INTELLIGENT MOTHERS

Do not give their children coffee and tea; and ice water is not good for them.
The intelligent mother of today keeps cold ready the entire day and gives the children all they want.

Make it this way:
One teaspoon BONANO to each cup water—boil two minutes. Let cool, serve with cracked ice and sweeten to taste; add, if you like it, a slice of lemon—or instead of the lemon try cream.
BONANO to be served iced requires a little longer boil than when served hot, as by adding ice the strength is reduced.

A Kentucky boy smoking a cigarette set fire to a barn, and eleven fine horses were burned to death. Of course that boy had to smoke to ever be a man, and the dealer had to sell the deadly things to hold his trade, and the public encourages the smoking habit because boys must smoke to develop their nerves and brains.

Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time or the worthlessness of a bad one. So there's no guesswork in this evidence of Thos. Aris, Concord, Mich., who writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for 30 years, and it's the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't dry it out. Many families have used it for forty years. It's the most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth. Unequaled for lagrippe, asthma, hay-fever, croup, quinsy or sore tungs. Price 50c and $1.00. AFTER LOW RATE TO STATE FAIR Deal on With State Railroads Committee of Prominent State Business Men and Farmers Request Concession From Passenger Association.

A committee of Wisconsin businessmen and prominent farmers with members of the State Board of Agriculture, will go to Chicago, August 3rd, and endeavor to have a rate of a fare and a half allowed on all railroads in Wisconsin for the State Fair. A special rate has heretofore been refused the Wisconsin State Board of Agriculture and influential citizens of Iowa went to Chicago and prevailed upon Rock Island railroad to make a special rate of a fare and a half round trip from all points in Iowa to Des Moines. The Illinois Central and other railroads entering Des Moines immediately met the Rock Island rate and the connecting lines did likewise.
It is the hope of President Hill and Wm. MacLaren, chairman of transportation committee, to be able to induce the Western Passenger associations to permit the Milwaukee road, the Northwestern line and the Soo line to follow the example set by the railroads of Iowa and grant a fare of 3 cents special for the round trip. An effort will also be made to have the state rate begin on September 10 and end on September 19, giving patrons of the Fair an opportunity to visit in Milwaukee after and before the fair.

ST. KILIAN

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.
I, the undersigned, have been informed by several reliable friends of mine that Mrs. Math. Heinecke, of Theresa, Wisconsin, has circulated false stories about me while I was attending the State Normal School at Stevens Point, Wisconsin, last summer, which were as follows: "Emma Grab has changed her name while at Stevens Point, Wis." The said words were spoken with the object of defaming my character and are false and malicious. Putting it in plain English, it is an absolute lie and I can prove it. (Signed)
Emma Grab.

Attack Like Tigers.

In fighting to keep the blood pure the white corpuscles attack disease germs like tigers. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then see pimples, boils, eczema, salt-rheum and herpes multiply and strength and appetite fail. This condition demands Electric Bitters to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to expel poisons from the blood. "They are the best blood purifier," writes C. T. Budahn, of Tracy, Calif., "I have ever found." They make rich red blood, strong nerves and build up your health. Try them. 50c at all Druggists.

—Bill Nye had the truth well told when he said, "A man may use a wart on the back of his neck for a collar button, ride in the back coach of a railroad train to save interest on his money till the conductor gets around, stop his watch at night to save wear and tear, leave his "it" or "it" without a dot or cross to save ink, pasture his mother's grave to save corn, but a man of this sort is a gentleman and a scholar compared to the fellow that will take a newspaper two or three years and when asked to settle for it puts it into the postoffice and has it marked "refused!"

—A fast mail train on the New York Central road a few days ago, drawing seven all steel mail cars and two Pullmans, ran three miles in one minute and 51 seconds. The first mile was made in 38 seconds, the second in 67 and the third in 36, the fastest time ever made in the world on a steam railroad.

FLAMES WRECK GRAFTON FOUNDRY

Night Blaze Destroys Big Plant Near Port Washington

ORIGIN OF FIRE UNKNOWN

Disaster the Second of Kind in the Village Within a Month Throws Forty Men Out of Employment

(Milwaukee Free Press)

Fire of unknown origin which broke out shortly after 10 o'clock tonight totally destroyed the Grafton Iron foundry at Grafton, six miles from here. The loss is estimated at $40,000. Nentzloff Brothers are the owners.

A peculiar coincidence is the fact that only about four months ago the Globe foundry, also a Grafton industry suffered a loss of $20,000 by fire.

While the owners refuse to make any statements concerning the origin of the blaze, a rumor in Port Washington tonight suggested the suspicion that the fire was incendiary.

Between forty and fifty men were employed by the company, and will be without work.

The flames from the building could be seen for a great distance and for a time it was feared they would spread to nearby buildings and sweep the town.

With the destruction of the Grafton foundry the village is minus its largest industry. For years the Grafton and Globe foundries have given employment to nearly 100 men, most of whom have families dependent upon their earnings.

It could not be learned at a late hour tonight whether the plant would be rebuilt.

Kewaskum and Campbellsport Mutual Fire Insurance can brag of luck as they were on the risk for $800 and $1000 respectively only one day before the fire. The officers of both of the aforesaid mentioned companies thought it best not to renew their policy after they expired on July 28th, as the risk was considered not the kind of a risk.

