Madison, Oct. 8. As a result of an investigation, including a general examination of conditions in 27 counties in widely separated portions of the state and upon a more detailed examination of conditions in 13 schools in 13 counties, the State Board of Public Affairs issued today a constructive program for rural schools. This recommends increased State aid for rural schools, a gradual raising of qualifications of teachers, a system of agricultural teaching in rural schools, a careful supervision of the expenditure of school moneys in the various districts of the state and an elective county board of education and an appointive county superintendent.

Has a Record

The record of Chardon, Ohio, states that Charles Mason who is awaiting trial in this county, for burglary, served a sentence in the Ohio state penitentiary, having been sentenced in 1901, escaped and returned and finally released last March. It was shortly after the latter date that he was arrested in connection with the robbery at a saloon in Kewaskum. Among the other names under which Mason has gone are, Charles Lowery and C. A. Taylor. The crime for which he was arrested in Ohio was blowing of the vaults of the Chardon Savings bank in 1901.—Hartford Press.

GEHL BROTHERS TEAM WON

Locals Lose The Second Game to Gehl Bros. by a Very Close Score.

The ball game played on the local grounds between a team representing Gehl Bros. Manufacturing Company of West Bend and a picked-up team from this village last Sunday resulted in a victory for the visitors by the close score of 9 to 8.

The game attracted only a small crowd, hardly enough to pay the expenses. It however, proved to be very interesting and went ten innings. Olwin and Decker were on the mound for the locals, while Manthie and Heise did the battery work for the visiting team. After the end of the ninth, the score stood 8 to 5. In West Bend's half, the visitors scored after Manthie got a 3 base hit and some home on a single. Kewaskum was unable to score in their half, going out in one, two, three order. The locals lost their own game in the ninth, when with two men on bases and a hit was made to deep left and only scored one run. Althenhofen, who was on second at the time, had plenty of time to score the winning run, but staid at third, which was very costly and lost the game.

To-morrow, Sunday the locals will cross bats with the strong Boltonville team on the home grounds. Game will be called at 2:30 P. M. A large crowd ought to turn out to the game and cheer the locals to victory.

The Compulsory Attendance Law

For the benefit of those who are unfamiliar with the requirements of the compulsory attendance law, a few words of explanation are here offered that parents, teachers and school officers may know what the requirements are, in regard to the attendance of children in school.

The law requires that every child between the ages of seven and fourteen years attend some public, parochial or private school for at least six months, in country districts and villages unless he can furnish some legal excuse, or where the child resides more than two miles from the school house when transportation is not provided. All children between the age of seven and fourteen years must be enrolled in some public, parochial or private school within one school month after the commencement of the school term in the district where the child resides.

A parochial or private school to come within the scope of this law must be in session for twenty days during each school month. Where a child attends a parochial school for but one or two half days per week, for the purpose of receiving instructions in religious faith, cannot be considered as complying with the law.

Any person knowing of a violation of the law may report such violation to the proper authorities, but it is the particular duty of the teacher and school officers to report any case of delinquency that may come to their notice. Teachers are to be supplied with blanks upon which to make these reports and must account for every child in the district between the ages of seven and fourteen under penalty of a fine.

It is not the intention of those having the local administration of the law in charge to bring any hardship upon any parent or guardian, as it is not a personal matter, but no willful violation of the law will be tolerated.

The cooperation of those in charge of the parochial schools, by furnishing to the teachers, in the districts from which the various children come, with the data concerning the child's attendance, will be appreciated.

Geo. T. Carlin.

Robert Schultz Takes Own Life, Wife Found Body

After doing the morning chores on his farm near Brandon, Robert Schultz ascended to his granary and held the muzzle of a gun to his breast and fired a shot into his body by using a stick to pull the trigger. Dispondency is said to be the cause of the act.

The Red Sox got to Tesreau in the seventh, scoring three runs and forcing "Big Jeff" from the box.

Wood showed his strength in the ninth. After the Giants, with one down, had scored a run and had men on first and third, the Boston twirler struck out Fletcher and Crandall in succession. Wood's speed increased as the game progressed.

Joe Wood, Boston's premier pitcher, was at his best. Although the Giants made 9 hits off of him, he balanced this by striking out 11 men.

York was unable to bunch his hits to advantage except in the third inning, when they scored two runs on two hits.

Tesreau, first man up in the third, struck out. Devore walked. Doyle doubled to left, Devore taking third. Snodgrass struck out. Murray singled to right, scoring Devore and Doyle. Murray was out trying to stretch it into a double. Speaker to Cady to Wagner.

In the eighth inning McGraw rushed Crandall to the slab in an endeavor to stave off defeat, which seemed certain after Boston had made three runs, but he only succeeded in holding the Red Sox, and the pinch hitters failed to respond with the needed hits.

Realizing the great advantage in winning the initial game, both sides trotted out their star pitchers. Tesreau, who has been the most consistent winner for the Giants, was Manager McGraw's selection. Manager Stahl of Boston decided to pin his faith to Joe Wood. Myers did his catching for New York, and Cady was back of the bat for Boston.

The game was replete with sensational plays, and the great crowd found ample opportunity to give vent to their enthusiasm.

Nearly 40,000 fans had crowded through the gates at the Polo grounds by 12:30. Mayor Gaynor of New York and Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston laid aside the cares of officialdom and joined in the cheering for their respective teams. The mayors sat in an upper tier box.

JUDGE DENIES DELAY

C. BECKER, FORMER GOTHAM POLICE OFFICIAL, LOSES POINT.

Formal Hearing of Ex-Lieutenant, Accused of Gambler's Death, Begins in New York.

New York, Oct. 8.—Charles Becker, former lieutenant of police, charged with the murder of Herman Rosenthal, lost a fight to delay his trial when Judge Goff denied his lawyer a continuance. The attorney in his plea said his associate was ill.

The murder Saturday night of "Big Jack" Zelig is also said to have been a serious blow to the defense, Mr. McIntyre making public for the first time today the fact that the notorious gangster had been under subpoena as a witness for Becker.

Besides Becker, six men of New York's underworld have been indicted for the crime, but Becker, as alleged instigator of the murder plot, will be tried first.

The two hundred and fifty talesmen from whom a jury will be chosen reported early at the criminal courts building and curious crowds swarmed through the corridors, waiting to see Becker brought across the bridge of sighs from the Tombs for his arraignment.

The prosecution will attempt to show that Becker actually ordered that Rosenthal be murdered, that Becker knew the time fixed for execution of the crime, and that he afterward used his official position to shield the four men accused of firing the shots—"Gyp the Blood," "Lefty Lewis," "Whitey" Lewis and "Dago" Frank.

Those men will be tried later with Jack Sullivan, who rode uptown with Becker in an automobile the night of the murder, and William Shapiro, chauffeur and part owner of the car used in killing Rosenthal.

