WINS KEWASKUM BRIDE

Otto F. Bammel of Fort Atkinson and Miss Lillian Kumrow Are Married

CEREMONY PERFORMED BY REV. GREVE

Wedding Took Place on Saturday, September 28th. Young Couple Will Reside at Fort Atkinson

A very pretty wedding took place last week Saturday afternoon, September 28th at the Ev. Luth. St. Lucas church, when Otto F. Bammel of Fort Atkinson, and Miss Lillian Kumrow of the town of Kewaskum were united in holy bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. Greve. The bridal party together with relatives were taken to the church and back to the bride's parents' home with several automobiles. After the ceremony the affair was celebrated at the home of the bride's parents, with a large number of relatives, friends and neighbors in attendance.

The bride who was gowned in a white silk marquisette over white crepe miter, trimmed with pearls and carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas and lilies of the valley, was attended by Miss Selma Bammel, as maid of honor, and Mrs. John Naumann, as matron of honor. Both wore gowns of white net over white messaline and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The Misses Lillian Meilahn, Lilyan Knickel, Ella Weddig and Elizabeth Backhaus, acted as bridesmaids, all were dressed in gowns of pink messaline and carried bouquets of yellow roses.

The groom is in the Furniture & Undertaking business at Fort Atkinson, and is one of the most prominent young businessmen of that place. He is a very able young man and well experienced in his profession. He is very well known in this village, having at different times during the past several years made frequent visits to this village. On every one of his visits he was sure to make acquaintances.

The young couple were the recipients of many useful and ornamental presents, among which were cut glass and silver ware. They were also the recipients of a $200 check.

The young couple will be at home to their many friends at 307 Washington St., Fort Atkinson, Wis.

People from afar who attended the wedding were: Paul Bammel and family, Ella and Gertrude Weddig, all of Fond du Lac; Wm. Pap and family, Selma Bammel, Otto Dannies, Alvina and Amanda Goetsch, all of Milwaukee; Christ, Bammel and family and George Dannies, of Random Lake; Mr. and Mrs. John Naumann Sr., Ella and Lena Naumann of West Bend; Mrs. Knickel and daughter Lilyan, Mrs. Frank Krueger and family, Wm. Klabuhn and family and Fred Ludwig of Campbellsport; Oscar and Arthur Koch of Beechwood.

The table waitresses were the Misses Alvina and Amanda Goetsch, Anna Meinecke, Rose Buddenhagen, Lizzie Rimmel and Cynthia Geidel. The main hostess and cook was Mrs. D. Knickel of Campbellsport.

The STATESMAN extends to the young couple hearty congratulations and wishes that their married life will be blessed with happiness and prosperity.

ORGANIZE DRAMATIC CLUB

Local People at a Meeting Held Monday Evening Form a Dramatic Club

At a meeting held in Groeschel's Opera House Monday evening a Dramatic Club was organized. The purpose will be to present three home talent plays during the coming season, the first number of which will be staged about Thanksgiving time. At present seventeen have joined. The club also has its own orchestra consisting of five pieces.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President—Arthur Schaefer Vice-President—Adelia Gottsleben Secretary—Fred Buss Treasurer—Don Harbeck Marshall-Alvin Gottsleben Director—Miss Adelia Gottsleben All members of the club are mostly the best talented people of this village. Most of them have appeared on the local stage several times before in home talent plays. That the organization will be successful there is no doubt.

The County Fair

Last Saturday afternoon the board of control of the Sheboygan County Agricultural Association met at the City Hall. The report of the secretary showed that the 1912 fair gave the best financial returns of any in the history of the association. The net receipts were $2,000. This will pay for the improvements made this year which amount to about $1500 and other necessary expenses.

The most substantial improvement of the year was the erection of the stock judging pavillion made possible by the gift of the Sheboygan Railway and Electric Co., through the courtesy of Manager Gonzenbach, of the large grand stand at Lake View Park. The stock sheds which had been blown down were replaced by more substantial structures; the fence inclosing the track was repaired and much of it rebuilt.

At this meeting President Wheeler was tendered an amount of money for the immense quantity of work he has done for the fair, but he refused to accept it. He is loyal to the fair for his interest in its success and not for anything he might derive from it in a financial way, and for a genuine all-round county fair "booster" he has no equal.—Plymouth Reporter.

Hurt in Sausage Machine
Harry Read suffered a painful injury last Saturday afternoon in a sausage machine at the Peoples market. While making sausage Harry must have been of the opinion that the sausage machine needed more feeding so he started to feed a trifle faster. But unfortunately his fingers got too near the bottom of the machine and accidentally lost part of his two fingers on his right hand. The injury was dressed and the doctor reports that Harry will not be able to feed the machine again for some time. We extend our sympathy to Harry for such misfortune.—Oakfield Herald.

Will Have Separate Ballots

Voters in Wisconsin will be each given three ballots to vote at the November election, of different colors. A blue one will carry the names of the national candidates, a white one will carry the names of the state and local candidates, and such referendum measures as the legislature directed to be placed thereon, and a pink one will carry other referendum measures, including woman suffrage.

Mail Being Weighed
All out-going and incoming mail is being weighed and counted by the rural carriers. The period for this method will be two months and was commenced on October 1st. The mail must be weighed and counted in each different class.

Meeting of Medical Society

The Washington County Medical Society met in this city Thursday afternoon. They were entertained at a banquet at the Central Hotel, tendered by the local members, after which they met at Dr. Rockwell's office for the discussion of professional topics. Dr. Rockwell gave a talk on chemical diagnosis and demonstrated several chemical and microscopical examinations. This brought out a very free discussion which was participated in by all present.—Hartford Times.

LOSES BALL GAME SUNDAY

A Picked Team From This Village Meets Defeat at West Bend. Return Game Here Tomorrow, Sunday

A picked team from this village went to West Bend last Sunday and crossed bats with the Gehl Bros. team of that city at the Fair grounds and were defeated by the close score of 6 to 4. Olwin and Decker were on the mounds for the locals and kept their opponents at their mercy after the first inning, when the West Bend lads scored 4 runs. Manthie and Heise did the slab work for Gehl Bros. A return game will be played in Bilgo's grounds in this village tomorrow, Sunday. A good game is promised and ought to draw a large crowd. The game will be called at 2:30 P. M. sharp. Olwin and Decker will be the artists for the locals, while Manthie and Heise will oppose them.

NEW PROSPECT.

GEORGE ENGER

Head of Pocket Book Factory at West Bend Dies After an Illness of Six Months

George Enger, aged 52, head of the Enger-Kress Pocket Book Co., of West Bend, one of the largest manufacturing concerns of its kind in the United States, died Monday after an illness of over six months.

The plant was originally formed at North Milwaukee, but was removed to West Bend after the destruction of the plant at the former place twenty years ago. The establishment has since then grown to a position of importance in the world of commerce.

Mr. Enger, original organizer of the company, was for many years its representative on the road, but in late years has confined his activities to active management of the plant at West Bend.

Deceased is survived by his wife and one daughter.

The Bull Moose Ritual

The first regular organized lodge of the Cantankerous Order of Bull Moose held a meeting Monday night. The following is an extract from the secret work of the order and is vouched for by a man who had taken the degree and afterwards expelled for behaving himself during lodge:

FIRST DEGREE LECTURE.

Q.—Are you a Bull Moose?

A.—I am, try me.

Q.—How will you be tried?

A.—By the horns?

Q.—Why by the horns?

A.—Because they are an emblem of fight and working tools of my profession.

Q.—What is your profession?

A.—An angle of 90 degrees temperature and the 4th of a demijohn.

Q.—How do you know yourself to be a Bull Moose?

A.—By having kicked and willing to kick again.

Q.—How shall I know you to be a Bull Moose?

A.—By certain signs, cuss words, more cuss words and a token.

Q.—What are signs?

A.—Loud noises, facial contortions and the stomach-ache.

Q.—What is a token?

A.—A certain jolt under the ear that one friend gives another in the dark but seldom uses in the light.

Q.—Where were you prepared to be a Bull Moose?

A.—In a room adjacent to a republican convention.

Q.—How were you prepared?

A.—By being divested of all my senses; hoodwinked by T. R. and led before the populace to make a show of myself.

Q.—What was then done with you?

A.—Raising h-l in every convention and being kicked out of same.

Q.—What makes you a Bull Moose?

A.—My proclamation.

Q.—Repeat it.