FIREMEN'S PICNIC A BIG SUCCESS

Annual Picnic at the North Side Park Fairly Well Attended

STREET PARADE AT 1:30

Over Fifty Firemen Participate in the Big Parade

The annual picnic and dance of the local firemen held in the North Side Park last Sunday was a decided success.

The program of the day was commenced at 1:30 P. M. when the two departments, Firemen and Hook & Ladder Boys, headed by Chief Mertes, Marshal Brandt and the Kewaskum Band formed a procession at the village hall and proceeded to parade the principal streets of the village and finally concluding at the park. Both departments were out in full uniforms only one member of each department being absent. At the picnic there was plenty of amusements for all which were enjoyed by a large crowd.

The days outing was concluded with a grand ball in the evening, music for which was furnished by the Kewaskum Quintette. The attendance was also very large.

Considering what each member of the department was allowed the day was a grand success. Financially the department had a deficiency of $2.95 which speaks well.

The committee in charge of the arrangements are to be complimented upon their extra fine work done to make the affair a very social event.

The department gives a picnic and dance every year for the benefit of their members. This year's affair has however excelled all previous affairs, both financially and socially.

W. Warnkey Loses Big Prize.

Wm. Warnkey of this city won first prize at the state skat tournament at Watertown last Sunday but the prize of $150 was not awarded to him for the reason that he and three other West Bend players were at the same table. The local players arrived at the hall late, all other players having been seated. When they drew for places it happened that Mr. Warnkey, Henry Rolfs, J. Ciriacks and Christ Klapper got to one table. Mr. Warnkey had twenty-five good plays and lost one, leaving him enough to give him first prize. Just why he was not given the prize is not known, but Mr. Warnkey will enter a protest to the officers of the Skat league. He won his plays honestly and fairly and deserves what was coming to him. The tournament is reported to have been the poorest managed of all the tournaments ever conducted by the state league.—West Bend Pilot.

STRUCK BY A SOO TRAIN

George Geller Meets With an Unfortunate Accident at Schleisingserville

Hurt in a Runaway.

George Geller, the venerable father of Joseph Geller, of Schleisingserville, had a close call from being run over and killed by a freight train last week Thursday afternoon. Mr. Geller had been over to Stork's brewery and while walking on the railroad tracks was struck by a Soo freight train. He was thrown several feet and received a fracture of the collar bone and a hole in his head. He was rendered unconscious and had to be carried to the home of his son, Joseph, where he is getting along nicely under the circumstances. The engineer blew the whistle, but Mr. Geller evidently supposed it was a Milwaukee road freight as he was seen to step over on the Soo track just before he was struck.—Hartford Times.

Four Autoists Escape Death.

F. Richmond and wife and M. M. Cavanaugh and wife of Chicago had a miraculous escape from being killed a mile south of this city on Tuesday afternoon. The parties were in an automobile and were running at a speed of forty-four miles an hour. When at the watering trough the man at the steering gear attempted to pass a team and striking a sandy spot in the road the auto went down the embankment and turned turtle. The occupants fortunately were hurled clear of the machine and this prevented them from being crushed to death. Mr. Cavanaugh had a shoulder dislocated and his wife received minor bruises about her legs. Mr. and Mrs. Richmond were not injured. The auto was only slightly damaged and after repairs were made at the Meyer garage the party left on their trip northward.—West Bend Pilot.

SYNOPSIS.

James Wilson or Jimmy as he is called by his friends, was round and looked shorter than he really was. His ambition in life was to be taken seriously, but people steadily refused to do so. His art is considered a huge joke, except to himself. If he asked people to dinner everyone expected a frolic. Jimmy marries Bella Knowles; they live together a year and are divorced. Jimmy's friends arrange to celebrate the first anniversary of his divorce. The party is in full swing when Jimmy receives a telegram from his Aunt Selma, who will arrive in four hours to visit him and his wife. He neglects to tell her of his divorce. Jimmy takes Kit to his confidante. He suggests that Kit play the hostess for one night, be Mrs. Wilson pro tem. Aunt Selma arrives and the deception works out as planned. Jim's Jap servant is taken ill. Bella, Jimmy's divorced wife, enters the house and asks Kit who is being taken away in the ambulance? Belle insists it is Jim. Kit tells her Jim is well and is in the house. Harbison steps out on the porch and discovers a man tacking a card on the door. He demands an explanation. The man points to the placard and Harbison sees the word "smallpox" printed on it. He tells him the guests cannot leave the house until the quarantine is lifted. After the lifting of the quarantine several letters are found in the mail box undelivered, one is addressed to Henry Lawless, Iquique, Chile, which was written by Harbison. He describes minutely of their incarceration, also of his infatuation for Mrs. Wilson. Aunt Selma is taken ill with a gripe. Betty acts as nurse. Harbison finds Kit sulking on the roof. She tells him that Jim has been treating her outrageously. Kit starts downstairs, when suddenly she is grasped in the arms of a man who kisses her several times. She believes that Harbison did it and is humiliated. Aunt Selma tells Jimmy that her cameo brooch and other articles of jewelry have been stolen. She accuses Betty of the theft. Jimmy tells Aunt Selma all about the strange happenings, but she persists in suspecting Betty of the theft of her valuables. Harbison demands an explanation from Kit as to her conduct towards him; she tells him of the incident on the roof, he does not deny nor confirm her accusation. Aunt Selma is awakened during the night, she finds Jim making love to Bella, she demands an explanation from Jim. Bella reveals the whole plot to Aunt Selma. She forgives both of them, but calls Kit a Jesu-christ. She tells Jim to reveal the true situation to Harbison. Jimmy is taken ill. Bella tells the guests that spots have broken out on his body. They are convinced that Jim has the dreaded disease. Bella tells the guests that Jim is delirious, she said he saw a man crawl out from under his bed. He said the house was haunted.

