Society's Responsibility To Those Who Err

Judge A. C. Backus, of Milwaukee, Delivered An Address Before The Woman's Club At West Bend

JUDGE BACKUS IS A FORMER KEWASKUM BOY

Was The First Judge In The United States To Advance The Probation Method Of Treating First Offenders

Judge A. C. Backus of Milwaukee delivered an address before the Woman's club at West Bend on Friday evening, November 16th. His subject was "Society's Responsibility to Those Who Err." The judge is the first judge in the United States who has advanced the probation method of treating first offenders. The following article is taken from the Detroit Times. "Judge Backus is the first judge in the United States who is advancing the probation method of treating first offenders. Judges, philanthropists and criminologists all over the world are watching with great interest the result of his work." Following is part of his address delivered at West Bend.

The treatment of those who violate the law is one of the most difficult of the larger social problems. From the beginning law-abiding society has been a harsh keeper of its erring brother. Modern thought and humanity has moved rapidly from the spirit of the inquisition to a more tolerant understanding of the causes of crime and an expanding policy of conserving and reclaiming certain prisoners or offenders to more usefulness in society.

The penalties now imposed for various crimes are not arbitrary they are more or less elastic, they are the product of centuries of experience. To certain persons now convicted of crimes we are affording more and more opportunity to assist himself in his own reclamation. The prisons are more wholesome and sanitary; we have good time allowance for prisoners, with an occasional understanding of the power, the parole and even the growing policy of probation exercised by the courts in certain cases.

For many ages back prison life was very dark. It was long and dreary, extending from the beginning of the eighteenth century of the Christian era. It will be enough to recall the name of the Mamertine at Rome, the Tower of London, the Bastille of Paris, the Spielberg in Austria, the Plombs of Venice, the mines of Siberia, and the dungeons of the inquisition as types of ten thousands of other less renowned but not less cruel in all ages and parts of the world.

The terrific personification of punishment in the Hindu code was a living reality of itself, punishment was the punishment of terror, with a black aspect and no sentiment of humanity towards the prisoner seems ever to have penetrated the breast of his jailer, no look of sympathy, no willingness to have saluted culprit's senses or soothed the misery of his incarceration. The inscription over the entrance of Dante's Inferno "Let all who enter leave hope behind," stood through centuries and cycles over all the prison entries of the world, crushing every aspiration and paralyzing every effort and hope.

Criminals may be classified under three heads; first, the instinctive criminal, second, the habitual criminal, and third the occasional criminal or single offender. The instinctive or born criminal is a being who does not adjust themselves to the social order on account of their hereditary or inborn defects. Criminals by acquired habit or habitual criminals are persons who have taken on crime tendencies through the influence of their environment. The occasional offenders are socially normal persons who have not formed any criminal habits but who have committed single offenses. With reference to the first class nothing can be done no matter what system may be devised, except to confine or restrain or treat them as they are. It is possible for him because of hereditary defects to adjust himself with society. Under this group we find the criminal insane, the moral imbeciles and the degenerations. It is only with reference to the second and third classes that individuals can be corrected either by punishment, treatment or probation. Courts and juries deal with more cases of the third class than the occasional offenders, than all the other classes taken together.

Probation is a means of treatment which is now being used with reference to the third class of offenders. It was in the juvenile courts where the probation system was first inaugurated and extensively carried out. In Wisconsin the first juvenile court was created in Milwaukee county by the legislature in 1901. The court was immediately organized with Judge Neelen presiding. Instead of bringing the erring youth to the jail or prison where he formerly mingled with hardened criminals awaiting trial, he is now immediately taken to the detention home and then tried in juvenile court away from criminals, where the atmosphere and environment is more wholesome. Because of the splendid results obtained in this court the legislature increased powers and jurisdiction of this court and created probation officers whose duty it is to care for and supervise, direct and help the unfortunate boy or girl. During the past ten years 6570 children in Milwaukee county have been tried in the juvenile court and over 90 percent of them have been saved. If these cases had been tried in the city of London 150 years ago 2500 of these little offenders would have been executed. I cannot speak too highly of the splendid and conscientious work of Judge Neelen, his probation officers, and those who have given their untiring efforts in assisting these boys and girls. While I was district attorney of this county dealing with many offenders and criminals of all ages and classes, the thought often came to me that if boys and girls can be saved by probation why cannot the young men and women be saved under the same system. Many leading citizens of the state interested in this work had the same view, and in 1909 the legislature passed the adult probation law, giving the courts of the state the power to place on probation the first offenders where the maximum penalty did not exceed ten years in the states prison, and such probationers to be placed in charge and custody of the state board of control. It was a forward step for Wisconsin. Turn back the pages of history for 4000 years, and nowhere in any land or country will you find any statute or law so far-reaching for the well-being, welfare and interest of humanity.

Many of the judges of the old school in this state after the passage of the law were reluctant to try it, and in the first year of its existence not a few adult offenders were given the privilege the law extended, was an ardent advocate of its principles, and believed that the spirit of the law should be carried out. It was a happy incident in my life when I assumed the bench in June 1910, just about a year after its enactment, so that I could put into practice that which I believed to be for the best interest of the individual and the state.