Washington, Oct. 10.—Congressman McKinley of Illinois, manager of President Taft's candidacy for the nomination, testified before the senate committee Tuesday that he spent approximately $290,000 in the pre-convention campaign.

Henry W. and Charles P. Taft, brothers of the president, gave about $150,000 of this, he said. John Hays Hammond, E. T. Stotesbury and Andrew Carnegie gave $25,000 each.

Ormsby McHarg testified he spent between $25,000 and $30,000 for Roosevelt in the southern states before the convention.

Another chapter was added to the disputed story of the so-called Harriman $200,000 contribution of 1904, when Wayne MacVeagh of Philadelphia, former attorney general, told the committee of a telephone conversation with H. M'K. Twombly had with the late E. H. Harriman in 1904.

"I remember calling on Mr. Twombly in the latter part of October, 1904," said Mr. MacVeagh. "While we were conversing he was called to the telephone by his clerk. His office is in the same building as Mr. Morgan's, but in the upper stories.

"When Mr. Twombly returned he told me he had been talking to E. H. Harriman; that Mr. Harriman had been called to Washington by Colonel Roosevelt and had found the president anxious for the raising of an additional fund for the campaign; that it had resulted in Mr. Harriman agreeing to raise and give to Mr. Bliss $240,000.

"Yes, sir, all."

SAYS CRIMINALS NOT RESPONSIBLE

25 to 60 Per Cent. Declared High Grade Imbeciles.

WISCONSIN CONDITION GIVEN

President Greenman of State Charities and Corrections Addresses the Conference at Madison—Legislature to Be Asked to Give Relief.

Madison.—That from 25 to 60 per cent of the inmates of correctional institutions are not above the class of high grade imbeciles, and from these people spring a great majority of the criminals of the world, were two of the significant statements made here last night by President Walter P. Greenman of Milwaukee at the Wisconsin State Conference of Charities and Corrections, which is meeting here in co-operation with the extension division of the University of Wisconsin.

"These persons never become capable of self-control, and deeds of violence, arson and murder immediately follow upon their release from custody. The women of this class are proved to have a fecundity about double that of normal women. The progeny of such parents is tainted with feeble-mindedness. So the stream of the unfit widens daily," declared President Greenman.

"These people should be segregated according to sex in colonies of fifty upon farms," continued the speaker. "They should be committed on an indeterminate sentence. They can live happy and harmless lives, mostly in the open upon such farms. They would be almost self-supporting and the expense to the state would not be one-twentieth what it now is to pay for court and police charges with the expense of maintenance of each delinquent and all his progeny for several generations, because the expense never stops with his death unless he has been prevented from becoming a parent.

"The lack of a woman's reformatory constitutes one of the most wasteful conditions in the state. There are always from ten to twelve girls in the state industrial school at Milwaukee who must be released on reaching 21 years of age, but who are manifestly unfit to be returned to the community at large. For women over eighteen years of age we only have Waupun, the county jails and houses of correction. Of course, some of the women committed to these places may already be hardened criminals; but if a woman is not already hopeless we condemn her to a life of habitual crime by committing her under the law to existing institutions. In recognition of this ghastly fact, some judges confess to their reluctance to commit and frequently suspend sentence, and turning the delinquent woman back to her evil environment until she is again arrested for something worse so that she may be sent to Waupun."

President Greenman says there is only one solution for the present appalling state of affairs in reference to Wisconsin's treatment of her criminals, delinquents and unfit. He proposes to have the state legislature appropriate funds for the maintenance of a board of control which is to consist of five members holding office during good behavior. One member should be an expert on lunacy, one on pedology, one in charity and one in finance, besides one named as president.

Man Believed Murdered.
Trempealeau.—The finding of the body of Arthur Grover, 85 years old, a pioneer of this place, on the Burlington tracks, leads the authorities to suspect murder, for with the exception of a broken leg there was no other signs of being struck by a train. Tiring of waiting for a night train at East Winona, Grover started to walk home down the railroad track and was within six blocks of his destination when he met his death. 1,500 GREEKS GO TO WAR

Members of Milwaukee Colony to Start for Native Land—Have Organized Military Company.

Milwaukee.—Milwaukee Greeks are incensed over the treatment their countrymen are receiving at the hands of the Turks and have held a meeting at which it was decided to wait for three days and if in that time Turkey did not stop the persecution of the people of the Balkan states, that 1,500 of their number would start for Greece to join the army and carry war to the Turks.

The Greeks of Milwaukee and throughout the United States have been preparing for a war of this kind and have organized military companies, fully equipped for service at the front. There are about 3,000 Greeks in Milwaukee and about half of these are ready to join the army.

There are about 300,000 Greeks in the United States and of these it is thought that 100,000 will join the homeland bound army. A Greek battleship has started for the United States and will meet the men and take many of them direct to Athens, where they will be enrolled in the army. Others will not wait for this boat, but will reach their native land by other means.

The countries comprising the Balkan states, with which Turkey is at war, are Bulgaria, Serbia, Montenegro and Greece.

LAFOLLETTE RAPS MCGOVERN

Says Wisconsin's Progressive Cause Has Survived Even Greater Misfortunes.

Madison.—Senator La Follette in his weekly magazine makes this reference to Gov. McGovern on his declaration in favor of Roosevelt:

"Since the last issue of La Follette's, McGovern has plunged bodily into the Roosevelt tar barrel.

"If anything were needed to interpret the true significance of his course at Chicago, his action at this time is quite conclusive.

"The act was performed with bravado. But it would have been a finer example of courage to have taken his high dive before he was nominated.

"It 'musses him up' shockingly as a progressive republican candidate for governor of Wisconsin.

"But in the face of even greater misfortunes than this the Wisconsin progressive cause has survived and steadily advanced."

It is possible to get four quires of paper and 100 envelopes for a dollar, and there is a choice of different weight, texture and color of the paper, various shades of blue, gray, lavender, cream and white, also stripes and bars in self tones. These come in two sizes, usually letter and note.

Marking varies according to color. Two-colored letters are most expensive; plain gold, silver or a single metallic color costs about 25 cents a quire; a single plain color, gray, blue, violet or brown, ten cents a quire, and embossing in relief without color, about five cents a quire. These are standard prices almost everywhere he year round, the reduction being on the price of paper.

In buying paper by the quantity it is not wise to choose novelties. An inconspicuous color and good quality is always good. Many women adopt a certain tone and kind of paper and make it individual. Thus, the girl who lives violet will have pale violet paper with a deeper tone or silver for the stamping, while the transparent envelopes are lined with violet tissue paper of a deeper shade than the envelopes.

Gray paper or very pale blue is also permissible, but it is bad form to use garish stationery.

Verbena Potpourri.
Potpourri made with lemon verbena is preferred by many people to the rose jar. One simple, but very effective, method of making it is by stripping the petals from the flowers and thoroughly drying them. Then throw them into a jar, strewn first a handful of salt on the bottom of the jar, then a handful of leaves, and so on until all are used.