Aunt Selma put her clothes in a tub in the laundry and proceeded to dress them like a vegetable. She threw in a handful of salt, some kerosene oil and a little ammonia. The result was villainous, but after she tasted it—or sniffed it—she said it needed a bar of soap cut up to give it strength—or flavor—and I went into the store-room for it.

The laundry soap was in a box. I took in a silver fork, for I hated to touch the stuff, and jabbed a bar successfully in the semi-darkness. Then I carried it back to the laundry and dropped it on the table. Aunt Selma looked at the fork with disgust, then we both looked at the soap. One side of it was covered with round holes that curved around on each other like a colled snake.

I ran back to the store-room, and there, a little bit sticky and smelling terribly of rosin, lay Anne's pearl necklace!

I was so excited that I seized Aunt Selma by the hands and danced her all over the place. Then I left her, trying to find her hairpins on the floor, and ran up to tell the others. I met Betty in the hall, and waved the pearls at her. But she did not notice them.

"Is Mr. Harbison down there?" she asked breathlessly. "I left him on the roof and went down to my room for my scarf, and when I went back he had disappeared. He—he doesn't seem to be in the house." She tried to laugh, but her voice was shaky. "He couldn't have got down without passing me, anyhow," she supplemented. "I suppose I'm silly, but so many queer things have happened, Kit."

"I wouldn't worry, Betty," I soothed her. "He is big enough to take care of himself. And with the best intentions in the world, you can't have him all the time, you know."

She was too much startled to be indignant. She followed me into the library, where the sight of the pearls produced a tremendous excitement, and then every one had to go down to the store-room, and see where the necklace had been hidden, and Max examined all the bars of soap for thumb prints.

Mr. Harbison did not appear. Max commented on the fact caustically, but Dai brushed him up.

I was almost ready for bed when Jim tapped at my door. I had been very cool to him since the night in the library when I was publicly staked and martyred, and he was almost cringing when I opened the door.

"What is it now?" I asked cruelly. "Has Bella tired of it already, or has somebody else a rash?"

"Don't be a shrew, Kit," he said. "I don't want you to do anything. I only—when did you see Harbison last?"

"If you mean 'last,'" I retorted, "I'm afraid I haven't seen the last of him yet." Then I saw that he was really worried. "Betty was leading him to the roof," I added. "Why? Is he missing?"

"He isn't anywhere in the house. Dai and I have been over every inch of it." Max had come up, in a dressing gown, and was watching me insolently.

"I think we have seen the last of him," he said. "I'm sorry, Kit, to nip the little romance in the bud. The fellow was crazy about you—there's no doubt of it. But I've been watching him from the beginning, and I think I'm upheld. Whether he went down the water-spout, or across a board to the next house—"

"I—I dislike him intensely," I said angrily, "but you would not dare to say that to his face. He could strangle you with one hand."

Max laughed disagreeably. "Well, I only hope he is gone," he threw at me over his shoulder. "I wouldn't want to be responsible to your father if he had stayed." I was speechless with wrath.

They went away then, and I could hear them going over the house. At one o'clock Jim went up to bed, the last, and Mr. Harbison had not been found. I did not see how they could go to bed at all. If he had escaped, then Max was right and the whole thing was heart-breaking. And if he had not, then he might be lying—

I got up and dressed. The early part of the night had been cloudy, but when I got to the roof it was clear starlight. The wind blew through the electric wires strung across and set them singing. The occasional blast of a belated automobile on the drive below came up to me raucously.

And there in the starlight, I went over the whole serio-comedy, and I loathed my part in it. He had been perfectly right to be angry with me and with all of us. And I had been a hypocrite and a Pharisee, and had thanked God that I was not as other people, when the fact was that I was worse than the worst. And although it wasn't dignified to think of him going down the drain pipe—still—no one could blame him for wanting to get away from us, and he was quite muscular enough to do it.

I was in the depths of self-abasement when I heard a sound behind me. It was a long breath, quite audible, that ended in a groan. I gripped the parapet and listened, while my heart pounded, and in a minute it came again.

I was terribly frightened. Then—I don't know how I did it, but I was across the roof, kneeling beside the tent, where it stood against the chimney. And there, lying prone among the flower-pots, and almost entirely hidden, lay the man we had been looking for.

His head was toward me, and I reached out shakingly and touched his face. It was cold, and my hand, when I drew it back, was covered with blood.

CHAPTER XXII.

It Was Delirium. I was sure he was dead. He did not move, and when I caught his hands and called him frantically, he did not hear me. And so, with the horror over me, I half fell down the stairs and roused Jim in the studio.

