he supplemented, as he caught my eye, "pretend she is another man's wife. Then I sit back and watch her using every art—all her beauty—to make still another man love her, a man who thinks she is a married woman. If Harbison were worth the trouble, I would tell him the whole story, Aunt Selma be obliterated!"

I sat up suddenly. "If Harbison were worth the trouble!" I repeated. What did he mean? Had he seen—

"I mean just this," Max said slowly. "There is only one unaccerted member of this household: Only one person, save Flannigan, who was locked in the furnace room, one person who was awake and around the house when Anne's jewels went, only one person in the house, also, who would have any motive for the theft."

"Motive?" I asked dully. "Poverty," Max threw at me. "Oh, I mean comparative poverty, of course. Who is this fellow, anyhow? Dal knew him at school, traveled with him through India. On the strength of that he brings him here, quarters him with decent people, and wonders when they are systematically robbed!"

"You are unjust!" I said, rising and facing him. "I do not like Mr. Harbison—I hate him, if you want to know. But as to his being a thief, I think it quite as likely that you took the necklace."

Max threw his cigarette into the fire angrily.

"So that is how it is!" he mocked. "If either of us is the thief, it is I! You do hate him, don't you?"

I left him there, flushed with irritation, and joined the others. Just as I entered the room, Betty burst through the hall door like a cyclone, and collapsed into a chair. "She's a mean, cantankerous old woman!" she declared, feeling for her handkerchief. "You can take care of your own Aunt Selma, Jim Wilson. I will never go near her again."

"What did you do? Poison her?" Dallas asked with interest.

"G—got camphor in her eyes," sniffed Betty. "You never—heard such a noise. I wouldn't be a trained nurse for anything in the world. She—she called me a hussy!"

"You're not going to give her up, are you, Betty?" Jim asked imploringly. But Betty was, and said so plainly.

"Anyhow, she won't have me back,"

she finished, "and she has sent for—guess!"

"Have mercy!" Dal cried, dropping to his knees. "Oh, fair ministering angel, she has not sent for me!"

"No," Betty said maliciously. "She wants Bella—she's crazy about her."

CHAPTER XI.

I Make a Discovery

Really, I have left Aunt Selma rather out of it, but she was important as a cause, not as a result; at least at first. She came out strong later. I believe she was a very nice old woman, with strong likes and prejudices, which she was perfectly willing to pay for. At least, I only presume she had likes; I know she had prejudices.

Nobody ever understood why Bella consented to take Betty's place with Aunt Selma. As for me, I was too much engrossed with my own affairs to pay the invalid much attention. Once or twice during the day I had stopped in to see her, and had been received frigidly and with marked disapproval. I was in disgrace, of course, after the scene in the dining room the night before. I had stood like a naughty child, just inside the door, and replied meekly when she said the pillows were overstuffed, and why didn't I have the linen slips rinsed in starch water? She laid the blame of her illness on me, as I have said before, and she made Jim read to her in the afternoon from a book she carried with her. "Coals of Fire on the Domestic Hearth," marking places for me to read.

She sent for me that night, just as I had taken off my gown; so I threw on a dressing gown and went in. To my horror, Jim was already there. At a gesture from Aunt Selma, he closed the door into the hall and tiptoed back beside the bed, where he sat staring at the figures on the silk comfort.

Aunt Selma's first words were: "Where's that fiberty-gibbet?" Jim looked at me.

"She must mean Betty," I explained.

"She has gone to bed, I think."

"Don't—let—her—in—this—room—again," she said, with awful emphasis. "She is an infamous creature."

"Oh, come now, Aunt Selma," Jim broke in; "she's foolish, perhaps, but she's a nice little thing." Aunt Selma's face was a curious study. Then she raised herself on her elbow, and taking a flat chamoliskin bag from under her pillow, held it out.

"My cameo breastpin," she said solemnly; "my cuffbuttons with gold rims and storks painted on china in the middle; my watch, that has put me to bed and got me up for forty years, and my money—$510.40!—taken with the doors locked under my nose." Which was ambiguous, but forcible.

"But, good gracious, Miss Car—Aunt Selma!" I exclaimed, "you don't think Betty Mercer took those things?"

"No," she said grimly; "I think I probably got up in my sleep and lighted the fire with them, or sent 'em out for a walk." Then she stuffed the bag away and sat up resolutely in bed.

"Have you made up?" she demanded, looking from one to the other of us. "Bella, don't tell me you still persist in that nonsense."