A tablespoonful of alcohol should be thrown on once a week, and the jar should be tightly closed, one with a double top preferable. Let it stand until the odor of the chosen flower comes from it, after which leave the outer lid off so that the odor may go through the room.

Bridge Maxims.
A good partner is rather to be ches on than great hands.

NEWEST IDEA IN OPERA BAGS

Copyright, 1912, by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

When buying writing paper give touch of smartness. Certain Times of the Year When Suitable Colors and Tones May Be Acquired in Quantities.

The woman who would get the most for her money buys her writing paper in quantity at an annual sale. The reason for these sales is that the manufacturers accumulate small lots of discontinued papers. They are not cheap qualities or seconds, merely styles that are not novel.

It is possible to get four quires of paper and 100 envelopes for a dollar, and there is a choice of different weight, texture and color of the paper, various shades of blue, gray, lavender, cream and white, also stripes and bars in self tones. These come in two sizes, usually letter and note.

Marking varies according to color. Two-colored letters are most expensive; plain gold, silver or a single metallic color costs about 25 cents a quire; a single plain color, gray, blue, violet or brown, ten cents a quire, and embossing in relief without color, about five cents a quire. These are standard prices almost everywhere he year round, the reduction being on the price of paper.

In buying paper by the quantity it is not wise to choose novelties. An inconspicuous color and good quality is always good. Many women adopt a certain tone and kind of paper and make it individual. Thus, the girl who lives violet will have pale violet paper with a deeper tone or silver for the stamping, while the transparent envelopes are lined with violet tissue paper of a deeper shade than the envelopes.

Gray paper or very pale blue is also permissible, but it is bad form to use garish stationery.

Verbena Potpourri.
Potpourri made with lemon verbena is preferred by many people to the rose jar. One simple, but very effective, method of making it is by stripping the petals from the flowers and thoroughly drying them. Then throw them into a jar, strewn first a handful of salt on the bottom of the jar, then a handful of leaves, and so on until all are used.

A tablespoonful of alcohol should be thrown on once a week, and the jar should be tightly closed, one with a double top preferable. Let it stand until the odor of the chosen flower comes from it, after which leave the outer lid off so that the odor may go through the room.

BREAKFAST MEATS.
Now that the cool fall days are upon us, we will begin to enjoy again a little the heavier breakfasts. Here are a few for variety:

Ham Balls.—Take a cup of cooked ham, finely chopped, add a cup of bread crumbs, two cupfuls of cooked potatoes mashed fine, three tablespoonfuls of butter, two eggs and a dash of cayenne. Melt the butter, add all the ingredients and beat until light. Shape into small flat cakes, dip in egg and crumbs and fry brown.

Ham Toast.—Take half a cup of finely minced ham, half a teaspoonful of anchovy paste, a dash of maco and salt, if needed. Add half a cup of milk and a beaten egg. Stir until thick, then spread on dry buttered toast. A poached egg may be added for a more substantial meal.

Fried Ham.—When the ham is half done in frying, sprinkle with flour and fry brown. When brown, add a tablespoonful of made mustard to the gravy and boiling water to cover the ham. Simmer five minutes and serve on a hot platter.

Broiled Lamb's Liver.—Cut the liver in thin slices, cover with olive oil and let soak an hour. Drain, season, dip in crumbs and broil.

Minced Lamb With Egg.—Chop cold roast lamb very fine, season with salt, pepper and a bit of mint. Reheat in gravy, adding a little butter. Spread thinly on slices of buttered toast. Place a poached egg on each slice, sprinkle with chopped parsley and serve.

Sausages Baked in Potatoes.—Prick sausages and brown in a hot spider. Core large potatoes and draw the sausages through the hole made, then bake. This is a pleasant surprise for the person peeling the potato.

Artificial Rose or Orchid, Easily Made. Adds Much to Appearance of an Evening Gown.

BACKACHE IS DISCOURAGING Until You Get After The Cause

Nothing more discouraging than a constant backache. Lame when you awake. Pains pierce you when you bend or lift. It's hard to work, or to rest. You sleep poorly and next day is the same old story.

That backache indicates bad kidneys and calls for some good kidney remedy. None so well recommended as Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here's a Minnesota Case. St. Paul, Minn., says: "I suffered terribly from backache and rheumatism. Couldn't help me. I was helpless with pain in my back, couldn't turn in bed. I grew thin and had terrible dizzy spells. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and today am in perfect health."

The Greatest Woman.
Who was or is the greatest woman in all history? Two hundred teachers answered the question and with enthusiasm and unanimity the judges awarded the prize to the one who made this reply: "The wife of the farmer of moderate means who does her own cooking, washing, ironing, sewing, brings up a family of boys and girls to be useful members of society, and finds time for intellectual improvement."

THE CHILDREN'S HEALTH
In observing the physical characteristics of her children, the careful mother soon learns that health is dependent on the regularity of the bowels. When the bowels become clogged with the stomach's refuse, loss of appetite, restlessness, irritability and similar evidences of disorder are soon apparent. Keep the bowels regular and a healthy, happy child is assured.

At the first sign of constipation the mother should administer a mild laxative to carry off the congested waste from the stomach that is fermenting and forcing poisonous gases into the system. A simple compound of laxative herbs with pepsin is highly recommended as being very mild, yet positive. In its action, a teaspoonful of bedtime usually serving to bring an easy, thorough, and comfortable movement next morning. This compound is known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and is sold by druggists everywhere for 50c a bottle. A larger bottle, put up especially for the family medicine chest, costs one dollar.

The use of salts and violent purgatives and cathartics should be avoided. They are too harsh and drastic, tending to upset the entire system. Write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 283 West St., Monticello, Ill., for a trial bottle of his Syrup P

Dr. Temple puzzled by behavior of different couples. Marjorie is aroused by Mallory's baseball jargon. Marjorie suggests wrecking the train in hopes that accident will produce a preacher. Also tries to induce the conductor to hold the train so she can shop.

CHAPTER XXVII.

The Dog-on-Dog Again.

As the conductor left the Mallories to their own devices, it rushed over him anew what sacrifice had been attempted—a fool bride had asked him to stop the train—American of all trains!—to go shopping of all things! He stormed into the smoking room to open the safety valve of his wrath, and found the porter just coming out of the buffet cell with a tray, two hollow-stemmed glasses and a bottle swaddled in a napkin.

