NUMBER 12.

A TRIP THROUGH GERMANY BY MR. MICH. SCHNEIDER

Michael Schneider, who recently returned from a three month trip through Germany, has kindly prepared a sketch of his journey through the many interesting sights which he has witnessed.

Mr. Schneider is one of Campbellsport's oldest and most highly respected citizens. He is seventy-seven years old and is hale and hearty, always enjoying good health and is a fine jovial companion. Mr. Schneider left his native land, when 22 years of age, in March 1857 and landed in New Orleans on May 15th of the same year, being just fifty-eight days on the ocean. He started north, stopping in St. Louis and Chicago, and arrived in Milwaukee on May 21st of that year. Later he went west, finally going to the Lake Superior region where he worked for a time in the copper mines. In Sep. 1865, he came to Fond du Lac county and settled in the village of New Cassel, helping to build the Northwestern Railroad through here in 1872, he also engaged in grain buying business being the first grain buyer in this neighborhood. He finally bought the farm on which he now resides about two miles north of Campbellsport, but later saw greater opportunities in Dakota to buy grain, and left the farm in charge of his sons and engaged in the grain buying business in Dakota, where he remained until 1893, when he returned home and settled down to the management of his large farm.

Mr. Schneider has seen much of the world during his lifetime and describes his travels most interesting. In 1897 he spent three months touring in the states, especially the western part of the United States. He visited all the larger cities and noted worthy spots in Minnesota, Montana, Washington, Oregon, California, Utah, Colorado, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Idaho, Iowa, Missouri and Illinois. He also visited British Columbia during this trip and the ruins of San Francisco, Cal., after the city was destroyed by earthquake and fire.

Following is the first of a series of letters which we will publish giving an account of Mr. Schneider's travels during his recent trip in Germany, but through the kindness of Rev. Fr. Thille, of St. Joseph's church, who translated them for us, we are able to re-produce them:

Frankfurt on the Main, Niederrad, July 18, 1912. To The Kewaskum Statesman.

According to my promise before my departure I give you herewith a description of my travels:

On June 9th we boarded the steamer, "President Lincoln" and started from New York with about 1,600 passengers arriving in Cuxhaven on June 19, was not affected with the usual seasickness, the weather being excellent, the table service exquisite and every kind of good entertainment provided in abundance and dances. My companions were very kind in every way, we being as members of one great family. I was the oldest in the circle, the "grand-pa," the "uncle" and many other special regards being bestowed on me, even in dancing entertainments I was repeatedly asked: "Please, once more," but had to decline on account of my old stiffened joints.

Enjoyful and in good cheer we reached Cuxhaven safely. The next day we came to Hamburg to make a slight inspection of the most remarkable curiosities. At our first dinner on the continent we were all disappointed about the careless preparation of the table. After dinner we were taken for carriage trip through the principal places of the city, where he stopped four days.

On June 24th we again began to travel in the direction of Hanover, where we were shown the most interesting places of the city. The "Schutzenfest" Rifle match was in session at Hanover and our leader brought us directly to the main meeting place, but all we could see was men at the right of us, men at the left and all around us. I was angry at such a leader and wished with all my heart that I could get away from the crowd and reach Frankfurt as soon as possible, not knowing what else I could do. I went to the leader and stated I was not able to continue the trip. After a little dispute he agreed and paid me back part of my advanced payment. I was much pleased to be so easily free from further participating in that trip. Many of my fellow passengers, on hearing this news, would like to follow my example, but the leader would not agree with them. However, I feel obliged to acknowledge the courtesy of my fellow-passengers during this voyage and the time in the hotels, although the troubles of such a journey were too hard for some of my age. We were greatly disappointed regarding the German railroad passenger cars; there was not a bit of the convenience of the American railroad car. Nobody was there giving us directions or advice, and we were in the cars as in jail, with an exceedingly great heat all the time. No wonder that I refused to continue such a tiresome journey.

In Hanover we also visited the Rath House, or City Hall, a very beautiful building. In a great hall there were the pictures of all the county officers for many years back. In all respects Hanover is a very pretty city. From here I wrote to my nephew at Frankfurt telling him he could expect me any of these days, so I started

June 17 from Hanover to Frankfurt. The next morning I boarded an electric car for Niederrad a suburb of Frankfurt and surprised my relatives, who did not expect me so soon, but were the most delighted over the early morning greetings. I took a good rest. Niederrad is nicely situated near a little forest, where one can get a beautiful view of many different scenes. The house of my nephew was also a very appropriate situation, with an excellent view of the race track. In the back ground of which is a promenade. On the beautiful green sod are placed shade trees, wrapped with ivy and between them are arranged flowerbeds and sculptures of horses, killed in the races. The entire place is fenced with a high wire gauze, behind which are dense hedges.

About myself I can state that I feel every day I take a little walk daily in the direction of the forest and as soon as I feel tired I take a rest on one of the many benches placed there for that purpose.

Sunday, July 20, we visited a shooting park which is near a dense forest, and not far from the park a garden tavern is located for recreation. Sunday this place was well patronized by those who take part in the shooting for prizes at the "Schutzenfest."

In Frankfurt, a very nice and pretty city, I am already very well acquainted and enjoy principally the streets which are very large and clean, also many parks provided with many fishponds and artificial cataracts and rocks. In every place you can observe that Frankfurt is very wealthy. There is a most beautiful cathedral and many different remarkable objects of art which I can not number. One of the most gigantic buildings is the circus, where I also have been, and was astonished by the various wonderful performances and laughed heartily on account of the different jollification acts. I was sorry that I did not have my "Maude" so I could enjoy more perfectly all attractions in the surrounding country which I could not do on account of walking being so difficult for me.

Saturday, July 6th, I paid a visit to my relatives in a beautiful town in the country, named Heppenheim, the town is between Darmstadt and Weinheim. Here are many farms but the working people can not use up to date machinery because the settlements are so small, therefore they use in farms work the tools of their grand-fathers, but all inhabitants are in every regard very industrious, working from early morning until the late evening hours, which is especially necessary at the time of haying.

Sunday, July 7, we were in Zell, near Bismarck, a place enclosed by mountains on two sides, here you can not find by ways, as at the right and left side immediately the mountains begin to rise. The lay of the land in this part of the country is perfectly unknown to me. In Zell was a meeting of gymnastics, called in that place, "Turners" and as our little party didn't like to mingle with the crowd of people, we searched for a quiet place for refreshing, and we were rewarded by finding a very good one. High above Heppenheim in the mountains is situated Harkenburg, but now nearly ruined, although offering a very pleasant outlook.

July 11, I made a trip to Heidelberg and Mannheim. The first mentioned city has a wonderful situation, surrounded by high, but fertile mountains, decorated by the river Neckar which winds like a silver thread through the valley. We visited the castle with the renowned Heidelberg Fasnacht, glorified in many German Songs and Quartets. Anyhow I never had the imagination of finding a barrel of such a enormous size so that you have to go upstairs to get above the "Fasnacht." Many dancing pairs can find on its surface entertainment. The castle is one of the most beautiful buildings in Germany, and it is a pity that it is neglected and will be a ruin in a short time, unless better care will be given to it than at the present time. The second place mentioned, Mannheim is a manufacturing town, provided with broad streets of straight directions. In the evening I returned to Heppenheim. Desiring to be present during the Schutzenfest in Frankfurt I came here with my relatives, Saturday, July 13. The day following found me at the hotel "Deutscher Kaiserhof" together with the former party of my ship. Everyone now in good health and rejoicing over the arrival at their destination. On account of the Fest day, Frankfurt was beautifully decorated, in every street banners with different emblems are seen. The festival parade held Sunday at 11 o'clock was useless to me as I could not endure the long standing. More details about it I hope I can spare as they will not be of special interest to you, except about the big crowd of people and the enormous size of the Hall for the festive purposes, which has a seating capacity for 16,200 people, 725 bow lamps and 1,900 electric lamps were used for illuminating. The expenses for preparing were over five million marks. The usual torch light procession and the deflation in presence of prince Heinrich on the Balkon, in Marine Uniform, greeting and thanking for the numberless salutations is above every description. In the main place you could hear

PREVENTING WINTER FIRES

Last month we called attention to Wisconsin's annual fire loss of over half a million dollars due to heating plants and chimney fires also the 28 deaths and 18 serious accidents to human beings resulting from such fires.