"What nonsense?" I asked, getting ready to run.

"That you do not love him!"

"Him?"

"James," she snapped irritably. "Do you suppose I mean the policeman?"

I looked over at Jimmy. She had got me by the hand, and Jimmy was making frantic gestures to tell her the whole thing and be done with it. But I had gone too far. The mill of the gods had crushed me already, and I didn't propose to be drawn out hideously mangled and held up as an example for the next two or three weeks, although it was clear enough that Aunt Selma disapproved of me thoroughly, and would have been glad enough to find that no tie save the board of health held us together. And then Bella came in, and you wouldn't have known her. She had put on a straight white woolen wrapper, and she had her hair in two long braids down her back. She looked like a nice wide-eyed little girl in her teens, and she had some lobster salad and a glass of port on a tray. When she saw the situation she put the things down and had the nastiness to stay and listen.

"I'm not blind," Aunt Selma said, with one eye on the tray. "You two silly children adore each other; I saw some things last night."

Bella took a step forward; then she stopped and shrugged her shoulders. Jim was purple.

Alone.

"What we must do," thundered the politician, walking thumped down the street beside his bored acquaintance, "what we Englishmen must do is to put our foot down firmly on these foreign imports." And to show that he could practise as well as preach, at that moment he put his foot down on the skin of an imported banana; and his friend walked on alone.—London Globe.

Hardly Complimentary.

A widow not 100 miles from Bishop Auckland had been in the habit of giving any old boots she had to spare to a customer for his wife. Not having had any for some time, he called and asked the widow if she had any boots, adding: "Ye see, my missus has such great, lang, ugly, splatbering feet, that Aw canna get a pair to fit her only yours, an' she can wear them comfortable."—Exchange.

325,000 IN ONE YEAR

THE IMMIGRATION TO CANADA SURPASSES ALL RECORD.

The returns recently issued by the Canadian Immigration Branch show that upwards of 325,000 persons arrived in Canada during the past twelve months, declaring their intention of becoming settlers in that country. Of this number about 130,000 were from the United States, the balance being from the British Isles and Northern Europe. It will thus be seen that the sturdy farming element that has gone forward from the United States is being splendidly supplemented by an equally sturdy settlement from across the seas. The lure of Canadian wheat, oats, barley and flax grown on the rich prairie of Western Canada is constantly attracting more and more, and year by year the tide of immigrants to the Western Canada plains increases; there is no ebb to this tide. The Canadian authorities are not surprised at the number from the United States being as large as it is but they did not look for so large an immigration from the old countries. Still, they will not be found unprepared. Reception halls are in readiness at all important points in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, surveys are at work during the past season opening up new districts on which to place those seeking free homesteads of 160 acres each, rail ways have been projecting laterals from their main lines, and every provision has been taken to accommodate the newcomer. A recent dispatch from Antwerp reads: "The diversion of European emigration from the United States to Canada is said to be seriously affecting the Atlantic steamship lines. The Red Star today gives up to the America-Canada line two of the best special emigrant steamers afloat, the Gothland and the Samland. These vessels heretofore in the Antwerp-New York service are now to be operated from Rotterdam to Canadian ports."

On the date of the above dispatch word came to the Immigration branch that the "Vanguard of the 1911 army of United States settlers reached Winnipeg at 1:30 o'clock this morning. There was a solid train load of effects, comprising 41 carloads and two colonist sleepers attached to the train, which contained the members of 25 families. Every man Jack in the party is a skilled farmer, and all have come north prepared to go right on the land, which was purchased last year. They are equipped with everything that experience has shown is necessary to make a start on virgin prairie. In addition to machinery and household effects there were a large number of horses and cattle. Some of the farmers had also brought along gas tractors, which will be put right to work on ground breaking."

One of the agents of the Canadian government advises that it would appear as if each month of the present year would show a large increase over the past year. The demand for the literature of the department, describing the country and its resources, is greater than it ever has been.

A NEW IDEA.

Politician—There were several ungrammatical sentences in your speech last night.

The Candidate—I know; I'm making a play for the uneducated vote.

Hopelessly Outclassed.

"Mrs. Caswell, while you were in Venice did you see the Bridge of Sighs?"

"Oh, yes; I saw what they called that. But, my land, I've seen bridges ten times its size without ever going out of Pennsylvania."

Better Days.