"Say, Ellsworth, what in — do you suppose that female back there wants?—wants me to hold the Trans-American while—"

But the porter was in a hurry himself. He was about to serve champagne, and he cut the conductor short: "Excuse me, boss, but they's a lowly couple in the stateroom forward that is in a powerful hurry for this. I can't talk to you now. I'll see you later." And he swaggered off, leaving the door of the buffet open. The conductor paused to close it, glanced in, started, stared, glared, roared: "What's this! Well, I'll be a dog smuggled in here! I'll break that coon's head. Come out of here, you miserable ornary hound!" He seized the incredulous Snoozeleums by the scruff of his neck, growling, "It's you for the baggage car ahead," and dashed out with his prey, just as Marjorie, now getting new bearings on Marjorie's character, sped across the rampart of his Napoleonic folds arms:

"Well, you're a nice one!—making violent love to a conductor before my very eyes. A minute more and I would have—"

She silenced him with a snap: "Don't you speak to me! I hate you! I hate all men! The more I know men the more I like—" This reminded her, and she asked anxiously: "Where is Snoozeleums?"

Mallory, impatient at the shift of subject, snapped back: "Oh, I left him in the buffet with the waiter. What I want to know is how you dare to—"

"Was it a colored waiter?"

"Of course. But I'm not speaking of—"

"But suppose he should bite him?"

"Oh, you can't hurt those nigger waiters. I started to say—"

"But I can't have Snoozeleums biting colored people. It might not agree with him. Get him at once."

Mallory trembled with suppressed rage like an overloaded boiler, but he gave up and growled: "Oh, Lord, all right. I'll get him when I've finished—"

"Go get him this minute. And bring the poor darling back to his mother."

"His mother! Ye gods!" cried Marjorie, wildly. He turned away and dashed into the men's room with a furious: "Where's that damned dog?"

He met the porter just returning. The porter smiled: "He's right in here, sir," and opened the buffet door. His eyes popped and his jaw sagged: "Why, I left him here just a minute ago."

"You left the window open, too," Mallory observed. "Well, I guess he's gone."

The porter was panic-stricken: "Oh, I'm terrible sorry, boss, I wouldn't have lost that dog for a fortune. If you was to hit me with a axe I wouldn't mind."

To his utter befuddlement, Mallory grinned and winked at him, and murmured: "Oh, that's all right. Don't worry." And actually laid half a dollar in his palm. Leaving the black hds. battling over the starting eyes, Mallory pulled his smile into a long face and went back to Marjorie like an undertaker: "My love, prepare yourself for bad news."

Marjorie looked up, startled and apprehensive: "Snoozeleums is ill. He did bite the darkey."

"Worse than that—he—he—fell out of the window."

"When?" she shrieked, "in heaven's name—when?"

"He was there just a minute ago, the waiter says."

Marjorie went into instant hysterics, her voice was heard in the smoking room, where he appeared with the rush and roar of a gas-burn bull. "Well!" he belloved, "which one of you guys pulled that rope?"

"It was nobody here, sir," Dr. Temple meekly explained. The conductor transfixed him with a baleful glare: "I wouldn't believe a gambler on oath. I bet you did it."

"I assure you, sir," Wedgewood interposed, "he didn't touch it. I was here."

The conductor waved him aside and charged into the observation room, followed by all the passengers in an awe-struck rabble. Here, too, the conductor thundered: "Who pulled that rope? Speak up somebody."

Mallory was about to sacrifice himself to save Marjorie, but she met the conductor's black rage with the withering contempt of a young queen: "I pulled the old rope. Whom did you suppose?"

The conductor almost dropped with apoplexy at finding himself with nobody to vent his immense rage on, but this pink and white slip. "You!" he gulped, "well, what in— Say, in the name of—why, don't you know it's a penitentiary offense to stop a train this way?"

Marjorie tossed her head a little higher, grew a little calmer: "What do I care? I want you to back up."

The conductor was reduced to a wet rag, a feeble echo: "Back up—the train up!"

"Yes, back the train up," Marjorie answered, resolutely, "and go slowly till I tell you to stop."

The conductor stared at her a moment, then whirled on Mallory: "Say, what in hell's the matter with your wife?"

Mallory was saved from the problem of answering by Marjorie's abrupt change from a young Tarzina rebuking a serf, to a terrified mother. She flung out imploring pains and with a gush of tears pleaded: "Won't you please back up? My darling child fell off the train."

The conductor's rage fell away in an instant. "Your child fell off the train?" he gasped. "Good Lord! How old was he?"

With one hand he was groping for the bell cord to give the signal, with the other he opened the door to look back along the track.

"He was two years old," Marjorie sobbed.

"Oh, that's too bad!" the conductor groaned. "What did he look like?"

"He had a pink ribbon round his neck."

"A pink ribbon—oh, the poor little fellow! the poor little fellow!"

"And a long curly tail."

The conductor swung round with a yell: "A curly tail!—your son?"

"My dog!" Marjorie roared back at him.

The conductor's voice cracked weakly as he shrieked: "Your dog! You stopped this train for a fool dog?"

"He wasn't a fool dog," Marjorie retorted, facing him down, "he knows more than you do."

The conductor threw up his hands: "Well, don't you women beat— He studied Marjorie as if she were some curious freak of nature. Suddenly an idea struck into his daze: "Say, what kind of a dog was it?—a measly little cheese-bound?"

"He was a noble, beautiful soul with wonderful eyes and adorable ears."

The conductor was growing weaker and weaker: "Well, don't worry. I got him. He's in the baggage car."

Marjorie stared at him unbelievably. The news seemed too gloriously beautiful to be true. "He isn't dead—Snoozeleums is not dead!" she cried, "he lives! He lives! You have saved him." And once more she flung herself upon the conductor. He tried to bat her off like a gnat, and Marjorie came to his rescue by dragging her away and shoving her into a chair. But she sat only the noble conductor: "Oh, you dear, good, kind angel. Get him at once."

"He stays in the baggage car," the conductor answered, firmly and as he supposed, finally.

"But Snoozeleums doesn't like baggage cars," Marjorie smiled. "He won't ride in one."

"He'll ride in this one or I'll wring his neck."

"You fiend in human flesh!" Marjorie shrank away from him in horror, and he found courage to seize the bell rope and yank it viciously with a sardonic: "Please, may I start this train?"

The whistle tooted faintly. The bell began to hammer, the train to creak and writhe and click. The conductor pulled his cap down hard and started forward. Marjorie seized his sleeve: "Oh, I implore you, don't consign that poor sweet child to the horrid baggage car. If you have a human heart in your breast, hear my prayer."

The conductor surrendered unconditionally: "Oh, Lord, all right, all right. I'll lose my job, but if you'll keep quiet, I'll bring him to you." And he snuk out meekly, followed by the passengers, who were shaking their heads in wonderment at this most amazing feat of this most amazing bride.

winging her hands and sobbing: "Oh, my darling, my poor child—stop the train at once!"

She began to pound Mallory's shoulders and shake him frantically. He had never seen her this way either. He was getting his education in advance. He tried to calm her with inept words: "How can I stop the train? Now, dearie, he was only a dog." But after all, he was only a dog.

