Gilboy, our all around good man, arrived with his team and procuring a heavy log chain commenced pulling and jerking. "Yours Truly" Encounters a Dull Week in His Meanderings

The past week has been somewhat of a quiet week for "Yours Truly" but I was fortunate enough in spying Arthur Koch busily engaged last Monday in hauling coal. Arthur always believes in supplying the trade for the winter as he does not want anyone to freeze and besides he thinks it is going to be a long winter. Not only does he take this sort of exercise for the purpose of supplying the trade, but also to reduce his weight. I did not have to go much further when I had a conversation with our barber, Peter Mies, who was sitting behind the stove thinking about all the ducks he won at Johannes' duck tournament the day before. Pete told us about all his troubles and what it cost him to try and win a duck but luck was against him. He even stated that he entered a foot race with nineteen others but on account of the rough ground and having his shoes off, his feet hurt so that he was forced to walk back. Going somewhat further up the street I called on Jacob Becker the blacksmith. He was busily engaged in shoeing horses. Jacob always has a little time for a few short stories and jokes which I enjoyed immensely. He is always sure to laugh at every joke told. If anyone would like to have the blues chased away it would be well worth your time to call on jovial Jacob.

County Representatives to Assist Farmers.

Representatives of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin will soon be stationed in several of the counties of the state, especially those which have training schools for preparation of teachers to aid in the general agricultural development of the county. In addition to giving agricultural instructions in these schools, the representatives will aid in developing the extension course of the College of Agriculture and will carry on demonstrations on land provided for that purpose by the county. Besides this it will be his duty to study conditions throughout his county which need improvement. The county representative will be a middleman between the college and the farmers and accurate knowledge of things agricultural will thus be more thoroughly disseminated.

BRIDE RETAINS HER NAME

A Very Popular Wedding Took Place at the Ev. Peace Church Here Saturday Afternoon

RECEPTION HELD IN GROESCHEL'S HALL

Miss Elsie Backhaus is United in Wedlock to Herman Backhaus, Therefore the Bride Will Retain Her Name

One of the most popular weddings ever held in this village took place last Saturday afternoon, when Rev. Mohme united in holy bonds of matrimony in the Ev. Peace church Miss Elsie Backhaus and Herman Backhaus of the town of Kewaskum.

After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding supper was served. After the supper all the guests went to Groeschel's hall where the occasion was celebrated in a most elaborate manner. Dancing was the main pastime, which was resumed until the wee hours of morning.

The bride was attended by Miss Elsie Miller as maid of honor and Miss Esther Backhaus of Lamartine as bridesmaid, while Alvin Backhaus acted as bestman and Oscar Koch of Beechwood as groomsmen. The Misses Lucetta Ramthan and Anita Dreher were flower girls.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Backhaus Sr., living just outside of the village limits on the New Fane road. She is a young lady of very pleasing ways. Her charming manners always win a friend with everyone she meets. She will without doubt be a loving companion. She also will retain her maiden name. The groom who is one of the town of Kewaskum's popular young men, is a very industrious young farmer. He is very well known having a large number of friends, who always speak a kind word for him.

The young couple have gone to housekeeping on the groom's farm which is located 1/2 mile from this village on the St. Kilian road. The STATESMAN together with their friends extend their hearty congratulations and hope that their married life will be a happy and prosperous one.

Married People's Dance Well Attended.

The married people's dance held in Chas. Groeschel's hall last Sunday evening was well attended. The dance music which was furnished by Gibson's Harp orchestra met with the best of satisfaction. All the selections played were well received. All of the old time dances were danced. There were a large number from the neighboring towns present. At 11 o'clock a supper was served by Mrs. Chas. Groeschel, which most of the dancers participated in. Mr. Groeschel expects to make this dance a yearly event. No doubt the next one will be even larger attended than the one last Sunday evening, as all present report a good time.

Case is Settled.

The case of Dr. Syl. Driessel of Barton, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. Driessel of this village, vs. Dr. Urkart of West Bend, which was tried in circuit court of this county in March 1910, the verdict being given to the plaintiff, was affirmed by the supreme court, the decision being announced last Tuesday. The action was for slander. At the time of the trial of the circuit court the jury found the defendant guilty of slander and awarded Dr. Driessel damages in the sum of $750.

The Boneshos Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Bonesho pleasantly entertained a small company of personal friends at their beautiful little home in Mott last week. Friday. The occasion was proposed in commemoration of their seventh wedding anniversary and never were guests more royally entertained.—Mott Pioneer Press.

Duck Tournament Well Attended.

The duck tournament held at Mich. Johannes Jr.'s place southwest of this village last Sunday afternoon was well attended. The tournament closed with a dance in the evening which was attended by the neighbors and friends. Jos. Honeck furnished the music with his concertina. All report a very good time.

Hunting Forbidden.

We the undersigned forbid hunting and trespassing on our premises. Anyone caught doing so will be prosecuted according to law.

SEWERAGE SYSTEM PLANS

C. F. Leins Submits Drawing Made For The City of Hartford.

The common council has received the plans and specifications for a proposed sewerage system to be installed in the city. They were drawn by C. F. Leins of West Bend, who made a survey of the city for that purpose the past summer. Mr. Leins was at Madison last week to submit the system to the State Board of Control, and it was approved by the Board. We understand the system is estimated to cost about $30,000, part of which would have to be paid by the frontage owners where the pipes are laid. The matter will come up before the council tonight.—Hartford Times.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. John Fellenz last Sunday a baby boy.

The bride was attended by Miss Adell Calhoun, sister of the groom, as maid of honor. The Misses Rose, Frances and Theresa Schiltz, sisters of the bride acted as bridesmaid. The groom was attended by his uncle Joe. Calhoun as bestman. The groomsmen were Messrs. John Seil, Julius Reysen and Frank Calhoun. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's parents, where a reception was given to the nearest relatives and friends. The bride is well known and highly respected by her many friends. The young couple will be at home in Chicago after November 1st. We wish the young couple a happy and prosperous life.

Some More Real Estate Deals.

The past week has been a busy week for J. B. Day and Adolph Rosenheimer in real estate transactions. Last Monday they purchased the 120 acre farm of Fred Luedtke 3 miles west of this village, better known as the Tass farm, and sold it the same day to Nic. Rheingans of St. Kilian taking in exchange his 21 acre farm near the latter village besides some other consideration. The considerations of all transactions are private. Mr. Rheingans will be given possession of the Luedtke farm on March 1st. Mr. Luedtke will move with his family to Lomira where he has purchased a grocery store.

Averts Awful Tragedy.

Timely advice given Mrs. C. Wiloughby, of Marengo, Wis., (R. No. 3) prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. Doctors had said her frightful cough was a "consumption" cough and could do little to help her. After many remedies failed her aunt urged her to take Dr. King's New Discovery. "I have been using it for some time," she wrote "and the awful cough has almost gone. It also saved my little boy when taken with a severe bronchial trouble." This matchless medicine has no equal for throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all Druggists.

Policy Holders Take Notice.

At the quarterly meeting of the Board of Directors of the German Mutual Fire Insurance Company of the town of Auburn, County of Fond du Lac, state of Wisconsin, an assessment was levied to meet the loss sustained by fire the past year. Notice of this assessment together with the amount due will be mailed each policy holder within a few days.

Sunday, November 5th.—Grand dance in Groeschel's hall given by Bath's Threshing Crew. Everybody invited.

Tendered a Farewell Surprise.

The Royal Neighbors of this village tendered a surprise farewell party to Mrs. H. E. Henry Thursday evening. The occasion was celebrated in a most elaborate way in the Temperance hall. Mrs. Henry's departure from here means that this village will be minus a lady who always was one of the leading society ladies. While residing here she has won many friends, who regret to see her leave.

BLACK RIVER AGAIN NORMAL

Business District of Black River Falls May Be Rebuilt on East Side of Stream, Near the Depot.

Black River Falls.—Black River has now fallen about four feet and is again nearly normal. The boom proved to be a barrier against which the water had no effect. The hole in the concrete dam is again being dynamited today to make it deeper and wider so that when the old dam of logs and brush is removed, the water can run through it to better advantage. There is a persistent rumor that the east side of the river will be chosen for the business district and many favor this location on account of the depot being situated there.

STATE LENGTHENS WORKDAY

Capitol Employees Will Be Compelled to Work Seven Instead of Six Hours in the Future.

