COMMENCEMENT PROGRAMME

The Commencement Program on Thursday Evening was Very Interesting

DIPLOMAS PRESENTED

Princ. J. F. Cavanaugh Presents Diplomas to a Graduating Class of Eleven

The Commencement exercises of the local high school were held in Groeschel's hall on Thursday evening. A class of eleven received diplomas on this evening. The exercises were very largely attended. The decorations of the hall were beautiful, which consisted of the class colors, lavender and white. The class roll is as follows:—
William King, Elsie Guth, Herman Krueger, Lillian Krahn, Elwyn Romaine, Myrtle Schnurr, Fred Buss, Cynthia Geidel, Alton Altenhofen, Joseph Dworschak and Edwin Backhaus. The class motto of the class is "Climb Tho' the Rocks be Rugged." Their class flowers were Pink and White carnations.

The program of the evening opened with a song by the High School chorus. William King then delivered the president's address. Miss Myrtle Schnurr followed with a salutatory. After this the Fifth Grade rendered a few selections. The class oration, "The Reign of Law" delivered by Herman Krueger was well received. Peter Hoerig a member of the Junior class gave a response. The class history, which was very interesting, was given by Fred Buss. The prophecy by Miss Lillian Krahn caused the usual amount of fun at the expense of her class mates. Miss Olive Flaherty then appeared by rendering a vocal solo. Elwyn Romaine, the poet of the class gave the class poem. The class will by Alton Altenhofen was an entertaining feature and enjoyed by the audience as well as by those to whom things were "left." The class of 1911 then sang the class song. The valedictory, "The Opportunities of an American" was delivered by Joseph Dworschak. The commencement address was delivered by Supt. Geo. V. Kelly of Princeton. His address was very interesting. Following Mr. Kelly's address, Prin. J. F. Cavanaugh presented the diplomas with a few appropriate words of encouragement, advice and congratulation, and then the evening closed with a song by the High School Chorus, entitled "Come Away to the Daisies."

Kewaskum and Prin. J. F. Cavanaugh and the teachers have great reasons to be proud of the class they have graduated this year. The members will be a credit to the faculty.

Metzner-Schuppel Wedding.

A marriage of unusual interest to people in the town of Wayne took place at the St. Peter's Luth. church in the town of Addison last Saturday, May 27, at 3:30 o'clock P. M., when Miss Dorothea Schuppel of the town of Wayne and Mr. Fredrick L. Metzner of this city took the vows which bound them for life.

The church was very prettily decorated with cut flowers in honor of the occasion. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, to which only the nearest relatives were invited. The bride was attended by the Misses Ella Schuppel, as maid of honor, and Selma Metzner as bridesmaid, while the bride-zoom's attendants were Edwin Metzner and William Schuppel, the witnesses being sisters and brothers of the young couple, respectively.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. John Schuppel of the town of Wayne. She is one of the most pleasing and charming young ladies of that town. She possesses all the qualities to make an ideal and loving wife and housekeeper.

The groom is at present employed in the insurance office of Jos. O'Meara at West Bend. He is a young man of excellent habits and very industrious.

The young couple will reside at West Bend, where they will be at home to their many friends after July 1st. The STATESMAN extends to them its heartiest congratulations.

Two Men Come to Blows.

Because of a difference of opinion in regard to the paying of a priest's salary at the St. Michael's church at St. Michaels, two members of the parish, Math. Theisen and Jacob Staehler, had an argument, which resulted in a quarrel and finally came to blows last Thursday morning. Theisen had Staehler arrested on Friday, both appeared in Justice Rix's court at West Bend Friday afternoon where the defendant plead guilty and was fined $5.00 and cost.

To Close Saturday Noons.

Please take notice that we the undersigned will close our place of business every Saturday at noon during the summer months. This will take effect at once.

The play is known to have made a very decided hit in New York City. This time Mr. Johnson brings the strongest company he has ever had together and has added to the people to his company. This will be the best play he has ever presented here.

The specialties between the acts are strong. They consist of Miss Evelyn Clark, who is known to be the best Lady Violinist before the public. Mr. Louis Brusberg will present his 1000 dollar musical act. Mr. A. C. Yarnell, you will know him, and J. Burt Johnson in his great black face specialty.

This will be without a doubt the best production ever presented here. Seats are now on sale. Dance after the show. Music by Johnson's orchestra.

The case of Mich. Thelen, proprietor of the Star Hotel at Campbellsport, plaintiff, vs. John Zucaro, barber, of the same place, defendant was finally tried last week Friday in Brauns hall at Campbellsport by Justice Kohler before a jury of six. The suit originated about two months ago over the dispute of the ownership of certain barber shop pictures. The case took nearly all day. After the jury was out about a half hour Foreman Wrucke brought back a verdict in favor of the defendant and settling all costs upon the plaintiff. B. A. Husting represented the plaintiff while O. W. Ecke appeared for the defendant. Both lawyers are of Fond du Lac.

Musician Drops Dead.

Otto Kretlow of Milwaukee, instructor and leader of the West Bend city band for the past six months, dropped dead on Tuesday while taking part in the Memorial Day exercises at West Bend. CLASS PLAY SCORES A HIT

The Class Play "The Chaperone" Makes a Hit With the Audience

HALL WAS PACKED

The Crowd was the Largest That Ever Attended a Play Here. The Hall Being Filled to Its Capacity

"The Chaperone," the 1911 class play, which was presented at Groeschel's Opera House on Wednesday evening, by a cast composed of the members of the senior class of the local high school was one of the most successful amateur productions staged in this city. The house was a capacity one, and every member of the cast rendered their parts in a manner which was above criticism.

The play was by far one of the most ambitious efforts attempted by any graduating class of the local high school in a number of years. It is the usual custom that the senior class of every year present a play. The play this year was given under the direction of Prof. Walton Pyre of Milwaukee. Mr. Pyre is well known to the public of this community as a professional in the dramatic art. He has for a number of years coached the seniors in their class plays.

Miss Lillian Krahn appeared in the leading role, that of Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez, a beautiful lady from Brazil where the nuts grow. She was a very rich lady, and was to appear at a luncheon given by her nephew, but on account of business was delayed. It is seldom that an amateur can interpret the feeling as well as Miss Krahn.

Herman Krueger, as Lord Fancourt Babberly, and who disguised as Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez at the luncheon, scored a decided hit with the audience.

Elwyn Romaine, as Jack Chesney, and Fred Buss, as Charley Wykeham, two college students and in love, deserve special compliment for their interpretation of the two parts.

Joseph Dworschak, as Mr. Spettigue, and William King, as Sir Frances Chesney, fulfilled their parts excellently. Alton Altenhofen, as Brassett, and Edwin Backhaus, as Jenkins, both servants, also deserve mention of good work.

Myrtle Schnurr, as Kitty Verдум, and Cynthia Geidel, as Amy Spettigue, two pretty young ladies who were in love with Jack and Charley, also did exceptionally well. Elsie Guth, as Ella Dalfield acted her part in a very pleasing manner.

The program of the evening was opened by two songs, Humpty Dumpty and the Parasol Drill, given by the pupils of the primary department.

The Misses Flaherty-Schlosser-Flaherty rendered a beautiful song entitled "The Happy Miller."

Miss Edna Guth entertained the audience between the second and third acts with a beautiful piano solo.

For lack of space we are unable to go into further details of the play.

Changes in Train Service.

Several changes in the time card of the North-Western went into effect last Sunday. Train No. 133 due here at 9:15 A. M. will arrive here five minutes earlier hence at 9:10. No. 106 formerly due at 9:42 will hereafter be due at 9:52, ten minutes later. These two trains will meet at Eden instead of at Campbellsport. The noon trains will meet at Campbellsport instead of at this village. Train No. 110 will arrive here at 12:39 instead of 12:18 as heretofore.

Commencing to-morrow, Sunday, train service for the north will be considerable better than it has been the past few months. The train, known as 141 which formerly was due here on Sunday's only at 8:50 A. M. and which was taken off entirely a few months ago, will again be put into service. It will be due in this village at 8:49 A. M. This train will not carry mail. The mail train which goes by here at 8:10 A. M. will still run under its regular schedule.