DIETZ' TURN NEXT; STATE RESTS CASE

FIFTY-SEVEN WITNESSES FOR PROSECUTION FINISH GIVING THEIR TESTIMONY.

DEFENSE SILENT ON PLANS

Only Announcement by John Dietz Is That None of Family Will Go On Witness Stand—Defender's Great Arsenal Submitted as Evidence.

Hayward.—After introducing a total of fifty-seven witnesses, the state rested its case against John Dietz, Mrs. Dietz and Leslie Dietz. Dietz declined to outline the defense further than to say he saw no reason for going on the stand himself. Mrs. Dietz and Leslie may be witnesses. Deputy Sheriff Fred Thorbahn, who headed the successful attack, testified to a conversation in which he said Dietz, by implication, admitted he fired two shots at the head deputy. Thorbahn's testimony was introduced after the state had gathered up a few loose threads of evidence left frayed from last week. Ex-Sheriff Giblin and Pat McGinn were called to show that Dietz had shot at them, May 8, 1905, while attempting to serve a warrant.

J. C. Davis, district attorney last year, who by request of District Attorney Williams has had the captured arms and ammunition in charge, brought the Dietz arsenal into the evidence. There were two 30-30 Winchester, two 40-82 rifles, three shotguns, including the set gun found at the lumber piles, and two Luger revolvers, also the fatal 30-30 steel covered bullet found in the body of Deputy Harp, and several boxes of loaded rifle shells.

The fatal bullet was identified under a magnifying glass by two letters W stamped upon it on end and side as the maker's mark. About a dozen of the cartridges found in the cabin at the capture also had this mark on them, while many other Winchester, U M C and Peters cartridges were without it.

THREE DIE IN RESORT ROW

Racine Man Shoots Two Women Inmates of Milwaukee Disorderly House, Then Suicides.

Milwaukee.—Two young women, Emma Nelson and Mabel Gilmore, were shot and instantly killed and Joseph Unger was probably fatally wounded in a fight at the resort of Hattie Dean, 570 River street, by Charles Yance of Racine, who then turned his revolver upon himself, dying instantly.

Unger was paying attention to the Nelson girl. When the Nelson woman favored Yance with her attentions, Unger began quarreling with the Racine man, who was an entire stranger to the other three in the party.

Suddenly, with an oath, Yance drew two revolvers and began firing at Unger as fast as he could pull the trigger. As Unger fell with a bullet through the right chest, the Nelson woman threw her body between Yance and his victim and was shot, dying almost instantly. The Gilmore woman tried to escape, but Yance, crazed by the sight of his other two victims, fired at her also, and she fell dying as he turned his revolver upon his own body, ending his own life.

DYNAMITER BILL IS PASSED

Fixes Maximum Penalty of Fifteen Years for Destruction of Property With Explosives.

Madison.—The Hansen bill relating to the destruction of property with dynamite and other explosives has passed the assembly. This fixes, as the maximum penalty, fifteen years in the state prison.

The bill appropriating money to Peter Nelson and Knud Hagedast to reimburse them for the expense of a contest over the assembly seat now occupied by Nelson, passed.

The Weber bill fixing the penalty for the abuse of inmates in state institutions at one year in jail also passed.

Abandoning Winter Wheat.

Washington.—A crop report of the department of agriculture shows that 6.8 per cent of the winter wheat in Wisconsin has been abandoned. There remain for harvest 71,000 acres. Its condition is 88 per cent, compared with 92 per cent a year ago and an average of 89 per cent. Rye is 91, against 93 per cent last season and an average of 92 per cent.

RABIES BILL IS INTRODUCED

Purpose of Measure Before Legislature Is to Check Increase of the Malady Throughout State.

Madison.—The increase of rabies in Wisconsin, as shown by the number of cases treated at the Pasteur institute here, has caused the introduction of a bill in the legislature appropriating a sum of money sufficient to enable the state hygienic laboratory to prepare vaccine for the treatment of persons bitten by mad dogs and to enable it to examine free of charge heads of dogs suspected of having been mad and other media suspected of containing rabies. The bill also specifies other things which the laboratory will be expected to do without charge.

There is danger that the United States Marine hospital may any time stop sending their vaccine to the Wisconsin institute. In the event that it should stop, the state board of health wants to be prepared to make or buy what it needs for the institute.

The state hygienic laboratory has had an unusually large number of heads of dogs suspected of having had the rabies sent to it for examination during the last four months. The number exceeds 100. The Pasteur institute has treated forty patients so far this year, which is an average of ten a month.