When I was a boy I was deeply impressed with the story told of young Warren and Lincoln. Warren was a soldier serving as a private in the civil war. After a long and weary march one day Warren was assigned to picket duty; it was an important duty that night, because the lives of thousands of soldiers sleeping in the tents in the rear might depend on the action of Warren. However, Warren was tired and worn and soon fell asleep at his post. He was discovered in time, and the following day he was court-martialed and sentenced to be shot. An appeal finally found its way to President Lincoln. Lincoln sent for the young man, Warren appeared in the fulness of his youth with a splendid countenance, with clear bright eyes that looked appealing, with a true warm heart beating and praying that he might be Lincoln was not revengeful, he was never ready to destroy but always ready to save; he fully realized the grave offense Warren had committed and knew its import; and after a prolonged silence he took young Warren's hand and with tears in his eyes he said "I shall spare your life, Warren, go back to your regiment and serve your country well." This was characteristic of Lincoln, he saved the lives of many unfortunate soldiers who had erred. Lincoln believed that it was human to err but divine to forgive. Warren went back to his regiment and he never again slept at his post; he fought and struggled with his regiment throughout the war, he served his country well, and when the war was over he came out as captain of his regiment. I have read this story a great many times, it is the secret of our probation work. We are trying to make certain of the private who have erred by awakening the good that is in them and giving them an opportunity. It should not be understood that probation is a species of leniency as some seem to believe. It is a scientific method of treating offenders who are relatively socialized and who are in good environment. It is the showing of the proper way, it is protect him against himself, to aid him and not to crush him. The adult probation system is still in its infancy. In the two years four months I have placed 304 first offenders on probation who have committed a state prison offense, and in that time but nine have been returned to the court for violation of the rules of their probation. When the probation law was first enacted one of the members of the senate committee on judiciary told me that if one young man out of every ten would be saved the intentment of the law would be fully carried out. Instead of saving ten placed on probation in the last two years and four months I have placed 100 persons sentenced in 1907 before the probation law was in effect, I find that 27 were returned to the court after service of their sentence in the states prison, reformatory or house of correction, on second offense, and sent back to the penitentiary. How many more returned in the past year? I am unable to say but for argument's sake let us assume that 27 were all that committee another felony after serving their sentence, we find that 27 offenders returned to prison under the former system as against 38 percent under the probation system. And further we have taken away under the probation system the stigma of a felon and the mark which always follows a young man who makes a good and valuable citizen of him.

In my interviews with those who have been returned to court on a second offense I find invariably the answer that when they were in prison the world was against them, that instead of receiving some encouragement from society, the people and often former friends avoided them. Without means and without encouragement at the door for employment, only to find that their record of conviction has preceded them; branded as convicts and criminals they are left alone upon the streets to be left alone in their misery and shame. They naturally look with bitter towards society; no one has confidence to repose in them, even employment is denied them and they become social outcasts. I say in many cases society itself is responsible for the social incarceration of the man who has tried to make good. This evil should especially be remedied. Prison labor should be reformed so that it should be a share in the earnings, in order that those dependent upon him for support may receive the necessities of life.

In our probation case no probationers are turned back upon the community without first giving him employment; the probation officer assumes control of the young man's earnings, a heart to heart talk is had with him, with the judge and the court; his environment is looked into, he is sent to evening school, and the library, his earnings are accounted for, his habits of daily life are carefully noted, and the probation officer now working in every employer will be ready to give any of them recommendation such as he never could have received before.

In the great majority of first offenders society can best protect itself by protecting the individual against himself. It should not be ready to condemn, but the great state should step in in many cases as his guardian and show him the way which makes for better and greater citizenship.

In many cases that are called to the court's attention I find that the parents are sometimes more to blame than the child, sometimes it is the lack of proper training at home. I find the parents indifferent, again I find mothers spending their time away from home when nearly all their time should be spent in the home with their children. It is the mother after all that makes the nation strong and great. I recall a case where a boy was brought into court for grand larceny; he said he stole that which his mother, sisters and brothers might live. I was informed that the father had neglected the family, that he was shiftless and lazy; that he had been in and out of house of correction seven times, on the charge of vagrancy. I sent for the father; the mother was in court with a baby in his arms, and five children. When the father was called to the bar for a few silent moments, the father looked at his son, and then came the awful awakening. It was not necessary for the court to say a word; the situation was clear; it was the father that brought on the boy's downfall. With a full realization of what had happened no one better appreciated its consequence than he. The father and son wept bitterly; new resolutions and promises were made; the boy was placed on probation; employment was given to the father as well as to the boy, and the probation officer assumed control of his earnings. One year and seven months have passed; no longer is the family home in the basement of a tenement house with filth and vermin, a home now with a hard working father and happy mother and four children greets the pleasant rays of sunshine. I cite this case not alone to show what was done with the father and son, but to show that a great responsibility rests with the parent. The time will come in the near future when courts and juries will deal with the parent as well as the erring youth. In some cases I find the young man a victim of circumstances his associations, surroundings or environment is bad, sometimes it is weakness, lack of courage or will-power, and again I have found that he committed crime because of want, destitution and despair.

The probation system has been a means in changing their course. I remember a bright young girl whose environment was good, but who was in want of luxuries, she wanted to meet her associates who were better situated financially, and equal footing she was ready to steal to satisfy this desire. The parent ought to have noticed this by closer companionship before the court discovered her downfall. However, this girl was quick to see her wrong, the court, the probation officer, the mother and the girl had a long talk; we went over the whole situation very carefully and thoroughly; she left a changed girl fully realizing her mistake and she went out to face the world with a determined effort to wrong again. Today she is assistant superintendent of her Sunday school, she passed the teachers examination and is now teaching in a district school, she has a little bank account and attends strictly to business. What future would there have been for her if the court had sent her to the house of correction?

