STATE HIGHWAY ALLOTMENT

The New State Highway Commission Has Given Out a Table Showing What Each County is Entitled to

MUST HAVE A SPECIAL ELECTION

Every Town Must Have a Special Election Before Sept. 1, 1911, to Receive Their Share of the Allotment

The Wisconsin State Highway Commission at its first meeting voted to inaugurate a newspaper campaign to the end that the new state aid highway law (Chapter 337 Laws of 1911) might be thoroughly understood by the people of the state, and that construction under it in 1912 might be general throughout the state and not confined to the comparatively few counties which have been operating under the county aid laws previously in effect.

The law is so drawn that state aid is available in 1912 under the county aid system, but those towns which have not so voted will have to vote a tax at a special meeting held on or before September 1st, 1911, if they wish to get state aid in 1912. The time in which towns may act is so short that it is almost impossible to get widespread action, therefore a newspaper campaign has been adopted the best method of acquainting the people with the law. This paper will from time to time publish the various points of the law.

The preliminary allotment of state highway fund for 1912 has been given out by the new State Highway Commission. The following table will show what the counties in this vicinity are entitled to receive under the provisions of the new law, from the $350,000 state highway fund available for distribution for construction in 1912.

County	Percentage of amount due each state to be paid county if all counties apply for full allotment	Amount
Dodge	2.55	825
Fond du Lac	2.64	820
Ozaukee	0.83	266
Sheboygan	2.32	710
Washington	1.28	410
Waukesha	1.92	620

The amounts given are what the counties will receive if every county asks for what it is entitled to get under the law. It is probable that some of the counties of the state will not apply for their full allotment, in which case the amounts not asked for are divided pro rata between the counties asking for more than their full allotment. If Washington county will ask for their allotment they will be entitled to $440. Why should we not have it? Every citizen of the county should and ought to use their influence in trying to get this allotment, of course it will mean a special election before September 1st, 1911.

To Stop Reckless Driving.

Among the new laws enacted by the legislature is one which prohibits any person under 16 years of age from operating an automobile unless he or she is accompanied by parent, guardian or other adult person. The law also provides for an annual tax of $5.00 on each motor car owned in the state, and the money will be spent in the cause of good roads.

The law carries with it a penalty of not less than $10 nor more than $50 for the first offense in case a child under 16 years is arrested for driving a car, or in case an intoxicated person is found guilty of having driven a car. Any person found guilty of "reckless driving" is subject to the same fine or imprisonment for sixty days, or both. For the second offense in any of the three instances the minimum fine is $25 and the maximum fine is $100.

Tow plates with numbers on will be furnished the auto owners by the state after January 1, 1912, at which time the tax will be $5.00. A tax of $2.00 on motor cycles will go into effect at the same time. One number plate will have to be carried on the front of a car and the other number on the rear of the machine as at present.

The distribution of the auto tax fund will be in this manner: Each county will get three-fourths of the money sent in to the state fund. The expenses will be taken out of the fund, of course before the apportionment of the amounts to the different counties.

RECIPROCITY NOW A LAW

Bill Was Passed by the Senate Last Week Saturday Afternoon

EXTRA SESSION HELD FOR RATIFICATION

Fight Began Sixteen Months Ago at Albany, N. Y.

The Canadian reciprocity act is now a law, the bill having passed the United States Senate at Washington last Saturday afternoon by a vote of 53 to 27, without amendment. As the bill passed the house some time ago, it was not necessary to return the measure to that body, it therefore was sent to the Capitol where it was signed by President Taft. It immediately became a law.

The fight for reciprocity began sixteen months ago at Albany, N. Y., when President Taft and Canadian Minister of Finance Fielding had a conference. Since then it has been the supreme campaign of the present administration. It has also been carried through two congresses, fruitlessly through the last one because it was defeated in the senate. An extra session was called by President Taft expressly for the ratification of this bill.

The bill passed by the Republican House last session was introduced by Representative McCall of Massachusetts. The present measure was fathered by Democratic Leader Underwood of the house, chairman of the tariff making ways and means committee.

Closes Contract.

Joseph Hutter, a contractor, from Fond du Lac was in the village last Monday when he closed a contract with the Bank of Kewaskum for building their new bank building. Mr. Hutter will have a crew of men at work building the bank by the first of next week. He expects to have the building completed by the first of November.

Ogenorth & Sons who first had the contract for the mason work were compelled to withdraw their contract for the reason that they could not have the place finished by the specified time as they have too much other work.

TAKE NOTICE!

This issue we are forced to print six pages of the paper instead of four, therefore we call all of readers' attention to the fact. Look for the two extra pages, which contain local advertising and local news.

Delivers Beer Via Auto Truck.

The West Bend Brewing Co. last week Saturday delivered beer to this village with their huge auto truck. The machine is the largest of its kind in this vicinity. With it they are able to haul about 20 barrels of beer. The truck is mainly used to points east and west of West Bend. It attracted the attention of most all the citizens of this village when humming along the streets from one saloon to another.

