PASSES BAD CHECK IN SEATTLE, WASH. ON THEIR FRIENDS

Paul Treleven Adds to Record as Forger and Again Avoids Arrest

POLICE WERE NOTIFIED

Fail to Capture Man Despite Urgent Telegram From Sheriff Graham

(Fond du Lac Reporter)
 Paul D. Treleven, wanted in this county for the passing of forged paper at Campbellsport on Saturday, August 5, passed a forged check for $45 on the management of the Ranier Grand Hotel at Seattle, Washington, Saturday, Aug. 12, just one week later. The check which was drawn on a Fond du Lac bank was made out to himself, and signed with the name of his father. It was dated back prior to his departure from this locality and young Treleven explained that he had secured it before leaving for the west and had not seen fit to cash it as he considered the check safer to carry than the ready cash.

The fact that Treleven was not arrested at Seattle was due to either an oversight on the part of the Seattle chief of police or the inefficiency of his detective department. Sheriff Graham notified the chief by telegraph on August 10, two days prior to the passing of the forged check to look out for Treleven, and had also written him a full description of the man and the details of the charge against him which must have reached the Seattle chief prior to the passing of the forged paper on the Grand hotel management. As Treleven had not seen fit to change his name or in any way disguise his identity his arrest should have been an easy matter. Treleven left Seattle on the day of forgery and is believed to have gone to Colorado.

Treleven is wanted in Fond du Lac for the passing of forged paper in Campbellsport on the afternoon of Saturday, August 5. The warrant for his arrest was sworn out by Joseph Straub of the firm of Knekel & Straub on Monday, August 7. Others who cashed bad paper for Treleven were Charles Nolan, M. R. Boeckler, J. F. Naughton, Will Poole, B. Sorwe, E. F. Messmer and Beisler & Jaeger, all residents of Campbellsport. The checks were all signed in the name of James B. Day, a prominent farmer of the locality, by whom Treleven had been employed for some time, and were represented as the amount due for wages. The forgeries were not discovered until the following Monday, and by that time he had a long start on the officers of the law.

A very pretty wedding took place last week Thursday in the town of Scott when Rev. Kanies pronounced the words that made Theodore Otto and Miss Lillie Bleck, man and wife. The Misses Frances Beier, Lillie Rauch and Lydia Wegner were the bridesmaids. The latter were all gowned in embroidered dresses and carried pink carnations. The groom was attended by Oscar Otto of Milwaukee as best man and Walter Klug, Edgar Bleck and Oscar Hintz as groomsmen. The Misses Sadie Bleck and Emma Wenzel acted as flower girls.

SPRING SURPRISE ON THEIR FRIENDS

Louis Hartl and Miss Theckla Backus of Marshfield Quietly Married at Stanley

BRIDE WELL KNOWN HERE

Mrs. Hartl Formerly Resided Here and is the Only Daughter of Mrs. A. F. Backus of Marshfield

Cupid is artful in designing a way. Thursday afternoon when word reached this city from Stanley that Louis Hartl and Miss Theckla Backus had hied away to that city and were quietly married the news came as a happy surprise to their relatives and many admiring friends. It was a well planned and adroitly carried out marriage surprise. Leaving here in the gray of morning in an automobile accompanied by Miss Marie Hartl of Milwaukee, who arrived here on the midnight passenger, and John Frisch of Merrill who was here on a visit, the wedding party sped northward before Marshfield was up and doing, or any the wiser of their mission. Arriving at Stanley they sought the home of Fr. Eimer, a former Marshfield priest, who pronounced the words that wedded together the lives of two of Marshfield's estimable young people, the ceremony taking place at the parsonage. The bride wore a hand embroidered white linen gown purchased in Florence, Italy, and was attended by Miss Marie Hartl, a sister of the groom. The groom was attended by his nephew, John Frisch of Merrill. Mr. and Mrs. Hartl left Stanley on the Soo train for a ten days absence at Minneapolis and New Ulm, Minnesota and Fort Rice, North Dakota. On their return to Marshfield they will go to housekeeping at 362 North Central Ave. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hartl are too well known to need an introduction. The groom is a representative business man of this city an ex-alderman and above all a good fellow with many qualities admired by all who know him. His bride is no less a favorite and in the circle of society where she is best known is most admired. She is the only daughter of Mrs. A. F. Backus and sister of Judge A. F. Backus of Milwaukee. Only a few months ago she returned from an extended visit to the principal cities of the old world and besides is a woman of many entertaining qualities. With their many friends the Herald extends congratulations.

The above item is a clipping from the Marshfield Herald of August 12th, 1911. The bride is well known in this community having up to a few years ago resided in this village. She has a host of friends here who extend a hearty congratulation to her and her husband. The Statesman also wishes to congratulate the newly married couple and hope their married life will be very happy and prosperous.

