WOMAN TAKES LONG JAUNT

Mrs. Louisa Meyers Wanders to Campbellsport from West Allis.

SHE IS GIVEN SHELTER

Thinly Clad and Almost Frozen She Is Given Shelter By People Who Saw Her Plodding Along.

Mrs. Louisa Meyers Johnson, the West Allis, Wis., woman who has figured in the public eye on several occasions of late has shown up at Campbellsport.

Thinly clad, almost ready to drop from fatigue and exposure, the woman was found wandering along the public highway near the Edward Campbell home near Campbellsport several days ago. The Campbells took her in charge and learned from her that she had relatives in Byron. Relatives were communicated with but were unable to do anything further as the Johnson had a mania for wandering about and although given shelter and care by her relatives, she frequently disappeared.

At the present time the woman is working in a Campbellsport home, her room and board provided for the work she does about the house. The woman lives at West Allis. The authorities have communicated with the West Allis authorities and no doubt she will be taken back to her home.

Income Tax Law Reduces Varsity Income.

Because of the reduction in the assessed valuation of personal property, resulting from the adoption of the income tax in Wisconsin, the University of Wisconsin's appropriation for current expenses provided by the three-eighths of a mill tax, this year has fallen below the amount anticipated. The regents in drawing up the university bill, to be introduced into the legislature shortly, have provided that the sum of $92,389 be appropriated for this fiscal year beginning July 1, 1912 to make up the amount which it was anticipated would be secured on this year's tax levy. To cover a similar decrease during the next two years the university bill provides that $175,000 be appropriated for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1913, and $235,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1914.

Special Bulletin of the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Station.

The annual meeting of the Wisconsin Horse Breeders' Association will be held Friday, February 7 at 2 p. m., in Agricultural Hall, Madison.

A fine collection of the various breeds of horses will be on exhibition and on the night of February 7 the association will hold a great horse show in the stock pavilion.

An attractive program has been prepared for the meeting and includes an address by the veteran horseman, J. H. S. Johnstone of Chicago, on "Horse Markets and Colt Shows," by John L. Tormey, of the College of Agriculture; and discussions relative to proposed amendments to the stallion law, county horse breeders' clubs, the lien law, and other subjects of interest to horsemen.

Violated Game Law.

Game Warden George Hall had a case in justice court in this city Monday, the defendants being Frank Scherr, Peter Jochen and Elmer Baehring, who were charged with disturbing muskrat houses. Mr. Hall states that a number of muskrat houses on Mud lake in the town of Polk had been chopped open and traps set therein. He found six traps. He accused the defendants of the same. Jochen the youngest one of the three, stated on the stand that it was he who opened the houses, and pleaded guilty. He was fined $25 and costs, amounting to $31.85. His uncle Frank Scherr, and Baehring pleaded not guilty and their cases were postponed to January 23. Scherr's bond of $100 was furnished by Philip Mal-sack Baehring's bond was also furnished.—Hartford Press.

Fur Burglars Caught.

George Goff, Charles Miller and George Gilman, arrested at Watertown last week on suspicion of having burglarized the Schempt Brothers store, were taken to LaCrosse Thursday, where they are wanted for the robbery of a fur store, in which raid they secured $1,600 worth of goods. Part of this haul was later sold to a Fox Lake merchant who upon hearing of the robbery returned the stolen articles to the LaCrosse firm. The Fox Lake merchant was at Watertown Thursday and identified the prisoners as the men who sold him the goods.—Juneau Independent.

Paid Too Much Income Tax.

At the meeting of the common council last Tuesday evening a petition was received from W. B. Place and Geo. D. Wells in regard to an error in their income tax amounting to $41.87 for Mr. Place and $40.49 for Mr. Wells. A resolution was passed that said tax be remitted, annulled and cancelled as an excessive and double tax and a tax upon property exempt by law from taxation. L. D. Guth income tax assessor, and the state tax commission favored such action being taken.—Hartford Times.

Taken to West Bend.

Harry Basset, who suffered a stroke of paralysis about two months ago and who has been confined to his bed since, was taken to West Bend, Tuesday, where he will be taken care of by Washington County. The unfortunate man was employed on the farm of Wm. Finch and was a steady and industrious workman. He has the sympathy of the people of this vicinity, who donated handsomely to the support of the family while here.—Adell Correspondence, Plymouth Reporter.

Kills a Wolf.

A large wolf declared by hunters to be a cross between a timber and prairie wolf, was killed near the "high bridge" at Oakfield Friday afternoon. While James Hobbs of Lamartine, fired the shot that killed the animal, Sam Buckter, an Oakfield boy, lays claim to having shot the animal fatally wounding it before Hobbs fired. Although Hobbs has the animal Buckter will contest the payment of the $20 bounty allowed by the state.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

To Hear Dietz Pardon.

Clarence Dietz of Mayville, son of John F. Dietz, now serving a life sentence at Waupun, has recently received a letter from Governor McGovern stating that the Dietz petition for pardon will be taken up in the near future, and would be the first considered when the pardon board was ready to act.—Horicon Reporter.

New Bus Line.

Anton Schaefer bought an 18 passenger Buick bus this week he will run it regular to the Koisch resort at Pike Lake as soon as the season opens. As John Reik also runs an auto bus to the Lake there will probably be excellent opportunity to get to the lake and back the coming summer.—Hartford Press.

January Butter Exhibit Best in Many Years.

The largest number of entries and the highest score since the first year of the scoring exhibition in Wisconsin characterized the January exhibit of butter scored at Madison by Prof. C. E. Lee, of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin. Splendid workmanship in butter was shown throughout. Every exhibit was perfect in color. The average score of the 75 exhibits was 92.8 per cent. On account of the excellent showing they have made at these contests, several creamery operators have been able to make contracts for the sale of their butter at prices considerably above the usual market.

Almost Lost His Life.

BELOIT WINS FIRST PRIZE

"Tucc" Cleaner for School in Christmas Seal Campaign.—Returns Equal Last Year's.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 17, 1913. (Special)—Leading all of the cities in Wisconsin over 10,000 population in the per capita sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals, Beloit, with a sale of 5.12 cents per each inhabitant, was awarded first choice of prizes, choosing the "Tucc" Stationary Vacuum Cleaner for a school house.

The largest sale by cities of all sizes was made by Ellsworth, with a per capita sale 17.91 cents, winning the choice of a "Wolverine" Drinking Fountain or a "McIntosh" Stereopticon. Manitowoc with the second highest sale among the large cities secured the most costly prize. This is a complete open-air-school equipment, the principal features of which are a suitable building, donated by the Kenyon Cottage Company of Waukesha seats and desks, donated by the American Seating Company of Chicago, and folding cots, donated by the Gold Medal Camp Furniture Company of Racine.

Richland Center, with a per capita sale of 11.35 won the choice of the "Tucc" Vacuum Cleaner for cities under ten thousand population or the "Lansing" Drinking Fountain. Two vacuum cleaners for parochial schools were won by St. Mary's school in Milwaukee and the Catholic parochial school at Kimberly. All of the four vacuum cleaners were donated by the United Electric Company of Canton, Ohio, through the Tucc Committee of Milwaukee.

"Wolverine" Drinking Fountains, donated by the Gier & Dail Manufacturing Company of Lansing, Mich., were won by Kenosha, Janesville, Lake Geneva and Ellsworth. Other prizes will be awarded which cannot be announced at this time, as, according to the rule that only one prize can go to a city, a number of places still have to designate their choice. "Though complete returns are not in yet, the indications are that the sale will run about the same as last year," said Campaign Manager, Otto F. Bradley, when asked regarding the success of the campaign. "The exact figures will be published when they are complete. From an educational standpoint this campaign was by far the best ever conducted and it was run at a very small expense."

ASSEMBLY IN FIGHT ON SEAT CONTEST

CASE IN WHICH R. H. SMITH OF TOMAHAWK SEEKS PLACE OF J. O'DAY OF MERRILL.

PARTY ISSUE IS INDICATED

Assemblyman Hansen Introduces Bill That Would Radically Change Drainage System of Wisconsin—Other Important Measures Taken Up.

Madison.—The contested election case in which Ralph H. Smith of Tomahawk is seeking to obtain the seat now occupied by Assemblyman John O'Day of Merrill bids fair to become a live issue and bring on a hot party fight in the assembly. This was indicated when objection was raised to the consideration of a resolution, introduced by Assemblyman T. J. Mahon, giving the committee on elections power to issue subpoenas. That the resolution will be passed was shown on the vote on the motion to suspend the rules, there being 32 yeas and 38 nays. Mr. O'Day and his friends are perfectly willing to stand on a recount of the votes in the district. If the recount should show that Mr. Smith received more votes than Mr. O'Day, the seat, they say, would be given up. The case has developed into a party issue.

A simple amendment offered to the general drainage law in the form of a bill presented by Assemblyman Carl Hansen today will radically change the drainage system of Wisconsin if adopted. It provides that the cost of drainage shall be apportioned by the supervisors upon the several tracts of land drained. The bill provides that the present provisions of the general drainage law be made applicable to "one or more persons whose lands are subject to overflow and damages by surface water flowing from the lands of other persons." It is claimed that this general provision will give a greater scope of the drainage law and will bring many under its provisions for damages, who now escape.