Bankers' Association Will Aid Farmers.

At their recent convention at Milwaukee, the State Bankers' Association unanimously decided to aid in the distribution of pure seed grains and the dissemination of agricultural knowledge through the medium of farmers' meetings and exhibitions. Prof. R. A. Moore of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin, who fostered this project, believes that a relationship of mutual cooperation and kindly feeling should exist between the farmer and the banker. Each can materially assist the other and their united effort should greatly improve conditions and practices.

The plan as outlined by the department of agricultural extension of the university will involve the division of the state into circuits, three to five banks composing each circuit. The college of agriculture will determine the circuit meeting dates and will send a representative to each gathering. The local committee in each case will make arrangements for the meeting and will solicit prizes from the local business men for the farm products exhibited.

Scrub grains will be exhibited at the initial meeting. Subsequent to a talk on their improvement, each exhibitor will be presented with pure bred seed furnished by the college which he will grow and show the next year in addition to his scrub varieties, for comparative purposes. The original circuit must be maintained for two years and then if the project proves successful, new circuits may be organized. Winners in the local circuits will be allowed to exhibit their produce at the annual bankers show which will be held during the Farmers Course at the college of agriculture at Madison.

Self-Help.

Fight your own battles; hoe your own row. Ask no favors of anyone, and you'll succeed five thousand times better than one who is always beseeching some one's patronage. No one will ever help you as you help yourself, because no one will be so heartily interested in your affairs. The first step will not be such a long one perhaps, but carving your own way up the mountain, you make each one lead to another, and stand firm in that while you chop another out. Men who made fortunes are not those who had five thousand dollars given them to start with but started fair with a dollar or two. Men who have by their own exertions acquired fame have not been thrust into publicity by puffs begged or paid for or given in friendly spirit. They have stretched out their hands and touched the public heart. Men who win jobs do their own wooing. Whether you work for fame, for love, for money, or for anything else, work with your hands, heart and brain. Say "I will" and some day you will conquer. Never let any man have it to say "I have dragged you up—I have made you what you are—I have made you what you are." Too many friends hurt a man more than none at all.

The Statesman can't accept a fool notion. In the writer's time almost everything found on the average man's dinner, supper and breakfast table has been declared unwholesome, even the saddest and baled hay put up by philanthropic food manufacturers for the benefit of the people's health. Then there's the physiciant and bath artist; at least ten hours a day should be given to his instructions, else we shall go wrecked to an early grave. A thousand fool things are advocated for a short time by a lot of intelligent people, but fairness, industry and temperance will probably be all that is needed to round out a good long life.

STATE FAIR TO BE BIGGER AND BETTER THAN EVER

This Year's State Fair at Milwaukee Bids Fair to Surpass Anything Ever Attempted Before

Secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, R. W. Rowlands, has moved the State Fair headquarters from Madison to the executive building on the State Fair grounds and his office staff will follow on Monday. This action of the Board in locating the Secretary in Milwaukee during the month of August and September, is a progressive step in the management of the fair and exhibitors in the machinery, horticulture, cattle, horse, poultry and other departments can secure direct information and select space any day until the opening of the fair.

The publicity and promotion bureau of the State Fair is located in Milwaukee this year in the office of the Citizens Business League and the advertising campaign is being conducted by Wm. Mac Laren, one of the Milwaukee members of the board, assisted by Bart J. Rudile. A sixteen sheet, four color poster, and an eight sheet, four color poster have been designed and will find their way to the cities and cross-roads of the state early in August. The sixteen sheet poster shows a birds-eye view of the State fair grounds and shows the location of every building, grandstand, race track, machinery field and the general landscape of the park. The eight sheet is a view of the race track in front of the grandstand, taken on the day President Taft visited the fair two years ago.

The State Highway Commission, at its meeting in Madison last week, decided to build a section of good road on the fair grounds during fair week and the engineers of the department have been instructed to prepare the exhibit and a force of men will give practical demonstrations of farmers' and roadmasters' in surfacing, grading and leveling roads every day of fair week.

James J. Nelson, Amherst, A. W. Prehn, Waussau and William Macdonald, Milwaukee, the special attraction committee of the fair, have engaged two of Glen B. Curtiss' aeroplanes for daily exhibitions during the fair. The committee is endeavoring to secure Lincoln Beachey, who recently flew over Niagara Falls, and J. A. D. McCurdy who flew from Key West to Havana. The contract for these aviators calls for three flights of not less than fifteen minutes duration every afternoon, and that they will also cooperate with the military authorities in the war maneuvers on Saturday, September 16th, when detachments of artillery, cavalry and infantry from Ft. Sheridan and Snelling will battle with the three arms of the Wisconsin National Guard in the sham battle.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the pageant of all nations which will be one of the night features of the fair. It is intended that this spectacle shall be illuminated by fifteen magnificently illuminated floats, each float to be drawn by four or six horses and from 100 to 150 representatives of the fifteen nations will take part in the pageant. The same company who built the Hudson-Fulton celebration and New Orleans Mardi Gras floats and decorations, the Chicago sane Fourth of July pageant and the Philadelphia Bicentennial are planning the night spectacle.