A NEW FIGHT BEGUN IN WISCONSIN

Anti-Tuberculosis Organization Carry On General Health Campaign

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 9, 1912. On the evening of the opening of the Christmas Seal Campaign an epoch making announcement has just been made by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association to the effect that from now on, the fight against other contagious diseases will be taken up by that organization. In taking this advanced step in doing general public health work, the directors are acceding to a demand which has come from people, in every section of the state, who wish to see that more efficient educational work tried on typhoid, contagious and intestinal diseases of infancy and childhood, etc., that is procuring such remarkable results in the fight against consumption.

"Oh no," said Dr. Dearholt, the executive secretary, in answer to a query, "we shall not let up an iota in the fight against tuberculosis, in every section of the state, who wish to see that more efficient educational work tried on typhoid, contagious and intestinal diseases of infancy and childhood, etc., that is procuring such remarkable results in the fight against consumption."

GOVERNOR WINNER ON LATE RETURNS

Governor Gains Re-Election by a Close Margin.

5,000 PLURALITY OVER KAREL

Vote Still Incomplete, and Official May Reduce Republican Candidate's Lead—Wilson's Plurality Over Taft in State About 30,000.

Milwaukee, Nov. 9.—While still incomplete, the returns from the state point to the re-election of Gov. McGovern by upward of 5,000. The official returns from Portage county, which had been figured as giving McGovern a plurality of 643, showed a plurality for Karel of 286, a difference of 929, which served to pull the McGovern lead down below the 5,000 mark, although Trempealeau, which had been set down for 800 plurality for McGovern, gave 1,268, according to the official count, and Ashland county, reported at 443, gave 562 on the official count.

The official vote has been received from only a few of the counties and the indications are, from the official returns already in, that the final count may make important changes in the pluralities, but hardly sufficient to affect the result.

So certain are the managers of the Republican state central committee that the Republican state ticket is elected that the headquarters here have been closed. Judge John C. Karel is unwilling to concede the election to McGovern at this time. He intimated that the official count might change the totals and that until the official count has been made he would have nothing to say.

As indicated by the unofficial returns, the officers elected are as follows: Governor—Francis E. McGovern, Lieutenant Governor—Thomas Morris, La Crosse. Secretary of State—John S. Donald, Dane. State Treasurer—Henry Johnson, Oconto. Attorney General—Walter S. Owen, Pierce.

Wilson's plurality over Taft in Wisconsin will be probably 25,000, and returns show Taft received about double the vote accorded Roosevelt, the progressive party candidate.

The vote in Wisconsin for president this fall was the lightest that has been cast in a presidential year since 1888, and the lightest cast at any general election since 1898. As compared with the vote of 1908 the returns on the presidential vote cast last Tuesday shows that over 100,000 voters remained away from the polls.

Since then Dr. Elson has been in constant correspondence with the veterinarians of the state and has assurance that the disease has entirely disappeared.

Socialists and Prohibitionists Gain.

CLOSE VOTES NOT UNUSUAL

History Shows Many Occasions When Results of Wisconsin Elections Were in Doubt.

Madison.—Close votes on governor such as characterized the recent election, are not new in Wisconsin. In 1855 Coles Bashford of Oshkosh was the republican candidate and William A. Barstow the democratic candidate for re-election. It required months to decide who was elected. At one time it seemed settled that Bashford had, but a few days later came returns from Eau Claire which put Barstow a few hundred votes in the lead. These returns looked suspicious to the republicans and they investigated and found that they were fraudulent—that there were not a quarter as many people in the district as had been shown by the democratic returns. But Barstow was seated, and the case went to the supreme court and he was ousted.

In 1857 Alexander W. Randall, Waukesha, was the republican candidate and James B. Cross, Milwaukee, the democratic candidate. Both were supposed to be elected. There was uncertainty until the official canvass was made and Randall declared the winner by about 700.

In 1859 Randall was renominated and Harrison C. Hobart was the democratic candidate. Randall won by only a few thousands.

In 1865 Gen. L. Fairchild, republican, and Gen. H. C. Hobart made the run. It took a week to settle the election. Fairchild won by about 6,000, and in his three elections his plurality did not exceed 10,000.

C. C. Washburn, who succeeded Fairchild, had a small majority. In 1875 it was several days before it was known who was elected—Taylor, democrat, who was up for re-election, or Harrison Ludington, a former mayor of Milwaukee. The latter had less than 1,000 the lead. In 1892, when Gov. G. W. Peck, democrat, and Col. John C. Spooner made the race, Spooner was supposed to be elected for a time, but Gov. Peck pulled through with 7,000. Maj. Upham in 1894 was the first to receive over 50,000 majority.

PRISON TWINE IS PERFECT

Waupun Plant Turning Out Satisfactory Product—Twenty-five Prisoners Are Employed.

Madison.—A ball of binder twine on Gov. McGovern's desk in the executive chamber is a reminder that the binder twine plant in the state prison at Waupun has started to turn out the product for which it was intended. It is a fine product, smooth, strong, bright and commercially perfect.

The plant is now running sixteen spindles at capacity and the twine made is said to be gratifyingly uniform. How much the product of the plant will be until the plant is fully equipped and manned is not known. It is expected, however, that the amount will be sufficient to establish the price if not supply the demand. So far only $50,000 of the $200,000 revolving fund appropriated by the last legislature has been used in carrying on the work.

The factory building is said to be one of the best in the country, perfectly equipped with the latest and best machinery and in respect to sanitation it is without fault.

CALLAHAN HEAD OF STATE EDUCATORS

Menasha Man New President of Teachers' Association.

DEPLORE SUFFRAGE DEFEAT

Address of Mrs. Mary D. Bradford, Kenosha, the Retiring President, Voices Disappointment at Amendment's Fate in Recent Election.