Flag Day.

Most schools close for the summer vacation before Flag day (June 14). However, the children should be instructed regarding the significance and proper observance of the day. The American Flag Association makes the following appeal for its proper observance:

"We earnestly exhort our citizens to join in making Flag day an event, and its celebration in 1911, a great event. Let us, from one end of our land to the other, fling the stars and stripes to the breeze on June 14, 1911. May it greet the rising and salute the setting sun, and float all day long from every church edifice, school and building, public and private and however humble throughout the entire land."

RETRACTION

I wish to retract all that I have said against the character of Herman Backhaus.

RAY HARROUN WINS

CAPTURES FIRST PRIZE OF $14,500 IN BIG 500-MILE AUTO RACE.

77,000 PEOPLE SEE EVENT

S. P. Dickson is Killed, A. W. Greiner and Six Others Are Injured at Indianapolis in Greatest Car Contest Ever Held.

Indianapolis, Ind.—The first 500-mile auto race on a speedway, the greatest test of skill and endurance in motor racing history, was won by Ray Harroun, in a Marmon car, in the time of 6:41:08.

Ralph Mulford in a Lozier was second. Forty cars started and ten finished.

Notwithstanding predictions of wholesale disaster in the race only one man was killed and seven injured. The victims were: Killed—S. P. Dickson, mechanic Amplex car No. 44.

Injured—Arthur Greiner, driver Amplex car No. 44, seriously.

David Lewis, mechanic Lozier car No. 34, leg broken.

Teddy Tetziuff, driver Lozier car No. 34, bruised and shaken up.

Harry Knight, driver Westcott car No. 7, severely.

John Glover, mechanic Westcott car No. 7, seriously injured.

L. Anderson, mechanic Case car No. 8, thrown out, not serious.

Robert Evans, mechanic Jackson car No. 25, ankle broken.

S. P. Dickson, mechanic for Arthur Greiner, driver of Amplex car No. 44, was the first victim of the race. Shortly after the thirtieth mile Greiner was sweeping around the back stretch when both rear tires exploded, wrecking the car. Dickson was instantly killed, Greiner was seriously injured. Greiner is a millionaire driver from Chicago who came here and volunteered his services to the Amplex people following the wreck of the Amplex No. 12 several days ago in which Joe Horan was injured. Dickson lived in Chicago and his father is Major Dickson, a veteran newspaper man. He was twenty-four years of age and unmarried. He was known as an experienced man in the racing game.

The most spectacular accident of the day was when four cars were wrecked almost directly in front of the grandstand. The only person who was seriously hurt was John Glover, mechanic for Westcott car No. 7, driven by Harry Knight, who also was hurt.

The other cars that were wrecked were Eddie Hearne's Fiat No. 17, Joe Jagersberger Case No. 8, and Lytles Apperson Jack Rabbit No. 35. That several people were not killed was a mystery to the great crowd in the grandstands.

The strain of the terrible grind proved too great for Bob Evans, mechanic for Jack Tower, driving a Jackson, and he jumped from the car on the back stretch. Evans was hurled heavily to the ground, but not seriously hurt. He was apparently suffering from dementia.

Facts about the race: Distance, 500 miles. Elapsed time—6:41:08. Average miles per hour—75 miles. Attendance—77,000. Purse, $25,000. Purse of winner, $14,250.

The prize winners were: First—Ray Harroun, Marmon. Second—Mulford, Lozier. Third—Bruce Brown, Fiat. Fourth—Wishart, Mercedes. Fifth—DePalma, Simplex. Sixth—Merz, National. Seventh—Turner, Amplex. Eighth—Cobe, Jackson. Ninth—Belcher, Knox. Tenth—Hughes, Mercer.

DIAZ FLEES MEXICO

FORMER RULER OF REPUBLIC BECOMES A FUGITIVE.

Spain Is to Be His Haven—Accompanied by Few Friends, Fallen Chief Creeps Secretly From Palace.

Mexico City.—Porfirio Diaz, for whom during thirty years all Mexico has stood to one side, hat in hand, stole from the capital with the greatest of secrecy and, with a few devoted friends whom he dared trust, started for Vera Cruz.

Only Senora Diaz and a few of the ultra-faithful accompany the former president. As understood here the party will go to Vera Cruz and embark there as exiles for Spain.

In Mexico City the feeling is one of relief tinged with just a bit of sorrow. The country is free—free as it never has been before in all its history. But with all his tyranny, even the most radical patriot is compelled to admit, now he is gone, that Diaz accomplished a great work in Mexico.

El Paso, Mex.—Francisco I. Madero, insurrecto president of Mexico, resigned following the resignation of Porfirio Diaz as president of Mexico. He issued a manifesto renouncing the title of president of the provisional government and explaining the peace terms reached between himself and the federals. He expresses the utmost confidence in Francisco de la Barra while he holds the office of temporary president, and says the insurrecto troops are at the disposal of De la Barra in enforcing peace.

Asked if he would announce his candidacy for the presidency of Mexico Madero said that he would not; that such a thing was not considered proper in his country, but his friends would advance his name at the proper time.

The inauguration of De la Barra as provisional president was a brief affair, occupying only ten minutes.

Puebla, Mex.—An uprising which resulted in the killing of forty persons and the sacking of stores, government offices and private homes occurred at Cholula, a town with a population of 10,000, eight miles from this city.

The rebels set fire to the town, which is threatened with destruction. Mob rule prevails at Cholula and it is feared that Puebla may be attacked.

A band of revolutionists demanded the surrender of Cholula, but the authorities refused to capitulate. The townspeople, foreseeing a period of riot rule, armed themselves as best they could to defend their homes and to assist the small garrison of rurales.

The rebels began the attack and hot fighting followed. The smoke from the battle and the burning buildings was plainly visible from the city.

There is great unrest in Puebla. Manifestants numbering over 1,000 have marched the streets carrying Madero banners. Many people are terror-stricken.

Washington.—While returning to Washington from a trip down the Potomac river with Miss Helen Taft and a party of young women chaperoned by Mrs. George Von L. Meyer, wife of the secretary of the navy; Beckman Winthrop, assistant secretary of the navy, and Mrs. Winthrop, the secretary of the navy's flagship Dolphin ran down and sunk at Alexandria, Va., the power boat Culpritt Fay, containing three men, which darted across her course at full speed. Alexander Yellowless of this city, one of the three, was drowned, but the other two were rescued by the Dolphin's crew.

President Taft paid a personal call at the home of Yellowless. He expressed his sympathy to the friends of Yellowless and gave instructions that every effort should be made to recover his body from the Potomac.

BARES STEEL MERGE

JOHN W. GATES TELLS OF FORMATION OF UNITED STATES CORPORATION.

CONGRESSMEN HEAR STORY

Gives Inside History of Trust—Says Carnegie Made $160,000,000 in Combination—Admits It Was Organized to Stop Competition.

Washington.—John W. Gates appeared before the house committee that is investigating the United States Steel corporation and gave some interesting testimony.

Present at the birth of the greatest steel manufacturing concern in the world, he described how it was the natural outcome of what he described as the refusal of Andrew Carnegie to be bound by the "gentlemen's agreements" that marked the early days of open competition in the steel business.

He told also of millions lost and created almost in a breath; how the Carnegie mills, appraised at $160,000,000, were recognized as worth $320,000,000 almost within the time required to make the transfer to the corporation; the grim clash in the formative days when John D. Rockefeller was dissuaded from joining in the formation of the corporation and the manner in which others were prevented from engaging in the steel trade.

Relating how Carnegie had been forced to abandon plans for extending his steel business, Mr. Gates frankly admitted that the gigantic industrial combination was formed to throttle competition, and he surprised the committee with the further information that when John D. Rockefeller had sought to enter the steel business a deal had been put through by which the Standard Oil magnate was forced to sell out for 40 cents on the dollar.

Characterizing Mr. Carnegie as "a bull in a china shop," Mr. Gates told of a midnight conference between himself, Charles M. Schwab and J. Pierpont Morgan, at which the steel corporation was conceived, and how it resulted in Carnegie getting $320,000,000 in the corporation's securities for his steel interests, which he previously had offered for $160,000,000 in cash.