They all came with lights and blankets, and they carried him into the tent and put him on the couch and tried to put whisky in his mouth. But he could not swallow. And the silence became more and more ominous until finally Anne got hysterical and cried, "He is dead! dead!" and collapsed on the roof.

But he was not. Just as the lights in the tent began to have red rings around them and Jim's voice came from away across the river, somebody said, "There, he swallowed that," and soon after, he opened his eyes. He muttered something that sounded like "Andean pinnacles" and lapsed into unconsciousness again. But he was not dead! He was not dead!

When the doctor came they made a stretcher out of one of Jim's six-foot canvases—it had a picture on it, and Jim was angry enough the next day—and took him down to the studio. We made it as much like a sick room as we could, and we tried to make him comfortable. But he lay without opening his eyes, and at dawn the doctor brought a consultant and a trained nurse.

The nurse was an offensively capable person. She put us all out, and scolded Anne for lighting Japanese incense in the room.

The consultant came, stayed an hour, and left. Aunt Selma, who proved herself a trump in that trying time, waylaid him in the hall, and he said it might be a fractured skull, although it was possibly only concussion.

The men spent most of the morning together.

Max came down from the roof alone, and I cornered him in the upper hall.

"I'm going crazy, Max," I said. "Nobody will tell me anything, and I can't stand it. How was he hurt? Who hurt him?"

Max looked at me quite a long time. "I'm darned if I understand you, Kit," he said gravely. "You said you disliked Harbison."

"So I do—I did," I supplemented. "But whether I like him or not has nothing to do with it. He has been injured—perhaps murdered—I choked a little. "Which—which of you did it?"

Max took my hand and held it, looking down at me.

"I wish you could have cared for me like that," he said gently. "Dear little girl, we don't know who hurt him. I didn't, if that's what you mean. Perhaps a flower-pot—"

I began to cry then, and he drew me to him and let me cry on his arm. He stood very quietly, patting my head in a brotherly way and behaving very well, save that once he said:

"Don't cry too long, Kit: I can stand only a certain amount."

And just then the nurse opened the door to the studio, and with Max's arms still around me, I raised my head and looked in.

Mr. Harbison was conscious. His eyes were open, and he was staring at us both as we stood framed by the doorway.

He lay back at once and closed his eyes, and the nurse shut the door. There was no use, even if I had been allowed in, in trying to explain to him. To attempt such a thing would have been to presume that he was interested in an explanation. I thought bitterly to myself as I brought the nurse cracked ice and struggled to make beef tea in the kitchen, that lives had been wrecked on less.

Dai was allowed ten minutes in the sick room during the afternoon, and he came out looking puzzled and excited. He refused to tell us what he had learned, however, and the rest of the afternoon he and Jim spent in the cellar.

The day dragged on. Downstairs people ate and read and wrote letters, and outside newspaper men talked together and gazed over at the house and photographed the doctors coming in and the doctors going out. As for me, in the intervals of bringing things, I sat in Bella's chair in the upper hall, and listened to the crackle of the nurse's starched skirts.

At midnight that night the doctors made a thorough examination. When they came out they were smiling.

"He is doing very well," the younger one said—he was hairy and dark, but he was beautiful to me. "He is entirely conscious now, and in about an hour you can send the nurse off for a little sleep. Don't let him talk."

And so at last I went through the familiar door into an unfamiliar room, with basins and towels and bottles around, and a screen made of Jim's largest canvases. And some one on the improvised bed turned and looked at me. He did not speak, and I sat down beside him. After a while he put his hand over mine as it lay on the bed.

"You are much better to me than I deserve," he said softly. And because his eyes were disconcerting, I put an ice cloth over them.

"Much better than you deserve," I said, and patted the ice cloth to place gently. He fumbled around until he found my hand again, and we were quiet for a long time. I think he dozed, for he roused suddenly and pulled the cloth from his eyes.

"The—the day is all confused," he said, turning to look at me, "but one thing seems to stand out from everything else. Perhaps it was delirium, but I seemed to see that door over there open, and you, outside, with— with Max. His arms were around you."

"It was delirium," I said softly. It was my final lie in that house of mendacity.

He drew a satisfied breath, and lifting my hand, held it to his lips and kissed it.

"I can hardly believe it is you," he said. "I have to hold firmly to your hand or you will disappear. Can't you move your chair closer? You are miles away." So I did it, for he was not to be excited.

After a little—

"It's awfully good of you to do this. I have been desperately sorry, Kit, about the other night. It was a ruffianly thing to do—to kiss you, when I thought—"

"You are to keep very still," I reminded him. He kissed my hand again, but he persisted.

"I was mad—crazy," I tried to give him some medicine, but he pushed the spoon aside. "You will have to listen," he said. "I am in the depths of self-disgust. I—I can't think of anything else. You see, you seemed so convinced that I was the blackguard that somehow nothing seemed to matter."

"I have forgotten it all," I declared generously, "and I would be quite willing to be friends, only, you remember you said—"

"Friends!" his voice was suddenly reckless, and he raised on his elbow. "Friends. Who wants to be friends? Kit, I was almost delirious that night. The instant I held you in my arms it was all over. I loved you the first time I saw you. I—I suppose I'm a fool to talk like this."

And, of course, just then Dallas had to open the door and step into the room. He was covered with dirt and he had a hatchet in his hand.