BOOST DAVIES FOR CABINET

Milwaukee.—Unanimous endorsement for a position in President Wilson's cabinet was accorded National Committeeman Joseph E. Davies of Madison, by the democratic state central committee which met here to wind up the affairs of the 1912 campaign. The meeting adopted a resolution which contained greetings to President-elect Wilson and Wm. J. Bryan in the following words: "We send greetings to President-elect Woodrow Wilson and wish him godspeed in his efforts to have enacted into law the progressive measures which he has so earnestly advocated as governor of New Jersey. "This committee extends to William Jennings Bryan its most hearty congratulations upon the magnificent fight he has made in behalf of the American people."

OAT SMUT IS THREATENED

Neglect of the Use of Formalin Treatment Said to Be Cause of Trouble in Wisconsin.

Madison.—Due to the negligence of Wisconsin farmers, many of whom have stopped using the formalin treatment on their seed oats, oat smut is again beginning to do damage in the state. For some years the widespread use of the formalin treatment kept the disease in check, but according to reports issued by the college of agriculture of the university in some oat fields in the state last year 40 per cent of the oat plants were affected by smut.

BLOODY STRIKE RIOT

ONE KILLED, TWO FATALLY HURT AND TEN INJURED AT RANKIN, PA.

DEPUTIES AND MEN CLASH

Eighty Armed Officers and 300 U. S. Steel Company Employees Battle to Death—Baby, Two Women and Little Girl Among Victims.

Rankin, Pa., Jan. 30.—Deputy sheriffs, armed with revolvers and rifles, clashed in a bloody fight with strikers, armed with stones, from the Rankin plant of the American Steel and Wire company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, Tuesday. One man was killed, two fatally wounded and ten seriously injured. All the wounded, with the exception of two deputy sheriffs, were spectators. Not a striker was injured so far as known.

A six-month-old child and several women are among the injured. Hawkins square, where the trouble occurred, was a bloody battleground for over an hour and the fight ended only when the deputy sheriffs, led by Sheriff Bruff, retreated within the fence of the big wire mills.

Shortly before five o'clock in the evening 300 strikers emerged from a public hall in Fourth street after having held a big mass meeting and gathered in front of the hall to pose for a newspaper picture.

At about the same time eighty deputy sheriffs, led by Sheriff Bruff, Burgess, Milligan and Chief of Police Barnett, left the wire mill and marched up the hill towards Hawkins avenue.

The picture finished the strikers dispersed and were starting for their homes when they were met by the big file of deputy sheriffs marching in military order. A dead silence followed. Suddenly some one picked a lump of coal off a loaded coal wagon and threw it into the ranks of the strikers. In a trice the fight was on.

ARREST NOTED WOMEN IN N. Y.

Taken by Police, in Company With Girl Strikers, Charged With Disorderly Conduct—Are Discharged.

New York, Jan. 30.—Four women of wealth and ardent advocates of the right of their sex to the ballot, who have taken an active interest in the strike of the girls in the needle industries, were gathered with 17 strikers in the net strung by the police of the West Seventeenth street station through the left district in the lower West Twenties here Tuesday night. The four women are: Miss Maud Younger, Mrs. Marguerite Remington Charter, the writer; Mrs. Sarah Parks, editor of the Woman Voter, and Miss Margaret Hinchey. They were all charged with disorderly conduct. Another woman of prominence, who entered the station house during the evening, was Miss Fola La Follette, daughter of the Wisconsin senator, who accompanied Miss Gussie Birnbaum, a picket who had been arrested during a disturbance in West Twenty-first street. These were all discharged.

EX-SUGAR HEAD TO PRISON

Supreme Court Sustains Verdict of Lower Court Against Charles R. Helke, Convicted of Fraud.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Charles R. Helke, former secretary of the American Sugar Refining company, must serve a sentence of eight months' imprisonment and pay a fine of $5,000. The verdict of the lower court was sustained by the United States Supreme court. He was convicted in New York of having been connected with fraudulent practices in connection with the weighing of sugar to avoid custom duties.

The immunity bath was given a serious setback by the decision Helke claimed that because of testimony given before the New York grand jury he had incriminated himself and should be immune from further proceedings against him. This plea was given but little consideration by the highest court.

States Name U. S. Senators.

New York, Jan. 30.—The following United States senators were named Tuesday: New Jersey, William Hughes, Democrat; Kansas, William H. Thompson, Democrat; Arkansas, W. M. Kavanaugh, Democrat; South Carolina, B. F. Tillman, Democrat; Wyoming, Francis E. Warren, Republican; New Mexico, A. B. Fall, Texas, Morris Sheppard, Democrat.

Human Bomb Given 20 Years.

WOMEN LOSE BATTLE

SUFFRAGISTS IN LONDON ATTACK PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

Police Bar Way When Attempt is Made to See Lloyd-George—Many Arrests Made.

London, Jan. 29.—Much broken glass and 22 suffragettes in jail sum up the casualties of the first day's guerrilla war declared by the women as a result of the death of the franchise bill. It might have been worse, but a pitiless downpour of rain, which set in an hour before the time fixed for the commencement of hostilities, continued all night and figuratively and literally took all the starch out of the hundreds of women who prouided to line up for battle.

As it was, the more ardent suffragettes paraded the West end and broke many store windows in Regent, Oxford and Cocksport streets and in the government office at Whitehall.

The deputation headed by Mrs. "General" Drummond marched to the house of commons and demanded to be allowed to see Lloyd-George, but she found that a cordon of police barred her way at the entrance. A grand charge by the women in an endeavor to break through the lines was severely repulsed and a number of them were arrested, including Mrs. Drummond and Sylvia Pankhurst.

Mrs. Drummond was led away to the police station, shouting: "Comrades, smash windows and destroy all the property you can."

It is believed that Cristobal Pankhurst was among the rioters, as the elusive little lady was recognized earlier in company with her sister.

The threatened campaign of the suffragettes to renew their efforts for the cause with increased violence, was formally opened at noon with an assault on Dublin castle. They smashed fifteen windows with stones before the Irish police could get control of the situation. Three of the women—Mrs. Cousins, Mrs. Conery and Mrs. Hopkins—were arrested and each sentenced to a month's hard labor in prison.

TO RENEW THE WAR

BALKAN ALLIES DECIDE TO END FURTHER NEGOTIATIONS FOR PEACE.

Great Excitement Follows Killing of War Chief Nazim Pasha Amid Disturbances at the Capital in Opposition to Accepting Peace Terms.

London, Jan. 28.—At a special meeting Sunday the representatives of the Balkan states at the peace conference decided that negotiations looking to a settlement of the Turko-Bulgarian war, which have been pursuing their desultory way toward final disagreement for more than a month should be broken off at once. This decision means a resumption of the war.

TERROR REIGNS IN CAPITAL

Adding to the general terror, a heavy earthquake shook the Turkish capital.

London, Nov. 27.—The new Turkish cabinet has decided to recall the Ottoman peace delegates from London, according to a dispatch from Constantinople. The Turkish government is said also to have requested its ambassadors at Vienna and St. Petersburg to return to the Turkish capital.

Enver Bey, the most spirited leader of the Young Turks, was appointed chief of the general staff of the Turkish army on Thursday.

Constantinople, Jan. 27.—Fighting occurred on Friday at several places in the city. A dozen or more persons have been wounded and many arrests have been made.

Great public excitement has followed the killing of Nazim Pasha, the former war minister and commander of the Turkish army, who was shot during public demonstrations here Thursday.

Nazim Pasha's death by a shot from the revolver of Enver Bey or Talaat Bey is believed to have been accidental. The two officers, in order to protect themselves from the fire of Uazim's aide-de-camp, who had shot at them from a window, drew their revolvers and emptied them at him. A bullet struck and killed Nazim Pasha, who was seated inside the room.

Italian, British and other warships have been ordered to Turkish waters, according to dispatches from Mediterranean ports.

MONEY QUIZ BODY HEARS HILL

Railroad Executive Declared That Great Northern and Northern Pacific Lines Compete.

Washington, Jan. 27.—James J. Hill, who took the stand before the house hearing just committed Friday, opened his testimony with a list of his directorships in New York and Chicago banks and in the Great Northern and Burlington railroads. Mr. Hill said that the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific railroads were competitors.

When the Northern Securities company was dissolved, he said, he received 37,000 shares of Great Northern and 62,000 shares of Northern Pacific. He now has 20,000 shares of Great Northern and his son, Louis W. Hill, has 13,500 shares. Mr. Hill testified that he was a director in the First National bank of St. Paul, one of the largest banks in the northwest. He disagreed with Counsel Undermyer's suggestion that minority stockholders be given representation in directors through cumulative voting. He said that such a system might allow competitors to secure a corporation's secrets by obtaining a place on its board.

HELEN TAFT'S BRAVE EFFORT

Races Her Mount After Runaway Horse of Her Guest, Miss Bowers—Latter Thrown and Hurt.

Washington, Jan. 30.—Miss Helen Taft was the heroine of a thrilling runaway here Tuesday when she risked her life by racing her mount through the streets of Washington in an effort to save Miss Martha Bowers from being dashed to death by the saddle horse she had been riding as a member of Miss Taft's party.

As it was Miss Bowers was thrown when her mount, the property of Miss Taft, became unmanageable and dashed wildly down Sixteenth street, crashing into a street car at U street northwest.

Miss Bowers is the daughter of the late Lloyd N. Bowers of Chicago. She escaped death only by the greatest good fortune. Her right arm was fractured above the wrist, her head badly cut. The horse was killed.

