POINTS IN WATCH BUYING

The two important points in watch buying are to get a good one, and the place you buy it at.

Watches, like human beings, sometimes go wrong, but if bought at the right place you can always depend on the guarantee being fulfilled to the letter. Our care in the selection of grades and makes, assures your purchase being right—the best your money can buy. Our watch department is our special pride—any watch purchased from us whether Elgin, Waltham, Howard, Hamilton, Rockford, South Bend—or any other make—we guarantee value received.

FROM MAINSPRING TO HAIRSPRING BETWEEN THEM LIES THE SECRET

The Mainspring is the power which it transmits to the active parts of the watch. The Hairspring has the control and regulates the motion. The fitting is most delicate; imagine a 100th part of a hair. (Impossible isn't it?) Yet it is enough to interfere in its performance, so wonderful is the adjustment. The friction from accumulating dirt; lack of oil, etc. destroy these perfect fittings. Do not let your watch run to ruin from neglect. Remember our business is the care of watches, and our opinion costs nothing.

HERE, THERE AND EVERYWHERE

With This Issue we will Begin Publishing Articles Written by the Man About Town

TAKES TRIP IN THE COUNTRY

Last Sunday He Strays From the Beaten Path and Lands in the Wideawake Village of New Fane

This week we are commencing to publish articles written by one who has been added to our editorial staff. This party can be found most all the time. He is "HERE THERE AND EVERYWHERE." We would suggest that everybody be somewhat on the lookout for "Yours Truly," as he will surely have something to say about someone every week.

Last Sunday afternoon "Yours Truly" took a trip out in the country, of course the weather was not very favorable, but I was brave enough to face all. After a forty-five minute ride, I landed in that wee small village called "New Fane." It is small but Oh My. The first stopping place was at John Kohn's, where a duck tournament was being held. Talk about your crowd there in attendance, it certainly was immense. Horses with rigs could be seen tied to hitching posts for a few blocks. Mr. Kohn, I found busily engaged in serving the customers with drinks, which of course were not free. He did not take long however when he took off his sweater coat as the perspiration began to flow very freely. I then happened to go into the hall adjoining and to my great surprise found the Kewaskum Brass Band playing one of the latest hits of the season. The music was certainly very pleasing and enjoyed by all. For the name of this selection I would refer you to the Hon. Wm. Krahn, the Leader. This band is noted to be one of the best in this section of the country. It is composed of mostly all home boys amongst whom I noticed Elmer, the night man, with his flute; Joe, the baker, with the base drum, which could be heard for miles; William, the jeweler, and Herman, the tailor, both playing bases; Alex, the telephone operator, with the snare; Fred, the banker and Peterson with the trombones; Don the printer, and Robert Wesenberg with alto; John, the furniture man, Herman Wesenberg and the drummer, on the cornets and Stieglbauer of Milwaukee on the clarinet.

Geese and ducks were plentiful, but not my way, as luck certainly must have been against me. Next happened to go into Mrs. John Schiltz's place, just to look around. It did not take very long before Edw. Miller and Albert Oppenorth two highly respected citizens of the village of Kewaskum, followed. The former reported that he was one of the lucky winners at the tournament and won a duck, but I failed to see it, perhaps he will invite "Yours Truly" for a duck dinner some of these days.

As circumstances would not allow it I did not stay for the dance but from all reports received since then, all state they had a very good time.

Hurt by Circle Saw.

Joe Bassil employed in Nic. Haug's blacksmith shop at Campbellsport had the misfortune last Saturday of having his right hand badly cut with a circle saw. Joe was busily engaged in sawing some lumber when in some manner the piece which he was sawing drew back pulling his right hand along which came in contact with the saw. The hand was badly cut across the palm and penetrated some of the small bones which were necessary to be taken out. The injuries will mean that Joe will be unable to work for a long time. The unfortunate lad is well known here having resided in this village a number of years with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bassil.

Averts Awful Tragedy.

Timely advice given Mrs. C. Wiloughby, of Marengo, Wis., (R. No. 1) prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. Doctors had said her frightful cough was a "consumption" cough and could do little to help her. After many remedies failed her aunt urged her to take Dr. King's New Discovery. "I have been using it for some time," she wrote "and the awful cough has almost gone. It also saved my little boy when taken with a severe bronchial trouble." This matchless medicine has no equal for throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all Druggists.

Are Rebuilding Creamery.

Grell & Wollensak, proprietors of the local creamery have carpenters at work building an addition to the creamery which will be used for a boiler room. The firm also received a new boiler which will be installed, while this work is going on Fred Andrae will use his traction engine to run the plant. As soon as all day current is secured from the L. Rosenheimer Malt & Grain Co. the firm will have a motor installed to run their plant.

ST. ELMO WELL PRESENTED HERE

J. Burt Johnson and Company Present St. Elmo in a Very Satisfactory Way

WILL RETURN IN NOVEMBER

The Next Play to be Presented Here by Mr. Johnson and Company will be "Thelma" in the Latter Part of November

St. Elmo, a four act drama, which was presented by J. Burt Johnson & Company in Groeschel's hall last Wednesday evening was largely attended. The play as a whole was enjoyed by all. Everyone speaks well of same, were well pleased. Mr. Johnson presented this play with the strongest company he has ever had. It certainly was well worth the money. The specialties given between the acts were also well given. Each specialty was well applauded. Mr. Johnson and company have proved themselves to be high class actors and actresses. They will return to this village again the latter part of November, when they will present "Thelma." This play is highly recommended and we would suggest that every one read the novel, so that when it is staged here all will be able to follow the play. The dance after the show was enjoyed by all. Mr. Johnson is always well pleased with the patronage of this village that he shows his appreciation by giving the people a dance free of charge after every show.

The vaudeville show given by Blankenburg and company in Groeschel's hall last Saturday evening was not very well attended. The different instrument solos by Ray were well received.

A Very Pretty Wedding.

A very pretty wedding took place at the Eva Luth, St. Lucas church last Saturday afternoon, when Miss Charlotte Belger of the town of Kewaskum and Gustave Krueger of Elmore were united in marriage by Rev. Grove. The bride wore a white messaline gown with silk tulle and carried a bouquet of wild roses. She was attended by her sister Emma Belger as maid of honor, who wore an embroidered gown and carried white carnations. Helen Habeck dressed in a cream batiste gown and carrying pink carnations, acted as bridesmaid. The groom was attended by Edward Spoel as best man and Walter Belger as groomsmen.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Belger of the town of Kewaskum. She is a young lady of charming manners. She is also very popular and has a large host of friends. The groom is a very industrious young farmer of Elmore and is held in high esteem by all. After the wedding ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's parents, where about seventy-five guests participated in the festivities. The house was beautifully decorated with crepe paper, flowers and autumn leaves. The young couple will be at home at Campbellsport to their many friends after November 1st. The Statesman extends its congratulations and best wishes for a happy and prosperous married life.