Speaking of the Divorce Evil

Trying to succeed in business without advertising is like the case of the man who, trying to cut expenses, divorced his wife and alone attempted to keep house and raise his children. It cost him more money for doctor bills and funeral expenses in a year than he gave his wife in a lifetime.

When advertising is divorced, business success becomes failure.

This paper is building your neighbor's business. He has reasons. He tried advertising and it helped him. It is not an experiment—this paper brings results. Good, hard, convincing results—dollars.

BRIGHT'S DISCASE.

How a Severe Case Was Cured After Doctors Gave Up Hope. J. C. Reimers, Litchfield St., St. Paul, Minn., says: "I was so bad I could not arise from bed. Urine was dark and scant, I was thin and emaciated, and had intense pain in my back and head. My limbs swelled and stomach bloated. I got so low that I was kept alive by stimulants. The doctor told my family I was in the last stages of Bright's disease, and could not last three days. As a last resort they gave me Doan's Kidney Pills and slight improvement was noticeable. I kept getting better and better until at last I was able to leave my bed. From then on I gained rapidly. It was but a short time before I was as well as ever."

Remember the name—Doan's. For sale by druggists and general storekeepers everywhere. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

HE WAS HUNGRY, TOO.

Mrs. Justwed—There's nothing in the house fit to eat. I'm going home to my mother. Mr. Justwed (broke)—Wait till I get my hat, and I'll go with you.

BABY'S HAIR ALL CAME OUT

"When my first baby was six months old he broke out on his head with little bumps. They would dry up and leave a scale. Then it would break out again and it spread all over his head. All the hair came out and his head was scaly all over. Then his face broke out all over in red bumps and it kept spreading until it was on his hands and arms. I bought several boxes of ointment, gave him blood medicine, and had two doctors to treat him, but he got worse all the time. He had it about six months when a friend told me about Cuticura. I sent and got a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. In three days after using them he began to improve. He began to take long naps and to stop scratching his head. After taking two bottles of Resolvent, two boxes of Ointment and three cakes of Soap he was sound and well, and never had any breaking out of any kind. His hair came out in little curls all over his head. I don't think anything else would have cured him except Cuticura."

"I have bought Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap several times since to use for cuts and sores and have never known them to fail to cure what I put them on. Cuticura Soap is the best that I have ever used for toilet purposes." (Signed) Mrs. F. E. Harmon, R. F. D. 2, Atoka, Tenn., Sept. 10, 1910. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 16 L, Boston.

Not Sufficiently Eager.

A little miss of five years was under the ban of disobedience. She had been told to put away her playthings as it was near bedtime. She did not obey the command, and, when forced to do so, gave way to a petulant display of temper. Her father, who was up stairs, heard the commotion, and, being made acquainted with the cause, summoned the child to his presence. Irma started to the stairs, but suddenly made a turn, dashed along the hall, and out of the house. Of course she was soon captured, but her excitement was so great that she was put to bed at once. Mother's efforts soothed the child and then she was asked: "Why did you run away when your father called you?" The reply came promptly enough: "You don't suppose, mamma, that I wanted a whipping bad enough to go upstairs after it?"

SASKATOON requires mixed farmers, market gardeners, poultrymen, dairymen, hog and stock raisers. Nowhere is there more room or greater opportunities for such. Agricultural laborers in great demand. Wages high. Work abundant. Why not get into this bigger life and participate in its wonderful prosperity? Write Commissioner, Board of Trade, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, Western Canada.

CORPORATIONS PAY A HEAVY STATE TAX

FEDERAL COMMISSION REPORTS THEY FURNISH 71 PER CENT OF WISCONSIN REVENUE.

AD VALOREM SYSTEM USED

Railroads Paid $3,200,000 in 1910, Which Was Largest Amount from Any One Source—Total State Tax Receipts Were Near $6,000,000.

Washington.—That Wisconsin derives about 71 per cent of its total state taxes from corporations and that this percentage is the greatest of any of the eastern central states, is a point made in a report on state taxation of corporations prepared by the bureau of corporations.

The report affords a concise comparison between the tax laws of the states in the light of judicial decisions, practical administration and revenue returns. In his report Commissioner Smith says in part:

"The eastern central group differs from the middle Atlantic group in using much more extensively the general property tax for state revenue. Wisconsin alone approaches a separation of sources of revenue, and its special taxes yield sufficient revenue for ordinary state expenses."

"Michigan and Wisconsin make elaborate physical valuation of steam and street railway property, which, with earning capacity, forms the basis of state administered ad valorem taxes. Reversing the tendency almost universal elsewhere, these two states have, with respect to the taxation of railroads, gone from the modern gross earnings method to the ad valorem tax."

"Wisconsin derives about 71 per cent of its total state taxes from corporations; Ohio, 52 per cent; Indiana, 19 per cent; Illinois, 34 per cent. In Michigan, revenue from special corporation taxes is applied entirely to the school fund, and equals about 45 per cent of the total taxes collected by the state."

"In 1910 there was received by the state of Wisconsin from railroads about $3,200,000, from insurance companies about $725,000, from various other classes of corporations $163,000, and from incorporation fees $95,000. Total state tax receipts were nearly $6,000,000."

NEEDS RECORDS OF PROBE

No Copies of Testimony in Stephenson Case Available for Federal Committee on Elections.