A.—I, B. S. Shouter, do hereby hereon and hereafter, most sincerely promise and swear that I will always follow the commands of Bwana Tumbo through Erip, Irip, Orip, Europe and Stirrip; and I furthermore promise and swear that I will ignore standpatters, make friends with democrats and promise anything that will bring our glorious order into power, postoffices and patronage.

Q.—After the obligation what happened?

A.—I was kicked three times in the ribs by a brother member who said I wanted his job, after which I was presented with the balance of the working tools of my profession and taught their uses.

Q.—What are they?

A.—A hammer for perpetual use and a 21 pound sledge to be used at picnics and conventions.

Q.—What followed?

A.—The senior Wizard hit the Worshipful Mogul a bat in the eye for not entertaining a motion to adjourn and after calling each other thieves, knaves and rascals the lodge subsided into Friendship Morality and Truth, and went home vowing to kill each other at the next regular meeting.

Q.—When is the next regular meeting?

Q.—At the next republican convention.—Castana Times.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

ADELL CALHOUN, Editor

The local High School has reopened with an enrollment of forty-four.

At a meeting of the Senior class held Tuesday, the following officers were elected for the school year:

President—John Strachota, Vice-President—Laura Brandstetter, Secretary and Treasurer—Ralph Petri, Editor—Adell Calhoun.

If jokes here you find which are anything but new,

Let me suggest to you what you should do;

Just smile at the ridiculous and laugh at the wit,

For we've tried very hard and we've worked quite a bit,

The class of 1913 has a most illustrious name,

In fact it is known throughout the world in deeds of fame,

In the annals of high school pages fair

Is written our history in records most rare,

For where is our equal in athletics or knowledge?

You'll seek hard to find them in any great college.

We have many a writer who bids fair to be great,

With books full of learning crammed tight in his pate,

Society belles and singers of note,

And those who on bluffing most zealously dote,

Of dancers and fusers we have a choice lot,

Some who'er good looking and some who are not,

Carpenters, farmers and those who raise chickens,

Also those who spend most of their time raising the dickens,

Of course there is no end to the things we might say;

Of those who in brilliance excel brightest day

But suffice to say were "Seniors" indeed

To say more than that there is truly no need.

A freshie lay a-dreaming, Of distant lands so fair,

There every one contented was, There were no High Schools there

An algebra was quite unknown And also Physical geography,

Oh, that, indeed is the place to dwell.

From school cares always free, For there the freshie holds his own,

And leads a life of bliss, The lofty Seniors, sad to say,

He's scarcely apt to miss, The Juniors too, so knowing wise

Have no place there. Oh well, That was a land my friend,

Where only freshmen dwell, Alas, for joy that so soon fled,

The freshman's dream is o'er, And there his English grammar lay,

With sober style upon the floor,

MORAL.

Dear freshie striving upward climbing,

Be contented with your lot, The best there is, is yours to get,

These lines forget them not.

PROGRESSIVE PARTY TREASURER TELLS QUIZ BODY OF CAMPAIGN MONEY.

WILLIAM FLINN GAVE $102,000

Charles R. Crane of Chicago Contributes $70,000 to La Follette's Campaign and Same Amount to Wilson's Prior to Convention.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Giving an example of willing "publicity" such as the committee had not previously encountered in its delving into political war chests, the Progressive party laid bare its campaign fund accounts before the senate investigators Tuesday.

Elon H. Hooker, treasurer of the Progressive organization, and William Flinn, the Pittsburg leader of the Roosevelt forces, were the principal witnesses. The chief points in their testimony were as follows: That Charles R. Crane of Chicago contributed $70,000 to Senator La Follette's campaign fund and $70,000 to Governor Wilson's fund prior to the Baltimore convention, practically at the same time.

That the national expenses of the Roosevelt primary campaign preceding the Chicago convention aggregated $143,999.62, instead of the "millions" which Senator Penrose and others of the old guard charged was spent.

That George W. Perkins contributed $15,000 to the New York campaign and $22,500 to the national contest, and Frank A. Munsey about the same.

That Flinn personally contributed 90 per cent of the money for Colonel Roosevelt's primary campaign in Pennsylvania. He gave $102,000 to the fund, of which $28,000 was spent in Pittsburg.

That Flinn's total expenditures in organization work in the 1912 campaign have been $144,308.29.

Senator Penrose wanted to know when William Flinn of Pittsburg became a follower of Roosevelt, when Flinn continued his testimony before the senate campaign investigating committee. "When did you see the light?" asked the senator.

Mr. Flinn declared he had been active in Colonel Roosevelt's fight because he wanted to change conditions in Pennsylvania. While he sent an associate for a copy of the Progressive state platform, Mr. Flinn recited its chief planks as the results he wanted to get.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The late E. H. Harriman's former private secretary, C. C. Tegethoff, testified before the senate committee investigating campaign fund donations here Monday.

Mr. Tegethoff produced a series of papers from the Harriman estate files. The first was a receipt signed by C. N. Bliss as treasurer of the national Republican committee, dated 1904. It was for $50,000, which Mr. Tegethoff said was Mr. Harriman's contribution to the Republican campaign fund of 1904.

Then Mr. Tegethoff put in the record a series of letters in which President Roosevelt asked E. H. Harriman to visit him at the White House during the fall and winter of 1903. Letters continued up to May 17, when President Roosevelt wrote asking Harriman if he could "take lunch with me on Monday, May 23."

Eight Men Injured When Steam Chest on U. S. Vessel Explodes, Two of Whom Die Later.

Newport, Oct. 3.—Lieut. Donald P. Morrison was killed and eight men injured Tuesday, two of whom, Chief Machinist Master H. L. Wilder and J. W. Rumpf, died later on board the hospital ship Solace, by the explosion of the steam chest on the torpedo boat destroyer Walke.

The accident occurred at Brenton's reef lightship while the Walke was preparing for her second quarterly trial. Lieutenant Morrison entered the service from Missouri in 1902. The seriously injured were:

Lieut. Robert L. Montgomery of the destroyer Fanning, E. B. Crawford, gunner's mate of the destroyer Patterson, the umpires named to watch the tests, and the following members of the Walke's crew:

D. S. Kelly, chief machinist mate; J. Delaney, first-class fireman; W. E. Kraus, oiler, and F. B. Conway, oiler.

Lieutenant Morrison, the chief engineer officer on board, was instantly killed and the others were badly scalded.

NAME STATE TICKET

MICHIGAN PROGRESSIVES IN CONVENTION CHOOSE CANDIDATES.

University Man in Garb of Soldier of '76 Leads Chattering—Battdorf for State Secretary.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 3.—Enthusiasm pervaded the Michigan state convention of the National Progressive party in naming its first state ticket here.

During the afternoon session "Yell-master" Lloyd M. Otis of the University of Michigan, dressed as a soldier of '76, led the delegates in "raps" for the men prominent in the organization and leadership of the new party. The ticket named follows:

Secretary of state—Howard H. Battdorf, Battle Creek. State treasurer—Frank C. Holmes, Alpena.

Auditor general—Herbert F. Baker, Sheboygan. Attorney general—Julius P. Kirby, Saginaw.

Land commissioner—Oscar O. Linden, Escanaba. Justice of the supreme court—Edward H. Lyons, St. Johns (long term); Willard G. Turner, Muskegon (short term).

In their resolutions the Progressives vigorously denounced the Chicago Republican convention and repudiated its action; condemn the present primary law and pledges a state wide one; favor a presidential primary; favor the initiative, referendum and recall; condemn "the use of injunction by the courts for ulterior purposes," and declare for separation of the judiciary from politics.

W. H. Hill of Detroit was named as candidate for congressman at large.

TAKE BRIDEGROOM AS FORGER

New York Detectives Interfere With Elaborate Wedding Plans—Bride Has Hysterics.

New York, Oct. 1.—Preparations for an elaborate wedding, in which Louis Doushkes, president of the National Gas and Electric Fixture company, was to be formally joined to the wife he recently took in an aldermanic ceremony, were interrupted when detectives seized the bridegroom on a charge of having stolen $450 from his firm by means of forged checks. The arrest was made while Doushkes was with his wife at a florist's shop buying orange blossoms with the alleged stolen money.

Detectives marched Doushkes to the police station, where the bride became hysterical and fainted. She begged to be locked up with her husband, but her plea was denied.

