INSURANCE RATES CALLED HIGH HERE

Investigating Committee Goes Into Local Conditions

SAYS LOWER RATE IS DUE

Investigating Committee Here Finds Rate Cutting Common in Smaller Villages

That the insurance rates of dwellings in Fond du Lac are too high, and that a re-rating of business is needed was a statement made Thursday afternoon by a member of insurance investigating committee which has been conducting a hearing in this city for the past few days. According to the committee A. G. Dana, secretary of the local board testified that the board generally adopted the rates recommended by the state inspection bureau, there being less than twenty exceptions during the past three years. These exceptions were cases of large insurers who were granted reductions in most cases. One striking exception to following the suggestions of the state rating bureau was in the case of dwellings. A recommendation for reduction of rates on frame dwellings for 35 cents a year per $100 was made by the state bureau on June 1, 1909. At this time the rates in Fond du Lac were 50 cents. In July 1910 the board reduced the rate to 40 cents without additions.

This according to the committee still leaves the rate 12 1/2 per cent above that which the companies are willing to accept.

According to a member of the commission all stock fire insurance companies stand ready to accept the 35 cent rate which was the testimony of the managers of the companies themselves given before the investigating committee at its hearing in Chicago May 15 and 17. No reason, he said, has been advanced why Fond du Lac should not have the benefit of the lower rate as well as other cities in the state where it has already been adopted.

RATE CUTTING IN VILLAGES

From the examination of H. A. Wrucke, secretary of the Campbellsport Mutual Fire Insurance company, A. O. Sell, secretary of the Reedsville Mutual Fire Insurance company, John Bauerfeind manager of the Sheboygan Falls Mutual Fire Insurance company, there is much rate cutting in the cities and villages where the companies have a large amount of the business. In fact, in some of the cities and villages, there are virtually no board rates—the agents in these places writing the property at any rate, by which they are able to get the same away from the mutuals.

FAVOR NEW LAW

These gentlemen all favored the passage of a law compelling the cooperation of all companies in the establishment of uniform rates for the entire state, either through some bureau maintained by the companies or by a state supervision of rates in some form, together with state inspection—the latter being exceptionally beneficial in the reduction of the large fire loss.

TO MEET IN MILWAUKEE

The state insurance commission adjourned this afternoon to meet next fall in Milwaukee. At that time the commission will hold an extended session going particularly into the fire department question and the matter of state field agencies.

After H. A. Wrucke of Campbellsport, concluded his testimony Thursday afternoon C. L. Handt was called to the stand and Friday morning the witnesses included A. G. Dana, a member of the local insurance board, C. F. Leins of West Bend; A. E. Weber of Theresa and Nathan Haessly also of Theresa and C. E. Atkins of this city.

The local insurance agents gave testimony bearing on the manner of arriving at local rates, steps taken for fire prevention; the inspection of risks by companies and local agents, and co-operation between the agents, the state fire marshal and local fire departments. The examination of local agents along the line of fire prevention brought out the fact that Chief Fire Marshal was especially diligent in the prevention of loss by fire, and in handling fires with the minimum of damage to property resulting from the use of water, etc.

The hearings in this city were presided over by H. L. Ekern, state fire insurance commissioner; W. J. Gilboy of Milwaukee; H. J. Martensen, New London and L. Johnson of Sturgeon Bay.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

SOMETHING DOING ALL THE TIME

Everybody is Invited to Assist the Different Committees to Help Make the Home Coming a Success

The annual Homecoming for Kewaskum is drawing near, being only three weeks off. This will be the biggest event ever held in this village. On every side it is the subject for conversation and in every direction there is activity and preparations for the many entertainments which are to abound during these days. During the past few days a subscription has been circulated and signed by a good number of citizens and businessmen of the village to decorate the village and provide for different amusements.

The program committee, consisting of D. M. Rosenheimer, Geo. F. Brandt and H. W. Meilahn held a meeting last week and announced the program, which is as follows:

Throughout the residence districts will be shown the spirit of the affair, as nearly every home will exhibit some sign of the festivity.

Farmers, who own automobiles, are requested to join and help make the automobile parade a success. It will not be a parade which compels all cars to run on slow speed, as an auto truck has been secured for the brass band, which will enable all autos to go along at a fair rate of speed. Send in your name early to Geo. H. Schmidt, Secretary, stating that you wish to be in line.

The industrial parade on Sunday morning will be one of the features. Nearly every business man in the village will have a float in said parade. No autos will be allowed in this parade.

In order that the program arranged by the program committee shall be successfully carried out as planned, it is necessary that everybody shall co-operate in assisting the various committees whenever called upon.

Train No. 121, due at this station at 1:45 a. m. will stop at Kewaskum, Campbellsport and Eden; Train No. 102 due here at 4:00 A. M. will stop at Kewaskum.

BURGLARS MAKE ENORMOUS HAUL

Cowles-Carpenter Co's Store Ransacked Friday Morning

Burglars entered the Cowles-Carpenter Co's store at an early hour Friday morning. The rear door was broken into, through which the desperadoes gained an entrance, breaking the glass and using a box which was near at hand.

A good haul was made as many articles were missing Friday morning when the clerks arrived at the store.

About $13.00 in cash was taken from the cash register, which was left in same and was taken in the latter part of the evening Thursday, after all business was checked up for the day. Seven gold watches were missing which ranged about $10.00 a piece in value, and many other articles, were taken for which no particular account can be given.

No doubt the responsible parties were well acquainted in the local store, as the deed was committed at about 3:00 a. m. Friday morning according to reports, but no definite clue has been found as to the desperadoes up to the present writing.

The Cowles-Carpenter Company have offered a reward of $25.00 for the conviction of the guilty parties and return of the stolen property.—Oakfield Herald.

Hog Cholera Serum Ready for Distribution

Serum for the prevention of hog cholera, which has been in course of manufacture for the past few weeks is now ready for distribution by the Veterinary Department of the University of Wisconsin.

The serum treatment is recognized as the only reliable means by which hog cholera may be controlled. Owners of hogs, especially in those districts where the disease was prevalent last summer and fall, should lose no time in vaccinating their herds.

Some hogs are much more susceptible to cholera than others. Unfortunately, there is no way by which this condition can be determined until cholera makes its appearance. Accordingly, to insure against losses, it is advisable to vaccinate all hogs before an outbreak occurs.

The university authorities stand ready to render every assistance possible, and have made arrangements for a specially trained field man to aid the farmers of the state in controlling hog cholera outbreaks. Serum will be furnished at the very reasonable price of 1 1/2 cents per cubic centimeter, which amounts to about 35 cents to a 50 pound pig.

Mail Carriers Will Fly.

This is an age of great discoveries. Progress rides in the air. Soon we may see Uncle Sam's mail carriers flying in all directions, transporting mail. People take a wonderful interest in a discovery that benefits them. That's why Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs, Colds and other throat and lung diseases is the most popular medicine in America. "It cured me of a dreadful cough," writes Mrs. J. F. Davis Stickney, Corner Me., "after doctor's treatment and all other remedies had failed." For coughs, colds or any bronchial affection its unequalled. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free at all Druggists.

WOODROW WILSON IS CHOICE OF DEMOCRATS

Delegates Break Into Wild Demonstration Over Conclusion of Bitter Fight.

FALL QUICKLY INTO LINE

Illinois Starts Break on Forty-Fourth Ballot, and When, Next Roll Call Shows More Accessions to Wilson's Ranks, the Managers of Other Candidates Withdraw Their Men From Race, and Nomination of Wilson Is Rushed Through—Support for Nominee Is Promised by Followers of Other Candidates—Convention Is Thrown Into Frenzy of Disorder as Fight Ends.

Baltimore, July 3.—Woodrow Wilson is the nominee of the Democratic party for president.

The victory of the governor of New Jersey came on the forty-sixth ballot and was the cause of a tremendous demonstration which lasted for a long time.

Wilson had been gaining steadily all day and at the close of the forty-fifth ballot the managers of the other candidates conceded their defeat. Senator Stone and ex-Governor Francis, managers for Champ Clark, admitted that the speaker's chances were gone and formally released the delegates who were pledged to him. Senator Bankhead withdrew the name of Mr. Underwood and Governor Foss also was taken out of the race.

Greeted by Wild Cheers.

Each of these announcements was greeted with wild cheers by the Wilson men and the packed galleries joined in the tumult. In the midst of the confusion the next ballot was ordered, but every one knew what the result would be and just kept on yelling. When Wilson's vote passed the necessary 726 the noise was deafening. All the delegates were standing on their chairs, and almost at once through many shrieking sessions and used every artifice of politics in vain, and they were ready to accept the verdict and go home for a clean collar and a rest.

Underwood Withdrawn.