DAMAGED BARLEY CAUSES A VERY HEAVY FIRE LOSS

The Damaged Barley From The L. Rosenheimer Malt & Grain Company Starts a $300,000 Blaze at Milwaukee Last Saturday. Firemen Are in Peril. Whole District Endangered

MILWAUKEE ELEVATOR AND CONTENTS BURN

The Barley Was Sent to Milwaukee to be Dried, Cleaned and Sold by the Milwaukee Salvage Company. All Grain in Elevator Was Insured. Firemen Were Unable to Save Building

The damaged barley from the recent L. Rosenheimer Malt & Grain Co. of this village was the cause of a $300,000 blaze in an elevator at Milwaukee last Saturday morning. After the large fire in this village about six weeks ago the insurance companies engaged the Milwaukee Salvage Co. in removing the damaged barley, which was sent to Milwaukee to be dried, cleaned and then sold. This work of sending the barley was begun about four weeks ago. Upon its arrival at Milwaukee it was transferred into bins of an elevator belonging to the Chicago & North Western Railway Co. located on the south end of the Broadway bascule bridge. A more accurate account of the fire is taken from a clipping of the Milwaukee Sentinel, dated last Sunday, which reads as follows:

Four members of the fire department were forced to flee for their lives early Saturday morning when grain dust in elevator B, South Water and Lake streets, exploded, causing a fire that destroyed the building and damaged the contents to the extent of approximately $300,000. The insurance on the building is said to be $150,000. Built in 1879 by Angus B. Smith and owners of property in the neighborhood, the prediction came to naught and the building is undamaged, except for the little water that flowed in at the first floor while the sister building, ill-fated elevator B, is nothing but a mass of smoking ruins.

Singularly enough, it was through insurance men that the building burned. When the Rosenheimer elevator at Kewaskum was destroyed some three weeks ago, the wet grain in the ruins of the elevator was taken by the insurance companies as salvage. It was brought to Milwaukee recently and was being dried in elevator B.

It is possible that some of this grain may have been on fire for a week, having started from spontaneous combustion, as wet grain invariably does, say firemen. It was in the screening bin, the third bin from the west end of the elevator that the fire was discovered at one minute before 1 o'clock Saturday morning by a watchman. He notified the department and the fire was extinguished. At 5:07 o'clock the grain again caught fire and the second time it was extinguished. Shortly before 7:30 o'clock a third two comrades he was able to make his way downstairs to a window, where they found a fire escape. Had they remained in the elevator a minute longer they would have been burned to death, for only a few seconds after the explosion of dust, the whole elevator from top to bottom was a mass of flames.

It was said that there were some men who worked in the elevator on the top floor near the firemen when the explosion came. While they did not come down the same way as the firemen it is believed that they escaped.

The wind was from the south and the whole city was covered with a pall of thick smoke. After the fire was well under way, cinders and burning brands were carried all over the north, west and east sides. Large pieces of burning wood fell in the downtown district and property owners fully a mile away watched the roofs of their buildings.

Buildings adjacent to the fire were constantly catching so intense was the heat. These small fires were taken care of by the department and the incidental loss was nominal. Through the Patton Paint elevators A and B adjoining each other, and owned by the Chicago & North Western road. They are operated by the Rialto Elevator company and the estimate of $300,000 loss is made by Robert Bennett, superintendent.

The destroyed building is at the south end of the Broadway bascule bridge. Directly east at a distance of 30 feet in elevator A. That this building did not go is due to the heroic efforts of the members of the fire department, who stuck to their posts on elevator A in face of heat so intense that they were forced to turn their backs.

The burned building was 50x200 feet and six stories in height.

PROHIBITION NOT FULFILLED.

These men were in charge of Capt. Smith of engine No. 1, and Capt. Hentz, driver for Acting Chief George Linkman. They were ordered to the roof of elevator A as soon as the chief arrived on the third alarm, which came in at 7:28 o'clock.

It had always been the prophecy of insurance men of the city that if one of these elevators caught fire and were destroyed, that the other would also go. Through work that elicited the praise of bystanders fire in the same bin, caused the third time by spontaneous combustion gave the department a run.

There was some criticism of the fire department because there were three fires, and it was stated by some that the department evidently had not done its work thoroughly. This is said to be unjust, however for it is believed that there were three separate fires, all started in the bin containing wet screenings.

HAVE NARROW ESCAPE.

When assistant Chief Hanlon arrived he proceeded in the same way that all such fires are handled. Four men, Lieut. George Jansen, engine No. 19; Asi Denney, chemical No. 8; Acting Lieut. A. Barden, truck No. 5, and James Milton, chemical No. 8, were sent to the top of the shaftlike bin with poles to poke the grain down. An air space was made in the bin by the falling grain and the dust flared up, igniting at the same time the dirt laden air at the top of the elevator. This went off with a bang and in a second the whole place was in flames.

One of the four firemen at the top of the bin, Milton, was burned about the face and head. With his company situated within half a block from the fire the firemen, most of whom did not get breakfast, were supplied with 200 gallons of coffee, 100 dozen rolls and twenty-five pounds of ham.

Seventeen engines, including four fireboats, seven trucks and three chemical wagons were used. In less than an hour after the fire started it was seen that some thirty or forty streams were having their effects and by 9 o'clock all danger was over.

Although hugging the dock on the opposite side of the river, the intense heat kept two freighters from passing up the river to their docks. They were the steamers Utica and Tuscarora, both of which delayed six hours.

The terrific heat blistered the paint on the hull of the Utica, and drove the crew into the gangways from the deck as the boat passed through the railroad draw. The engines were reversed when the captain experienced the heat and on the boat, with the Tuscarora, moored at the harbor entrance until the blaze had spent its force.

Boy Disappears.

Elis, the 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Liepert of the town of Farmington disappeared for whereabouts unknown last Sunday evening. The young boy had been employed on Jos. Beyell's farm only one half mile distant from his father's home during the summer months. Last Sunday evening after helping do the chores he packed his grip and said he was going to leave. In the afternoon he also called at his parents home, but said nothing of his intentions. From all traces he boarded a train in this village Sunday evening, but in which direction he went is unknown. Anyone knowing his whereabouts kindly notify his parents, address of whom are Mr. and Mrs. Otto Liepert, Kewaskum, Wis. R. No. 5.

BIG BATTLE NEAR

CHINESE REBELS, 65,000 STRONG, ARE ADVANCING ON 20,000 MANCHU TROOPS.

CAPITAL OF HONAN FALLS

Kai-Fung is Already in Hands of Revolutionists and Nanking and Other Cities Are Surrounded—German Marines Fight Mob.

Peking.—The fall of Nanking is probable and the rebels now occupy Kai-Fung, the capital of Honan province.

The greatest battle of the war is imminent as 65,000 revolutionary troops are marching against 20,000 Manchu soldiers sent here to the relief of Kai-Fung and other cities in Honan province.

The imperial government has begun aggressive preparations for the recapture of Hankow and Wu-Chang. The first train load of troops from the north has arrived and camped north of Hankow. A detachment of the Wu-Chang garrison, which retired from that city when the rebels entered, crossed the River Yangtze above the city and marched inland, probably to effect a junction with the troops from the north.

The imperial naval force in the river was augmented by the arrival of one of the navy's modern gunboats, which carried Admiral Sah Chen Ping, who took command of the situation.

His first move was to assure the foreign consuls that the foreign concessions would not be endangered by any bombardment he might undertake. His purpose, it was believed, was to begin shelling the rebel defense around Wu-Chang.

The Red Cross society, organized by the revolutionary leaders, began removing the heaped up corpses from the streets of Wu-Chang. Well-to-do Chinese are subscribing liberally for the work.

Revolutionary determination to end the regime of official graft was brought sharply to attention by the execution of an officer appointed to collect funds for the rebel cause. He was caught attempting to divert some of the money to his own pocket and was promptly beheaded.

No trains are leaving the Hankow terminal for the north and it is uncertain when service will be resumed.