TURKEY GETS AN ULTIMATUM

Autonomy for Macedonia Is Demanded and Unless Satisfactory Reply Is Received War Will Be Declared—Balkan Countries Make Ready.

London, Oct. 2.—War between Bulgaria and Serbia on the one side and Turkey on the other seems unavoidable, according to dispatches received here Monday from Sofia and from Athens. Proclamations have been issued by both the Bulgarian and Serbian governments calling for general mobilization of their armies, while Turkey is concentrating all available forces, 100,000 men, consisting of eleven divisions of the "Redifs" or reserves, in the vicinity of Adrianople and along the Bulgarian frontier.

Reports from Sofia indicate that crowds in the streets have grown to thousands, all demanding war at once, while Turkey troops ordered from Thrace into Albania have been ordered back to their stations, so that no reinforcements have been sent to Salonica, the Dardanelles or Smyrna for use against the Italians.

Here in London the Balkan situation is regarded as decidedly serious, only the lateness of the season and the efforts of the powers to keep the peace staving off immediate war.

London, Oct. 1.—Disquieting rumors are current respecting the Turko-Bulgarian situation. A Belgrade dispatch was received here to the effect that a joint Serbo-Bulgarian note has been sent to Turkey demanding autonomy for Macedonia and adding that unless a satisfactory reply is received war will be declared.

A convention between Greece, Montenegro, Serbia and Bulgaria for joint action against Turkey, according to the Sofia correspondent of the Times, is regarded as a fait accompli.

WRECK ENDS LIFE OF BRUCE-BROWN

Noted Auto Driver Killed on Milwaukee Track.

GOING 90 MILES AN HOUR

Tire Bursts, Hurling Machine and Occupants from the Road into a Field—Mechanic Receives Injuries That May Prove Fatal.

Milwaukee, Oct. 1.—David L. Bruce-Brown, a wealthy young New York sportsman, was killed, and his mechanic, Tony Scudalari, was fatally injured on the new Wauwatosa automobile road course on the eve of the eighth running of the Vanderbilt cup race.

Bruce-Brown was driving his high powered Fiat car at ninety miles an hour when a rear tire blew out. The men and machine were hurled diagonally across the road into a field with terrific force.

Bruce-Brown's skull was fractured, his left leg broken, and he suffered internal injuries. Surgeons said death resulted directly from hemorrhage of the brain. The top of Scudalari's skull was fractured, his right arm broken, and his body seriously torn.

Bruce-Brown died at Trinity hospital three hours after the accident. Surgeons had trephined his skull on both sides in an unavailing effort to save his life.

Caleb Bragg, Bruce-Brown's close friend; Ralph De Palma, Teddy Teitzel, and other well known drivers stood weeping in the hospital corridor as Bruce-Brown was wheeled from the operating room to a private ward.

Although only 25 years old, Bruce-Brown was one of the best known automobile race drivers in the country. He began racing in 1907, winning his novice race at the Empire City track. In 1908 he ran away from school and acted as mechanic for the late Emanuel Cedrino at Ormond Beach, Fla. There Bruce-Brown broke the one mile amateur record held by William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., the youngster's time being 33 3-5 seconds.

In 1910 he was obliged to turn professional in order to drive with fast company. In spite of the fact that he has made a great deal of money in racing he drove principally for sport.

Bruce-Brown was greatly interested in preparing for the Grand Prix race, the only event in which he was entered. He had won the American Grand Prix twice at Savannah, and he had hoped to win again this year, which would have made him permanent holder of the American Grand Prix cup.

FATHER HELD FOR MURDER

Body of Janesville Woman Discovered in Home With Face Brutally Mashed.

Janesville.—The body of Mathilda Bergsterman, aged 37, was found at her home by the police, who were notified that her father had reported that his daughter was dead.

The face and nose had evidently been smashed by a heavy weapon and a hammer was found outside the door. It is believed this was used to commit the deed. The woman had been kicked in the stomach and bled profusely and had been dead several hours when discovered.

The father, Fred Bergsterman, over 60 years of age, is a blacksmith, and said to be a hard drinker. The police have arrested him and it is believed he killed the girl while in a drunken frenzy. They had had frequent quarrels in the past few years.

Col. George W. Bird Dead. Madison.—Col. George W. Bird, aged 76, one of the best known democrats in Wisconsin, is dead of heart failure. He was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1860, served in the Civil war as second lieutenant in Co. D, Fortieth Wisconsin. Later he was superintendent of schools of Jefferson county and also secretary to the late governor William R. Taylor of Cottage Grove. For a number of years he practiced law in Madison, but retired from practice two years ago.

GOVERNOR FAVORS THE PROGRESSIVES

McGovern Gives Out Statement Making Known His Stand.

SCORES TAFT AND WILSON

Declares That Neither of Them Are Capable of Demanding Support of the Progressives—Says He Will Vote for Roosevelt.

Madison.—A statement issued by Gov. Francis E. McGovern, in which he announces his support of Col. Roosevelt for president, is in part as follows:

As the head of the Republican state ticket I feel that the people of Wisconsin are entitled to a plain statement concerning my attitude on national issues. The split in the Republican party which resulted in placing two national tickets in the field can no longer be ignored.

The paramount duty of the people of Wisconsin is to promote their own welfare. The first business of those who believe in the high civic ideals their state has espoused and exemplified in recent years is to conserve and still further advance what has been so well begun. The Progressive movement must not be checked or defeated here at home. Not in form merely but in substance and spirit it must go on. This is common ground upon which all good citizens should stand, whatever difference may tend to divide them upon other matters. But it is no reason why or through whose hands it should be self-satisfied and represent them in public station should now dodge vital national issues. It is from this viewpoint that I shall approach the consideration of the national problem, fully according to others the same freedom of choice I claim for myself.

To begin with I cannot advocate the re-election of Taft and Sherman. As a progressive Republican I find myself diametrically opposed to almost everything this ticket represents. President Taft's administration has accomplished some good things; but in the main its history is a record of political incompetence and retrogression. The composition of President Taft's cabinet as originally made up, his political warfare upon progressive members of Congress, in which party members were admittedly used as a club or a bribe, the Ballinger episode, the Charles R. Crane fiasco, the passage of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, the Winona speech endorsing this betrayal of party pledges, his dismissal of Gifford Pinchot from the public service, his interference in the politics of Wisconsin two years ago through the so-called "telephone convention" engineered by E. L. Philipp and W. D. Conner, his veto of the road, heavy tax and steel tariff bills, his advocacy of the Aldrich currency scheme, his political alliance with Senator Aldrich, Joe Cannon, Boss Barnes, and Senators Penrose, Murray, Crane, and Guggenheim, and finally his acceptance of a renomination in the very teeth of a nation-wide protest, make up a record for blundering subservience to selfish special interests, reactionary personal inclination and reckless defiance of the popular will which will mark the history of the presidential office. As a Republican I cannot support President Taft because within the brief period of a single term he has wrecked a great and historic political party. As a Progressive I cannot support him because he is utterly reactionary and grows more so every day. Let anyone who doubts this compare his speech of acceptance four years ago with the one he recently made at Washington. The boy, left alone for a few minutes while his mother went into the yard, secured a box of matches and, before she returned, he managed to swallow heads enough to make him ill. A physician was called but was unable to save the boy. This is the second death of the kind in this vicinity in a short time.

Bulletin to Protect Farmers. Madison.—Before the corn husking season begins in November, farmers of Wisconsin will receive a bulletin designed to save them the loss of arms, hands, fingers, etc., in the deadly corn husking or corn shredding machine. Under statutes of the last two legislatures the industrial commission is charged with the duty of enforcing the law which requires that corn shredders and corn huskers shall be guarded.

Spent $1,598,810 at "U." Madison.—Statistics compiled by members of the law faculty at the university show that $1,598,810 is the annual expenditure of the students attending the University of Wisconsin. The statistics founded on a close investigation brought out the fact that $594,417 is spent for board, $292,592 for room rent, $250,000 for clothing and furnishings and $462,800 for incidental expenses.

Engineer Has Close Call. Washburn—Edward McManus, engineer for the Hines Lumber company, miraculously escaped death when he crawled out of the window of the engine cab after the small locomotive had plunged bottom side up with five cars into a small lake near here.

Was Insured for $150,000. Janesville.—The body of Edward L. Dwyer, the New York broker who killed himself here, will be placed in a vault at Edgerton until his relatives can be communicated with. Mr. Dwyer had insurance aggregating $150,000.