Mr. Gates also told the committee of the taking over of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company by the United States Steel corporation during the panic of 1907, a deal in which he was interested as a stockholder of the Tennessee company. This, he declared, was a forced transaction carried out by Mr. Morgan and other financial leaders to save from ruin the Trust Company of America, threatened in the financial upheaval, because it had loaned too much money on stock of the Tennessee company.

Senate After Oil Heads. Washington.—Information as to what steps had been taken for the criminal prosecution of the officers of the Standard Oil company under the recent decision of the Supreme court was demanded of the attorney general by the senate, which adopted without debate a resolution of inquiry offered by Senator Pomerene.

THREE DROWN FORDING RIVER

Team Plunges From Ferry at Red Bud, Ill., Precipitating Family into the Water.

Red Bud, Ill.—Three persons were drowned while on their way to a picnic, when the team of Lois Nagle plunged from a ferry boat into the river, carrying Nagle's family with them. The father, oldest son, and baby, were lost. The mother and two children were saved by the ferryman.

P. O. SELF-SUSTAINING

DEPARTMENT RETURNS $3,000,000 TO THE TREASURY.

For First Time In 30 Years Postal Service Revenues Are Equal to Expenditures.

Washington.—It is officially announced that the postoffice department is now self-supporting for the first time in 30 years. The postal service not having need of the $3,000,000 set aside from public funds, the department has returned that sum to the treasury.

The official statement given out says in part: "At the present time there is a postal surplus of more than $1,000,000 and unless the expenses during the next month should prove extraordinary, the surplus will be still greater for the year.

"This condition is little less than remarkable when it is considered that the present administration inherited a deficit of more than seventeen and one-half millions, the largest in the history of the postal service.

"Except for the reforms in the financial system of the postoffice department recently instituted, it would not be possible to make this refund of $3,000,000 to the secretary of the treasury, even though the revenues for the current year have exceeded the expenditures. An accounting plan which was adopted about a year ago insures the prompt deposit in the treasury of postal funds not immediately required for disbursement at postoffices, thus making available for use by the department several millions of dollars that, under the old practice, would be tied up in post offices. Under the old system it required a surplus of nearly $10,000,000 to finance the postal service. The $3,000,000 Mr. Hitchcock returns with the feeling that the postoffice revenues will be more than sufficient to defray the expenses of the postal service during the present year."

Five Persons are Killed, One Fatally Injured in Crash Near Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Jerry Kauffmann of Long Beach, three members of his family and W. S. Hollingsworth of Denver, were killed when a city-owned Pacific electric car from Whittier dashed into their automobile as it attempted to cross the tracks near that town. The sixth passenger in the automobile lies in a hospital, probably fatally injured. A clump of trees near the interurban tracks obscured the approaching car and the two vehicles met at terrific speed.

When a Man Marries

SYNOPSIS.

James Wilson or Jimmy as he is called by his friends, Jimmy was rotund and looked shorter than he really was. His ambition in life was to be taken seriously, but people steadily refused to do so, his art is considered a mere joke, except to himself. If he asked people to dinner everyone expected a frolic. Jimmy marries Bella Knowles; they live together a year and are divorced. Jimmy's friends arrange to celebrate the first anniversary of his divorce. The party is in full swing when Jimmy receives a telegram from his Aunt Selina, who will arrive in four hours to visit him and his wife. He neglects to tell her of his divorce. Jimmy takes Kit into his confidence, he tries to devise some way so that his aunt will not learn that he has no longer a wife. He suggests that Kit play the hostess for one night, be Mrs. Wilson pro tem. Aunt Selina arrives and the deception works out as planned. Jimmy's Jap servant is taken ill. Bella, Jimmy's divorced wife, enters the house and asks Kit who is being taken away in the ambulance? Bella insists it is Jim. Kit tells her Jim is well and is in the house. Harbison steps out on the porch and discovers a man lurking a card on the door. He demands an explanation. The man points to the placard and Harbison sees the word "Smallpox" printed on it. He tells him the guests cannot leave the house until the quarantine is lifted. The guests suddenly realize their predicament; the women shed tears, the men consider it a good joke. The all important question arises as to who is to prepare the meals and perform the other household duties. Harbison finally solves the matter. After the lifting of the quarantine several letters are found in the mail box undelivered; one is addressed to Henry Lewellon, Inquirer, Ohio, which was written by Harbison. He describes minutely their incursion. Also of his infatuation for Mrs. Wilson. Aunt Selina is taken ill with a crisis. Betty acts as nurse. Harbison finds Kit sulking on the roof. She tells him that Jim has been treating her outrageously. Harbison fully believing that she is Mrs. Wilson, tells her that she doesn't mean the things she is saying about her husband. Kit starts downstairs when suddenly she is grasped in the arms of a man who kisses her several times. She believes that Harbison did it and is humiliated. Aunt Selina tells Jimmy that her cameo breastpin and other articles of jewelry have been stolen. She accuses Betty of the theft. The following morning Jimmy was in a rage. The papers printed a story about the incarceration of the party, and that one of the guests had attempted to escape by means of having a board across the roof to the adjoining house, but was frustrated by a detective who fired a revolver at him. Jimmy tells Aunt Selina all about the strange happenings, but she persists in supposing Betty of the theft of her valuables.

CHAPTER XIII. (Continued.)

But what the cook had told about Bella and Jimmy was not divulged, for the Harbison man caught him up with a fork and sent Flannigan, grumbling, with his rugs to the roof. It did not seem possible to carry on the deception much longer, but if things were bad now, what would they be when Aunt Selina learned she had been lied to, made ridiculous, generally deceived? And how would I be able to live in the house with her when she did know? Luckily, every one was so puzzled over the mystery in the house that numbers of little things that would have been absolutely damning were never noticed at all. For instance, my asking Jimmy at luncheon that day if he took cream in his coffee! And Max coming to the rescue by dropping his watch in his glass of water, and creating a diversion and giving every body an opportunity to laugh by saying not to mind, it had been in soak before. Just after luncheon Aunt Selina brought me some undergarments of Jim's to be patched. She explained at length that he had always worn out his undergarments, because he always squirmed around so when he was sitting. And she showed me how to lay one of the garments over a pillow to get the patch in properly. It was the most humiliating moment of my life, but there was no escape. I took my sewing to the roof, while she went away to find something else for me to do when that was finished, and I sat with the thing on my knee and stared at it, while rebellious tears rolled down my cheeks. The patch was not the shape of the hole at all, and every time I took a stitch I sewed it fast to the pillow beneath. It was terrible. Jim came up after a while and sat down across from me and watched, without saying anything. I suppose what he felt would not have been proper to say to me. We had both reached the point where adequate language failed us. Finally he said: "I wish I were dead." "So do I," I retorted, jerking the thread. "Where is she now?" "Looking for more of these," I indicated the garment over the pillow, and he giggled. "Please don't squirm," I said coldly. "You will wear out your—lingerie, and I will have to mend them." He sat very still for five minutes, when I discovered that I had put the patch in crosswise instead of lengthwise and that it would not fit. As I jerked it out he sneezed. "Oh, sneeze," I added venomously.

"You will tear your buttons off, and I will have to sew them on." Jim rose wrathfully. "Don't sit, don't sneeze," he repeated. "Don't stand, I suppose, for fear I will wear out my socks. Here, give me that. If the fool thing has to be mended, I'll do it myself."

He went over to a corner of the parapet and turned his back to me. He was very much offended. In about a minute he came back, triumphant, and held out the result of his labor. I could only gasp. He had puckered up the edges of the hole like the neck of a bag, and had tied the thread around it. "You—you won't be able to sit down," I ventured.

"Don't have any time to sit," he retorted promptly. "Anyhow, it will give some, won't it? It would if it was tied with elastic, instead of thread. Have you any elastic?"

Lollie came up just then, and Jim took himself and his mending downstairs. Luckily, Aunt Selina found several letters in his room that afternoon while she was going over his clothes, and as it took Jim some time to explain them, she forgot the task she had given me altogether.