Plays to Packed House.

The Burglars Sweetheart, a four act comedy drama, presented by J. Burt Johnson in Groeschel's hall last Sunday evening was greeted with a packed house. The play itself was one of the best production ever presented in this village by Mr. Johnson's company. The specialties between the acts were very well rendered.

Just before the closing act Mr. Johnson amidst applause appeared before the audience with his specialty and amused the crowd at all times. He also announced that he would appear in this village again some time in October with a company of 20 people presenting "San Antonio." That they will be greeted here with a larger house than ever before is assured. The price for this play will be the same as always 15, 25 and 35 cents. The exact date of this production will be mentioned in some future paper. Watch this paper for further particulars.

The dance after the show was also well attended. All report a very good time. The music was furnished by Honeck's Concertina Band. Mr. Johnson always when staging a play gives a social hop for all free of charge.

Buys Millinery Store.

Miss Elsie Brandt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Brandt of this village, last week purchased the millinery stock and business of Miss Emma Staats. Miss Brandt took possession of the place on September 1st. The business is located in the Mrs. Birk place on Main Street. The building has been considerably remodeled so as to have more room. Miss Brandt is a well experienced milliner having had several years of experience in that line. She will at all times keep the latest styles. She is at present at Milwaukee picking out the latest fall styles. She also solicits the patronage of the whole community.

NOTICE

Having recently sold my millinery business to Miss Elsie Brandt, I hereby wish to thank everybody for the liberal patronage while at Kewaskum, furthermore I hereby wish to notify all those who are indebted to me to kindly settle on or before September 20th.

STORM KILLS FIVE

CHARLESTON, S. C., CUT OFF FOR DAY BY 94-MILE GALE.

PROPERTY LOSS $1,000,000

Eight-Foot Tide and More Than Two Inches of Rainfall Are Features of Southern Blow That Reaches Hurricane Proportions.

Charleston, S. C.—This city was practically cut off from the outside world for twenty-four hours as the result of a freak storm which reached hurricane proportions that struck this vicinity and Savannah.

Five persons are known to have been killed near here and property losses, it is estimated, will reach $1,000,000. All telephone and telegraph lines are prostrated. The wind gauge registered 94 miles an hour before it was broken.

An engineer on the Southern railway was killed in the yardmaster's office by flying timbers, a motorman and a passenger lost their lives in the collapse of a trestle and two women were drowned before they could escape from their home. Several negroes also are reported among the storm's victims.

Eight or ten schooners and small steamers were either sunk or damaged. The rainfall was more than two inches.

The tide was something over eight feet during the storm, three feet short of the record of 1893. Considerable damage was done by the water in the low sections of the city, necessitating many people being removed from their houses. The waters have caused washouts on the approaches to the Union station, preventing its use.

Great damage is feared for the rice and sea island cotton industries by the rising of the tide.

The Akron is the only dirigible of the first class ever built this side of the Atlantic. It is 268 feet long, or about thirty feet longer than the America, which was lost in the ocean as a sequel to the Walter Wellman expedition last year.

G. A. R. MEN KILLED WHEN TRAIN LEAVES RAILS.

Disaster Occurs Near Manchester, N. Y.—Most of Passengers Were Returning From Veterans' Meet.

Rochester, N. Y.—The Chicago, Buffalo & New York express on the Lehigh Valley railroad, loaded with Grand Army men returning from the Rochester encampment, was wrecked at Manchester. Twenty-nine persons lost their lives and 60 were injured. The disaster was caused by spreading rails. Two engines and two cars passed over the rails in safety. The third and fourth cars plunged over the bridge 60 feet below.

The disaster was due to spreading rails. The locomotives and the baggage car had passed over the trestle when the tracks gave way. A dining car filled with passengers at luncheon was the first to plunge headlong into the water. Two coaches followed, one standing on end in the water with all its passengers hurled into a heap, which completely filled two-thirds of the car, crushing and maiming all who were underneath.

Had it not been for the almost miraculous presence of mind of Veteran Frank J. Pinner, in charge of the U. S. Grant post, G. A. R., of Philadelphia, the nine remaining coaches would also have plunged into the lake. Quick as a flash when he heard the first crash Mr. Pinner leaped up and pulled the emergency brake. It brought the coaches to a stop quivering at the edge of the shattered trestle.

BEATTIE CONFESSED, SAYS KIN

Accused Virginian's Cousin Paul Gives Damaging Evidence Against Defendant at Trial.

Chesterfield Courthouse, Va.—Paul Beattie, cousin of the man now on trial for his life in connection with the murder of his young wife, made his effort to send Harry Clay Beattie, Jr., to the electric chair.