At the close of the 44th ballot, Senator J. H. Bankhead of Alabama came to the stand. He asked unanimous consent to make a statement. He pledged the support of Underwood and his friends to the nominee of the convention and formally withdrew the congressman's name.

The calling of the roll having been vacated by the unanimous consent of the senator to speak, Alabama asked to be called again at the end of the Bankhead's speech.

Governor O'Neal of Alabama stood in his chair as Bankhead finished, waiting to speak and threw the 24 Underwood votes in his state to Wilson. There was great disorder.

Clark Men Released.

Senator Stone of Missouri asked unanimous consent to have the roll call vacated while he made a statement. The convention waited with little patience to hear what he had to say. He began:

"Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the convention: I desire following statement of Senator Bankhead to say that speaking for Mr. Clark, I will release, if release be necessary, any obligation imposed on any delegation in this convention.

"The delegations that have stood by him so loyally will ever be remembered by him and by his friends with devoted memory."

Mayor Fitzgerald, of Boston came and withdrew the name of Foss in favor of Wilson.

He moved that the roll call be suspended and the nomination of Wilson be made by acclamation. Objection was made and the roll call was ordered.

Roll Call Ordered.

"Call the roll," ordered the chairman.

"Alabama casts 24 votes for Woodrow Wilson," said Governor O'Neal.

The delegates sent up a ripping yell. When California was asked, Theodore

Bell asked consent to explain the vote of his state.

Mr. Bell held a whispered chat with A. Mitchell Palmer on the speaker's stand and then retired to his delegation without speaking.

When Earl Brewer of Mississippi cast the vote of his state for Wilson the good natured crowd gave a long shout in imitation of the Brewer vote for Underwood.

Goes Down Fighting.

Missouri stood gallantly by her guns. She went down fighting and cheering. When her name was called the chairman replied:

"Missouri casts 36 votes for Champ Clark."

Instantly every man in the delegation was on his feet shouting and all hats went into the air, and the delegation sent up one mighty cheer.

The rest of the convention admired the dashing picture. With one accord the other delegations sent up a cheer for the fighting men of Missouri while the women in the balcony waved handkerchiefs and screamed.

The roll call proceeded with the greatest disorder as state after state swung into the Wilson column. When the roll call had concluded and it was announced that Wilson had received the necessary number of votes to give him the nomination the convention went wild and amid the greatest uproar that ever was witnessed in a convention the nomination of the New Jersey man was made unanimous.

Wilson Men Break Loose.

The twelfth session of the Democratic national convention was called to order at 12:00 yesterday afternoon. There was the usual notice that the galleries would be cleared in case of demonstrations, and then the taking of the 43rd ballot began at 12:15 p. m.

When the roll went on the pent-up enthusiasm of the convention had an outlet when Roger Sullivan sent 40 of the 58 votes of Illinois to Wilson and announced that 18 votes had gone to Clark. There was an outbreak from the Wilson folk.

Mr. Sullivan still tried to talk. The yelling crowd would not let him. Finally he finished his announcement.

"Under the unit rule 58 votes for Wilson."

The news thrilled the Wilson outfit. They shouted for joy.

When Kentucky was reached Ollie W. Young of Moorehead, Ky., made inquiry as to Kentucky.

"The Kentucky delegation desires to know if under our instructions we can cast our vote for Wilson if the majority of the delegates so desire," he said.

Governor McCreary read the instructions of the delegation to support Champ Clark "as long as his name was before the convention."

He held that the delegation must cast its vote for Clark.

Chairman James said that he would order a poll of the state if it was demanded, but the demand was not made, and the Clark vote stood as cast by Governor McCreary.

Falls to Stampede.

When the Virginia delegation was called its chairman said:

"Up to this time the Virginia delegation has cast its vote according to the individual wishes of the delegates. This morning our delegation held a caucus and it was decided that the time had come to apply the unit rule. We decided to cast our 25 votes for Woodrow Wilson. I now cast them for Mr. Wilson."

Mingled cheers for Wilson and for Bryan followed. A Missouri man tried to start a stampede for Bryan and it fell flat.

The Wilson folks were all smiles, cheers and yells. They rested long enough to let West Virginia get into action. McGraw's delegation, which had been in the Clark column, switched and voted for Wilson. They cheered again and again as the new recruits came to their stand.

NAMED FOR PRESIDENT BY DEMOCRATS

DILLON IS NAMED

OHIO REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION NOMINATES JUDGE FOR GOVERNOR.

CHICAGO PLATFORM ADOPTED

Jurist Delivers Short Address and Asserts He Belongs to No Faction of Party, but Will Be Governed by People—Harmony in Vogue.

Columbus, O., July 3.—Judge E. B. Dillon of Columbus who sat in the legislative bribery cases and who had hardly been mentioned for the office, was nominated for governor by the Republican state convention here. He was considered a compromise between the Taft and Roosevelt forces, but it was noticeable that the colonel's supporters lined up almost solidly for Arthur Garfield Elyria, voting consistently for him from the first ballot.

Says He Belongs to People.

In a short address Judge Dillon thanked the convention, and declared himself to neither faction.

"You need not ask me to what faction of the party I belong," said Dillon. "I belong to the people, and know no faction. I hope for the success of the Republican party in November."

The Taft force dominated the convention and secured the endorsement of the president's nomination as well as of the Chicago platform. The convention on the whole was harmonious, differing greatly from the turbulent scenes attending the session that early in June sent six Taft delegates at large to Chicago.

Endorse Chicago Platform.

The platform, as adopted, was semi-progressive, although making no radical departures from previous Republican declarations. Its most progressive plank favors the direct election of United States senators and declares for the application of the short ballot principle to state, county and city administrative offices.

Fair taxes are favored and popular government endorsed.

FIRE 50 SHOTS IN BATTLE

Regiment of New York Police Finds Eight Prostrate—Fright Their Trouble.

New York, July 3.—A regiment of police scoured Chinatown several hours in an attempt to arrest a party of orientals who made a murderous attack on several of their countrymen asleep on the roof of a tenement house early in the morning. Nearly 50 shots were fired by the attacking party, all of whom escaped. There was only one casualty, a tong leader named Chu Fong receiving bullet wounds which probably will prove fatal.

When the police reached the tenement roof they found eight Chinamen lying on their backs near a low coping. It was at first thought that all were dead, but examination showed that they were merely prostrate by fright. They had taken refuge behind the coping to escape the volley of shots.

CITY HAS $60,000 FIRE

Large Section of Business District of Eastern City is Destroyed by Flames.

North Adams, Mass., July 3.—One of the most disastrous fires that ever visited North Adams destroyed a large section of the heart of the business district, causing an estimated loss of $600,000. The Empire Theater, Wilson's Hotel, the Empire apartment house and Sullivan Brothers' furniture building were destroyed.

Officer Dies After Fire.

New York, July 3.—Police Sergeant James Farrell of the New York force is dead at his home in Brooklyn of heart failure, the result of exposure at the fire which destroyed the Equitable Building on lower Broadway nearly six months ago. Farrell collapsed after being on duty for nearly twenty-four hours and had been ill ever since.

SUFFRAGE BIG TOPIC AT MEET OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

Federation is Unable to Keep It Out of Convention at San Francisco, Cal.

San Francisco, Cal., July 3.—The woman suffrage question is looming large in the convention here of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. It seems certain that the advocates of the cause will force the issue from the floor of the convention, probably on Friday, when the delegates come to the consideration of the report of the board of resolutions that have been submitted for approval or rejection. There still remain two days in which resolutions may be sent to the board, but it is said to be unlikely that the woman suffrage advocates will submit a resolution on the subject to that body, as they will prefer to take it directly to the convention, and thus avoid possibility of an adverse report by the board.

The conservative delegates believe that as an organization the federation cannot endorse any issue that does not properly belong to its work, which is along educational lines. The endorsement of suffrage would inject into the convention a political issue.

The question will have bearing on the election of the new president, and the advocates of suffrage have been busily pursuing their propaganda and seeking to enlist as many of the hesitant delegates as possible in favor of the candidate who would give the most positive assurance of giving support to the movement.

So important has this phase of the campaign become that the two leading candidates for president felt impelled to issue statements defining their position in the matter.

The proceedings of the convention were of a routine order, the report of the credentials committee, report of the council, an amendment on the question of inter-federation by Mrs. Harry L. Keefe, Waltham, Neb., and conference in the department of public health and legislation being the principal business. The afternoon was devoted to an outing in cities of Alameda county. A musical program at the Greek theater at the University of California was one of the attractive features of the day.

"We congratulate the country upon the triumph of two important reforms demanded in the last national platform, namely, the amendment of the federal constitution authorizing an income tax and the amendment providing for the popular election of senators, and we call upon the people of all the states to rally to the support of the pending propositions and secure their ratification."