When Lollie came up to the roof, she closed the door to the stairs, and coming over, drew a chair close to mine.

"Have you see much of Tom today?" she asked, as an introduction.

"I suppose you mean Mr. Harbison, Lollie," I said. "No—not any more than I could help. Don't whisper, he couldn't possibly hear you. An if it's scandal I don't want to know it."

"Look here, Kit," she retorted, "you needn't be so superior. If I like to talk scandal, I'm not so sure you aren't making it."

That was the way right along: I was making scandal; I brought them there to dinner; I let Bella in!

And, of course, Anne came up then, and began on me at once.

"You are a very bad girl," she began. "What do you mean by treating Tom Harbison the way you do? He is heart-broken."

"I think you exaggerate my influence over him," I retorted. "I haven't treated him badly, because I haven't paid any attention to him."

Anne threw up her hands. "There you are!" she said. "He worked all day yesterday fixing this place for you—yes, for you, my dear. I am not blind—and last night you refused to let him bring you up."

"He told you!" I flamed.

"He wondered what he had done. And as you wouldn't let him come within speaking distance of you, he came to me."

"I am sorry, Anne, since you are fond of him," I said. "But to me he is impossible—intolerable. My reasons are quite sufficient."

"Kit is perfectly right, Anne," Lella

Fell to Work Vigorously.

broke in. "I tell you, there is something queer about him," she added in a portentous whisper.

Anne stiffened. "He is perfect," she declared. "Of good family, warm-hearted, courageous, handsome, clever—what more do you ask?"

"Honesty," said Lella hotly. "That a man should be what he says he is. Anne and I both stared.

"It is your Mr. Harbison," Lella went on, "who tried to escape from the house by putting a board across to the next roof?"

"I don't believe it," said Anne. "You might bring me a picture of him, board in hand, and I wouldn't believe it."

"Don't then," Lollie said cruelly. "Let him get away with your pearls; they are yours. Only, as sure as anything, the man who tried to escape from the house had a reason for escaping, and the papers said a man in evening dress and light overcoat. I found Mr. Harbison's overcoat today lying in a heap in one of the maid's rooms, and it was covered with brick dust all over the front. A button had even been torn off."

"Pooh!" Anne said, when she had recovered herself a little. "There isn't any reason, as far as that goes, why Flannigan shouldn't have worn Tom's overcoat, or—any of the others."

"Flannigan!" Lella said loftily. "Why, his arms are like piano legs; he couldn't get into it. As for the others, there is only one person who would fit, or nearly fit, that overcoat, and that is Dallas, Anne."

While Anne was choking down her wrath, Lella got up and darted out of the tent. When she came back she was triumphant.

"Look," she said, holding out her hand. And on her palm lay a lightish brown button. "I found it just where the paper said the board was thrown out, and it is from Mr. Harbison's overcoat, without a doubt."

Of course I should not have been surprised. A man who would kiss a woman on a dark staircase—a woman he had known only two days—was capable of anything.

"Kit has only been a little keener than the rest of us," Lollie said. "She found him out yesterday."

"Upon my word," said Anne indignantly, preparing to go. "If I didn't know you girls so well, I would think you were crazy. And now, just to offset this, I will tell you something. Flannigan told me this morning not to worry, that he has my pearl collar spotted, and that young ladies will have their jokes!"

Yes, as I said before, it was a cheerful, joy-producing situation.

I sat and thought it over after Anne's parting shot, when Lella had flounced downstairs. Things were closing in; I gave the situation 24 hours to develop. At the end of that time Flannigan would accuse me openly of knowing where the pearls were; I would explain my silly remark to him, and the mine would explode—under Aunt Selina.

I was sunk in dejected reverie when some one came on the roof. When he was opposite the opening in the tent, I saw Mr. Harbison, and at that moment he saw me. He paused uncertainly, then he made an evident effort and came over to me.

"You are—better today?"

"Quite well, thank you."

"I am glad you find the tent useful. Does it keep off the wind?"

"It is quite a shelter"—frigidly.

He still stood, struggling for something to say. Evidently nothing came to his mind, for he lifted the cap he was wearing, and, turning away, began to work with the wiring of the roof. He was clever with tools; one could see that. If he was a professional gentleman-burglar, no doubt he needed to be. After a bit, finding it necessary to climb to the parapet, he took off his coat, without even a glance in my direction, and fell to work vigorously.

One does not need to like a man to admire him physically, any more than one needs to like a racehorse or any other splendid animal. No one could deny that the man on the parapet was a splendid animal; he looked quite big enough and strong enough to have tossed his slender bridge across the gulf to the next roof, without any difficulty, and co-ordinate enough to have crossed it with a flourish to safety.

Just then there was a rending, tearing sound from the corner and a muttered ejaculation. I looked up in time to see Mr. Harbison throw up his arms, make a futile attempt to regain his balance, and disappear over the edge of the roof. One instant he was standing there, splendid, superb; the next, the corner of the parapet was empty, all that stood there was a broken, splintered post, and a tangle of wires.

I could not have moved at first; at least, it seemed hours before the full significance of the thing penetrated my dazed brain. When I got up I seemed to walk, to crawl, with leaden weights holding back my feet.

When I got to the corner I had to catch the post for support. I knew somebody was saying: "Oh, how terrible!" over and over. It was only after ward that I knew it had been myself. And then some other voice was saying: "Don't be alarmed. Please, don't be frightened. I'm all right."

I dared look over the parapet finally, and instead of a crushed and unspeakable body, there was Mr. Harbison, sitting about eight feet below me, with his feet swinging into space and a long red scratch from the corner of his eye across his cheek. There was a sort of mansard there, with window, and just enough coping to keep him from rolling off.

"I thought you had fallen—all the way," I gasped, trying to keep my lips from trembling. "I—oh, don't dangle your feet like that!"

He did not seem at all glad of his escape. He sat there gloomily, peering into the gulf beneath.

"If it wasn't so—er—messy and generally unpleasant," he replied without looking up. "I would slide off and go the rest of the way."

"You are childish," I said, severely. "See if you can get through the window behind you. If you cannot, I'll come down and unfasten it." But the window was open, and I had a chance to sit down and gather up the scattered ends of my nerves. To my surprise, however, when he came back he made no effort to renew our conversation. He ignored me completely, and went to work at once to repair the damage to his wires, with his back to me.

Speaking of the Divorce Evil

Trying to succeed in business without advertising is like the case of the man who, trying to cut expenses, divorced his wife and alone attempted to keep house and raise his children. It cost him more money for doctor bills and funeral expenses in a year than he gave his wife in a lifetime.

When advertising is divorced, business success becomes failure.

This paper is building your neighbor's business. He has reasons. He tried advertising and it helped him. It is not an experiment—this paper brings results. Good, hard, convincing results—dollars.

Asserts Iron Bar Was Used.

(Fond du Lac Reporter)

Joseph Sook, charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit great bodily harm, upon the person of John G. Labinski, pleaded guilty before Justice Fairbank Tuesday morning and an adjournment was taken to Thursday, June 8, at 9 o'clock.

Both the men were renters of farms near Waucousta. On April 28, the date of the alleged assault, the complainant alleges that following an argument Sook attacked him with an iron bar four feet in length and an inch in diameter with which he beat him severely. Galabinski then came to this city and swore out a warrant before Justice Fairbank. When the officer went to serve it, however, Sook had disappeared and neighbors disclaimed all knowledge of his whereabouts.

It was not until yesterday that it was found that Sook had moved to this city where he had secured employment and was living in a residence on Portland street.

Sook claims that he had made no effort to avoid arrest and was not aware that a warrant had been sworn out against him. He has retained Attorney L. J. Fellenz to defend him. Bail was placed at $100 which Sook at once furnished.

Some of the REASONS WHY
U. S. Cream Separators
ARE THE BEST IN THE WORLD

The United States Separator employs a feeding device to deliver the whole milk beyond the cream zone—preventing any remixing of cream and skim milk and any conflict of currents. No other device of any other separator will do this work so well, as the records show. This device is patented, and can be used on no other separator.