Minnesota Hits Suffrage.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 30.—By a vote of 33 to 30, the Minnesota state senate rejected on Tuesday afternoon a bill proposing a constitutional amendment giving women the right of suffrage.

House Passes River Bill.

Washington, Jan. 30.—After days of spirited debate the house passed the river and harbor appropriation bill, carrying $40,000,000, without an important amendment Tuesday afternoon.

PLANNING THE SUFFRAGIST PAGEANT

Our illustration shows Mrs. Patricia M. Street (left) and Miss Alice Paul (right), two internationally known suffragists, at work in the Washington headquarters planning the great pageant of March 3. Mrs. Street is a daughter of Sir Paul Eliot, former chief justice of the Australian supreme court, and she will lead a division of Australian suffragists in the parade. Miss Paul is a Philadelphian.

SICKLES GIVES BOND

VETERAN GENERAL FREED FROM CLUTCHES OF LAW.

Received Message of Sympathy, Offering Help From Mrs. Longstreet, Widow of Southern Commander.

New York, Jan. 29.—Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, hero of the battle of Gettysburg and sole surviving corps commander of the Civil war, for a few minutes here Monday was a prisoner of the state of New York on a charge of misappropriating $23,276 of the battlefield monument fund.

He was given his freedom when Sheriff Harburger, his old friend and successor in the office which the latter now holds, accepted a bond of $50,000 covering the shortage, and thereafter began a campaign to raise, by subscription, enough money to make up the alleged shortage. While the arrest and bond transaction were taking place in the library of the Sickles home in Fifth avenue, the general received a telegram from Mrs. Helen Longstreet, widow of the famous Confederate general, in which she offered to take up a subscription to make up the amount which the general is alleged to be short in his accounts.

The telegram was dated at Gainesville, Ga., as follows: "My soul is sorrowed by your troubles. I am writing to the attorney general of New York that I will raise money among the ragged and destitute veterans who followed General Lee to make up the amount demanded if New York state will allow sufficient time. The republic whose battles you fought will not permit this degradation.—Helen D. Longstreet."

NEW HARVESTER CO. FORMED

Incorporators Are the Men Actually Connected With the Present Big Reaper Concern.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 29.—Articles incorporating the International Harvester corporation, with an authorized capital of $70,000,000, were filed with the secretary of state here Monday, the incorporators being men actively connected with the International Harvester company, a concern already chartered under the laws of New Jersey, with an authorized capital of $140,000,000.

In connection with the filing of the articles there was filed a letter from the International Harvester company, signed by its president, Cyrus H. McCormick, stating that the company has no objection to the making up of practically the same title by the International Harvester corporation.

In the letter it is also stated that it is the purpose of the International Harvester company to file papers changing the title of the company to the International Harvester company of New Jersey.

The incorporators are Harold F. McCormick and William J. Lauderbach, Chicago; William L. Saunders, Plainfield, N. J.; John A. Chapman, Chicago, and Clarence F. Gregory and Robert H. Neilson, New York.

ELEVEN U. S. SOLDIERS SLAIN

Captain McNally and Ten Others Are Killed by Igorrotes in the Philippines.

Manila, Jan. 28.—A wireless received here on Monday from Zamboanga confirms the report of the slaying of Capt. Patrick McNally of the Philippine scouts, but increases the number of those killed with him to ten instead of nine, as at first reported. Fourteen scouts were wounded by tribesmen. Captain McNally of the lieutenants and seven enlisted men were killed.

Condensing Plant for Whitewater.

Whitewater.—The American Milk company is considering the purchase of the old mill property in Whitewater, as a site for a milk condensing plant. If the site is acquired, the company will erect a factory building to cost $75,000.

A stubborn desire to get even has brought about many a man's downfall.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

Don't put yourself under a cloud with the sole idea of testing the silver lining theory. The man who is too proud to beg and too honest to steal shouldn't aspire to a political job. Little boys soon get tired of their toys and break them, but little girls wait until they grow up. As a rule a 22-caliber man makes more noise than a 44. Ever notice how willing people are to assist you when you don't need help? The world usually sides with the man who makes a noise like ready money. Many a man has discovered that he misjudged his enemy—especially after he wakes up in the hospital. An egotist is a man who is so wrapped up in himself that he pays no attention to us. A lazy man is always making idle remarks. If a man has sense his dollars will take care of themselves.

Washington, Jan. 30.—Rev. Dr. Daniel W. Fisher, father of Secretary Fisher, died here Tuesday after an illness of several months. He was seventy-five years old. He had served Presbyterian churches in the south.

Rev. Townsend to Go East.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 27.—Rev. Dr. Cyrus Townsend Brady, preacher and author, will retire as rector of St. George's Episcopal church here to accept a call to the Church of the Ascension, Mount Vernon, N. Y.

Prince of Wales Makes Goal.

London, Jan. 27.—Britishers are excited because the young prince of Wales scored the winning and only goal at the association football match played at Oxford between Magdalen and Keble college Friday.

STUDIES BIG PROBLEM

BUREAU OF SOCIAL HYGIENE IS EXPLAINED.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Tells of Its Origin, Work and Plans for the Investigation of Vice Conditions.

New York, Jan. 27.—In order that the public might better understand the Bureau of Social Hygiene, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., today gave a statement explaining the origin, work and plans of that institution. The bureau, he said, came into existence about two years ago as a result of the work of a special grand jury appointed to investigate the white slave traffic in New York city. This jury recommended that a public commission be appointed to study the social evil.

Mr. Rockefeller was foreman of that grand jury and he thereafter gave the subject deep thought and conferred with a large number of leading men and women. "These conferences," says Mr. Rockefeller, "developed the feeling that a public commission would labor under a number of disadvantages, such as the fact that it would be short lived; that its work would be done publicly; that at best it could hardly do more than present recommendations. So the conviction grew that in order to make a real and lasting improvement in conditions, a permanent organization should be created, the continuation of which would not be dependent upon a temporary way of reform, nor upon the life of any man or group of men, but which would go on, generation after generation, continuously making warfare against the forces of evil. It also appeared that a private organization would have, among other advantages, a certain freedom from publicity and from political bias, which a publicly appointed commission could not so easily avoid.

"Therefore, as the initial step, in the winter of 1911 the Bureau of Social Hygiene was formed. Its present members are Miss Katharine Bement Davis, superintendent of the New York state Reformatory for Women at Bedford Hills, N. Y.; Paul M. Warburg, of the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; Starr J. Murphy, of the New York bar, and John D. Rockefeller, Jr. As the work develops new members may be added.

"One of the first things undertaken by the bureau was the establishment at Bedford Hills adjacent to the reformatory, of a laboratory of social hygiene, under Miss Davis' direction. In this laboratory it is proposed to study from the physical, mental, social and moral side each person committed to the reformatory. This study will be carried on by experts and each case will be kept under observation for from three weeks to three months, as may be required. When the diagnosis is completed, it is hoped that the laboratory will be in position to recommend the treatment most likely to reform the individual, or, if reformation is impossible, to recommend permanent custodial care. Furthermore, reaching out beyond the individuals involved, it is believed that this important contribution may be made to a fuller knowledge of the condition ultimately responsible for vice. If this experiment is successful the principle may prove applicable to all classes of criminals and the conditions precedent to crime and lead to lines of action not only more unscientific and humane but also less wasteful than those at present followed."

That its work might be done intelligently the bureau employed George J. Knedand to make a comprehensive survey of vice conditions in New York, and Abraham Flexner to study the social evil in Europe, and their reports are now being prepared. These studies will be followed by others in various American cities, and it is the hope of the bureau that, based upon all of them, may be devised a practical plan for dealing with the social evil.

In conclusion Mr. Rockefeller's statement says: "It cannot be too strongly emphasized that the spirit which dominates the work of the bureau is not sensational or sentimental or hysterical; that it is not a spirit of criticism of public officials; but that it is essentially a spirit of constructive suggestion and of deep scientific as well as humane interest in a great world problem."

News Notes of Wisconsin

Janesville.—Steps toward the purchase of the Janesville water works by the city were begun by the present council today when a formal notice was served on the state railroad commission asking for a valuation of the property of the company. The question was voted upon by the voters at the election last April, who overwhelmingly decided in favor of the city's owning the water plant.

Madison.—Tied with a red ribbon, securely sealed and bearing first-class postage, the official papers certifying the Wisconsin electoral vote for Wilson and Marshall was dispatched for Washington by the governor's office. Another copy has been delivered to Federal Judge A. L. Sanborn of this district, and a third is to be carried to Washington personally by Elector Wendell A. Anderson of La Crosse.

Kenosha.—Miss Anna Antonowich, 23 years of age, shot by her sweet friend, William Markowich, is dying from her injuries in Kenosha hospital. Markowich is in jail and is said to show signs of becoming insane. He is said to have admitted to the police that he had planned to kill himself as well as the girl, but lacked nerve to carry out his plan.

Green Bay.—August Brauns, retiring county engineer of Brown county, who for twenty-five years held that office, has refused to yield the records in his possession to a successor. "I will burn them first," Brauns is quoted as saying. A court order has been issued commanding Brauns to show cause why he should not have the records with the county. Brauns contends that the records are his personal property.