Milwaukee.—At the sixtieth annual convention of the Wisconsin Teachers' association held here the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President—John Callahan, Menasha.

First Vice President—Samuel Plantz, Appleton. Second Vice President—H. A. Schofield, Superior. Third Vice President—Miss Helen Martin, Elkhorn. Treasurer—G. F. Loomis, Waukesha.

Executive Committee—L. S. Keeley, Mayville; Miss Nellie Minnhan and Miss Ellen Sabine, Milwaukee.

At the opening session of the convention in the auditorium, Mrs. Mary D. Bradford, president of the association, delivered her annual address. She said in part: "The membership list of this association for 1911 contains over 5,800 names. It is hoped that 1912 will show an increased membership, for that would mean adequate financial support and another good program in 1913. This association should have a larger proportion of its 6,000 members active in the promulgation of the educational ideas and ideals for which it stands, and to which its program gives voice."

Mrs. Bradford expressed regret at the defeat of woman suffrage in Wisconsin. "The result of the recent election is a great disappointment to all women desiring to perform social service," she said. "However, the fight is not yet settled in Wisconsin. It is only begun." At the closing of the business session several resolutions were passed including one on record as unequivocally opposed to public school fraternities and sororities and planning to urge the legislature to pass a law prohibiting them; one to urge upon congress the passage of an act which will bring into the elementary grades better preparation for good citizenship; one expressing congratulations to Woodrow Wilson, mentioned as "a fellow teacher"; one to endorse the movement for the widening of school movements by the introduction of more social centers.

OFFICIAL STAFF TO REMAIN

No Changes Expected in Reorganization of the Wisconsin Legislature.

Madison.—Present indications are that the next legislature will be organized with practically the same official staff as the last. There is apparently no opposition to the selection of Fred M. Wyle of Morrisonville as chief clerk of the senate; Charles Leitch of New Lisbon will be selected sergeant-at-arms of the senate, according to plans. C. E. Shaffer of Madison is slated for reelection as chief clerk of the assembly and W. S. Irvine of Greenwood as sergeant-at-arms of the assembly. Examination for civil service will be held this month.

Teachers as Game Wardens.

TERROR REIGNS IN TURK ARMY

Famishing Swarms Retreat in Disorganized Mass to Constantinople.

AS SEEN BY CORRESPONDENTS

Soldiers Claw Each Other for Food—Wounded From Tchatalja Seek Refuge in Capital as Bulgars Push Their Advantage.

Paris, Nov. 13.—Jean Rodes, a staff correspondent of the Temps, who has reached Constantinople from the war zone, sends a vivid picture of the misery of the Turkish soldiers and the disorganization of the Turkish army.

"I have witnessed the failure of the Turk as a soldier," says Rodes. "We have seen him dying of hunger, worn out by fatigue, wrecked by suffering, and running away after having abandoned his place in the combat."

"I have never seen a more poignant picture of human distress than that presented by these unhappy men, thrown into one of the most terrible wars in history without food, without medical attention, almost without arms, almost without arms. At Seldler I saw a soldier whose right hand had been severed hold out to us, begging for medical help, the bleeding stump around which he had tied a piece of twine.

"I saw long lines of famished men who came to our tent begging for a crumb of bread and staggering away without a murmur of complaint when told that we had none to give. I saw a thousand wounded leaving a trail of blood as they dragged themselves toward Tchortlu. I saw hundreds of others fall by the wayside dying from wounds and fatigue.

"At Tchortlu a column of soldiers, terrible in appearance, staggered through the streets in a driving rain and wind storm. No one paid any attention to them. They had no shelter, nothing to eat. From a nearby bakery an officer threw out handfuls of bread and the soldiers fought for the loaves. More than half of them got nothing, and turned away, ragged, pallid, and weak.

"All the houses were closed. Practically all the population had fled, and those who remained barricaded themselves within, trembling with fear. The soldiers knocked vainly at the barred doors.

"Groups shivering in the cold tried the doors of stables to seek refuge; even the stables remained inhospitable. Refugees smashed their way into shops and devoured all they found, including raw vegetables and candles, and sucked at pieces of greasy wood.

"Call it image of inferno. I never saw such an image of inferno."

"Maybe She Has. Gladman—I think my wife has decided to give up bridge and afternoon teas. Sadman—On what do you base your feet? Gladman—I found a button sewed to my shirt that had been missing for months. The Result. "No shams for me!" declared Jones. The result in the house was a pillow fight. A Definition. "Pa," said Willie, "what is a genius?" "A genius, my son," said Mr. Know-it-all, "is a man who can't collect enough of what the world owes him to pay what he owes to the community in which he lives."

A Rough Guess. "What did the doctor write on the slip he handed you?" "I don't know," replied Mr. Growcher, "but I rather suspect it was Latin for 'please remit.'"

GENERAL SAVOFF

General Savoff, commander-in-chief of the victorious Bulgarian forces in Thrace, is a native Bulgarian and received his military education in Paris and St. Petersburg.

ferno. One of the most miserable of the wanderers succeeded in getting into a house where we were staying, drenched to the skin and teeth chattering. "Take all my money; take my clothing, if you will," he cried, "but I beg of you to give me some bread."

"I questioned him. He said he came from Asia Minor and had not eaten for eight days. I gave him a slice of bread and a chocolate tablet, and he went away to join the remnants of the retreating army, of which this was the end.

"Thus did the Turkish soldier appear to me. He seemed to have no understanding of the great drama in which he was participating, but his infinite misery and his horrible animal distress were enough to break one's heart.