The United States uses non-aligned channel for the currents of milk through the separator bowl. This is covered by strong patents. No discs or other construction can equal its perfection in separation. It holds the world's record for closest skimming.

The United States skims cleaner, runs easier, washes easier, and lasts longer than any other separator.

WELCOMED BY MEN WHO SMOKE

Particular men who smoke realize how offensive to people of refinement is a strong tobacco breath, and how objectionable to themselves is that "dark brown taste" in the mouth after smoking.

Paxtine Toilet Antiseptic is worth its weight in gold for this purpose alone. Just a little in a glass of water—rinse the mouth and brush the teeth. The mouth is thoroughly deodorized, the breath becomes pure and sweet and a delightful sense of mouth cleanliness replaces that dark brown tobacco taste.

Paxtine is far superior to liquid antiseptics and Peroxide for all toilet and hygienic uses and may be obtained at any drug store 25 and 50c a box or sent postpaid upon receipt of price by The Paxton Toilet Co., Boston, Mass. Send for a free sample.

New Fishing Industry.

Albion fishing in Nova Scotian waters has become interesting, but for financial reasons. These fish frequently weigh over 500 pounds and are known as horse mackerel. A number were shipped to Boston last season. The average price there is three and one-half cents per pound. Formerly these fish were considered a nuisance to the fishermen.

44 Bu. to the Acre is a heavy yield, but that's what John Kennedy of Edmonton, Alberta, Western Canada, got from 44 bushels of wheat on one acre. Reports from other districts in this province show other excellent results—such as 44 bushels of wheat from 1 1/2 acres, or 31 1/2 bu. per acre, 25, 30 and 40 bushels of wheat were numerous. As high as 125 bushels of oats to the acre were threshed from Alberta fields in 1918.

The Silver Cup
at the recent Spokane Fair was awarded to the Alberta Government for its exhibit of grain, grasses and vegetables. Reports of excellent yields for 1918 come also from Saskatchewan and Manitoba in Western Canada.

MILLIONS IN RE-CLAIMED LANDS

W. H. MYLREA, ATTORNEY, SEES IN MISSISSIPPI VALLEY $1,500,000,000.

ILLINOIS HAS BIG SHARE

Badger Swamps Cover More Than 2,000,000 Acres. Subject to Reclamation—A Large Gain in Farm Land Could be Made.

Chicago.—W. H. Mylrea of Wau-tau, former attorney general of Wisconsin, and now secretary of the Wisconsin Advancement association, the guest of the Chicago board of control of the national irrigation congress at the board's fifth monthly luncheon, given in the Hotel La Salle, sang a song of big figures relating to the reclamation of swamp lands in the Badger state and in the Mississippi valley.

His information, based on government reports, was that the reclamation of 80,000,000 acres of swamp lands in the central and eastern portions of the nation would add a value of $1,500,000,000 to these now worthless acres, and that the reclamation of the 2,500,000 acres of marsh lands in Wisconsin would add a value thereto of $41,000,000.

Continuing, he said: "The state of Illinois has within its borders nearly 1,000,000 acres of swamp lands. It would cost Illinois to reclaim these lands about $14,000,000. When finally reclaimed there would be added to the present value of these lands the sum of $20,500,000. The increased annual production would bring a profit of $2,500,000.

"For my own state of Wisconsin the value of this swamp reclamation may be roughly computed by just doubling the figures I have cited for Illinois—a little more than doubling them, as we have something more than 2,000,000 acres of such lands subject to reclamation while Illinois has but 1,000,000 acres.

"Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Iowa, with Minnesota, have 13,500,000 acres of swamp and overflowed lands. Chicago stands at the center of all this territory. Wisconsin has still unoccupied 10,000,000 acres of tillable lands, yet our cheese factories equal in number all the rest in the United States. This movement is your movement. It is Wisconsin's movement and it is my movement. Let us have these lands reclaimed and made into homes for the people."

TRAIN ON HER MAIDEN TRIP

The Olympian, First on Milwaukee Road to Start Across Continent, Goes Through City.

Milwaukee.—The "Olympian," the first of the "Across the Continent" trains to be run over the new Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound railroad, completed the first leg of her maiden trip and arrived in Milwaukee. Drawn by one of the powerful new passenger engines, No. 1597, the new all steel train made the run from Chicago to Milwaukee without a hitch of any kind.

General Passenger Agent Dixon, St. Paul, was the only one of the road's officials on the train.

The perfectly appointed train made the run to Milwaukee under the guidance of Conductor Dan Marrott and Engineer Luke Collins. It was made up of mail car, baggage car, two coaches, one diner, three sleepers and an observation car.

Practically all the officials of the road were at the station in Chicago to give the train a sendoff.

Deitz Jurors May be Sued.

Milwaukee.—A $10,000 fund is to be raised by a new John Deitz defense committee to reopen the Deitz case and bring to trial all the members of the jury which found Deitz guilty, in an effort to learn how they were influenced in their decision.

Printed stub receipt books will be issued to insure against any fraud in the collection of the fund.

TWO KILLED; OTHERS HURT

Pennsylvania Coal Container Drops While Supports Were Being Strengthened.

Milwaukee.—One man was killed, another died from his injuries four hours later and five others were more or less hurt when a coal hopper in the yards of the Pennsylvania Coal & Supply company at the foot of South Water street crashed to the ground, carrying with it 400 tons of fuel.

The dead: SANBORN, U. T., millwright, 618 Second avenue.

THORSEN, CARL, millwright, 631 Scott street.

The injured: Ole Olson, laborer, 285 Washington street.

August Marzion, Greenfield avenue. John Phanson, 631 Washington street.

John Presik, 1044 Tenth avenue. Ernst Francke, 935 Windlake avenue.

Five millwrights at work on the supports of the hopper and the aerial trackage of the plant narrowly escaped death by dashing into the street when they observed that the trackage and the hopper were swaying dangerously.

These were Steve Porso, Charles Jafke, Herman Hoffman, Charles Rasmussen and Simon Brantze.

Sanborn was killed by a heavy piece of timber which, falling from above, struck him on the back of the head. Both of his legs were broken.

He was killed three feet from the place where he was working and had just started to run when the timber fell upon him. William Nelson, another millwright, who was working alongside Sanborn when the crash came, was too startled to run, and though heavy pieces of timber fell all about him, he escaped unscathed.

George S. Eastman, vice-president of the company, declared shortly after the accident that the collapse of the hopper supports must have been caused by the vibrations attendant upon the unloading of the steamer William Wolfe, which was being unloaded at the time of the accident. Mr. Eastman said that he did not believe that the accident was caused by the running of trucks over the aerial trackage.

"The hopper had only been erected a few years ago and was considered absolutely safe," said Mr. Eastman. "It was strongly supported by 10x10 and 8x10 beams, and I cannot understand how it came to collapse unless it was the vibration.

Sanborn, the injured men, and the men who rushed to safety had been at work at the plant for about a week. They were engaged in strengthening the supports of the entire plant and were to have finished their job in two more days.

HE CLAIMS DISCRIMINATION

Assemblyman Hull Declares Common Schools are Being Neglected for University.

Madison.—Assemblyman Merlin Hull, of Black River Falls, champion of the common schools in the legislature, is disappointed because the committee on education has voted to report for indefinite postponement his bill providing for a training department for teachers in connection with one high school of each county not having a county training school.

His particular pet bill providing for a state board of education to have full charge of the educational system of the state, including the university, failed to make an impression on the committee on education, and Mr. Hull is reconciled to the fact that this bill, which meets with opposition from university quarters, will be killed.

"The common schools are coming in for little consideration," said Mr. Hull. "The university is getting about everything it wants, and the rural communities are getting practically nothing."

Boy Crushed in Elevator.

Milwaukee.—Joseph Vogel, 18 years old, an employe in the R. Gumz & Co. packing house, Muskego avenue and Canal street, was instantly killed, when in some unaccountable manner he was caught between the elevator and the walls of the shaft. The screams of the boy as he was crushed almost caused a panic in the building, and the rest of the employes refused to continue work for the day.

Rocking a Rowboat Fatal.