Fond du Lac.—A heavy fur coat saved the life of Ernest Marth, well known farmer, who was struck by a Soo line train while driving an unmanageable team across the tracks near here. Marth was tossed upon the engine's pilot and the coat protected him from injury. The horses broke loose from the wagon and escaped.

Janesville.—Though the county board of supervisors refused to appropriate money for a tuberculosis sanitarium the city of Janesville has employed a special nurse to care for cases in the city.

Janesville.—Miss Angie King, perhaps the oldest woman legal practitioner in the state, is dead, aged 72. She was born in Janesville and was one of the pioneer woman suffrage advocates. Several times she obtained numerous signatures to petitions for the office of postmaster of Janesville and once was nearly appointed.

Green Bay.—At the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Association of Real Estate Dealers Racine was given the next convention. A resolution was adopted which favors a suggestion to license real estate brokers in Wisconsin.

GOVERNOR'S POWER ATTACKED IN COURT

CLAIM HE HAD NO AUTHORITY TO OUST EKERN ON DAY LEGISLATURE MET.

GREAT SEAL IS LACKING

Lawyers Hold That the Absence of This Formally Made the Order Invalid Under the Laws—Other News of State Capitol.

Madison.—That without the great seal of the state and the signature of the Secretary of State John S. Donald, the order of Gov. McGovern removing H. L. Ekern as insurance commissioner is void, that Jan. 8, when the order was made, was a legislative day, that the governor while he had the right to remove an appointee for proper cause, had no authority to install another appointee to the office, are the three principal points on which the plaintiffs in the Ekern injunction case will stand. This was made clear in the arguments of M. B. O'Brien and John A. Aylward before Judge E. Ray Stevens. In connection with the first proposition, the reason for Secretary Donald not affixing the great seal or signing the order is made clear. This claim of Mr. Ekern's attorneys, however, is in direct opposition to the opinion of Attorney General W. C. Owen, given in answer to a request from Secretary Donald as to what his duty was. Mr. Owen said he had no choice in the matter. He was there as secretary of the state administration, Mr. Owen said, to perform the duties of secretary, which was to keep the records of the state just as the secretary of any corporation kept the records. Mr. Aylward introduced one statement that was interesting in support of the claim that Jan. 8 was a legislative day and therefore Gov. McGovern could not act. This was to the effect that there was no fixed time for the legislature to meet on the second Wednesday of January. Originally, Mr. Aylward said, 12 o'clock m. had been the time set, but in the revision of the statutes this had been omitted, leaving it to the legislature to meet at any time on that day that it saw fit. Hence the entire day, he asserted, was to be considered as a legislative day.

Mr. O'Brien was responsible for the claim that while the governor might remove one man, he had no authority to install the man appointed to fill the vacancy. The governor's authority ended, Mr. O'Brien contended, when he had made the appointment. Other points were raised, as that Mr. Ekern had not been guilty of political activity in such a way as to make him subject to removal for any political cause. Authorities were quoted to show that an injunction would be granted by Gov. McGovern as an individual, though it was admitted he was immune as governor from that form of judicial writ.

Would Wipe Out Party Lines. Assemblyman Don C. Hall has introduced two bills and a resolution in the assembly that will make politicians sit up, whatever the ultimate fate of the bill. Mr. Hall would have all party designations or names eliminated at elections, making it a free for all race and let the best man win. One of Mr. Hall's bills reads: "No candidate for any state office, shall be nominated or elected upon any party ticket nor shall any designation or party name be used in the nomination or election of any such candidate." The other bill wipes out all mention of parties or party designations, state, county or precinct committees, on any election ballots. It says: "Any words or expressions relating or tending to refer to political parties, political nominations, party candidates, or party committees are hereby stricken from the statutes."

To Decrease Fatalities. Senator Timothy Burke of Green Bay has announced that he will introduce at this session of the legislature a bill which will make it lawful to kill only male deer during the open season. In explaining the provisions of the measure the senator states that a hunter would, if his bill passes, be able to shoot only those animals with antlers. In this way he also points out the hunter, upon hearing a noise, would be forced to watch for the appearance of the antlers and as a result a decided decrease would be shown in the number of hunting fatalities.

New Industry for West Bend. West Bend.—A company is now being organized with a capitalization of $25,000 for the purpose of manufacturing barn equipment. Several handy devices are contemplated.

Organize Canning Company. Beaver Dam.—A company has been organized to build a canning factory at Beaver Dam Junction. A three-acre tract has been purchased. Beaver Dam and Markesan capitalists are back of the project.

Municipal Ownership Proposed. Brodhead.—An ordinance is before the city council authorizing the city to issue bonds for $40,000 to purchase the local water works and lighting plants.

Invent Hay Press Device. Marshfield.—Fred Seehafer and William Prahl of this city have invented a hay press consisting of rollers to bring a revolution in automatic binding and tying. A local manufacturing company is proposed.

Old Bridge to Be Sold. Sturgeon Bay.—That part of the old foot and wagon bridge leading from the tollhouse to the west side of the bay will be advertised and sold to the highest bidder.

JURISDICTION IS DISPUTED

Attorney H. L. Butler Will Claim That Governor's Official Acts Are Not Subject to Judicial Review.

Madison.—Probably one of the most important questions ever decided in this state is involved in the injunctive proceeding of Insurance Commissioner Herman L. Ekern against Francis E. McGovern, William L. Essman and L. A. Anderson. The governor, superintendent of public property, and the appointee of the governor for insurance commissioner are being sued as citizens in the action. It is understood that H. L. Butler, acting as special attorney for the state in representing the defendants in the controversy, will question the right of a state court to enjoin the executive branch of the state government in the person of the governor, and also whether the governor's official acts are subject to review by such courts, which is a coordinate branch of the state government. The contention will be made, it is said, that with such right of jurisdiction an official act of the governor could be blocked and that he would be stripped of all discretionary powers. In rebuttal of these arguments, it is said Ekern's attorneys will claim that the governor must follow the statutes in any action he takes, and that the laws provide for a fair and impartial hearing for any public officer before he may be removed from office.

CLAIM IS NOT INVALIDATED

State Industrial Commission Awards Compensation to Widow of Man Killed While Intoxicated.

Madison.—That intoxication does not constitute willful misconduct on the part of an employe, within the meaning of the workmen's compensation law was held by the industrial commission when it awarded to Millie Smith, widow of Pat Smith, compensation in the sum of $2,040 to be paid in weekly installments, by the Nekosa-Edwards Paper company of Grand Rapids. The evidence is conclusive, says the commission, that Smith was intoxicated and it found that but for the intoxication the accident which caused the death of Smith would not have happened.

FINE MATCH COMPANY $2,000

Oshkosh Firm Loses Contest With State Industrial Commission Over Child Labor Law.

Oshkosh.—The Diamond Match company has lost its contest with the state industrial commission over the child labor law, and must pay a fine of $2,000. The state brought suit on 224 separate counts but as a result of conferences with state officials, an adjustment was reached whereby the defendants pay the minimum fine of $25 on each count, instead of the maximum which is much higher. The attorney for the match company says that the company will pay the fine agreed upon, but he does not agree that the company is guilty of any violation of the law.

Green Bay P. O. Ranks Sixth. Green Bay.—During 1912 a record amount of money was handled at the Green Bay postoffice. The remittances from postoffices in this city amounted to $346,831, making the total amount of money handled, exclusive of the savings deposits, $703,914.57. The total receipts of the postoffice were $86,428.66, an increase of $5,455.04 in a year. Green Bay stands sixth in point of gross receipts of the Wisconsin postoffices, being led by Milwaukee, Racine, Madison, La Crosse and Oshkosh.

Killed by Soo Freight. Waukesha.—R. J. Ernise of Hine-man, Sheboygan county, was struck and almost instantly killed by a southbound Soo line freight train in this city. It is said that Ernise deliberately walked in front of the engine and there is a theory that the act was suicidal. Mrs. Ernise is critically ill at the home of relatives in this city, and her husband is said to have been dependent on that account.

Special Counsel Appointed. Madison.—Gov. McGovern has appointed Attorney H. L. Butler of Madison as special counsel to represent the state in the injunctive proceedings brought by Herman L. Ekern, discharged state insurance commissioner. Attorney Butler is to receive $50 a day for time actually devoted to the case.

Condensing Plant for Whitewater. Whitewater.—The American Milk company is considering the purchase of the old mill property in Whitewater, as a site for a milk condensing plant. If the site is acquired, the company will erect a factory building to cost $75,000.

Finds Parents Are Dead. Kewaunee.—After an absence from this city of twenty-eight years Wenzel Pospechel arrived here from Australia to make a visit to his parents and learned that they have been dead eight or ten years.

Farm Brings Big Price. Two Rivers.—The highest price ever paid per acre for a farm in this county was established when Herman B. ... a town of Liberty township, disposed of sixteen acres for $17,669.

Writes Letter and Dies. Marinette.—While on her way to post a letter to a friend, in which she described the heart trouble from which she was suffering, Mrs. Bertha Campbell of the town of Stephenson, dropped dead.

Illness Causes Insanity. Marinette.—Mrs. Abie M. Briggs, aged 72, one of the earliest residents of this city, has been adjudged insane and committed to an asylum. Her insanity is due to a long illness.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY ON TRAIN

Demented Man Murders Attendant and Commits Suicide in Smoking Car Near Milwaukee City Limits.