Mangled in Sausage Machine. Beloit.—While working about a sausage grinding machine William Gundlock lost the fingers and part of one hand and came near having the entire hand ground off. The cords were pulled out half way up the arm.

Child Dies from Tongue Bite. Manitowoc.—Edward Japonka, aged 2 years, fell from a chair and bit off the tip of his tongue, bleeding to death from the injury.

Excitement Causes Death. Racine.—The excitement and physical strain of carrying the body of a man killed by a train near Union Grove caused the death of Robert Smith from heart trouble.

Gets $6,000 for Injuries. Milwaukee.—Richard Zimmerman was given a $6,000 verdict by a jury in his suit against the Schlitz Brewing company for injuries received in a fall from a scaffold.

Killed by Runaway. Viola.—When returning from a drive, Cleophas Papp's team became frightened and ran through the drive way of a barn, drawing out Mr. Papp, who struck the reach of a bolt sled. He died the next day.

Will Vote on Light Plant. Manitowoc.—At the general election on Nov. 5, Manitowoc will vote on the purchase of the electric light plant. Mayor Henry Stolze, socialist, is behind the movement.

Garage Fire Protection Rules. Madison.—State Fire Marshal T. M. Purcell has compiled a set of fire protection rules for automobile garages which he is sending to the fire chiefs.

Sluice Gates Again Closed. Neenah.—For the second time this year the sluice gates in the headwater dams on the lower Fox river, have been closed. The water in Lake Winnebago and the river is just even with the dam's crests.

Lace Hatpins. Little home-made lace medallions—Irish or German crocheted lace—will form very exquisite tops to silk-covered hatpins.

Of Black and Sapphire. A lovely afternoon gown which would prove an immensely valuable acquisition to the autumn wardrobe is of black meteorite patterned with bright sapphire blue and draped over a nylon skirt supplemented with embroidered flourishes, trimmed with bands and great flat bows of black satin.

Good Form in Dress. Few women know how to put on their clothes. This sounds like a very startling statement, but let us stop and think over the matter quietly.

Length of Skirts. Hems out! Several inches longer. Away with chopped ones. Two inches and two and a half is the proper height from the ground. The shoe top will now go into retirement. Skirts may be any wider. But they are longer—which helps some.

Handsome Blouse. The drawing pictures a handsome blouse of sand-colored cheep over taffeta in a slightly deeper shade. A cluster of small tufts on the shoulder contributes a slight fullness to the front and a vest of brown taffeta with upper part of sand-colored taffeta give an effective depth of tone to the color scheme. There are tiny revers of colored shadow lace. Turning back from either side of the vest opening is a length of brown lace edging. Worn with a handsome brown tailor-made, its waist would be most effective.

Odd Material and Design. Gown of Moonlight Blue Satin Something of a Novelty in Sartorial Affairs. A beautiful gown for a recent occasion was made in a shade of moonlight blue satin of the softest consistency, known as peau de suede. The gown opened over a petticoat of the mousseline de sole, while one side of the corsage was likewise of the filmy fabric relieved with trimmings of dull gold.

Wing Ornaments. Wings, large and small (but mostly small), have been made for late summer and early fall millinery and the manufacturer has considered their mounting in nearly every case. The base of the wing is set in a little dish of feathers or a raised band or some other device that will adjust itself to the brim or crown of shapes. This is sewed to the hat and the wings spring from it at all sorts of odd angles and in many novel positions.

Sluice Gates Again Closed. Neenah.—For the second time this year the sluice gates in the headwater dams on the lower Fox river, have been closed. The water in Lake Winnebago and the river is just even with the dam's crests.

Gets $6,000 for Injuries. Milwaukee.—Richard Zimmerman was given a $6,000 verdict by a jury in his suit against the Schlitz Brewing company for injuries received in a fall from a scaffold.

Lace Hatpins. Little home-made lace medallions—Irish or German crocheted lace—will form very exquisite tops to silk-covered hatpins.

Of Black and Sapphire. A lovely afternoon gown which would prove an immensely valuable acquisition to the autumn wardrobe is of black meteorite patterned with bright sapphire blue and draped over a nylon skirt supplemented with embroidered flourishes, trimmed with bands and great flat bows of black satin.

Good Form in Dress. Few women know how to put on their clothes. This sounds like a very startling statement, but let us stop and think over the matter quietly.

Length of Skirts. Hems out! Several inches longer. Away with chopped ones. Two inches and two and a half is the proper height from the ground. The shoe top will now go into retirement. Skirts may be any wider. But they are longer—which helps some.

Handsome Blouse. The drawing pictures a handsome blouse of sand-colored cheep over taffeta in a slightly deeper shade. A cluster of small tufts on the shoulder contributes a slight fullness to the front and a vest of brown taffeta with upper part of sand-colored taffeta give an effective depth of tone to the color scheme. There are tiny revers of colored shadow lace. Turning back from either side of the vest opening is a length of brown lace edging. Worn with a handsome brown tailor-made, its waist would be most effective.

Odd Material and Design. Gown of Moonlight Blue Satin Something of a Novelty in Sartorial Affairs. A beautiful gown for a recent occasion was made in a shade of moonlight blue satin of the softest consistency, known as peau de suede. The gown opened over a petticoat of the mousseline de sole, while one side of the corsage was likewise of the filmy fabric relieved with trimmings of dull gold.

Wing Ornaments. Wings, large and small (but mostly small), have been made for late summer and early fall millinery and the manufacturer has considered their mounting in nearly every case. The base of the wing is set in a little dish of feathers or a raised band or some other device that will adjust itself to the brim or crown of shapes. This is sewed to the hat and the wings spring from it at all sorts of odd angles and in many novel positions.

MOCK LYNCHING WINS CONFESSION

Black Subject Admits Theft as "Mob" Adjusts Noose.

LEADS CAPTORS TO BOOTY

Sheriff Stahl's "Mob" of Farmers "Storm" Kenosha County Jail as Part of New Third Degree Test After a Plea of Not Guilty.

Kenosha.—A mock lynching staged by Sheriff Andrew F. Stahl of Kenosha county was productive of a confession near here from a negro accused of grand larceny. The "mob" was organized by Sheriff Stahl in a realistic manner. The negro was overpowered and apparently about to be strangled when he broke down and confessed.

Wiley Davie of Kansas City was the negro. He confessed that he had stolen a gun valued at $60. Sheriff Stahl directed one of his deputies to go out and get farmers together and have them stop at a farmhouse between the village of Salem and Kenosha.

"You know the people in this section don't like negroes," said the sheriff, just before he reached the place where the "mob" was waiting and he detailed to the prisoner the gruesome story of how one negro had been lynched in the county.

The negro declined to confess and one of the men ran to a barn nearby and brought out a rope. In a second the hooting men had thrown the noose about the neck of the negro and were taking him off to a woodland.

Then Davie changed his mind and calling the sheriff he declared that he was ready to confess. Stahl and his deputies waded back the mob and the negro led the sheriff to a swamp and dug the gun out from under the leaves where he had buried it.

Lawrence Gets $135,000. Last $100 of Needed $50,000 Subscription to Win Pledge Raised at Eleventh Hour.

Appleton.—President Samuel Plantz of Lawrence college announces that the endowment will be increased $135,000, as the result of a conditional gift of $50,000, offered in June, 1911, and a campaign conducted for 15 months.

At the meeting of the trustees of the institution in June, 1911, an offer of $50,000 was made from an unnamed source if like amount was raised by subscription by October 1, 1912. A collection was taken for the fund in every Methodist church in the state last spring and the fund gradually grew. At the recent conference in Milwaukee, the original donor promised an additional $25,000 for the chair of economics and E. B. Garton, of Sheboygan, offered $10,000 for the chair of missions if the $5,000 was raised. The last $100 was received Sept. 30.

Badger Taft Men Organize. Wisconsin Republicans Hold Conference—Plan Campaign to Carry State for President.

Madison.—The republican situation in Wisconsin was thoroughly canvassed at a conference of prominent Wisconsin republicans held at the headquarters of the republican national committee in Chicago.

Director Mulvane and Joseph B. Kealing, head of the organization bureau, met a delegation numbering more than twenty well known Wisconsin politicians, including E. L. Philipp of Milwaukee, W. H. Bragan of Oshkosh, F. L. Gilbert, H. H. Morgan and H. L. Ledvina of Madison. It was decided to form a Taft organization in Wisconsin to assist in the election of President Taft, an understanding having been reached whereby if the state goes republican all the electors will vote in the electoral college for Mr. Taft.