Madison.—Seven hours, instead of six, will hereafter be the working schedule in the state capitol. A law of 1897 requires employes to work from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. with one hour for lunch, but in many offices the rule has not been followed. Not only must the employes work seven hours, but they will be forced to take one month's vacation as permitted by the law. They may take one day off each month during the year, or thirty consecutive days at the end of the year.

"Drys" Will Publish Paper.

An organization of over 10,000 members, its sessions will doubtless attract large numbers who are not officially listed as delegates, and the three days of its meeting will mean much activity.

The Society of Equity is composed of representative farmers and has for its first and leading object the maintenance of profitable prices for all products of the farm, garden, orchard and dairy.

The society also operates granaries, elevators, warehouses and cold storage houses on the farms, in principal market cities and in all localities where necessary, so that farm products may be controlled instead of passing into the hands of middlemen or trusts.

Further objects of the society are to obtain equitable rates of transportation, secure legislation in the interest of agriculture, open up new markets and enlarge old ones, to report crops in this and foreign countries so that farmers may operate intelligently in planting and marketing, to improve the highways, to prevent adulteration of food and the marketing of the same and to promote farmers' societies in foreign countries.

Gathering at Milwaukee in January to Extend Membership of New State Organization.

Milwaukee.—The annual meeting of the Wisconsin Association of Real Estate Brokers, which was organized at Madison last winter, will be held here on the third Tuesday in January, 1912. The object of the association is to facilitate intercourse between men engaged in the realty business, in the belief that their united action in regard to matters in which they have a common interest will be mutually advantageous. With the object of extending the membership, the secretary of the Association, W. E. Hamilton of this city, is sending to real estate men of the state who do not belong a booklet containing the articles of incorporation and constitution, and a letter in which he says: "With extended acquaintance, exchange of views and opinions by the units represented, greater possibilities, broader ideas, stronger influences, will emanate from this combined force, for a state federation, thus qualifying the Association for membership in the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges."

COOK AND SHIELDS REGISTER DENIALS

CONTRADICT STATEMENTS BY LIEUT. GOV. MORRIS AT THE STEPHENSON PROBE.

TESTIMONY DOES NOT AGREE

Shields Says He Did Not Have Meeting With Cook Nor Threaten to Shoot Him—Senator Lyons Brands His Previous Testimony as Joke.

Milwaukee.—The appearance of Wirt H. Cook of Duluth before the senatorial committee and his denial of the most of the statements made by Lieut. Gov. Morris, was the most sensational feature of the Stephenson election investigation thus far.

Mr. Cook denied flatly all the most damaging statements made by Mr. Morris, who gave Mr. Cook as his authority. Mr. Cook said he did not tell Morris and Husting that Hines and Stephenson raised a pool to elect Stephenson. He admitted he did say Hines raised something over $100,000. Cook said he did not say the money was entrusted to Shields and others to be used, and that some of the money was used in getting the three democrats to walk out.

Cook admitted on the stand that he and Hines were not on friendly terms. He said Hines had been dogging him with detectives.

R. J. Shields, much wanted and finally secured witness, went on the stand and denied in toto all the statements of Morris and Cook regarding conversations had with him and statements alleged to have been made by him. He said he had not spoken to Senator Stephenson but once in twenty-five years. Shields denied ever having had any interview with Cook in Chicago or having made a threat to shoot him.

Senator Lyons who was called to the stand, said the remark made in the legislature that he received $100 to be good, "was meant as a joke."

CONVICT COUPLE OF MURDER

Milwaukee Jury Finds Pava Mravac and Mrs. Novkovic Guilty of the Slaying of Lator's Husband.

Milwaukee.—Pava Mravac and Mrs. Marie Novkovic were found guilty of murder in the first degree by a jury in municipal court after four hours' deliberation. They were charged with having murdered Stephen Novkovic, the woman's husband, that the woman, who was in love with Mravac, might be free. Both defendants took the verdict calmly. Their attorneys immediately moved for a new trial.

The crime for which they were tried was most brutal. Stephen Novkovic, Pava Mravac and Mrs. Novkovic had left their home to go to a picnic in Neumiller's park on the night of July 23. While on the way home Mravac and Novkovic became involved in a quarrel, which ended in Novkovic being murdered. Both made confessions soon after their arrest. Mravac claimed that Mrs. Novkovic incited him to stab her husband to death.

The Peshigo Lumber company originally owned the line to Peshigo Harbor and turned it over to the railroad under certain conditions. The railroad company has abandoned its intention of tearing up the tracks. It is understood that the lumber company still claims an interest in the line and that it will fight the tearing up of the property until a settlement is made.

PRINCIPALS IN RICHESON MURDER CASE

J. R. WALSH DEAD

DEATH TAKES CHICAGO EX-BANKER EIGHT DAYS AFTER GAINING FREEDOM.

HOPED TO GET NEW START

Family Is at Bedside of Man Who Up to End Fought to Recupercitate His Finances and Again Become Factor in Financial World.

Chicago.—Eight days after his parole from Leavenworth prison, John R. Walsh, the former banker, died at his residence in this city. The certificate ascribes his death to heart failure.

Just before he was attacked he had been going over some of his papers, seeking a way to regain his foothold in the Chicago world of finance. Most of the papers in his home were receipts for the $4,000,000 he had turned over to his creditors in an effort to pay their claims, and save himself the disgrace of a prison sentence.

The new lease of life which was given him on October 15, was broken after a night of strenuous battle in which his pulse at one time beat only six times a minute, and when the rally started arose to twelve beats a minute and was finally brought to normal.

The last words of Mr. Walsh as he gained his senses following the severe attack related to his possibility of fighting the battle of finance. When his pulse gained normal he gained consciousness and asked why Dr. Frank Billings was there. He realized the importance of the visit and said: "I guess I'm pretty bad. I won't be able to make the fight."

He then fell into a state of unconsciousness from which he did not awaken. The entire family was present when he died.

Before the collapse of the Chicago National bank, the Equitable Trust company and the Home Savings bank, John R. Walsh was interested in many projects. The charges which sent him to prison were the result of his operations in the bank mentioned, the charges being the misappropriation of funds.

Walsh's rise from a newsboy to a factor in the railroad world, the financial world and the newspaper world, was made by hard, tedious, industrious application to his work.

He was born near Macroon, County Cork, Ireland, August 22, 1837. He was thirteen years of age when he arrived in America.

JUDGE GROSSCUP STEP OUT

Federal Jurist Closes His Judicial Career as His Resignation Becomes Effective.

Chicago.—Peter S. Grosscup is no longer a judge of the United States circuit court, as his resignation which he forwarded to President Taft became effective at once.

Immediate naming of Grosscup's successor is unlikely, as the appointment would have to await ratification at the next legislative session. Moreover, the seat on the bench is involved in the coming change of the federal judicial system, abolishing the circuit courts' original powers and making its jurisdiction purely appellate.

News Notes of Wisconsin
Racine.—C. F. Bliss, probably the oldest newspaperman and printer in the state, died at his home here. He was born in Germany in 1829 and came to this country when 5 years old with his parents. He became a resident of Chicago and was the first carrier on the Chicago Journal and the first apprentice to learn the printer's trade in that office. He came to Racine in 1853 and was connected with almost every newspaper in the city. He issued the Racine Directory for eight years, was in the grocery business for a number of years and the last eight years of his life he was a justice of the peace. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity and was undoubtedly the best known man in the city and was also widely known throughout the state.

Janesville.—Thomas Glennon, aged 14 years, is minus the tip of his index finger on his left hand through coming into too close connection with one of Uncle Tom's bloodhounds during the parade of the theatrical company of that name. DOCTOR IS SLAIN

HELEN KNABE OF INDIANAPOLIS IS MURDERED IN HER BED.

WEAPON USED IS MISSING

Former State Bacteriologist is Found With Her Head Severed From Body—No Motive for Crime Can Be Traced.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Dr. Helen Knabe, former state bacteriologist, was found in bed in her apartment with her head almost severed by the slash of a knife. How she came to her death is a mystery.

No weapon was found in any of the rooms, nor was it apparent a robbery had been committed. The windows were closed, though the physician, who was devoted to physical culture, habitually slept with the window open.