"We note with gratification the unanimous sentiment in favor of the Old-Fashioned Fire."

Death Shuns Man Who is Prepared.

Ernest Feldkirch, a Göttingen (Germany) carpenter of 85 years of age, has cheerfully looked death in the face for 26 years. His first illness, which came when he was 60, suggested to him that, having no relatives, he should provide for his burial himself, and as soon as he recovered he set to work and made himself a coffin, which he placed conveniently beside his bed. After a number of years it began to decay, and he was obliged to make another. The second is now in the same condition as the first, and his friends are urging Feldkirch to discard it for a third. The old man, who is hale and happy as ever, declared that he will make one more, and if he finds it decaying, he will give the business up as a bad job.

TARIFF REFORM IS DEMOCRATIC CREED

Leading Plank of Platform Adopted by Baltimore Convention.

FAVORS FIGHT ON TRUSTS

Action of Republican Administration in Compromising With Standard Oil and Tobacco Combines Condemned—Views on Other Subjects.

Following are the principal planks of the platform adopted by the Democratic national convention at Baltimore.

The Tariff Reform.

"We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the federal government under the Constitution has no right or power to impose or collect tariff duties except for the purpose of revenue and we demand that the collection of such taxes shall be limited to the necessities of government honestly and economically administered."

"The high Republican tariff is the principal cause of the unequal distribution of wealth. It is a system of taxation which makes the rich richer and the poor poorer; under its operation the American farmer and laboring man are the chief sufferers; it raises the cost of the necessities of life to them, but does not protect their product or wages."

"We favor the immediate downward revision of the existing high, and in many cases, prohibitive tariff duties, insisting that material reductions be speedily made upon the necessities of life. Articles entering into competition with trust controlled products and articles of American manufacture where sold abroad more cheaply than at home could be put upon the free list."

"We denounce the action of President Taft in vetoing the bills to reduce the tariff in the cotton, woolen, metals and chemicals schedules and the farmers free list bills, all of which was designed to give immediate relief to the masses from the exactions of the trusts."

"The Republican party, while promising tariff revision, has shown by its tariff legislation that such relief is not to be in the people's interests and having been faithless to its pledges of 1908 it should no longer enjoy the confidence of the nation."

High Cost of Living.

"The high cost of living is a serious problem in every American home. The Republican party in its platform attempts to escape from responsibility for present conditions by denying that they are due to a protective tariff. We take issue with them on this subject and charge that excessive prices result in a large measure from the high tariff laws enacted and maintained by the Republican party, and from trusts and commercial conspirators fostered and encouraged by such laws, and we assert that no substantial relief can be secured for the people until import duties on the necessities of life are materially reduced, and those criminal conspiracies broken up."

Anti-Trust Law.

"A private monopoly is indefensible and intolerable. We therefore favor the vigorous enforcement of the criminal as well as the civil law against trusts and trust officials, and demand enactment of such additional legislation as may be necessary to make it impossible for a private monopoly to exist in the United States."

"We condemn the action of the Republican administration in compromising with the Standard Oil Company and the tobacco trust and its failure to invoke the criminal provisions of the anti-trust law against the officers of those corporations after the court had declared that from the undisputed facts in the record they had violated the criminal provisions of the law."

"We regret that Sherman anti-trust law has received a judicial construction depriving it of much of its efficacy, and we favor the enactment of legislation which will restore to the statute the strength of which it has been deprived by such interpretation."

Income Tax and Popular Election of Senators.

"We congratulate the country upon the triumph of two important reforms demanded in the last national platform, namely, the amendment of the federal constitution authorizing an income tax and the amendment providing for the popular election of senators, and we call upon the people of all the states to rally to the support of the pending propositions and secure their ratification."

publicly before the election of campaign contributions—a measure demanded in our national platform of 1908 and at that time opposed by the Republican party, and we commend the Democratic House of Representatives for extending the doctrine of publicity to recommendations, verbal and written, upon which presidential appointments are made, to the ownership and control of newspapers and to the expenditures made by and in behalf of those who aspire to presidential nominations and we point for additional justification for this legislation to the enormous expenditures of money in behalf of the president and his predecessor in the recent contest for the Republican nomination for president.

Presidential Primaries.

"The movement towards more popular government should be promoted through legislation in each state which will permit the expression of the preference of the electors for national candidates at presidential primaries."

"We direct that the national committee incorporate in the call for the next nominating convention a requirement that all expressions of preference for presidential candidates shall be given and the selection of delegates and alternates be through a primary election conducted by the party organization in each state where such expression and election are not provided for by state law."

Term of President.

"We favor a single presidential term, and to the end urge the adoption of an amendment to the constitution making the president of the United States ineligible to re-election, and we pledge the candidate of this convention to this principle."

Railroads, Express Companies, Telegraph and Telephone Lines.

"We favor the efficient supervision and rate regulation of railroads, express companies, telegraph and telephone lines engaged in interstate commerce. To this end we recommend the valuation of railroads, express companies, telegraph and telephone lines by the interstate commerce commission, such valuation to take into consideration the physical value of the property, the original cost, the cost of reproduction, and any element of value which will render the valuation fair and just."

Banking Legislation.

"We oppose the so-called Aldrich bill or the establishment of a central bank and we believe the people of the country will be largely freed from panics and consequent unemployment and business depression by such a systematic revision of our banking laws as will render temporary relief in localities where such relief is needed, with protection from control or domination by what is known as the money trust."

Parcels Post and Rural Delivery.

"We favor the establishment of a parcels post or postal express, and also the extension of the rural delivery system as rapidly as practicable."

The campaign contributions plank pledges the party to the enactment of a law prohibiting any corporation from contributing to a campaign fund. It also limits individual contributions to a "reasonable maximum."

The Democratic congress is heartily commended for its long list of laws for the benefit of the people after a generation of unlimited power by the Republican party. The next plank arraigns the Republican party for waste of "the money wrong from the people by oppressive taxation."

A plank on rural credits is of importance. It is recommended that an investigation of agricultural credit societies in foreign countries be made with a view to adopting a suitable system for the United States. A waterways plank provides for federal control of the Mississippi and other waterways. The plan is to maintain an average depth on the big river so it will be navigable, and construct docks to prevent further floods. This plank also favors draining of all swamp lands.

The platform favors post roads. It reaffirms its declarations in the 1908 platform in regard to labor. It holds there should be a modification of the injunctive laws.

It also recommends a department of labor with a cabinet officer.

The conservation plank is also of importance and holds that conservation and development should proceed for the benefit of the people. Immediate action is favored to make available the coal deposits of Alaska.

A pure food and public health plank declares for the union and strengthening of the various governmental agencies relating to pure food, quarantine, vital statistics and human health. This department should be administered without partiality or discrimination in favor of or against any school of medicine. The civil service law should be honestly and rigidly enforced. Legislation is favored to promote law reform. The policy of imperialism in the Philippines is denounced. It favors the declaration of the independence of these islands. Arizona and New Mexico are welcomed to the sisterhood of states.

Mechanical Lightning Calculator

The clerical staffs of many of the big insurance companies have of late years been considerably reduced by the employment of mechanical calculators.

One of these, the invention of a German, is a compact little affair resembling a music box. It may be made to perform almost instantaneously the most portentous sums in addition, subtraction, multiplication by one or two factors, division, squaring and cubing. It is required, for instance, to multiply 531,975 by 924. The first factor is set by touching little knobs representing 531,975.

To multiply by the other factor you turn a handle four times, push a long slide one place and turn the handle twice, then push the slide another place onward and turn the handle nine times. The long multiplication is now done without the possibility of error so far as the machine is concerned and the dial shows 491,144,900. In the same mechanical way may be done all the other arithmetical processes.

EIGHT DIE IN AIR

BALLOON EXPLODES 1,000 FEET FROM EARTH; VANIMAN AND CREW LOSE LIVES.

AMERICAN AVIATRICE KILLED

Miss Harriet Quimby and Passenger in Monoplane Plunge Into Bay at Boston During Exhibition Flight—Spanish Flyer Succumbs.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 3.—Plunged 1,000 feet to earth when the dirigible balloon the Akron blew up in mid-air, Melvin Vaniman, the famous aerial navigator and the four men of his crew were dashed to death Tuesday. The Akron had been constructed for a trip across the Atlantic and was the last word in balloon construction. The flight over the meadows began at 7 o'clock, and it was just a short time later that the accident occurred.

Like a blazing meteorite the burning balloon dashed earthward, emitting clouds of black smoke. It fell upon Brigantine Beach and rescuers who dashed two miles across the inlet were unable to give any help.

Besides Melvin Vaniman those on the Akron were Calvin Vaniman, brother of the aeronaut; Fred Elmer, George Boulton and Alter Gess. Mrs. Melvin Vaniman saw the disaster from the porch of her home. She collapsed and is in serious condition.