She rounded on him like a panther: "Only a dog? He was worth a dozen men like you. You find the conductor at once, command him to stop this train—and back up! I don't care if he has to go back ten miles. Run, tell him at once. Now, you run!"

Mallory stared at her as if she had gone mad, but he set out to run somewhere, anywhere. Marjorie paced up and down distractedly, tearing her hair and moaning, "Snoozeleums, Snoozeleums! My child, My poor child!" At length her wildly roving eyes noted the bell rope. She stared, pondered, nodded her head, clutched at it, could not reach it, jumped for it several times in vain, then seized a chair, swung it into place, stood up in it, gripped the rope, and came down on it with all her weight, dropping to the floor and jumping up and down in a frenzied dance. In the distance the engine could be heard faintly whistling, whistling for every pull.

The engineer, far ahead, could not imagine what unheard-of crisis could bring about such mad signals. The fireman yelled:

"I bet that crazy conductor is attacked with an epileptic fit."

But there was no disputing the command. The engine was reversed, the air brakes set, the sand run out and every effort made to pull the iron horse, as it were, back on its haunches.

The grinding, squealing, jolting, shook the train like an earthquake. The shrieking of the whistle froze the blood like a woman's cry of "Murder!" in the night. The women among the passengers echoed the screams. The men turned pale and braced themselves for the shock of collision. Some of them were mumbling prayers. Dr. Temple and Jimmie Wellington, with one idea in their dissimilar souls, dashed from the smoking room to go to their wives.

Ashton and Wedgewood, with no one to care for but themselves, seized no one to care for but themselves, with no one to care for but themselves, and tried to fight them open. At last they bugged a sash and knelt down to thrust their heads out.

"I don't see a beastly thing ahead," said Wedgewood, "except the heads of other fools."

"We're slowing down though," said Ashton, "she stops! We're safe. Thank God!" And he collapsed into a chair. Wedgewood collapsed into another, growling: "Whatever are we safe from, I wonder?"

The train-crew and various passengers descended and ran alongside the train asking questions. Panic gave way to mystery. Ever Dr. Temple came back into the smoking room to finish a precious cigar he had been at work on. He was followed by Little Jimmie, who had not quite reached his wife when the stopping of the train put an end to his excuse for chivalry. He was regretfully mumbling:

"It would have been such a good shamus to shave my life's wife—I mean my—I don't know what I mean." He sank into a chair and ordered a drink; then suddenly remembered his vow, and with great heroism, rescinded the order.

Mallory, finding that the train was checked just before he reached the conductor, saw that official's bewildered wrath at the stoppage and had a fearsome intuition that Marjorie had somehow done the deed. He hurried back to the observation room, where he found her charging up and down, still distraught. He paused at a safe distance and said:

"The train has stopped, my dear. Somebody rang the bell."

"I guess somebody did!" Marjorie answered, with a proud toss of the head. "Where's the conductor?"

"He's looking for the fellow that pulled the rope."

"You go tell him to back up—and slowly, too."

"No, thank you!" said Mallory. He was a brave young man, but he was not hearing the conductors of stopped expresses. Already the conduc-

GOOD FRIEND OF THE FARMER

Valuable Work Done by Humble Earthworm Has Not Been Sufficiently Appreciated.

The humble earthworm is one of man's best friends. The farmer and the gardener could not spare him. Dr. J. Newton Friend tells about him in Science Progress. From Dr. Friend's observations it appears that worms aerate the soil in a variety of ways.

In burrowing through the soil the worms render it more porous and permeable to gases, not merely by virtue of the air spaces formed, but by reason of the fact that the soil is thus continually kept in gentle motion. Again, the soil passing through the bodies of worms is excreted in a finer condition, being ground by attrition through the intestines. Darwin estimated that no fewer than fifteen tons of soil annually pass through the bodies of worms for every acre.

Further, worms breathe in oxygen and exhale carbon dioxide, and the

by William Pitt

The cry is for hogs.

Use only pure-bred sires.

Turn the sheep in the orchard.

Scrub cows appear in every herd.

Excessive sweating to a horse indicates weakness.

A pasture arranged to include a few shade trees is 25 per cent. better.

If the potatoes are beginning to sprout in the ground, dig them at once.

Exposure to dampness makes the wool harsh and brittle and the fiber weak.

The growth and feeding value of the soy bean is quite like that of the cowpea.

Get a die and stamp your initials on the cream or milk cans. Paint will rub off in time.

If you want a lasting cement use melted slum. It hardens at once and water does not affect it.

The pigs will eat up stink and clean the corn and stalks of that field which is soft and not fit to crib.

Oil meal is greatly relished by lambs, and helps greatly in obtaining a fine finish for the market.

The work of lice is often mistaken for disease. When a fowl seems to be ailing look for lice first.

The development of the young horse requires the exercise of the best judgment in handling him.

One advantage in keeping feed always before poultry is that they do not have to hurry to get their meals.

Fruit growing and poultry raising go well together. Anyone following either will do well to consider the other.

Get a harness punch? It costs only a quarter and with a package of copper rivets breaks can be mended in a jiffy.

The silo today furnishes the most economical, the safest and the best means of storing the corn crop for feeding purpose.

Wheat bran is an excellent feed for dairy cows and calves, but at 200 per ton or more, it is a little rich for most feeders.

Although certain pessimists claim that the dairy market will soon be overstocked, present prices give no indication of the sign.

As a result of the activities of the reclamation bureau, 14,000 farms are now being watered and a million acres are being put in crops.

Cabbage will sometimes cure slobber in horses caused by eating white clover; but it is better to keep the clover away from the horses.

Try putting a pinch of copperas in the watering trough once or twice a month. Better still, scrub out the trough and spray thoroughly with a copperas solution.

The Iowa experiment station has discovered that feeding manure and sugar beets to cows is dangerous, and if continued for any considerable period will prove fatal.

Will you feed the hogs in the mud this winter, or build a feeding floor which may cost $10 or $200, according to the size of your herd, but it will pay for itself every time.

Red raspberries do not thrive in the west as well as we could wish. They seem to like a moister, cooler climate better. They are also more likely to winter-kill in the west than the black varieties.

The best care for a well-developed case of roup is the best. Better lose the individual bird that endangers the entire flock. If we nip the slight colds in the bud, we need not fear the appearance of roup.

The dairyman may have plenty of chores to do, but he is getting an income every day in the year. He isn't like the exclusive grain raiser, a millionaire three months in the year and a pauper the rest of the time.

Although summer will soon be over there still remain 30 days in which summer heat will at times prevail. While this weather continues remember that the hotter the water the cleaner the milk things can be kept.

The feed now in sight will give you a pretty good idea as to how much stock you can carry over winter. It is the best policy to have a little too much feed than to be a little short; it means all the difference between this stock and those in good condition.

Repair the poultry houses now, if eggs are desired in winter. The first cold weather should find all in good condition. New fowls should be purchased. New blood is necessary for the flocks no matter what the breed is, and their purchase should not be delayed.