Doctor Knabe was last seen alive by her assistant. She lived and had her office on the ground floor of an apartment house in a prosperous and quiet neighborhood. No persons, so far as has been learned, heard sounds of a struggle in Doctor Knabe's apartment.

Augusta Knabe, the physician's cousin, and the latter's stepfather, Frank Kropp, told the police that Doctor Knabe had no enemy so far as they knew. She was thirty-five years old and a graduate of the Indiana College of Medicine.

The physician recently resigned as head of the state bacteriological department because, it is said, she wished to devote her spare time to the study of hygiene and physical culture.

The police put aside the theory of suicide when they examined Doctor Knabe's body and saw that, though the throat had been slashed, there was no blood on the dead woman's hands, and when no knife was found in the rooms. She was in her night dress.

Reports of Doctor Knabe's death were not made to the police for an hour after her body was discovered. Miss McPherson first called the physician's cousin from her home in a distant part of the city. Then Dr. Ernest C. Reyer, a friend of Doctor Knabe, was summoned. He called in the police.

COOK'S HEARERS MOB HIM

"Explorer" is Called Swindler When He Visits the Scene of His Triumph.

Copenhagen.—Dr. Frederic A. Cook's theatrical attempt to vindicate his reputation by a lecture in the hall where two years ago he addressed the royal family and some of the most prominent people of Denmark, under the auspices of the Geographical Society on the occasion of his triumphant entrance into the capital, resulted in riotous scenes and a call for the police. Doctor Cook was compelled to retire by the back door.

Dr. Norman Nansen, the Danish explorer, who formerly supported Cook started the trouble by loudly denouncing Cook as a swindler. The climax was reached when an alleged picture of the north pole was thrown upon the screen.

The audience was so hostile that Cook stopped his lecture and with drew. He was escorted by a strong detachment of police to his hotel through the side streets.

TAFT FLAYS CRITICS

SAYS ATTACKS ON SUPREME COURT ARE INSULT.

Rulings in Oil and Tobacco Cases Declared Plain Enough to Stop Restraint.

Aberdeen, S. D.—In a speech before the Aberdeen Commercial club here President Taft repudiated with feeling the charge that he had set up the Supreme court with the idea that it was to emasculate the Sherman anti-trust law, and declared anew his intention to have that law enforced to the letter.

The president referred to the criticism of the Supreme court's rulings in the Standard Oil and Tobacco trust cases, and said nothing could be further from the fact than the charges that the statute had been made ineffective.

The Supreme court, he said, had declared that any restraint of trade or combination for the purpose of suppressing competition and controlling prices was an inhibition of the law.

"I have challenged and I challenge again," he shouted, "any person to cite a case that he would condemn as a violation of the anti-trust law that would not be condemned under the decisions of the Supreme court. As yet I have heard no reply."

"The only answer that has come has been an insult to the court and an insult to me. It is the charge that I set up the court with the purpose and understanding that it would emasculate the statute. Oh, gentlemen, there is not the slightest foundation for that."

"I am proud of the men that I have put on the court. I am proud to have found men with a standing as high as they to take the places on that bench, and I am willing to abide by the record that they have made and that they will make."

POSSE SEEKS EX-CONVICT

Ellsworth Authorities Believe Charles Marzyk Killed 14 Persons in Three States.

Ellsworth, Kan.—The theory that one man slew 14 persons in three states within six weeks received support in a statement made by Mrs. Minnie Vopat, divorced wife of Charles Marzyk.

Marzyk, who is an ex-convict, is sought by the county authorities in connection with the murder of members of the William Showman family here.

Mrs. Vopat said Marzyk has been in Colorado Springs, where the Wayne and Burnham families, six persons, six weeks ago were killed, and is acquainted in Monmouth, Ill., where William E. Dawson and his wife and daughter were slain recently.

As a possible connection between the Ellsworth and other tragedies, Mrs. Vopat said her former husband was convicted of forgery in Colorado Springs a few months ago. She said it was not improbable that he had been in Monmouth lately.

Mr. Hines said that all he knew about the election of Senator Stephenson was what he had read in the news papers.

Coroner Orders Rigid Inquiry Into Cause of Explosion in Harrisburg (Ill.) Shaft.

Harrisburg, Ill.—A rigid investigation was ordered by the coroner into the cause of the explosion that resulted in the death of ten men and the serious injury of ten others in the O'Garra mine No. 9, a mile south of this city.

A keg of powder exploded and ignited black damp. There was a heavy blast and the roof of the mine fell in fifteen men caught by a cave-in some distance from the entrance escaped by an adjoining shaft.

That more lives were not lost was due to the fact that the shift was changing at the time of the explosion.

Lofty Plumage

In spite of the efforts of the Audubon society on this side of the Atlantic, and kindred organizations on the other, there is a very decided return to plumage decorations in the latest fickle fashion calls, sense and sentiment have to give way, as is shown in this instance.

In the picture above is seen one of these latest hats. The feathers are those of the ordinary rooster, shaped and trimmed to a height that is in direct contrast to the broad, low confection of last year. There is apparently no limit to the lofty altitudes to which these hats may reach. The body of the hat is of bronze-brown velvet, with an upturned brim that rises front and rear.

Long Strings of Black Velvet Are Seen on Little Bonnets This Season.

"Straws show which way the wind blows." So, also, do the little bonnets of tulle, coquettishly set upon the waved and puffed coiffure and engarlanded with myosotis, and the large tresses lined with felt, that have quite taken the place of almost all other forms of headgear during the last few weeks.

Every one of them have long strings of black velvet which are tiered at the side and at the back and have thin long ends floating, or caught with a jeweled pin high over the bust and on the left side.

The "sleeve" string is simply a very long loop of broad velvet ribbon through which the arm is slipped. It hangs loosely on the left side under the arm.

This new trick in millinery is causing not a little comment regarding its probable popularity, but withal seems to be finding favor in the eyes of the truly great dictators of styles.

A SPORT'S COAT

This useful coat might well be made in tweed or rough serge. It has the upper part set to the basque under the waist-band, which is of material cut the reverse way, as also are the cuffs and collar.

The cap is of the same material as coat.

Materials required: 2 yards 48 inches wide.

LACES TO BE VERY POPULAR

New Patterns of Irish Lace Are Made into Pretty Yokes and Collars.

Especially lovely are the sheer laces—the filmy, cobwebby weaves which spell many hours—days and years even—of patient, painstaking work.

Does a woman possess several pieces of rare needle point, rose point or Brussels lace so much the better, for she will find it useful indeed.

And the heavier laces, too—the always lovely filet, the fascinating Venise, creamy of tone and lovely of design, and the real Valenciennes laces as well as the duchesse and Bruges.

This year there are new patterns in Irish lace—baby Irish and the crochet laces in the beaver pattern. What the vogue for collars and little yokes the clever Irish have kept pace with fashions and made laces in many new ways. In addition to the always useful stock collars and cuffs there are sailor collars which make it but an easy matter to transform gown or blouse from plainness into smartness.

TIPS ON GOOD FORM

SOME ESSENTIALS WHICH ALL WOMEN SHOULD KNOW.

How Invitations Should Be Issued and What Etiquette Requires of the Recipient—Courtesy of Calls and Introductions.

For a dinner, a formal luncheon, breakfast or supper it is not safe nor in good taste to issue the engraved or written invitations less than five days ahead of time. An invitation posted a day or two before the least too clearly indicates that its recipient is but an afterthought or that he or she is asked to fill the seat of some guest who has dropped out at the last moment.

A prompt and decisive reply to an invitation, written within twenty-four hours of its receipt, is the rule followed by well-bred and considerate persons. Remember it is not the correct thing to answer invitations to formal affairs in a doubtful or hesitating manner.

Invitations for wedding ceremonies at church and teas require no acknowledgment; the presence of the person invited serves as an acceptance. If unable to attend an afternoon tea to which one has been invited, cards are sent enclosed in envelopes on the day of the tea, if possible while it is in progress.

Formal calls are paid between 3 and half past 5 o'clock in the afternoon. No one not privileged, on pressing business or extremely intimate would think of invading a household before 3 o'clock.

If a woman has a reception day, her friends should try to call at that time. She need not receive chance callers on any other day.

It is a good rule to stay only 15 minutes at a formal, at any rate, a first call, unless, of course, urged to stay longer for some special reason.

Tea is generally served in well regulated houses to those calling between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock, but, earlier or later, it is considered for the visitor to decline having it made expressly if it is offered.