Madison.—Secretary of State Frear has not yet received the request of the elections committee of the United States senate for additional copies of the testimony in the Stephenson election investigation case, and when he does, he will have great difficulty in complying, because he has no more copies of the documents in question and doesn't know where he can get any unless he has them printed. This would take much time and entail a large expense. The testimony makes two large volumes.

Only a few hundred copies of the testimony were printed, and they were insufficient to meet the demand of member of the legislature and others entitled to them.

The investigation cost the state about $20,000. The principal items of expense were fees for witnesses, officers serving summonses, stenographic reporters, clerks and printing. The stenographers got about $9,000 of the $20,000.

RAINS AID WISCONSIN CROPS

Prof. Moore, Badger Crop Expert, Says Prospects for a Big Corn Harvest Are Brighter.

Madison.—Rains that were general over Wisconsin proved a decided help to corn, tobacco and potatoes, especially late potatoes. In more northern regions there has been much more moisture, and these crops fared better.

"Grains have run somewhat lower than we had anticipated," said Prof. R. A. Moore, Wisconsin's crop expert, "showing that the extremely hot weather early in July had a decidedly detrimental effect on small grains."

The corn crop is big, and the prospects for the harvest are better than in any years.

Capt. J. B. McCoy Dead.

Want Big Socialist Convention.

Trolley Route Changed.

Janesville.—The Rockford Interurban company has changed its route for entering the city, owing to suits for damages on the old route by property owners.

GRAFTON HAS $40,000 FIRE

Burning of Second Foundry in Town Within a Month Arouses Suspicion of Incendiarism.

Port Washington.—Fire of unknown origin totally destroyed the Grafton Iron foundry at Grafton, six miles from here. The loss is estimated at $40,000. Nentzloff Bros. are the owners.

A peculiar coincidence is the fact that only about four months ago the Globe foundry, also a Grafton industry, suffered a loss of $20,000 by fire.

While the owners refuse to make any statements concerning the origin of the blaze, a rumor in Port Washington tonight suggested the suspicion that the fire was incendiary.

Between forty and fifty men were employed by the company, and will be without work.

The flames from the building could be seen for a great distance and for a time it was feared they would spread to nearby buildings and sweep the town.

With the destruction of the Grafton foundry the village is minus its largest industry. For years the Grafton and Globe foundries have given employment to nearly 100 men.

It is not known whether the plant will be rebuilt.

MADISON NEWSPAPER SOLD

Madison.—The Wisconsin State Journal makes editorial announcement of the passing of control of the paper to Richard Lloyd Jones, former associate editor of Collier's Weekly.

It is announced that Mr. Jones has bought the stock of Dr. Amos P. Wilder, American consul at Shanghai, and that the new editor and publisher is a progressive and that he will stand for the best in civic and national life.

The statement notes the reason for the sale is the fact that Mr. Jones proposed to start a new afternoon daily in Madison had he not been successful in securing control of the State Journal, and that in the interests of the public generally the maintenance of only one such paper was the part of wisdom.

First Indian Lawyer in State.

Milwaukee.—Dennison Wheelock of Oneida, a graduate of Marquette college, is the first full blooded Indian, as far as is known, ever to secure the right to practice law in Wisconsin. He is from the great family of Wheelocks, of the Oneida reservation and this family has figured in football also. Jonas Wheelock, a relative of Dennison, was the captain for years of the Carlisle football team, and for many years other members of the Oneida family were in the game there. A relative of Wheelock is one of the few Indian clergymen in the country, being lay reader at the Oneida Episcopal mission.

COUNTY FAIRS TO PURGE "MIDWAY"

WITHDRAWAL OF STATE'S AID WILL FOLLOW OPERATION OF TABOOED SHOWS.

MORE MONEY FOR EXHIBITS

New State Law Provides Increased Support for Purely Agricultural Displays—Deals a Blow to Fairs That Were Merely Racing Meets.

Madison.—County fair officials throughout the state are proceeding cautiously in booking concessions for the coming fair season as a result of more stringent laws against improper games and shows. State aid will be withheld from all fair societies which are found to have permitted violations of the rule.

All games of chance not depending on skill, and all shows of immoral character are by the new law forbidden upon pain of losing state aid varying from $2,500 to smaller amounts.

MARCUSE, CALIFORNIA, LAND FOR PROFITABLE FARMING

Marcuse Colony, located in Sutter County, which is in the heart of the Sacramento Valley, is fast coming to the front as a farming community which nearly every agricultural product grows and the law says that the soil is a dark, sandy loam, well drained. It has the advantage of other soils in that it is loose and light and the law says that it is eliminated and the law says that the state shall pay 80 per cent of the total amount of premiums paid at the fair in the preceding year upon "livestock, articles of production, educational exhibits, agricultural implements and tools, domestic manufactures, mechanical implements and productions for which published premiums have been offered; but in no case shall any one premium exceed the sum of $50."

DECREASE IN DEATH RATE

Report of State Board of Health Shows that Only 1,899 Died in Wisconsin During June.

Madison.—The total number of deaths in Wisconsin during June, according to an announcement by the Wisconsin state board of health, was 1,899. This was the lowest number for June in several years, notwithstanding the population is increasing at the rate of over 50,000 annually. In June, 1910, the deaths numbered 2,273, in June, 1909, 2,090, and in June, 1908, 2,000. The decrease this year is attributed to the absence of any serious epidemics and to a more general observance of hygienic rules.