We now desire to offer some further practical suggestions on how to prevent these fires, so wasteful of lives and property.

STOVES—Place a metal stove-board on the wood floor under the stove, and extending at least twelve inches in front of the ash pit door. Protect all walls and partitions within two feet of any stove with a metal shield, leaving an air-space between the shield and the wall. Leave no kindling or other wood in the oven over night. Do not hang clothes near the stove or stove-pipes.

PIPES—See that the lengths of stove-pipe are well fitted together, free from rust holes and parted seams, wired firmly and fitted perfectly into the chimney. Stove-pipes passing through partitions, walls, floors, attics and roofs are dangerous at best. Where these must pass through partitions, walls or floors, always use a large, vented metal flue. You cannot observe the stove pipes in the attic. They may come apart or rust. Fluff and spider-webs are likely to gather on, and around to be set on fire when you least expect it.

CHIMNEYS—Chimneys should be built from the ground up and never rest on wood supports. The settling of the woodwork will cause cracks in the chimney. No should the chimney walls be left to support joists or other woodwork. Soft brick and poor mortar are often responsible for defects in chimneys. Use a good quality of brick and cement mortar in every place you can observe that Frankfurt is very wealthy. There is a most beautiful cathedral and many different remarkable objects of art which I can not number. One of the most gigantic buildings is the circus, where I also have been, and was astonished by the various wonderful performances and laughed heartily on account of the different jollification acts. I was sorry that I did not have my "Maude" so I could enjoy more perfectly all attractions in the surrounding country which I could not do on account of walking being so difficult for me.

FURNACES—Protect all woodwork above and around boilers if within three feet, with a metal shield, also all woodwork near furnace pipes. It is best to rivet the lengths of pipe together to prevent disjoining. The pipe should fit perfectly into the chimney. Examine the pipe frequently for rust holes or other defects. Keep them free from dust, fluff and spiderwebs, which are easily ignited.

DEFECTS—Defective stoves, boilers, furnaces, pipes and chimneys should be promptly repaired.

OVERHEATING—Beware of overheating stoves, boilers, furnaces and pipes.

ASHES—These should never be placed in wooden receptacles, or bins, on wood floors or against partitions, walls, fences, buildings or any other woodwork. Use metal receptacles only, and from the outside dump ashes away from all buildings.

CARE—These matters are not technical, but very simple and call simply for ordinary CARE. You cannot afford to be careless, when the lives of your loved ones, and the property of yourself and neighbors are at stake. Let "Care and attention" be the watchword of these matters!

music of different bands and see different shows.

Today, July 17, we made an excursion to Bath Homburg a very agreeable place near Hardwald with nice cure promades. Many fountains give wholesome waters and thousands of men take their walks rejoiced by the sweet melodies of an exemplary music bands, not very far from here we visited Saalburg an old Roman Settlement, this city is being restored to its former splendor by the use of drawings and excavations by order of the Emperor. Here is located a museum containing a hall for soldiers' exercises, the war machines of the olden times used before the invention of gun powder, flags and ornaments etc. On account of the numerous people and of the great heat there were consumed during one day 30,400 bottles of wine, 6,000 bottles of Sekt, 33,000 bottles of water, 18,900 cups of coffee, 920 Hectoliters of beer, 82 Hectoliters of Apple wine. I myself never drank as much beer as here, and I feel very well. The beer is very good and cheap, a glass of larger size than those in Kewaskum for five cents are sold here for three cents a glass.

About Frankfurt I have yet to mention the native house, of Goethe, Rothschild, and the room decorated with pictures of low German Emperors, and different Museums. According to my experience I beg to state that the German nation is in no regard observed in this respect.

Saturday, July 20 I am to pay a visit to my native place Horbark near Wiesbaden on the Rhine Strom to the Niederwald, Coblenz, Rorhen, Hahnen, Bath Ems, where I am cordially invited and expected by my relatives especially by my dear brother. Regarding these events I hope to relate later I send you and all my friends best regards. As I now feel very well I hope to be without any trouble in the future. At least about my health. To describe everything observed in my travels is impossible. I hope to relate everything interesting to you personally.

Yours truly,
Michael Schneider.

ORDER SPUR TRACK TO SAVE THERESA

Railroad Commission Acts Upon Complaint of Villager

Madison, Wis., Nov. 27—A spur track will be built by the Soo Line to Theresa, Dodge County by order of the railroad commission. This village made famous by Wm. Bronaugh in a call to the railroad to save the village from oblivion.

At the time of the complaint Bronaugh declared that villages in the vicinity were growing at the expense of Theresa because they had railroad facilities while Theresa had none. When the complaint was made President Pennington of the Soo Line declared no more construction work would be done by the Soo Line in Wisconsin.

Upon the order of the railroad rate commission the village must pay $21,000 toward the construction of the spur.

The Soo main line now passes through Theresa station about two miles east of the village.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

ANTI-SERUM PREVENTS RAVAGES OF HOG CHOLERA

Farmers in the two southern tiers of counties are rushing their hogs to market at a sacrifice to avoid loss from hog cholera, which is taking its usual heavy toll this fall in all exposed herds where hog cholera anti-serum has not been used. Dr. F. B. Hadley of the Veterinary Department of the Agricultural College of the University of Wisconsin reports that in those herds where the hogs were vaccinated before or soon after the occurrence of the infection, very few deaths resulted. The protective serum is manufactured by the college and sold to the farmers of Wisconsin at the cost of production. The demand for the serum has exceeded the supply. A small quantity is now ready for distribution, however, and will be furnished upon application, with directions for use.

Soon after they were sentenced, Sheriff Schloemer accompanied by a deputy went to Schleisingerville via auto to catch the Milwaukee St. Paul train for Waupun.

GOVERNOR SPEAKS FOR CO-OPERATION

Commends Methods Of White Plague Campaigners And Endorses Christmas Seal Sale

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 25, 1912.—(Special) Governor McGovern in a letter to the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association, in which he urges the people of Wisconsin to generously support the Red Cross Christmas Seal Campaign, heartily endorses the plan of extending the campaign against other contagious and preventable diseases.

His letter, which is one of many received by the association, is offered as a logical expression of the argument for expansion. The following is from his letter:

"Your association has my hearty approval in the contemplated enlargement of the scope of its work. The vigorous campaign carried on for years against tuberculosis has educated the people in the necessity for wholesome living as well as curative treatment. Many of the lessons learned in the prevention and cure of tuberculosis can be advantageously applied in the warfare against all contagious diseases. In fact, there is conclusive evidence that the general public health has been materially benefited by your work in checking the ravages of tuberculosis.

I take pleasure in recommending your association to the confidence and liberality of our people. Your enlarged purpose will, without doubt strengthen the appeal and, as a consequence, add appreciably to the sale of Red Cross Seals."

SCHRANK WAS TAKEN TO HOSPITAL MONDAY

Roosevelt's Assailant Bids His Fellow Prisoners Good-Bye, Asking Them Not To Blame Him

John Flammang Schrank, who shoe ex-President Theodore Roosevelt and who has been committed to the Northern Hospital for the Insane was taken to Oshkosh at 11 o'clock Monday morning.

Fred Becker, deputy of the sheriff's office, took Schrank. They were driven directly to the North-Western depot in the sheriff's automobile.

Schrank spent a restless day Sunday protesting against the district attorney for keeping his satchel. He wished to pack his belonging he said. He spent part of the day playing cards with Fred Becker. He also asked the sheriff to let him go to his home. Before retiring Sunday night he shook hands with the other prisoners in the tier in which he is confined and bid them goodbye.

He expressed the wish that they think of him as a friend and not to blame him for what he had done, saying that he thought it the duty of every citizen to prevent a third term from being elected—Miss Flammang, ex-President Schrank in company with his guards passed through this village at 12:15 last Monday. Those who were at the depot, were fortunate in seeing the ex-President Theodore Roosevelt assailant.

BURGLARS LEFT TOOLS

No doubt some of the professional burglars have been nested in our village lock-up recently. The past week while Mr. C. A. Bristol was engaged in locking up the cells out of the village lock-up in the new jail, he found two hack saws hid in the bunks. No doubt these were forgotten by some of the hobos who have lodged in the cells from time to time. Mr. Bristol states that the saws will come in handy as they belong to his line of work.—Oakfield Herald.