Silo Forms Loaned to Wisconsin Farmers

To meet the big demand among farmers of Wisconsin for concrete silos, the department of agricultural engineering of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin has made seven sets of forms for building concrete silos and is renting them to farmers throughout the state. The college requires that at least three silos shall be built in the locality in which the forms are rented and a price of $10 for each silo is charged. Prof. C. A. Oeok, who has this work in charge, estimates that there will be about 35 concrete silos constructed with these forms this season.

The forms are located in the following places: Superior, Ashland, Wittenburg, Hortonville, Burlington, Baraboo and Cottage Grove. The interest in this work is shown by the large number of applications received at the college. There are more applications now than can be filled this season. Prof. Oeok has just prepared a bulletin on concrete Silo Construction in which he clearly explains how to make the forms and the silos. This bulletin will be ready for distribution soon and those interested in the making of silos should write for it to the director of the experiment station, Madison, Wis.

Five silos have already been completed by the use of these forms. There is one at each of the following towns: Portage, Baraboo, Hortonville, South Milwaukee and Cottage Grove. The first form was sent out in March. In May there were four in the field, in June five and in July seven.

A married woman can read the women's columns in the paper on how to manage a husband until she is black in the face and still find Miss Fitzpatrick, of Philadelphia, noticed her husband's love was growing cold. She was only a bride having been married less than a year, and she did want to keep her love a little longer, so consulted the women's columns of the papers. They said "Put on a pretty new dress to receive your husband when he comes home tired in the evening." Mrs. Fitzpatrick did, and her husband showed his displeasure by throwing a cup of coffee all over it.

HONOR PRESIDENT OF THE WISCONSIN ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION

Dr. M. P. Ravenel Elected President of the National Association For the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis

At the annual meeting of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis held in Denver, Dr. M. P. Ravenel, President of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association, was elected president.

Dr. Ravenel, Professor of Bacteriology at the University of Wisconsin, and who is in charge of the State's Pastoral Institute, is one of the highest authorities in the country on the general subject of bacteriology. He is a leader in methods of hygiene and sanitation.

At the meeting Dr. Hoyt E. Dearholt, Executive Secretary of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association, made a report on the "Dunn County Survey," and Dr. Ravenel made an address on the "Control of Bovine Tuberculosis." Dr. Dearholt's report was based upon the study of the rural conditions with regard to tuberculosis as made by the State Association. Two hundred and ninety-five schedules, covering over fifty specific queries and observations were obtained. Dunn county was chosen because it represents as nearly as possible normal Wisconsin rural conditions. The death rate is typical of the rural county districts, being somewhat over one-half that of the general state rate of 10.7 per 10,000 of population. Dr. Dearholt presented evidence that other methods of combating the existence of the disease are required than those based upon urban findings.

Most Profitable Time to Sell Farm Products.

"The modern farmer plans his crop rotations and his feeding and grazing livestock with his eyes upon the market as well as upon the field. The prosperity of the pioneer farmer, who produced primarily for consumption in his own household, depended largely upon the store of provisions of his own production with which he met the approaching winter, but the twentieth century farmer produces primarily for the market. The prices for which he can sell his products become a prime factor in determining his prosperity."

These interesting sentences from the first paragraph in Bulletin 209, On the Prices of Farm Products, recently issued by the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Wisconsin, investigations were made by Professor H. C. Taylor on the fluctuations of prices of farm products. In the bulletin he describes the things that influence the change in prices and tells how these changes can sometimes be forecasted by the farmer himself.

For instance the egg market is influenced by the irregularity of the supply, variation in the quality of the product, and the ever changing demand. Each of these topics is discussed in detail, and charts illustrate how they have affected prices during recent years. In the same way the factors influencing the prices of butter, cheese, potatoes, corn and hogs are described. At the end of the bulletin Prof. Taylor explains how the farmer can use the information he has given to study market conditions throughout the year. He also gives a valuable list of sources of market information.

Encouragement, like the other virtues, is desirable only under certain circumstances; in this instance, when you have made the proper start. That genial person who always encourages his friends, has we believe been praised too much, and the gent with a hammer and a bucket of cold water for gloving schemes, has by the same token been vastly underestimated. We can't think off hand of anyone who had failed to attain success because of lack of encouragement, while you count by scores the men who have made bad mistakes and then made them worse because of the cheerful creatures willing to pat them on the back, and look on the bright side of things because of an optimistic nature and the fact that they had no real money invested in the scheme. Disagreeable frankness may not make you any friends, but such a nature is apt to be more helpful to the other fellow than the nature which keeps a sparkling stock of encouragement constantly on tap, and dispenses it indiscriminately.