Without the least hesitation Paul Beattie declared that Harry Beattie had himself said that he killed the bride of a year. This testimony created a sensation not equaled since the murder of Mrs. Beattie.

The prosecution sprung another surprise when it introduced as a witness, without warning, Mrs. R. V. Owen, mother of the slain girl.

In a taxicab, the arrival of which was timed to coincide with the moment Sheriff Gill exhibited in the courtroom the clothing worn by Beattie on the night of the murder, Mrs. Owen appeared and took the witness stand.

Prosecutor Wendenberg questioned Mrs. Owen as to her knowledge of the domestic life of the Beatties and brought out a point intended as relevant to the alleged motive for the murder, namely that Beattie's physical condition, due to dissipation, had caused much unhappiness to his wife. The witness said that on the night of the murder she had cautioned Mrs. Beattie not to go out alone with her husband.

On recommendation of the committee on resolutions, the encampment endorsed the Sherwood pension bill. Los Angeles, Cal., was selected by an almost unanimous vote for the 1912 encampment.

DISHONESTY IN ARMY POSTS

Major-General Grant Recommends That They Be Managed by Civilians.

Washington.—The revelation of irregularities in some of the post exchanges in the department of the east during the fiscal year, which ended recently, has caused Maj. Gen. Frederick D. Grant to recommend to the war department that post exchanges be placed in the hands of civilians.

Bad management and dishonesty has been disastrous to two post exchanges, he says, causing the loss of funds and the trial of one officer and several enlisted men. He attributes the trouble primarily to the fact that the army officers, occupied with military duties, are unable to give the exchanges the proper attention.

JUST CAMPING, THAT'S ALL

TWO DIE IN RACE

DRIVER BUCK AND MECHANICIAN JOSEPH KILLED AT ELGIN AUTO MEET.

LEN ZENGEL WINS BIG EVE"

Nearly 100 Persons Hurt When Grand Stand Collapses Precipitating 2,000 to Ground in Terror-Stricken Heap—Coolness Saves Many.

Elgin, Ill.—Tragedy raced with the record-breaking speed demons here and overtook one of the cars in which two men were careening around the road course. Just before the winner of the National trophy flashed across the finish line, one of the automobiles of the Pope-Hartford type, jumped into the air and turned a somersault. The mechanician, Samuel Jacobs, was killed instantly and the driver, David Buck, suffered injuries that resulted in his death a short time later.

The trophy was won by Len Zengel in a National car, who ran at an average speed of 66.45 miles an hour, four miles an hour faster than the record of 1910.

Zengel sustained an engine killing speed for the 305 miles. His car ran in splendid luck, outlasting Ralph Mulford's Lozier, Ralph De Palma's Simplex and Spencer Wisbart's Simplex, three of the most touted cars in the race. Every one of them fell before the tremendous pace, leaving the trophy between Zengel, Grant and Hughes, who finished in the order named.

The crowd had a touch of excitement not on the program at the end of the first lap when the grand stand folded up like a window shutter and tobogganed 2,000 persons to the ground. They lit in a hysterical and frightened heap, but there was little or no outcry. For twenty minutes the ambulances were busy taking care of the injured. Then, with many of the spectators standing on firm earth, the race was resumed.

It was at first thought that there were some fatal injuries, but investigation showed that the worst sufferers sustained nothing more than a broken limb. Nearly a hundred persons in all sustained bruises and other minor hurts.

The fact that scores were not fatally injured was due chiefly to the coolness of the men and women who were sitting in the collapsing seats. Scarcely a dozen rose to their feet or tried to jump.

Nearby farmers' barns burned and some cattle were lost. J. H. Walechka's total loss is estimated at between $50,000 and $60,000.

"JOY RIDE" COSTS ONE LIFE

George Willet Instantly Killed at Fond du Lac When Speeding Auto Turns Turtel.

Fond du Lac.—While returning from a "joy ride" to nearby towns at an early hour, George Willet, owner of a local automobile livery, was instantly killed and Bessie Menzel and Grace Dale painfully injured when their automobile turned turtle on the outskirts of this city. James Porth, a Green Bay alderman, the fourth member of the party, escaped unhurt.

The machine was being run forty-five miles an hour when it suddenly swerved from the roadway into the ditch, jumped back onto the road, and as it struck the roadway, the car overturned, throwing out the occupants. Willet was struck on the head by the axle of the auto and his death was instantaneous.

The Green Bay alderman is said to have disappeared immediately after the fatality, and the Menzel woman had to walk a half mile to telephone for help.

Willet is survived by his wife and a daughter, aged 15.