An hour after the accident and after the rescuers had given up all hope of finding any of the bodies, the corpse of Calvin Vaniman was recovered.

Melvin Vaniman was personally in charge of the balloon during the flight and his crew consisted of four men, including his brother.

After making a search of the beach about the point where the balloon had plunged to earth, rescuers took to boats and began searching the bay in the hope of finding some of the aerial sailors with the breath of life still in them.

The body of Calvin Vaniman was recognized by a party in a launch belonging to Councilman Harry Cook. It was floating in Absecon bay. Although bruised, it was not burned. News that "Vaniman has gone up" spread rapidly and despite the early hour thousands were soon gathered upon the beaches and the street watching the huge cigar-shaped craft outlined against the morning sky.

After attaining an altitude of about 1,000 feet the aerial pilot began putting his craft through fancy motions. There was no wind, the air was clear and conditions were ideal for ballooning. Taking advantage of this Vaniman decided to show the people on the beaches some fancy stunts. It was during these evolutions that the explosion occurred.

One theory was that a leak in the fuel tank caused an explosion and that the flames from this set the bag afire.

Boston, July 3.—Miss Harriet Quimby of New York, the first woman to win an aviator's license in America and the first woman to cross the English channel in an aeroplane, was instantly killed with her passenger, W. A. P. Willard, manager of the Boston aviation meet, at Atlantic City on Monday, when her Blériot monoplane fell into Dorchester bay from a height of a thousand feet.

The bodies were driven deep into the mud on the harbor bottom, and were extricated with difficulty by men in launches. The water at that stage of the tide was only five feet deep.

The horrifying spectacle of two forms plunging through the air was witnessed by thousands of spectators attending the Boston aeronaut meet.

The death of Miss Harriet Quimby constitutes the fifth aviation fatality to a woman since the inception of the new science, the previous victims being an unnamed girl at Buda Pest, June 17, 1911; Mile. Denise Moore at Etampes, July 21, 1911; Mile. Suzanne Bernard at Etampes, March 10, 1912, and Mrs. Julian Clark at Springfield, Ill., June 17, 1912. There were fifteen fatalities during the month of June last, beginning with the death of Philip O. Parmelee in Washington on June 1. On June 11 Lieutenant Hazelhurst and "Al" Welsh were killed at Washington, and on June 21 Henry Turner was killed at Hempstead, N. Y.

The total number of aviation fatalities since the death of Lieutenant Seltridge in September, 1903, is now 158.

HIT AT DARROW ANEW

DETECTIVE ON STAND SAYS DEFENDANT OFFERED HIM BRIBE.

Swears Also That Chicago Lawyer Sought Man Who Tipped Off Information.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 29.—Clarence S. Darrow was openly charged Thursday, for the first time since the Darrow bribery trial began, more than six weeks ago, by a witness on the stand, with having personally offered him a bribe to turn over to him certain evidence against the McNamara brothers.

Guy Biddinger, a Chicago detective sergeant, temporarily employed by Detective William J. Burns and one of the men who arrested James B. McNamara and Orville McManigal, was on the witness stand. He testified he had pretended to accept Darrow's offer, and that, while in San Francisco last August, had arranged so that Darrow could secretly view a conference between William J. Burns and Eugene A. Clancy, a San Francisco labor leader.

Darrow, the witness said, had told him he wished to learn who, in the inner councils of the McNamara defense, had been "tipping off" secret information to Burns. Biddinger told him that it was Clancy, and that if he came to San Francisco at a certain time he would show him Clancy and Burns together.

The defense gained what was regarded as an important victory when Judge Hutton sustained an objection to the testimony of Waldo Falloon, one of the shorthand reporters who took down the conversations between Darrow and John R. Harrington through a telephone device. Falloon admitted that he heard only parts of the conversation. His note book was turned over to a court reporter engaged by the defense, who, according to Attorney Rogers, could not decipher the notes.

Stokes, former proprietor of the Hotel Ansonia and recently the victim of a shooting by Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad, struck Alma Benson, a fifteen-year-old girl of Bayonne, N. J., at the intersection of Broadway and Sixteenth street and probably fatally injured her on Sunday.

In the car besides Mr. Stokes was his wife and another lady. Under orders from Policeman O'Brien, who picked the child up, Mr. Stokes placed her in his car and drove with all possible speed to a hospital, and in less than three minutes after the accident occurred the little girl was on the operating table. It was discovered that one of her hips was shattered, both arms were broken, her collarbone was fractured, and she was injured internally.

DEMOCRATS TO TRY NEW PRIMARY PLAN

Experiment for Elimination of Gubernatorial Candidates.

Will Present Two Names

Convention Will Choose Men for Primary Election in Interests of Harmony in Party—Six Candidates Are Mentioned for Governor.

Milwaukee.—Wisconsin democrats will try a novel experiment when the state convention meets in Milwaukee on July 11. Their plan is to hold a petit primary in the convention itself for the nomination of state officers. There are so many possible candidates for the nomination for governor that the leaders see no other way out.

The experiment will be watched with interest. Its purpose is to eliminate candidates so that but two names will be presented to the democratic voters for their selection in the September primaries.

The candidates mentioned are A. J. Schmitz, Judge John C. Karel, Milwaukee; R. B. Kirkland, Jefferson; former Congressman J. W. Murphy, Platteville; J. E. Davies, Madison, and George B. Hilton, Oshkosh.

The plan proposed by the state central committee is to have the convention ballot for candidates for each office to be filled on the state ticket. As soon as any candidate receives a plurality of the votes cast he and the next highest candidate will be taken as the democratic candidates at the September primaries and their nomination papers will be circulated by the state central committee.

Nominees Will Be Invited.

Taft and Democratic Choice to be Asked to Give Addresses at State Fair.

Madison.—The state fair board of agriculture will extend an invitation to President Taft to make an address at the state fair grounds during the 1912 exhibit. As soon as the democratic nominee is named at Baltimore a similar invitation will be extended to the representative of that party. Bids have been opened for the construction of one section of the $100,000 grandstand, to cost $25,000, at the office of Mr. Cannon in Milwaukee on Wednesday. The structure is to be built of reinforced concrete.

The board is experiencing some difficulty in apportioning space for exhibits of manufacturers. Numerous applications received recently have practically exhausted all available room for this class of exhibits. It is probable that an appropriation for a new manufacturing building may be requested at the next session of the legislature and a new structure be built next year.

BADGER CREW UPSETS DOPE

University of Wisconsin Wins Second Place in Varsity and Freshmen Races at Poughkeepsie.

Madison.—Wisconsin's two-oared crews knocked experts' predictions into a cocked hat when they finished a good second in the varsity and freshmen races at Poughkeepsie, Conn., as was generally conceded, made a clean sweep of the river, but Columbia and Syracuse, both hailed as strongest possibilities after Courtney's men, trailed in third and fourth respectively. Pennsylvania finished a good fifth and Leland Stanford, lacking the polish of the other entrants, crossed the line last in the varsity race. Wisconsin finished this race four lengths behind Cornell, covering the four miles in 0:19:25 to the Cornellians 0:19:21-35.

The prettiest race was between Cornell and Wisconsin freshmen crews for first honors, the Easterners by a spurt, managing to win out by half a length. Wisconsin had the lead during the greater part of the race, but struck a heavy swell near the finish that slackened their pace and gave Cornell opportunity to forge to the front. Wisconsin's times was 0:09:35-25.

STATE FIRE LOSS IS SMALL

Damage to Wisconsin's $8,000,000 Worth of Insurable Property Was Less Than $1,500 Last Year.

Madison.—Of the nearly $8,000,000 worth of insurable state property in Wisconsin, there was a fire loss of less than $1,500 last year. All of the state's buildings are insured in the state fire insurance fund. Ten fires on state property occurred last year.

Since 1908 the state has been insuring its own buildings. The amount of insurable property coming under the provisions of this plan amounted on July 1, 1911, to $7,569,109. The loss of the year was $1,443.40, leaving a surplus in the insurance fund on Jan. 1, this year, of $28,408.26. The entire loss by fire on public buildings in this state, outside of the capitol building and contents, from the time the law went into effect until the close of 1911 has been $6,773.15. The receipts for the fund were $160,206.05.

The loss occasioned by the burning of the capitol, Feb. 27, 1904, was fixed at $194,275.90.

Madison.—Internal revenue taxes on 2,901,380 cigars and cheerofts and on 14,160 pounds of tobacco were paid in the western district of Wisconsin during May, 1912, according to figures given by the revenue office in this city. The tobacco products increased by 517 pounds over the preceding month, by 1,368 pounds over May, 1911, and by 16,369 pounds for the eleven months of the fiscal year over the same period in 1910-1911. The output of cigars for the district was larger by 182,970 for May, 1912, than in May, 1911.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION IN SESSION

KILLED BY CYCLONE

TORNADO SWEEPS CANADIAN TOWN AND FIFTY PERISHED IN WRECKAGE.