The newspaper man is blamed for a whole lot of things he can't help such as using partiality in mentioning visitors, giving news about some folks and leaving others out etc. He simply prints all the news he can find. Some people inform him about such things and others do not. An editor should not be expected to know the names and residence of all the poor uncles, aunts and cousins even if he should see them get on or off the train. Tell us about it, it's news that makes the newspaper, every man, woman and child can be associate editor if they only will. Never apologize when you give this bit of information to an editor, for if there lives one so dead that he has lost his appreciation of such favors he is dead, indeed, to every virtue that imparts value to a paper.

Bulldog Determination Builds Prosperity

Any town or community that gets a bulldog grip on prosperity is fortunate. But the bulldog grip will not hold if some citizens pull one way and some another. All must pull or push in the same direction.

For instance, if half the people want Main street macadamized and the other half insist that Central avenue should have the macadam and each half holds there isn't going amization in that. Once there a creek running living on one side built at a certain point on the other side bridge at another sections fought so the issue that no One side of the from the other there are two there used to be out for its side to be any macadam town. was a town with through it. Folks wanted a bridge point. Folks on wanted the point. The two doggedly over bridge was built. creek seceded side, and now half towns where a whole one.

Another way to make a half town out of a whole one is for half the people to buy their goods through the Mail Order Houses in the big cities while the other half buys from the local stores and factories.

If your place has the bulldog grip on prosperity don't pry it loose by pulling against your own local interests.

Farmers' Demonstration Meeting.

The agronomy department of the College of Agriculture at Madison has arranged for a demonstration meeting on the county asylum farm at Sheboygan. The crops that are being grown there will be discussed and lessons of proper and improper treatment drawn from the fields. This meeting which is to be held July 20, will be in charge of Prof. C. P. Noegard of the College.

The following program has been arranged. In the morning a demonstration on corn curing and selecting, taking up the varieties adapted to Sheboygan county will be the feature. There will also be a talk on corn breeding for practical farmers and another one on the treatment of grains for smut eradication.

Everyone who comes is supposed to bring a basket lunch. Coffee will be furnished at the farm. In the afternoon the improvement of small grains with special reference to Wisconsin bred cereals, weeds and their eradication, alfalfa culture, varieties of legumes adapted to Wisconsin and crop rotation will be the subject taken up.

The meetings will be closed at about 4 o'clock. Farmers of Sheboygan and adjoining counties are cordially invited to attend this meeting. All questions will be answered and everything possible will be done to aid farmers in this vicinity.

Second Class Mail by Freight.

Experiments by the postoffice department the past ten weeks show that the government can effect an immense saving by shipping a large part of its second class mail matter by freight cars rather than in mail cars, as heretofore. The class of mail in which the change will be first tried is semi-monthly and monthly publications of the east, which it is planned to bring to six distributing points in freight cars. These six points are St. Louis, Cincinnati, Chicago, Kansas City, St. Paul and Omaha. Bids from the railroads for the freight car service have been asked to be tendered July 1. The saving effected at St. Louis alone, where the trial has been made, will mean an annual saving of eight hundred thousand dollars to the government.

Kill More Than Wild Beasts.

The number of people killed yearly by wild beasts don't approach the vast number killed by disease germs. No life is safe from their attacks. They're in air, water, dust, even food. But grand protection is afforded by Electric Bitters, which destroy and expel these deadly disease germs from the system. That's why chills, fever and ague, all malarial and many blood diseases yield promptly to this wonderful blood purifier. Try them, and enjoy the glorious health and new strength they'll give you. Money back, if not satisfied. Only 50c at all Druggists.

Hoodlums at Work.

Last Wednesday evening a prisoner locked up in the local jail was badly tormented by water. Having water poured upon him in the tail he was forced to scream for help, after help did arrive he was found to be wet to the skin. Who else could have played such a mean trick but hoodlums. No matter what the prisoner had done there absolutely was no cause for such a trick. The village officers ought to investigate and try to find the guilty parties so that they are punished. One lesson taught will prevent other mischievous tricks.

SERIAL STORY

When a Man Marries

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

Author of The Circular Staircase, The Man in Lower Ten, Etc.

Copyright 1928, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

SYNOPSIS.