Keep after the weeds

Prepare a plot for alfalfa.

Prune grape vines in the fall.

Keep all refuse out of the garden.

The nests need fully as much cleaning as the roosts.

Kindness beats gruffness in getting work out of horses.

Skim milk to wet the fattening mash is far better than water.

Hens that moult late seldom lay until late the following winter.

A close, musty cellar, even if cool, is not a good place to store the milk.

If you find an extra good pumpkin or squash be sure to save the seeds.

Equal parts of corn and oats are hard to excel as a grain feed for sheep.

A pile of coal ashes and salt will keep the hogs close to any spot where it lies.

Every farmer should have a small wheel seeder and a small wheel garden hoe.

Sheep are almost essential in maintaining the fertility and clearness of the land.

Selling all the hay and grain raised on the farm is a sure method of selling the farm.

Ewes that are broad and long will make good mothers and produce vigorous offspring.

Creamery butter has an advantage over all the other kinds because of its greater uniformity.

The value of corn silage to the beef producer is not limited to its use in winter feeding alone.

To secure a good brood sow, an even development is required from pig brood to maturity.

Do you return your saw and hammer to any particular place when you are through with them?

No land is so rich that its owner can afford to waste the manure that is made by his farm stock.

It is estimated that ten years of single cropping will wear out any but the very richest soil.

The development of the young horse requires the exercise of the best judgment in handling him.

Water thoroughly when the soil is dry to touch, but never "sprinkle" roses when they need watering.

Crops must be gathered in proper condition and sent to the market fresh and clean. Careful grading is essential.

This is the month when most of the silos in the corn belt are filled. It costs money to do this now, but next winter the dividends will surely be collected.

It is generally conceded that the best time to sell chickens is from the first of January to the first of November.

The bright eye, red comb, smooth, bright, well-kept plumage, activity and a keen appetite, indicate the healthy fowl.

Good sheep require good care to maintain their excellence. Poor sheep are always a burden upon the rest of the flock.

Toss those aggravating rocks from the wagon track before the freeze-up or you may just count on jolting over them all winter long.

Alfalfa growers of Kansas consider the best antidote for grasshoppers to be a turkey or two to the acre to range over their alfalfa fields.

The pig is merely a meat-producing machine, and the more he is fed—the more meat he will turn over.

Keeping the bear away from the herd is more trouble than letting him run, but it is the only way to know just what you are about in hog raising.

The man with a clear conscience and patches on his trousers gets more out of this world than the man who goes beyond his means to be fashionable.

The time to lay in plenty of winter feed is when you can get it. This month is the one to cut corn and while you are cutting, cut enough so you will then be likely to have about enough.

Cut up all the corn you think you can feed and then cut one-fourth as much more is the best advice we can think of for the western dairymen this month.

Rats are an enemy to squabs. The pigeon loft should be made proof against them. Rid the premises of them by the aid of traps as fast as possible.

Select a breed and stick to it. Considerable time is required to build up a good flock and nothing is made by continual changing. Always keep pure blooded stock.

To insure the highest per cent. of fertility in the eggs, stock ducks need bathing water, but this does not necessarily mean that they must have a stream or lake on which to disport themselves.

There has been much complaint recently of the large percentage of spoiled eggs to the case. Some of this trouble, it is declared, is due to the storage of eggs near onions, oils or other things with pronounced odors.

LIVE STOCK AS HOME GRAIN MARKET MAKERS.

In talking with Professor Hinziker, Chief of the Department of Dairy Husbandry at Purdue, on the subject of Live Stock on the Farm, as profitable market makers for the farm grain products, the Professor gave the following interesting table on possible corn consumption by dairy cattle alone in Indiana.

He said: "I have not the necessary statistics within reach to estimate what portion of the corn crop of our state is consumed by dairy cattle or that by beef cattle, but take for instance, as an estimate, according to the United States census report for 1910, the corn crop in Indiana averaged 39.3 bushels per acre. It is estimated that with this yield, that the acre will produce about ten tons of corn silage. The average cow eats during the year (about eight months) six tons of corn silage, containing about twenty-three and one-half bushels of corn. The average cow possibly receives four pounds of corn meal daily eight months of the year, amounting to fourteen bushels of corn. Thus the total corn consumed per cow in the State would average thirty-seven and one-half bushels; as we have 665,000 dairy cows in Indiana, the dairy consumption would amount to about 24,975,000 bushels annually.

The man on the farm who is figuring like any man who is engaged in commercial pursuits must, is no doubt winning success as a result, and the man who takes advantage of such a splendid education as that afforded by the National Dairy Show at Chicago each year, will have laid before him the latest result of the work of his fellow men in every department of dairying that will make for an increase in profit from his operations.

The National Dairy Show at Chicago affords a Ten Days' Short Course in everything of value to the man who is trying to win. The show begins October 24th and lasts until including, November 2nd.

Cattle, Machinery, Instructors, Practical Demonstrations, Everything down to date, and worth inestimable value to the man who wants results from his work. Adv.

Sailing Ships in Demand.

In consequence of the better outlook for sailing ships, values have gone up considerably during the last year or two. For instance a four-masted sailing ship of 2,750 tons register, which was sold in January last year for $32,500, is at present in the market for sale, and the owners have refused a definite offer of $45,000; they are asking $50,000.

A CLERGYMAN'S TESTIMONY.

The Rev. Edmund Heslop of Wighton, Pa., suffered from Dropsy for a year. His limbs and feet were swollen and puffed. He had heart fluttering, was dizzy and exhausted at the least exertion. Hands and feet were cold and he had such a dragging sensation across the joints that it was difficult to move.

After using 5 boxes of DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS the swelling disappeared and he felt himself again. He says he has been benefited and blessed by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Several months later he wrote: I never changed my faith in your remedy since the above statement was authorized. Correspond with Rev. E. Heslop about this wonderful remedy.

Women

From Forty-Five to Fifty Are Much Benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The "change of life" is a most critical period in a woman's existence, and the anxiety felt by women as it draws near is not without reason.

When her system is in a deranged condition, she may be predisposed to apoplexy, or congestion of some organ. At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to form and begin their destructive work.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness, are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

These symptoms are calls from nature for help. The nerves are crying out for assistance and the cry should be heeded in time.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is prepared to meet the needs of women's system at this trying period of her life. It invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system. It has carried many women safely through this crisis.

Mrs. Estella Gillispie

ONE CASE OUT OF MANY TO PROVE OUR CLAIMS.

St. Anne, Ill.—"I was passing through the change of life and I was a perfect wreck from female troubles. I had a displacement and bearing down pains, weak fainting spells, dizziness, then numb and cold feelings. Sometimes my feet and limbs were swollen. I was irregular and had so much backache and headache, was nervous, irritable and was despondent. Sometimes my appetite was good but more often it was not. My kidneys troubled me at times and I could walk only a short distance.