5,000 TROOPS SENT TO REGINA

Dozen Telephone Girls Plunged to Their Death When Exchange Is Demolished—Canadian City in Total Darkness—Loss $5,000,000.

Regina, Sask., July 3.—It was a sorrowful sight on which Monday morning broke, after the havoc wrought by the cyclone which struck this city early Sunday night. Citizens who had escaped death or injury aided the police during the long, weary night in the work of rescuing the injured and bodies of the dead from the ruins.

Thirty-six bodies had been recovered in the ruins. The death list probably will be confined to fifty. The militia has been recalled from its annual encampment and is in charge of the city.

The telephone exchange was razed with a dozen or so girls amongst the debris. The power plant shared the same fate, and to make the work of rescue more terrible, the city is in darkness. Cyclonic clouds have hovered around the northwest, and it is feared the storm will return.

Before entering the city from the southeast it destroyed the new capitol building, then it cleaned up some two hundred or more private residences. Then six grain elevators were blown across the tracks, completely blocking traffic. Then it passed away to the northwest. Chaos reigns here.

Five thousand troops are being rushed to the scene from Sewel camp, for already pillaging has commenced, and the mayor has issued orders to shoot anyone on sight seen pillaging or robbing dead. Details are very meager from Regina and every dispatch gives a different number of dead. Three churches were destroyed and hundreds of people are injured.

All hospitals are filled and stores are being turned into morgues and temporary hospitals. Surrounding cities and towns are sending doctors and nurses. All direct communication with Regina is cut off and messages being received here are dispatched from neighboring towns. The three telegraph offices are wrecked as well as the railroad stations.

The loss will run into $5,000,000 on most conservative estimate and may run double this amount. Dispatches received here placed the dead at 75 with a number injured who will die.

Reported several villages to northeast of here also struck but this cannot be confirmed. Canadian Pacific will accept nothing but death messages for points west as far as Regina. Several fires broke out in Regina after cyclone and two of them attained dangerous proportions, but heroic work on the part of firemen and volunteers saved the situation, but the fire is liable to break out again at a moment for there is the wildest disorder which the royal northwest mounted police are not able to control.

His wife told Justice Stein that she could no longer endure his tantrums and asked that he be taken care of.

Stimulate Children?

Ask your doctor how often he prescribes an alcoholic stimulant for children. He will probably say, "Very, very rarely." Ask him how often he prescribes a tonic for them. He will probably answer, "Very, very frequently." Then ask him about Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a strong and safe tonic for the young. Not a drop of alcohol in it.

Always keep a box of Ayer's Pills in the house. Just one pill at bedtime, now and then, will ward off many an attack of biliousness, indigestion, sick-headache. How many years has your doctor known these pills? Ask him all about them. Made by the J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

SYNOPSIS.

Lieut. Harry Mallory is ordered to the Philippines. He and Mrs. Wellington decide to elope, but wreck of taxicab prevents their seeing minister on the way to the train. Transcontinental train is taking on passengers. Porter has a lively time with an Englishman and Mrs. Lathrop, a Yankee business man. The elopers have an exciting time getting to the train. "Little Jimmie" Wellington, bound for Reno to get a divorce, boards train in maudlin condition. Later Mrs. Jimmie appears.

When he managed to wrench his skull free, he was ready to murder his tormentor. But as soon as he confronted the doddering and blinking toper, he was helpless. Drunken men have always been treated with great tenderness in America, and when Wellington, seeing Lathrop's white hair, exclaimed with rapture: "Why, hello, Pop! here's Pop!" the most that Lathrop could do was to tear loose those fat, groping hands, slap them like a school teacher, and push the man away.

But that one shove upset Mr. Wellington and sent him toppling down upon the pit of the Englishman's stomach.

For Wedgewood, it was suddenly as if all the air had been removed from the world. He gulped like a fish drowning for lack of water. He was a long while getting breath enough for words, but his first words were wild demands that Mr. Wellington remove himself forthwith.

Wellington accepted the banishment with the sorrowful eyes of a dying deer, and tottered away wagging his fat head and wailing:

"I'm a broken-hearted man, and nobody gives a—"

"At this point he came over into Mrs. Lathrop's berth and was welcomed with a savage roar:

"What the devil's the matter with you?"

"I'm a broken-hearted man, that's all."

"Oh, is that all," Lathrop snapped, vanishing behind his newspaper. The desperately melancholy seeker for a word of human kindness bearded at the blurred newspaper wall a while, then waded into a new attempt at acquaintance. Laying his hand on Lathrop's knee, he stammered: "Excuse me, Mr.—Mr—"

From behind the newspaper came a stinging answer: "Lathrop's my name—if you want to know."

"Pleased to meet you, Mr. Lathrop."

"Lathrop!"

"Lathrop! My name's Wellington. I'm Jimmie Wellington. Ever hear of me?"

He waited with the genial smile of a famous man; the smile froze at Lathrop's curt, "Don't think so."

He tried again: "Ever hear of well-known Chicago belle, Mrs. Jimmie Wellington?"

"Yes, I've heard of her!"

Wellington waved his hand with modest pride. "Well, I'm Jimmie."

"Serves you right."

This jolt was so discourteous that Wellington decided to protest: "Mister Lathrop!"

"Lathrop!"

The name came out with a whiplash. He tried to echo it, "Lathrop!"

"I don't like that Throp. That's a kind of a seacock name, isn't it?" Finding the newspaper still intervening between him and his prey, he calmly tore it down the middle and pushed through it like a moon coming through a cloud. "But a man can't change his name by marrying, can he? That's the worst of it. A woman can. Think of a heartless cobra di capello in woman's form wearing my fair name—and wearing it out. Mr. Lathrop, did you ever put your trust in a false-hearted woman?"

"Never put my trust in anybody."

"Didn't you ever love a woman?"

"No!"

"Well, then, didn't you ever marry a woman?"

"Not one. I've had the measles and the mumps, but I've never had matrimony."

"Oh, lucky man," beamed Wellington. "Hang on to your luck."

"I intend to," said Lathrop. "I was born single and I like it."

"Oh, how I envy you! You see, Mrs. Wellington—she's a queen among women, mind you—a queen among women, but she has the 'stravagance of a—"

CHAPTER V.

A Queen Among Women.

Miss Anne Gattie, seated in Mrs. Jimmie Wellington's seat, had not heard Mr. Jimmie Wellington's sketch of his wife. Her first question was:

"What name would they be in, Miss?"

"Mrs. Wellington—Mrs. James Wellington."

hopelessly antipathetic as only two polite women can be.

Mrs. Jimmie was accounted something of a snob in Chicago society, but perhaps the missionary was a trifle the snobbisher of the two when they met.

Miss Gattie could overlook a hundred vices in a Zulu queen more easily than a few in a fellow countrywoman. She did not like Mrs. Jimmie, and she was proud of it.

When the porter said, "I'm afraid you got this lady's seat," Miss Gattie shot one glance at the intruder and rose stiffly. "Then I suppose I'll have to—"

"Oh, please don't go, there's plenty of room," Mrs. Wellington insisted, pressing her to remain. This nettled Miss Gattie still more, but she sank back, while the porter piled up expensive traveling-bags and hat boxes till there was hardly a place to sit. But even at that Mrs. Jimmie felt called on to apologize:

"I haven't brought much luggage. How I'll ever live four days with this, I can't imagine. It will be such a relief to get my trunks at Reno."

"Reno?" echoed Miss Gattie. "Do you live there?"

"Well, theoretically, yes."

"I don't understand you."

"I've got to live there to get it."

"To get it? Oh!" A look of sudden and dreadful realization came over the missionary. Mrs. Wellington interpreted it with a smile of gay defiance: "Do you believe in divorces?"

"Anne Gattie stuck to her guns. 'I must say I don't. I think a law ought to be passed stopping them.'"

"So do I," Mrs. Wellington amiably agreed, "and I hope they'll pass just such a law—after I get mine." Then she ventured a little shaft of her own. "You don't believe in divorces, I judge you've never been married."

"Not once!" The spinster drew herself up, but Mrs. Wellington disarmed her with an unexpected bouquet:

"Oh, lucky woman! Don't let any heartless man delude you into taking the fatal step."

Anne Gattie was nothing if not honest. She confessed frankly: "I must say that nobody has made any violent efforts to compel me to. That's why I'm going to China."

"To China!" Mrs. Wellington gasped, hardly believing her ears. "My dear! You don't intend to marry a laundryman?"