ELMHURST SWEEP BY $200,000 FIRE

LANGLADE COUNTY VILLAGE IS ALMOST COMPLETELY DESTROYED BY FLAMES.

FOUR BUILDINGS STANDING

Spark From Threshing Engine Starts Conflagration Near Large Lumber Yard and Sawmill—Antigo Firemen and Train Crew Fight Blaze.

Antigo.—Fire started at the home of George Wunderlich at Elmhurst, a small village six miles south of here, from a spark of the threshing machine engine. In less than an hour the entire village, including the Wunderlich mill and lumber yard, was wiped out. The loss is estimated at between $175,000 and $200,000. Of this amount Wunderlich's loss is $145,000, which includes his entire lumber yard, residence and barns. The sawmill was practically ruined. Buildings on the opposite side of the track caught fire and ten or twelve residences and store buildings were destroyed. Practically all of the village saved was a saloon, a church, a small hotel and the Chicago and Northwestern depot.

The Antigo fire department and the Chicago and Northwestern fire fighting apparatus assisted in fighting the flames, which were gotten under control after a hard fight.

This is the second fire in Elmhurst within two years by which the Wunderlich lumber yard was destroyed.

MAY SETTLE LINE DISPUTE

Boundary Commissions from Wisconsin and Minnesota Take a Trip on Lake Pepin.

Madison.—The special committees of the Wisconsin and Minnesota legislatures appointed to recommend a settlement of the boundary line dispute between the two states have met at Red Wing, Minn., and proceeded down the river to view the territory in dispute at Lake Pepin and later go to Duluth and look over the territory in controversy at St. Louis river. The prospects are that the committees of the two states will reach an amicable agreement. If an agreement is reached, the boundary suit now pending in the United States Supreme court at Washington will be dropped. Wisconsin claims that its boundary runs to the middle of the main channel of Lake Pepin and to the middle of the stream in St. Louis river. Minnesota claims to the middle of Lake Pepin and to the middle of the main channel in the St. Louis river, as it was before being diverted by river improvements. Fishery rights are the principal matters involved in the Lake Pepin situation. Revenues from taxation of property are involved in the dispute at the St. Louis river.

BEACHEY TO SOAR AT FAIR

"King of the Air" Will Attempt to Break Altitude Record in Milwaukee—Girls Ask for Air Trip.

Milwaukee.—Lincoln Beachey, acknowledged by all his competitors who took part in the recent Chicago meet to be the greatest living aviator, will do some sensational work in his Curtiss aeroplane at the state fair. He topped his remarkable record for the ten days' flying at Chicago by snatching the world's altitude record from Europe's greatest flyers and placing it where it probably will be safe for a long time to come, unless he succeeds in breaking his own record when he tries for a new world's altitude record here on Thursday, September 14.

Applications have been received from three Milwaukee girls, asking that they be allowed to take an air trip with Beachey, and their requests may be granted.

Dairy Cows Increase.

Madison.—Dairy cows increased in Wisconsin 47.4 per cent during the last decade. There was an increase in every county except Milwaukee county. These figures are brought out and discussed in a recent bulletin by Prof. C. E. Lee and Prof. H. C. Taylor of the Wisconsin agricultural college.

JAMES L. GATES IS STRICKEN

Land Man, for Whom Northern Wisconsin County Was Named, Succumbs to Heart Trouble.

Milwaukee.—James L. Gates, one of the largest operators in northern Wisconsin lands, died of heart failure at his home here, aged 61 years. Mr. Gates was well known as one of the biggest land operators in this part of the country and at one time owned over 2,000,000 acres in Wisconsin and Florida.

He did much toward the development of central and northern Wisconsin. He was so prominent in this particular that one of the counties in that section of the state was named after him. After several years the name was changed to Rusk county.

Mr. Gates was born in Essex county, N. Y., on Dec. 23, 1850. He was a direct descendant of Gen. Horatio Gates of Revolutionary fame. In 1856 his parents removed to Wisconsin, settling in Clark county. Young Gates had little opportunity to acquire an education and spent much of his time working in a logging camp. He became known as one of the best loggers in that section and handled as high as 40,000,000 feet of logs in one year. He surveyed and helped build the first railroad between Merrill and Neillsville, which is now a part of the Northwestern road.

In 1879 he established the first bank in Neillsville and later started the mercantile establishment of Gates, Stannard & Co. In 1887 he came to Milwaukee. In 1898 he organized the J. L. Gates Land company and took up the development of Wisconsin lands. He was president of this concern at the time of his death.

Wilson; general counsel, Neal Brown; medical director, A. B. Rosenberry, M. D.; general adjuster and inspector, E. Silverman; general manager, William A. Fricke.