Milwaukee.—In the smoking car of a Northwestern passenger train en route to this city from Madison, Alex J. Schutte, aged 28, shot and instantly killed Joseph Budde, aged 45, and then committed suicide by firing a bullet in his own heart. The tragedy took place as the train was pulling into West Allis, a few miles west of this city. Schutte, a mail carrier, residing at Mankato, Minn., has been mentally deranged for some time and was being taken to a sanitarium here by Budde, a member of the Mankato police force. The officer had taken a seat in front of his charge soon after the train left Madison and appeared to be dozing, according to other occupants of the car. A panic among the passengers ensued when the first shot rang out and Budde was seen to crumple lifeless into his seat with a bullet in his temple. He died almost instantly. Schutte fired three shots into his own body and was dead within a few minutes. Schutte was a single man. Budde is survived by a wife and seven children. How the former came into possession of the revolver is not known.

CANNOT ESCAPE THE RECALL

More Petitions Are Out for Dismissal of Janesville Mayor and Councilmen from Office.

Janesville.—That the present city officials will not be able to escape from the threatened recall despite the fact the petitions filed four weeks ago were thrown out as illegal, developed when new petitions were filed containing 915 new names, recalling Councilman Roy Cummings. Mayor James Fathers and Clancy Miltmore will be recalled in petitions to be filed in a few days. This number of names is practically two-thirds of the last vote at a regular prescribed election, as prescribed under the thirty-three and a third per cent law applying to recalls of city officials. No specific charges are named against the present officials beyond a general complaint that they have not done their duty. John C. Nichols, former Mayor Peter J. Mout and D. B. Clark are the candidates of the recallists.

SUFFRAGIST HEAD RESIGNS

Miss Lottie Stearns Retires from Presidency of State Association When Merger Plan Is Abandoned.

Milwaukee.—Because of failure to bring about a merger between the Wisconsin Woman Suffrage Association and the Political Equality league, Miss Lottie E. Stearns of this city has resigned the presidency of the former body. The vacancy will be filled by the executive board, which will probably meet during the present month. Under the constitution of the organization the first vice president is acting president. Miss Zona Gale of Portage now holds that office. Miss Stearns, who is connected with the state library commission as traveling librarian, accepted the presidency of the suffrage association last fall upon the condition that the organization unite with the Political Equality league. All hope for such a union seems to have been abandoned.

Work for Librarian Students. Madison.—Thirty-five library students, fresh from technical instruction in the Wisconsin library school, will spend February and March as librarians in various libraries of the state. In past years it has been found the services of these students during two months of the year is of substantial value to the libraries of the state, and it is estimated by Secretary M. S. Dudgeon of the Wisconsin free library commission that the technical work to be performed this winter will have a monetary value of $5,000.

Florence Mine to Open. Florence.—The Florence mine, whose engine house was destroyed by fire on Jan. 17, will resume active mining operations within ten days. All the machinery used from now on will be run by electricity, the power being obtained from Twin Falls. The new engine house is being rushed to completion, a big force of carpenters being employed. The new building will be fireproof.

First Lobbyist Registers. Madison.—Nora Perkins Jeanson of Oshkosh is the first lobbyist to register with the secretary of state. She is interested in state fair work.

Conveyor Chain Kills Man. Ashland.—Andrew Vaneski was instantly killed at the Odanah mill of the Stearns Lumber company. His clothing caught in the conveyor chain and he was crushed to death.

Changes in Fish Hatcheries. Madison.—The state fish commission has ordered the hatchery buildings at Oshkosh removed to another location on Lake Winnebago. It also decided to make improvements on the hatchery at Minocqua.

Blow Postoffice Safe. West Bend.—Robbers blew up the safe of the postoffice at Allentown and took $65 in cash, the same sum in postage stamps, and about $700 in negotiable papers.

Twenty Bills by Hansen. Madison.—Assemblyman Hansen of Manitowish appears to hold the record up to date for the number of bills introduced. He has handed in about twenty so far and is still active and vigorous.

Fire Destroys Saw Mill. Marshfield.—The saw and planing mill of the Dauden Sons & Co., at Marsh Rapids, Marathon county, were totally destroyed by fire. The mill will be rebuilt at once.

THE KEELY CABINET

NO TALENT will enable us to do any work without drugging, but no childlessness must tempt us to give it up because it is hard. No work can be well done by any one who is unwilling to sacrifice ease to its accomplishment.

WINTER DINNERS.

For those who prepare their own salt pork, and it is sweet and good-flavored, there is no dish that is more appetizing on a cold winter day than baked potato with fried salt pork. Make a gravy with some of the fat, adding flour and milk, and salt, if necessary.

A good fish dinner may be prepared with dry salt codfish. Shred a half pound, or more, according to the size of the family, and parboil it in water to cover. Fry three or four slices of fat salt pork cut in small cubes until brown, then add three sliced onions and twice as many sliced potatoes. Cover with water and cook until the vegetables are tender. Add a quart of milk and a dozen milk crackers that have been scalded with boiling water, the codfish and any seasoning needed. Serve as any soup.

Spanish Steak.—Take two pounds of round steak, cut in inch squares; on each square place a slice of break fast bacon, roll and secure with a toothpick. Place meat rolls in a saucepan, cover with boiling water, add a chopped onion, three carrots sliced thin, a pint of tomatoes, one tablespoonful of salt, a half teaspoonful of pepper and cook one and a fourth hours. Serve hot.

Prune Salad.—This is a quite unusual, and very good. Soak a half pound of prunes over night, and then simmer until tender. When cool pit them and stuff with walnuts, meat. Shred a bunch of lettuce, make nests on each place four or five stuffed prunes. Cover with mayonnaise, and serve.

Spanish Sauce.—This is a delicious sauce to use with cold roast beef, fried veal, lamb chops, in fact, with any kind of meat or fish. Put into a sauce pan two tablespoonfuls of butter, one of olive oil, a few dashes of salt, one onion, a clove of garlic, half a green or red pepper, all finely chopped. When this is all brown, add a pint of tomatoes, and simmer twenty minutes. Season with paprika salt, a few drops of tabasco and a tablespoonful of Worcestershire sauce.

APPLE POSSIBILITIES. A GENEROUS supply of vegetables and fruits is the greatest importance for the normal development of the body and of all its functions. —Sherman.

Apples with the rich, red skin may be cooked to make a most beautiful jelly. Core, but do not peel, cook gently in a little boiling water until the peel cracks and can be carefully removed, scraping out the inner red coloring and painting it back on the cheek of the apple. Pour around a thick sirup of sugar and water and simmer until the apple is cooked. Serve with sweetened whipped cream. These are called Blushing Apples.

Apple Trifle.—Place a thick layer of apple sauce in the bottom of a dish, add sugar and lemon rind to taste. Mix a pint of milk with a pint of egg. Cook until a smooth custard is formed; add a little sugar and nutmeg and chill and pour over the apple. Whip a cup of cream and serve.

Apples and Almonds.—Core and peel some good flavored apples which will cook tender without losing their shape. Cook in boiling water until tender enough to pierce with blanching, quartered almonds. Decorate thickly with the almonds until the apple resembles a porcupine. Place them in a baking dish and pour around them a thick sirup made with the water they were cooked in and sugar. Cook until soft but not broken, in the oven. Remove, sprinkle with powdered sugar and chill. Serve with whipped cream, sweetened.

A slice of a pretty red apple, unpeeled, to hold fruit salad, if a pretty way of adding variety to one's table.

Apples cored and fried in a little fat, sprinkled with sugar to give them a rich brown and used as a garnish around a platter of fried sausages, is another way of serving apples.

Apple sauce, a cupful used in a cake in place of egg, makes a very moist, nice spicy cake which will keep moist a long time.

Asbestos. Asbestos is a mineral of a fine fibrous character, elastic, flexible, and of a whitish-gray color. It is composed chiefly of silica, lime, magnesia, and oxide of iron. The ancient converted it into a kind of cloth, in which they wrapped the bodies of their dead, while preparing them for the funeral pile, enabled them to preserve the ashes. Asbestos is found more abundantly in Corsica than in any other locality.

His Case Exceptional. "Who's the thin little man with the melancholy expression?" "That's Hummer, the poet, who wrote the beautiful verses with the refrain, 'Life is what you make it—you can make it glad.' He suffers from chronic dyspepsia." —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

RHEUMATIC ADVICE

Prominent Doctor's Best Prescription Easily Mixed at Home.

"From your druggist get one ounce of Toris compound (in original sealed package) and one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound. Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half pint of good whiskey. Shake the bottle and take a tablespoonful before each meal and at bedtime." This is said to be the quickest and best remedy known to the medical profession for rheumatism and backache. Good results come after the first dose. If your druggist does not have Toris compound in stock he will get it for you in a few hours from his wholesale house. Don't be influenced to take a patent medicine instead of this. Insist on having the genuine Toris compound in the original one-ounce sealed, yellow package. Hundreds of the worst cases were cured here by this prescription last winter. Published by the Globe Pharmaceutical Laboratories of Chicago.

THE FLYING AGE.

"How old is De Switt's youngest child?" "It can't be more than a year old. It's just learning to fly."