James Wilson of Jimmy as he is called by his friends, was round and looked shorter than he really was. His ambition in life was to be taken seriously, but people steadily refused to do so, his art is considered a huge joke, except to himself, if he asked people to dinner everyone expected a frolic. Jimmy marries Bella Knowles; they live together a year and are divorced. Jimmy's friends arrange to celebrate the first anniversary of his divorce. The party is in full swing when Jimmy receives a telegram from his Aunt Selma, who will arrive in four hours to visit him and his wife. He neglects to tell her of his divorce. Jimmy takes Kit into his confidence. He suggests that Kit play the hostess for one night, be Mrs. Wilson pro tem. Aunt Selma arrives and the deception works out as planned. Jim's Jap servant is taken ill. Bella, Jimmy's divorced wife, enters the house and asks Kit who is being taken away in the ambulance? Bella insists it is Jim. Kit tells her Jim is well and is in the house. Harbison steps out on the porch and discovers a man tacking a card on the door. He demands an explanation. The man points to the placard and Harbison sees the word "Smallpox" printed on it. He tells him the guests cannot leave the house until the quarantine is lifted. After the lifting of the quarantine several letters are found in the mail box undelivered, one is addressed to Henry Lowell, Iquique, Chile, which was written by Harbison. He describes minutely of their incarceration, also of his infatuation for Mrs. Wilson. Aunt Selma is taken ill with a gripe. Betty acts as nurse. Harbison finds Kit sulking on the roof. She tells him that Jim has been treating her outrageously. Kit starts downstairs, when suddenly she is grasped in the arms of a man who kisses her several times. She believes that Harbison did it and is humiliated. Aunt Selma tells Jimmy that her cameo brooch and other articles of jewelry have been stolen. She accuses Betty of the theft. Jimmy tells Aunt Selma all about the strange happenings, but she persists in suspecting Betty of the theft of her valuables. Harbison demands an explanation from Kit as to her conduct towards him, she tells him of the incident on the roof, he does not deny nor confirm her accusation. Aunt Selma is awakened during the night; she finds Jim making love to Bella, she demands an explanation from Jim. Jim reveals the whole plot to Aunt Selma. She forgives both of them, but calls Kit a Jezebel. She tells Jim to reveal the true situation to Harbison. Jimmy is taken ill; Bella tells the guests that spots have broken out on his body. They are convinced that Jim has the dreaded disease.

CHAPTER XXI.

A Bar of Soap.

Late that evening Betty Mercer and Dallas were writing verses of condolence to be signed by all of us and put under the door into Jim's room when Bella came running down the stairs.

Dal was reading the first verse when she came. "Listen to this, Bella," he said triumphantly:

There was a fat artist named Jas. Who cruelly called his friends nas. When, altho' shut up tight, He broke out over night.

With a rash that is maddening, he clas. Then he caught sight of Bella's face as she stood in the doorway, and stopped.

"Jim is delirious!" she announced tragically. "You shut him in there all alone and now he's delirious. I'll never forgive any of you."

"Delirious!" everybody exclaimed. "He was sane enough when I took him his chicken broth," Mr. Harbison said. "He was almost fluent."

"He is stark, staring crazy," Bella insisted hysterically. "I—I locked the door carefully when I went down to my dinner, and when I came up it—it was unlocked, and Jim was babbling on the bed, with a sheet over his face. He—he says the house is haunted and he wants all the men to come up and sit in the room with him."

"Not on your life," Max said. "I am young and my career has only begun. I don't intend to be cut off in the flower of my youth. But I'll tell you what I'll do; I'll take him a drink. I can tie it to a pole or something."

But Mr. Harbison did not smile. He was thoughtful for a minute. Then: "I don't believe he is delirious," he said quietly, "and I wouldn't be surprised if he has happened on something that—will be of general interest. I think I will stay with him tonight."

After that, of course, none of the others would confess that he was afraid, so with the South American leading, they all went up-stairs. The women of the party sat on the lower steps and listened, but everything was quiet. Now and then we could hear the sound of voices, and after a while there was a rapid slamming of doors and the sound of some one running down to the second floor. Then quiet again.

In an hour or so they sent for Flannigan, and he went up-stairs. He came down again soon, however, and returned with something over his arm that looked like a rope. It seemed to be made of all kinds of things tied together, trunk straps, clothesline, bed sheets, and something that Flannigan pointed to with rage and said he hadn't been able to keep his clothes on all day. He refused to explain further, however, and trilled the nondescript article up the stairs. We could only gaze after him and wonder what it all meant.

The conclave lasted far into the night. The feminine contingent went to bed, but not to sleep. Some time after midnight, Mr. Harbison and Max went down-stairs and I could hear them rattling around testing windows and burglar alarms. But finally every one settled down and the rest of the night was quiet.

Betty Mercer came into my room the next morning, Sunday, and said Anne Brown wanted me. I went over at once, and Anne was sitting up in bed, crying. Dal had slipped out of the room at daylight, she said, and hadn't come back. He had thought she was asleep, but she wasn't, and she knew he was dead, for nothing ever made Dal get up on Sunday before noon.

There was no one moving in the house, and I hardly knew what to do. It was Betty who said she would go up and rouse Mr. Harbison and Max, who had taken Jim's place in the studio. She started out bravely enough, but in a minute we heard her flying back. Anne grew perfectly white.

"He's lying on the upper stairs!" Betty cried, and we all ran out. It was quite true. Dal was lying on the stairs in a bathrobe, with one of Jim's Indian war-clubs in his hand. And he was sound asleep.