This is an average of one more a month than was treated last year. Since the institute was established in November, 1909, 166 cases have been treated. Only one case resulted fatally, that being a little Indian girl of the Oneida reservation, who was treated last year. There were three other deaths from hydrophobia in the state last year, but they were not treated at the institute.

APPOINTS RISK COMMISSION

C. H. Crownheart, Prof. Commons and J. D. Beck to Administer Workers' Compensation.

Madison.—Gov. McGovern appointed Attorney Charles H. Crownheart of Superior and Prof. John R. Commons of Madison as members of the state commission to administer the industrial accident or workmen's compensation law just passed by the legislature.

State Labor Commissioner J. D. Beck will be reappointed, and by virtue of his office becomes a member of the commission. The appointment of Mr. Crownheart is for the term ending on May 4, 1915, and that of Prof. Commons for the term ending on May 4, 1913. The salary is $5,000 a year.

The commission will organize as soon as possible after the senate confirms the appointments, and prepare to put the insurance features of the act into operation on Sept. 1, the date fixed in the law. The board will organize by electing one of its members chairman, and some one with a knowledge of insurance as secretary.

TALK LEGISLATIVE RECESS

Possibility of Present Session Extending Into July Brings Plan to Rest from May 20 to Jan. 12.

Madison.—Leaders of the assembly and senate are discussing the advisability of a legislative recess from May 20 to Jan. 8, 1912.

It is the general opinion now that it will take the legislature until well along in July to finish the business now before it.

The theory of those who favor the recess is that the two houses now could act on appropriation bills that would tide over the government until next January. At that time, they say, the real appropriation bills could be handled easily. Opponents of the recess say that it will take weeks, next year, to get the legislature to a point where it can get through the work before it.

DIETZ AND WITNESS CLASH

Former U. S. Marshal and Defendant Get Close to Blows—Point is Scored for Prisoner.

Hayward.—The cross examination of former Deputy United States Marshal A. Jonas of Madison furnished a dramatic tinge to the Dietz trial. The attacks of the prisoner upon the testimony of the officer became so heated that at one time Sheriff Clark moved within the circle fearing that the horny fisted defender would resort to personal violence.

Jonas, who was a deputy United States marshal in 1905, was placed upon the stand to testify to his efforts to serve civil papers upon Dietz and his wife. He stated that he reached the cabin, but that Dietz prevented him serving the papers by drawing a revolver and then set upon him and beat him badly, driving him away. Both Dietz and his wife joined in the cross examination, but their efforts were not to contradict his testimony, but rather to boast of their action.

Dietz scored a point for himself when, in cross examination, he elicited from Deputy Fred Van Alstyne the admission that the witness was shooting in the direction of Oscar Harp, the slain deputy.

The state struck the defense a telling blow with its best card. The prosecution offered proof that the bullet found in Harp's body was of the Winchester company make. The letter "W" is imprinted on the lead. The Dietz ammunition was of Winchester make, according to the prosecution. Not a Winchester bullet was fired by the deputies.

"I am more than gratified by the successful results I obtained by the use of the Cuticura Remedies. For several years my scalp was very badly affected with dandruff and scales. My scalp itched terribly at times and my hair fell out. My coat collar would be actually white with the dandruff that had fallen from my head. My profession being that of a barber, I was particular about having my hair in good condition, and was also in a position to try many lotions, etc., for the scalp. These had little or no effect. I had heard so much about the Cuticura Remedies that I resolved to try them. I shampooed my head with Cuticura Soap twice a week and after drying my head thoroughly, I anointed parts of my scalp with Cuticura Ointment. I was pleased from the outset, and continued to keep up this treatment. To think that only three cakes of Cuticura Soap and one and one-half boxes of Cuticura Ointment rid my head of this annoying trouble made me feel quite contented. I have now got a thick growth of hair and I am never troubled with any dandruff or itching of the scalp. There is no question but that the Cuticura Remedies cured me. I frequently recommend them to my customers, and they think a great deal of them." (Signed) John F. Williams, 307 Norfolk Street, Dorchester, Boston, Mass., July 28, 1910.

THAT WAS THE LAST STRAW

Many Women There Are Who Will Understand Just Why Long-Suffering "Worm" Turned.