Brides and strangers newly arrived in a neighborhood never make, but wait to receive first calls. Men and women of note, brides, clergymen, elderly persons, strangers, and those in delicate health are entitled to first calls.

First calls should promptly be returned. It is discourteous not to return a first call, unless the person making it be an objectionable person to know.

In introducing the simplest method is the best. "Mrs. Smith, may I present Mr. Jones?" is a form properly used on almost any occasion. In introducing men and women, the woman's name is always spoken first and the man presented to the woman.

It is not necessary to introduce two persons at a casual meeting, as in a public conveyance, unless there is some special reason for doing so, like long desire on the part of both to meet, or something of that kind.

Never introduce in church, even at the door, or on the steps if it is not correct. Do not introduce on doorsteps if you happen to find somebody waiting there that you know and that the person with you does not.

At a dance, always ask a young girl if you may present a man before your venture do it.

Muskmelon Frappe.

Remove the tops of small nutmeg melons so as to form a cover. Take out all the seeds and membrane and scoop out as much of the soft pulp as can easily be removed. Cut this latter into small pieces. Place the seeds and membrane in a sieve to drain the juice, then add the latter to one quart of whipped cream, sweetened; turn into this an ice cream freezer and turn until stiff. When ready to serve take the shells which should have been chilled on ice, place the frappe cream in alternate layers with the melon pulp. Fasten a narrow ribbon looped bow on the lids with long pins, set the melons on lace paper doilies and serve with cake. An excellent company dessert.

German Pancake.

Mix six ounces of flour with one ounce of melted butter, the yolk of an egg and two tablespoons of water; beat well. Add a pinch of salt and very gradually beat in half a cup of rich milk. This batter is better made two or three hours before using. Just before cooking add the beaten white of an egg. Have an omelet pan hot and put in butter or oil; pour in the batter, which should be an eighth of an inch thick. When cooked on the bottom put in a hot oven to cook on top. Slide out of the pan, serve with an apple sauce or with lemon quarters and sugar.

Broiled Mutton Chops.

Nourishing and appetizing in the extreme is a tender, well broiled mutton chop. It is best prepared by removing all skin and most of the fat. When broiled, season with salt and a little pepper or, if allowable, one finely sliced tomato from which the seeds have been removed and which is seasoned with salt or a little vinegar and sugar.

Eggless Fruit Cake.

Two cupsful sugar, two cupsful buttermilk, one pound seedless raisins chopped fine, four cupsful flour, one-half cupful butter, one tablespoonful soda dissolved in a little hot water; spices to taste; a cupful of rich preserves of peaches or strawberry jam adds to the good fruit taste so well liked by many. Bake in a slow oven.

Beef Broth.

Cover lean beef chopped fine with cold water and boil until the meat falls to pieces. Strain through a colander and add the broth to stand until cold. Remove any traces of fat on top, heat, season with salt and a little pepper and serve with squares of bread toasted dry.

Tomato Purée.

In making a tomato purée it will not curdle so easily if the tomato is poured into the milk. Do it slowly and pour just a little at a time.

EASY WAY TO WATER PLANTS

Simple Device That Solves Difficulty of Caring for Plants When Away From Home.

When you wish to be away from home for a few days, and there is no one to water the house plants, the simple device shown here will help to solve the difficulty.

Just before leaving, water the plants thoroughly. On a box or old chair in some suitable place set a very large pail, or the wash boiler, filled with water. On the floor round the box arrange the pots of plants in saucers or plates to protect the floor from moisture.

From a piece of unbleached muslin tear strips long enough to reach from the bottom of the inside of the pail to each flower pot. Fasten all the strips together at one end, and attach to the fastened ends a weight of some kind heavy enough to sink them to the bottom of the pail. Then spread out the strips of muslin all round the rim of the vessel, and lead them to the plants, one strip to each pot, where a nailed or a small stone will hold the end in place. In a few minutes the water will work its way up the strips—just as kerosene runs up the wick in a lamp—over the edge of the vessel, and down to the plants, and will continue to distribute the water drop by drop as long as any remains in the pail.

The wider the strip the more water it will furnish; therefore, suggests the Youth's Companion, it is best to use wide strips for the larger plants, and narrow ones for the smaller plants. A wash boiler full of water should supply moisture to the plants for several days; the exact length of time will depend of course on the number of plants and the width of the muslin strips.

FOR THE BREAKFAST TABLE

Appetizing Dishes for the Early Morning Meal That Cost Little Labor.

Hash With Rice.

Chop cold meat, well seasoned, and wet with gravy, if convenient; place on a platter and then take cold rice, made moist with milk, and one egg, season with salt and pepper, and place this around the meat quite thick. Place in the oven to dry and brown.

Ham Croquettes.

One cup of ham, two cups of potatoes, one cup of bread crumbs, one teaspoon of butter and one egg; make into balls, roll in bread crumbs and fry in hot lard.

Breakfast Gems.

Beat together for five minutes a teaspoon and a half of flour, a teaspoon of baking powder, a teaspoon of milk, a little salt and an egg. Bake in hot pans in a hot oven.

Sweet Breakfast Muffins.

Sift two teaspoons of baking powder with one quart of flour, add one cup of sugar, rub into the flour a piece of butter the size of an egg, then stir in one pint of milk; beat free from lumps to a smooth batter and bake quickly.

Escalloped Meat.

Take leftovers from roast beef or boiled beef and put through meat grinder. Then put in baking dish, one layer of meat, layer of cracker crumbs, salt and pepper, layer of cooked tomatoes. Repeat until beef is all used, making last layer of tomatoes, with small pieces of butter scattered over the top. Bake 45 minutes in a hot oven. When cold this is very nice for sandwiches.

Sea Foam Candy.

Cook three cupfuls brown sugar and one tablespoonful of vinegar until the syrup forms a hard ball when dropped in cold water; pour it slowly over the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs, beating continually until the candy is stiff enough to hold its shape. Then, if liked, work in a cup of chopped nuts and half a teaspoonful of vanilla. Drop in small pieces on waxed paper.

Cinnamon Wafers.

One cup of butter, two cups of sugar, four of flour, three eggs, a cup of sweet milk, or, better, sour milk, with a teaspoon of soda dissolved in it; spread with a spoon thin on tin sheets either in small cakes or one large one, which can be cut after baking; when half baked draw to the front of the oven and sift granulated sugar mixer with cinnamon over them.

German Beef Stew.

Two pounds sliced meat (beef), one pint onions, one pint potatoes, one can stewed tomatoes, one can green peas, one can consommé soup, one-quarter cup bay leaves, one pint pickles; add one can of tomato soup if you wish. Let the meat boil three or four hours before adding the vegetables. Do not thicken.

Biscuit Help.

At noon mix up, roll out and cut either baking powder or soda biscuit for supper. Put them in the ice box until night, then all that is necessary is to light the oven and bake the biscuit. No muss there to roll the light dress. This applies to shortcake too.

To Test Lard.

When fat is hot enough to light a match that is touched to it, it is ready for potato chips, doughnuts, or anything to be cooked in hot lard.

To Make Meat Tender.

Add a tablespoonful of vinegar to the water when boiling fowl. This will make tender any tough meat.

NO WONDER.

He—She is so artificial. She—Yes, artificiality seems natural to her.

The Very Worst. Clement J. Driscoll, at a dinner in New York, told a number of amusing stories about his strenuous life as commissioner of weights and measures last year. "A friend of mine," said Mr. Driscoll, "noticed one morning that his grocer looked very sad. 'What's the matter, old man?' my friend asked jokingly. 'The weights and measures man hasn't been dropping in on you, I hope?' 'Yes, he has,' snapped the grocer. 'But you don't really mean to say,' exclaimed my friend, 'that he caught you giving only fifteen ounces to the pound?' 'Worse than that!' groaned the grocer. 'I've been giving seventeen.'"

Salvo to Conscience. It was at a concert, where the removal of hats was not obligatory, still the woman with a conscience wished to be accommodating. She turned to the woman sitting beside her and said: "Does my hat bother you?" "Not in the least," said the other woman sweetly, so the woman with a conscience settled complacently back to listen to the music while persons on the back seats twisted their necks out of joint trying to see around her hat.