The dead man is Bert Deracker, 562 Fifth street. They had been rocking the boat.

"INSURANCE FEES" SUIT NOW URGED

SANDBORN SPRINGS RESOLUTION WHICH RECALLS ACTION OF 1909.

RESULT OF A CONCERENCE

Governor and Members of the Legislature Met and Discussed the Work of the Session—A Large Number Present.

Madison.—A group of assemblymen and senators and the state executive discussed legislation recently. Senator Sanborn shot into the senate a joint resolution just before the "distance flag" fell and shut of new business, calling on the attorney general for a report on the suits with which the attorney general's office was instructed by the last legislature to institute against insurance commissioners.

The resolution recited that the attorney general was directed by the legislature of 1909 to act against present and former commissioners and their sureties, one of the actions, at least to involve the question of their right to retain fees. The senate, it is stated, resolves, "the assembly concurring, that the attorney general is instructed to forthwith make a report," and bring at least the action as to fees.

The resolution adds: "Resolved, further, that the governor is authorized and directed to take such steps in relation to the carrying out of the said purposes of this and aforesaid resolutions and to prosecute such actions and enforce such claims as authorized and directed to take such steps in relation to the carrying out of the said purposes of this and aforesaid resolutions and to prosecute such actions and enforce such claims as authorized and proper for the purpose."

STATE BAR HONORS JUSTICES

Unveiled Shafts Erected to the Memory of Justices E. G. Ryan and L. S. Dixon.

Milwaukee.—Arrangements for dedicating the monument erected in Forest Home cemetery by the state bar association to the memory of former Chief Justice E. G. Ryan of the state Supreme court and of another shaft erected in Madison to the memory of former Chief Justice L. S. Dixon, have been completed, according to R. B. Mallory, secretary of the state bar association.

Those in charge of the Ryan monument in Forest Home cemetery were James G. Flanders, with G. W. Hazelton as alternate speaker, and the following committee represented the state association at the Milwaukee ceremonies: Thomas W. Spence, Sr., James G. Ryan, George H. Noyes, W. A. Hayes, George D. Van Dyke, Fred Vogel, Jr., George P. Miller, Judge Halsey, G. C. Markham, Gerry W. Hazelton and H. A. J. Upham.

At the ceremonies in Madison for the unveiling of the Dixon monument Chief Justice Winslow of the Supreme court was speaker and the following committee, headed by Gov. McGovern, represented the state association: George E. Noyes, Chief Justice Winslow, Mrs. Annie M. Vilas, John M. Olin, A. E. Proudfoot, Mrs. Eliza M. Keyes, Burr W. Jones, William R. Bagley, Judge A. L. Sanborn, and L. S. Hanks.

Both monuments were completed about a week ago from the $7,000 contributed by the bar members and many laymen who knew the two judges during life.

TAKE A FIVE DAYS RECESS

Legislature Decides to Observe Memorial Day by Adjourning Over That Day.

Madison.—A joint resolution was passed by both houses of the legislature providing that they adjourn over Memorial Day. This action was taken to permit members to go home for the day. It was held that it would be of no use for members to come back just for Monday, as they would be compelled to adjourn again on Tuesday.

"Mary Ann" Bill a Law.

Madison.—Governor McGovern has signed the second choice primary election bill. It is chapter 200 of the laws of 1911. That he would sign the bill was certain as it was an administration measure, but he delayed final action for some time in order to carefully examine the provisions of the law.

Milwaukee.—M. Bowen, a farmer residing in the town of Byron, was badly injured by being thrown from his wagon when it was struck by a treet car.

HINTS FOR THE COOK

RIGHT AND WRONG WAYS OF PREPARING MEAT.

"Simmering" and "Boiling" Are Different Things—Steaming Excellent for Cooking Large Joints—Braising Pan Useful.

The ordinary housewife rarely understands the meaning of the words "boil" and "simmer." Water boils at sea level at 212 degrees Fahrenheit; at high altitudes it boils at lower temperature. We find by experience that meat becomes tender more quickly at simmering point—a temperature of 180 degrees—than when it is boiled at 212 degrees. Simmering is when the bubbles form on the bottom of the vessel, safely pass through the water and rupture at the top, says the Christian Science Monitor. This is not the boiling motion. To have a piece of boiled meat rare, juicy and tasty the outside must be thoroughly sealed the same as in baking. To do this, put the meat into boiling water, bring quickly to the boiling point, boil for 20 minutes, then push the kettle back where the meat will simmer 15 minutes to each pound. If the meat is to be served rare 12 minutes will be long enough; on the other hand, if it is to be well done, cook it 20 minutes to the pound. Even when well done it should be juicy, tender and palatable.

Boiled meats are more easily digested than baked meats, even when baked meats are carefully cooked. Broiled meats are preferable to those cooked in a dry pan, and dry-panned meats are far superior to those fried; in fact, fried meats have no place at a well-regulated table.

Steaming is an admirable method of cooking tough meats, or large joints like a leg of mutton or a ham. This may be done in a common boiler, using sufficient water to create a good volume of steam. Place the meat in the boiler, on a rack, above the water. As the water evaporates replace it with boiling water. Do not check the boiling or you reduce the heat and soften the surface of the meat.

Braising is a cross between baking and boiling. This method is largely used for tough meats. A braising pan is a baking pan with a tight-fitting cover. These pans are sold under the astonishing name of "roasting pans;" roasting means to cook before a fire; you cannot roast in a covered pan. These pans are, notwithstanding their illogical name, admirable utensils in which to cook fricandeau of veal, beef a la mode, leg of mutton, braised beef, or an old turkey or fowl. Place the meat in the pan and partly fill the pan with boiling stock or water; add, if you like, a sliced onion, a bay leaf and a little chopped celery. Cover the pan, stand in a very hot oven and bake for three or four hours, according to the size and the kind of meat. A leg of mutton will require two; beef a la mode four, and fricandeau of veal three hours. Veal, to be at all edible, must be very well cooked.

Nut Bread.

Beat up one egg and beat into it one-quarter of a cupful of sugar; add one teaspoonful of salt and two cupfuls of milk. Mix four teaspoonfuls of baking powder with four cupfuls of flour and sift this into the other ingredients, adding at the same time one cupful of chopped nuts. Stir these all together until smooth and then make into two loaves; let them rise in pans for 20 minutes and then bake for 20 minutes in a hot oven.—Harper's Bazar.

Second Serving.

Instead of serving roast beef on its second appearance cold, prepare it as follows: Lay the slices of cold beef in a dressing made of a saltspoonful of white pepper, twice as much salt, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar and three tablespoonfuls of olive oil. Mix well and pour over the beef. Leave for an hour, then drain each slice, dip into a thick fritter batter and fry in deep fat to a golden brown. Serve very hot.

Little Economy.

There is nothing so small that you cannot save money on it. Make your pillow cases, for instance, of tubing. Then when they begin to get thin in the middle, you can rip the closed end and sew them again so that the creased edge of the pillow case will be toward the middle of the flat side. The worn places are thus brought to the outer edge, where there is practically no wear upon them.

Flour Starch.

Mix first with cold water the flour. Then pour on gradually boiling water and boil till clear. Strain through cloth. Add bluing. For table linen add few tablespoons to rinse water. Clothes keep stiff longer and more satisfactory than by using regular starch.

Snickers Doodles.

Two cups of sugar, two eggs, cup sweet milk, six tablespoonfuls melted lard, cup chopped raisins, one quart, tablespoonful of cream tartar, half teaspoonful of soda; flavor to taste. Drop with teaspoon on greased pan and bake in hot oven.

Cutting Butter.

To cut brick butter for table use tear strip of oiled paper wrapping, place on butter the desired thickness, and cut through. Butter in squares does not break or stick to the knives.

GOOD WORK WELL SUPPORTED

People Are Liberal in Their Contributions to Young Men's Christian Associations.