Capital Stock Doubled. Waukesha.—At a meeting of the R. L. Kenyon company stockholders the capital stock was doubled. It is now $200,000. Of this, $25,000 will be subscribed, and $75,000 will be held as treasury stock. The following officers were re-elected: President, R. L. Kenyon; vice president, G. A. Noetzel; secretary, G. W. Thompson; treasurer, R. P. Breese.

Woman Prisoner Suicides. Milwaukee.—Mrs. Lena Summerfield, a widow, aged 46, committed suicide in jail by swallowing bichloride of mercury tablets.

Horse Proves Good Investment. Janesville.—John Huginlin, who bought the 4-year-old horse, Six-Cylinder Penn, for $200 at auction last spring, has been offered $5,000 for the animal since its recent performance at the state fair races.

Excitement Causes Death. Racine.—The excitement and physical strain of carrying the body of a man killed by a train near Union Grove caused the death of Robert Smith from heart trouble.

Gets $6,000 for Injuries. Milwaukee.—Richard Zimmerman was given a $6,000 verdict by a jury in his suit against the Schlitz Brewing company for injuries received in a fall from a scaffold.

Killed by Runaway. Viola.—When returning from a drive, Cleophas Papp's team became frightened and ran through the drive way of a barn, drawing out Mr. Papp, who struck the reach of a bolt sled. He died the next day.

Will Vote on Light Plant. Manitowoc.—At the general election on Nov. 5, Manitowoc will vote on the purchase of the electric light plant. Mayor Henry Stolze, socialist, is behind the movement.

MARK EARLY CAPITOL SITE

Governor and Other Leading Men Will Take Part in Exercises in Memory of Old Building.

Madison.—The site of Wisconsin territorial capitol at Belmont will be dedicated by a fitting landmark on October 7, when Mrs. Jessie R. Skinner of Madison, chairman of the landmark committee of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's clubs, will present the monument to the state. For the last ten years the old capitol building has been resting a few rods from the site where it stood when the territory now comprising Wisconsin was first organized. The building itself has been used as a pigsty for the last five years or more. Following the presentation of the monument to the state by Mrs. Skinner on Oct. 7, a speech of acceptance will be made by either Gov. McGovern or his private secretary, Col. Duncan McGregor. Addresses will be made by Judge Robert G. Stebecker, representing the supreme court of Wisconsin, by Dr. Reuben G. Thwaites, secretary of the State Historical society, and by Mrs. William G. Crosby, president of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's clubs. A large number of Madison clubwomen expect to attend the ceremonies. The monument is of Wisconsin mahogany granite.

Bishop's Death Mask Made. Cast from Features of Late Fond du Lac Prelate to Be Used as Model for Crypt.

Fond du Lac.—A cast from the death mask made of Bishop Grafton, has been successfully struck. The model represents an accurate impression of the prelate's features, showing the strong lines of his countenance, and the impressive forehead.

The cast shows the bishop to have wasted considerably because of his long illness and confinement. Like in death the face appears thin and the lines more sharply drawn than they were when the bishop was in health.

Just what will be done with the cast is not known, however, it is likely to be used as a model for the crypt which is to be placed in St. Paul's cathedral a year hence. The plan, it is said, is to fashion the cover of the crypt into a recumbent statue of the dead prelate.

Urge School Law Change. Public Affairs Board Wants Unsalariated County Boards—Would Empower Body to Guide Work.

Madison.—The election of unsalaried county boards of education and the appointment by such boards of the county superintendent, is favored in an announcement issued by the state board of public affairs. After a close examination of the rural schools for the past six months by a competent force of experienced schoolmen, the board has prepared a series of suggested administrative and legislative measures.

These recommendations have been submitted at various times to Wisconsin schoolmen, school officials and have called forth hearty approval.

County boards of education should be elected by the direct vote of men and women at the spring election, says the announcement. The board would consist of three members. The terms of office would be six years. To provide for the stable character of the board it is suggested that one member be elected every two years. The first board would choose by lot which of its members should serve for two, four and six years respectively. This board would serve without salary.

Among the most important duties of this county board of education would be the appointment of the county superintendent from an approved list made up by the state civil service commission. Among its other powers would be to exercise a general control over the county schools of agriculture and the county training schools for teachers; to pass upon the centralization of school districts, to advise the superintendent to withhold state aid from small and inefficient schools whenever in its judgment the facts warranted it and to appoint an assistant to the county superintendent whenever the number of teachers in the district exceed one hundred.

Strengthen Portage Levees. Portage.—Contractor J. A. Orton of Briggsville and his crews of men have started repairing the Caledonia levee north of this city. Davis & Davis are at work on the government levee south of the city.

Garage Fire Protection Rules. Madison.—State Fire Marshal T. M. Purcell has compiled a set of fire protection rules for automobile garages which he is sending to the fire chiefs.

SYNOPSIS.

Lieut. Harry Mallory is ordered to the Philippines. He and Marjorie Newton decide to elope, but wreck of taxicab prevents their seeing minister on the way to the train. Transcontinental train is taking on passengers. Porter tosses a lively time with an Englishman and Ira Lathrop, a Yankee business man. The sleepers have an exciting time getting to the train. "Little Jimmie" Wellington, bound for Reno to get a divorce, boards train in maudlin condition. Later Mrs. Jimmie appears. She is also bound for Reno with same object. Likewise Mrs. Sunny Whitecomb. Latter blames Mrs. Jimmie for her marital troubles. Classmates of Mallory decorate bridal berth. Rev. and Mrs. Temple start on a vacation. They decide to cut loose and Temple removes evidence of his calling. Marjorie decides to let Mallory proceed alone, but train starts while they are lost in farewell. Passengers join Mallory's classmates in giving couple wedding banns. Marjorie is distracted. Ira Lathrop, a fellow passenger, discovers an unrecognition hunt for a preacher. Dr. Temple poses as a physician. Mrs. Temple is induced by Mrs. Wellington to smoke a cigar. Sight of preacher on station platform raises Mallory's hopes, but he takes another train. Missing hand baggage compels the couple to borrow from passengers. Jimmie gets a cinder in his eye and Mrs. Jimmie gives first aid. Coolness is then resumed. Bill Bergman, Mrs. Temple's brother, is puzzled by behavior of different couples. Marjorie's jealousy aroused by Mallory's baseball jargon wreck a train, a minister comes, we nab him, he marries us, and—there we are! Everything's lovely!

CHAPTER XXV.

The Train Wrecker.
The train-butcher, entering the Observation Room, found only a loving couple. He took in at a glance their desire for solitude. A large part of his business was the forcing of wares on people who did not want them. His voice and his method suggested the mosquito. Seeing Mallory and Marjorie mutually absorbed in reading each other's eyes, and evidently in need of nothing on earth less than something else to read, the train-butcher decided that his best plan of attack was to make himself a nuisance. It is a plan successfully adopted by organ-grinders, street pianists and other blackmailers under the guise of art, who have nothing so welcome to sell as their absence.

Mallory and Marjorie heard the train-boy's hum, but they tried to ignore it.
"Papers, gents and ladies? Yes? No? Paris fashions, lady?"
He shoved a large periodical between their very noses, but Marjorie threw it on the floor, with a bitter glance at her own borrowed plumage.
"Don't show me any Paris fashions!" Then she gave the boy his conge by resuming her chat with Mallory: "How long do we stop at Ogden?"
The train-boy went right on auctioning his papers and magazines, and poking them into the laps of his prey. And they went right on talking to one another and pushing his papers and magazines to the floor.
"I think I'd better get off at Ogden, and take the next train back. That's just what I'll do. Nothing, thank you!" this last to the train-boy.
"But you can't leave me like this," Mallory urged excitedly, with a side glance of "No, no!" to the train-boy.
"I can, and I must, and I will," Marjorie insisted. "I'll go pack my things now."
"But, Marjorie, listen to me."
"Will you let me alone?" This to the giddy, but to Mallory a dejected wall: "I—just remembered. I haven't anything to pack."
"And you'll have to give back that waist to Mrs. Temple. You can't get off at Ogden without a waist."
"I'll go anyway. I want to get home."
"Marjorie, if you talk that way—I'll throw you off the train!"
She gasped. He explained: "I wasn't talking to you; I was trying to stop this phonograph." Then he rose, and laid violent hands on the annoy, shoved him to the corridor, seized his bundle of papers from his arm, and hurried them to his head. They fell in a shower about the train-butcher, who could only feel a certain respect for the one man who had ever treated him as he knew he deserved. He bent to pick up his scattered merchandise, and when he had gathered his stock together, put his head in, and sang out a sincere:
"Excuse me."
But Mallory did not hear him, he was excitedly trying to calm the excited girl, who, having eloped with him, was preparing now to elope back without him.
"Darling, you can't desert me now," he pleaded, "and leave me to go on alone."
"Well, why don't you do something?" she retorted, in equal desperation. "If I were a man, and I had the girl I loved on a train, I'd get her married if I had to wreck the train—she caught her breath, paused a second in intense thought, and then with sudden radiance, cried:
"Harry, dear!"
"Yes, love!"
"I have an idea—an inspiration!"
"Yes, pet," rather dubiously from him, but with absolute exultation from her: "Let's wreck the train!"
"I don't follow you, sweetheart."
"Don't you see?" she began excitedly. "When there are train wrecks a lot of people get killed, and things. A minister always turns up to administer the last something or other—"