He looked somewhat embarrassed when he roused and saw us standing around. He said he was going to play a practical joke on somebody and fell asleep in the middle of it. And Anne said he wasn't even an intelligent liar, and went back to bed in a temper. But Betty came in with me, and we sat and looked at each other and didn't say much. The situation was beyond us.

The doctor let Jim out next day, there having been nothing the matter with him but a stomach rash. But Jim was changed; he mooned around Bella, of course, as before, but he was abstracted at times, and all that day—Sunday—he wandered off by himself, and one would come across him unexpectedly in the basement or along some of the unused back halls.

Aunt Selma held service that morning. Jim said that he always had a prayer-book, but that he couldn't find anything with so many people in the house. So Aunt Selma read some religious poetry out of the newspapers, and gave us a valuable talk on Deception versus Honesty, with me as the illustration.

Almost everybody took a nap after luncheon. I stayed in the den and read Ibsen, and felt very mournful. And after Hedda had shot herself, I lay down on the divan and cried a little—over Hedda; she was young and it was such a tragic ending—and then I fell asleep.

When I wakened Mr. Harbison was standing by the table, and he held my book in his hands. In view of the armed neutrality between us, I expected to see him bow to me curtsy, turn on his heel and leave the room. Indeed, considering his state of mind the night before, I should hardly have been surprised if he had thrown Hedda at my head. (This is not a pun, I detect them.) But instead, when he heard me move he glanced over at me and even smiled a little.

"She wasn't worth it," he said, indicating the book.

"Worth what?"

"Your tears. You were crying over it, weren't you?"

"She was very unhappy," I asserted indifferently. "She was married and she loved some one else."

"Do you really think she did?" he asked. "And even so, was that a reason?"

"The other man cared for her; he may not have been able to help it."

"But he knew that she was married," he said virtuously, and then he caught my eye and he saw the analogy instantly, for he colored hotly and put down the book.

"Most men argue that way," I said. "They argue by the book, and—they do as they like."

He picked up a Japanese ivory paper weight from the table, and stood balancing it across his finger.

"You are perfectly right," he said at last. "I deserve it all. My grievance is at myself. Your—your beauty, and the fact that I thought you were unhappy, put me—beside myself. It is not an excuse; it is a weak explanation. I will not forget myself again."

He was as abject as any one could have wished. It was my minute of triumph, but I can not pretend that I was happy. Evidently it had been only a passing impulse. If he had really cared, now that he knew I was free, he would have forgotten himself again at once. Then a new explanation occurred to me. Suppose it had been Bella all the time, and the real shock had been to find that she had been married!

"The fault of the situation was really mine," I said magnanimously; "I quite blame myself. Only, you must believe one thing. You never furnished us any amusement." I looked at him sideway. The discovery that Bella and Jim were once married must have been a great shock.

"It was a surprise," he replied evenly. His voice and his eyes were inscrutable. He returned my glance steadily. It was infuriating to have gone half-way to meet him, as I had, and then to find him entrenched in his self-sufficiency again. I got up.

"It is unfortunate that our acquaintance has begun so unfavorably," I remarked, preparing to pass him. "Under other circumstances we might have been friends."

"There is only one solace," he said. "When we do not have friends, we can not lose them."

He opened the door to let me pass out, and as our eyes met, all the coldness died out of his. He held out his hand, but I was hurt. I refused to see it.

"Kit!" he said unsteadily. "I—I'm an obstinate, pig-hearted brute. I am sorry. Can't we be friends, after all?"

"When we do not have friends we can not lose them," I replied with cool malice. And the next instant the door closed behind me.

It was that night that the really serious event of the quarantine occurred.

We were gathered in the library, and everybody was deadly dull. Aunt Selma said she had been reared to a strict observance of the Sabbath, and she refused to go to bed early. The cards and card-tables were put away and every one sat around and quarreled and was generally nasty, except Bella and Jim, who had gone into the den just after dinner and firmly closed the door.

I think it was just after Max proposed to me. Yes, he proposed to me again that night. He said that Jim's illness had decided him; that any of us might take sick and die, shut in that contaminated atmosphere, and that if he did he wanted it all settled. And whether I took him or not he wanted me to remember him kindly if anything happened. I really hated to refuse him—he was in such deadly earnest. But it was quite unnecessary for him to have blamed his refusal, as he did, on Mr. Harbison. I am sure I had refused him plenty of times before I had ever heard of the man. Yes, it was just after he proposed to me that Flannigan came to the door and called Mr. Harbison out into the hall.

Mr. Harbison went out, muttering something about a storm coming up, and seeing that the tent was secure. Betty Mercer went with him. She had been at his heels all evening, and called him "Tom" on every possible occasion. Indeed, she made no secret of it; she said that she was mad about him, and that she would love to live in South America.

So Betty went with him. She wore a pale yellow dinner gown, with just a sophisticated touch of black here and there, and cut modestly square in the neck. Her shoulders are scrawny. And after they were gone—not her shoulders; Mr. Harbison and she—Aunt Selma announced that the next day was Monday, that she had only a week's supply of clothing with her, and that no policeman who ever swung a mace should wash her undergarments for her.