BROTHER'S SLAYER PAROLED

Walter Mosher Released After Serving Twenty-one Years—Case Was Notable for Speed of Justice.

Madison.—Walter Mosher, sentenced to Waupun for life in 1899, has been paroled by the state board of pardons. He was sentenced for the killing of his brother, shot in Langlade county. The case attracted widespread attention from the fact that Mosher was enroute to Waupun less than fifty hours after his alleged crime. There is said always to have been some doubt that Mosher committed the crime, despite his plea of guilty.

Must Be Tested Again.

Madison.—Three hundred persons in the state who hold certificates issued by the Wisconsin live stock sanitary board, authorizing them to administer the tuberculin test to cattle, must get new permits if they want to continue the work. This is the substance of an opinion given by Attorney General Bancroft to Dr. A. H. Hartwig, state veterinarian, who asked whether the new law passed by the recent legislature relating to the testing of cattle for tuberculosis affected permits issued under the old law.

Jefferson County Roads Praised.

Madison.—Jefferson county has several unusually good strips of roads, said A. R. Hirst, state highway engineer, in telling of the commission's trip through that country. Bituminous macadam applied to country roads was an innovation that has proved its worth. Mr. Hirst declared, and he praised the county for a five-mile strip from Fort Atkinson to Lake Koshkonong, built partly with limestone which is treated with asphaltic oil.

Priest Drops Dead.

Milwaukee.—The Rev. M. J. Taugher, who resigned as pastor of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, Fond du Lac, on Aug. 15, dropped dead of dilation of the heart on the porch of the home of a brother, Dr. P. J. Taugher.

WAUKESHA ITALIAN IS SLAIN

Hacked and Crushed Body of Section Hand Found by Train Crew—Motive for Crime Unknown.

Waukesha.—The discovery of the hacked and bleeding remains of Vito Daidone, a section hand on the Northwestern road, by the crew of a train running into this city, disclosed the fact that a brutal murder had been committed.

Examination of the body revealed that he had been shot twice, once through the heart and again through the breast. His face was cut and slashed as with a knife, and the jugular vein cut. Finally the skull had been crushed with a sledge hammer.

Daidone made his home with three brothers in Waukesha, who say he left home for a walk. He had no enemies to their knowledge, and they do not believe robbery the motive, as when he left home Daidone had but $10 on his person, $9.50 of which was found on the body.

ANTHRAX SCARE UNFOUNDED

State Veterinarian Finds Supposed Monroe County Cases to Be a Less Dangerous Ailment.

Madison.—What was suspected as dreaded anthrax in a herd of cattle at Tunnel City, Monroe county, turns out to be hemorrhagic septicemia. This infectious disease, although comparatively rare, may develop into an epidemic unless promptly placed under control. Its nature has never been fully understood.

Dr. Charles Schmitt of the state livestock sanitary board went to Tunnel City to investigate a supposed case of anthrax. He pronounced the malady hemorrhagic septicemia. Analyses are being continued at the laboratory in this city. Three of the cows have died and others are afflicted.

This disease broke out in Kenosha county about three weeks ago and Dr. A. H. Hartwig, state veterinarian, visited one farm where thirteen cattle were infected.

WOMAN DIES AT AGE OF 114

Mrs. Mary McGrath, Believed to Be Oldest Woman in State, Passes Away at Milwaukee.

Milwaukee.—Mrs. Mary McGrath, Milwaukee's oldest woman, and probably the oldest woman in the state, died in the home of the Little Sisters of the Poor, with whom she had lived since she came here from Brandon, aged 114 years.

Mrs. McGrath came to America from Ireland with her husband in 1845, making her home in New York state. The year following they moved to Wisconsin, settling in Fond du Lac county. It was not until 1907 that Mrs. McGrath came to Milwaukee and in the meanwhile her husband died, as did three of her children. Her only living relative is a stepson, James McGrath, aged 84 years, Appleton, Wis.

Since her girlhood Mrs. McGrath had been an incessant smoker.

DISCRIMINATION IS ALLEGED

Wisconsin State Millers, in Convention at Menomonie, Discuss Suit Brought Against Railroads.

Menomonie.—The greater part of the quarterly meeting of the Wisconsin State Millers' association, held here was devoted to a discussion of a suit brought before the interstate commerce commission in the name of the association against the Milwaukee and Northwestern railroad.

Discrimination against millers in northern and central Wisconsin is alleged and a revision of rates as petitioned by the association is now awaiting an order from the commission fixing the date for the hearing.

The annual meeting will be held in January, probably in Milwaukee. The quarterly meeting will hereafter be done away with, the association holding but two meetings a year.

Janesville Asks Revaluation.

Madison.—Application for a reassessment of the city of Janesville has been made to the state tax commission.