"Well, stupid, don't you see? We wreck a train, a minister comes, we nab him, he marries us, and—there we are! Everything's lovely!"
He gave her one of those looks with which a man usually greets what a woman calls an inspiration. He did not honor her invention with an assent. He simply put forward an objection to it, and, man-like, chose the most hateful of all objections:
"It's a lovely idea, but the wreck would delay us for hours and hours, and I'd miss my transport—"
"Harry Mallory, if you mention that odious transport to me again, I know I'll have hydrophobia. I'm going home."
"But, darling," he pleaded, "you can't desert me now, and leave me to go on alone?" She had her answer glib:
"Oh, I just wanted to do a little shopping there."
"Shopping! While the train waits! Excuse me!"
"What's a career to a man who truly loves?"
"It's just as much as it is to anybody else—and more."
She could hardly controvert this gracefully, so she sank back with grim resignation. "Well, I've proposed my plan, and you don't like it. Ages seemed to pass, and Mallory had not even a suggestion. By this time Marjorie's temper had evaporated, and when he said: "If we could only stop at some town for half an hour," she said: "Maybe the conductor would hold the train for us."
"I hardly think he would."
"He looks like an awfully nice man. You ask him."
"Oh, what's the use?"
Marjorie was getting tired of depending on this charming young man with the very bad luck. She decided to assume command herself. She took recourse naturally to the original feminine methods: "I'll take care of him," she said, with resolution. "A woman can get a man to do almost anything if she flirts a little with him."
"Marjorie!"
"Now, don't you mind anything I do. Remember, it's all for love of you—even if I have to kiss him."
"Marjorie, I won't permit—"
"You have no right to boss me—yet. You subside." She gave him the merest touch, but he fell backward into a chair, utterly aghast at the shameless siren into which desperation had altered the timid little thing he thought he had chosen to love. He was being rapidly initiated into the complex and versatile and fearfully wonderful thing a woman really is, and he was saying to himself, "What have I married?" forgetting, for the moment, that he had not married her yet, and that therein lay the whole trouble.

MARJORIE ASKS THE CONDUCTOR TO HOLD THE TRAIN SO SHE CAN SHOP.

CHAPTER XXVI.
Delilah and the Conductor.
Like the best of women and the worst of men, Marjorie was perfectly willing to do evil, that good might come of it. She advanced on the innocent conductor, as the lady from Sorek must have sidled up to Samson, coquetting with one arch hand and snipping the shears with the other.
The stupefied Mallory saw Marjorie in a startling imitation of herself at her sweetest; only now it was brazen mimicry, yet how like! She went forward as the shyest young thing in the world, pursed her lips into an ecstatic simper, and began on the unsuspecting official:
"Isn't the country perfectly—"
"Yes, but I'm getting used to it," the conductor growled, without looking up.
His curt indifference jolted Marjorie a trifle, but she rallied her forces, and came back with: "How long do we stop at Ogden?"
"Five minutes," very bluntly.
Marjorie poured maple syrup on her tone, as she purred: "This train of yours is an awfully fast train, isn't it?"
"Sort of," said the conductor, with just a trace of thaw. What followed made him hold his breath, for the outrageous little husky was actually saying: "The company must have a great deal of confidence in you to entrust the lives and welfare of so many people to your presence at mid and courage."

"Well, of course, I can't say as to that—" Even Mallory could see that the man's reserve was melting fast as Marjorie went on with relentless treacle:
"Talk about soldiers and firemen and life-savers! I think it takes a braver man than any of those to be a conductor—really."
"Well, it is a kind of a responsible job." The conductor swelled his chest a little at that, and Marjorie felt that he was already hers. She hammered the weak spot in his armor:
"Responsible! I should say it is. Mr. Mallory is a soldier, but soldiers are such ferocious, destructive people, while conductors save lives, and—if I were only a man I think it would be my greatest ambition to be a conductor—especially on an overland express."
The conductor told the truth when he confessed: "Well, I never heard it put just that way." Then he spoke with a little more pride, hoping to increase the impression he felt he was making: "The main thing, of course, is to get my train through on time! This was a fencer. He was going to get his train through on time just to oblige Marjorie. She stammered: "I don't suppose the train, by any accident, would be delayed in leaving Ogden?"
"Not if I can help it," the hero averred, to reassure her.
"I wish it would," Marjorie murmured.
The conductor looked at her in surprise: "Why, what's it to you?" She turned her eyes on him at full candle power, and smiled:
"You see," Marjorie fluttered, "by a sad mistake, my baggage isn't on the train. And I haven't any—any—I really need to buy some—some things very badly. It's awfully embarrassing to be without them."
"I can imagine," the conductor mumbled. "Why don't you and your husband drop off and take the next train?"
"My husband—Mr. Mallory has to be in San Francisco by tomorrow night. He just has to!"
"So have I."
"But to oblige me? To save me from distress—don't you think you could?" Like a sweet little child she twisted one of the brass buttons on his coat sleeve, and wheedled: "Don't you think you might hold the train just a little tiny half hour?"
He was sorry, but he didn't see how he could. Then she took his breath away again, by asking, out of the blue: "Are you married?"
He was as awkward as if she had proposed to him, she answered for him: "Oh, but of course you are. The women wouldn't let a big, handsome, noble brave giant like you escape long." He mopped his brow in agony as she went on: "I'm sure you're a very chivalrous man. I'm sure you would give your life to rescue a maiden in distress. Well, here's your chance. Won't you please hold the train?"
She actually had her cheek almost against his shoulder, though she had to poise atopoe to reach him. Mallory's dismay was changing to a boiling rage, and the conductor was

NOTES from MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Clover silage is excellent.
Never whip a shying horse.
Keep all young stock growing.
Making baby beef is a high feeding art.
Clean coops mean healthy, profitable chicks.
Young turkeys and dampness do not get along together.
Any soil that turns blue litmus paper pink needs lime.
If you haven't a hog house, prepare to build one next fall.
Experts say that topping corn materially reduces the yield.
Plenty of good loose dirt should be allowed the molting hens.
The manners of the horse usually reveal the temper of his owner.
Turkeys need a wide range. They do not do well confined to yards.
Every day you keep the lambs after they are big enough to go is a loss.
Caponizing is another job the farmer neglects—and thereby loses money.
Water the horse before you give him hay. Hay before grain, concentrates last.
Good feed will put life into a horse a hundred times better than an 8-foot whip.
Pasture and exercise develops a strong frame in all kinds of young stock.
Rye may be sown in the fall and used as a late fall and early spring pasture.
Stubble that cannot be stirred this fall should be disked to conserve the moisture.
Don't be in any hurry about weaning the heifers you will add to the dairy herd.
It is well to remember that ducks need plenty of cool shade during the hot months.
Live stock furnishes manure and converts forage crops into marketable products.
The green straw pile is not infrequently the sign of a green hand managing the separator.
Keep up the supply of oyster shell. The lime in it is an essential article in the production of eggs.
It pays to grade melons, and it pays to market them in the large baskets now growing in popularity.
No land is so rich that its owner can afford to waste the manure that is made by his farm stock.
In this hunt for the profit dollar, keep an eye on the combination of ensilage and clover or alfalfa hay.
The foundation for a silo made of concrete and properly reinforced need not be more than twelve inches thick.
A half-blood Holstein cow bred to a registered Holstein bull will produce a three-quarters Holstein, normal.
Sheep must play an important part in the restoration of fertility to the worn-out grain-raising areas of the country.
Rotation of crops is one of the simple, practical methods of increasing the productivity of the farm and distributing labor.
Illinois milk producers found they had to organize to get living prices for their product. This is needed in all lines of farming.
The most profitable way of marketing grain and fodder is through stock. They produce manure, which is very necessary to the soil.
As a rule, sons of great producing cows are more liable to beget large producing daughters than are great producing cows themselves.
The cow that comes in fresh next month is just about the most profitable one of the whole year and dairymen are beginning to find it out.
A common error of the experienced feeder is failure to provide good shelter. Lambs can not make good gains with wet feet, or soggy fleeces.
It is advisable to place a box of grit or coarse sand where the turkeys can find it, as not all farms have sufficient quantity for the purpose of good digestion.
The failures in poultry culture are no more common than any other commercial activities, and are usually traceable to a want of proper knowledge of its requirements.
Be sure that the roosting quarters are well ventilated at this time of the year. Pure air is free and inexpensive and will enter every nook and corner of the poultry house, if it is permitted. It is one of the very essential things. Close, stuffy quarters are very injurious.
The Whole Bunch.
"Sir, I wish to marry your daughter."
"Are you making enough to support a family?"
"Why—er—certainly, if there should happen to be a family."
"Then, take us, my boy, and be happy."
One Acre for Each Inhabitant.
If the land of England and Wales were equally divided, there would be a little more than an acre for each person.

