SHOOTING SCRAPE

Two Greeks Shot as Result of a Little Thanksgiving Pleasantry

An imitation on a small scale of the Balkan War took place at Beaver Dam Thursday after-noon in a coffee house back of the new brick saloon opposite the depot on Spring street. Sixty or seven-ty Greeks and foreigners are boarding in this building and the program for Thanksgiving Day festivities included an argument which resulted in artillery practice at short range.

One Greek was shot in the groin another in the leg and both were taken to the hospital where according to latest reports they will recover. The person responsible for the shooting escaped and had not been apprehended up to this writing. He is thought to be in hiding in this city and no doubt will be apprehended in a day or so.-Horicon Reporter.

Niederrad, Sept. 1, 1912. To the Kewaskum Statesman: I am using the time of my visit in Horbach in taking walks in the beautiful woodlands. I found good roads through excellent beech woods and fir forests, through meadows and ripe crops. There is a place above Horbach on the edge of the forest, granting the most excellent over the country. You can see from this place the neighborhood of Wiesaden, a distance of over ten hours walk. I visited all places where I hustled in the time of my youth. A piece of woodland my youth. A piece of woodland which I helped to clear before my departure 55 years ago, was again cut down about 15 years ago, and now you can find there firs as tall as any in U. S. of America nearly 100 feet high and without knots plants of them. without knots, plenty of them, so that joiners would be very glad if they had to work such wood. I often thought how happy Mr.
Lay would be if he could make selections of building material here. But here better care is given in cultivation of woodlands than in the U.S. If a piece of wood is cut down, a short time afterwards it must be planted again. As I mentioned above there are beautiful beeches, excellent for work as the stems are thick, high and tall. Such woods could be had in Wisconsin if we would use a little care of cultivation, as the temperature, ground and climate in Wisconsin is about the same as in Horbach, Wiesbaden. My relatives were some-times worried about my strolling through the woods, but every place path and road were well known to me, and all people wondered, observing my good memory of all the different places.

A special curiosity in the woods is the so called old wifsoak, on account of an attack of ill-humor account of an attack of ill-humor of revolution in 1848, willing to cut down the thickest oak tree, but happily although well armed with hatchets, they could not succeed as the women had not sufficient power to fell the tree, and so is preserved the tree and its story for our and probably its story for our and probably more, generations.

I was also surprised on account of game, deers and roes, most powerful antlers. They are sometimes injurious to the fields one was entitled to hunting, and you can imagine the success. Therefore in abolished, the game must be spareed, the hunting were rented but the formula to the success. DEATH): 13 UNG DAUGHTER of the farmers. I also had an opportunity to pay a visit to the fair in Mantalaur where you could see in all places stands for selling useful ornamental things of every kind, A very extensive cattle trade had also a good attraction for farmers and their wives, understanding to haggle like jews about a cow, calf or a hog. In Montabaur, a very old city is church, illustrious on account of its antiquity and style of building. Above a little hill in the city is an old castle of the duke of Nassau, used at present as a Montabaur was in beginning a very poor place with a little communication, but railroad helped for a greater, better and more extensive trade, the city was increasing year to year and grants now a very good impression for which reason it has also a good frequentation by the strangers, especially for the beautiful surrounding. Near the depot is built the new part of the town with very nice promenades. On the 11 and 12 of August the fair was in Horbach. STATUTES BOOK READY SOON

Volume Containing the Revision of Wisconsin Laws Will Be Distributed Before January 1.

Madison.-The revised statutes of Wisconsin, as provided for by the legislature of 1909, will issue from the press and be ready for distribution before Jan. 1, when some 8,000 volumes will be procurable from the superintendent of public property.

The new work will be in one volume of about the size of one of the statutes of 1898. The paper upon which it is printed is slightly thinner than that formerly used and will contain but 2,700 pages. In it will be found all the general statutes in force at the present time, while a table gives reference to all private and local acts, with citations to the session laws.