Several years ago an Atchison couple were living happily together. The community was shocked one day when the wife applied for a divorce and got it. The story of the divorce has come out. It seems that the wife went into the kitchen and "slaved" all day. She made bread, pies, cake, cookies and pork and beans. She boiled a tongue, made a potato salad, stuffed eggs, made a custard and brown bread.

When her husband came home at 6 o'clock in the evening he found her dressed up. And on the table was cold tongue, pork and beans, fresh bread, cake, cookies, pie, potato salad, stuffed eggs, brown bread and custard. The wife thought her husband would say: "You poor darling, how you have worked today!" Instead, he said in a surprised way: "COLD supper! Lord, but you have an easy time!" His wife did not answer him. She was speechless with rage, and he does not know to this day why she asked the court to be divorced from a BRUTE.—Atchison Globe.

The Impossible.

Andrew Carnegie, at a recent dinner in New York, said of a certain labor trouble.

"It is silly of employers to pretend in these troubles that they are always in the right. Employers are often in the wrong; often unreasonable. They often—like Mrs. Smith-Jones—ask impossible things:

"Mrs. Smith-Jones, taking a villa at Palm Beach, engaged for butler a stately old colored deacon.

"Now, Clay," she said to the old fellow, "there are two things I must insist upon—truthfulness and obedience."

"Yes, madam," the venerable servant answered, "and when yo' bids me tell yo' guests yo's out when yo's in, which shall it be, madam?"

A Wall—in the Near Future.

Horrors!

MAY EXPLAIN THE MEXICAN AFFAIR

Rainey Asks Investigation of Department of Justice.

GAME OF BIG CORPORATIONS

They Want United States to Extend Its Authority Over Slice of Lower California—Inquiry Planned of Our Many Expensive Commissions.

By WILLIS J. ABBOT.

Washington.—Recently Representative Rainey of Illinois presented to the house a resolution asking for a committee to investigate the operations and methods of the department of justice. It directs a thorough inquiry into all the cases instituted under the Sherman anti-trust law and the Hepburn railroad rate law, and to ascertain for what causes some of these cases were dropped. It further inquires as to the number of special counsel employed and the amount of their fees, and finally as to whether the attorney general of the United States has any legal interests or affiliations outside of the distinguished office he holds.

The greater part of this resolution is without serious significance, or at least news value. It is merely the first of a series of investigatory resolutions which this house will put through—for after 16 years in the dark who can blame the Democrats if they have a certain desire now to turn on the light and look into matters somewhat for themselves. Mr. Rainey has tried to pass this resolution before, but a hostile majority has studiously opposed and slaughtered it. This time it will go through with some slight delay, as the house is not yet fully organized.

Bears on Mexican Complications.

The real significance of the resolution, as I am informed by its author, lies in its bearing upon the Mexican complications which are today puzzling every observer of public events. No careful reader of newspapers can have failed to notice that there have been at least ten different explanations presented for the sudden mobilization of 20,000 United States troops on the Mexican frontier and the dispatch of the most powerful part of the United States navy to the coasts of that nation. Incidentally, it might be noted that Mexico has five third class cruisers and two torpedo boat destroyers for a navy, all of which could be destroyed in a few hours' battle by any one of the battleships we sent to her coast. Our fleets have been withdrawn, and so, too, has been withdrawn the preposterous story of a secret compact between Mexico and Japan which was for a day or two used to explain our demonstration in force. But our troops are still there. They are encamped at every land gateway to Mexico. In two hours they could control every considerable Mexican custom house through which American products enter. The Mexican government has practically no source of revenue except import duties. By shutting them off the United States could subjugate Mexico without troubling to march upon its capital or fight more than one or two petty skirmishes.

But what, one may reasonably ask, has this to do with the department of justice and the proposed investigation? Simply this: Before his invitation to President Taft's cabinet, Attorney General Wickersham was a member of the great New York law firm of Cadwallader & Strong, of which also Henry M. Taft, a brother of the president, was, and still is, a member. That firm has long been intimately associated with great corporations that are heavily interested in Mexican concessions—mining, railroad, oil, stock raising, etc. Mexico is practically owned by United States capital today—all, except its government—and my informants, who are many, in addition to Representative Rainey, insist that these corporations do not want the government destroyed nor do they want annexation. The latter would destroy the system of peonage under which they now get efficient labor at one-fifth the cost of the American workman.

What the Corporations Want.