Caponizing is profitable.
Range for the chicks is best.
Sheep must have some shelter.
Separate the pullets and cockerels.
Good feed, good care, good breed, good stock.
Some cows are better bred than their owners.
Do not put the colts in a pasture fenced by barbed wire.
Do you have a lot of young roosters? Sell them for fry.
It's a mighty easy matter to overcrowd the chick coops now.
It may be wise to protect the colts from the flies during the day.
You cannot fatten your cattle while ticks are sucking their blood.
Hill culture produces earlier strawberries than matted row culture.
Unless a man has a great love for a horse he should not handle colts.
A sheep or calf staked in the front yard is a splendid lawn mower.
Warm skim milk for feeding purposes soon pays the cost of a farm separator.
Most of the fly dopes are fairly good but for results they have to be applied every day.
Sheep have just as important a place upon the average farm as any other live stock.
Drink is all right for the hogs, but they need some grain and vegetables to go with their milk.
There is plenty of farm talk in the air, but it is farm work that counts in the bank balance.
A good plan is to make the lots long and narrow and row them to pasture, plowing up alternately.
Remember, chick coops are very apt to become foul and unhealthy while the weather is so sultry.
It will only take about half as much grain and other feed to raise a litter of pigs if they be given pasture.
There is nothing about green fodder that would have a depressing influence upon the milk flow of the cow.
There are about a dozen different breeds of dairy cattle and the best of them all is the kind that suits you best.
The best flavored butter is obtained by ripening or souring cream until from 5 to 6 per cent. of acid has been developed.
Roughness cannot be made to entirely take the place of grain, but a heavy crop of roughness is not to be despised.
Ground limestone is preferable to burnt lime unless two tons of the former cost considerably more than one ton of the latter.
There are very few farms on which additional labor expended in preparing the seed bed would not yield handsome returns.
A wide range and frequent exchange of pasture will reduce the ravages of the stomach worm, that fearful enemy of the sheep.
An enterprising farmer living near a town of 5,000 or more can sell every pound of his butter at full retail prices or little above the year round.
The man who is trying to raise hogs without pasture and forage crops is like a puppy chasing his tail. He gets plenty of exercise, but nothing else.
Sore shoulders on a horse are nothing less than shameful and no man should consider himself worthy who permits them to appear upon his work animals.
If horses are inclined to nab at each other between the stalls, put up some tight wire as a partition. They can see through this all right and still not reach each other.
The first incubators used in the United States were tested in 1875. Now thousands are in use in every state in the Union and wonderful progress has been made. In fact, without the use of incubators and brooders, the big commercial plants of today would be impossible.
No Sailor.
One of the characteristics of the Cape Cod native is the habit of understatement, according to R. H. Schaunier in the Metropolitan Magazine, and for an example he gives the answer of an old "accommodation" driver in Provincetown who was asked if he had ever been a sailor.
"No," he said, "No, I never followed the sea none to speak of. Oh, when I was young I done some fishin'; I went on a few whalin' voyages—perhaps a matter o' eighteen year in all; but I wouldn't say I'd ever done much fishin'."
Always a Way.
In a public washroom, where there were towels a plenty, if anybody wanted to use that kind, Tip saw a man who had been washing his face in cold water take his immaculately clean, very fresh-looking shirt sleeves, as he could with the cuff buttons, flaps unfastened, and slowly mop his dripping face till it was dry, so there's always a way.—New York Press

The KITCHEN CABINET

WE SOW the globe, we reap the corn.
We build the house where we may rest; And then, at moments, suddenly, We look up to the great wide sky, Inquiring wherefore we were born— For earnest or for jest?
—E. B. Browning.

DAINTY DISH FROM LITTLE BITS.
When a large amount of bread has been sliced, do not allow it to dry out, but pack in a jar and cover with a cloth wrung quite dry out of hot water, then place a plate over them and the bread will keep fresh. Sandwiches may be made and served at luncheon or supper and are always a welcome addition to the meal.
If you have a bit of boiled frosting left, add a few nuts and chopped raisins and drop on wafer. Bake in a hot oven until brown. These are nice with a salad.
Fondant left from French candies will keep indefinitely if kept in a covered dish, and may be melted over water and used for cake icing.
A few tablespoonsful of preserves may be used as a garnish for fruit salad, like pear or apple. Or it may be used as a filling for tarts, having more than one kind to use up odd bits.
A custard or chocolate ice cream may be used as a sauce for pudding if used within a short time.
Dainty pies may be made from left-over pie crust in the form of turnovers, of which children are very fond, or baked in gem pans and made like a grown-up pie.
Take your condescending friend a baked apple prepared thus: Wash and wipe the apple but do not peel, scoop out the core with an apple corer, beginning at the blossom end but do not make a hole way through for the small well is to hold a bit of butter, a tablespoonful of sugar and a grating of nutmeg or a bit of lemon peel. Surround with water if the apples are not juicy, and bake until thoroughly tender. Apples that do not keep their shape during baking are not so attractive baked in this manner.
Left-over icing or fondant, when making candy, the scrapings of the bowls, can be used to stuff dates.

SAVORY FISH.
Any fresh or salt codfish may be served in a chowder, making a very acceptable dish. If salt fish is used, soak and shred it, then add to the chowder the last few moments of its cooking. Fry a piece of salt pork cut in dice, a slice or two will be sufficient for a family of four or five. Fry a golden brown, add a sliced onion of two and a half dozen of sliced potatoes; just cover with water and cook until the vegetables are tender, then add the shredded fish (a half pound is sufficient), a quart of milk and half a dozen milk crackers which have been scalded in boiling water. Serve a cracker in each dish of soup.
Flaked Crab Meat Fricassee.—Cook one small green pepper, finely chopped, two small onions, four tablespoonsful of butter slightly browned, one and a half cupsful of crab meat, and cook five minutes. Add five tablespoonsful of flour and when well mixed pour on a cup and a half of chicken stock. Season with two tablespoonsful of orange juice, two of lemon juice, a half teaspoonful of paprika, salt and pepper to taste. Just before serving add a third of a cup of heavy cream and the yolks of two eggs diluted with two tablespoonsful of cream.
Savory Fish.—Cut a two-inch cube of fat salt pork into dice and fry out. To three tablespoonsful of salt pork fat add the same amount of flour and stir until well blended; fry add a cup and a half of milk; boil and add a cup of flaked halibut or haddock, three-fourths of a cup of potato cubes which have been cooked, then the pork cubes and the yolks of two eggs. Season to taste.
Oyster Fricassee.—To a cup of oysters, reserve the liquor, and heat boiling hot; add the oysters, and when plump remove, add enough cream to make a cupful, thicken with butter and flour blended, add an egg well beaten and pour all over well buttered toast. Sprinkle with finely chopped celery.