Speaking of the Divorce Evil

Trying to succeed in business without advertising is like the case of the man who, trying to cut expenses, divorced his wife and alone attempted to keep house and raise his children. It cost him more money for doctor bills and funeral expenses in a year than he gave his wife in a lifetime.

When advertising is divorced, business success becomes failure.

This paper is building your neighbor's business. He has reasons. He tried advertising and it helped him. It is not an experiment—this paper brings results. Good, hard, convincing results—dollars.

THOUGHT MADE HIM HURRY

Recent Subject of Surgical Operation Victim of a Sudden and Horrible Thought.

"The late Dr. George W. Bailey of New York," said a Presbyterian divine, "was thoroughly modern in his methods, but he did think that some of our surgeons went too far."

"Dr. Bailey, apropos of certain reckless abusers of the knife, used to tell a story of an appendicitis club."

"At a meeting of this club a pallid member said: 'Well, friends, I had to be re-opened last week. My doctor had left a sponge inside me.'"

"I was re-opened, too," said a gaunt man. "I was re-opened just ten days ago. Prof. Cutler had forgotten to remove a pair of forceps."

"At this a nervous-looking chap groaned, jumped up, and made for the door."

"What's the matter?" they asked him. "Where are you off to in such a rush?"

"I'm off to my doctor's," the man replied. "I remember now that, just after I came to, he complained about mislaying his hat and stick."

CHILD'S HEAD A MASS OF HUMOR

"I think the Cuticura remedies are the best remedies for eczema I have ever heard of. My mother had a child who had a rash on its head when it was real young. Doctor called it baby rash. He gave us medicine, but it did no good. In a few days the head was a solid mass, a running sore. It was awful; the child cried continually. We had to hold him and watch him to keep him from scratching the sore. His suffering was dreadful. At last we remembered Cuticura Remedies. We got a dollar bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, a box of Cuticura Ointment, and a bar of Cuticura Soap. We gave the Resolvent as directed, washed the head with the Cuticura Soap, and applied the Cuticura Ointment. We had not used half before the child's head was clear and free from eczema, and it has never come back again. His head was healthy and he had a beautiful head of hair. I think the Cuticura Ointment very good for the hair. It makes the hair grow and prevents falling hair." (Signed) Mrs. Francis Lund, Plain City, Utah, Sept. 19, 1910.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 12 L, Boston.

Cement Talk No. 3

Concrete is the hardened rock-like product made by using some brand of Portland cement with sand, gravel or broken stone and water. The cement is the material which binds the sand, gravel or broken stone together; this binding action is produced by water. The terms "Cement" and "Concrete" thus have different meanings, although they are frequently used interchangeably. While cement is only one of the materials in concrete, it is perhaps the most important. To insure the best results in concrete work, the highest grade of Portland cement should be used. The concrete worker may rest assured that he has the best cement if he will make certain that the word UNIVERSAL is printed on each sack of cement that he buys. Representative dealers everywhere handle UNIVERSAL.

SYNOPSIS.

Jack Keith, a Virginian, now a border plainsman, is riding along the Santa Fe trail on the lookout for roaming war parties of savages. He notices a camp fire at a distance and then sees a team attached to a wagon and at full gallop pursued by men on ponies. When Keith reaches the wagon the raiders have massacred two men and departed. He searches the victims' clothing and finds a pocket with a woman's portrait. He resolves to hunt down the murderers.

The trail, continually skirting the high bluff and bearing farther away from the river, turned sharply into a narrow ravine. There was a considerable break in the rocky barrier here, leading back for perhaps a hundred yards, and the plainsman turned his horse that way, dismounting when out of sight among the boulders. He could rest here until night with little danger of discovery. He lay down on the rocks, pillowing his head on the saddle, but his brain was too active to permit sleeping. Finally he drew the letters from out his pocket, and began examining them. They yielded very little information, those taken from the older man having no envelopes to show to whom they had been addressed. The single document found in the pocket of the other was a memorandum of account at the Pioneer Store at Topeka, charged to John Sibley, and marked paid. This then must have been the younger man's name, as the letters to the other began occasionally "Dear Will." They were missives such as a wife might write to a husband long absent, yet upon a mission of deep interest to both. Keith could not fully determine what this mission might be, as the persons evidently understood each other so thoroughly that mere allusion took the place of detail. Twice the name Phyllis was mentioned, and once a "Fred" was also referred to, but in neither instance clearly enough to reveal the relationship, although the latter appeared to be pleaded for. Certain references caused the belief that these letters had been mailed from some small Missouri town, but no name was mentioned. They were invariably signed "Mary." The only other paper Keith discovered was a brief itinerary of the Santa Fe trail extending as far west as the Raton Mountains, giving the usual camping spots and places where water was accessible. He slipped the papers back into his pocket with a distinct feeling of disappointment, and lay back staring up at the little strip of blue sky. The silence was profound, even his horse standing motionless, and finally he fell asleep.