Association of Ideas. "You have a great many flies and mosquitoes," said the rather supercilious girl. "Yes," replied Farmer Courtness. "I don't like to mention it, but I've noticed every year that flies, mosquitoes and summer boarders all appear to be on hand at the same time."

SHIFT If Your Food Fails to Sustain You, Change.

One sort of diet may make a person despondent, depressed and blue and change to the kind of food the body demands will change the whole thing. A young woman from Philadelphia: "For several years I kept in a run-down, miserable sort of condition, was depressed and apprehensive of trouble. I lost flesh in a distressing way and seemed in a perpetual sort of dreamy nightmare. No one serious disease showed, but the 'all-over' sickness was enough. "Finally, between the doctor and father, I was put on Grape-Nuts and cream, as it was decided I must have a nourishing food that the body could make use of. "The wonderful change that came over me was not, like Jonah's, gourd, the growth of a single night, yet it came with a rapidity that astonished me. "During the first week I gained in weight, my spirits improved, and the world began to look brighter and more worth while. "And this has continued steadily, till now, after the use of Grape-Nuts for only a few weeks, I am perfectly well, feel splendidly, take a lively interest in everything, and am a changed person in every way." Name given by Postum Co., Ev'le Creek, Mich.

Bonano

HELPS STOMACH TROUBLE A lady from Champaign, Illinois writes.

"In regard to Cereal coffees I have reasoned out the matter for myself. Cereal coffee always gave me colic—the direct result of non-assimilation and non-elimination. The starch in these coffees was an irritant and the cause of intestinal disturbances.

BONANO caused no such effects. This result pleased me, but also puzzled me, as I knew that bananas contain some 22 per cent starch,—but when I learned that in bananas ripened in the tropics the starch was converted into fruit sugar by the ripening process, it gave me the solution, for BONANO containing no raw starch, but fruit sugar, is immediately assimilated.

I am very glad, indeed, to serve BONANO to my friends."

A DRUGGIST'S FAVORITE KIDNEY REMEDY—CURED HIMSELF.

Fifteen years ago I had an attack of acute kidney trouble. I consulted a physician who gave me medicine which only relieved me for a time. After discontinuing his medicine my trouble returned as severe as before.

Having heard of Swamp-Root I gave it a trial and can honestly state that three dollar bottles cured me, never having any sickness in fifteen years. I have sold Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root as a druggist for many years and can give the very best of recommendations at all times.

ALMOST CRAZY WITH ECZEMA

"I, the undersigned, cannot give enough praise to the Cuticura Remedies. I had been doctoring for at least a year for eczema on my foot. I had tried doctor after doctor all to no avail. When a young girl I sprained my ankle three different times, paying little or no attention to it, when five years ago a small spot showed upon my left ankle. I was worried and sent for a doctor. He said it was eczema. He drew a small bone from the ankle about the size of a match and about an inch long. The small hole grew to about the size of an apple, and the eczema spread to the knee. The doctors never could heal the hole in the ankle. The whole foot ran water all the time.

"My husband and my sons were up night and day wheeling me from one room to another in the hope of giving me some relief. I would sit for hours at a time in front of the fireplace hoping for daybreak. The pain was so intense I was almost crazy, in fact, I would lose my reason for hours at a time. One day a friend of mine dropped in to see me. No more had she glanced at my foot than she exclaimed: 'Mrs. Finnegan, why in the world don't you try the Cuticura Remedies?' Being disgusted with the doctors and their medicines, and not being able to sleep at all, I decided to give the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment a trial. After using them three days that night I slept as sound as a silver dollar for eight long hours. I awoke in the morning with but very little pain, in fact, I thought I was in heaven. After using the Cuticura Remedies for three months I was perfectly restored to health, thanks to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I will be sixty-four years of age my next birthday, hale and hearty as present." (Signed) Mrs. Julia Finnegan, 2234 Hebert St., St. Louis, Mo., Mar. 7, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 13 K, Boston.

Daniel Fahrenheit. In view of the abnormal weather which we have had this summer we think a tribute of respect should be paid to the memory of Gabriel Daniel Fahrenheit, who was born on September 15, either in 1736 or 1740. It is hard to say which. Before his day several attempts had been made to measure the heat level, not the heat, but it lay with a bankrupt merchant of Dantzic to show how the feat could be successfully accomplished.

The first thermometers were made of spirits of wine; but the ingenious Gabriel soon adopted mercury as his medium, and so it has remained to this day. His instruments speedily became known throughout the world, and though a more rational method of graduation has since been adopted, the popular mind still clings to the Fahrenheit scale. Our own Royal Society thought highly of this humble inven- tion and acknowledged his genius by making him one of its fellows. To the "Transactions" of the society he contributed several papers.—Pall Mall Gazette.

And No Strong-Arm Squaw. The Greeks were piling into the Wooden Horse outside the walls of Troy. "We might be called the first car-poolers," they cried facetiously.—Puck.

KEITH OF THE BORDER A TALE OF THE PLAINS BY RANDALL DARRISH

Author of 'My Lady of the South' 'When Wilderness Was King' 'The Lone Ranger' Illustrations by Deardon Melville

SYNOPSIS.

Jack Keith, a Virginian, now a border platoonman, is riding along the Santa Fe trail on the lookout for roaming parties of savages. He notices a camp of Indians at a distance and then sees a team attached to a wagon and at full gallop pursued by men on ponies. When Keith reaches the wagon the raiders have massacred two men and departed. He searches the bodies for papers and locket with a woman's portrait. He resolves to hunt down the murderers. Keith is arrested at Carson City charged with the murder, his accuser being a ruffian named Black Bart. He goes to jail fully realizing the peril of swift border justice. A companion in his cell is a negro, who tells him he is Neb and that he knows the Keith family back in Virginia. Neb says one of the murdered men was John Shibley, the other Gen. Willis Waite, formerly an officer in the Confederate army. The platoonman and Neb escape from the cell, and later the two fugitives become Black Bart's captives. They come upon a cabin and find its lone occupant to be a young girl, whom Keith recognizes as a sister he saw at Carson City. The girl explains that she came there in search of a brother who had deserted from the army. A Mr. Hawley induced her to come to the cabin while he sought to locate her brother. Hawley appears, and Keith in hiding recognizes him as Black Bart. Hawley rises to make love to the girl. There is a terrific battle in the darkened room in which Keith overcomes Black Bart. Hawley is appropriated, and the girl who says that her name is Hope, joins in the escape.

"No; I have ridden this country for years, and there is no ranch pasturing cattle along the Salt Fork, Miss Hope. I want you to comprehend what it is you have escaped from; what you are now fleeing from. Within the last two years an apparently organized body of outlaws have been operating throughout this entire region. Oftentimes disguised as Indians, they have terrorized the Santa Fe trail for two hundred miles, killing travelers in small parties, and driving off stock. There are few ranches as far west as this, but these have all suffered from raids. These fellows have done more to precipitate the present Indian war than any act of the savages. They have endeavored to make the authorities believe that Indians were guilty of their deeds of murder and robbery. Both troops and volunteers have tried to hold the gang up, but they scatter and disappear, as though swallowed by the desert. I have been out twice, hard on their trail, only to come back baffled. Now, I think accident has given me the clue."

She straightened up, gazing questioningly at him through the darkness. "This is what I mean, Miss Hope. I suspect that cabin to be the rendezvous of those fellows, and I half believe Hawley to be their leader. Then you will report all this to the authorities?" He smiled grimly, his lips compressed. "I hardly think so; at least, not for the present. I am not bloodthirsty, or enamored of man-hunting, but I happen to have a personal interest in this particular affair which I should prefer to settle alone." He paused, swiftly reviewing the circumstances of their short acquaintance, and as suddenly determined to trust her discretion. Deep down in his heart he rather wanted her to know "The fact of the matter is, that Neb and I here were the ones that particular posse were trailing."

"You!" her voice faltered. "He said those men were under arrest for murder, and had broken jail." "He also said it was easy to convict men in this country if you only knew how. It is true I broke jail, but only in order to save our lives. It was the only way. Technically, we are outlaws, and now run the risk of immediate re-arrest by returning north of the Arkansas. We came to you fugitives; I was charged with murder, the negro with assault. So, you see, Miss Hope, the desperate class of men you are now associating with."