"I do not know whether the accusations of a massacre are exact, but so far as I have observed, I can affirm that not only have the Turks committed no excesses but I believe that no army in the world under such frightful circumstances would have been more moderate, more docile."

Properly Qualified. The Youth—Sir, I came to ask your consent to my marriage with your daughter. The Old Man—Is your income sufficient to support a wife? The Youth—It is, and, in addition to that, it is sufficient to enable me to stand on an occasional touch on my wife's father. The Old Man—Say no more, young man. She's yours. Bless you, my son.

Onward and Upward. "So you are going to be a grand opera singer?" "Only for a little while," replied the ambitious young vocalist. "Just long enough to get a reputation which will enable me to establish a business in educating people in how to reduce weight and become beautiful."

The Alternative. "Will they hang your client?" "Not if we can manage to hang the jury."

Only Natural. "I cannot sing the old songs," she began, and, lacking both youth and beauty, it was perhaps only natural that she should have caused a man in the rear seat to yell: "You can't sing anything."

A Mere Quack. "Don't you think Dr. Brightwood is just splendid? He seems to know immediately what ails one." "No, I don't believe in him at all. He has told my husband he ought to quit working so hard."

CANALEJAS IS SLAIN

SPANISH PREMIER SHOT TO DEATH BY MANUEL ZARRATE, A RADICAL.

HAS GUN IN HANDKERCHIEF

Execution of Professor Ferrer Believed to Have Prompted Deed—Murderer Commits Suicide—King Alfonso Weeps When Death is Told.

Madrid, Nov. 13.—Premier Canalejas of Spain was assassinated by an anarchist in this city Tuesday. The premier was shot to death as he stood upon the steps of the home office.

The assassin who subsequently committed suicide was identified as Manuel Pardiñas Zarrate, a dangerous radical who has been under police surveillance.

News of assassination spread at once throughout the city and created intense excitement. When King Alfonso heard of it he is said to have wept with grief.

The anarchist, who had evidently been waiting for some time to get a chance to fire upon the premier, rushed forward as though to address a petition to the government official when he appeared on the steps of the home office.

Because of the dangerous state of political unrest in Spain, the premier had been warned repeatedly to retain a guard about his person, but Senor Canalejas paid no attention to this injunction and frequently went about unattended. He had received a number of death threats.

The police believe that the assassination is a direct outcome of the execution of Professor Ferrer, the Republican who was condemned and put to death for his radical writings about a year and a half ago.

Zarrate shot himself with the same revolver that had taken the life of Senor Canalejas.

The assassination was witnessed by a number of persons, but happened so quickly that they could give no aid.

As the anarchist sprang toward Premier Canalejas he pulled a handkerchief from his pocket in which was a concealed revolver. At the instant Senor Canalejas slightly turned his head, Zarrate, taking quick aim, fired and the bullet struck the premier behind the right ear.

Before Senor Canalejas toppled a second shot was fired, which also struck him in the head. In a few seconds soldiers who stood beside the door of the home office sprang forward. Zarrate turned the revolver against his heart and pulled the trigger.

The two bodies fell within a few feet of each other.

Medical aid was at once summoned and soldiers were brought from the barracks to prevent the escape of any accomplices of the assassin who might be near by.

Although the physicians arrived within a few moments Premier Canalejas was already dead. In his hand he claspd some papers which he had been carrying when shot. The first shot had apparently been fatal.

SIX KILLED IN EXPLOSION

Many Are Injured When Aetna Company's Plant Is Blown Up—Debris Scattered Over Mile Around.

Gary, Ind., Nov. 14.—Six men were killed outright and about thirty injured in an explosion which demolished pack house No. 3 of the Aetna Powder company, three miles east of Gary Tuesday. Between 1,000 and 2,000 pounds of new dynamite exploded, damaging other buildings and scattering debris over a mile of territory.

Pack house No. 3 is one of nearly 100 small houses in which the dynamite is packed by machinery. The machinery in the house failed to operate and William Halpin, foreman of the powder line and the only man permitted to repair the machinery, began to investigate the cause. What he found will probably never be known, as the explosion followed immediately.

Made Error at Mt. Vernon—Confessed Dynamiter Asserts That He Was Underpaid.

Indianapolis, Nov. 12.—From that part of his career when he had discarded dynamite and was resorting to the use of nitroglycerin, which he carried about on passenger trains by the dozens of quarts, Ortle E. McManigal related at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial how he had caused explosions at Cleveland, O.; Jersey City, N. J.; Pittsburg, Pa.; Omaha, Neb., and Superior, Wis.

He named Peter J. Smith, Cleveland; George "Nipper" Anderson, Cleveland; Charles Wachtmeister, Detroit; Hiram Cline, Indianapolis; William E. Reddin, Milwaukee; Fred Mooney, Duluth, Minn., and Eugene A. Clancy, San Francisco, all labor union officials, besides those he previously had mentioned, as being among the forty-five defendants who knew he was employed by the iron workers' union to blow up work under construction by "open shop" contractors.

"At the iron workers' headquarters in Indianapolis J. B. and J. J. McNameara and I compared accounts and found that Hockin had held out $500 on me for all the jobs I had done. J. J. said he had always suspected that Hockin was a double-crosser. He said he was going to tell President Frank M. Ryan about it; but I was to go right on with the jobs as Hockin had planned."

SENATE TO BE DEMOCRATIC

Victory of Henry Lane in Oregon Makes Control of Upper House at Washington Sure.

Washington, Nov. 12.—The positive announcement Sunday of the success of Henry Lane, the Democratic candidate to the senate in Oregon, assures Democratic control of the upper house of congress and places both branches of the national legislature and the presidency in their hands for the first time in eighteen years. The addition of Oregon to the Democratic list gives that party forty-nine senators, or a majority of two.