The foreign board issued the following communication to the legations and the press:

"Admiral Sah Chen Ping arrived at Hankow with eight ships of war, and troops from the north and east are arriving at Hankow. It is expected that the recapture of Hanyang and Wu-Chang will be a matter of only a few days. Dispatches from Nanking, Changsha, Canton, Anking, Mukden, Kailong, Tientsin and Poochow state that everything is quiet and there is no fear of disturbances."

The information of the legations indicates that only the first statement of the official communication is strictly accurate.

TALSMAN NELSON EXCUSSED AFTER FOUR-DAY FIGHT.

Admits He Had Formed Opinion Which Would Take Strong Evidence to Change.

Los Angeles.—The four days' fight against Z. T. Nelson, a ventriloquist, as a juror in the trial of James B. McNamara, who, with his brother, is accused of having blown up the Los Angeles Times building, ended with a victory for McNamara.

Nelson was dismissed after the state had withdrawn its objection to a challenge for cause, and after Nelson had admitted that he had formed an opinion of the guilt or innocence of the prisoner and that it "would take mighty strong evidence to shake him."

Judge Bordwell questioned Nelson and he admitted he had obtained information about the alleged dynamiting of the Times building from persons with whom he had talked and read from newspapers.

"If you were chosen as a juror in this case could you and would you, notwithstanding the opinion you have formed, act impartially on the evidence submitted to you?" Judge Bordwell asked.

"It would take pretty strong evidence before I would," was the reply.

A wrangle between lawyers as to whether he should have answered yes or no followed and Nelson said he could not answer the question. The state then withdrew its objection and Judge Bordwell permitted Nelson to step out. This ended the first skirmish in the trial.

McNamara was silent throughout the sessions. He maintained a strong interest in the examination of the talsman, but offered no suggestions.

The ground breaking took place at the stadium in Golden Gate park, which occupies a part of the site of the fair.

TAFT TRAP FOILED

THIRTY-SIX STICKS OF DYNAMITE AND A FUSE ARE PLACED UNDER BRIDGE.

He Exchanges Shots With Two Men Discovered on Southern Pacific Railroad Structure Over Which President's Special Was to Pass.

Santa Barbara, Cal.—Had it not been for the vigilance of C. B. Brown, a section foreman, the special train bearing President Taft from San Francisco to Los Angeles probably would have been blown up with dynamite 20 miles north of here. Four hours before the Taft train was due on the Southern Pacific Brown discovered 36 sticks of dynamite under the railroad structure.

The dynamite was found after the watchman engaged in a revolver battle with two men, who escaped.

The dynamite was discovered at two o'clock in the morning. The president's train passed over the bridge at 5:51. The night watchman saw two men on the bridge shortly before two o'clock. They were at the opposite end of the 1,000-foot span and ran when ordered to halt. The watchman hurried across the bridge, firing several shots, which were returned.

After the pair had escaped in the darkness the watchman returned to the bridge and began an investigation. Near the center of the span, lodged on one of the supports of the viaduct, he found the 36 sticks of dynamite with a ten-foot fuse attached to one of the sticks. He left the find untouched, going immediately to Santa Barbara and notifying the officials.

Sheriff Wines of Santa Barbara county went at once to the bridge with several deputies and removed the dynamite. A general search is being made for the men.

BIG DAIRY SHOW PROVES SUCCESS

INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION IN MILWAUKEE AUDITORIUM COMES TO CLOSE.

TOTAL ATTENDANCE IS 50,000

Receipts of Show Were $40,000 and Expenses About $37,000—Management Now Working on Largest Dairy Show Ever Held for 1912.

Milwaukee.—The first International Dairy show has ended at the Auditorium, and with the close went out the news that Milwaukee had been established as the dairy capital of America.

There were about 5,000 people present for the closing. Manager Francis A. Cannon estimated that the attendance for the nine days would run well over 50,000. Financially the exhibition was also a success. The total expense of putting it on was about $37,000, while the receipts will run well over $40,000.

"With the closing of the doors on this year's show preparations will begin for the show of 1912," said Mr. Cannon. "They will be on a bigger and a better scale. Plans have already been laid for the erection of temporary structures to accommodate some of the exhibits. We will be crowded beyond capacity in 1912. From now on there will be a campaign to make the 1912 dairy show at Milwaukee the greatest dairy exposition ever held in the world."

"Over 118 samples of milk were entered in the milk contest, coming from different points in the country. We have assurances that the health departments of every city in America, with a population of over 100,000, will be entered next year."

"The problem next year is not one of success, but one of being able to secure adequate accommodations to meet the wants of the exposition."

SEVEN DIE, 24 HURT

FREIGHT CRASHES INTO PASSENGER NEAR FORT COCK.

Surgeons at Army Post Render First Aid to Victims—Gov. Gilchrist of Florida Assists.

Omaha, Neb.—As a result of a head-on collision between a north-bound passenger train and a last freight on the Missouri Pacific railroad near Fort Cook, seven persons are dead and twenty-four are suffering from injuries more or less serious.

The injured were rushed to the post hospital and the surgeons from the fort were the first on the scene to give attention to those hurt.

The scene of the accident was within less than one mile of the post. The passenger train was delayed and was endeavoring to make up time. At this point the Missouri Pacific and Burlington are parallel and within 100 feet of each other. Each engineer thought the other train was on the Burlington track, a slight curve preventing a realization of the impending collision until the locomotives were within 100 yards of each other. The smoker completely telescoped the chair car, most of the dead and injured being in the latter car.

TELLS OF $100,000 "FUND"

Lieut. Governor Morris on Stand in Stephenson Inquiry Names Robert J. Shields as Receiver.

Milwaukee, Wis.—"I have been told by Mr. Cook, partner of Edward Hines, that approximately $100,000 was paid by Hines and Senator Stephenson to certain men, one of whom was Robert J. Shields, to be used in the election of Senator Stephenson," said Lieutenant Governor Morris at the Stephenson inquiry.

He said Mr. Shields went to Washington and saw Senator Stephenson and came back with a check.

"I was told that a man named Sanderson, a former assistant sergeant-at-arms of the senate, had told C. H. Crownhart of Superior that he had knowledge that part of this money went to the Democratic members of the assembly who walked out on the day when Senator Stephenson was elected. The money was used to induce the Democrats to leave the joint assembly."

"Cook further said that Shields demanded $15,000 for his services and that Hines and Senator Stephenson got into a dispute about it. He said that later the matter was settled by the payment of $7,500 to Shields and a certain line of insurance."

WISCONSIN RIVER IS HIGHER

Heavy Rains Send Stream Up to New Record Mark—Residence Section of Tomahawk Threatened.

Tomahawk.—Following two days of heavy rainfall, the water in the Wisconsin river above and below this city has risen to a height never before experienced. The swiftness of the current below the King dam, which was completed last year, prevented motor boats from approaching the marine railway which affords portage to the upper river. A dirt dike, which acts as a bulwark to a portion of the dam is insecure, and unless the water recedes may go out.

Should the water rise another two feet, it would probably change the course of the river, and if the force of the current be directed to the south, nothing could prevent the river from flooding the swamps to the southwest of Tomahawk, and threatening the eastern portion of the residence district.

Several of the Indians have recently been arrested and jailed for hunting and fishing which they claim the treaties of 1842 and 1854 permit them to do. Congressman Lenroot will take the matter up with the state game warden and Gov. McGovern.

Madison.—Attorney General Bancroft must decide whether Milwaukee county may receive state aid under the new good roads law if it improves the Jauesville plank road with a stone surface more than eighteen feet wide. The county board wants the state aid for one-third of the cost of the betterment but desires to make the roadway wider than is provided for in the law.