"I saw your advertisement in a paper and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I was helped from the first. At the end of two months the swelling had gone down, I was relieved of pain, and could walk with ease. I continued with the medicine and now I do almost all my housework. I know your medicine has saved me from the grave and I am willing for you to publish anything I write to you, for the good of others."—Mrs. ESTELLA GILLISPIE, R.F.D. No. 4, Box 34, St. Anne, Illinois.

BREAKING OUT ON LEG
 Hillsop, Kan.—"About two years ago I began to notice a breaking out on my leg. At first it was very small but soon it began to spread until it formed large blotches. The itching was terrible and almost constant. Many nights I could not sleep at all. After scratching it to relieve the itching it would burn so dreadfully that I thought I could not stand it. For nearly a year I tried all kinds of salves and ointment, but found no relief. Some salves seemed to make it worse until there were ugly sores, which would break open and run."
 "One day I saw an advertisement of Cuticura Remedies. I got a sample of the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and began by washing the sores with the Cuticura Soap, then applying the Cuticura Ointment twice a day. Vegetable Fiber for Shoes.
 A Haverhill (Mass.) shoemaker has obtained patents giving him the right to make ramps and tops of vegetable fiber which he has invented and perfected to be used in the manufacture of shoes. A few cases of shoes have been made of this material, which appears to be a good substitute for leather. The fiber is said to be particularly adaptable for warm weather wear because, being of a woven material, air can penetrate the ramp and top. The inventor also claims that a shoe made of this material is waterproof.

 "Oh, it's my brother you want to see; he preaches and I practice."

IDEAS FOR HOME BUILDERS
 BY W.M.A. RADFORD.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 11 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

It is sometimes quite a problem to design a house of medium size and moderate cost for a large family. If one is able to put up a residence of unlimited size with wings and alleys and third-story additions at the same time having no thought as to the cost, the task of the architect in providing suitable accommodations for all the members of a large household is comparatively easy. All he has to think of is the architectural effect; and other things being equal, the larger the house the more beautiful and imposing it is from an architectural standpoint. Unfortunately, however, or rather fortunately, the great majority of home builders in this country have to count the cost and have to figure to get the required accommodations in a residence of medium size and cost.
 And it is just this which has brought the science of house planning to such perfection during the past four or five years. Architects have made a special study of the requirements of the small or medium sized residence with the result that today standpoint. Unfortunately, however, or rather fortunately, the great majority of home builders in this country have to count the cost and have to figure to get the required accommodations in a residence of medium size and cost.

 And it is just this which has brought the science of house planning to such perfection during the past four or five years. Architects have made a special study of the requirements of the small or medium sized residence with the result that today

American house planning has reached a degree of perfection never before equaled.
 The house illustrated herewith is one of these designs. It is 29 feet 6 inches by 36 feet and costing $3,000 this house gives ample accommodations for a large family. The first floor is very little broken up, most of the space being given to the large living room, 13 by 28 feet; the dining room, 13 by 18 feet, and the large central stair hall connecting these two rooms. Thus more than three-fourths of the entire downstairs space is available for activities of the home life. The large porch, 28 feet 6 inches by 7 feet, forms a valuable addition also to this space.
 The second floor, on the other hand, is divided into five bedrooms, each rather small, yet large enough for all practical purposes. Each bedroom has a clothes closet in connection.
 The general design and exterior appearance of this house is of a type which right now is enjoying a great popularity. It is exceedingly simple, being square and plain and without ornamentation, yet the low hip roof, the grouping of the windows, the projecting sill courses and the general proportion of the parts unite to make this a very pleasing design.

 Cement plaster on wood lath is the method of construction used for this design. Stucco siding has been used almost to the entire exclusion of clapboards, shingles, etc., on all houses built during the past three or four years and has proved entirely satisfactory. When this form of siding was first introduced the claim was made for it that no painting would ever be required over it. Experience has proved otherwise, however, especially in cities where there is a great

NEAT TRICK WITH MATCHES
 Much Amusement May Be Had With Little Game When Young Folks Cannot Get Outdoors.

Have say 100 matches. Lay them on the table and agree with some one to take alternately from the heap any number not exceeding ten, and wager that the last match will come to you. Then remember the numbers 1, 12, 23, 34, and so on, increasing by 11 each time. Supposing you have the first draw, you take one match only, and your opponent can never have a chance, for if he draws as many as possible the first time (10) you take one more and make the total 12. Say he then draws 8, and you will immediately draw 3. When you have got 39 you will see that the other player has no chance. Should your opponent insist on having the first draw he will make it possible for you to attain one of the numbers, 12, 23, 34, etc. Then the game is yours.
 A great deal of amusement may be had over the match trick during rainy evenings when the young folks cannot get out of doors to enjoy games in the open.

WHITTLE BALL IN BOX FRAME

Peculiar Epidemic Among Men Young in Fairmount Park—Toys Delight Little Children.

There is an epidemic in Fairmount park, Philadelphia, of a very contagious nature. Just so long as it was confined to the whittling of a stick, cases of it were isolated to a few who apparently meditated while they sent tiny chips fluttering over the ground, but one day a regular park devotee remarked that he could whittle a ball in a box frame. He was called upon to prove his ability to do so, and no sooner had he done so than his admiring associates tried to manufacture others like it. The eagerness of children to possess such a unique toy added an incentive to the fascination of whittling, and soon so many whittlers were in evidence that curiosity concerning their created comment, which led to investigation. A stroll through the park the other day revealed 37 gentlemen engaged in whittling "ball-in-a-frame."
 One of the whittlers declared it was "an off afternoon" if only 27 whittlers were found, as several "bunches of boys" found hours of amusement in the pastime.
 "What do you get out of it?" he was asked.
 "Just the satisfaction of making it," he smilingly answered.
 The illustration shows the method of cutting the ball, and also the toy when finished.

HOW TO SPIN HANDKERCHIEF

Very Effective Trick and Popular With Jugglers May Be Done With Aid of Little Needle.
 This is a very effective trick. It was a favorite one with jugglers and magicians until the secret was discovered. A handkerchief is borrowed, thrown in the air, and caught on the end of a whirling stick held by the juggler, when the handkerchief spreads out to its full size and commences to rapidly spin round. The secret is that in the end of the stick a needle is inserted about one quarter of an inch, leaving the sharp end out. When the handkerchief is caught on the whirling stick the needle point passed through it thus preventing it falling off the stick, and the handkerchief will spread out and spin about on the end of the stick.
 No Maltese Cats in Malta.
 There are a few of the so-called Maltese terriers in Malta, but they are not of pure blood, and the puppies which the street hawkers offer for sale to tourists are more or less mongrel, with a strain of the old breed, writes Consul James Oliver Laine, from Malta. The Maltese cat does not exist in Malta; at least not one has been seen here of the color called Maltese in the United States.