In addition to the election of successors to Democratic senators now sitting, Democrats will displace Republican senators from Oregon, New Jersey, Kansas, Colorado, Montana, Delaware and Nevada, and will fill the vacancy in Colorado with a man of their choosing.

London, Nov. 13.—Following its defeat on the amendment to the home rule bill in the house of commons, the government decided Monday that it would set aside precedent and not resign. The government will, therefore, move at an early day for the recommitment of the bill and expects to be victorious, inasmuch as the ballot was a snap vote and was taken on Monday, when many of the supporters of the government had not returned to town from the week end.

The jeopardizing of Ireland's chances of winning self government came, when an amendment hostile to the measure was put through by a vote of 228 to 206.

SAYS HE IS GUILTY

JOHN SCHRANK SAYS HE SHOT ROOSEVELT AS A "MENACE," NOT TO KILL A CITIZEN.

RAILS AT THIRD-TERM IDEA

Sanity Board to Be Chosen to Determine Whether Assassin Is Sane—Judge Appoints Counsel to Represent Man at Hearing.

Milwaukee, Nov. 14.—Seeking to distinguish between an attack upon Roosevelt as a "menace" and an attack upon Roosevelt as a citizen, John Schrank pleaded guilty here Tuesday of attempting to murder Theodore Roosevelt in this city. Municipal Judge A. C. Backus announced after reading a petition from District Attorney Winifred C. Zazel, that later he would name a commission to examine into Schrank's mental condition.

The court appointed Attorney Joseph Flanders of Milwaukee to represent Schrank in the sanity hearing. The experts are expected to begin their examination immediately after being instructed by the court.

Schrank's case was the first before the court.

"Is there any matter to come before the court?" asked Judge Backus.

"There is the case of the state of Wisconsin against John Schrank," replied the district attorney, who then read the complaint, in which Schrank was accused of having made an assault upon the person of "one Theodore Roosevelt with a deadly weapon and with intent then and there to kill and slay the said Theodore Roosevelt."

"How do you plead to this charge?" the prosecutor asked the prisoner standing at his elbow.

"Why, guilty, Mr. Zabel," replied the prisoner, in a confused way as though not sure he was following the proper procedure.

"You have heard the complaint," interrupted Judge Backus in a loud voice; "you understand that if you are charged with having attempted to murder Theodore Roosevelt? Do you plead guilty or not guilty?"

"I did not mean to kill a citizen, judge," began Schrank, and the crowd in the courtroom gave first audible evidence of its interest in the case. "I shot Theodore Roosevelt because he was a menace to the country. He should not have a third term. It had that a man should have a third term. I did not want him to have one. I shot him as a warning that men must not try to have more than two terms as president."

"I shot Theodore Roosevelt to kill him. I think all men trying to keep themselves in office should be killed; they become dangerous. I did not do it because he was a candidate of the Progressive party, either, gentlemen," he concluded.

Friend Note. Lady Duff Gordon, at a tea at the Ritz-Carlton, praised the panner skirt.

"Everybody likes it, it is so graceful," she said, smiling. "Everybody likes it except crusty old fellows."

She turned to a crusty old fellow upon a Louis Seize chair beside her and continued:

"I know a woman whose husband growled at her when she tried on a new panner gown for him: 'I don't see why you wear those ridiculous hip panners. You have not got the hips to fill them.'"

"The woman blushed and bit her lip. Then she said quietly: 'But do you fill your silk hat, George?'"

THE RIGHT SOAP FOR BABY'S SKIN

In the care of baby's skin and hair, Cuticura Soap is the mother's favorite. Not only is it unrivaled in purity and refreshing fragrance, but its gentle emollient properties are usually sufficient to allay minor irritations, remove redness, roughness and chafing, soothe sensitive conditions, and promote skin and hair health generally. Assisted by Cuticura Ointment, it is most valuable in the treatment of eczemas, rashes and other itching, burning infantile eruptions. Cuticura Soap wears to a water-open, outlasting several cakes of ordinary soap and making its use most economical.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston." Adv.

Was Fun to Choose. A number of drivers of racing cars who were in Louisville to participate in the motor races were present at a luncheon in honor of one of the leading contestants, who told several automobile stories.

"But my best story," said the racer, "is about a taxicab chauffeur. This man was discharged for reckless driving and so became a motorman on a trolley car.

"As he was scrambling over his fallen fortunes a friend said: 'Oh, what's the matter with you? Can't you run over people just as much as ever?'"

"Yes," the ex-chauffeur replied, "but formerly I could pick, and choose."

Probably Prize Ground. A grouchy butcher, who had watched the price of porterhouse steak climb the ladder of fame, was deep in the throes of an unusually bad grouch when a would-be customer, 8 years old, approached him and handed him a penny.

The Woman Makes the Home

She makes it best who, looking after the culinary department, turns her back resolutely upon unhealthful, or even suspicious, food accessories. She is economical; she knows that true economy does not consist in the use of inferior meat, flour, or baking powder. She is an earnest advocate of home made, home baked food, and has proved the truth of the statements of the experts that the best cooking in the world today is done with Royal Baking Powder.

Flagged Train With Shirt.

Tearing his shirt from his back an Ohio man flagged a train and saved it from a wreck, but H. T. Alston, Raleigh, N. C., once prevented a wreck with Electric Bitters. "I was in a terrible plight when I began to use them," he writes, "my stomach, head, back and kidneys were all badly affected and my liver was in bad condition, but four bottles of Electric Bitters made me feel like a new man." A trial will convince you of their matchless merit for any stomach, liver or kidney trouble. Price 50 cents at all Druggists.