In spite of the thousands of deer killed every year there appears to be no reduction in the number. TAFT SENDS IN MESSAGE ABOUT FOREIGN AFFAIRS

President Informs Congress of Our Relations With Other Nations.

AMERICAN DIPLOMACY WINS

Its Success in Settling Central American Troubles

Reorganization Has Done Much to In crease Its Efficiency-Adjustment of the Sealing and Fisheries Disputes-Interests of United States In the Near and Far East.

Washington, Dec. 3.—President Taft submitted to congress today the first of several messages. It was devoted to our foreign relations and in part was as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives: The foreign relations of the United States actually and potentially affect the state of the Union to a degree not widely realized and hardly surpassed by any other factor in the welfare of the whole nation. The position of the United States in the moral, intellectual, and material relations of the family of nations should be a matter of vital interest to every patriotic citizen. The national prosperity and power impose upon us duties which we can not shirk if we are to be true to our ideals. The tremendous growth of the export trade of the United States has already made that trade a very real factor in the industrial and commercial prosperity of the country. With the development of our industries the foreign commerce of the United States must rapidly become a still more essential factor in its economic welfare. Whether we have a far-seeing and wise diplomacy and are not recklessly plunged into unnecesary wars, and whether our foreign policies are based upon an intelligent grasp of present-day world conditions and a clear view of the potentialities of the future, or are governed by a temporary and timid expediency or by narrow views befitting an infant nation, are questions in the alternative consideration of which must convince any thoughtful citizen that no department of national polity offers greater opportunity for promoting the interests of the whole people on the one hand, or greater chance on the other of permanent national infury, than that which deals with the foreign relations of the United States.

the United States should be raised high above the conflict of partisanship and wholly dissociated from differences as to domestic policy. In its foreign affairs the United States should present to the world a united front. The intellectual, financial and Industrial interests of the country and the publicist, the wage earner, the farmer, and citizen of whatever occupation must co-operate in a spirit of high patriotism to promote that national solidarity which is indispensable to national efficiency and to the attainment of national ideals.

The fundamental foreign policies of

The relations of the United States with all foreign powers remain upon a sound basis of peace, harmony and friendship. A greater insistence upon justice to American citizens or interests wherever it may have been denied and a stronger emphasis of the need of mutuality in commercial and other relations have only served to strengthen our friendships with foreign countries by placing those friendships upon a firm foundation of realities as well as aspirations.

Before briefly reviewing the more important events of the last year in our foreign relations, which it is my duty to do as charged with their conduct and because diplomatic affairs are not of a nature to make it appropriate that the secretary of state make a formal annual report, I desire to touch upon some of the essentials to the safe management of the foreign relations of the United States and to endeavor, also, to define clearly certain concrete policies which are the logical modern corrollaries of the undisputed and traditional fundamentals of the foreign policy of the United States.

Reorganization of the State Department. At the beginning of the present administration the United States, having fully entered upon its position as a world power, with the responsibilities thrust upon it by the results of the Spanish-American war, and already engaged in laying the groundwork of a vast foreign trade upon which it should one day become more and more dependent, found itself without the machinery for giving therough attention to, and taking effective action upon, a mass of intricate business vital to American interests in every country in the world.

The department of state was an archaic and inadequate machine lacking most of the attributes of the foreign office of any great modern power. With an appropriation made upon my acterized as substituting dollars for recommendation by the congress on August 5, 1909, the department of to idealistic humanitarian sentiments. state was completely reorganized. to the dictates of sound policy and being the prey of would be dictators products to foreign countries. The lishing this close season depends, unrience and knowledge gained by actual service in different parts of the world and thus familiar with political and commercial conditions in the regions concerned. The work was highly specialized. The result is that where previously this government its foreign relations one or another policy, now American interests in every quarter of the globe are being cultivated with equal assidulty. Merit System in Consular and Diplomatic Corps.