ENGLISH SPELLING IS HARD

Noted Scholar Makes Strong Plea for Phonetic System—Child Would Save Much Time.

A strong plea in favor of phonetic spelling was made to the meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science at Dundee the other day by Sir James Donaldson, LL. D., vice-chancellor and principal of the University of St. Andrews and principal of the United College of St. Salvator and St. Leonard says a London cable dispatch to the New York Sun. Sir James told the association that spelling is a thing of no consequence and everybody ought to be allowed to spell as he likes, just as Shakespeare and our ancestors did. Sir James said that this plan would lead to phonetic spelling. Our present system of spelling he held the scientists, if it can be called a system, is unique in its absurdity. The French, German and Dutch spell phonetically, but the English are terribly behind them.
 If the English spelling were phonetic, said Sir James, it would be easy for the whole population of China to learn the English language, but no foreigners now had a chance to learn easily. The English speaking child taught to spell phonetically, he said, saved at least a year in the task of acquiring an education.
 Sir James concluded his phonetic plea by scoring competitors in general. The present method of making up words he charged, was the doing of compositors. "We are slaves of the printers," he asserted, "and if we do not spell according to their ways of thinking they change us over and over again. And there is no redress."
 Sir James is an authority on the matter of spelling, being the author of "The Modern Greek Grammar," as well as many works on religious subjects.

Average Amount of Sleep.
 Usually the amount of sleep is in inverse ratio to the strength and development of consciousness. Thus children need more sleep than adults. Some men need very little rest and the same may be said of women. However, eight hours is the average amount required by the human body to restore its vitality by complete rest.
 If less is taken one's health is apt to be impaired. A good night's sleep will do more toward building up general health than all the tonics known

Constipation and Catarrh

S. B. HARTMAN, M. D.

You are constipated. You have taken laxatives a great many years. You have tried to select a diet that would keep your bowels regular. In this you have failed and were obliged to go back to your laxatives again. This, I say, has been going on many years.
 You also have a slight catarrh in the head and throat. You never imagined that the catarrh had anything to do with the constipation. Suppose I were to tell you that as long as you have that catarrh you will never get better of your constipation. Would you believe me? Well, whether you would believe me or not it is the truth.

The beauty doctors tell us that rest is a great beautifier—but they never cite the tramp as an example.

For many years I have been wrestling with the problem of furnishing the public an internal cathartic remedy. Peruna has been the remedy that I have devised and it has certainly relieved many thousand people, yes hundreds of thousands of people, of chronic catarrh.

Constipation was my chief difficulty in treating these cases. I often felt that it would be better if a laxative element were added to Peruna. I feared to do so, however, first because of the number of cathartic patients who needed no laxative, and second I was afraid of making such a radical change in a remedy that was already doing so well. Thus it was that I continued to prescribe with the Peruna a bottle of Manalin to those who needed a laxative. At last, under circumstances explained in my booklet, I was constrained to add the laxative element to Peruna. This constitutes what is now known as the revised Peruna.

Now those who take Peruna will, first, find themselves promptly relieved of their constipation. Second, the catarrh will gradually disappear. And once the catarrh is cured the constipation leaves permanently. Then if you follow the advice given in my book you will never have to take pills any more. Cathartics and laxatives you can ignore. You will be permanently relieved of both your catarrh and the constipation.

WHY WISCONSIN LEADS.

Great Farm Journal States the Reason With Clearness

Farm Stock and Home of Minneapolis, which is one of the most original of farm papers gives the secret of the maximum crops of Wisconsin in the following cutting:

"Facts are said to be stubborn things, and about the most stubborn fact that F. S. & H. has encountered is this, that where you find a farmer engaged in the production of stock as a business, or where he is taking his farm receipts in the form of a milk check that, making allowance for the fact that he had and the length of time he has been at it, you will ordinarily find comfort and freedom from financial worry, and increasing farm receipts. And on the other hand where the farmer keeps on year after year growing grain and raising it the very things we try hardest to avoid to exist, not in all cases, but far too frequently. More than this, on such farms the crops grow less year after year, weeds take their place, the mortgage hangs on amazingly, the boys and girls grow up and go off to town, and in the end a discouraged old couple follow them, too often disappointed and bitter at heart.

"There must be a reason for these results. And if it pays to raise stock and milk cows; if the man who does these things gathers about him as the years go by something of the comfort of life; if he gradually pays off his debts and educates his children, and builds a comfortable home, his has not been a hard life even though the hours have been long between morning and night—longer, perhaps than was really necessary or profitable. The grain-raising farmer succeeds run pleasantly for a while, but not for long; the stock farmer 'has his nose on the grindstone' more days in the year, but in the end if he has lived wisely and well, he has long life, and comfort, and material prosperity to show for it."

Wisconsin Advancement Association Started Something That Will Not Stop

It appears that when the Wisconsin Advancement association started the slogan, "Modern Improvements in Country Homes," it started something that will keep going from its own force.

From many parts of the state information comes that the farmers are awake to the situation and that many of them are already acting on the theory that nothing is so good for the family of the prosperous Badger farmer as to have a modern farm house.

There is no reason why the Wisconsin farm home should not be a model in the matter of modern improvements. More than ninety percent of the farmers of Wisconsin can well afford to have the most up-to-date equipment in this regard.

All that is necessary is for the press of the state to take up this matter and we will see a transformation that will characterize Wisconsin as the most progressive state in the Union. Give the farmers' families these improvements in house and barn, and there will be practically no desire to leave the farm for the city.

Let's have progress that progresses.

ALFALFA IN WISCONSIN

A few years ago W. A. Henry, the noted Wisconsin agriculturist, declared that the Badger state possessed a wealth of clover that rendered alfalfa of minor importance, and yet R. A. Moore, of the Wisconsin experiment station shows that its cultivation is rapidly increasing.

To determine how extensively alfalfa was grown by members of the Wisconsin Experiment Association requests were sent to 500 reports on the acreage grown by them in 1911. A summary of 240 reports received shows that the members reporting grew a total of 2,324 acres, or an acreage of 2.6 acres each.

Twenty years ago alfalfa was practically a stranger in Wisconsin; but its introduction dissemination has gone on at such a rapid pace that there is no less than 25,000 acres now grown in the state.

Ex-Governor Hoard of Fort Atkinson was the first man to recognize the great importance of alfalfa as a forage plant for Wisconsin and he has grown alfalfa and disseminated knowledge regarding it, continuously for the past twenty years. It is safe to say that Mr. Hoard has grown more alfalfa than any other man in the state—Live Stock World.

Ex-Governor Hoard has not only done wonders for the southern part of Wisconsin in many ways but he has also said and done much for the rapid development of the upper counties. If the people of the older portions of the state would give the attention to the opportunities in the upper counties that has been given by Hoard and the faculty of the college of agriculture, there would be few dollars going out of the state in the future.