Siberian Land Threatened.
Extensive tracts of land in Siberia are threatened by the encroachment of the great Gobi desert, and a plan has now been drawn up for a series of forest ramparts to hold back the salt and drift. The only effective defense, according to the report of agronomists sent to survey the region is in tree belts at least two miles broad. It is proposed to plant one of these from Samara to the Caspian sea, while others are recommended extending in intervals of about 40 miles right up to the Chinese frontier.

BACKACHE A SIGNAL OF DISTRESS

Pain in the back is the kidney's signal of distress. If this timely warning is ignored, there is grave danger of uric acid, gravel, uric poisoning, or Bright's disease.
When you have reason to suspect your kidneys, use a special kidney medicine.
Doan's Kidney Pills regulate the urine. Good proof in the following statement.

HARD TO SEE.
Even When the Facts About Coffee are Plain.
It is curious how people will refuse to believe what one can clearly see. Tell the average man or woman that the slow but cumulative poisonous effect of caffeine—the alkaloid in tea and coffee—tends to weaken the heart, upset the nervous system and cause indigestion, and they may laugh at you if they don't know the facts.
Prove it by science or by practical demonstration in the recovery of coffee drinkers from the above conditions, and a large per cent of the human family will shrug their shoulders, take some drugs and—keep on drinking coffee or tea.
"Coffee never agreed with me nor with several members of our household," writes a lady. "It enervates, depresses and creates a feeling of languor and heaviness. It was only by leaving off coffee and using Postum that we discovered the cause and way out of these ills."
"The only reason, I am sure, why Postum is not used altogether to the exclusion of ordinary coffee is, many persons do not know and do not seem willing to learn the facts and how to prepare this nutritious beverage. There's only one way—according to directions—boil it fully 15 minutes. Then it is delicious." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. AN EVENING OF PLEASURE

At the theatre or party is more complete pleasure when, upon reaching home, you enjoy together, a glass or two of

LITHIA BEER.

And it is much more than passing pleasure you derive from it. It exerts a needed soothing, quieting effect upon the nerves, following the excitement of the evening that fits one for a night of sound, refreshing sleep. If there were less coffee and more Lithia beer drank between the hours of 6 p. m. and midnight there would be much less insomnia.

Pies of Many Kinds

Several varieties of pies, some of them not frequently met with, are recommended for change by Clara Kelly in Farm and Home. They are made according to the following recipes:

Transparent Pie.

To 1 cup butter add 2 cups sugar, 1 pt. sweet cream, 1/2 teaspoon lemon extract, 6 eggs, whites and yolks beaten separately. Bake very slowly. Enough for two large pies. Should be baked with one crust.

Cocoanut Pie.

Dissolve 2 tablespoons corn starch in one pt. milk, add 1/2 cup sugar, 1 beaten egg, 1/2 cup shredded cocoanut, and 1 cup more of milk. Cook until thick and pour into baked crust. Spread with meringue.

Vinegar Pie.

Line a pie tin with pastry and fill with this mixture: To 1 cup sugar and 2 heaping teaspoons flour sifted together, add 1 teaspoon butter, 1/2 cup vinegar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 2 cups water. Boil all together until thick, then pour in pie tin. Bake with one crust.

Lemon Pie.

Juice and grated rind of 1 lemon, 1 tablespoon corn starch, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, piece butter size of egg. Dissolve corn starch in a little cold water, then pour on it the cup of boiling water, stirring starch all the time; add sugar and butter and stir well when cool; add the well beaten eggs, then the lemon, when it is ready to put in the crust.

Chocolate Pie.

To 3 tablespoons grated chocolate, add 1 scant cup sugar, 1/2 cup milk and beat until dissolved. Boil 2 cups milk, add 2 tablespoons flour wet up in milk and 1 whole egg, and 2 egg yolks, all beaten together. Now add the first named ingredients and cook a few minutes until thick. Use whites of eggs for meringue.

Oilcloth or other coverings are out of place on shelves in the cellar. The edges should be close enough to the shelves to prevent spiders, ants and other insects from finding a hiding place there. It is better to give the shelves a coating of some good paint that dries with a hard enamel-like finish.

Dairy Cow Management

There are two ways of getting a good dairy cow. One way is to buy her. The other is to raise her.

selecting the best cows from one's herd and breeding to a good male from the strain which is decided best adapted to our requirements.

It is sometimes difficult positively to determine which are really better cows, says a writer in Farm and Home. Some of the points of a good cow are, one not inclined easily to lay on fat, a loose hide, large frame, sharp, light shoulders, light flesh on back, large udder coming up well at both ends, well formed teats, large milk veins, bright eyes, large middle and good sized muzzle.

A prominent authority recently stated that 75 per cent of cows in Ohio are not paying for their feed. To know good cows weigh their milk, test it, keep a record for 12 months, take into consideration the feed consumed and dispose of all that have not shown a good net profit. What that profit should be depends largely upon the prices of grain and roughage, also upon price of dairy products.

Make an occasional visit to a good dairy farm and get some ideas as to what the other fellows are doing. Aim to produce summer conditions the year around as near as can be done. June is considered the ideal month for butter production so we ought to try and get June conditions as near as possible.

Keep the cows in a clean, light well-ventilated stable, free from drafts. Give them at all times all the clean water they will drink, but don't let them have ice cold water. Feed grain at milking time, and all hay or roughage at a time, and do not allow dust and cobwebs to accumulate.

Turn cows out on nice bright days. Never allow them to become excited and do not hurry them to or from the pasture or stable. Milk with regularity, and aim to have cows freshen in fall, as during the winter months we have more time to give them care and attention, and prices are usually enough higher to justify extra labor.

Fall freshening enables cows to avoid flies at their worst, and permits them to come to short pastures when giving least milk. In spring when turned out on grass they usually flush up on milk like a fresh cow, which is almost the same as having them come fresh twice a year.

Preparation of Seed Bed Taught at Plowing Matches

Six plowing matches have been held this fall, at demonstration meetings on public farms, in Sauk, Vernon, Marinette, Manitowoc, Richland and Brown counties while another takes place in Croix county early in October. First prizes given have included a John Deere plow at Reedsburg, a $20 suit of clothes at Peshigo, a John Deere plow at Manitowoc and an Oliver steel plow at Green Bay.

Where the plowing is done in sod, it reveals a great variety in quality of work done, and is an eye opener to the assembled farmers. Prof. C. E. Nord of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin always gives a talk during the meeting, urging proper preparation of the seed bed, illustrating his remarks by the work of the cows'ants. The grass should not be turned completely under, but should be evenly ridged in strips of even thickness and it should be done in the fall to allow frost to act on the sod and grub worms. Thorough disking and harrowing are needed in the spring to compact the seed bed, thus breaking hard clods and closing up air spaces which would tend to dry the land and crop. Preparations of the seed bed is one of the most important operations of farming.

Population Increases More Than Butter and Cheese

No overproduction of butter and cheese in the United States need be feared says Prof. G. H. Benckendorf of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin. The population of the United States increased 46.8 per cent from 1890 to 1910, yet the total production of farm and factory butter increased only 34 per cent.

Figuring the exports and imports, the butter actually consumed in the United States has increased 34.4 per cent. Since the population increased 46.8 per cent the amount of butter eaten by each person is only 93.6 per cent of the amount in 1890. The total cheese manufactured increased 24.9 per cent or only about half as fast as the population. Greater increase in population than in the supply of butter and cheese accounts in part for the increased prices, while the higher prices probably account for the reduction in amount eaten per person.

Will Study Cost of Living at Wisconsin University

A course on prices and the cost of living will be given at the University of Wisconsin this year. The new course, which will be in charge of Prof. R. H. Hees, will be concerned with a detailed study of prices and marketing conditions in the United States during the last twenty years. How the middleman takes the profit from the producer will be one of the interesting facts brought out.

As a study of all products can not be undertaken in a course of this kind attention will be given to the three great products, wheat, cotton and meat, which tipify market and price changes in general. The reason why the price of meat has advanced about four per cent a year during the last twenty years, and the systems of marketing influence the price of products are two important topics that will be traced.

Saved By His Wife.

She's a wise woman who knows just what to do when her husband's life is in danger, but Mrs. R. J. Flint, Braintree, Vt., is of that kind. KEWASKUM, WISCONSIN require more than ordinary care in their laundering.

COLLARS and CUFFS

They must be stiff enough to stand perspiration, yet not too stiff to permit of easy buttoning and they must be shaped properly to fit the neck.

You will enjoy the comforts of correctly laundered linen if you patronize the