"The idea! I'm going as a missionary."

"A missionary? Why leave Chicago?" Mrs. Wellington's eye softened more or less convincingly: "Oh, lovely! How I should dote upon being a missionary. I really think that after I get my divorce I might have a try at it. I had thought of a convent, but being a missionary must be much more exciting." She dismissed the dream with an abrupt shake of the head. "Excuse me, but do you happen to have any matches?"

"Matches! I never carry them!"

"What a dance she has led her poor husband!" Mrs. Whitcomb said. "And my poor Sammy fell into her trap, too."

Ashton, zealous comforter, took a wrathful tone: "I always thought your husband was the most unmitigated—"

But Mrs. Whitcomb bridled at once. "How dare you criticize Sammy! He's the nicest boy in the world."

Ashton recovered quickly. "That's what I started to say. Will he contest the divorce?"

"Of course not," she beamed. "The dear fellow would never deny me anything. Sammy offered to get it himself, but I told him he'd better stay in Chicago and stick to business. I shall need such a lot of alimony."

"Too bad he couldn't have come along," Ashton intimated.

But the irony was wanted, for she sighed: "Yes, I shall miss him terribly. But we feared that if he were with me it might hamper me in getting a divorce on the ground of desertion."

She was trying to look earnest and thoughtful and heartbroken, but the result was hardly plausible, for Mrs. Sammy Whitcomb could not possibly have been really earnest or really thoughtful; and her heart was quite too elastic to break. She proved it instantly, for when she heard behind her the voice of a young man asking her to let him pass, she turned to protest, but seeing that he was a handsome young man, her starch was instantly changed to sugar.

"Cigars?"

"That depends."

There was something almost spiritual in Mrs. Jimmie's beatific look: "I can't tell you what consolation my cigars have given me in my troubles. Mr. Wellington objected—but then Mr. Wellington objected to nearly everything I did. That's why I am forced to this dreadful step."

"Cigars?"

"That depends."

"Divorces!"
"Divorces!"
"Well, this will be only my second—my other was such a nuisance. I got that from Jimmie, too. But it didn't take. Then we made up and remarried. Rather odd, having a second honeymoon with one's first husband. But remarriage didn't succeed any better. Jimmie fell off the water-wagon with an awful splash, and he quite misunderstood my purely platonic interest in Sammy Whitcomb, a nice young fellow with a fool of a wife. Did you ever meet Mrs. Sammy Whitcomb—no? Oh, but you are a lucky woman! Indeed you are! Well, when Jimmie got jealous, I just gave him up entirely. I'm running away to Reno. I sent a note to my husband's Reno."

"But now I must go. Now I must go. I've really become quite addicted to them."

"Divorces?"

"Cigars. Do stay here till I come back. I have so much to say to you."

Miss Gattie shook her head in despair. She could understand a dozen heathen dialects better than the speech of so utter a foreigner as her fellow-countrywoman. Mrs. Jimmie hastened away, rather pleased at the shocks she had administered.

In the corridor she administered another thrill—this time to a tall young man—a stranger, as alert for flirtation as a wren for mischief. He nudged himself and his suitcases into as flat a space as possible, murmuring:

"These corridors are so narrow, aren't they?"

"Aren't they?" said Mrs. Jimmie. "So sorry to trouble you."

"Don't mention it."

She passed on, their glances fencing like playful foils. Then she paused: "Excuse me. Could you lend me a match? They never have matches in the Women's Room."

He succeeded in producing a box after much shifting of burdens, and he was rewarded with a look and a phrase:

"You have saved my life."

He started to repeat his "Don't mention it," but it seemed inappropriate, so he said nothing, and she vanished behind a door. He turned away, saying to himself that it promised to be a pleasant journey. He was halted by another voice—another woman's voice:

"Pardon me, but is this the car for Reno?"

He turned to smile, "I believe so!" Then his eyes widened as he recognized the speaker.

"Mrs. Sammy Whitcomb!"

It promised to be a curious journey.

CHAPTER VI.

A Conspiracy in Satan.

The tall man emptied one hand of its suitcase to clasp the hand of the newcomer granted him. He held it fast as he exclaimed: "Don't tell me that you are bound for Reno?" She whimpered: "I'm afraid so, Mr. Ashton."

He put down everything to take her other hand, and tuned his voice to condolence: "Why, I thought you and Sam Whitcomb were—"

"Oh, we were until that shameless Mrs. Wellington—"

"Mrs. Wellington? Don't believe I know her."

"I thought everybody had heard of Mrs. Jimmie Wellington."

"Mrs. Jimmie—oh, yes, I've heard of her."

"What a dance she has led her poor husband!" Mrs. Whitcomb said. "And my poor Sammy fell into her trap, too."

Ashton, zealous comforter, took a wrathful tone: "I always thought your husband was the most unmitigated—"

The CIVIL WAR

FIFTY YEARS AGO
THIS WEEK

July 1, 1862.

The Federal army under McClellan, baffled and defeated in its attempt to reach Richmond by the Confederate forces under General Lee, made a last stand at Malvern Hill, on the James, and repulsed the terrific onslaughts of the enemy in a battle that raged all day.

The fight was intensified by the realization on both sides that the Union army was struggling for its very existence. Although the Federals were victorious in that they saved themselves, the struggle definitely concluded any attempt to capture the Confederate capital.

A severe engagement took place between small forces of Union and Confederate troops at Booneville, Miss. The Confederates were repulsed after seven hours of hard fighting, with a loss on both sides heavy in proportion to the men engaged.

President Lincoln, in response to governors of seventeen loyal states, who requested that he call on the people of their states for more men than were in the field, announced that he had decided to call for 300,000 additional men.

A body of Confederate cavalry was prevented by the guard from capturing a wagon train belonging to General Sherman's army near Morning Sun, Tenn.

A fight occurred between the Union fleet, under Commodore Porter, and the forts and land batteries before Vicksburg, Miss. The fleet dismounted one gun in a water battery and one in a fort. Attempts by the Confederates to build defenses to drive off the fleet were prevented.

General Butler sent to President Lincoln, from New Orleans, three swords, formerly belonging to the Confederate General Twiggs, accompanied by a letter giving a history of their seizure and suggestions for their disposal.

The president, in accordance with the act for the collection of direct taxes in the insurrectionary district of the United States, issued a proclamation declaring in what states and parts of state insurrection existed.

July 2, 1862.

The Army of the Potomac under General McClellan, in their retreat from before Richmond, made necessary by the handling they received at Malvern Hill, reached Harrison's Bar, on the James river, in safety.

President Lincoln approved and signed the Pacific railroad bill and internal tax bills.

A scouting party of Union troops proceeded from Catlett's Station to Warrenton, Va., which they found occupied by a force of 500 Confederate cavalry.

Governor Morgan of New York issued a proclamation calling upon the citizens of his state for their quota of troops, to serve for three years or during the war, under the call of the president for 300,000 men.

At Clarendon, Ark., a party of Texas cavalry succeeded in capturing three men and six horses belonging to the Federal force near that place.

The Confederate privateer Florida sailed out of Liverpool harbor, where she had been fitted out.

July 3, 1862.

The news of the retreat of the Union army under the command of General McClellan from before Richmond caused intense excitement in New York and throughout the north. The details of the repulse fell upon the community with disheartening effect, and produced such a shock as had not been felt since the commencement of the war.

Crowds of excited people were everywhere to be seen discussing the matter, and all sorts of inferences and conclusions were drawn from the reports.

The brig Dellah was captured off the Hole in the Wall, Abaco, by the United States steamer Quaker City.

Governors Tod of Ohio and Buckingham of Connecticut issued proclamations to their citizens calling for their states' quotas of troops in response to President Lincoln's call for 300,000 men.

The bombardment of Vicksburg was continued at intervals throughout the day. The Confederates made an attempt to capture the mortar vessels, which lay at the levee within rifle shot of the Confederate pickets, but without success.

A skirmish occurred between a brigade of the Union Army of the Potomac on the James river, Virginia, under the command of General Davidson, and a force of Confederates, resulting in the defeat of the latter, the Unionists capturing six guns and a number of prisoners.

July 4, 1862.

A party of men from the U. S. S. S. Rhode Island landed at Galveston, Texas, for the purpose of raising the American flag so that it might be said that the old flag waved above the soil of each of the insurgent states on the anniversary of independence. They were shortly driven off.

The London Times satirized a meeting of American citizens that gathered in London to solemnize the day, publishing a mock "oration for Americans." The day was celebrated with great enthusiasm in the United States.

General McClellan issued an address to the "soldiers of the Army of the Potomac," capitalizing the events of the recent campaign, and declaring that they would yet enter the capital of the Confederacy. The army at the time was in full retreat down the James river.