DEATH RATE IN STATE IS LOWER

Marked Decline Due to Great Saving in Infant Life.

FIGURES FOR THREE MONTHS

Fifty Per Cent of Children's Deaths is Result of Ignorance Regarding Proper Care and Feeding—North Part of State Health.

Madison.—During July, August and September, 1912, 5,949 deaths were reported to the state bureau of vital statistics by the various local registrars. This represents an annual death rate for the state of 9.98 per 1,000 estimated population.

The decline in the death rate is due almost entirely to the great saving in infant life during the summer months, the bureau adds. There were 273 less deaths among children under 1 year of age during the quarter than for a similar period last year.

Important causes of deaths and their number were Pulmonary tuberculosis 421, other tuberculosis 67, typhoid fever 51, diphtheria 42, scarlet fever 33, measles 9, whooping cough 51, pneumonia 20, diarrhoea and enteritis under 2 years 352, meningitis 105, influenza 10, purpural septicaemia 18, cancer 395, violence 487.

TWELVE KILLED IN BLAST

Many Workmen Lose Their Lives in Explosion at Corn Products Refining Plant, Waukegan, Ill.

Waukegan.—Twelve men are known to be dead, and twice as many probably fatally injured in an explosion in the dry starchhouse of the Corn Products Refining company here.

Twenty-five seriously injured workmen were taken from the burning building and hurried to hospitals in the city. It is feared that at least fifteen others are still in the starchhouse.

The shock was so severe that people within a radius of six blocks were thrown to the ground. The cause of the catastrophe is unknown.

PREPARE FOR WAR

AUSTRIAN CALLS SIX ARMY CORPS TO COLORS AS SERBIAN CRISIS ARRIVES.

PEACE CONDITIONS DRASTIC

France Warns Turks Against Doing Violence to Christians—Atrocious Acts of Butchery Laid to Servians—Slaughter Women and Children.

London, England, Nov. 25.—Three classes of the Austrian reserves have been called out, says the Chronicle's Vienna correspondent. About 300,000 men, he says, have been massed around the Serbian frontier and steady preparations are going forward in Galicia. "It is reported that the Don Cossacks have been mobilized and that the Russian authorities are holding all available rolling stock on the lines running to the Austrian frontier," says a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Vienna.

London, Nov. 23.—Nazim Pasha, holding by desperate effort the defense lines of Tachatalja and fighting within his rapidly dwindling ranks a frightful epidemic of cholera, was notified Thursday by the government at Constantinople that the Bulgarian proposals for an armistice had been rejected and ordered to resume operations at once. Thus the Turkish army must fight on to a decisive end.

This note was made public by the porte. "The porte, finding the Bulgarian conditions for an armistice unacceptable, has ordered Nazim Pasha to resume military operations."

There is still a strong possibility of the Bulgarians making an entry into Constantinople and the powers are again considering action to prevent such an eventuality. France took the initiative by notifying the Turkish government that she would hold Turkey responsible for any violence against Christians.

Vienna, Nov. 23.—Lieutenant Wagner, the war correspondent of the Heilspost, telegraphed Thursday that while at Nish he heard well-nigh incredible details of the barbarities committed by the Serbian troops on the Albanians. General Stepanovitch, the Serbian commander, had the Albanians captured at Kratova formed into two rows and shot dead with machine guns, the general saying: "We must exterminate those Austro-Hungarian favorites."

3 ROADS ARE INDICTED

GRAND JURY SAYS CARRIERS PAID $50,000 IN REBATES.

Government Declares That Officials Own and Control Stock in Coal Concern.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—The federal grand jury here Friday returned indictments against the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, Big Four and the Chicago & Indiana Southern railroads, charging violation of the Elkins act in the payment of rebates aggregating over $50,000.

A separate bill charging the receiving of rebates was returned against the O'Gara Coal company.

An indictment also was voted against Thomas O'Gara, president of the O'Gara Coal company, but not presented in court with the others. The three railroads against which true bills were found are subsidiary and vital connecting links in the New York Central system. The inquiry into rebating charges is aimed at violators of the Elkins act in their individual as well as corporate capacity, and it was stated will involve many high officials of the New York Central lines in serious criminal charges.

The allegations of the indictments returned are that the O'Gara Coal company knowingly and unlawfully accepted rebates from the three railroads named on invoices of shipments of coal from the company's mines at Harrisburg, Ill., to Danville, Ill. The criminal charges against the three railroads and the O'Gara Coal company grew out of an investigation by the interstate commerce commission, through James S. Harlan, regarding a payment of $50,000 to the coal company, which was not satisfactorily explained by officials of the roads involved in the payment.

FLAMES PERIL MANY

HUNDREDS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE WHEN FIRE SWEEPS INSANE ASYLUM.

MAN DIES FOR CANARY BIRD

Home for Idiots, Epileptics and Feeble-Minded is Destroyed—Inmates Just Escape as Walls of Building Crumble to Pieces.

New York, Nov. 26.—In a fire that swept the Brunswick Home for Idiots, Epileptics and Feeble-Minded at Amityville, L. I. Sunday, one man was burned to death and several others who are missing are believed to have perished. Eight hundred inmates of the various buildings of the institution were led out to safety. Some of them, too enfeebled by their afflictions to walk, were taken out in thrilling rescues.

When the flames, fanned by a southeast wind, threatened the adjacent Long Island Home and Loudon hall, several hundred inmates of that institution were also led out.

The man burned to death was Fritz Mondary, thirty years old, of New York city. He was sent to the home five years ago. He escaped from the building when the fire was discovered but returned to rescue his pet canary and perished. Other inmates were seen to run back toward the flaming building and all of them have not been accounted for.

An attendant first discovered the fire, the cause of which is not known, in one of the dormitories. The staff of the home immediately set to work carrying out the helpless, fifteen of whom were found lying on their cots terror-stricken as the fire crackled in the next room. Hurry calls for assistance were sent out and firemen from six Long Island towns responded.

The walls of the Brunswick Home collapsed soon after the last inmate had been carried out. In the meantime Loudon hall and the Long Island Home were emptied of their occupants.

Hundreds of residents of Amityville used automobiles, horses and bicycles to round up the insane inmates, none of whom are believed to have escaped.

50 DIE IN THEATER PANIC

Children Are Trampled to Death When Film Explodes in a Spanish Playhouse.

Bilbao, Spain, Nov. 26.—Fifty children and others were killed in a panic in a moving picture show here Sunday.

The scene of the accident was a large circus, which had been converted into a continuous cinematograph show. As the price of admission was only two cents, the building was crowded to its utmost capacity, for the most part with women and children.

The operator of the machine lost his nerve when a film ignited, and screamed "Fire!"

He was able to extinguish the flames himself without difficulty, but the effect of his cry upon the audience was instantaneous.

The disaster caused frenzied crowds to gather outside the building and the authorities had great difficulty in carrying on the work of rescue and extricating the dead and injured from the piles of wrecked seats.

The manager and other employes have been arrested and are held pending an inquiry.

Gifts of Crash and Cretonne

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

Cretonnes are so attractive that they have inspired much designing of articles for personal use and house decoration.

Recently linen crash and flowered cretonnes have become more popular than any other fabrics for useful and inexpensive fittings and furnishings. Certain patterns have been featured for living rooms and porches, but it is in bedroom furnishings that they take precedence of everything else. They are bright and dainty and better still, they are washable.

Crashes are embroidered in fast color embroidery silks or decorated with cut figures of cretonne applied and button-hole stitched down. There is a long list of attractive things which are made of these durable fabrics. Among them the dressing case sets, which cannot fail to please, are among the least costly and most effective of Christmas gifts. They are acceptable to either men or women friends.

The flowered cretonnes are used for covering boxes made to hold handkerchiefs, gloves, neckwear, cravats and veils, and the large boxes for hats and shirtwaists. They are fine for laundry bags, shoe and slipper bags, pin cushions and pin trays, tea trays and tea cosies. Dresser scarfs are made of a plain fabric bordered with cretonne. Picture frames are covered with it and the cut-out figures are applied to candle shades. Cushions for chairs help carry out the scheme for cretonne decorations. Only a few of these articles are pictured and they cannot convey the brightness and daintiness of the gayly flowered or embroidered originals, but will serve to show how effectively the simplest materials serve the purpose for making charming gifts.