WHITE PIMPLES ON HEAD

Ransom, Ill.—"The trouble started on our baby when he was only about two weeks old. Started like little white pimples, looked like an old scab of blood and matter. His whole head was covered for a few months, then it went to his ear, shoulders, and his whole body. It seemed to come out thick and sticky on his head, while on the other parts of his body it was more like water coming out of the skin. He would scratch until the eruption would be all covered with blood and gradually spread. The least little stir or rub would cause the sores to bleed, spread and itch. Never had a full night's sleep, restless all night. The sores were horrid to look at. It lasted until he was about two and a half years old. Then we saw an eczema advertisement in the paper to use Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. We put the Cuticura Ointment on thick at bedtime and put a tight hood on so he could not scratch the sores. Then we washed it clean with Cuticura Soap and warm water twice a day, and he was completely cured." (Signed) Mrs. E. F. Sulzberger, Dec. 30, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L. Boston," Adv.

Her Great Love. They had already celebrated the fact that the mistletoe hung in the hall, and now they were occupying not only one settee, but also the entire drawing room.

"Could you love me, darling," he murmured, as the thought of that sprig of mistletoe came to him again, "if I possessed only one coat in the wide world?"

She looked up into his eyes as she framed her reply.

"I could," she said, "if I knew you had sacrificed the others to buy me a new dress!"

Certainly Not. "Sir, are you opposed to votes for women?" "Certainly not; but if women had the ballot, then suffragettes would want it, too."—Illinois Siren.

IDEA ANNOYED OLD GOLDE

He Knew From Experience That College Education by No Means Unfitted Boy for Work.

"Woodrow Wilson naturally believes in a college education for boys and girls alike," said a banker at the Princeton club in New York.

"Mr. Wilson, lunching with me here, once said in his quaint way that the old idea about a college education unfitting a lad for work had quite died out.

"We no longer hear," he declared, "stories like that of Gobsa Golde."

"When Gobsa Golde's son Scattergood," he explained, "desired to go to Princeton, he said to the old man: 'Father, is it true that boys who go to college are unfit for work afterward?'"

"Of course it ain't true!" snorted the old man indignantly. "Why, I've got a Princeton graduate running my freight elevator, two of my best coal heavers are Harvard A. B.'s and a Yale E. S. is my star truck driver."

Shopping Instinct. A rural postmaster tells this story of one of the patrons of his office, a boy of thrift, not to say penurious, stock. When the lad comes into the postoffice he will thrust his wizened face up close to the window and, in his slow, Yankee drawl, inquire most earnestly:

"Hev ye got any postal cards?" "Yes," the postmaster replies. "How much they're t'day?" "A cent apiece."

Then the boy, screwing up his eyes in the intensity of his thought over the question he has to decide, always stops for a while to weigh the consequences. Finally, he will reply solemnly:

"Wal, I'll take one."—Youth's Companion.

Worldly—and True. Apropos of Miss Lois Campbell's "billion-dollar debut" in St. Louis, Claude H. Westmore, the author, said:

"The marvelous growth and prosperity of our city is a phenomenon that holds the eye of all America. Before such wealth as ours one thinks involuntarily of the worldly cynicism:

"There are other things in the world besides money—and money will buy them all."

The Reason. "Why is consistency considered such a jewel?" "Because it is rare."

Men are like trees; they grow either crooked or straight.

LIFE'S STRUGGLE WITH ILLNESS

Mrs. Stewart Tells How She Suffered from 16 to 45 years old—How Finally Cured.

Euphemia, Ohio.—"Because of total ignorance of how to care for myself when verging into womanhood, and from taking cold when going to school, I suffered from a displacement, and each month I had severe pains and nausea which always meant a lay-off from work for two to four days from the time I was 16 years old.

"I went to Kansas to live with my sister and while there a doctor told me of the Pinkham remedies but I did not use them then as my faith in patent medicines was limited. After my sister died I came home to Ohio to live and that has been my home for the last 18 years.

"The Change of Life came when I was 47 years old and about this time I saw my physical condition plainly described in one of your advertisements. Then I began using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I cannot tell you or any one the relief it gave me in the first three months. It put me right where I had not lay off every month and during the last 18 years I have not paid out two dollars to a doctor, and have been blessed with excellent health for a woman of my age and I can thank Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for it.

"Since the Change of Life is over I have been a maternity nurse and being wholly self-supporting I cannot over-estimate the value of good health. I have now earned a comfortable little home just by sewing and nursing since I was 52 years old. I have recommended the Compound to many with good results, as it is excellent to take before and after childbirth."—Miss EVELYN ADELIA STEWART, Euphemia, Ohio.

ST. MICHAELS.

John Koelsch Sr., a well known resident of this village, died Friday, Jan. 24, at 9:30 a. m. Deceased was born in the town of Farmington 1 1/2 miles south of St. Michaels, better known as Jac. Thull's corner, September 23, 1851. Later his parents moved onto a farm two miles north of St. Michaels and there Mr. Koelsch grew to manhood. He married Miss Katherine Schwinden of Holy Cross on Feb. 5, 1878. Two children were born to them—John of Milwaukee and Anna, Mrs. John Schneider, who died at Fond du Lac in December 1902. In 1905 Mr. Koelsch sold his farm and moved to St. Michaels, where he made his home ever since. For the last five years he was Janitor for the Catholic congregation. He had been ill five months with liver and stomach trouble. Besides his widow and the son named, the deceased leaves one sister, Mrs. John Scherer of Chicago, and two grand-children, the Misses Cecelia Schneider of Marshfield and Viola Koelsch of this place. Deceased attained the age of 61 years, 3 months and 25 days. The funeral was held Monday at 9:30 a. m., under the auspices of St. Michael's Catholic church, Rev. J. F. Beyer officiating. Mr. Koelsch was a hard-working man, a good husband and father and a model citizen. To his bereaved widow, son and other relatives we extend our heartfelt sympathy. May he rest in peace.

Those who attended the funeral from afar were: Mr. and Mrs. John Koelsch, Jr., and Mrs. Nic. Schaefer of Milwaukee; Mrs. Schaefer of Chicago; Math. Schmidt of Fond du Lac; Mrs. Hubert and Cecelia Schneider of Marshfield; Mr. Gerh. Schludewier of Hartford; Mrs. Mary Marx of West Bend; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rodenkirch of Random Lake; Mr. and Henry Fellenz of St. Mathias.

PAINFUL, TRYING TIMES

Housework is hard enough for a healthy woman. The wife who has a bad back, who is weak or tired all the time, finds her duties a heavy burden. Thousands of new mothers, discouraged, sickly women have traced their troubles to sick kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills have found quick and thorough relief through using Doan's Kidney Pills. The painful, trying times of woman's life are much easier to bear if the kidneys are well.

AN IOWA CASE
Mrs. J. H. Hunt, 103 S. Fairfield St., says: "My kidneys were so bad that I could not walk, and my limbs ached so I couldn't walk. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me. I cannot praise them too highly."

GOT LEFT IN THE RUSH.

"Ruth is engaged to be married the coming winter."
"The mischief she is! I intended to propose to that girl myself when I got time."

The Smile.
The girl who smiles too much makes a great mistake as she who smiles too little, for though she may be only accused by an honest desire to please, she lays herself open to the charge of insincerity. A smile can transform a plain face into loveliness, but it only does this when it is the outcome of some special emotion, and not a mere aimless parting of the lips. "Smiling to order," or on any and every occasion, is fatal to charm, and should be carefully avoided.

What They Brought.
The teacher, after telling the Christmas story, was questioning the infant class.
"Now, who can tell me what the wise men brought to the baby Jesus?" she asked.
Six-year-old Alexander waved a chubby hand.
"I know, teacher! Gold an' Lincolu cents an' myrh," he triumphantly exclaimed.

slender hand upon each coat sleeve, her big eyes pleading and anxious, she ran on:
"It is shock, Dr. Massey says. Deformed shock, he called it. He says Uncle Robert has suffered from some sudden grief, fright, or other dreadful mental impression. His temperature is way below normal and his pulse is a sort of rapid feeble flutter. Oh, do tell me what you know about it. What shock has he had? You were with him last evening. He was gay enough when you and he went from the music room. What happened afterward?"
Carelessly I rested my palms upon her shoulders.
"My dear little girl," I said, soothingly. "I am sorry I can't satisfy your very natural curiosity."
"But it isn't curiosity," she corrected, promptly. "It's interest."
"Well, interest then. I'm sorry, I say. Something did happen; but to tell you just what it was, and why it was a shock to him, I am not able. Not now, at least. Maybe, some day, you'll know all about it."
There never was a more reasonable young person than Evelyn Grayson. Most girls, I fancy, would have teased and grown peevish at being denied. But she seemed to understand.
"Do you want to see uncle?" she asked me.
"I don't believe it would be wise," I answered. "Probably I, being a reminder, might do him harm. Tell me how he seems? He isn't unconscious?"
"No. He answers questions. But he never says anything for himself. And, Philip, he looks so pinched and old and pale." And his hands are so cold. The nurse has taken away his pillows and raised his feet, and it's gruesome, that's the only word that describes it."
"But he'll soon be better? The doctor said that, didn't he?"
"Yes. He said that."
But the reaction which usually follows shock was only partial in Cameron's case, and for days his life was in danger. Then followed a period of slow, general recovery.