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Give the cows a name.
 Mulch the strawberries.
 Baled corn fodder is new.
 Use a low wagon in the orchard.
 Clean out the old nesting material and burn it.
 Milk to the last drop, for the last milk is the best.
 Sweet clover can be used as a substitute for red clover.
 A single drop of milk contains five million globules of butter fat.
 When corn husking time is at hand, the corn ought to be fairly well dried out.
 Hogs will husk corn for nothing. The corn ought to be fairly well dried out.
 It is not what is eaten but what is digested that furnishes strength and muscle.
 Vitality is a very important characteristic in the dairy cow or any other farm animal.
 Hogging down corn looks like a lazy man's way, but it is a money maker. Try it.
 A hen can't be a very respectable hen if she is full of lice—help her by cleaning up the roosts.
 In the poultry quarters, be careful to keep flth from accumulating and keep fowls free from lice.
 Give the ducks clean water every time you feed them because a duck always drinks while eating.
 Don't let a frost scare you into gathering the cabbages. Leave them out until freezing weather comes.
 The seed of broom corn has considerable feeding value. It may be removed, dried or put in the silo.
 If your sweet corn seed is mixed with field corn, better feed it to the chickens and buy new next spring.
 The coming of woven wire fences will help keep down the weeds along the roadsides in a rather roundabout way.
 Good shelter will make feed go farther and this is a good time to see that barns and sheds are made tight for the winter.
 The beef supply cannot be much increased inside of two years. This means high cattle prices for at least two years more.
 Whether brood mare or gelding it is the healthy, well fed horse that exhibits the greatest endurance and nobility in harness.
 After corn passes the proper stage at which it should be converted into silage or fodder, it deteriorates very rapidly in quality.
 In the horse for active service the breast should not be over medium width and the forelegs should be reasonably close together.
 Both cane and kafir are not hurt much for feed if they are caught by frost provided they are cut before much rain falls on them.
 A square breasted, well muscled horse will stand more work and more hardship than two lank, loosely-jointed ones, and not require as much power as one of them.
 When the calf is just learning to eat boil oatmeal or cornmeal into a thin mush, add a quart of it to a pail of skim milk and the calves will suck it up with great relish.
 Nothing should be more gradual than the development of the power of a draft horse and in but few other ways are horses more permanently injured than in pushing their development too rapidly.
 If you have several kinds of rough feed on hand it will be a good plan to mix them up in feeding. Stock like a change of feed as well as you do and if their breakfast can be of one kind and their supper of another, so much the better.
 One reason why some men do not find sheep profitable is because they have those which would not do well for anybody. Turn off every head of that sort and get some first-class sheep, and you will soon find yourself making some good clean money from them.

Pick all fruit carefully.
 Plow for corn in the fall.
 Start a war on poultry pests.
 Store seed corn in a dry place.
 Clipping horses' legs is not a good practice.
 Excessive sweating in a horse indicates weakness.
 The first and greatest law of breeding is "like begets like."
 Many imported horses are a "sell" to whoever buys them.
 Moderate frosts improve rather than harm the cabbage.
 Why not shed farm machinery, the same as the field products?
 Store some dust for the chickens dust bath during midwinter.
 It is only recently that sweet clover has been used for feeding livestock.
 Silage and alfalfa combined make the foundation of the best dairy ration.
 The scrub cow appears in every herd, whether it be a pure bred or a grade herd.
 See that the ladders are safe before using them. Unsafe rounds may mean broken legs.
 The separator is a helpful factor in establishing the uniformity of the finished product.
 When a heifer is first fresh it is especially important that all the milk be drawn from her.
 How much does it cost to have that machinery standing out in the weather? Shedding is cheap!
 No stock grower can afford to have his animals burn grain for fuel to keep themselves warm.
 Sweet potatoes should be dried and then stored in boxes of sand before the frost touches them.
 Development of a flock and greatly increased profits cannot be secured without careful breeding.
 Letting butter drain well before salting is one of the little things that makes for better quality.
 The use of the pure-bred sires has brought about a much better quality of stock kept on the farms.
 Keep the hogs quiet, clean and comfortable if you expect the best gain from the food supplied.
 Selling butter or cream from the farm robs the soil of less fertility than does any other farm product.
 The cost of feeding an animal increases with its weight, but not in direct proportion to its weight.
 Hurry all cement work to a finish now, so it will have time to set well before freezing cracks and damages it.
 The milk pail with a flaring top has been ruled out. Hooded pails with small openings are much more dirt-proof.
 Are you keeping a lot of horses for which you have no special need? Let the other fellow have them at present prices.
 See to it that the colt does not become constipated. A small dose of castor oil is a good thing to get the bowels started.
 Too often the dairy poultry and hog work are side lines on the farm. Make them the main line and they will lead you to profit.
 Fill the producing cows up on clover hay or alfalfa hay if you can get it instead of fodder or other coarse stuff containing low feed values.
 Hogs do not waste corn in the field except in muddy weather. They gain faster, more evenly and more economically in the corn field than in the dry lot.
 Good bright corn fodder is worth more for dairy cows than pure timothy hay but both should be fed along with clover or alfalfa to get the best results.
 At the Iowa station corn and soy beans hogged down produced 15.7 pounds of pork per bushel of corn. At 8 1/2 cents per pound that is $1.23 per bushel for the corn.
 When the pumpkins and squashes are gathered, do not put them in the cellar at once. They will keep much better if stored in some dark outbuilding until real freezing weather comes.
 As the cold weather approaches the separator bowl should be filled with hot water before the milk is allowed to run through it. When it is thoroughly warm skimming will be more efficient.
 Aerate new milk as soon as possible after it is drawn, but do not do this in a stable. As good a way to do this as any is to pour the milk slowly from one pail to another for a few minutes. This drives off bad odors and saves the fine butter flavor when the speed rises above or falls below a predetermined limit, so that the motor may be kept at a fairly constant speed. The generator is capable of turning out about 200 watts, and it is light enough to be packed on a mule. The portable generating set has a sending capacity of about 15 miles.