Expert knowledge and professional training must evidently be the essence of this reorganization. Without a trained foreign service there would not be men available for the work in the reorganized department of state. President Cleveland has taken the first step toward introducing the merit system in the foreign service. DIPLOMATIC SERVICE BETTER That had been followed by the application of the merit principle, with excellent results, to the entire consular branch. Almost nothing, however, had tional disputes. Through the efforts been done in this direction with regard to the diplomatic service. In this age | have been prevented or ended. Therefore, on Novem- Peru and Ecuador; the bringing of the ber 26, 1909, by an executive order I placed the diplomatic service up to and Costa Rica to peaceful arbitrathe grade of secretary of embassy, inclusive, upon exactly the same strict tions when Hayti and the Dominican non-partisan basis of the merit system, rigid examination for appointment and promotion only for efficiency, as had been maintained without exception in the consular service Statistics as to Merit and Nonpartisan

Character of Appointments. How faithful to the merit system and how nonpartisan has been the conduct of the diplomatic and consular services in the last four years may be judged from the following: Three ambassadors now serving held their present rank at the beginning of the administration. Of the ten ambassadors whom I have appointed, five were by promotion from the rank of minister. Nine ministers now serving held their present rank at the beginning of the administration. Of the thirty ministers whom I have appointed, eleven were promoted from the lower grades of the foreign service or from the department of state. Of the nineteen missions in Latin America. where our relations are close and our interest is great, fifteen chiefs of mission are service men, three having entered the service during this administration. The thirty-seven secretaries of embassy or legation who have received their initial appointments after passing successfully the required examination were chosen for ascertained fitness, without regard to political affiliations. A dearth of candidates from southern and western states has alone made it impossible thus far completely to equalize all the states' representations in the foreign service. In the effort to equalize the representation of the various states in the consular service I have made sixteen of the twenty-nine new appointments as consul which have occurred during my administration from the southern states. This is 55 per cent. Every other consular appointment made, including the promotion of eleven young men from the consular assistant and student interpreter corps, has been by promotion or transfer, based solely upon efficiency shown in the service In order to assure to the husiness and other interests of the United benefits of this reform, I earnestly renew my previous recommendations of legislation making it permanent along some such lines as those of the measure now pending in congress.

Larger Provision for Embassies and Legations and for Other Expenses of Our Foreign Representatives Recommended.

In connection with legislation for the amelioration of the foreign service, I wish to invite attention to the advisability of placing the salary appropriations upon a better basais. I believe that the best results would be obtained by a moderate scale of salaries, with adequate funds for the expenses of proper representation. based in each case upon the scale and cost of living at each post, controlled by a system of accounting, and under the general direction of the department of state.

In line with the object which I have sought of placing our foreign service on a basis of permanency, I have at various times advocated provision by congress for the acquisition of government-owned buildings for the residence and offices of our diplomatic of ficers, so as to place them more nearly on an equality with similar officers of other nations and to do away with the discrimination which otherwise must necessarily be made, in some cases, in favor of men having large private fortunes. The act of congress which I approved on February 17, 1911, was a right step in this direction. The secretary of state has already made the limited recommendations permitted by the act for any one year, and it is my hope that the bill introduced in the house of representatives to carry out these recommendations will be favorably acted on by the congress during its present session: Diplomancy a Handmald of Commercial Intercourse and Peace. The diplomancy of the present administration has sought to respond to modern ideas of commercial intercourse. This policy has been charbullets. It is one that appeals alike this financial rehabilitation and the

The government of the United States was thanked for its influence toward the restoration of amicable relations between the Argentine republic and Bolivia. The diplomacy of the United States is active in seeking to assuage the remaining ill-feeling between this country and the Re public of Colombia. In the recent Civil war in China the United States successfully joined with the other interested powers in urging an early cessation of hostilities. An aggement has been reached between the governments of Chile and Peru whereby the celebrated Tacna-Arica dispute, which has so long embittered international relations on the west coast of South America, has at last been adjusted. Simultaneously came the news that the boundary dispute between Peru and Equador had entered upon a stage of amicable settlement. The position of the United States in reference to the Tacna-Arica dispute between Chile and Peru has been one of nonintervention, but one of friendly influence and pacific counsel throughout the period during which the dispute in question has been the subject of interchange of views between this government and the two governments | been withdrawn. The country should immediately concerned. In the general easing of international tension on the west coast of South America the tripartite mediation, to which I have referred, has been a most potent and beneficent factor.