As the month of October progressed I feared the ability to regulate my mind, instinctively with what dread sensations he must be awaiting the fourteenth of the month. He had been forbidden, of course, to receive any mail, just as he had been denied visitors; but I felt that in an uncertainty that must of necessity prove injurious. And so I took Dr. Massey, in a measure, into my confidence, and gained from him permission to see Cameron for a brief moment.
"He has been asking for you," the physician informed me. "But I fancied it better to make no exceptions. Now, however, I see that you may be a help instead of a hindrance."
Despite the more or less circumstantial reports as to his condition and appearance which had filtered to me from the sick room, through the medium of Evelyn, Miss Collins, the nurse, and Dr. Massey and his assistant, Dr. Thorne, I was not altogether prepared for the marked change which less than three weeks had wrought in my friend. He was peaked and bloodless and tired and old. And his voice was little more than a whisper.

He made a brave effort to smile, as I came in, but it resulted in a sad grimacing failure. I lifted one of his thin, clammy hands which lay inert on the coverlid, but it gave me only the feeblest answering pressure.
"I'm so glad you're better," I told him, cheerily. "Fancy the doctor allowing me to see you! That shows what he thinks."
"Yes," he whispered. "I'm coming round, slowly. And I wanted to see you, Clyde. What day of the month is this?"
"The twelfth."
"Day after tomorrow, it will come," he said.
"Don't be too sure," I replied. "I think they've done about enough to satisfy any ordinary villain."
He was silent for a moment. Then, with the faintest turn of his head from side to side, he said:
"But they are not ordinary villains."
"Well," I said, "if it does come, I shall find out how it got here; and that will be a step towards bringing them to justice."
"You'll find out?" he queried, incredulously.
"Yes. I'll get your mail that day, myself. I'll tell that monument of pomposity, your butler, Mr. Checkabedy, that I am to see every letter that comes to the house and know how and by whom it is delivered. Letters can't get here without hands, you know."
"Other things seem to be done without hands," was his conclusive comment; and I had no reply for him.
Concerning Murphy and the murdered Chinaman, Cameron did not ask, and I was glad he did not. For Murphy had been discharged from custody, for lack of evidence; and though there were some desultory efforts making to place the blame for the Celestial's violent taking-off, I doubted that they would have practicable result.

The precautions against surprise on the fourteenth, which I had outlined so briefly to Cameron, I carried out with added detail. For instance, I instructed the faintest report to me every person who passed in or out of the gates guarded by his Lodge. I had Kilgour, the superintendent of the Cameron acres, issue similar orders to his men concerning any strangers seen on the estate that day. And, finally, when not fetching the mail from the post office, myself—and four times I made the trip—I sat on guard in Cameron's study, waiting and expectant.

But the day passed, it seemed, without the looked-for incident. Every letter, by post or by hand, which came that day, inside the Craigholt limits was by me personally inspected, and amongst them all there was no one which bore the faintest resemblance to those two baleful missives of the two preceding fortnights.
When I had made my last trip to the post office, finished my final inspection, and was almost jubilant over the significant cessation of the threats which, in their ultimate fulfillment at least, had brought my friend so close to dissolution, I made haste to carry to Cameron the glad news.
Oddly enough, his condition in the past forty-eight hours had materially improved, and as Dr. Massey attributed this, in part at least, to the influence exerted by my brief visit, I was now permitted to repeat the treatment at pleasure.

It wanted but a few minutes of eight o'clock, and Checkabedy seized the occasion to inform me, as I passed through the hall, that dinner had been waiting for nearly a half-hour; a fact which I knew quite as well as he, but when I had chosen to disregard in favor of more pressing and important employment. Nevertheless I had dressed before going for the last mail, and as a moment would suffice to assure Cameron that all was well, I relieved the mind of the distressed butler, by assuring him that dinner should not wait over five minutes longer, so far as I was concerned.
A very light tap on the chamber door was answered by Miss Collins, who came out into the passage and closed the door behind her.
"I fear it is not advisable for you to see him, now, Mr. Clyde," she said. "He has suddenly had a return of some of his worst symptoms, and I am sure Dr. Massey would object to his being at all excited."
"But I shan't excite him," I explained. "I have the very best of news for him. It is his anxiety over a certain matter, no doubt, which has brought about the symptoms you speak of. I know I can relieve his mind, which I have reason to believe has been all day under an unusual strain."
But still this efficient-looking, white-clad woman was not wholly convinced.
"It must be only for a minute then," she finally allowed. "You can go in alone. But at the end of sixty seconds," she added, as she glanced at her spotless waist, "I shall interrupt you; and then you must leave."
Yielding, perforce, to her condition, I entered. And as I did so, Cameron half rose on his elbow, regarding me with what I thought was anxiety for my report.
"It's all right," I said, quietly. "All right. Not so much as a line from the enemy. They have withdrawn, just as I—"
But he interrupted me.
"Here, quick!" he was saying. "Take this matter. I saw then that one hand was drawing something from beneath his pillow. The next moment he had given me a long envelope of that thin, waxy texture I had learned to loathe. For a heartbeat I stood appalled, transfixed.
"Quick!" he insisted, excitedly. "Open it! Read it! She'll not leave us long and I must know its contents."
"But how—" I began, as I tore the end of the envelope.
"God knows," he answered, before I had put my question into words. "I had been dozing; about an hour ago, I stretched out my hand, unconsciously, and that lay beneath it, on the counterpane. It crackled as I touched it; and I knew then, even before I recognized the feel of it."
"Sixty seconds! Was there ever such an interminable period? Sixty long seconds before that door would open with the interruption that would from side to side, he said:
"But they are not ordinary villains."
"Well," I said, "if it does come, I shall find out how it got here; and that will be a step towards bringing them to justice."
"You'll find out?" he queried, incredulously.
"Yes. I'll get your mail that day, myself. I'll tell that monument of pomposity, your butler, Mr. Checkabedy, that I am to see every letter that comes to the house and know how and by whom it is delivered. Letters can't get here without hands, you know."

For instance, I instructed the faintest report to me every person who passed in or out of the gates guarded by his Lodge. I had Kilgour, the superintendent of the Cameron acres, issue similar orders to his men concerning any strangers seen on the estate that day. And, finally, when not fetching the satisfaction over the effort of the previous communications. But I doubted that, in my agitation, I should be successful in the deception. And so, my only course had been delay—stupid, bungling, palpable delay it was, suppose, but after all it had served; and though it left Cameron in doubt, it gave me time and opportunity to arrange some plan for extracting the fangs of this epistolary adder before it could strike its prey.

Purposely I delayed reading the letter, myself, until after I had dined. I chose uncertainty as to its contents as less likely noticeably to affect my demeanor than an exact knowledge of the minatory message which I felt sure it carried.
I think I fancied I should be able to conceal my real state of mind. Certainly I tried to do so. But I was very soon conscious that Evelyn had divined my dissimulation. Her eyes became suddenly gazed and questioning, her laughter quelled, and her conversation, which had been glad and gay, relapsed abruptly into the serious. When the coffee and liqueurs had been brought on, Mrs. Lancaster asked to be excused, and left us alone together.

There followed then a moment of silence between us while I selected a cigarette and lighted it. She had edged her chair a little closer to me—she was sitting on my right, as usual—and leaned forward, her slender but divinely rounded forearms extended across the shining damask of the tablecloth.
"As I dropped my match upon the tiny silver tray which the immitable Checkabedy had placed conveniently at my elbow I turned to her and saw her question in her imploring gaze and attitude even before she voiced it.
"Tell me!" was what she said. And although I knew that she would demand it I was unprepared. To gain time rather than information I bade her be more explicit.
"Everything," she pursued, inclusively, with a peremptory emphasis which indicated her determination not to be denied.
My hesitation resulted in some amplification on her part. She was impatient as well as resolved, and resented what she interpreted as my reluctance to gratify her.
"Everything," she repeated. "Everything that you have been hiding from me from the first, I am entitled to know. What about the head that was cut from the portrait? What was that caused the shocks which brought on Uncle Robert's illness? Why did you go for the mail four times today, and sit all the rest of the time in Uncle Robert's study? What has happened to make him worse this afternoon? What is troubling you, now? I'm not a child, I'm a woman, and I refuse to be kept in ignorance any longer."
She was glorious as she thus formulated her demands, her cheeks blazing, her eyes brilliant, her voice a crescendo. She must have seen my admiration. Certainly I made no attempt to hide it; and before she had quite finished I had possessed myself of her clasped hands, and was bestowing upon them an applauding pressure.

And her argument prevailed. She knew too much not to know more.
"The yacht," I said.
Impulsively she laid hold upon my arm, in a way she had.
"The Sibylla," she agreed, delightfully. "Of course. It will do everything for him."
"But what am I to tell him about this?" I asked, in perplexity.
"For a second she was thoughtful.
"We couldn't imitate the writing, could we?" she asked.
"Oh, yes," I answered. "We could. I think I'd even guarantee to reproduce that hideous black thing, but—"
"But what?"
"We can't imitate the paper. The paper is as characteristic as any of the other features, if not indeed more so. And he knows that paper."
"Then you must just lie to him," she decided. "You must tell him the envelope was empty; and you must make him believe it."