But they do want protection, and some of them want a little slice of Mexican territory which they now own, but over which they would like the United States to extend its authority. For example, in the last half hour of the last session of congress there was slipped through an appropriation of $1,000,000 for use in safeguarding the banks of the Colorado river in order that it may not again invade the Imperial valley in southern California. That valley is nearly 250 feet below sea level, fertile, if there be water furnished by irrigation; arid as the worst part of Sahara if there be no water. The government is completing a great dam, the Laguna dam, at a cost of $1,500,000, with irrigating systems to furnish the life-giving fluid to the now desolate plains. But to protect the dam from the eccentric floods of the Colorado river, riprap work must be done along its banks in Lower California, and there in Mexican territory the greater part of the million dollars appropriated without debate and almost without notice is being spent.

With the dam complete, the water course controlled and a United States suzerainty over the section, the lands on the Mexican side of the border now worth about 50 cents an acre will be worth $500 an acre. And I am informed by Mr. Rainey that most of this land is owned by the Southern Pacific railroad, which alone can serve that territory when it begins to be the greatest citrus raising section of the continent.

The stake is a big one. The Rainey resolution is intended merely to find out whether the government or any official is sitting in the game. The representative himself does not profess to have any evidence, but like the man who tired out the circumlocution office in one of Dickens' novels, he just "wants to know, don't you know."

Investigations Are Indorsed.

Some people assert that the "soft pedal" is to be put on the Democratic plan to investigate one after the other the executive departments of the government. This is wholly without foundation. The resolution for the inquiry into the department of justice is already before the proper committee, and probably at frequent intervals resolutions affecting some co-ordinate department will be presented.

Republican politicians of the lesser sort resent these investigations. But such distinguished Republican publicists as Dr. Albert Shaw, editor of the Review of Reviews, welcome them, and so also to my certain knowledge would many of the subordinate chiefs of departments. As Dr. Shaw puts it: "After sixteen years of uninterrupted control of the government, abuses in executive departments are certain to creep in. There is dead timber in every department building. There are places to be abolished and reforms to be established. The Republicans should welcome these investigations even though made by the opposing party."

It is to be borne in mind, however, that the immediate effect of such investigations will be little more than to advance a Democratic agitation. Sixteen years, most of them under the operation of the civil service law, have pretty securely entrenched in office the present employees in executive departments. Nevertheless there is political capital to be made, if no political patronage to be won, out of muckraking the departments and the task will be undertaken with avidity by the Democratic house.

Probe for Costly Commissions.

Late in the last session of congress a newspaper correspondent went to Champ Clark, then only the minority leader, with this question, "How can I find out how many commissions, boards or bureaus are there now in existence, created either by legislative or executive action, and how much money are they spending?"

"You will have to organize yourself into a congressional committee to get that information," said the present speaker. "We have been trying to find out for some time how many of these commissions there were, without success. I do not believe that any mere unofficial investigator, even though he represents a great newspaper, can secure the information."

That was several months ago. There is now pending before the rules committee of the house of representatives a resolution asking that there shall be appointed by the speaker a committee of five members to look into this very question; to consider the work and the expense of all these commissions or boards, and particularly to report to the house the names of the commissioners and of their various employes.

Made Up of Beaten Men.

It is of course matter of common notoriety that these commissions are made up today of politicians who have been discredited by their own constituencies. I do not mean by that that nationally they are discredited. For if you take ex-Senator Aldrich at the head of the monetary commission or Tom Carter, who heads a commission, to determine the boundary line between the United States and Canada, there will be none to decry the ability of either. But both have been beaten. And if you take the long list of men serving on these various commissions you will find that whether former senators or former representatives, they have been repudiated by their own constituencies only to receive vastly more profitable appointments at the hands of the administration. The most glaring instances are those of former Senator Carter of Montana and former Representative Tawney, appointed to the commission to consider Canadian border lines at salaries of $10,000 a year each. In the senate and the house they got $7,500. There is absolutely no reason why the United States geological survey should not draw these lines without any aid from discredited statesmen.

Many Similar Instances.

Probably there are many such instances of the way in which the money of the country is being spent in taking care of politicians in their decrepitude on commissions which are unnecessary or which are doing no work whatsoever. For three years the so-called commission on immigration was the scandal of congress. It traveled all over Europe, spent money lavishly and not until one member, a minority member at that—Burnett of Alabama—threatened to resign and expose its methods, did it ever make a report. The monetary commission is doing practically the same thing. There is a commission on fisheries on the boundaries of Alaska, on postal rates bearing upon the magazines, and there will be one on the tariff without doubt. This multiplicity of commissions means a multiplicity of clerks and salaries and heavy expenditures for traveling expenses. With a congress which is laying great stress on economy, there seems every reason to believe that the resolution I have referred to above, intended to determine how many of these commissions are necessary and whether they do not cost more than the abuses they are intended to correct, will be adopted.