She paused a moment, but nobody offered to do it. Anne was reading De Maupassant under cover of a table, and the rest pretended not to hear. After a pause, Aunt Selma got up heavily and went upstairs, coming down soon after with a bundle covered with a green shawl, and with a white babrigan stocking trailing from an opening in it. She paused at the library door, surveyed the inmates, caught my unlucky eye and beckoned to me with a relentless forefinger.

"We can put them to soak tonight," she confided to me, "and tomorrow they will be quite simple to do. There is no lace to speak of—Dal raised his eyebrows—and very little flouncing." Aunt Selma and I went to the laundry.

It is strange what big things develop from little ones. In this case it was a bar of soap. And if Flannigan had used as much soap as he should have instead of washing up the kitchen floor with cold dish water, it would have developed sooner. The two most unexpected events of the whole quarantine occurred that night at the same time, one on the roof and one in the cellar. The cellar one, although curious, was not so serious as the other, so it comes first.

Culture.

Thus there is a climbing scale of culture, from the first agreeable sensation which a sparkling gem or a scarlet stain affords the eyes, up through fair outlines and details of the landscape, features of the human face and form, signs and tokens of thought and character in manners, up to the ineffable mysteries of the intellect.

Wherever we begin thither our steps tend; an ascent from the joy of a horse and his trappings, up to the perception of Newton, that the globe on which we ride is only a larger apple falling from a larger tree; up to the perception of Plato, that globe and universe are rude and early expressions of an all-dissolving unity—the first stair on the scale to the temple of the mind.—Emerson.

Speaking of the Divorce Evil

Trying to succeed in business without advertising is like the case of the man who, trying to cut expenses, divorced his wife and alone attempted to keep house and raise his children. It cost him more money for doctor bills and funeral expenses in a year than he gave his wife in a lifetime.

When advertising is divorced, business success becomes failure.

This paper is building your neighbor's business. He has reasons. He tried advertising and it helped him. It is not an experiment—the paper brings results. Good, hard, convincing results—dollars.

State of Wisconsin,
County of Washington,
To.....

Sir:—Please take notice that in accordance with a written request, signed by a majority of the members of the County Board of Supervisors of Washington County, addressed to the undersigned, a special meeting of said County Board is hereby called to meet at the court house in the city of West Bend, in said county, on the 14th day of July, A. D. 1911, at the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Given under my hand and official seal at the court house in the city of West Bend in said county, this 30th day of June, A. D. 1911.

ANTON THIELMANN,
County Clerk of Washington Co. Wis.

Mr. Mueller moved that the board should now proceed to the election of a chairman by informed ballot, and that the chair appoint two of the younger members as tellers. Motion prevailed and the chair appointed Messrs. Esselmann and Weber as such tellers.

The result of the informal ballot was as follows:—
Henry Lemke received..... 3 votes
Thos. Hayes ".....12 votes
Jac. Vogelsang "..... 2 votes
C. L. Friday "..... 1 vote
M. B. Goeden "..... 2 votes

Total.....20 votes
Mr. Melcher moved that the informal ballot be declared formal.

Motion prevailed and Mr. Hayes having received a majority of all the votes cast in said informal ballot, was declared elected chairman of this board.

Mr. Vogelsang thereupon yielded the chair to Mr. Hayes, who briefly thanked the board for the honor conferred upon him.

Mr. Friday, secretary of the Building Committee submitted and read a report of said committee, to-wit:—

REPORT OF BUILDING COMMITTEE.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Washington County, Wis.
Gentlemen:—Your Building Committee begs leave to report:—That on the 6th day of April, 1911, we advertised for bids for the construction of the proposed county poor home and central heating, lighting and power plant as per resolution No. 24, of the annual session of 1910, all bids to be filed with the county clerk not later than 10 o'clock, A. M. on May 29th 1911, at which time bids were opened and committee found that all bids exceeding the amount appropriated by resolution No. 26 of the same session by several thousand dollars, the lowest bids aggregating the amount of $51,000.00.

After due consideration the committee rejected all bids and notified the several bidders thereof. Committee sought to eliminate some parts in the proposed buildings, hoping thereby to be able to get bids within the amount appropriated for said purpose but found it impossible to do so without changing plans and specifications entirely. Committee then re-advertised for bids to be filed with the county clerk not later than June 21st 1911 at which time committee opened bids and found the aggregate of the lowest bids received was $48,000.00 which was still several thousand dollars in excess of the amount appropriated for this purpose.

Inasmuch as your committee has no power to enter into a contract for more than the amount appropriated for this purpose by Res. No. 26 we, said committee, respectfully request that the county board take further action hereon as is proper under the law.

Your committee believes it will be impossible to construct the poor home and central plant pursuant to plans and specifications adopted by the board within the limit of cost provided for in resolution No. 26, and that it will accordingly be necessary to either alter the present plans and specifications so that the building may be constructed within the cost so limited or else to provide additional funds for such purposes as this board shall see fit.