China.

In China the policy of encouraging financial investment to enable that country to help itself has had the result of giving new life and practical application to the open-door policy. The consistent purpose of the present administration has been to encourage the use of American capital in the development of China by the promotion of those essential reforms to which China is pledged by treaties with the United States and other powers. The hypothecation to foreign bankers in connection with certain in-States a continuance of the resulting dustrial enterprises, such as the Hukuang railways, of the national revenues upon which these reforms depended, led the department of state early in the administration to demand for American citizens participation in such enterprises, in order that the United States might have equal rights and an equal voice in all questions pertaining to the disposition of the public revenues concerned. The same policy of promoting international accord among the powers having similar treaty rights as ourselves in the matters of reform, which could not be put into practical effect without the common consent of all was likewise adopted in the case of the loan desired by China for the reform of its currency. The principle of international co-operation in matters of common interest upon which our policy had already been based in all of the above instances has admittedly been a great factor in that concert of the powers which has been so happily conspicuous during the perilous period of transition through which the great Chinese nation has been passing.

> Central America the aim has been to help such countries as Nicaragua and Honduras to help themselves. They are the immediate bene ficiaries. The national benefit to the United States is two-fold. First, it is obvious that the Monroe doctrine is more vital in the neighborhood of the Panama canal and the zone of the ('aribbean than anywhere else. There, too, the maintenance of that doctrine falls most heavily upon the United States. It is therefore essential that the countries within that sphere shall be removed from the leopardy involv ed by heavy foreign debt and chaotic national finances and from the everpresent danger of international complications due to disorder at home Hence the United States has been glad to encourage and support Amerlcan bankers who were willing to lend ures have assumed in the commerce of the world in competition with the manufactures of other countries again draws attention to the duty of this government to use its utmost endeavors to secure impartial treatment for American products in all markets. Healthy commercial rivalry in international intercourse is best assured by the possession of proper means for protecting and promoting our foreign trade. It is natural that competitive countries should view some instances the measure taken by them to meet it are not entirely equiof the tariff law of 1909. The advanhave continued during the last year, inatory treatment of which we had moved. The department of state has this country obtained substantial most-favored-nation treatment from all the countries of the world. There are, however, other instances which, while apparently not constituting unsection 2, are nevertheless exceptions to the complete equity of tariff treatment for American products that the department of state consistently has sought to obtain for American commerce abroad.

Necessity for Supplementary Leigslalation. These developments confirm the opinion conveyed to you in my annual message of 1911, that while the maximum and minimum provision of the tariff law of 1909 has been fully justified by the success achieved in removing previously existing undue discriminations against American products, yet experience has shown that this feature of the law should be amended in such way as to prevent a fully effective means of meeting the varying degrees of discriminatory treatment of American commerce in foreign countries still encountered, as well as to protect against injurious treatment on the part of foreign governments, through either legislative of administrative measures, the financial interests abroad of American citizens whose enterprises enlarge the market for American commoditiees. I can not too strongly recommend to congress the passage of some such enabling measure as the bill which was recommended by the secretary islation is, in brief, to enable the executive to apply. as the case may require, to any or all commodities, whether or not on the free list from a country which discriminates against the United States, a graduated scale of duties up to the maximum of 25 per cent, ad valorem provided in the present law.

how far, if at all, it is necessary for protecting and preserving the Ameriani fur-seal herd and for increasing its number. This is a question requiring examination of the present condition of the herd and the treatment which it needs in the light of actual experience and scientific investigation. A careful examination of the subject is now being made, and this government will soon be in possession of a considerable amount of new information about the American seal herd, which has been secured during the past season and will be of great value in determining this question; and if it should appear that again there is any uncertainty as to the real necessity for imposing a close season at this time, I shall take an early opportunity to address a special message to congress on this subject, in the belief that this government should yield on this point rather than give the slightest ground for the charge that we have been in any way remiss in observing our treaty obliga-Final Settlement of North Atlantic Fisheries Dispute.