The slight bitterness in his tone stung the girl into resentment. She was looking straight at him, but in the gloom he could not discern the expression of her eyes. "I don't believe it," she exclaimed decisively, "you—you do not look like that!" "My appearance may be sufficient to convince you," he returned, rather dryly, "but would weigh little before a Western court. Unfortunately, the evidence was strong against me; or would have been had the case ever come to a trial. The strange thing about it was that both warrants were sworn out by the same complainant, and apparently for a similar purpose—'Black Bart' Hawley."

"What purpose?" "To keep us from telling what we knew regarding a certain crime, in which either he, or some of his intimate friends, were deeply interested."

"But it would all come out at the trial wouldn't it?" "There was to be no trial; Judge Lynch settles the majority of such cases out here at present. It is extremely simple. Listen, and I will tell you the story."

He reviewed briefly those occurrences leading directly up to his arrest, saying little regarding the horrors of that scene witnessed near the Cimarron Crossing, but making sufficiently clear the very slight connection with it, and the reason those who were guilty of the crime were so anxious to get him out of the way. She listened intently, asking few questions until he ended. Then they both looked up, conscious that dawn was becoming gray in the east. Keith's first thought was one of relief—the bright eye showed him they were riding straight north.

The Ford of the Arkansas. They were still in the midst of the "no test" test plan, but the weary horses had slowed down to a walk, the heavy sand retarding progress. It was a gloomy, depressing scene in the spectral gray light, a wide circle of intense loneliness, unbroken by either dwarfed shrub or bunch of grass, a barren expanse stretching to the sky. Vague cloud shadows seemed to fit across the level surface, assuming fan-like shapes, but all of the same dull coloring. Imperfect, unfinished, nothing seemed tangible or real, but rather some grotesque picture of delirium, ever merging into another yet more hideous. The very silence of those surrounding wastes seemed burdensome, adding immeasurably to the horror. They were but specks crawling underneath the sky—the only living, moving objects in all that immense circle of desolation and death. Keith turned in his saddle, looking back past Neb—who swayed in his seat, with head lolling on his breast as though asleep, his horse plodding after the other—along the slight trail they had made across the desert. So far as he could reach nothing moved about apparently existed. Fronting again to the north he looked upon the same grim barrenness, only that far off, against the lighter background of distant sky, there was visible a faint blur, a bluish haze, which he believed to be the distant sand dunes bordering the Arkansas. The intense dreariness of it all left a feeling of depression. His eyes turned and regarded the girl riding silently beside him. The same look of depression was visible upon her face, and she was gazing off into the dull distance with lack-luster eyes, her slender form leaning forward, her hands clasped across the pommel.

The long weariness of the night had left traces on her young face, robbing it of some of its freshness, yet Keith found it more attractive in the growing daylight than amid the lamp shadows of the evening before. He had not previously realized the peculiar clearness of her complexion, the rose tint showing through the olive skin, or the soft and silky fineness of her hair, which, when they rode on in silence. He did not notice that she glanced aside at him shyly, marking the outline of his clear-cut features. It was a manly face, strong, alive, full of character, the well-shaped head firmly poised in spite of the long night of weary exertion. The depths of her eyes brightened with appreciation.

He laughed, withdrawing his hand from a mortal's forehead to worry me. So far I have discovered sufficient trouble in real life to keep my brain active. Even now I cannot forget how hungry I am."

She did not answer, comprehending how useless it would be to explain and a little ashamed of her own ill-defined fears, and thus they rode on in silence. He did not notice that she glanced aside at him shyly, marking the outline of his clear-cut features. It was a manly face, strong, alive, full of character, the well-shaped head firmly poised in spite of the long night of weary exertion. The depths of her eyes brightened with appreciation.

As It Works in Real Life

Usual Experience of Man Who Starts Out to "Show" the Folks Back Home.

In the American Magazine Eugene Wood writes on "Hunting a Job in the Wicked City." It is extraordinary in its observation and humor. Many of us have been through what he describes. Following is an extract: "You pack your trunk and start for the Wicked City. There are lots of jobs there. True, there are lots of people looking for them, too. But then, genuine merit, is bound to succeed, and that's the kind you've got, the sort with the yellow label on it and genuine bling in the bottle. You'll work like the very dickens, and save up your money, and get rich, and then you'll come back and show 'em. You'll just show 'em."

"I believe your story, Mr. Keith," she said at last softly.

"My story?" questioningly, and turning instantly toward her. "Yes; all that you have told me about what happened."

"Oh; I had almost forgotten having told it, but I never felt any doubt but what you would believe. I don't think I could lie to you."

It was no compliment, but spoken with such evident honesty that her eyes met his with frankness. "There could be no necessity; only I wanted you to know that I trust you, and am grateful for your hand this time, and he took it within his own, holding it firmly, yet without knowing what to answer. There was strong impulse within him to question her, to learn then and there her own life story. Yet, somehow, the reticence of the girl restrained him; he could not deliberately probe beneath the veil she kept lowered between them. Until she chose to lift it herself voluntarily, he possessed no right to intrude. The gentlemanly instincts of younger years held him silent, realizing clearly that whatever secret might dominate her life, it was hers to conceal just so long as she pleased. Out of this swift struggle of repression he managed to say:

"I appreciate your confidence, and mean to prove worthy. Perhaps some day I can bring you the proofs."

"I need none other than your own word."

"Oh, but possibly you are too easily convinced; you believed in Hawley."

She looked at him searchingly, her eyes glowing, her cheeks flushed. "Yes," she said slowly, convincingly. "I know I did; I was so anxious to be helped, but—but this is different."

ALAS! THE POOR DUCHESS

She thought the wealthy couple were Making Sport of Her Wedding Present. Recently, when the wealthy Mile de R. was to be married, one of our good duchesses had to make her present, just a little present. The duchess thought it would be useless to expend much money for a person so rich. She thought if she would look through her vast mansion she would be able to find something, some trinket, to which the addition of her card would give sufficient glory. She finally found in her writing desk an insignificant cameo that she had once worn.

The following day she received from her young friend a letter of enthusiastic thanks: "Oh, you have been very foolish! This is too, too beautiful, etc."

"She is making sport of my little present," thought the good duchess. Then came a second letter, this time from the husband who was to be: "How can we thank you? We are delighted. This will spoil us."

"The impertinent fellow," said the duchess. "He wants me to understand that I have been negligent." Nevertheless she went to pay a visit to the R.'s before the marriage. There in the midst of the presents, exposed in a most prominent place, she saw the little cameo placed upon her card. An old gentleman approached her. He was a member of the Academy of Inscriptions and Hieroglyphics.

"What a wonderful present you have given these children. Madame la duchesse," he said. "For forty years we have been seeking for this very cameo. It is of the era of Trojan, and this trinket is valued at two hundred thousand francs."

The Fatal Ring.

An amazing story is told by the late head of the Paris morgue. Five times within his experience dead bodies brought to the morgue were found to be wearing a certain ring easily distinguishable by its strange design. It bore in Eastern characters this legend: "May whoever wears this ring die a miserable death." M. Mace, late chief of the Paris police, vouches for the truth of this.

Is of Scotch Origin. Ellen Key, who has written a number of books and has had much to do with molding public opinion in Sweden, is descended from a Scotch highlander, Colonel McKey, who fought under Gustavus Adolphus in 1639 her father lost all his money and Miss Key went to work as a teacher. She then gave lectures and has for 20 years been lecturer on the history of civilization at the Popular University of Stockholm. TOWN IS BEING REBUILT Flood of Waters Has Not Taken Black River Falls, Wis., From the Map. More than a million dollars absolutely disappearing in the short time of two hours was the toll collected by the waters at Black River Falls, Wisconsin. Even the residents of the town could not realize what it meant until the lake formed by the Hatfield dam was dry, and the rush of waters had passed on to the Mississippi. Just out of reach of the flood the business men and residents of the places watched the waters carry away the buildings that represented the homes of business enterprises which it had taken years of effort to build. Among the larger industries seemingly wiped out within a few minutes was the plant of Coles Carbolisative. This plant, along with others that suffered a like fate, is today being rebuilt, and the business men of Black River Falls promise that a better town shall replace the one destroyed by the raging floods, and that just as rapidly as men and material can put it together. It is catastrophes like the breaking of the Hatfield dam that demonstrate the American spirit.