The sun had disappeared, and even the gray of twilight was fading out of the sky, when Keith returned again to consciousness, aroused by his horse rolling on the soft turf. He awoke thoroughly refreshed, and eager to get away on his long night's ride. A cold lunch, hastily eaten, for a fire would have been dangerous, and he saddled up and was off, trotting out of the narrow ravine and into the broad trail, which could be followed without difficulty under the dull gleam of the stars. Horse and rider were soon at their best, the animal swinging untroubled into the long, easy lope of prairie travel, the fresh air fanning the man's face as he leaned forward. Once they halted to drink from a narrow stream, and then pushed on, hour after hour, through the deserted night. Keith had little fear of Indian raiders in that darkness, and every stride of his horse brought him closer to the settlements and further removed from danger. Yet eyes and ears were alert to every shadow and sound. Once, it must have been after midnight, he drew his pony sharply back into a rock shadow at the noise of something approaching from the east. The stage to Santa Fe rattled past, the four mules trotting swiftly, a squad of troopers riding hard behind. It was merely a lurching shadow sweeping swiftly past; he could perceive the dim outlines of driver and guard, the soldiers swaying in their saddles, heard the pounding of hoofs, the creak of axles, and then the apparition disappeared into the black void. He had not called out—what was the use? Those people would never pause to hunt down prairie outlaws, and their guard was sufficient to prevent attack. They acknowledged but one duty—to get the mail through on time.

The dust of their passing still in the air, Keith rode on, the noise dying away in his rear. As the hours passed, his horse wearied and had to be spurred into the swifter stride, but the man seemed tireless. The sun was an hour high when they climbed the long hill, and loped into Carson City. The cantonment was to the right, but Keith, having no report to make, rode directly ahead down the one long street to a livery corral, leaving his horse there, and sought the nearest restaurant.

Exhausted by a night of high play and deep drinking, the border town was sleeping off its debauch, saloons and gambling dens silent, the streets almost deserted. To Keith, whose former acquaintance with the place had been entirely after nightfall, the view of it now was almost a shock—the miserable shacks, the gaudy saloon fronts, the littered streets, the dingy, unpainted hotel, the dirty flap of canvas, the unoccupied road, the dull prairie sweeping away to the horizon, all composed a hideous picture beneath the sun glare. He could scarcely find a man to attend his horse, and at the restaurant a drowsy Chinaman had to be shaken awake, and frightened into serving him. He sat down to the miserable meal oppressed with disgust—never before had his life seemed so mean, useless, utterly without excuse.

He possessed the appetite of the open, of the normal man in perfect physical health, and he ate heartily, his eyes wandering out of the open window down the long, dismal street. A drunken man lay in front of the "Red Light" saloon sleeping undisturbed; two car dogs were snarling at each other just beyond over a bone; a mover's wagon was slowly coming in across the open through a cloud of yellow dust. That was all within the radius of vision. For the first time in years the East called him—the old life of cleanliness and respectability. He swore to himself as he tossed the Chinaman pay for his breakfast, and strode out onto the steps. Two men were coming up the street together from the opposite direction—one lean, dark-skinned, with black goatee, the other heavily set with closely trimmed gray beard. Keith knew the latter, and waited, leaning against the door, one hand on his hip.

"Hullo, Bob," he said genially; "they must have routed you out pretty early today."

"They shore did, Jack," was the response. He came up the steps some what heavily, his companion stopping below. "The boys raise hell all night, an' then come ter me ter straighten it out in the mawnin'. When did ye git in?"

"An hour ago; had to wake the 'clink' up to get any chuck. Town looks dead."

"Tain't over lively at this time o' day," permitting his blue eyes to wander up the silent street, but instantly bringing them back to Keith's face, "but I reckon it'll wake up later on."

The color mounted into the cheeks of the other, his lips grew set and white, and his gray eyes darkened. "Let it all out, Marshal," he said sternly, "you've got me roped and tied. Now what's the charge?"

Neither man moved, but the one below swung about so as to face them, one hand thrust out of sight beneath the tail of his long coat. "Make him throw up his hands, Bob," he said sharply.

"Oh, I reckon that ain't goin' ter be no trouble," returned the marshal genially, yet with no relaxation of attention. "Keith knows me, an' expects a fair deal. Still, maybe I better ask yer to unhitch yer belt, Jack."

A moment Keith seemed to hesitate, plainly puzzled by the situation and endeavoring to see some way of escape; then his lips smiled, and he silently unhooked the belt, handing it over.