Wireless Power Generated by Hand.
 A new form of generator has been developed by the United States signal corps for use with its portable wireless telegraph sets. It consists of a small generator, the motor of which is driven by hand cranks through a suitable gearing. Two cranks are provided, so that two men may drive the motor at the same time, and if necessary four men may be employed—two at each handle. Low and high speed releases are provided, which disengage the driving gear

Cloud-gray tulle is used for the skirt, which is trimmed at foot with a band of embroidery on net.
 The plain Magyar bodice is of the same; over this at top of sleeves and side is gray silk spotted ribbon of a lighter shade, which is continued down sides of skirt in panel effect, the edges being finished with insertion; the same insertion outlines the "V" at neck, which is filled in with piece lace; buttons trim the front.
 Materials required: Four and one-half yards taffetas 42 inches wide, three yards ninon 40 inches wide, ten buttons, about eight yards insertion two yards wide, trimmings for skirt, one-fourth yard lace 18 inches wide.
 Fashionable Brown.
 The return to favor which yellow has been enjoying of late has been confirmed for the autumn, and among the new things which will be placed high on the list of fashionable colors burnt orange appears. It is already being exploited largely in Paris, and with it also saffron and amber. In addition there are chauxrose, the lovely limpid yellow of the cordial; flame yellow, whose intensity makes it becoming only to certain complexions, and canary, another vivid hue. Brown in every gradation is raised to a pinnacle of modishness, and cigar amalgamated with black will be seen instead of the almost inevitable maple combination, which will, however, be modish also.

Health and Beauty.
 Pineapple is good for indigestion; the juice containing a digestive fluid similar to pepsin.
 If you wish to preserve your teeth take all medicines containing acids through a glass tube.
 Almond oil and lanolin in equal parts rubbed into the eyebrows will stimulate their growth.
 For a greasy, oily skin, put some astringent, a little alcohol or toilet vinegar, into the wash water.
 Honey is excellent in nearly all throat and lung affections. For a sharp tickling throat cough a teaspoonful taken every few moments will quickly allay the irritation.
 The habit of biting the nails may be conquered by will power in an older person, but with children cut the nails very close and dip the ends of the fingers in quinine or a little extract of quassa.

Tea Gown Reminders.
 The flowered silks can be utilized with great charm for making the negligee, but care should be taken to procure those that do not crush.
 Charmeuse, crepe de chine, or voile of a plain and delicate coloring is a satisfactory choice. Two or even three materials may be blended in one toilette.
 Then there is chiffon to remember. One delightful model is made of rose petal pink chiffon over a loose under robe of silk of the same tone. The robe is quite without trimming, save for tiny flowerets made of the chiffon bordering the turned back fronts of the outer dress, which looks very much like a coat with a train.
 Vogue for Fur Trimming.
 The Dry Goods Economist makes the statement that this season fur reigns supreme. In some form or other it is used on practically all styles of suits, wraps, gowns and blouses. Street dresses have skirt bands and narrow finishing strips in the collar, cuffs and vest. Afternoon and evening dresses show touches of fur in the skirt trimmings, on the draperies and as a finish to waists. Fox, skunk, ermine, mole, mink, caracul and seal are the favorite furs

Brocades are the fashion again, and wonderful effects in color and design will be worn this winter. The model is of flame color and gold, showing a graceful draping of the material. The brocade seems to start from the center front of the waist line and winds around the figure, ending in a long pointed train, showing the selvage of the material on one side.

AFTERNOON DRESS. NEWEST COLOR IN VELVET

A peculiar greenish yellow shade not olive and not tan is now much fancied for formal afternoon frocks for bridge, reception or luncheon wear. A costume of this sort has just been finished for a bride of the month. Absent the chiffon velvet is the material and the suit includes a graceful draped skirt and the most courtly of coats short enough at the front to reveal the black satin draped girdle but falling at the back in long tails to the knee. These tails slope gradually from the double-breasted front and give the coat a graceful cutaway effect, viewed from the side. Enormous revers of the velvet are gathered at the top into turnover Robespierre collar of black velvet and hang to the waistline over the coat-front. The revers and collar open in a deep V.
 The skirt has a wide front and back panels hanging perfectly straight, the sides being caught up below the hips into a soft transverse drapery. To match this about the velvet costume there are patent leather boots with buttoned tops of pale tan cloth and very curved French heels, and a hat of cream white moire silk banded with mink and having one green and one gold quill.

Quite the Thing.
 "I told you that if you came tomorrow morning I would give you the money for my wash. Why did you come tonight?" said Miss Phillips to the daughter of her laundress.
 "I know you said tomorrow morning," responded the girl, "but my mother told me to come tonight, 'cause she was afraid you might be gone away by tomorrow morning."
 "I certainly should not go without paying my laundry bill," said Miss Phillips sharply. "No respectable woman would do such a thing."
 "Oh, yes, ma'am, they would," replied the child knowingly. "There's lots of respectable ladies does."
 A Change.