If You Have a Sickly Youngster Try This Free The family with young children that is without sickness in the house now and then is rare, and so it is important that the head of the house should know what to do in the little emergencies that arise. A child with a serious ailment needs a doctor, it is true, but in the majority of instances, as any doctor knows, the child suffers from some intestinal trouble, usually constipation. There is no sense in giving it a pill of a remedy containing an opiate, nor is flushing of the bowels to be always recommended. Rather give it a small dose of a mild, gentle laxative tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which, by cleaning out the bowels and strengthening the little stomach muscles, will immediately correct the trouble. This is not alone our opinion but that of Dr. N. H. McLeod of Freeport, Kansas, whose granddaughter has been taking it for years. It is the opinion of Mrs. J. R. Whiting of Lena, Wis., who gives it to her children and takes it herself. It is sold in drug stores, but one dollar bottles at every address to which you will send it in your family before you buy it send your address to Dr. Caldwell and he will forward a fully free of charge. For the free sample address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 20 Caldwell building, Monticello, N.Y.

Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills After Doctors Gave Up Hope.

J. L. Richardson, Red Key, Ind., says: "For five months I was confined to my bed, a helpless invalid. I almost went crazy. Twenty-five hours passed without a passage of the urine. The doctors began to take the water from me with a catheter. They did this once a day for fifty days. Finally my doctor told me my time was up. The next day a friend advised me to take Doan's Kidney Pills. When I had used five boxes, I got out of bed and improved until entirely well. For five years I have not had the slightest trouble."

When Friendship Counts.
The doors of the deformed man are always locked, and the key is on the outside. He may have treasures of charm inside, but they will never be revealed unless the person outside cooperates with him in unlocking the door. A friend becomes, to a much greater degree than with the ordinary man, the indispensable means of discovering one's own personality. One only exists, so to speak, with friends. It is easy to see how hopelessly such a sensitiveness incapacitates a man for business, professional or social life, where the hasty and superficial impression is everything, and disaster is the fate of the man who has not all the treasures of his personality in the front window where they can be readily inspected and appraised.—From the September Atlantic.

MASKS OLDER THAN HISTORY

One Shown in Illustration Was Carved by American Indians Years Ago—Practiced in Europe.

If you should eat mince pie, corn-starch pudding, rice, sweet potatoes, candy, horse-radish, sour milk and half a dozen other queer dishes all at once and then go to bed and dream as hard as you could all night you would hardly dream of as horrible things as some of the masks that have been made by savage peoples. The one represented in the illustration was carved long ago by American Indians. That was before they had to spend their time dodging white hunters.

American Indian Mask.

Mask making and wearing have been popular the world over for thousands of years. In China and Japan masks were carved of wood and used in the theaters, this custom being in practice even to this day in Java. The Chinese, natives of Ceylon, worship the devil, and the mask of his satanic majesty is highly respected there. Most of the lacquered Chinese and Japanese masks that you may see in this country are made especially for the Americans who like to pay high prices for oriental curios. Maskmaking is also practiced in many European countries, German masks being noted for their grotesqueness.

"No, sir; but we've got the seven-year locusts."

NO TYPEWRITERS IN CHINA

Reason for That Fact Is Found in 50,000 Words Signs in Use—Russian Machine Is Largest.

Typewriters are now made for use in nearly a hundred different languages, and they are sold all over the world; but there is still one great nation which, for a very simple reason, has no typewriters that write its tongue. That nation is China, says the New York Sun.
The English alphabet has twenty-six letters, the Russian thirty-six. The typewriter produced for the Russian market is the largest made; but no typewriter could be made that would begin to be big enough for the Chinese language, which has no alphabet, but is represented by sign characters, of which there are about fifty thousand. Of that great number of words found in the English language only a small proportion are used for the ordinary purposes of speech, and the same is true of the characters used in the Chinese language; but the number of Chinese characters commonly employed is still far greater than could be put on any typewriter. So this nation of 400,000,000 people has no typewriter in its own tongue.
But that doesn't mean that no typewriters are sold in China. More and more Chinese are learning other languages besides their own, and Chinese merchants and resident foreign merchants use typewriters, and they are used in legations and in consular offices and in banks and shipping offices and colleges and by missionaries, by various people. Altogether there are sold in China a good many typewriters.

Rules for Dolls.
The following maxims have recently been published in a paper for young folks, and one cannot resist the suspicion that they are intended not so much for dolls, as for dolls' owners. As such, it is recommended that they be read and pondered.
A wooden-headed doll should be careful not to hit her head against her mother, lest she should hurt her.
A doll should keep away from the rocking-chairs, as the rockers may crush her.
A wax doll should avoid the fire, if she wishes to preserve a good complexion.
Often an old doll with a cracked head and a sweet smile is more beloved than a new doll with a sour face.
It is a bad plan for dolls to be stretched out on the floor, as people are apt to tread upon them; and a doll that is trodden on is sure to go into a decline.
First Requisite.
Sunday School Teacher—Tommy, what must we do to be forgiven?

BETTER THAN NOTHING.

Oh, the river keeps on flowing, flowing. This I should think there would be no more.
And the little boats are going, going. While I am here on the stock-still shore.
And there's a robin, and there's a swallow.
Away they go, as fast as they please. And all the other birds can follow.
And even the butterflies and bees.

I'd give my arms, and be glad to do it. For a pair of nice, big, feathery wings. That catch the breeze and carry me where I want to go. I don't want a wonder he sings!
I'd fly straight up, and over the steeple. And I wouldn't be the least bit afraid: What a stupid thing it is to be people! But I can do one thing—I'll go and wade!

MARVELS OF A FLYING BIRD

Vultures Glide for Miles, Without Slightest Deviation of Course, Without Wing Beat.

On the horizon in tropical countries there often appears a small black point visible only to the practical eye. The point increases in size as it approaches. It is the sailing bird par excellence, the vulture, says the Strand, returning to its hollow in the rock a dozen miles away.

A glider, who sails magnificently upon its outstretched wings, without a beat, without the slightest deviation from its perfectly straight track, it thus traverses the space from one horizon to the other, again becomes an imperceptible point, and disappears, leaving the spectator marveling at the simplicity with which nature solves a problem of mechanics which appeared impossible to man.

When one observes a sea eagle perched upon a lofty cliff it may be remarked that in order to quit its eyrie it waits until a gust of wind arises, then it lets itself fall forward with extended wings, gives a beat or two as it turns, brings itself to face the wind and thus mounts without a wing beat hundreds of yards high.

A gliding bird so sets its wings that the air currents make an angle with their plane. The wind thus sustains its weight and gives it at the same time a forward movement. If its force is stronger than is necessary to obtain these two effects it produces a third effect—the bird mounts into space without a wing beat. If the air suddenly becomes calm the bird would fall, but the fall would be astonishingly slow.

Professor Drzewiecki has calculated that a gliding bird, at a height of 1,200 yards, at the moment when it commences to descend with motionless wings, can by setting them at the most favorable angle touch the ground at a horizontal distance of about 15 miles. If the wind fall, large birds can always, and a few wings beats, attain an altitude where they will find a wind which will permit them to continue their journey "on the glide."

The gusts and eddies of the wind are of course great disturbers of flight, and few birds attempt to struggle with a tempest. Even the strongest fliers have not from this point of view so much boldness as they generally get credit for. Thus the stormy petrel is so named, not because it braves the storm, but because as soon as a storm threatens it will often seek for refuge on a ship's rigging, and thus foretell the tempest. And if the albatross loves the stormy waves it is only because it frequently alights upon the water, where it often sleeps securely to the rocking of the billows.

COMICAL FAN FOR CHILDREN

Face Thrusts Tongue In and Out as it Is Waved About—Easily Made by Clever Boy or Girl.

A Pennsylvania man has taken out a patent on an amusing fan which will probably find favor. The comical feature of this device is a face which thrusts out its tongue and draws it in again as the fan is used. The fan is made with two covers and a hollow handle. In the center of one of the covers, near the top, a grotesque face appears. The mouth of this face is an open slit. Running up through the handle is a stick with a flexible tongue on one end that passes through the mouth of the face. A projection on the lower end of the stick passes through a slot in the handle and by moving this projection up and down the tongue can be made to run in and out of the mouth and was back and forth, thus producing the appearance of a person "making faces." A clever boy or girl could easily make one of these fans for himself or herself.

Why He Felt Better.

Some people are always grumbling because roses have thorns. Let us be thankful that thorns have roses.