Drives Off A Terror

The chief executioner of death the winter and spring months is pneumonia. Its advance agents are colds and grip. In any attack by one of these maladies no time should be lost in taking the best medicine obtainable to drive it off, Countless thousands have found this to be Dr. King's New Discovery. "My husband believes it has kept him from having pneumonia three or four times," writes Mrs. George W. Place, Rawsonville, Vt., "and for coughs, colds and croup we have never found its equal." Guaranteed for all boneo'al affections. Price 50'ets and $1,00. Trial bottle free at all Druggists.

"Has Mrs. Mallory lost that pup again?" Everybody laughed uproarlously at this. People will laugh at anything or nothing when they have been frightened almost to death and suddenly relieved of anxiety.

Everybody was cracking a joke at Marjorie's expense. Everybody feit a good-natured grudge against her for being such a mystery. The car was ringing with hilarity, when the porter came stumbling in and paused at the door, with eyes all white, bands waving frantically, and lips flapping like flannel, in a vain effort to speak. The passengers stopped laughing at Marjorie, to laugh at the porter. Ash ton sang out:

FOR FINAL OF 620 SESSION.

Appropriation Measures Make Up Bulk of Program-Little Constructive Legislation Will Be Attempted.

Washington, Loc. 3 .- The house and senate both convened at noon Monday for the final session of the sixty-second congress. They will remain at work for about two weeks, and then adjourn for the holidays. Returning to Washington early in January, the lawmakers will resume their labors, which will come to an end March 4th with the inauguration of Mr. Wilson

Two of the annual budgets are now peals of fright. After the first hush ready—the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill and the District of Columbia bill. February. It is apparent to experienced members that such big questions as the tariff, the trusts and the currency problem cannot be tackled in the days intervening between December 2 and March 4. Congress will be forced to appropriate at the rate of about $12,500,000 per day in order to meet the running expenses of the United States government during the fiscal year of 1913.

It is anticipated that the house committee on banking and currency will continue its investigation of the "money trust" and may make a tentative draft of bills to amend the currency laws.

The ways and means committee will plug ahead in its preparation of bills revising the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, but none of these measures will be brought out until the beginning of the sixty-third congress, which will be convened in extraordinary session about April 15th

The judiciary committee of the house will be largely concerned with the impeacement proceedings against Judge Robert W. Archbald of the commerce court, which are now pending before the senate and will be taken up very soon.

STORIES 9'
CAMP

PRESENTED HAM TO GEN. LEE

Young Lieutenant Couldn't Withstand Hungry Look of Superior and Gave Up His Meat.

The Christmas story entitled 'Where the Heart Is," by Will Irwin, in the American Magazine contains the following:

"It was just before Christmas of 64 that I saw Lee last on the south bank of the Appomattox. I wonder if any of the northern army knew what it was to be as hungry as we all were those days? The captain sent me up with a report to the general's househe had an old farm building for his headquarters. I went on foot, because we were sparing our horses. And right there happened about the greatest piece of luck I ever had in my life. I kicked something in the road. Well, I could scarcely believe my eyes when I saw what it was. It was half a boiled ham. How it got there I've never known to this day. Some raiders making camp dropped it, I reckon. If I found $10,000 in the street tomorrow, it wouldn't seem so lucky. BOTH HOUSES CONVENE I wrapped it up under my cape, just unable to think of anything but how good it was going to taste. You see MEMBERS OF CONGRESS MEET I wasn't much more than a boy. I enlisted at seventeen in '62: I was only nineteen then, and just wearing my second lieutenant's shoulder straps.