A body of Union troops under Colonel Wood, reconnoitering near Little Red river, Arkansas, shelled a Confederate camp, drove out the Confederates, and captured a quantity of stores.

General McClellan ordered the national salute to be fired at noon at the headquarters of each army corps, and paraded the troops in the afternoon, thanking them for the loyalty and bravery of their recent service.

A meeting was held in Springfield, Mass., for the purpose of devising means to meet President Lincoln's call for more troops. Appropriate resolutions were adopted.

The Union forces operating against Vicksburg, Miss., celebrated the day by bombarding the Confederate defenses until ten o'clock at night.

The British steamer Richard O'Brien, laden with medicine and a general cargo, bound from Jamaica to Matamoros, Texas, was run aground and captured by the U. S. S. S. Rhode Island. The Confederate gunboat Teazer was captured in the James river by the U. S. S. S. Maratanzas.

July 5, 1862.

C. M. Irvin, in behalf of the citizens of Lee county, Va., informed the Confederate secretary of war that General Mercer of the Confederate army had issued orders impressing twenty per cent. of the male slaves throughout the state and inquired if he was authorized to do so by the war department. In reply to Mr. Irvin the secretary informed him that General Mercer had not communicated with the department in reference to impressment of slaves, and that no authority to make such impression had been granted.

General Thompson of the Confederate army issued proclamations to the inhabitants of Panola and De Soto counties, Mississippi, calling upon them to "do the watching and picketing duty which their knowledge of the country peculiarly fitted them for."

The bombardment of Vicksburg was reopened at about eight o'clock in the evening. The Union fleet of gunboats and mortar boats threw shot and shell into the city for an hour.

The governors of Illinois, Indiana, Vermont and Rhode Island issued proclamations calling upon the citizens of those states for their quotas of troops, under the call of President Lincoln for 300,000 more men.

July 6, 1862.

The steamer Junata, while aground about four miles from Harrison's landing, on the James river, was fired into by Confederates from the opposite shore and one man wounded.

A fight took place at Grand Prairie, near Aberdeen, Ark., between a body of Union infantry, under the command of Colonel Spioey, and a superior force of Confederates, resulting in the rout of the latter with great loss, according to report made to the war department of the United States.

July 7, 1862.

The steamer Emille, formerly the William Seabrook, of Charlestown, S. C., was captured off Bull's Bay, S. C., by the U. S. S. S. Flag and the bark Restless.

At New Orleans, the system of distributions and sales of provisions to the poor of that city went into operation.

The Anglo-Confederate steamer Adela was captured off Abaco by the U. S. S. gunboat Quaker City.

General Burnside's army arrived at the James river, in Virginia.

The battle of Bayou Cache, Ark., was fought by the National troops under Col. C. E. Hovey, and over 2,000 Confederate troops, under command of Albert Rust, resulting in the defeat of the Confederates.

Chivalry Gets Its Death Blow.

He removed his hat in the elevator of an office building. Six other men surrounding him concentrated their glances upon his bald pate, which slowly turned to a brilliant crimson, showing the power of malicious animal magnetism.

A noble skirted stenographer wearing a 24-inch hat nudged her chum with her elbow and called attention to "lory top." Said top thereupon became scarlet.

When the elevator stopped one of the men bumped against the polite individual, who thereupon trod on the stenographer's most sensitive corn and crushed his hat.

"They oughter have special elevators for No. 11 feet," she remarked.

The polite man pulled the damaged hat down over his head and swore softly. Thus did budding courtesy die in one manly breast.—New York Evening Telegram.

Pestilential Female Mosquito.

The female mosquito often lives through the winter, hibernating in dark places like attics, clothes presses and the crevices between floor and baseboard or outdoors in the cracks in the bark of trees. As soon as the pools of water are warm enough in the spring so her eggs will not freeze she begins to lay, and ten days to three weeks later the young mosquitoes sally forth for their first taste of blood.

Walnut Tree as Bell Tower.

A church bell hung on a walnut tree at Thersfield, England, which for 40 years had summoned the villagers to divine service, has been taken down and now forms part of a peal in the newly erected tower of the church. When the present church was erected a tower could not be built owing to lack of funds and a bell from the old church was hung on the walnut tree, which is near the church.

DUBIOUS

About What Her Husband Would Say.

A Mich. woman tried Postum because coffee disagreed with her and her husband. Tea is just as harmful as coffee because it contains caffeine—the same drug found in coffee. She writes:

"My husband was sick for three years with catarrh of the bladder, and palpitation of the heart, caused by coffee. Was unable to work at all and in bed part of the time.

"I had stomach trouble, was weak and fretful so I could not attend to my household—both of us using coffee all the time and not realizing it was harmful.

"One morning the grocer's wife said she believed coffee was the cause of our trouble and advised Postum. I took it home rather dubious what my husband would say—he was fond of coffee.

"But I took coffee right off the table and we haven't used a cup of it since. You should have seen the change in us, and now my husband never complains of heart palpitation any more. My stomach trouble went away in two weeks after I began Postum. My children love it, and it does them good which can't be said of coffee.

"A lady visited us who was usually half sick. I told her I'd make her a cup of Postum. She said it was tasteless stuff, but she watched me make it, boiling it thoroughly for 15 minutes, and when done, she said it was splendid. Long boiling brings out the flavor and food quality." NOTES From MEADOWBROOK FARM

Look out for the little colts.

Sharp tools make the work easier.

A gentle mother makes gentle chicks.

The hen should also be dusted occasionally.

Watch out for lice on the late hatched chicks.

Dutch cheese is an ideal food for young turkeys.

Give the young calf an early chance to nibble at grass.

There isn't a thing wrong with some horses except their owners.

Churning when cream is too warm has the effect of whitening butter.

Nature intends that the calf should have the first milk from the mother.

Handling colts from the start obviates breaking and substitutes training.

Use only a thoroughbred butter-bred sire for next year's crop of calves.

Farmers, as a rule, pay too little attention to the comfort of their work-horses.

There isn't much play about dairyming, but no other job pays better for hard work.

The draft horse is one farm product that bulls and bears cannot corner nor control.

Sheep do have one real menace, however, in the summer. That is internal parasites.

Let us use more of our own dairy products at home. They are the best that can be produced.

A mule authority says: "There is nothing that walks that will beat an old jennet as a money maker."

Marking chicks or young turkeys with a poultry punch does no harm, and the fowls will always show the mark.

Ground oats green clover hay, and sweet skim-milk make a good ration for lambs after they are twenty-one days old.

Be careful not to overwork the brood mare when she is nursing a promising colt, for overheating of her has a bad effect on the milk.

Pasturing grass too soon or too hard is an expensive way of saving feed. It costs several times the amount of feed saved.

The hog house if left open will supply a cool place for the pigs to lie in, and also protect the young from heavy storms and from the hot sun.

Having too many chicks in one brood, whether with a hen or in a brooder, is a common fault. Chicks in small broods always do better.

Have an aim in breeding, and try to breed all the colts to a standard or type. In this way you will get matched pairs which will bring better prices.

Experience the last year has shown it is best make such crops as cowpeas and alfalfa into hay to feed dry and to fill the silos either with corn or kafir.

Mix half a bushel of dry ashes with a pint of carbolic acid, a pint of coal oil, and a pint of sulphur. Put some in the nests and the hens will not be bothered with lice.

Have a surplus of plants of all tender varieties, like tomatoes, egg plant, peppers, etc., so that you can risk setting out a few extra early. If you have plenty you will not miss them should they be nipped by frost, while if the weather is favorable you will gain some in earliness.

If it is necessary to confine pigs in a dry lot during the summer they should have all the weeds that are pulled from the garden or cut about the premises anywhere. They will eat large quantities and thrive on them, and it is one way to get rid of weeds to profit.

Sprays are very poisonous and should be placed where children cannot get them. Do not make them stronger than directions state or it will result in damage to blossoms and leaves. Get a good spray pump to start with and remember the smaller pumps are seldom satisfactory for large trees.

A corn ration will put on fat just as fast in summer as in winter. For this reason, the flock of laying hens should be fed sparingly of corn and should be made to dig and scratch for the small grain they get. Another excellent way to give them exercise is to spade up a patch of the hen yard inclosure every few days and give them a chance to dig for worms.

When taking up plants for setting out, never pull them, but lift them with a dibble or caseknife and keep them well covered when taking to the field or garden. If the soil is dry it is well to put some water into the hole made for the plant so that the earth will be puddled about the roots, but be sure, after firming the soil well, to draw some loose dry soil over the damp ground so that it may not bake.