Fond du Lac.—The increase in the valuation of the water plant since Feb. 1, 1910, will be decided by the state railroad commission at a hearing to be held in Madison, Nov. 17. Upon the conclusion of the Madison hearing, the city will take over the plant.

RESOLUTIONS FOR LA FOLLETTE WIN

PROGRESSIVE REPUBLICANS ENDORSE WISCONSIN SENATOR FOR THE PRESIDENCY.

APPROVE OF POPULAR VOTE

Resolutions Ask for Abolition of Electoral College—Governor McGovern and Other Wisconsin Officials Attend the Conference.

Chicago.—Two hundred progressive republicans in their first national conference endorsed the candidacy of Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin for president and declared in favor of a direct primary as a means for the expression of a presidential choice.

The endorsement came in the shape of resolutions framed in part by former Secretary of the Interior James G. Garfield, who, it was held by the delegates, appeared as expressing the views of Theodore Roosevelt and who it was feared would not consent to a declaration in favor of any individual.

The resolutions followed a day of La Follette enthusiasm, in which his name was cheered repeatedly as it was expressed by a dozen speakers. Contrary to expectations, the conference was concluded in one day.

Wisconsin was represented at the conference by Gov. McGovern, Lieut. Gov. Morris, Congressmen Nelson and Lenroot, Editors Hicks, Oshkosh; Goodland, Racine, and Higgins, Lake Geneva; State Senator Sanborn, State Treasurer Dahl, Tax Commissioner Nils P. Haugen, Secretary of State Frear and Assistant Secretary Torge, Insurance Commissioner Ekern and Deputy Insurance Commissioner Beedle and others.

Abe Krueger and Philip Levi in Jail at Menomonie Charged With Burning Horses to Get Insurance.

Menomonie.—The wholesale burning of horses in order to realize on claims for insurance or damages from railroad companies is the unusual arson charge brought against Abe Krueger and Philip Levi, who are on trial here.

On Sept. 10, 1910, a carload of horses was burned at Menomonie Junction. The finding of a gasoline can near the car and other circumstances led to an investigation by J. E. Florin of the state fire marshal's department. The men under arrest were traced to Chicago and finally taken in hand by Fire Marshal Purcell and Chief Deputy Florin. It is alleged that they bought up a lot of old and cheap horses in Trempealeau and Eau Claire counties, consigned them in a car on the Omaha road to Minneapolis and set fire to the car en route with the intention of claiming damages amounting to about $200 apiece for the horses.

Milwaukee.—Among the distinguished judges and lawyers mentioned as possible successors to Justice John Marshall Harlan, of the United States Supreme court, who died recently, is Chief Justice John B. Winslow, of the Wisconsin Supreme court. Justice Winslow was on the president's slate for appointment a year ago and it is understood would then have been chosen for the high honor had it not been for the opposition of the senior United States senator from Wisconsin.

$400,000 MILWAUKEE BLAZE

Explosion of Grain Dust Causes Fire Which Destroys Elevator and Endangers Adjoining Property.

Milwaukee.—An explosion of grain dust in elevator B, operated by the Kialto elevator company, caused a fire that destroyed the building and damaged the contents to the extent of $400,000. The burned building was 80x200 feet and six stories in height.

Cinders and burning brands were carried over the city by the wind, endangering millions of dollars' worth of property. So intense was the heat that the firemen were prevented from approaching close enough to the burning elevator to do effective work and they confined their efforts to surrounding buildings, which were continually catching fire. Four firemen narrowly escaped death when a second explosion of grain dust occurred. Freight boats in the river were unable to pass the burning structure for several hours.

SENATORIAL PROBE JARRED BY MORRIS

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR TELLS UNEXPECTED STORY AT STEPHENSON INVESTIGATION.

INFORMED OF $110,000 POOL

Testifies That Wirt H. Cook Told Him Edward Hines and Senator Stephenson Each Contributed $55,000 for Latter's Campaign.

Milwaukee.—The Stephenson investigation took a sudden and unexpected turn when Lieut. Gov. Thomas Morris, on the witness stand, testified that Wirt H. Cook, a lumberman, living in Duluth, told him Edward Hines of Chicago and Isaac Stephenson formed a pool of $110,000 to secure the election of Senator Stephenson. Each one, Mr. Morris said, put in $55,000, according to a statement made by Cook to him.

It was a sudden and unexpected metamorphosis. At one leap, as it were, the investigation went from the primary election, the investigation of which had been going along rather sleepily, right in to the election of Senator Stephenson and its surrounding circumstances.

Senator Stephenson, when asked for a statement after adjournment regarding the testimony of Mr. Morris, said:

"The whole story is a fabrication from beginning to end. I have nothing more to say."

In an interview at Superior, Wirt H. Cook made the following statement: "If the report of the testimony of Lieut. Gov. Morris on the stand at Milwaukee is correct, as published in the papers, he is way off. I made no such statement to him."

It is said that Cook and all others mentioned in the testimony of Lieut. Gov. Morris will be summoned before the committee.

SECOND FLOOD THREATENED

Heavy Rain Caused Black River Falls Residents Another Period of Uneasiness—Peril Now Passed.

Black River Falls.—After a wakeful night by residents of this city, who faced a second inundation due to torrential rains, the water in the Black River, which had been at the point reached by the recent flood, slowly began to recede.

No more washing away of the bank has occurred to speak of and if the city can only have dry weather long enough to build the coffer dam to return the river to its old bed all danger will be over.

Buildings that had withstood the previous flood, were undermined and floated down in the torrent. The Merchants hotel, which had resumed business following the recent flood, was again in immediate danger, as well as the old postoffice building, the home of the Jackson county bank.

Residents of the lowlands were compelled to leave their homes and businesses of Black River Falls who were in temporary headquarters again moved to higher grounds.

A neat, natty and practical headwear for women automobilists is this cap, which is modeled after the soft material college hats of dressy youths and retains all the jauntness of the latter.

It is made of soft white felt, having a muff and band; the veil being attached by an elastic silk weave; the color of both to match that of the machine.

The coat shown in the picture is of light weight Vienna, pliable and warm. It is cut pretty and has spacious pockets. The whole get-up is as workmanlike as it is fetching.

SAVE MONEY ON STOCKINGS

Judicious Selection Will Accomplish Wonders of Economy During the Year.

Many women do not give much thought to the matter of buying stockings. Their cost is so little that it would seem as if one could not save much, even if she were careful in this matter. But more can be saved by judicious selection than is thought, and in the course of a year or so this saving mounts up.

If suspension garters are worn, choose the double top, garter-welt stocking, and then do not fasten the garter below the garter top. Some buy the garter top stocking and then fasten the garter below it, where it immediately proceeds to tear out. Stockings without the garter top can be made strong at this point by running two or three rows of machine stitching where the garter fastens.

The white-top stocking does not wear quite so well as the all-black foot. The white part is heavier than the black part, and is apt to break above the joining. Then, too, at the joining there is a slight thickening of the fabric scarcely visible to the eye, but the sensitive foot soon becomes conscious of it.

For an inexpensive dressy stocking the mercerized lisle is quite satisfactory. It has almost the luster of silk, costs less and wears better.