This year Young Men's Christian associations are likely, it is said, to break all records in amount of money raised for new buildings. The success at Philadelphia, when $1,030,000 was secured in twelve days, has given stimulus both to Young Men's and Young Women's associations. Added to it was the $2,000,000 campaign for building in foreign capitals. Brooklyn women, with the aid of a few men, have just secured $415,000; Atlanta men, $600,000; Reading, $217,000; Elyria, Ohio, $127,000, where the committee asked for but $100,000; Charleston, S. C., $150,000; Raleigh, N. C., $75,000; Walla Walla, Wash., $48,000, and Ishpeming, Mich., $22,500. Association leaders say three things help them in getting these large sums. Christian unity, a short and public appeal, and real results accomplished in buildings already erected.

A Wily Judge.

At an assize court, according to the London Times, a juror claimed exemption from serving on the ground that he was deaf. The judge held a conversation with the clerk of arraigns on the subject, and then, turning to the man, at whom he looked intently, he asked in a whisper: "Are you very deaf?" "Very," was the unguarded reply. "So I perceive," was the rejoinder of the judge, "but not whisper deaf. You had better go into the box. The witness shall speak low."—Case and Comment.

MENTAL ACCURACY

Greatly Improved by Leaving Off Coffee

The manager of an extensive creamery in Wis. states that while a regular coffee drinker, he found it injurious to his health and a hindrance to the performance of his business duties.

"It impaired my digestion, gave me a distressing sense of fullness in the region of the stomach, causing a most painful and disquieting palpitation of the heart, and what is worse, it muddled my mental faculties so as to seriously injure my business efficiency.

"I finally concluded that something would have to be done. I quit the use of coffee, short off, and began to drink Postum. The cook didn't make it right at first. She didn't boil it long enough, and I did not find it palatable and quit using it and went back to coffee and to the stomach trouble again.

"Then my wife took the matter in hand, and by following the directions on the box, faithfully, she had me drinking Postum for several days before I knew it.

"When I happened to remark that I was feeling much better than I had for a long time, she told me that I had been drinking Postum, and that accounted for it. Now we have no coffee on our table.

"My digestion has been restored, and with this improvement has come relief from the oppressive sense of fullness and palpitation of the heart that used to bother me so. I note such a gain in mental strength and acuteness that I can attend to my office work with ease and pleasure and without making the mistakes that were so annoying to me while I was using coffee.

"Postum is the greatest table drink of the times, in my humble estimation." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE OF SKIN AND HAIR

Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, and cost so little that it is almost criminal not to use them. Think of the suffering entailed by neglected skin troubles—mental because of disfigurement—physical because of pain. Think of the pleasure of a clear skin, soft white hands and good hair. These blessings are often only a matter of a little thoughtful, timely care, viz.:—warm baths with Cuticura Soap, assisted when necessary by gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment. The latest Cuticura book, an invaluable guide to skin and hair health, will be mailed free, on application to the Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Boston, Mass.

WEST VIRGINIA LAW DEFECTIVE

Archaic Registration Methods Revealed by Senator.

POWER IN ONE MAN'S HANDS

Bristow's Plan to Make the District a Political "Dog"—Congressman Littlepage Writes of Himself—Mexican War Scare Story a Brazen Fake.

By WILLIS J. ABBOT.

Washington.—When you listen to the conversation of the two Democratic senators from West Virginia you are compelled to wonder at the political revolution that overturned the state and sent for the first time since 1894 two Democratic senators to Washington.

Take for example the case of Senator William E. Chilton. He comes from Kanawha, one of the busiest and most prosperous counties in the state, with a population exceeding that of the state of Nevada, made up mainly of miners and men engaged in the development of its rich coal, iron, oil and gas lands.

"After studying the obstacles we had to encounter," said Mr. Chilton, "and keeping in mind the history of the state, it seems to us Democrats who won the victory that it is fairly incredible that we should have succeeded. The state is historically, and was naturally Republican. Its people broke away from Virginia on the issue of secession, and were given separate statehood by a Republican congress and administration. We had not merely this sentiment to combat, but to a great extent the hostility of the employing classes. Our state is essentially an industrial one, dominated by great corporations engaged in the exploitation of our unrivaled mineral wealth. The managers of these corporations were—as men of their type always are—distrustful of the Democratic party. But the outcome of the recent elections, not merely in West Virginia, but throughout the nation, shows that distrust to have been very largely allayed.

Archaic Registration Law.
But all other impediments to Democratic success are dwarfed and fade into nothingness by the side of the archaic, indefensible and corrupting registration law with which the state is cursed. How we ever got past that law is beyond all comprehension. It took mighty hard work and some money used legitimately to compass it.

"Take my county for example—Kanawha. It is forty miles long by about 30 wide. In it there are 103 registration districts each with its own registrar. Mark that, its own registrar. We don't have bi-partisan boards of inquiry in which the rights of each party are protected by its own representatives. One man is the supreme and sole arbiter in each district of the question of who shall vote and who shall be denied that right. And how is this man selected? He is appointed by the Republican county judge on nominations kindly furnished by the Republican machine! What hope of a fair registration could spring from such a system?"

"But more. How does this man go about registering the voters? Does he have an office? Not always. If he does it is his personal office, he is not tied to any special hours and is under no obligation to open it to the public. Is there a day of registration? None at all. There is no time or place fixed for citizens to appear before him and demand their names be put upon the roll."

Bristow's Bill Looks Good.
If a bill introduced into the senate the other day by Senator Bristow becomes a law the District of Columbia will gain a new distinction. Washington has long been the favorite "dog" on which theatrical managers try new plays. Senator Bristow is going to make of the district a political dog on which to try out a new plan of nominating candidates for president and vice-president. I use the comparison with the theatrical managers in no derogatory sense, for the Kansas senator's plan seems to be emphatically a good one.

In brief, his bill provides that the residents of the district, after complying with certain formalities as to registration, etc., may have the right to vote at primaries, conducted under the direction of the district commissioners and paid for out of the district fund, for their preferred candidates for president and vice-president, for the delegates to the national conventions, and for the district national committeemen. Republicans and Democrats would naturally vote separate tickets, and in each instance the voter has the right to express his first and second choice.

Under the rules of the two great parties the District of Columbia has the same representation in national conventions as have the territories—namely, two delegates to the Republican convention and six to the Democratic. The disparity in numbers is explained, or at least excused, with the plea that the two-thirds rule in the Democratic convention makes six votes of no greater consequence than two in the Republican. But there are not wanting those who hold that political divisions having no votes should not have a hand in nominating candidates. It is quite conceivable that in as close a contest as is foreshadowed in the next Democratic national convention the votes of the District of Columbia and Alaska, or either one alone, might nominate a man who would estrange the electoral votes of New York, New Jersey, Ohio or Indiana. The "free coinage of silver at 16 to 1" was put in the Democratic platform of 1900 by the casting vote of the delegate of Hawaii, who placidly remarked that he had come 4,000 miles to "attend to this convention"—and attend to it he did.

Mr. Littlepage on Himself.
Pride of authorship is sometimes sneered at, but after all it is not an unreasonable sentiment. If a man has no pride in his literary productions, others will hardly find much to admire in them. Even the author of "Nick Carter," a monumental work which you will find on the kiosks in all the cities of Europe with the American "illustrations," but printed in the vernacular of the neighborhood, must be proud of his literary skill.

But when a man attempts to write his autobiography as a self made man, too much pride in either the making or the authorship is apt to go before a fall. For example, here comes the new Congressional Directory, with the autobiography of the Hon. Brown Littlepage of West Virginia. The gentleman is a man of political and intellectual ability. He has a habit of winning Democratic victories in Republican districts. He has already made his impression upon the house, and will doubtless go far. But somehow the peroration of his description of his own qualities moves his colleagues to wonder if not to laughter. I quote:

"Mr. Littlepage stands very high as a lawyer and citizen throughout his district and state. He was a candidate for the nomination for governor two years ago, but was defeated in the convention by Hon. Lewis Bennett. The sentiment is now prevailing throughout the state that had Mr. Littlepage been nominated he would have been elected. He bears the reputation of being a very grateful man, never forgetting a kindness, and is faithful in his friendships and thoroughly reliable. He stands for the under man in life. Works hard, late early, as a congressman, and is reflecting credit upon the country by his manly, conservative and wise course in Washington as a representative of all the people. He is a patriotic man, of ability and fine qualities of mind and heart."