Watching Carter Harrison.

The announcement from Illinois of the inauguration of Carter H. Harrison as mayor of Chicago, and the creation of the local branch of the Progressive Republican league pledged to La Follette, has national significance. Illinois is always a storm center. In Altgeld's days it was more of a battleground than now, but the younger Harrison is likely to revive the tactics of that time. Politicians in Washington, especially those from Illinois and bordering states, are watching closely his early acts in office.

Among the Illinois delegation here in Washington there are men who have begun already talking about him for either the first or the second place on the national ticket. I have heard him uncounted times say that the position of mayor of Chicago is one of vastly more power and of quite equal prestige to the vice-presidency, in which he is right. It does not seem probable that he can get the first place on the national ticket, even if the story that the Illinois delegation is to be turned over to some one named by Hearst is untrue, as I think it is. For these reasons I do not believe, and few of the congressmen from the middle west believe, that the Harrison ambitions will extend for the present beyond the boundaries of the city of Chicago.

Still there is going to be a free for all convention of the Democratic party with more candidates than have been presented in the last sixteen years. His name may be one of those which six months ago we would not have thought would have even a hearing. The opinion is hazarded by political observers here that Harrison will stand well in the running, with Folk of Missouri, who has already the indorsement of his own state, and with Governor Marshall of Indiana, but that one of the three will get farther than a complimentary vote."

The outbreak of the La Follette movement in Illinois is regarded here as the beginning of a savage fight which will probably not prevent the renomination of President Taft, but which may result in a second Republican ticket.

Harmon Boom Launched.

The Judson Harmon presidential boom was formally launched in Washington recently at a meeting of the entire congressional delegation from Ohio, headed by Senator Atlee Pomerene. Senator Pomerene is of course somewhat of a beneficiary of Gov. Harmon, who had secured his nomination and election as lieutenant-governor and then switched him to the United States senatorship. While the latter action created some hostility to the governor in Ohio, it has probably proved good politics as it gives Harmon a personal representative in Washington, holding the distinguished position of a United States senator and under decided obligations to the Ohio candidate for the presidency.

When I refer to the boom being launched I do not overlook the fact that Gov. Harmon's candidacy has been matter of common knowledge ever since his re-election as governor. But less than any other man holding the entirely justifiable ambition to become president of the United States he has pressed his cause. He has sat back with the proposition that his business was to be governor first and presidential candidate afterwards. This position was magnificent but it was not war, and his friends at the capital have been a little bit displeased by the lack of any systematic effort authorized by him to urge his candidacy. He has to meet the scarcely veiled antagonism of Mr. Bryan. He has to encounter the very powerful strategical position of Champ Clark, who not merely has the ear of the press, the Washington representatives of which call of course at the speaker's office, but is in a position to discuss his hopes and ambitions daily, almost hourly, with men of political influence in various states who come to seek favors from the speaker. Furthermore Gov. Wilson of New Jersey has been making strides to the front in the last few weeks. He has a press bureau and a lecture bureau. He is radical enough to keep himself in the public eye very successfully, and sufficiently conservative not to estrange the financial forces which originally put him into politics.

With this active work in progress by his chief rivals, Gov. Harmon has neither in person nor by authorization to his friends, permitted any active campaign to be made for him. The result is that there has been a somewhat nervous feeling on the part of Harmon men in Washington of late. But although he was slow to enter the field with a systematic propaganda, it is fair to say that his entrance is made under the most dignified circumstances. No other state delegation thus has met and without dissenting voice prepared to press the cause of a favorite son. Doubtless there will be imitation later. But to this extent—namely the solid support of his delegation—the Ohioan is first in the field. Within a day or two Senator Pomerene will appoint the committees on publicity and on ways and means and the candidacy of Gov. Harmon will be formally put before the people of the country.

Sorrows of the Rich.

"Now that you are rich, do you find that you are really any happier than you were when you were poor?"

"No. In those days I could eat whatever was set before me. Now I'm generally so full that I feel uncomfortable before the guinea hen is brought on the table."