Favorite Dishes. A woman who enjoys having friends to lunch or dinner has the happy faculty of hitting on just the things her guests enjoy eating. For some years she has made it a point to jot down the favorite dishes of this friend or that in a tiny note book in her desk. When her cousin Molly is coming to lunch she looks up her name, and there finds recorded that the aforesaid Molly is particularly fond of custard desserts of any kind; clam is her favorite soup, and in meats she likes on anything cooked en casserole. With these hints spread before her the matter of planning a meal is considerably simplified.

Another friend has often said she never tastes such plain as served by her hostess; another likes tomatoes in any form, and still another prefers fish to meat.

The guests little know that they themselves have at some time given the hint as to their likings.

One-sided disposition of frills and Styles in Negligees.

The new season has opened up with few radical changes in style features, but with a stronger indorsement than ever of all kinds of the laces and soft clinging fabrics so favorable to negligee construction, says the Dry Goods Economist. Long tunics are again incorporated in the highest grade garments, all-over laces and fancy printed silks being largely used for these over draperies. While the strong colors are usually toned down considerably, brighter colors than usual are being shown this season, doubtless owing to the vogue of East Indian effects.

Washing New Curtains.

Before washing new lace curtains soak them overnight in water in which two heaping tablespoons of salt have been dissolved. This takes all the stiff dressing and lime out and saves much trouble when the actual washing is done.

Longer Skirts.

The afternoon frock shows skirts just a little longer than we had in the summer. The innovation is to be greeted with joy, for the foot must be attractively shod and of the daintiest proportions to withstand the shortness of the scant skirt that will ride up when the wearer is seated.

So longer skirts—and just a little fuller, if you would heed the mandate of the Paris designers.

WILLIAM A. RADFORD Editor

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 125 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

What we need in houses is more pleasing exteriors and more convenient interiors. I like to notice the houses as I pass along a country road. Some look very comfortable and homelike; but there are too many of the other kind—bare, neglected-looking places, and uninviting, not because of cheapness, but because they lack care and the inspiration born of refinement in town as well as in the country. I see both old and new houses that I would not care to enter, just because the outside appearance is not attractive. An architect can draw a good design, and a builder can put the house up in thorough workmanlike manner; but, after it is finished and the family moves in, unless real good common sense moves with the family, the neighbors will be inclined to admire the fine house from a distance.

There is only one right way for a man who is unfamiliar with building operations, and that is to employ a man to draw his plans who has spent years in studying architecture and making house plans, a man who knows how to take advantage of materials and how to lay out the space to the best advantage. It requires a great deal of experience just to read a plan correctly after it is drawn. Plans are drawn to a scale. That is easy to understand; but there is not one novice in a thousand who can look at a plan and get a correct idea of the real size, dimensions, and accessibility of the different rooms. He may know in a crude sort of way that a quarter of an inch on the plan represents a foot on the finished work; but, unless he is accustomed to a uniform exaggeration of that kind, he is sure to feel disappointed in some particular when the house is built.

The matter of specifications is just as important as the drawings. There are a great many little things to specify, in making a contract, that a person unaccustomed to such work will never think of. A person might possibly find a contractor liberal enough to find it. Plans and specifications cost the owner nothing; in fact, they are likely to save him a good deal of money, besides putting him in the way of getting a house that he wants and will be satisfied with, instead of one that he doesn't want and never like.

The house design shown in this plan is 26 feet wide and 44 feet long, exclusive of the porch. The chimneys are so arranged that it may be heated comfortably with stoves, which is helped by the rooms upstairs coming directly over the rooms below, thus giving an opportunity to carry the stovepipes through to the rooms above and to warm them with drums. Houses may be made very comfortable in this way. Stoves burn less coal than a furnace, and a great many prefer them. It is easy to warm any part of the house, and it is not necessary to keep fire in the rooms that are not used.

The house is modern and sensible in appearance, and so far as the architect and builder are concerned it is all right as shown on the plans and perspective; but it will never be complete as an artistic home until the grounds are laid out and planted with suitable shrubs and flowers. No plain, bare house looks right; it shows at once that there is something lacking. The only real comfortable homes are surrounded with something more pleasing than brick, mortar and paint.

A house like this may be built, where conditions are favorable, for about $2,000, complete with gas fixtures and plumbing. It may be that the gas fixtures are not wanted at first; but it is better to put in the pipes. Recent improvement in small gas plants makes it possible and often desirable to install a little machine just for home use. If the pipes are in, the fixtures and burners can be put on at any time. Another thing that should be remembered in building is to have a furnace. They may be easily put in while the building is going up, but it is an awful job to tear out and put them in afterward.

Here's Champion Nature Faker. Some one was telling Sam about the longevity of the mud turtle. "Yes," said Sam, "I know all about that, for once I found a venerable old fellow in a meadow, who was so old that he could scarcely wiggle his tail, and on his back was carved (tolerably plain, considering all things), these words: 'Paradise Year 1, Adam'."

TIGHT SILOS

A good silo will pay for itself in one year. One that isn't absolutely airtight is worse than useless. Wooden silos cost nearly as much, every year, in repairs and insurance as they save. Silage juices rapidly decay wood—this material makes a short-lived structure. Cut cost and insure satisfaction by building a Marquette Portland Concrete Cement silo. No insurance, no repairs, just steady, efficient service year in, year out—and generations to come will use your Marquette Concrete silo with the same satisfaction that you yourself will experience. LITHIA BEER FOR THE AGED

When with age the blood becomes impoverished and ceases to pulsate through the veins with the same vigor as in youth, there is nothing more beneficial than Lithia Beer. It is a happy combination of tonic, stimulant and nutrition. The tonic property is derived from the hops, a little alcohol furnishes the element of stimulation and the barley malt is highly nutritive. Lithia Beer is a splendid drink for aged persons, anaemics, convalescents and nursing mothers.

The St. Martins choir rendered several choice selections. After the ceremony the happy couple and a number of relatives and friends repaired to Woodman hall at Boltonville where the celebration was celebrated in grand style. After showers of congratulations supper was served to over 400 guests. The light fantastic was then tipped until the early hours of Wednesday morning. Backache Means Dying Kidneys

A Remarkable Treatment That Saves the Kidneys. How You May Cure Yourself Quickly and Thoroughly.

With the progress of science comes one remarkable treatment for kidney diseases. It has been so thoroughly tested and its results have proven so revolutionary that it is well known that in Michigan has undertaken its distribution into every part of the country. Those who suffer from kidney troubles and the diseases resulting from it will be pleased to know that every package of this treatment is thoroughly guaranteed. This should assure at last a positive cure to every sufferer.

Every man and woman should know that backache is usually a well-defined symptom of kidney disease. It is a warning which may end fatally unless treated in time; that rheumatism and bladder trouble are caused by kidney disease more or less than kidneys that do not filter the poison from the blood; that dropsy, Bright's disease, diabetes and bladder stones are caused by bad kidneys.

Once they are made to work properly these diseases should quickly disappear.

This is done by the new treatment, Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills.

We urge everyone who has pain in the small of the back, profuse or scanty urination, pains in the bladder, cloudy or foul urine, not to fail to get a package today of Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills and drop all other kidney treatments.

Senator Stinson of Washington writes from Olympia: "There is no question about the efficacy of Dr. Derby's Pure Kidney Pills in curing kidney and bladder trouble. I know whereof I speak."

Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills are now sold at all drug stores—25 and 50 cents. If you would like to try them first, ask your druggist for a free sample package. They buy a package; you will not regret it. Derby Medicine Co., Eaton Rapids, Mich.

To obtain the same results would have taken a strong force of cavalry four hours.

SYNOPSIS.