In the picture are three candle shades, a pin tray and a frame for photographs. They are made of cretonne or of linen. A set made up of the tray and frame and one or two candle shades all matching which to rejoice the heart of any one who appreciates a pretty dressing case. They are all very easily made.

To make the pin tray a small oval frame with glass and back is needed. Plenty of these are to be found at the ten cent stores framing pictures which it is a decided satisfaction to take out and destroy. After cleaning the glass a stiff cardboard is to be cut out (using the glass as a guide) into a backing for a cretonne covering. Paste the cretonne to this backing smoothly or allow a half inch around the edge and fasten the cretonne with stitches drawn across the back of the cardboard. Slip the covered form into the frame under the glass and replace the back. Paste a piece of plain paper or felt over the bottom of the tray.

The photo frame is made of heavy cardboard 9 1/2 inches long and 5 1/2 inches high. The oval openings are a trifle over 3 inches high and 2 inches broad. The cretonne is cut allowing 1 inch to turn over the edge all around and 1/4 inch about the oval openings. It must be slashed at the openings to make it fit and is pasted or glued down about the oval first. The cardboard is then mounted to four strips of cardboard (as heavy as corrugated board) which extend all round the edge of the frame at the back. These strips are glued to the frame. The inch allowance in the material is brought over the edge of the frame and glued down. A narrow strip of glass is laid against the oval openings at the back and fastened by means of strips of paper pasted over it and to the back of the frame. Finally a backing of thin cardboard is pasted to the frame across the top and sides, leaving the bottom open for slipping in the pictures. A small wire ring is fastened in for a hanger or an easel support glued to the back by means of a cloth hinge.

The tallest of the three candles has a shade made of a stiff pink linen fabric and decorated with garlands and a figure cut from the cretonne, pasted down. It is finished with a narrow silk fringe. A pair of candles with candlesticks fitted with shades and holders make a gift that everyone enjoys. Glass or silver candlesticks are best for bedrooms. Brass and iron ones are appropriate for living rooms. The plain iron candlestick with rose-colored shade and fluted rose-colored shade is suited to a man's room.

The shade is made of a smooth linen starched and fluted glass or iron. It is pasted on a cardboard ring at the top and finished with a piece of fancy rose-colored braid.

The dainty figured shade shown with the silver candlestick is pure white with a tiny flower wreath. There is a lace edge about the top and bottom. It is made of a linen evidently woven for the purpose, stiffened and fluted. It is mounted to a cardboard ring and finished about the top with a white braid.

One of the easiest ways to shade a candle as well as one of the prettiest, is to cut a disk of cardboard about 5 inches in diameter, with a circle cut out of the center to fit over the candle holder. Cover this with a square of cretonne edged with bead fringe, cut the cretonne seven inches square allowing an extra half inch for a narrow hem. Hem the hem and sew the fringe over it. Cut an opening from the center to fit over the candleholder and allow a half inch hem also. The pretty handkerchief case of crash shown in Fig. 1 hardly needs description. It is embroidered with small pink roses, green leaves and a ribbon design in light blue. It is lined with pink wash silk, button-hole stitched about the edge and tied with wash ribbons. One corner is turned back. This is a gift which a man will appreciate.

The bag in Fig. 2 may be made either of cretonne or flowered silk. The handles are made of embroidery rings wound with narrow blue ribbon. The upper part of the bag is gathered over one-half of each ring and the fullness at the ends is also gathered into small rings having one and a half inch diameter. Little ribbon bows, matching the handles, provide the finishing touch.

A double bag of linen ornamented with embroidery, serves as a receptacle for soiled handkerchiefs, or other small accessories. It is washable and will last a long time. Men as well as women like these handy bags. This is true of the little cretonne, crash or silk, with pinked flannel leaves for the needles and ribbons for hanging.

Where one does not embroider a very pretty substitute is possible with cut out cretonne flowers applied to linen and stitched down with button-hole or chain stitch. There is no end to the more than good looking presents which are made of cretonne and crash.

Finding a Husband.

Eating and drinking seem to form a great part of the Christmas celebration everywhere. In Erzeroum, Armenia, the young girl dresses herself up in her very best, makes a cake of cornmeal, and then goes with it up to the roof of the house. Here she places her offering and a great bird soon comes down, circles about the cake, and then seizes it and carries it away. The maiden watches eagerly and anxiously where he carries it. If the big bird alights near at hand, it is there that her future abode will be. If he sails away into the distance, the hero of her dreams will not come that year, and she must wait lonely until next Christmas and try another corn cake.

IDEAS FOR HOME BUILDERS

BY WM. A. RADFORD.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 178 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Seven rooms are economically tucked away within the four walls and roof of the house illustrated in the design here shown. This house is built on the story and a half plan, is 22 feet 6 inches wide and 35 feet long on the ground, without measuring the porches.

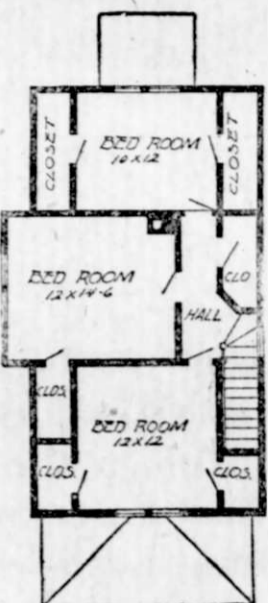

This is an economical way to build a medium-sized house, because you get the roof space for the upper rooms—space that is very often just thrown away on an attic. The upper bedrooms fit into the gables, and the clothes closets fit in between the bedrooms and the lower part of the roof; so there is no waste space at all, and you get square ceilings, too—or nearly so.

It depends a good deal on climate whether you want a house built like this, or whether you want to elevate the roof clear above the upper rooms. In some hot valleys where the sun seems to beat down a little hotter each day during the summer, a higher roof might be an advantage; but on the northern hills where few really hot days are known and where the nights are usually cool, this style of house is just about as comfortable as any in the summer time, and it is a great deal warmer and more cozy in winter. Our northern climate seems to have a good deal more winter than summer; in fact a good many of the northern states get six or seven months' winter, and the balance of the year is largely divided up between cloudy days and cool weather.

It is to settle such questions that house plans are for. If a person has a plain, straight-forward plan of a house, with the size plainly given and the shape and the site of the rooms properly designated, he can study it Almost every woman likes a front hall with an open stair. This seems to be the most suitable entrance and the most satisfactory way of going upstairs. Other arrangements have been tried repeatedly; but builders have never found a satisfactory substitute for a front hall and a stair of this kind. It lands far enough back upstairs to leave room for a good bedroom in the front part of the house, and it does not spoil any room either upstairs or down.

A house of this style lends itself easily as part of a plan of outside decoration. There is more in it than most people realize. A house does not consist merely of a house. The surroundings have a great deal to do with a person's comfort. You want shade trees, but you don't want too much shade. You want flowers, shrubbery, and climbing vines; and, of course, you must have a place for them and have them in their right places. You cannot buy a miscellaneous assortment of such things from a nursery, and stick them in over and decide at leisure about these different points. An economy in building may not be an economy in after years. It is sometimes better to increase the purchase price mortgage sufficiently to cover certain extra costs in order to have the house as you want it; because, under satisfactory conditions, the increased enjoyment in occupying the house is worth a good deal more than the additional interest. However, each person must decide such questions for himself.

There is a good deal in the looks of a house. In these modern times, it is not necessary to build a slab-sided the ground in any kind of order, or leave the planting to some handy man of all work. To be satisfactory, you must study the design of the house as well as the shape, size, and location of the lot; and you must buy plants and trees that are suitable to the soil, to the climate, and to your own taste.

It pays well to give careful attention to the preparation of the soil. You cannot grow any kind of vegetation satisfactorily on poor soil. It does not cost a great deal to haul in good soil sufficient to cover the whole lot a foot deep; or this may not be necessary. A mixture of good soil, well rotted manure, and commercial fertilizer, will usually tone up almost any lot so that stuff planted will give good results.

Wealth in Bulgaria. Wealth is more evenly distributed in Bulgaria than in any other European state. Poverty, according to Edward Dicesy, "does not exist among the Bulgarians." In the towns there are individual cases of destitution, owing to drink and misconduct, but these cases are few and insignificant. There is no need to make any public provision for the relief of the poor; there is no question of the conflicting interest of workmen and employers; strikes and trade unions are alike unknown. Bulgaria, as at present constituted, approaches as closely as is consistent with the imperfection of all human institutions to the ideal state of our latter day social reformers, in which there are to be no poor and no rich, no privileged class and no social distinctions.