"Sure, I know you're square, Hicks," he said, coolly. "And now I've unhooked, kindly inform me what this is all about."

from the steady gaze of the marshal, who had half drawn his gun fearing resistance, to the man at the bottom of the steps. Suddenly it dawned upon him where he had seen that dark-skinned face, with the black goatee, before—at the faro table of the "Red Light." He gripped his hands together, instantly connecting that sneering, sinister face with the plot.

"Who swore out that warrant?" "I did, if you need to know," a sarcastic smile revealing a gleam of white teeth, "on the affidavit of others, friends of mine."

"Who are you?" "I'm mostly called 'Black Bart.'" That was it; he had the name now—"Black Bart." He straightened up so quickly, his eyes blazing, that the marshal jerked his gun clear.

"See here, Jack," shortly, "are yer goin' to raise a row, or come along quiet?"

As though the words had aroused him from a bad dream, Keith turned to front the stern, bearded face. "There'll be no row, Bob," he said, quietly. "I'll go with you."

JEW IN PLACE OF POWER
As Governor of Egypt, Sir Matthew Nathan Would Occupy Position Once Held by Joseph.

Should Sir Matthew Nathan, former governor of Natal, be appointed to succeed Sid Eldon Gorst as governor of Egypt, history will have taken one of those curious turns that set agog the discerners of signs and omens, for this appointment that is pending would place in supreme administrative control of Egypt the second Jew in four thousand years.

Sir Matthew Nathan would be the successor to Joseph of his race in the administration of a country that in the time of Pharaoh, who befriended Joseph, was the granary of the world, and in these later days is becoming one of the most significant empires of modern times.

Those who con the sacred scriptures for cues for the turns history may make will seize upon this incident as fulfilling one or another prediction or fancied prediction of the past, and much may be built upon it. In fact, it will be but a coincidence, but one of unusual interest, however. The practical import will be that Sir Matthew Nathan is reckoned a fine administrator and worthy of all honor.

An Incentive.
"Now, my boy," said the head of the firm, "if you will attend strictly to your duties I will do something fine for you. I want you to always ask, when you answer the telephone, who it is before you let it be known whether I am here or not, and always be careful, when the people come here, to find out who they are and what they want before you come into the private office to learn whether I wish to see them or not."

"Yes, sir," replied the new office boy, "I understand, I had to do that where I worked before."
"Very well. See that you make no mistakes, and, as I have said, I will do something nice for you."
"What are you goin' to do for me if I give satisfaction—raise me wages?"
"Well, I can't promise that, exactly, but I'll bring you the score cards of the ball games and let you make an album of them if you tend to business properly. I never miss a game."

SPOILED JOKE FOR WILLIE

And Now the Youngster is Convinced That Woman Have No Sense of Humor.

Willie is convinced that women have no sense of humor. Willie is seven, and he judges all women by his mother. What he considered a splendid joke occurred to him, and he resolved to make his father its mute and admiring witness or auditor.

"Mamma," said Willie, "when papa comes home I'll climb up on the step-ladder and pretend to be doing something to the picture. Then you say, 'Willie, what are you up to?' Then I'll say: 'Up to date.' Won't papa be surprised?"

Papa came home in due time and was hardly seated before Willie dragged in the step ladder and climbed up to a picture. This was mamma's cue to ask the question that would give Willie the opening for the joke. So mamma hurriedly asked:

"Willie, what are you doing up there?"

Willie turned a look of disgust, chagrin and disappointment upon his mother, climbed down the ladder and left the room without a word.

Cautious Supervision.
"I'm afraid my work is going to be complicated," said the new teacher.

"In what way?"

"Mrs. Cumrox was looking through the text book on arithmetic and it occurred to her to suggest that I refrain from teaching her daughter any examples in improper fractions."

"What are you doing up there?"

Willie turned a look of disgust, chagrin and disappointment upon his mother, climbed down the ladder and left the room without a word.

Bonano

THE BEST NIGHT DRINK

Because it is soothing, refreshing and sound-sleep inducing, BONANO is the best of all bed-time drinks.

It is the one hot drink you can give the children too, in safety at any time. They like it and it agrees with them.

BONANO is nature's night-cap for older folks. It contains nothing to harm.

As a hot drink taken before retiring, it draws the blood to the stomach, away from the higher nerve centers, and gives restful sleep a clear right of way.

It is as inspiring as coffee, as refreshing as tea, and its taste and aroma are as delicious as cocoa or chocolate. You will not grow tired of it.

Only a teaspoon to a cup of water, boil one minute, serve with cream and sugar and you have the best of hot drinks for morning, noon and night.

A 25-cent dust-proof can makes seventy-five cups. Good and economical.