Jack Keith, a Virginian, now a border plainsman, is riding along the Santa Fe trail on the lookout for roaming war parties of savages. He notices a camp fire at a distance and then sees a team attached to a wagon and a girl pursued by men on ponies. When Keith reaches the wagon the raiders have massacred two men and departed. He searches the victims' papers and a pocket with a woman's portrait. He resolves to hunt down the murderers. Keith is arrested at Carson City, charged with the murder, his accused being a ruffian named Black Bart. He goes to jail fully realizing the part of swift border justice. A companion in his cell is a negro, who tells him he is a gambler and that he knows the Keith family back in Virginia. A gambler, the other Gen. Willis Waite, formerly an officer in the Confederate army, the plainsman and Neb escape from the cell, and later the two fugitives become lawless. They come upon a cable and find its lone occupant to be a young girl, whom Keith recognizes as a brother who had deserted from the army. A Mr. Hawley induced her to come to the cabin while he sought to locate her brother. Hawley appears and Keith in hiding recognizes him as Black Bart. Hawley tries to make love to the girl, but she is rescued by Keith. In the darkened room in which Keith overcomes Black Bart.

"The action has only really begun," he assured her, still retaining his hold upon her hand. "This was merely a preliminary skirmish, and you must prepare to bear your part in what follows. We have settled Mr. Hawley for the present, and now must deal with his gang."

"Oh, what would I have done if you had not been here?"

"Let me not think about that; we were here, and now have a busy night before us if we get away safely. Give me the rope first. Good! Here, Neb, you must know how to use this—not too tight, but without leaving any play to the arms; take the knife out of his belt. Now for the cloth, Miss Maclaire."

"Please do not call me that!"

"But you said it didn't make any difference what I called you."

"I thought it didn't then, but it does now."

"Oh, I see; we are already on a new footing. Yet I must call you something."

She hesitated just long enough for him to notice it. Either she had no substitute ready at hand, or else doubted the advisability of confiding her real name under present circumstances to one so nearly a stranger.

"You may call me Hope."

"A name certainly of good omen," he returned. "From this moment I shall forget Christie Maclaire, and remember only Miss Hope. All right, Neb; now turn over a chair, and sit your man up against it. He will rest all the easier in that position until his gang arrives."

He thrust his head out of the door, peering cautiously forth into the night, and listening. A single horse, probably the one Hawley had been riding, was tied to a dwarfed cottonwood near the corner of the cabin. Nothing else living was visible.

"I am going to round up our horses, and learn the condition of Hawley's outfit," he announced in a low voice. "I may be gone for fifteen or twenty minutes, and, meanwhile, Miss Hope, get ready for a long ride. Neb, stand here close beside the door, and if any one tries to come in brain him with your gun-stock. I'll rap three times when I return."

He slipped out into the silent night, and crept cautiously around the end of the dark cabin. The distinct change in the girl's attitude of friendship toward him, her every evident desire that he should think well of her, together with the providential opportunity for escape, had left him full of confidence. The gambler had played blindly into their hands, and Keith was quick enough to accept the advantage. It was a risk to himself, to be sure, thus turning again to the northward, yet the clear duty he owed the girl left such a choice almost imperative. He certainly could not drag her along with him on his flight into the wild Comanche country, extending beyond the Canadian. She must, at the very least, be first returned to the protection of the semi-civilization along the Arkansas. After that had been accomplished, he would consider his own safety. He wondered if Hope really was her name, and whether it was the family cognomen, or her given name. That she was Christie Maclaire had no question, yet that artistic embellishment was probably merely assumed for the work of the concert hall. Both he and Hawley could scarcely be mistaken as to her identity in this respect, and, indeed, she had never openly denied the fact. Yet she did not at all seem to be that kind, and Keith mentally contrasted her with numerous others whom he had somewhat intimately known along the border circuit. It was difficult to associate her with that class; she must have come originally from some excellent family East, and been driven to the life by necessity; she was more to be pitied than blamed. Keith held no puritanical views of life—his own experiences had been too rough and democratic for that—yet he clung tenaciously to an ideal of womanhood which could not be lowered. However interested he might otherwise feel, no Christie Maclaire could ever find entrance into the depths of his heart, where dwelt alone the memory of his mother.

He found the other horses turned into the corral, and was able, from their restless movements, to decide they numbered eight. A fire, nearly extinguished, glowed dimly at the farther corner of the enclosure, and he crawled close enough to distinguish the recumbent forms of men sleeping on the ground. Apparently no guard had been set, the fellows being worn out from their long ride, and confident of safety in this isolated spot. Besides, Hawley had probably assumed that duty, and told them to get whatever sleep they could. However, the gate of the corral opened beside their fire, and Keith dare not venture upon toping any of their ponies, or leading them out past where they slept. There might be clippers in the cabin with which he could cut the wires, yet if one of the gang awoke, and discovered the herd absent, it would result in an alarm, and lead to early pursuit. It was far safer to use their own ponies. He would lead Hawley's horse quietly through the water, and they could mount on the other shore. This plan settled, he went at it swiftly, riding the captured animal while rounding up the others, and fastening the three to stunted trees on the opposite bank. Everything within the cabin remained exactly as he had left it, and he briefly explained the situation, examining Hawley's bonds again carefully while doing so.

"He'll remain there all right until his men find him," he declared, positively, "and that ought to give us a good six hours' start. Come, Miss Hope, every minute counts now."

The Easy Manner in Which She Rode Relieved Him of Anxiety.

He held her arm, not unconscious of its round softness, as he helped her down the rather steep bank through the dense gloom. Then the two men joined hands, and carrying her between them, waded the shallow stream. The horses, not yet sufficiently rested to be frisky, accepted their burdens meekly enough, and, with scarcely a word spoken, the three rode away silently into the gloom of the night.

CHAPTER XII.

Through the Night Shadows.

Keith had very little to guide him, as he could not determine whether this mysterious cabin on the Salt Fork lay east or west of the usual cattle trail leading down to the Canadian. Yet he felt reasonably assured that the general trend of the country lying between the smaller stream and the valley of the Arkansas would be similar to that with which he was already acquainted. It was merely a wild stretch of sandy desolation, across which their horses would leave scarcely any trail, and even that little would be quickly obliterated by the first puff of wind. As they drew in toward the river valley this plain would change into sand dunes, baffling and confusing, but no matter how hard they pressed forward, it must be daylight long before they could hope to reach these, and this would give him opportunity to spy out some familiar landmark which would guide them to the ford. Meanwhile, he must head as directly north as possible, trusting the horses to find footing.

It was plain instinct, or rather long training in the open, which enabled him to retain any true sense of direction, for beyond the narrow fringe of cottonwoods along the stream, nothing was visible, the eyes scarcely able even to distinguish where earth and sky met. They advanced across a bare level, without elevation or depression, yet the sand appeared sufficiently solid, so that their horses were forced into a swinging lunge, and they seemed to fairly press aside the black curtain, which was instantly swung shut once more, and closed them in. The pounding hoofs made little noise, and they moved steadily onward, closely

"I possess a passing acquaintance," he answered, uncertain yet how much to tell her, but tempted to reveal all in test of her real character. "Few do not who live along the Kansas border."

"Do you mean he is a notoriously bad character?"

"I have never heard of his being held up as a model to the young, Miss Hope," he returned, more soberly, convinced that she truly possessed no real knowledge regarding the man and was not merely pretending ignorance. "I had never heard him called Hawley before, and, therefore, failed to recognize him under that respectable name. But I knew his voice the moment he entered the cabin, and realized that some devilment was afoot. Every town along this frontier has his record, and I've met him maybe a dozen times in the past three years. He is known as 'Black Bart'; is a gambler by profession, a desperado by reputation, and a cur by nature. Just now I suspect him of being even deeper in the mire than this."