Would Find Out for Him. Everett Shinn, the painter and w. of New York, scored off an enemy at a tea at Sherry's.

To this enemy, himself a painter of the Bouguereau school, Mr. Shinn said: "How many pictures have you painted in the course of your long and honorable career?" "I haven't the least idea," was the reply. Mr. Shinn laughed maliciously. "Some day, then," he said, "I'll come around to your studio and count them."

Few Moose in Maine. Hunters and game wardens say that moose are scarcer this year than they were last. If a man gets a bull this year, he will have to travel some, and then the chances are it will be the guide that does the shooting. The law has probably protected the moose in Maine, but the lumbering operations have hindered them and they have gone out of the state into New Brunswick.—Aroostook Pioneer bar of a house; there are plenty of neat designs that cost no more; in fact, some of them can be built cheaper than the old-style affairs that used to be so common.

A veranda extending all the way across the front end of the house usually adds a great deal to the appearance of the property, especially if the veranda is wide and roomy. There are a great many styles of porches, verandas, loggias, etc.; and it is sometimes quite difficult to decide which is the most appropriate for a certain house.

Congressman Elected From Third District of Wisconsin

JOHN M. NELSON

MARKET REPORT.

Madison.—There is more hog cholera in the state of Wisconsin than there has been for years. This declaration was made by Dr. F. B. Hadley of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture based on reports received from all sections of the state. Last May the college began to manufacture antiserum for the prevention of hog cholera. The demand now far exceeds the supply.

"There is no danger to humans from this disease," said Dr. Hadley. "In my experience as a United States government official inspecting cholera, I cannot say that I have known of a single case where a human being has been affected."

Dr. Hadley said that the disease could be prevented, but that cholera cannot be cured after the hog has become seriously ill. Hogs are made immune from the disease by injection of an anti-serum composed of the blood of healthy pigs which have been through a siege of the cholera. This blood is obtained by cutting off the end of the pig's tail until by successive bleedings no more of the tail remains. The pig is then killed to get the last ounce of blood. Enough blood can be obtained from a pig to treat about 400 hogs that weigh less than 100 pounds each. At the regular commercial rate for anti-serum, enough blood from a pig can be sold to realize $250.

"Among the things first noted in an outbreak of hog cholera is the refusal of feed by a number of hogs," said Dr. Hadley. "They have chills and are depressed, stiff and sore; there is a tendency for them to hide in the bedding. A short, hacking cough will frequently be noted. In most cases hog cholera runs a rapid course, ending in death about two weeks after exposure."

Wisconsin Saloonkeepers Will Ask Legislature to Pass New Law at the Next Session.

Madison.—Wisconsin saloonkeepers intend to ask the next legislature for the right to proceed with garnishment action against delinquent customers, according to John Langan, president of the Wisconsin Retail Liquor Dealers' association.

Mr. Langan states that the executive committee of the state association has decided to ask the legislature to enact such a law, and also to pass a bill investing the license granted by any municipality in the saloonkeeper himself, and not in the building in which he conducts a saloon, to make it possible for the proprietor to move, should he so desire, without asking for a new license.

In regard to garnishment proceedings, President Langan holds that the liquor business is as legitimate as any other, and that the saloonkeeper should have as much right to collect his bills under the law as a grocer or butcher. Another meeting will be held on December 4.

REPORT MUCH HOG CHOLERA IN STATE

Dr. Hadley of Agricultural College Gives Conditions.

SERUM SUPPLY INADEQUATE

Manufacture of Preventative at University Unable to Keep Pace With Demands—No Danger to Humans Beings from Disease.

Madison.—There is more hog cholera in the state of Wisconsin than there has been for years. This declaration was made by Dr. F. B. Hadley of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture based on reports received from all sections of the state. Last May the college began to manufacture antiserum for the prevention of hog cholera. The demand now far exceeds the supply.

"There is no danger to humans from this disease," said Dr. Hadley. "In my experience as a United States government official inspecting cholera, I cannot say that I have known of a single case where a human being has been affected."

Dr. Hadley said that the disease could be prevented, but that cholera cannot be cured after the hog has become seriously ill. Hogs are made immune from the disease by injection of an anti-serum composed of the blood of healthy pigs which have been through a siege of the cholera. This blood is obtained by cutting off the end of the pig's tail until by successive bleedings no more of the tail remains. The pig is then killed to get the last ounce of blood. Enough blood can be obtained from a pig to treat about 400 hogs that weigh less than 100 pounds each. At the regular commercial rate for anti-serum, enough blood from a pig can be sold to realize $250.

"Among the things first noted in an outbreak of hog cholera is the refusal of feed by a number of hogs," said Dr. Hadley. "They have chills and are depressed, stiff and sore; there is a tendency for them to hide in the bedding. A short, hacking cough will frequently be noted. In most cases hog cholera runs a rapid course, ending in death about two weeks after exposure."

SCORES ASYLUM CONDITIONS

Woman Physician Charges Staff of Hospital for Insane at Oshkosh With Gross Mismanagement.

Oshkosh.—Dr. Rosalie M. Davoda, who was woman's physician at the Northern Hospital for the Insane at Winnebago, has been let out of her position and has made serious charges against the management. Dr. Davoda was appointed last May by the state board of control through civil service.

She charges that profanity was used in the dining room by members of the staff and that improper remarks were used in the presence of ladies; that Dr. Sherman, the superintendent, refused to do anything she complained of on this score; that the food was improperly cooked and served cold; that persons were committed to the hospital who were not insane and were known to be sane by the staff, but were kept there and others were kept at the hospital after they were well and were made to work; that criminals were permitted to associate with the insane to the detriment of the insane and that clothing was kept in the laundry for weeks and patients were forced to wear soiled clothes.

She claims she was forced to resign because of her statements made before the Wisconsin Medical Women's society in Milwaukee on Nov. 12.

NEENAH MAN LOSES REWARD

Alleged Rail Bandit Pleads Guilty, But the Jury Disagrees When Cap-tor Sues for $2,500.

Neenah.—Whether John Young, serving a fifteen-year sentence in the North Dakota penitentiary on his own confession is guilty of robbing the Northern Pacific train in Buffalo, N. D., July 9, aroused such a difference of opinion among the jurors in a St. Paul court who heard the case brought by Henry Burr of Neenah, to recover reward for his conviction, that they were unable in twenty-four hours to agree on a verdict. They were discharged by the judge.

Railroad officials say the disagreement is virtually a victory for them as they will not be compelled to pay the reward of $2,500 to Burr until he proves the man in the penitentiary is guilty.

ARREST MARINETTE SHERIFF

Albert E. Schwittay Taken Into Custody at Detroit on Charge of Subornation of Perjury.

Marinette.—Albert E. Schwittay, sheriff of Marinette county, and assemblyman-elect, has been arrested at Detroit, Mich., on a charge of subornation of perjury.

Sheriff Schwittay was arrested in Marinette some time ago on indictments which alleged that when he took women or children to state institutions he charged his county railroad fare and hotel and other expenses for a matron, but failed to take a matron with him on these trips. According to Prosecutor James C. Morgan he went to Detroit for the purpose of bribing a woman to swear she had accompanied him as matron on one of these occasions.

JANESVILLE YOUTHS GUILTY

The boys were charged with having committed a criminal assault on Matilda Bergsterman, which resulted in her death. The girl's father testified his daughter was a simple-minded girl, with very little education.

The youths will be sentenced to imprisonment for from fifteen to twenty-five years.

Forecast Little Snow.

Coudery.—The annual Chippewa weather forecast, which has often surpassed the scientific prognostications of government weather bureau experts for accuracy, has been given out by the Chippewa Indian prophets of the Coudery reservation. "Little snow, heap cold," for the winter was the forecast, which is based on the antics of the beavers, muskrats, birds, beasts and even the fleas.

Appleton.—The Outagamie county board has voted $20,000 for a county tuberculosis sanitarium and ordered the work of construction to be started as soon as possible.