Leghorns are natural foragers. Shade is an important element of success. Exercise sweating in a horse indicates weakness. The first essential in making good butter is good cream. Camphorated oil is good for caked udder or other inflammation. Frequent stirring while cream is ripening will make better butter. A hog can be starved to eat almost anything, but it is poor economy. Make very liberal estimates as to the number of chickens you are to save. This is the time to begin knocking out another possible feed shortage next winter. For the young calf just learning to eat there is nothing better than ground oats. Milking with wet hands is one of the most undesirable habits that a man can form. Turkeys often get puny and die when several weeks old, from no other cause than lice. The longer a calf is allowed to suck the cow the harder it will be to make it drink from a bucket. It never pays to keep more cattle than one can be sure to furnish with ample feed the year round. By using a little patience a calf can be taught to drink quickly by letting it suck the finger held in the milk. There are many reliable breeders of Holstein cattle whose entire herd average 19,000 pounds of milk per year. If a thin sow has more pigs than she can suckle to advantage, take part of them away and raise them on a bottle. Anybody can raise an ordinary horse and sell it for an ordinary price. It takes blood and feed and care to beat the average. The main points to make sure about in buying a separator are durability, clean skimming, easy washing, and easy running. Almost any feed that is high in protein, such as milk or middlings, and the like, is good for sows, pigs and growing hogs. Don't let the young turks out until dew is off the grass in the morning if you want turkeys to sell next Thanksgiving. Why not a concrete vat in the milk house this spring? They are reasonably cheap, eternally durable, and highly sanitary. Geese, after they get their feathers, are rarely, if ever, attacked by insects, but this will not hold good in regard to goslings. Put a bell on some of the cows if they run in the woods or a brush pasture. It will save time and steps in looking for them. A heifer that has a long milking period with her first calf is very apt to establish the habit of long periods if she is well handled. See that the harness, and especially the inside of the collars where they come in contact with living flesh and blood, are smooth and clean. In the push of farm work the truck patches should not be neglected, for in these little things lie the farmer's living and his success as a farmer. On every dairy farm there should be two pasture fields, by feeding off first one and then the other, the cows have a succession of rich tender grass and clover. Mix half a bushel of dry ashes with a pint of carbolic acid, a pint of coal oil, and a pint of sulphur. Put some in the nests and the hens will not be bothered with lice. Have a surplus of plants of all tender varieties, like tomatoes, egg plant, peppers, etc., so that you can risk setting out a few extra early. If you have plenty you will not miss them should they be nipped by frost, while if the weather is favorable you will gain some in earliness. The KITCHEN CABINET

SO LONG as you think that someone else will do what you neglect to do as long as you rule against misrule, you fall to defend your civic rights—so long as you believe that your influence is not needed, and that without you there will be a majority sufficient to prevail for the many, the few shall continue to drag us into the chasm.

SUMMER VEGETABLES.

For those who enjoy a vegetable garden of their own, no plant will give more satisfaction than Swiss Chard. It is good the season through, during the growing season. Cook it in boiling water as any vegetable is cooked, then dress it with butter, vinegar and sliced hard cooked eggs as spinach is served, or it may be served cold as a salad. It will grow up again and again new tender leaves, so that it is an easy vegetable to care for.

Lettuces that have become too old and tough for eating fresh may be cooked and served as one does spinach. It makes a pleasant variety for the daily menu. Lettuce soup is another method of using the old tough leaves. This is made as one does any cream soup.

The color of peas and asparagus as well as spinach and any of the greens is a brighter green if the kettle in which the vegetable is cooked is left uncovered during the cooking.

A pretty way of serving new peas or asparagus is to prepare them with a rich white sauce, then hollow out rolls, butter well inside and brown, then fill the centers with the creamed vegetable and serve hot.

Spanish Beans.—Take a half cup of sliced onions, stewed until tender, one cup of stewed beans, one cup of stewed tomatoes. Boil until thick enough to serve on a dinner plate. Season with butter, salt and cayenne pepper.

Young beets will cook in an hour or less. Remove the skins after dropping them into cold water, then return to the fire and chop, season with butter, pepper and salt and a few drops of vinegar. Olive oil may be used in place of butter to advantage.

String beans are most palatable cooked for an hour or more with a slice of salt pork. Season with pepper and salt, if needed add a little vinegar, and serve hot.

Celery is nice stewed. Cook until tender, then serve with a white sauce on toast.

LINE well and wisely and the cares of life will slip from you, its vexations and annoyances will dwindle into nothingness.

EMERGENCY HELPS.

A list of the common injuries to mankind, and their remedies, should be posted in a conspicuous place in every home. Time means life for many accidents. Many lives are being daily lost because of not knowing what to do and acting quickly. "Wisdom is what to do next; skill is knowing how to do it, and virtue is doing it," says David Starr Jordan.

In case of being struck by lightning, the patient should have cold water dashed in the face until recovered. For sunstroke—loosen the clothing, lay the patient in the shade and apply ice water to the head. Keep the head elevated.

For fainting, lay the patient on his back with the head lowered, allow fresh air to circulate and sprinkle with cold water. Do not try to administer whiskey or any stimulant, as the muscles of swallowing are not acting and strangulation might follow.

Fire in one's clothing—Do not run, but lie down and roll over in a carpet or rug—anything to smother the fire. Fire in a building—Crawl on the floor, as the purest air is there; cover the head with something woolen and wet, if possible.

Suffocation from inhaling illuminating gas—Get the patient into the fresh air immediately. Place on his back and keep warm, give 20 drops of aromatic spirits of ammonia in a tumbler of water at frequent intervals. This is a good heart stimulant any time to give a patient while waiting for the physician. Two to four drops of nuxvomica should be given every five or six hours to the asphyxiated patient.

To stop bleeding—A handful of flour bound on to the cut.

Antidotes for poison—Soda, salt, vinegar, raw eggs, mustard, sweet oil. Soda and milk are powerful remedies for poison and are in every house. Send for a doctor, but do not wait for work. Mustard and water when drunk freely will cause vomiting; oils of all kinds destroy poison.

If ammonia is taken by accident give new milk, olive oil, bind ice on the throat. Strychnine demands a quick emetic of ipecac.

Turning the World Over.

When Archimedes hollered "Give me a lever and I will lift and turn the world over," he was only prophesying the coming powers of our Yankee style of advertising that is making the whole world whirl round four or five times a day where it turned only once a year in old Chinese days.

Cautious and Capable.

Our idea of a cautious and capable business man is one who insures his bushel before he hides his light under it.—Galveston News

ALMOST FRANTIC WITH ITCHING ECZEMA

"Eight years ago I got eczema all over my hands. My fingers fairly bled and it itched until it almost drove me frantic. The eruption began with itching under the skin. It spread fast from between the fingers around the nails and all over the whole hands. I got a pair of rubber gloves in order to wash dishes. Then it spread all over the left side of my chest. A fine doctor treated the trouble two weeks, but did me no good. I cried night and day. Then I decided to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment but without much hope as I had gone so long. There was a marked change the second day, and so on until I was entirely cured. The Cuticura Soap we have always kept in our home, and we decided after that lesson that it is a cheap soap in price and the very best in quality. My husband will use no other soap in his shaving mug." (Signed) Mrs. G. A. Selby, Redonda Beach, Cal., Jan. 15, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

FORD

The Motor Car with a record, in all parts of the world, for useful and satisfactory services. Ford Model T, the motor car which delivers expectations without any disappointments. Lower in price and higher in quality.

The lightest weight 4-cylinder car in the world, size, power and capacity considered—60 pounds for every horse power. If heavy weight is valuable in a motor car, why do not the makers of the heavy cars advertise the fact? There is a reason.

With complete equipment; Extension Top, Speedometer, Ford Magneto built into motor, Automatic Brass Windshield, Two 6-inch Gas Lamps, Generator, Three Oil Lamps, Horn and Tools. Delivered at your home..... $710.00

We believe FORD MODEL T is fully ten per cent better in quality than ever before. Not because there have been any changes in design, but simply because of added refinements and conveniences. It is the same car that has given such splendid satisfaction to more than 50,000 owners. The same car that is so familiarly known from "Greenland's icy mountains to India's coral strand." The car of immediate adaptability to the wants of all men. Just as reliable, serviceable and enjoyable on the farm as it is on the paved streets of the city. Surely you see them wherever you go, and they go wherever you see them. Keep these facts in mind: Extreme simplicity in design. Vanadium steel (scientifically heat treated) construction. Magneto built into the motor. Ford planetary spur transmission. Ford spring suspension. Ford rear axle. Quick accessibility to mechanism. 20 to 25 miles per gallon of gasoline. 8,000 to 10,000 miles on one set of tires. Every statement made in Ford advertising is a fact, nothing of "glittering generalities" or exaggeration. You can depend upon our advertisements just as you can depend upon the FORD MODEL T car. Immediate delivery. Write for catalogue and other booklets. No FORD CARS unequipped. Allow us to give you a demonstration.