Madison.—An appeal has been made to the state railway commission jointly by the state board of agriculture and the breeders and exhibitors of horses at state and county fairs in Wisconsin to relieve them of alleged discrimination made by the railroads in rates charged for horses sent for exhibition purposes to state and county fairs.

The railroads of Wisconsin charge a one-way rate on cattle, hogs and sheep when sent as exhibits for county fairs, state fairs, cattle shows, cattle sales, etc. The usual course of procedure is to charge full rate for each head of cattle, sheep or swine exhibit and return the herds to their place of shipment free.

A meeting of leading horse breeders may be held here to adopt plans for inducing the railroads to grant them the same concessions as are given cattle breeders.

An attempt will be made to adjust the rates before the county fair season opens so that the smaller shows will be given the same advantage as the state fair.

BLACKMAILING MUST BE ART

Amateur Makes Mistake When He Seeks to Make Money in Such an Avocation.

Police Commissioner Waldo of New York was talking about blackmailers. "They are, as a rule, stupid," he said. "Their threatening letters are as ludicrous in their stupidity as a letter a friend of mine received the other day."

And Commissioner Waldo, with a laugh, produced the letter. Written in a large, boyish hand, it said:

"Dear sir—Your winder was broken by a bad bol wat throo it throo four thee pirpus. The ball beelonedg two mee, but an eneme of raine sneaked it and did the deed to put the blaame on mee. I am sorry he did it, and that it have give you grate pain, and I have persecuted the perpetrator wot done it. But you would not have thee innocent suffer fer the gilty, so, if you drop thee ball over the garden wall. If you don't be ware!—(Signed) Innocent."

A Clue.

"How did the accident happen?" asked the reporter on the scene of the railway horror, the Cleveland Plain Dealer records.

"Somebody stopped the train by pulling the airbrake cord," answered the conductor. "So the second section ran into us. It will take six hours to clear the track so that we can go ahead."

"Six hours?" shrieked a passenger.

"And I was to be married today!"

"Have you any idea who pulled the rope?" continued the reporter, disregarding the interruption.

"I didn't have until now," whispered the conductor. "But what do you think of that fellow that just butted in? I'll sic the detectives on him."

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Peoria, Ill.—"I wish to let every one know what Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies have done for me. For two years I suffered. The doctors said I had tumors, and the only remedy was the surgeon's knife. My mother bought me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am a healthy woman. For months I suffered from inflammation, and your Sanative Wash relieved me. Your Liver Pills have no equal as a cathartic. Any one wishing proof of what your medicines have done for me can get it from any druggist or by writing to me. You can use my testimonial in any way you wish, and I will be glad to answer letters."—Mrs. CHRISTINA REED, 106 Mound St., Peoria, Ill.

Another Operation Avoided. New Orleans, La.—"For years I suffered from severe female troubles. Finally I was confined to my bed and the doctor said an operation was necessary. I gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial first, and was saved from an operation."—Mrs. LILY PRYOR, 1111 Kerlerec St., New Orleans, La.

The great volume of unsolicited testimony constantly pouring in proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a remarkable remedy for those distressing feminine ills from which so many women suffer.

Midsummer Hats

LACES and nets are more generally used in making hats for midsummer than for many seasons past. They are fine for remodeling shapes that have been worn but are available for a second or third season, as leghorns and milans. If the used shape is discolored or not in perfect repair, ruffles of lace, sewed one row above another, may easily cover the upper brim entirely. With a crown of set draped over a thin silk for the top, so part of the original shape is visible except the under brim. Such a hat is shown in Fig. 1. The lace is a German val pattern and is knife plaited, making ruffles a little less than two inches wide. These are slip stitched to the brim.

The wreath of buds and foliage about the crown at the base is all that is needed to complete the hat. A leghorn in Fig. 2 shows the under brim covered to within an inch and a half of the edge with a dotted net in pale blue. A big puffed crown of the net is draped over a wreath of hydrangeas, which grows wider at the back, where it climbs to the top of the crown. Very little of the upper brim is visible and the crown of this hat is almost wholly concealed. On the crown the net is draped over plain chiffon a trifle lighter in tone than itself. This is another excellent design for a hat which is to be remodeled from one that shows signs of wear. JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

CARE OF THE GIRL'S ROOM

Trick of Having Apartment Beautiful, Attractive and Clean is Simple and Easily Learned.

A girl can learn nothing more useful than the simple trick of having her own room beautiful, attractive and clean. It is not always possible to have the furniture, but one can have a "homey looking" room. One thing is absolutely necessary, a room must be clean, bedspreeds, pretty linen dresser pieces and chair cushions are necessary. Cover the trunk (if kept in the room) with a cretonne cover, and have a scrap basket to hold little odds and ends which must be burned. On the table have well selected books and magazines. Keep gay postal cards in a neat postal card book. Do not decorate the walls with them, for pretty as they are they soon hang crooked and make a room look untidy.

Have a place for shoes, for if anything makes a room upset it is a pair of tan shoes lying, pigeon-toed, under the bed and another pair of black ones under the dresser. Keep the closet in order so that when the door is opened you will not be ashamed to have anyone see how you keep your clothes. If you put things away as you use them you can have a room like this. Have one palm or fern grace your room, and if it dies get a new one.