ELECTION OF EQUITY SOCIETY

D. O. Mahoney of Viroqua Chosen President of the Wisconsin Branch of Association.

Marshfield.—The American Society of Equity's Wisconsin branch, closing its convention at Marshfield, selected these officers:

President—D. O. Mahoney, of Viroqua, succeeding Ira M. J. Crosby, of Hudson, Wis.

Vice President—J. H. Garnahan, of Black River Falls, to succeed himself.

The secretary and treasurer is to be elected by the directors, the present incumbent, M. W. Tubbs, being a likely candidate for the office another year. The board of directors includes the officers and C. E. Hansen, of River Falls, re-elected; A. H. Christman, of Menominee Falls, holding over, and W. M. Rowe, of Sarona, succeeding D. O. Mahoney, the new president.

A resolution was adopted endorsing Dr. Harvey W. Wiley for secretary of agriculture in President Wilson's first cabinet.

ACTION AGAINST FAIR BOARD

Outagamie County Man Says Advertisement Promising Reduced Railroad Rates Was Misleading.

Appleton.—Charges that the state fair board advertised "reduced rates on all railroads" to Milwaukee for the state fair, which it was unable to furnish, have been filed with the railroad commission by William Buchanan of the town of Buchanan. The railroad commission replied to Mr. Rohan's protest that to publish such a notice and not to make it effective is a fraud upon the public and in asking for further evidence said: "It might be advisable to run the matter down for the purpose of finding out the responsibility for the deception." Mr. Rohan declares that he will push the matter to a full investigation.

NEGRO IS HELD FOR MURDER

Charged With Shooting Woman Near Tony—Two Were Neighbors and Quarreled Over a Hog.

Tony.—Ira Broady, a negro, was arrested charged with the murder of Estella Hill. The examination was adjourned to Dec. 6. Broady was a neighbor of the Hills, and the authorities say that circumstances point to his guilt.

Mrs. Hill was found dead in her yard with a shotgun wound in her body. She was killed instantly. Developments show that a 10-gauge shotgun was used. Broady is said to be the only neighbor that has that size gun.

There was evidence at the coroner's inquest of a dispute between them over a hog owned by Broady and cared for by Mrs. Hill.

To Give Tax Coupons.

Madison.—Coupons will be issued to all persons who pay personal property taxes to be used as offsets against their income taxes. This is announced in a special statement prepared by the state tax commission. The coupons will be issued by the local assessors of incomes and forwarded by them to the local treasurer against whom they are issued. Ordinary personal property tax receipts will not be received in offset in districts other than that in which issued.

Four Lives Lost in Gale.

Green Bay.—During a terrific gale that swept this section, the schooner "Three Sisters" was water logged in Green Bay at a point of Red River and her crew, consisting of Capt. Plumb, John Killman and two other sailors were washed off the deck and drowned. Rescue parties found the bodies of the drowned seamen clinging to pieces of wreckage of the schooner.

A FRIEND'S ADVICE

Something Worth Listening To.

A young Nebr. man was advised by a friend to eat Grape-Nuts because he was all run down from a spell of fever. He tells the story:

"Last spring I had an attack of fever that left me in a very weak condition. I had to quit work; had no appetite, was nervous and discouraged.

"A friend advised me to eat Grape-Nuts, but I paid no attention to him and kept getting worse as time went by.

"I took many kinds of medicine but none of them seemed to help me. My system was completely run down, my blood got out of order from want of proper food, and several very large boils broke out on my neck. I was so weak I could hardly walk.

"One day mother ordered some Grape-Nuts and induced me to eat some. I felt better and that night rested fine. As I continued to use the food every day, I grew stronger steadily and now have regained my former good health. I would not be without Grape-Nuts, as I believe it is the most health-giving food in the world."

AFTER HE HAD COUNTED THEM

His Companions Safe, Philadelphia Man Was Satisfied That He Had Really Shot Buck.

Thomas Martindale, the Philadelphia moose hunter, said, apropos of the opening of the deer season: "Buck fever is a strange disease. The victim of it does some remarkable things.

"A Philadelphia man was deer hunting in Maine. He shot four or five shots into a thick copse, and then he shouted:

"'All of you come out of there!'

"Half a dozen sportsmen issued from the copse hurriedly.

"'Are you all out?' said the Philadelphia man. 'One, two, three, four. Where's Jake? Oh, there you are, Jake. Are you all out, sure?'

"'Yes,' they answered. 'We're all out; the whole party's out!'

"'Hurrah, then,' shouted the Philadelphia man. 'Hurrah! I've shot a buck!'

HANDS BURNING, ITCHING

905 Lowell Place, Chicago, Ill.—"The trouble began by my hands burning and itching and I rubbed and scratched them till one day I saw little red sores coming out. My hands were disfigured and swollen, and troubled me so that I could not sleep. They were cracked and when the small sores broke a white matter would come out. I could not do any hard work; if I did the sores would come out worse. For two years nobody could cure my eczema, until one day I thought I would try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used warm water with the Cuticura Soap and after that I put the Cuticura Ointment on my hands twice a day for about five or six months when I was cured. (Signed) Sam Marcus, Nov. 28, 1911.

Suicide Among German Children.

Why do so many German children commit suicide? No one seems to know, but there is no dispute about the fact. Indeed it has been said that the majority of suicides are those of children, and experts seem inclined to connect the grisly epidemic with the educational system. That "the weak must go to the wall" has become an axiom that has been extended to the schools, and the undeveloped mind of the child seeks relief in suicide from the discouragement of failure. It would be interesting to know if any of the so-called heathen countries of the world have ever experienced such a horrid social phenomena as that of child suicide.

SYNOPSIS.

Lieut. Harry Mallory is ordered to the Philippines. He and Marjorie Newcomb decide to elope. A check of taxi cab prevents their seeing minister on the way to the train. Transcontinental train is taking on passengers. Porter has a lively time with an Englishman and Ira Lathrop. The elopement has an exciting time getting to the train. "Little Jimmie" Wellington bound for Reno, and a divorce, boards train in maudlin condition. Later Mrs. Jimmie appears. She is also bound for Reno with same object. Likewise Mrs. Sammy Whitcomb. Letter blames Mrs. Jimmie for marital troubles. Classmates of Marjorie favorite bridegroom. Rev. and Mrs. Temple start on vacation. They decide to cut loose and Temple removes evidence of his calling. Marjorie decides to let Mallory proceed alone, but train starts while they are lost in farewell. Passengers raise Marjorie's classmates in giving couple wedding hints. Marjorie is distracted. Ira Lathrop, woman-hating bachelor, discovers an old sweetheart, Annie Gattie, a fellow-passenger. Mallory vainly hunts for a preacher among the passengers. Mrs. Wellington hears Little Jimmie's voice. Later she meets Mrs. Whitcomb. Mallory reports to Marjorie his failure to find a preacher. They decide to pretend a quarrel and Marjorie finds a vacant berth. Mrs. Jimmie discovers Wellington on the train. Mallory and Marjorie an unsuccessful hunt for a preacher. Dr. Temple poses as a physician. Mrs. Temple is induced by Mrs. Wellington to smoke a cigar. Slight of preacher on station platform raises Marjorie's hopes but he takes another train. Misleading hand baggage compels the couple to borrow from passengers. Jimmie gets a cinder in his eye and Mrs. Jimmie gives first aid. Cooniness is then resumed. Still no clergyman. Marjorie borrowing. Dr. Temple puzzled by behavior of different couples. Marjorie's jealousy aroused by Mallory's baseball lingo. Marjorie suggests wrecking the train in her hope that accident will produce a preacher. Also tries to induce conductor to hold the train so she can shop. Marjorie's dot is missing. She pulls the cord, stopping the train. Conductor restores and lovers quarrel. Lathrop wires for a preacher to marry him and Mrs. Gattie. Mallory tells Lathrop of his predicament and Lathrop borrows the preacher. Kitty Lewellyn, former sweetheart of Mallory's, appears and arouses Marjorie's jealousy. Preacher boards train. After marrying Lathrop and Mrs. Gattie, the preacher escapes Mallory by leaping from moving train. Mallory's dejection moves Marjorie to reconciliation. The last day on the train brings Mallory the fear of missing his transport. Marjorie gets a Nevada marriage license.

Seeing them together, Mrs. Temple watched the embrace with her daily renewal of joy that the last night's quarrel had not proved fatal. She nudged her husband:

"See, they're making up again."

Dr. Temple was moved to a violent outburst for him: "Well, that the darndest bridal couple—I only said darn, my dear."