He could tell by the quick clapping of her hands on the pommel of the saddle the effect of his words, but waited until the silence compelled her to speak.

"Oh, I didn't know! You do not believe that I ever suspected such a thing? That I ever met him there understanding who he was?"

"No, I do not," he answered. "What I overheard between you convinced me you were the victim of deceit. But your going to that place alone was a most reckless act."

She lifted her hand to her eyes, her head drooping forward.

"Wasn't it what he told me—the outstation of a ranch?"

Begin When Boy Is Young, and Politeness Is Bound to Become Second Nature.

Long before I had any sons of my own I made up my mind that, if I ever had the training of a boy, I should begin, as soon as he could understand anything, to teach him the small things that constitute good manners. So many boys I have known and men, too, who at heart are good and kind and really refined, yet lack so large a part of the little courtesies that it is hard to believe they have been well brought up. In most cases it is the fault of the mother. She feels that it is much more important to form the character of a little boy, that his manners can wait till he is older. The result is that one sees boys and men who rarely forget to be polite outside of their homes, and yet seem to think it unnecessary to treat their own mother in the same way.

My view is that there is no need to neglect the character because you pay attention to the manners. I think I have succeeded. As soon as my first little boy wore trousers I taught him that he must take off his hat as soon as he came into the house or when a lady spoke to him in the street. That he must rise from his chair when I came at the dining table, must never walk out of the room before a lady, and all the other little polite ways we like to see in men. It has never been any trouble to keep him up to these things; he learned so young that it soon became second nature.—Harper's Bazar.

On Ice.

"Yes," said Alkat like, "a couple of cow-punks indulged in a very pretty scientific scrap down at Bad Buckle's yesterday."

"It is wonderful how cool those fellows keep under the circumstances," remarked the eastern tourist.

"Yaas, they certainly have to be kept cool, stranger. I believe for some reason or other, their funerals ain't to be for a couple of days yet."

TURKEY HAD AN EVIL EYE

Men Insist They Killed Bird in Self-Defense, But Law Says They Must Prove It.

John O'Hallihan, twenty-five years old, and William Johnson, thirty-four years old, were held in $200 bail each on a charge of petit larceny in the Flatbush police court. They went out to the Prospect Park zoo the other day and climbed over into the enclosure where the deer are. After that they made a personal call upon the peacocks. Passing from inclosure to inclosure on a series of friendly calls they arrived at the pen where a number of turkeys displayed themselves.

"That bird there," O'Hallihan said, pointing a fine bronze turkey gobbler, "has an evil eye."

Johnson looked, and it seemed so to him also. The turkey was regarding them with something like malignance in its fixed gaze. They retired. It charged them. They became so confused that they could not get out of the inclosure. The bird chased them round and round and round the pen, and as they ran, holding on to each other's hands and gasping with fright and self exertions, they discussed the situation.

"There is only one thing to do," said O'Hallihan, "and that is to face this thing courageously, bird or devil or whatever it may be, and get those eyes covered up. Its power is in its eyes."

"I don't care," Johnson panted. "The thing's gaining on us." And he sank down exhausted.

O'Hallihan is a bold man. So he faced the infuriated turkey. After a desperate battle he flung his coat over its head. With its eyes covered, just as he had expected, the power for evil ceased. He clutched it tightly by the neck, and took it out of the park to finish it. When Detective Muss of the park guard arrested him on a petit larceny charge the creature was already dead.

John O'Brien of the zoo force is going to pickle the turkey so it will keep, and introduce it as evidence in court. The police say that O'Hallihan and Johnson were drunk when they had their battle with the bird.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Very Taking Platform.

Governor Dix, at a dinner in the Hotel Manhattan in New York, said of politics:

"Sneering at politics, the Goncourts once said that no party could ever lose office if it gave the people free fireworks every night and free vaudeville every day."

"But I heard of a candidate in the south who went the Goncourts one better."

"Yellow citizens," he shouted from the stump, my platform is just this: First, no pay for any elected candidate. Second, pensions for all voters."

Disproportionate.

Washington Star.—"We must expect to suffer pain in the same degree that we inflict it on others," said the man who believes in retribution.

"Maybe so," answered the suffering friend. "But I am convinced that my dentist has found a way of bearing the same."

The KITCHEN CABINET

WE MAKE such stuff
As dreams are made of, and our little life is rounded with a sleep.—Shakespeare.

IDEAS FOR THE COOK.

When you have a little leftover chicken, chop it fine and mix with an equal quantity of boiled rice. Season with salt and pepper. Add a finely-chopped onion, a green pepper and a spring of parsley. Scald a loose head of cabbage and when the leaves are limp open the cabbage to the center. Put two tablespoonsful of the mixture in the center, fold over the leaves, add another portion, and so on until you have stuffed the cabbage. Tie up in a piece of cheese cloth and put into a kettle of boiling water, salted. Cook until tender, drain in a colander and serve with a cream or hollandaise sauce.

Mock Cherry Pie.—Mix one and a half cupsful of cranberries, chopped, with a cupful of chopped raisins and a cup and a half of sugar. To a cupful of water add two tablespoonsful of flour; add to the fruit and bake with an upper and under crust.

Salad of Peppers and Cream Cheese.—Select two large, sweet green peppers, cut off the stem end, remove seeds and wash in cold water; turn them upside down to drain. Wash and mix with two cream cheeses a few pecan meats and a little thick cream, salt and cayenne. Pack this carefully into the peppers and set away on ice until serving time. When ready to use, cut in slices a quarter of an inch thick. Serve two slices on a nest of lettuce, with a few slices of cucumber and mayonnaise for dressing.

Baked Hamburg With Bacon.—Put two or three slices of bacon in a baking dish, lay over this chopped meat that has been well seasoned with salt, mustard, pepper and onion juice. Put slices of bacon on top and bake in a moderate oven. When sufficiently baked, the time depending upon the amount, brown a tablespoonful of flour add the juice of a lemon and a tablespoonful of currant jelly. Pour this around the meat and bake ten minutes longer.

Deviled Chestnuts.—Shell and cut in thin slices a cup of chestnuts, fry until brown in butter, then season with tabasco sauce and salt.

LITTLE LEAKS.

The old proverb that tells us that "the little leak is what sinks the great ship" is so true of the little leaks in the household which are so easily overlooked, yet are the cause of many bankrupt homes.

These may seem like small things to mention, but "a straw shows which way the wind blows."

Do you notice the tea and coffee cups at the end of the meal? Is there a teaspoonful of undissolved sugar in some of the cups? The children may be taught now to guard against this extravagant habit, but it is hard to break old and long-established ones.

Are those at your table careless about taking on the plate more than they care to eat, leaving it to be wasted?

When the expense of the table exceeds half of the income (the amount a fair apportionment), it proves that it is due to any or all of the following things:

- Buying food out of season.
- Buying perishable foodstuffs in quantities not immediately available.
- Buying food with little nutriment.
- Choice of high-priced meat, high-priced because limited in supply, not because it is of greater food value.
- Many times the most medicinal part of the vegetable is left in the water and thrown away.
- There is as much genius needed to practice the little economies in the home as it takes to write poetry, and we can live without poetry but not without cooks.
- Women, as a rule, know more about the wearing qualities of clothing than about sustaining qualities of foods.
- A quart of oysters equals a quart of milk in nutritive power.
- One of the greatest faults of housekeepers is lack of forehandness.
- Getting ready ahead of time takes thought.