A representative, without due sense of reverence, commented upon this self-revelation with a parody on a classic couplet:
And still they gazed, and still they wonder rize,
That one small page could show all that he is.

No pun on the name of the gentleman from West Virginia was intended in the last line.

vexed by Fine Arts Commission.
Congress is always tenacious of its powers and intolerant of their invasion by unofficial boards. This feeling cropped out the other day in a debate on a resolution of inquiry into the delay in beginning the new building for the bureau of printing and engraving. The present building is dark, insanitary, ill-ventilated. It is tenanted night and day by thousands of workers, both men and women, and the air in its fetid workrooms has no opportunity to be purified. Three years ago $2,150,000 was appropriated for a new building; not a sod has been turned for the foundations. Personal inquiry by a congressman elicited the fact that the fine arts committee had decided that a suitably artistic building could not be erected within the sum appropriated, the plans as prepared by the government architect were changed, and a new appropriation is to be sought. Hence, congressional wrath and a resolution of inquiry.

For, you see, the fine arts commission was appointed by President Roosevelt. It has an office in Washington, but its members, headed by D. H. Burnham, the famous city beautifier, serves without pay. Congress never asked by Roosevelt to authorize the commission. Congress never has authorized it. And now when the commission's detected in holding up the enforcement of an act of congress for three years, the house rises in wrath and threatens to sweep the obstructionists away.

The whole thing is unfortunate. The commission has done good work already for a more stately capital and is just on the threshold of its labors. It is right in opposing the erection of a cheap and inartistic building on the Mall, which is intended to be an avenue of dignified government palaces. But it should have amended the plans, taken congress into its confidence and sought a supplementary appropriation which could have been secured before the sum now in hand was exhausted.

Caustic Comment by Mann.
In the course of a debate upon the Democratic economy program, which thus far consists of saving about $182,000 by the discharge of superfluous clerks, messengers and janitors. Mr. Mann let fly some of the barbed shafts of his acrid wit at his enemies on the Democratic side. The gentleman from Illinois discovered, or pretended to discover, that while the roll of janitors had been sorely depleted in the progress of reform, that of messengers had been extended. This he explained in this wise: "I have been very much amused here recently to notice in the corridors of the house certain very nice looking white southern gentlemen sitting at their committee room doors as janitors. Usually, and I think always since I have been in the house, these places have been filled by colored men. I understand now that there may be some reason for abolishing janitors, because that affects the feelings of some of these white gentlemen, to be called janitors. They prefer to be called messengers. I suppose that is the reason for the resolution."

The irritating feature of the clean sweep of attendants in the house end of the capitol and in the house office building is the complete ignorance of their duties and surroundings shown by the new men. The capitol is a maze in which the oldest hands easily go astray. The office building is an enormous barracks in which a misdirection may give a visitor a quarter of a mile walk before he reaches his destination.

Brazen War Scare Fake.
It is not probable that there was ever printed in Washington or sent out over the wires a more brazen or a more criminal "fake" than the very explicit war scare of Saturday, May 6. This story described the house committee on military affairs as holding night meetings and maintaining such exaggerated secrecy that even the official stenographers were banished from the room while Gen. Wood told his hair-raising tale of pending war with Mexico. "War is inevitable," was the text of the story, and the number of troops available was told with an infinity of detail—and equal accuracy—while the picturesque description of United States army engineers masquerading as mining engineers in Mexico in order to map out roads and locate bridges added to the artistic effect. Hobson seeing Japanese spies swarming Hawaii and along our Pacific coast was never more wrapt in his vision than the inventor of the yellow Mexican romance.

The trouble with it all is that it is not true—if it were true, we should have to put down many dignitaries of the government as liars. To begin with, the president has categorically stated that he will never intervene in Mexico without action of congress, and no representations looking toward intervention have been made to any congressional committee.

Mr. Hay's Vigorous Denial.
Representative James Hay of Virginia, chairman of the house committee on military affairs, is unsparring in his denunciation of the fake and its author. "There is not a word of truth in it," he said heatedly. "General Wood has never said a word to our committee nor has he been asked to. We never held a night session, nor has the stenographer ever been asked to leave the room. Every meeting of the committee has been open to the public. I do not know of a single word that General Wood has ever said to the committee on which could be based such a story, the publication of which in my opinion is positively criminal."

Representative William Sulzer of New York, long time a member of the committee on Military affairs, and now chairman of the committee on foreign relations, talks even more vigorously.

"The story would be utter bosh if its publication did not endanger the relations of amity between the two nations," said Mr. Sulzer. "It is sufficiently discredited by the explicit denials of General Wood and Mr. Hay. As a matter of fact, the administration is determined to keep out of Mexico, and nothing but serious and repeated outrages upon Americans can shake this determination. We can't keep intervening in every Latin-American country every time there is an insurrection or a revolution. What if the United States minister at Mexico city does report rioting and that shopkeepers are putting up their shutters? That is no reason for us to throw 200,000 soldiers into Mexico. We have riots occasionally ourselves. Intervention would cost us thousands of lives, millions of dollars and gradually decline into a guerrilla warfare which would last for years."

General Wood denies the story in toto. Members of the committee say that in informal conversation the general declared recently that the prospects for peace in Mexico were never brighter than now.

Why Some Desire Intervention.
But it must be kept in mind that the temptation to intervene is strong upon the politicians who surround him, whether in the department or in congress. The desire to avoid, at any cost, intervention and the war that would follow is equally strong upon the Democrats. As a mere plain dispassionate report of Washington it may be stated that both Republicans and Democrats believe that the chances of Democratic success in the next election are overwhelming—some Republicans have unwillingly resigned themselves to the situation, others who are at odds with the president rather welcome it. But the strong men of the party, the leaders, the men who if they die will die fighting, are contesting every inch of the Democratic advance and casting about for a method of checking it. Intervention in Mexico would effect this. No party with a war on its hands, however trivial, was ever turned out of power.

The Democrats recognize this danger and if the Republicans play politics with the Mexican situation, they will try to meet them in kind. Just as the party in power might stretch a point to bring on a war, the Democrats would stretch several to avert one. That may not be patriotism, but it is politics.

Clean Sanitary Floors.

Varnish, which is commonly regarded only as a beautifier, is an efficient sanitary agent. Varnished surfaces can be cleaned by wiping, and the microbe-laden dust is thus kept out of the air. A varnished floor is therefore not only up to date, beautiful and easily cleaned, but is wholesome. The National Association of Varnish Manufacturers, 636 The Bourse, Philadelphia, Penn., are distributing free a booklet entitled "Modern Floors," which tells how floors may be made and kept wholesome and attractive. Send for one. Varnish is cheaper than carpet and far more satisfactory.

Aids Nature

The great success of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in curing weak stomachs, wasted bodies, weak lungs, and obstinate and lingering coughs, is based on the recognition of the fundamental truth that "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies Nature with body-building, tissue-repairing, muscle-making materials, in condensed and concentrated form. With this help Nature supplies the necessary strength to the stomach to digest food, build up the body and thereby throw off lingering obstinate coughs. The "Discovery" re-establishes the digestive and nutritive organs in sound health, purifies and enriches the blood, and nourishes the nerves—in short establishes sound vigorous health.

If your dealer offers something "just as good," it is probably better FOR HIM...it pays better. But you are thinking of the cure not the profit, so there's nothing "just as good" for you. Say so.

TO CURE SORE BUNIONS

Treatment Merely Quick for This and All Foot Troubles.
"Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of hot water; soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently massaging the sore parts. (Less time will not give desired results.) Repeat this each night until cure is permanent." All pain and inflammation is drawn out instantly and the bunion soon is reduced to normal size. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off and will stay off. Sore, tender feet and smelly, sweaty feet need but a few treatments. A twenty-five cent package of Calocide is usually sufficient to put the worst feet in fine condition. Calocide is no longer confined to only the doctors' use. Any druggist has it in stock or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. This will prove a welcome item to persons who have been vainly trying to cure their foot troubles with ineffective tablets and foot powders.