We need never bear more than one kind of trouble at a time. Some people bear three kinds—all they have had all they have now, and all they expect to have.

Well, he was a brave man who first did eat an oyster.

THE OYSTER SEASON.

Spiced Oysters.—Drain a quart of oysters from their liquor and handle each one, to be sure there are no bits of shell to cause discomfort; then dry between the folds of a towel. Cut pieces of bacon half the size of the oysters and arrange the oysters and bacon in alternate layers on wooden skewers, being careful to pierce the hard muscle of the oyster. Place in a hot pan and bake until the bacon is done. Serve a skewer on a slice of toast for each person. The oyster liquor may be heated and poured over the toast just before serving.

Supreme Oysters.—Melt two table-spoonsful of butter and fry until a yellow color, two table-spoonsful of minced onion; add four table-spoonsful of flour and when well blended a half cup each of cream, chicken stock and oyster liquor. Season with salt, cayenne and nutmeg. Cook five minutes, then add half a cup of finely cut chicken, the yolks of three eggs well beaten, when thick, cool. Parboil a pint of oysters dry and cover each with the chicken mixture, dip in egg and crumbs and fry in hot fat. Serve on a hot dish, garnish with lemon and parsley.

Oyster Soup Amsterdam Style.—Clean, pick over and chop one quart of oysters, parboil, drain and add to the liquor enough water to make a quart. Brown three table-spoonsful of butter and add three and a half table-spoonsful of flour. Pour on gradually, stirring constantly the oyster liquor. Let simmer a half hour. Season with salt, paprika, celery salt, and just before serving add a cup of cream.

Oysters are valuable in the diet, as they are easily digested. As to nutriment, there is not much in a pint of oysters.

IF YOU would know the flavor of the juicy apple, the spice and taste, you must be patient till the fiery core is cooled. Then bite a little deeper than the crust. Unless some sweetness at the bottom Who cares for all the crinkling of the pie.

PIES GALORE.

The time draws near when the minute meat for the time-honored day Thanksgiving must be prepared. In each family the cherished recipe is carefully read and materials gathered, and, strange to say, there is no mince meat which tastes quite like that "that mother used to make." Here are a few which are handed down, and those who have no cherished one, may perhaps find one which sounds good.

Mix all the following ingredients together and cook slowly two hours: Three pounds of lean beef cooked and finely chopped; two pounds of suet chopped, three quarts of good, tart apples, finely chopped; three pounds of raisins, seeded; two pounds of currants, three pounds of citron cut in pieces, half a cup each of candied lemon and orange peel chopped, a half cup of raisins, the same of currants, four cups of brown sugar, one cup of coffee (liquid), two cups of sweet cider, a teaspoonful each of cloves and allspice, two teaspoonfuls of cinnamon and a cup of jelly and three cups of the liquor in which the meat was cooked.

Mince Pie Meat.—Cook together four pounds of lean beef and two pounds of suet cooked; chop and take twice the amount of chopped Baldwin apples. Add three chopped quinces, three pounds of brown sugar, two cups of molasses, two quarts of cider, four pounds of raisins, three pounds of currants, half a pound of citron finely cut, a quart of stock in which the meat was cooked, a tablespoonful each of cinnamon, mace and cloves, two grated nutmegs and salt to taste. Cook all together two hours, except the cider, which is added at the last.

Mock Mince Pie.—Roll four milk crackers, add one and a half cups of sugar, a cup of molasses, a third of a cup of lemon juice, one cup of raisins, half a cup of butter and two well-beaten eggs; salt to taste. Bake with two crusts. This makes two pies.

COMING TO KEWASKUM

United Doctors, Specialists, will be at the Eagle Hotel, Wednesday, November 1, and Will Remain

ONE DAY ONLY

Remarkable Success of These Talented Physicians in the Treatment of Chronic Diseases

OFFER THEIR SERVICES FREE OF CHARGE

The United Doctors licensed by the state of Wisconsin for the treatment of deformities and all nervous and chronic diseases of men, women and children offer to all who call on this trip, consultation, examination, advice free, making no charge whatever, except the actual cost of medicine. All that is asked in return for these valuable services is that every person treated will state the result obtained to their friends and thus prove to the sick and afflicted in every city and locality, that at last treatments have been discovered that are reasonably sure and certain in their effects.

These doctors are considered by many former patients among America's leading stomach and nerve specialists and are experts in the treatment of chronic diseases and so great and wonderful have been their results that in many cases it is hard indeed to find the dividing line between skill and miracle.

Diseases of the stomach, intestines, liver, blood skin, nerves, heart, spleen, kidneys or bladder, rheumatism, sciatica, diabetes, bed-wetting, leg ulcers, weak lungs and those afflicted with long-standing, deep-seated, chronic diseases, that have baffled the skill of the family physician, should not fail to call.

According to their system no more operations for appendicitis, gall stones, tumors, goiter or certain forms of cancer. They were among the first in America to earn the name of the "Bloodless Surgeons" by doing away with knife, with blood and with all pain in the successful treatment of these dangerous diseases.

If you have kidney or bladder troubles bring a two-ounce bottle of your urine for chemical analysis and microscopic examination.

Deafness often has been cured in sixty days.

No matter what your ailment may be no matter what others may have told you no matter what experience you may have had with other physicians, it will be to your advantage to see them at once. Have it for ever settled in your mind. If your case is incurable they will give you such advice as may relieve and stay the disease. Do not put off this duty you owe yourself or friends or relatives who are suffering because of your sickness, as a visit this time may help you.

Remember this free offer is for one day only.

Married ladies must come with their husbands and minors with their parents. Office at KEWASKUM, EAGLE HOTEL, Hours 10 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Money Making Rations Shown by College.

That different rations may produce the same dairy products with different profits for the farmer, was graphically presented in the International Dairy Show at Milwaukee by the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin. The ration for one cow for a day, producing 57 cents worth of milk and butter and costing 32 cents, consisted of 15 pounds of alfalfa hay 5 pounds corn stover, 40 pounds beets 3 pounds ground oats and 4 pounds corn meal. Thirty pounds skim milk valued at five cents were shown beside the feed. One and three-quarters pounds butter were also shown as the production of the ration and was valued at 52 cents.

Another ration consisting of 15 pounds alfalfa 30 pounds corn silage one pound oil meal one pound dried distillers grains and 3 pounds hominy feed, producing the same amount of milk and butter but costing only 25 cents made a neat profit of 32 cents. By means of these graphic methods of illustrating the results of the scientific work of the college of agriculture can be more readily appreciated by the farmers throughout the state.

"Twin" Pedestal Extension Tables

Up to this time, Pedestal Tables have been made with a single pedestal, but their shortcomings are so many that one manufacturer has succeeded in overcoming them by using two pedestals—each oval or oblong and complete in itself. They are called

They are superior to others because: No troublesome lock necessary. Gaping or standing open at bottom impossible. As perfect extended as when closed. In extending a "Twin" to 6 ft. the tops open without spreading pedestals. Prevents marring of finish on legs. If extended farther than this the pedestals spread, giving the most rigid support possible without exposing unfinished surfaces, locks, bolts, etc., as is the case with the single pedestal tables, a feature worthy of your attention, especially when entertaining friends at luncheon or if table is continually used, in the extended position.

"Twins" are made in numerous designs and finishes. CALL AND INSPECT THEM

POINTS IN WATCH BUYING

The two important points in watch buying are to get a good one, and the place you buy it at.

Watches, like human beings, sometimes go wrong, but if bought at the right place you can always depend on the guarantee being fulfilled to the letter. Our care in the selection of grades and makes, assures your purchase being right—the best your money can buy. Our watch department is our special pride—any watch purchased from us whether, Elgin, Waltham, Howard, Hamilton, Rockford, South Bend—or any other make—we guarantee value received.

FROM MAINSPRING TO HAIRSPRING

BETWEEN THEM LIES THE SECRET

The Mainspring is the power which it transmits to the active parts of the watch. The Hairspring has the control and regulates the motion. The fitting is most delicate; imagine a 100th part of a hair. (Impossible isn't it?) Yet it is enough to interfere in its performance, so wonderful is the adjustment. The friction from accumulating dirt; lack of oil, etc. destroy these perfect fittings. Do not let your watch run to ruin from neglect. Remember our business is the care of watches, and our opinion costs nothing.