Fixing the Date.

"Hallo, Jones!" said Smith. "Are you doing anything special tomorrow night?"

"No, old chap," replied Jones. "I'm not booked."

"What about the day after?" asked Smith.

"Nothing on," answered Jones. "I'm as free as a skipper."

"Really! And Friday?"

"Ah, on Friday, I'm afraid, I'm dining with the Croakers!"

"Bless my soul, but what a pity!" exclaimed Smith, disappointedly. "I wanted you to come round on Friday for a snack with me!"

"You, Miss Fanny."

"Well, that's a good drive, Mr. Sprackles, but it's in the wrong direction."

Poor Billinger.

"It has taken Billinger six years to save enough money to visit Europe, he said today."

"How long will he be gone?"

"Six weeks."

Some Shakespeare Statistics.

A Shakespearean enthusiast with a turn for statistics has discovered that the plays contain 106,007 lines and 814,780 words. "Hamlet" is the longest play, with 3,830 lines, and the "Comedy of Errors" the shortest, with 1,777 lines. Altogether the plays contain 1,227 characters, of which 151 are females. The longest part is that of Hamlet. The part with the longest word in it is that of Costard in "Love's Labor Lost," who tells Moth that he is "not so long by the head as honorificabilitudinitatibus."

FROM TEXAS

Some Coffee Facts From the Lone Star State.

From a beautiful farm down in Texas, where gushing springs unite to form babbling brooks that wind their sparkling way through flowery meads, comes a note of gratitude for delivery from the coffee habit.

"When my baby boy came to me five years ago, I began to drink Postum, having a feeling that it would be better for him and me than the old kind of drug-laden coffee. I was not disappointed in it, for it enabled me, a small, delicate woman, to nurse a bouncing, healthy baby 14 months."

"I have since continued the use of Postum for I have grown fond of it, and have discovered to my joy that it has entirely relieved me of a bilious habit which used to prostrate me two or three times a year, causing much discomfort to my family and suffering to myself."

"My brother-in-law was cured of chronic constipation by leaving off coffee and using Postum. He has become even more fond of it than he was of the old coffee."

"In fact, the entire family, from the latest arrival (a 2-year-old who always calls for his 'potie' first thing in the morning), up to the head of the house, think there is no drink so good or so wholesome as Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Conservation of the Farm

The Increasing Demand and Necessity for Food and the Steady Decline in Our Lands of the Power to Produce Food a Reproach to Our Intelligence.

By FORMER GOVERNOR W. D. HOARD An Address Before the National Conservation Congress

It seems to me that one of the crying needs of conservation today is to conserve conservation. There is an immense waste of talk and time and crude unconstructive thought on this subject. Too many men are crying, "Lo! Salvation lies in this direction, or that." Too many are talking with an ulterior purpose of personal gain in notoriety or politics.

But here stands a great necessity, a glaring mistake, the result of gross ignorance on the part of the farmers of the American nation for many generations. They have wasted their heritage. They are continually wasting it.

The cry goes up from this vast army of consumers against the high cost of living. The contingencies of the seasons, serious as they are often times, are enough for producer and consumer to face. But we are confronted with the most serious danger of all in the wasting of fertility, the steady decline in the productive power of our arable lands.

Before that great and overwhelming necessity all other questions of conservation pale into insignificance.

The commissioner of agriculture of the state of New York asserts that that state alone has lost $168,000,000 in thirty years in the decline of farm values. In my native county of Madison in that state I can buy farms today for $20 to $30 an acre that once sold for $100 an acre. The same is true of the famous old western reserve in Ohio, of many sections in Indiana, and proportionately so in the southern portion of Illinois.

Until very recently the forces of education, all under the control of the states, have done nothing to educate the farmer to a better understanding of his duty to himself, his calling as a farmer, and the millions who must depend upon him for food.

Do you for a moment suppose that all of this appalling waste of fertility that exists and consequent destruction of farm values, would have taken place if the country district school had been organized to teach the farm children the elements of fertility as science and common sense know them to exist? We must then charge upon the past and present system of education the responsibility for this ignorance that has wasted the productive power of the nation.

We flatter ourselves that we of the middle west are to be saved from this tide of destruction because God has given us a soil of such marvelous fertility. But our farmers are just as great spendthrifts of this God given heritage as were the eastern farmers. The trouble lies in our lack of knowledge, real helpful knowledge.

Think of the millions of acres of corn stalks in the great corn producing states of Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa that will stand next winter unharvested, and in mute reproach of the lack of a little conserving intelligence sufficient to store them in silos where the contents might be fed to cattle and sheep and so produce an abundance of meat cheaply for the people.

The Reason For It. "I notice since Jimby has become an aviator he has ceased to boast of his family."

Such a Difference. "Napoleon's ambition was to conquer the world."

phorus and the potash must be purchased. He must know something about these important elements, and he must accept it as one of the fixed expenses of the farm that these elements, as well as lime, must be yearly supplies.

Certain forms of dairying, like milk shipping, cheese making and condensing, are wasteful of fertility, unless the farmer guards against such loss by artificially supplying the lime, phosphate and potash. It was largely through this taking of the whole milk from the farm without adequate making up of the loss, that so many farms in the eastern states became depleted of their fertility.

The same depleting process has been going on in New England, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and farther west. The wonderful growth of villages and cities calls for an enormous consumption of dairy products. This means taking the whole milk from the farm in a large degree and thereby greatly reduces the growing of live stock.

These are some of the paramount problems of the day and hour that confront the dairy farmer. The trouble is that here as well as elsewhere in this broad field of agriculture, ignorance has held sway. "We all like sheep have gone astray."

IS GREATEST DAIRY STATE Former Governor W. D. Hoard reviews History of Industry in Wisconsin at Milwaukee Show.

Former Governor W. D. Hoard of Fort Atkinson, at the opening of the International Dairy Show in Milwaukee on October 10, said:

The dairy industry is one of the five forces of Wisconsin agriculture. It reaches into almost every farm neighborhood. And still only one-half of the area of the state is in the hands of farmers. When the great unsettled wilderness in the north, which is especially adapted to dairy farming, the greatest grass portion of the United States is brought into recognition, it is hard to conceive where the industry will stand.

PIMPLES ON FACE 3 YEARS

"I was troubled with acne for three long years. My face was the only part affected, but it caused great disfigurement, also suffering and loss of sleep. At first there appeared red, hard pimples which later contained white matter. I suffered a great deal caused by the itching. I was in a state of perplexity when walking the streets or anywhere before the public.

"I used pills and other remedies but they failed completely. I thought of giving up when nothing would help, but something told me to try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a Cuticura Booklet which I read carefully. Then I bought some Cuticura Soap and Ointment and by following the directions I was relieved in a few days. I used Cuticura Soap for washing my face and applied the Cuticura Ointment morning and evening. This treatment brought marvelous results so I continued with it for a few weeks and was cured completely. I can truthfully say that the Cuticura Remedies are not only all, but more than they claim to be."

Hillocks of Vegetation. At this time of the year farmers are busy making miniature mountains on their holdings, mountains that will be scattered over the countryside before the winter is over.

The farmer calls his hillock of vegetables a "clump." He makes it on a piece of high ground near the homestead, so that it may not be flooded, and many a big grower has clamps a quarter of a mile long.