Health For Sick Women

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or secured so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every woman you meet has either been benefited by it, or knows some one who has.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made exclusively from roots and herbs, and is perfectly harmless. The reason why it is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the female organism, restoring it to healthy and normal activity.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials such as the following prove the efficiency of this simple remedy.

Coloma, Wisconsin.—"For three years I was troubled with female weakness, irregularities, backache and bearing down pains. I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking several bottles I found it was helping me, and I must say that I am perfectly well now and can not thank you enough for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Mrs. John Wentland, R. F. D., No. 3, Box 60, Coloma, Wisconsin.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

Far From Bohemia.
Hjens—How is that lean, unscissored bohemian getting on these days?
Tjarks—Why, they say he is desperately in love with the girl down in the laundry and is to be married soon. Something suspicious about it, though.

Hjens—I should say so. What is a true bohemian doing around a laundry, anyway?

DISTEMPER

A READER CURES HIS CONSTIPATION—TRY IT FREE

Simple way for any family to retain the good health of all its members.

The editors of "Health Hints" and "Questions and Answers" have one question that is put to them more often than any other, and which, strangely enough, they find the most difficult to answer. That is "How can I cure my constipation?"

Dr. Caldwell, an eminent specialist in diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels has looked the whole field over, has practiced the specialty for forty years and is convinced that the ingredients contained in what is called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the best claim to attention from constipated people.

Its success in the cure of stubborn constipation has done much to displace the use of salts, waters, strong cathartics and such things. Syrup Pepsin, by training the stomach and bowel muscles to again do their work naturally, and with its tonic ingredients strengthening the nerves, brings about a lasting cure. Among its strongest supporters are Mr. John Graveline of 98 Milwaukee Ave., Detroit, Mich., Mr. J. A. Vernon of Oklahoma City and thousands of others. It can be obtained of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, or if you want to try it first a free sample bottle can be obtained by writing the doctor.

COMPOUND CALLOUSES

Tells splendid Cure for Them and All Foot Troubles.

A compound callous is the secondary stage when it grows inward and presses on the nerves, causing intense pain. Callouses never cure themselves but always get worse, sometimes irritating the whole nervous system. The following is a most effective and speedy cure. Dissolve two tablets of Calocide in a basin of hot water. Soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently massaging the sore parts. (Less time will not give the desired results.) The soreness will disappear immediately and the callous can be easily peeled off. Repeat this for several nights. A little olive oil rubbed into skin is very beneficial.

This Calocide is a very remarkable preparation for all foot ailments. Bunions, corns and ingrowing nails get instant relief and are soon cured. Bad smelling and sore feet need but a few treatments. Calocide is no longer confined to doctors' use. Any druggist has it in stock or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. A twenty-five cent package is usually enough to put the worst feet in fine condition. It will prove a blessing to persons who have been vainly trying ineffectual tablets and foot powders.

Do Ghosts Haunt Swamps?

No never. Its foolish to fear a fancied evil, when there are real and deadly perils to guard against in swamps and marshes, bayous, and lowlands. These are the malarial germs that cause ague, chills and fever, weakness, aches in the bones and muscles and may induce deadly typhoid. But Electric Bitters destroys and cast out these vicious germs from the blood. "Three bottles drove all the malaria from my system," wrote Wm. Fretwell, of Lucama, N. C. Lead Arsenate Spraying Kills Plum Curculio.

"The plum curculio winters in the adult stage, emerging in the spring just as the fruit buds begin to swell," says Prof. J. G. Sanders head of the economic entomology department of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin. "Immediately, it begins to feed the young foliage and fruit buds and should be treated with a strong spray of lead arsenate, as this is the only stage at which an arsenical poison is effective in controlling the pest.

"The curculio is distinguished from the plum gouger in that it never penetrates the fruit stone. The female curculio deposits eggs in crescent shaped cuts, which she makes on the surface of the fruit. Seven to 10 days later, the larvae emerge and about two weeks after this they leave the fruit; crawl into the ground, where they spin a cocoon and pupate. In this stage of the life cycle the insect can be killed by intensive cultivation of the orchard.

"Where labor is cheap the jarring method of control is advantageously practiced," continued Prof. Sanders. "This system involves the use of a canvas, held about waist high under the tree, while the tree is jarred with a padded pole, the curculios falling off upon the canvas where they can be sorted out and destroyed. Any lady bugs which are snared by this method should be liberated as they are beneficial parasites, which destroy injurious fruit insects."