He was still more startled when Mr. Baumann, cruising along the aisle, bent over to murmur: "Can I fix you a nice divorce?"

Dr. Temple rose in such an attitude of horror as he assumed in the pulpit when denouncing the greatest curse of society, and Mr. Baumann retired. As he passed Mallory he cast an appreciative glance at Marjorie and, tapping Mallory's shoulder, whispered: "No wonder you want a marriage license. I'll be in the next car, should you need me." Then he went on his route.

Marjorie stared after him in wonder and asked: "What did that person mean by what he said?"

"It's all right, Marjorie," Mallory explained, in the highest cheer: "We can get married right away."

Marjorie declined to get her hopes up again: "You're always saying that."

"But here's the license—see?"

"What good is that?" she said; "there's no preacher on board."

"But that man is a justice of the peace and he'll marry us."

Marjorie stared at him incredulously: "That creature!—before all these passengers?"

"Not at all," Mallory explained. "We'll go into the smoking room."

Marjorie leaped to her feet, agast: "Flope two thousand miles to be married in a smoking room by a Yiddish drummer! Harry Mallory, you're crazy!"

Put just that way, the proposition did not look so alluring as at first. He sank back with a sigh: "I guess I am. I resign."

He was as weary of being "foiled again" as the villain of a cheap melodrama. The two lovers sat in a twilight of deep melancholy, till Marjorie's mind dug up a new source of alarm:

"Harry, I've just thought of something terrible."

"Let's have it," he sighed, dreadingly.

"We reach San Francisco at midnight and you sail at daybreak. What becomes of me?"

Mallory had no answer to this problem, except a grim: "I'll not desert you."

"But we'll have no time to get married."

"Then," he declared with iron resolve, "then I'll resign from the army."

Marjorie stared at him with awe. He was so wonderful, so heroic. "But what will the country do without you?"

"It will have to get along the best it can," he answered with finality. "Do you think I'd give you up?"

But this was too much to ask. In the presence of a ruined career and a heroic army, Marjorie felt that her own scruples were too petty to count. She could be heroic, too.

"No!" she said, in a deep, low tone. "No, we'll get married in the smoking room. Go call your drummer!"

This opened the clouds and let in the sun again with such a radiant light that Marjorie hesitated no longer. "Flop!" he cried, and leaped to his feet, only to be detained again by Marjorie's clutch:

"But first, what about that preacher?"

"She's got it," Mallory groaned, staring from the judge's again.

CHAPTER XXXV.

Mr. and Mrs. Little Jimmie.

Mrs. Sammy Whitcomb had longed for the sweet privilege of squaring matters with Mrs. Jimmie Wellington. Sneers and back-biting, shrugs and shudders of contempt were poor compensation for the ever-vivid fact that Mrs. Wellington had proved attractive to her Sammy while Mrs. Wellington's Jimmie never looked at Mrs. Whitcomb. Or if he did, his eyes had been so blurred that he had seen two of her—and avoided both.

Yesterday she had overheard Jimmie vow sobriety. Today his shining morning face showed that he had kept his word. She could hardly wait to begin the flirtation which, she trusted, would render Mrs. Wellington helplessly furious for six long Reno months.

The Divorce Drummer interposed and held Jimmie prisoner for a time, but as soon as Mr. Baumann released him, Mrs. Whitcomb apprehended him. With a smile that beckoned and with eyes that went out like far-cast fishhooks, she drew Levathan into her net.

She reeled him in and he ploughed in the seat opposite. What she took for bashfulness was reluctance. To add the last charm to her success, Mrs. Wellington arrived to see it.

Mrs. Whitcomb saw the lonely Ashton rise and offer her the seat facing him. Mrs. Wellington took it and sat down with the back of her head so close to the back of Mr. Wellington's head that the feather in her hat tickled his neck.

Jimmie Wellington had seen his wife pass by. To his sober eyes she was a fine sight as she moved up the aisle. In his alcohol-emanipated mind the keen sense of wrong endured that had driven him forth to Reno began to lose its edge. His own soul appealed from Jimmie drunk to Jimmie sober. The appellate judge began to reverse the lower court's decision, point by point.

He felt a sudden recrudescence of jealousy as he heard Ashton's voice unctuously, flirtatiously offering his wife hospitality. He wanted to trounce Ashton. But what right had he to defend from gallantry the woman he was about to forswear before the world? Jimmie's soul was in turmoil, and Mrs. Whitcomb's pretty face and alluring smile only annoyed him.

She had made several gracious speeches before he quite comprehended any of them. Then he realized that she was saying, "I'm so glad you're going to stop at Reno, Mr. Wellington."

"Thank you. So am I," he mumbled, trying to look interested and wishing that his wife's plume would not tickle his neck.

Mrs. Whitcomb went on, leaning closer: "We two poor mistreated wretches must try to console one another, mustn't we?"

"Yes,—yes,—we must," Wellington nodded, with a sickly cheer.

Mrs. Whitcomb leaned a little closer. "Do you know that I feel at most related to you, Mr. Wellington?"

"Related?" he echoed, "you?—to me? How?"

"My husband knew your wife so well."

Somehow a wave of jealous rage surged over him, and he growled: "Your husband is a scoundrel."

Mrs. Whitcomb's smile turned to vinegar: "Oh, I can't permit you to slander the poor boy behind his back. It was all your wife's fault."

Wellington amazed himself by his own bravery when he heard himself volleys back: "And I can't permit you to slander my wife behind her back. It was all your husband's fault."

Mrs. Jimmie overheard this behind her back, and it strangely thrilled her. She ignored Ashton's existence and listened for Mrs. Whitcomb's next retort. It consisted of a simple, icy drawl: "I think I'll go to breakfast."

She seemed to pick up Ashton with her eyes as she glided by, for, finding himself unnoticed, he rose with a careless: "I think I'll go to breakfast," and followed Mrs. Whitcomb.

The Wellingtons sat dosed-off for some exciting seconds, and then on a sudden impulse, Mrs. Jimmie rose, knelt in the seat and spoke across the back of it:

"It was very nice of you to defend me, Jimmie—er—James."

Wellington almost dislocated several joints in rising quickly and whirling round at the cordiality of her tone. But his smile vanished at her last word. He protested, feebly: "James sounds so like a—a teetler. Can't you call me Little Jimmie again?"

Mrs. Wellington smiled indulgently: "Well, since it's the last time Good-bye, Little Jimmie." And she put out her hand. He seized it hungrily and clung to it: "Good-bye—aren't you getting off at Reno?"

"Yes, but—"

"So am I—Lucretta."

"But we can't afford to be seen together."

Still holding her hand, he temporized: "We've got to stay married for six months at least—while we establish a residence. Couldn't we—er—couldn't we establish a residence—er—together?"

Mrs. Wellington's eyes grew a little sad, as she answered: "It would be too lonesome waiting for you to roll home."

Jimmie stared at her. He felt the regret in her voice and took strange courage from it. He hauled from his pocket his huge flask, and said quickly: "Well, if you're jealous of this, I'll promise to cork it up forever."

She shook her head skeptically: "You couldn't."

"Just to prove it," he said, "I'll chuck it out of the window."

He flung up the sash and made ready to hurl his enemy into the flying land scape.

"Bravo!" cried Mrs. Wellington.

But even as his hand was about to let go, he tightened his clasp again, and pondered: "It seems a shame to waste it."

"I thought so," said Mrs. Jimmie, drooping perceptibly. Her husband began to feel that, after all, she cared what became of him.

"I'll tell you," he said, "I'll give it to old Doc Temple. He takes his straight."

"Fine!"

He turned towards the seat where the clergyman and his wife were sitting, oblivious of the drama of reconciliation playing so close at hand. Little Jimmie paused, careened the flask, and tossed it. "Good-bye, my playmate!" Then, tossing his head with bravado, he reached out and touched the clergyman's shoulder. Dr. Temple turned and rose with a questioning look. Wellington put the flask in his hand and chuckled: "Merry Christmas!"

"But, my good man—" the preacher objected, finding in his hand a donation about as welcome and as wieldy as a strange baby. Wellington winked: "It may come in handy for—your patients."

And now, struck with a sudden idea, Mrs. Wellington spoke: "Oh Mrs. Temple."

"Yes, my dear," said the little old lady, rising. Mrs. Wellington placed in her hand a small portfolio, and laughed: "Happy New Year!"