Dated this 14th day of July 1911
PHILIP SCHELLINGER,
C. L. FRIDAY,
CHRIST REIS,
Committee.

Said report was accepted and ordered placed on file on motion of Mr. Mueller.

Upon motion of Mr. Esselmann the board adjourned till 1:00 o'clock P. M. to-day.

ANTON THIELMANN, County Clerk.

After recess Mr. Melcher moved that the chair appoint a committee on Mileage and Per Diem. Motion prevailed and the chair appointed Messrs. Melcher, Schmidt and Weis, as such committee.

J. Vogelsang, former chairman of the county board and Henry S. Falk, county treasurer submitted the following report, to-wit:

REPORT OF CHAIRMAN AND COUNTY TREASURER.

To the Board of Supervisors of Washington County:

The undersigned respectfully report that on the first day of July 1911, pursuant to resolution No. 26 of the annual session of said board for the year 1910 adopted April 3rd 1911, they offered for sale at public auction at the county treasurer's office in the city of West Bend, in said county, the bonds provided for in and by said resolution and the highest bidder therefore was E. Franckenberg of the city of West Bend.

That said bid was made subject to the approval of said E. Franckenberg's legal advisors.

That all other bids therefore were rejected and returned to the respective bidders.

That thereafter said E. Franckenberg refused to accept said bonds because of an alleged illegality therein, and that he has ever since and now refuses to accept the same, except after their validity has been established by the judgment of the Supreme Court of this State in action instituted for such purpose.

That the undersigned are informed and believe that said bonds cannot be sold nor disposed of without the decision of said Court establishing their validity. That said E. Franckenberg has signed and filed with the undersigned treasurer, his withdrawal of his offer for such bonds and also his written release of said county from any liability on account thereof.

Dated July 14th, 1911.
J. Vogelsang,
Chairman of County Board.
Henry J. Falk,
County Treasurer.

Upon motion of Mr. Melcher said report was accepted and placed on file.

Mr. Melcher introduced resolution No. 1 to-wit:—

Resolution No. 1.

Resolved, by the Board of Supervisors of Washington County:

Whereas, the county board of said county on the fourteenth day of February 1911, by Resolution No. 24 of the annual session of said Board for the year 1910, adopted a resolution providing for the erecting and maintaining of a Home for the County Poor, and also a Central Heating, Lighting and Power Plant, for the supply of heat, light and power to both the Poor Home and the Insane Asylum Buildings.

And whereas, on the third day of April 1911, in and by Resolution No. 26 of the annual session of said Board for the year 1910 plans and specifications for said Poor Home and Central Heating, Lighting and Power Plant, were adopted by said Board and said Board, in and by resolution, provided for issuing bonds in the sum of forty-two thousand dollars for the purpose of securing the necessary funds for the erection, construction and furnishing of said building, and also in and by said resolution provided for the levy of a tax upon the taxable property of said county, for the payment of said bonds, and for the sale of said bonds at the County Treasurer's office by the Chairman of the County Board and the County Treasurer of said county.

And whereas it appears from the report of Jacob Vogelsang, Chairman of such Board and Henry J. Falk, County Treasurer of said county, that the county will be unable to dispose of said bonds without instituting and prosecuting an action establishing their validity.

And whereas it appears inadvisable for the county to do so:

Be it Resolved, that said resolution No. 24 of the annual session of said Board for the year 1910, adopted on February 14th 1911, and also said Resolution No. 26 of the annual session of said Board for the year 1910, adopted April 3rd, 1911, be and the same hereby are in all respects rescinded. W. S. Melcher.

Upon motion of Mr. Melcher the rules of last year were adopted to govern the present board.

Mr. Mueller moved that the rules be suspended for to-day's session so as not to interfere with the transaction of business. Motion carried unanimously.

Upon motion of Mr. Esselmann Res. No. 1 was then adopted.

The committee on Mileage and Per Diem submitted the following report:—

FIRST REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON MILEAGE AND PER DIEM.

Resolved, by the Board of Supervisors of Washington Co., that there be and hereby is appropriated out of county funds the sum of one hundred fourteen and 26-100 dollars ($14-26) dollars for Mileage and Per Diem for the members of said Board of Supervisors at the special session of July 14th 1911.

The printer has just as good grounds for asking the business men of a town to leave their job work at home as the business man has to ask the community to patronize him instead of the mail order houses. In fact the home paper does more for a town than any other enterprise located therein. Let the business men join hands with the home paper and both their interest will be greatly benefited.

Do not meddle with a business you know nothing of unless you commence at the bottom round of the ladder, and round after round, work towards the top. For if you are successful enough to reach the top round you will then find plenty to applaud and assist. But he who commences at the top of the ladder finds it an easy matter to descend, and oft times with great rapidity. And when he has reached the bottom he will find hundreds there waiting to kick him.