"Well, I came to the turn of the road, and looked up. And there came the general and his staff. Some of the boys had been complaining. I'd ard, 33c. heard them say that the general was living in a house, eating fried chicken while we were eating bran and going meat hungry. I thought of that, with the ham under my cape. I dropped it down so I could hold it with my left hand when I saluted, and stood there by the road at attention.

"I hadn't seen the general for a year. But Lordee-what a year had done to that man! Then his hair was gray-brown-now it was almost white. Then his eyes were clear like a boy's -now they were old. And his face was pinched and hollow. You couldn't. fool me. I'd seen that look often cows and heifers, 2.80@7.65; calves, enough before. The general was hun-

"Well, I went on up to headquarters with the report. And all the time I held the ham, and all the time I was thinking of the general and the way he looked. And when I got ready to start back, something struck me. I wasn't much use to the Confederacy. He was everything. I just turned and went out to the kitchen. I found the nigger boiling a little handful of corn meal. I took out that ham and said, 'Get a knife, nigger, and slice up this meat. It's for the general. And if I ever find you haven't fed it to him, you won't have to wait for the Yanks to get you.' And I went back and ate a corn cake and a little sliver of bacon for dinner that day."

Last Flag Out of Alexandria At a political meeting at Alexan

There were many to be made, and whenever there was nobody at home and cards could be left with the maid there was that much gained. One of the sisters smiled contentedly when the callers, as had happened several times that day, were informed that the prospective hostess was not at home. The other sister represed the smile severely. "You mustn't look so pleased when we don't find them at home," she said, as they went down the walk, "they may be watching us out of the window."

Women are especially susceptible to constipation and their more delicate organisms rebel at the violence of cathartics and purgatives. Drastic medicines like salts, mineral waters, pills and powders may afford temporary relief, but their violent action on the stomach and bowels tends to upset the entire system.

A mild laxative is far preferable and more effective. The combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin prescribed by Dr. W. B. Caldwell, and sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is ideal for women, being gentle in action, positive in effect and pleasant to the taste. A spoonful of Syrup Pepsin at night will bring natural relief next morning and, used regularly for a brief period, will so strengthen and tone the muscles of the stomach and bowels that there will be little, if any, further need for medicine.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can be procured in any drug store. Your name and address on a postal to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 203 West St., Monticello, Ill., will bring a free trial bottle by return mail. Adv.

Reason for Inquiry.

The following after-dinner story was related by Dr. Henry Churchill King, president of Oberlin college, before the Chicago Congregational club banquet:

'I was standing out in front of one of the big exposition buildings at the St. Louis fair, when a man came out of the building much the worse for

End of a Noted Folly.

The monocle has long since been out of fashion in England, and is soon to disappear from Paris, which has been its last stronghold. It was invented by a Dutch dandy, and its evil effects upon the eye were at once noted by oculists. The monocle first appeared at the congress of Vienna in 1814, when it was worn by its inventor. One folly, at least, has had only about a century of life.

CHRISTMAS DAINTIES.

Christmas Fruit Cake .- The ingredients are as follows: A pound of but ter, a pound of sugar, a pound of browned flour, sifted, twelve eggs. five pounds of seeded raisins, one and a half pounds of shredded citron, a glass of grape jelly, two teaspocnfuls of melted chocolate, a pound of candied cherries, a pound of candied pineapple, a pound of blanched almonds cut fine, a pound of shelled pecans cut small, a tablespoonful of cinnamon, a scant tablespoonful of nutmeg, half a tablespoonful of allspice, a scant tablespoonful of powdered cloves, a glass of grape juice and two teaspoonfuls of rose water. Soak the almonds over night in the rosewater, and the fruit in the grape fuice for the same length of time. Cream the butter, add the sugar and the well-beaten yolks of twelve eggs, then the spices, grape jelly and chocolate. Next add part of the flour, mix well and then fold in the whites of the eggs, beaten stiff. Roll the fruit in the rest of the flour, mixing it into the cake in small quantities at a time. Add the nuts last. Bake or steam from four to six hours in large or small molds. If steamed, dry off in the oven for an hour. Fruit Vol au Vent.-Make a large