GRACEFUL LINGERIE DRESS.

Beautifully embroidered in pale blue and white.

CLEVER USES OF BASKETS

Make Very Pretty Jardinieres by Use of Cheap Materials and Little Artistic Skill.

A woman who likes to have her house full of growing plants in winter has discovered the baskets which can be bought for 10 cents make very pretty jardinieres. These baskets, in old-fashioned willow-ware, come in dark green, deep red and brown, and any of them are effective with the green of the plants, says the New York Tribune. If the baskets are bought in a 10-cent store it is most likely that one will need only to go to another department to buy for 10 cents the pans that will exactly fit them. Before being filled by the florist the pans should be painted grass green, or to match the basket.

One of these baskets may also, with a little more manipulation, be made to fill the more prosaic sphere of a work-basket, lined with Persian silk in harmonizing colors. On one side is a pocket of silk drawn up by narrow elastic, and small bows holding in place an emery ball, a bodkin, a glove mender and a needle book make a pretty decoration along the edge. The outer edge is trimmed with a modest little fancy fringe.

Newer in style is the brown one, with yellow added for brightness. There is a mat in the bottom cut from cardboard and covered with brown silk, which is fastened to the under side with glue. The little silk cushion, which is of the tomato order, measures four and a half inches across. Both mat and cushion are held in place by two stitches of strong silk that go through the bottom of the basket. A yard and a half of ribbon three and a quarter inches wide will be required to hold the spoils and to make the bow. A quarter of a yard of a wider ribbon in the same shade will do for the cushion.

Slip-Over Blouses. Blouses of silk or linen or wool or satin or pongee that slip over the head and require no buttoning up back or front are the latest. They are very dainty in appearance and complete, needing no gumpie. There is a little opening down a few inches in front and the neck has a tube for a drawing of silk, which ties in front and ends in tassels. Some are finished at the neck with a net frill. The sleeves are in kimono style and there is any variety of plain, striped and fancy silks and other materials.

Crocheted Cuff Links. Cuff links for wash waists may be made from two crocheted buttons, sewed together like the parts of a dumbbell link with a strong thread loop of the right length, which is then buttoned over and over. These links will wash, are pretty and are not easily lost, besides being economical.

Chamois Trimmings. An odd but beautiful evening gown is of chamois colored tulle, with embroideries worked on real chamois leather in Japanese style with floss silks. The designs are chrysanthemums in lovely shades of yellow, gray and drab, and here and there a dragon worked in silver thread.

MARCUSE, CALIFORNIA, LAND FOR PROFITABLE FARMING.

Marcuse Colony, located in Sutter County, which is in the heart of the Sacramento Valley, is fast coming to the front as a farming community in which nearly every agricultural product known may be successfully raised without irrigation.

The soil is a dark, sandy loam, sedimentary in character, level and well drained. It has the advantage over other soils in that it is loose in character and superior to heavy soils.

With this wealth of soil, abundance of water, unexcelled climate and long growing season, Marcuse Colony is the ideal place for the homeseeker with limited means, the worn out professional man, or the young man looking for a small farm in a healthful climate.

The proximity of Marcuse Colony to Sacramento, furnishes a ready market for vegetables, poultry, eggs and dairy products. Fruits, vegetables, alfalfa, grains and grasses and poultry yield large returns. The rainfall is certain and drought is unknown.

Land is yet moderately priced, but crop failures in other sections of the United States will bring new settlers in rapidly. This, together with the holding of the Panama Pacific Exposition in San Francisco during 1915, is bound to raise the price, and whether for a home, or for an investment, now is the time to purchase. Land may be had in tracts suitable to the means of all and the results obtained are almost beyond belief. Further information will be gladly furnished by HOMESEEKERS' INFORMATION BUREAU, 639 Bee Bldg., Omaha, Neb.

His Criticism. An old man stood on the street corner in Cherryvale when the trolley stopped and let off a woman passenger. She had on a linen dress, a Panama hat, champagne-colored hose and strapped pumps. "Gosh!" exclaimed the old man. "I'd spend less money on my bonnet and buy some socks."—Cherryvale (Kan.) Journal.

Look Before You Leap. Agitated Old Gent—Quick! My daughter is overboard! Save her, and she shall be your wife! Blase Person—Walt till the wave rolls her over and I can see her face!—Puck.

Their Species. Pro A Partisan—Messrs. Rossman and McCook are an insurgent pair. Anti Partisan—At all events, they're not a Van Sickle pair.

A Poor Weak Woman

As she is termed, will endure bravely and patiently agonies which a strong man would give way under. The fact is women are more patient than they ought to be under such troubles.

Every woman ought to know that she may obtain the most experienced medical advice free of charge and in the absolute confidence and privacy by writing to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce has been chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., for many years and has had a wider practical experience in the treatment of women's diseases than any other physician in this country. His medicines are world-famous for their astonishing efficacy.

The most perfect remedy ever devised for weak and delicate women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG. SICK WOMEN WELL.

The many and varied symptoms of woman's peculiar ailments are fully set forth in Plain English in the People's Medical Adviser (308 pages), a newly revised and up-to-date Edition of which, cloth-bound, will be mailed free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only.