Mrs. Temple stared at her gift and gasped: "Great heavens! Your cigar!"

"They'll be such a consolation," Mrs. Wellington explained, "while the doctor is out with his patients."

Legend About the Wind.

We have plenty of wind in London just now, especially at that corner by Blackfriars Station. But the men of Lincoln assert that the breeziest spot in England is outside their cathedral. According to a local legend, the devil some hundreds of years ago met the wind outside the cathedral and told him to wait there while he went in to see the dean and chapter. The wind is still waiting, for the devil has not yet been able to tear himself away from the congenial society of the dean and chapter. Consequently all the year round a strong breeze blows in front of Lincoln cathedral.—London Chronicle.

Champion Lazy "Kid."

Talk about lazy kids, there is one at the Franklin County Children's home, all right. He is a perverse little fellow who will not do anything he can get out of doing. Recently when some sticks of candy were given to the children he had another youngster bite off pieces of his candy and give them to him. When the matron asked him why he had the other child do this, he said he wanted to be saved the bother.—Columbus (O.) Dispatch.

NOT AFRAID OF THIS MOUSE

Nobody thinks of jumping on a chair at the sight of this little mouse—in fact, one can sit in perfect calmness while he gambols on one's instep. For the mouse is really embroidered on the silken stocking. The embroidery is done on the thread silk stocking with mouse-colored silk and the effect is very natural and rather startling at first glimpse.

IN VELVETEEN AND CORDUROY MADE A DAINTY TEA TRAY

Combination That Deserves the Popularity Which It Has Been Unhesitatingly Accorded.

Pretty Thing Evolved by Clever Girl in a Most Economical and Simple Manner.

Not every one can afford frocks of silk velvet, so velveteen was manufactured as a substitute. It is lovely, and gives practically the same effect as silk velvet when made up. Velveteen and corduroy are used to fashion many smart frocks for street wear.

Plain colors are more frequently used for the velveteen models. They are effectively trimmed with fur, metallic laces, Persian or tapestry embroidery.

Velveteen does not adapt itself so successfully to draping as do the softer velvets, so the skirts are usually plain or with pleated insets.

The bodices are jumper effects, with gorges of lace or chiffon.

Corduroys in the soft-finished qualities are extensively used.

Frocks and coat suits are developed of this material and seem to find a ready sale.

The two-tone corduroys in brown and tan, blue and black and white are especially favored.

In plain colors, dark blue, brown, black and burgundy are the shades more frequently used.

BLOUSE

This is a smart little blouse to be worn with a costume skirt. It is in soft chiffon taffetas, with embroidery on the shoulders, center front straps and cuffs. Two deep folds are made from the shoulders to waist each side. Materials required: 1 1/2 yards 42 inches wide.

Evening Dresses.

The Grecian draperies and oriental colorings strongly dominate the very exclusive evening dresses, says the Dry Goods Economist. Embossed velvet patterns on chiffon cloth, on charmeuse, on satin or brought out on cloth of gold and silver are utilized. Metallic brocades, gold and silver tues, moire and plain cloth of gold and silver, as well as rich embroidered fabrics, are represented in many of the most favored models. Rich laces are also in favor, particularly the finer varieties, such as Chantilly and Bohemian. Venise is used mostly as a finishing touch on velvet models.

Extreme Effects.

Some of the extreme panier effects introduced this season suggest an ordinary sack combined with Turkish trousers. The panier is slightly gathered into the waistband and falls between the knee and the ankle, over a plain narrow skirt; so that the fullness falls over it. This style is usually carried out in the flowered silks or chiffon that suggests the modes of Louis XIV.

MADE A DAINTY TEA TRAY

Pretty Thing Evolved by Clever Girl in a Most Economical and Simple Manner.

A novel and most economical way to make a pretty tea-tray was discovered by a girl who is very clever with her wits and her fingers. She first purchased for forty cents a large oval picture frame from a second-hand store, securing a very good bit of natural old woodwork. Then with a bottle of stain, some sand-paper and a little varnish she polished up the wood to look like new, then screwed on two brass handles, one at each end, afterwards cutting a piece of pretty cratone the same size as the glass, and pasting it smoothly over the picture would ordinarily go. Covering it with the boards that belong to the frame, tacked securely into place, the entire back then being covered with a piece of felt, when she found herself possessed of a most fetching tea-tray, which in the shops would cost from $1 to $2.

To Prevent Flowers Drooping.

The preservation of flowers is a point upon which most people are singularly ignorant, though it is really quite a simple matter. A little very fine invisible wire is the essential thing, and will preserve the nodding beauty of the spray for many hours, when, if unmounted, the flowers would droop and die. Roses in particular, need this support if they are to keep their grace for any length of time. The other important secret in preserving blooms is the question of water. The flowers to be worn at night should always be cut in the morning and put in water for the rest of the day, until it is time to wire and make up into the spray. Flowers cut in this way will last much better through the evening than those cut immediately before wearing.

Care of the Skin.

Before going to bed at night, sponge the face, neck and arms in a solution of cold salt water. You will find yourself awakening in the morning with that desirable slight pink glow, which you so often see in the face of a child at this time. Another skin stimulator is a small piece of ice, placed in a soft piece of linen and rubbed gently over the entire face and neck, care being taken to reach every part of the surface about the eyes and eyelids. This should not be done to excess; and afterward the face should be gently but thoroughly dried, and a little cold cream applied. All cream that the flesh has not absorbed should be removed, especially from the face that has a tendency toward being hirsute.

Vogue of Moire.

Moire is being used extensively for suits this fall, as well as for trimmings. There are several classes of moire, including the moire antique, the moire velours and the renegade. The latter denotes the ribbed weaves as applied to the moires. The changeable and chameleon effects are shown in the moires quite as often as the plain. The taffeta moire has a beautiful but not too sharply defined wavy effect which makes it very desirable. This fabric has almost ousted the changeable taffeta.

Fur in Neckwear.

Among the distinctly new ideas in neckwear are the novelties in which tiny bands of fur are utilized on the collar portion and, in some instances, on the jabot. Is the statement made in a recent issue of the Dry Goods Economist.

Flowers for Pet Dogs.

The flower notion has got around to the dogs; for the newest of dog collars is made of a circle of silk roses, and tints of pinkish yellow take precedence over other colors for them.

Frontier Medical List.
In good old frontier days castor oil was the principal medical beverage—good full measure, too. Only the biggest person could hold a whole dose—one-half a dinnerful, with half a dinnerful of New Orleans molasses added to help slick it down and make it taste good, only it didn't taste good. In those historic days every old woman was a doctor and gathered her own "yarks" in the woods and knew how to mix up medical messes that would stir the vitals of a brass monkey or a cast iron dog. All backwoodsmen believed in "yark" doctors. Something in "yarks," at that.

The first thing the average hired girl does is look in the closet and size up the family skeleton.

Distance sometimes lends enchantment to a man's view of his mother-in-law.

A man sometimes sees things from a different point of view after his wife makes up her mind.

TIRED BLOOD
RETARDS DIGESTION
(Copyright 1912 by the Tontives Co.)
When the blood is tired, it fails to supply sufficient gastric juice to properly digest the food, and we have Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Nausea, Heartburn, Gastritis, Bad Breath, etc. Building up the blood is the only way to prevent and cure this condition. For this purpose, Tontives will be found of great value, because of their action on the blood, they help to supply the necessary gastric juice, and also to increase the strength of the muscles of the stomach. 75c. per box of dealers or by mail.

This is high and so is the price of beef. For years the Province of Alberta (Western Canada) was the Big Ranching Country. Many of these ranches today are irrigated—grain fields and the cattle have given place to the cultivation of wheat, oats, barley and flax, and produce either entire or grain. The change has made many thousands of Americans, settled on these plains, wealthy, but it has increased the price of live stock. There is a splendid opportunity now to get a

The Cheerful Life

It is the right of everyone to live and enjoy the cheerful life. We owe it to ourselves and those who live with us to live the cheerful life. We cannot do so if ill health takes hold of us.

The wife, mother and daughter suffering from hot flashes, nervousness, headache, backache, dragging-down feeling, or any other weakness due to disorders of irregularities of the delicate female organs—is not only a burden to herself, but to her loved ones.

There is a remedy. Forty years experience has proven unambiguously that