Arabs Believe That the Earth is Balanced on Horns of a Bull—Wizards and Ghosts.
The Arabs of Morocco believe that the earth is balanced on the horns of a bull, which itself rests on a fish on the surface of the sea, the sea being borne up by the divine power. When the bull is tired he changes the earth from one horn to the other, with the result that there is an earthquake!
During sleep the soul leaves the body and visits other souls. What we see and hear whilst dreaming are the things which the soul sees and the conversations in which it takes part during its peregrinations. Consequently, we ought never to awaken a sleeper rudely, for if he happens to be dreaming at that moment his soul may not have time to return to the body, and in consequence the man will die.
Moroccan wizards contend that ghosts can only be devils, never the souls of dead people. They are human in appearance, with the exception of their eyes, which are directed downward, and their feet, which are forked or shaped like the hoof of a camel. These ghosts speak, but they are intangible. They are of all colors—yellow, red, green, white and black—and their principal occupation consists in playing tricks on human beings.
At Marakech there is a house in which the owners placed a bath; but they were unaware that the property belonged to the devils. A young woman came to have a bath, but no sooner had she stepped into the water than she disappeared. Hearing her cries for help, the neighbors rushed in, whereupon she appeared on the surface of the water. As soon as the people tried to seize her she disappeared, and so on for some time. There was nothing to be done but to close the house, which thus fell into the hands of the talebs, who had spread this story among the credulous population of the town for their own end.—Wide World Magazine.

Maine's Greatest Crop.
The total sale of the Aroostook potato crop of 1911 is estimated at between 14,000,000 and 15,000,000 bushels, leaving between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 bushels that were sent to the starch factories, used for seed and food purposes here in the country or lost. It is figured that for crops sold the average price was over $2 a barrel.
This means that Aroostook received for the crop of potatoes which it raised in 1911 between $1,650,000 and $1,800,000. The exceptionally good year has encouraged the farmers, and their plans show that there will be no shrinkage of the acreage this season. It will not be increased, however, to any appreciable extent. Most of the Aroostook farmers believe that the time has come to stop increasing the acreage and to devote themselves to the problem of securing further increase of the yield an acre.

House Plans Important.
The care of food in the home and all other forms of household work are greatly facilitated by right planning and then the use of suitable materials for the construction and furnishing of the home. An adequate and convenient water supply and other conveniences are essential, not only for comfort and for saving labor, but also from the standpoint of home hygiene.

Cameron's wishes in the matter could no longer be regarded. Just how tactfully I managed the disclosure, it is not for me to judge. Perhaps I told more than I should. Possibly I revealed too little. I was guided solely by the wish not to alarm her, unduly. And yet, as nearly every feature of the affair was of necessity alarming, it became a vexing problem as to what to include and what to omit.

Eventually she heard the whole story, every phase of it. And so it is not altogether clear in my memory how much I conveyed that night and how much was left for me to add ten days later.
There is no question, however, regarding that third letter which had been so mysteriously received that day. I drew it from the envelope, there, at the table, and we read it together, by the light of the pink-shaded candles; our chairs touching and her cool little left hand clasped hard in my sinewy right.
As I spread the sheet that sinister appearing black dab at the bottom snote me with a sense of ill as acutely poignant as a rapier thrust, and the heavy, regular, upright chirography, with its odd 'f's and 'p's, so awesomely familiar, was scarcely less disturbing.

Silently the girl and I ran through the dozen lines.
Like its two predecessors the letter began with the sentence:
"That which you have wrought shall in turn be wrought upon you."
No longer could this be regarded as idle boasting. It had become an edict of grave significance. And what followed only emphasized the proven force behind this series of singular communications.
"All having been performed as foretold, our power is demonstrated."
Then, simply, almost crudely, but of horrid poignancy, ran the words:
"Know then, that before the morning of the Eighth Day hence, as passed the face from the portrait, as passed the reflection from the mirror, so you, physically, will pass from sight of men into torment."
As I read my breath caught in my throat and my pulses paused. Evelyn pressed closer to my side, and I felt her shiver as with cold. The final words, solemn, admonitory, priest-like, were these:
"Say not Heaven is high above! Heaven ascends and descends about our deeds, daily inspecting us, where-soever we are."
Instantly she turned to me, and I saw there were tears on her cheeks, and that her long dark lashes were wet.
"You cannot tell him this, Philip," she said, her voice low but unflinching.
"No," I replied, "I cannot tell him. In his present condition, it might be fatal."
"And now he must get well," she declared, with decision. "He must be well enough in a few days to be moved. He shall not stop in this house any longer. He shall go where he can be protected, and these fiends, whoever they are, cannot, or will not dare to follow."
As she spoke an inspiration came to me.
"The yacht," I said.
Impulsively she laid hold upon my arm, in a way she had.
"The Sibylla," she agreed, delightfully. "Of course. It will do everything for him."
"But what am I to tell him about this?" I asked, in perplexity.
"For a second she was thoughtful.

"Oh, yes," I answered. "We could. I think I'd even guarantee to reproduce that hideous black thing, but—"

NOTES from MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Get a Babcock tester.
Chaff makes good litter.
Make the garden soil fine.
There is always a premium on choice products.
Hens are helping to lift a good many mortgages nowadays.
When grains are high silage makes a still more profitable feed.
Chaff piles from around the straw stack make good scratching litter.
Unfertilized eggs keep best, and salt is the best material to pack them in.
To have horses of endurance give the colts a chance to develop their muscles.
Too often when stock is fed for a certain market it is sold at a disadvantage.
With good care, good stock looks better, does better, and pays better than scrubs.
One of the most important things is to teach the colt to walk fast from the very start.
All colts should be handled with the biting-rig before attempting to harness or drive them.
Use the dish-water for fertilizing purposes, and give the pigs pure, clean water to drink.
Keep the hogs quiet, clean and comfortable if you expect the best gain from the food supplied.
No stock grower can afford to have his animals burn grain for fuel to keep themselves warm.
The cost of feeding an animal increases with its weight, but not in direct proportion to its weight.
Young chicks seemingly never do so well as when they have free range of the grass and are fed a variety of food.
Few crops respond more promptly to a thorough preparation of the soil than winter grain, and especially wheat.
Speed combined with grace, ease and endurance are the principal qualities sought in the action of the roadster.
In the home dairy there must be a sufficient number of cows to guarantee a certain amount of butter the year around.
An account should be kept with every cow. The way to determine her value is by using the scales and the Babcock test.
Weaning the colts too soon is worse than any after treatment they may get. Let them run with the mare as long as they can.
The albumen in milk goes toward making eggs. That is why the layers crave milk and it is well to let them have all the surplus.
One of the implements that should have constant use on the farm is the lead pencil. The majority of men do far too little figuring.
In the properly equipped home dairy the amount and the quality of butter from a given amount of milk are far ahead of the creamery made article.
A good many sudden deaths among older fowls may be laid to apoplexy, caused by too much over stimulating and fattening food like corn and Kaffir.
Economy on the dairy farm is of great importance but it isn't economy to handle the cows in any manner that will fail to get their full yield of butter-fat.
Have a light poultry house, admitting plenty of fresh air without producing direct drafts of air. The germs of most diseases cannot live in fresh air or very strong light.
Cows that have a habit of chewing old bones, wood or manure have a craving for mineral matter that may sometimes be satisfied by putting a handful of fine wood ashes in the feed twice a week.
Never breed young and immature stock, as both size and form will be injured, as in most cases the suckling qualities of the mothers are not fully developed and without a good flow of milk a good growth cannot be effected.
Eggs are quite as likely to absorb odors from the things the hen eats as milk is to take on smells from the things the cows consume in the stable. And either starchy milk or eggs are not calculated to whet one's appetite.
If you have an abundance of any variety for which there is poor demand, that should not discourage you from raising the same next year. For instance, if strawberries sell slowly, think carefully before destroying the bed. The market may be more brisk next year.

Horses relish Kaffir corn.
Give the hens animal food.
Ventilate the poultry house.
Cows must have fresh water.
The days of bonanza apple growing is past.
Corn fodder is hardly as good for horses as kaffir corn.
Apple economy is only scientific management in the orchard.
No animal on the farm should suffer from hunger, thirst, or cold.
So far as can be done, select the largest and best sows for breeders.
Dry air, good feed and plenty of exercise are necessary for winter eggs.
Your horse may intend to please you, but does not understand your wishes.
Ground limestone and phosphate rock may be spread upon the soil at any time.
As a rule, hens that lay steadily during cold weather are indifferent hot weather layers.
To secure the very best fruit it is best to renew the strawberry bed every other year.
Winter eggs do not come by chance. It takes planning and work to get them, but it pays.
One advantage with old grass as a mulching material, is that it doesn't contain weed seeds.
In growing cabbage successfully, farmers have found that the first requisite is good ground.
A few cents more per foot for ladders that weigh a few pounds less will save dollars in picking.
Vegetables are great stuff for the hens, especially when they can't get green feed in the fields.
Turkeys are good for the field. They can be driven anywhere you wish from one field to another.
Among the perennials which should have a place in every garden there ought to be room for asparagus.
Chaff about straw stacks makes good scratching litter and the sooner it is hauled up the better it will be.
A sow that is raised on concentrated food, without sufficient exercise, will never make a profitable brood sow.
After Jack Frost has relieved you of the job of swatting flies it might be a good idea to take a few swats at the rats.
Get in your spring supplies and essentials—this includes the incubators and brooders, and what new stock you must purchase.
"Color has little to do with the real value of an animal." Nevertheless, color has a decided commercial value in many cases.
Turkeys always find ready sale and are almost clear profit. There is always a demand for them; the market is never glutted.
The soy bean, sometimes called "soja" or "soja" bean, is a legume resembling in its early growth the common field or navy bean.
The fancier who cares not for the egg or meat production of his birds and caters to the ornamental only has a small field of usefulness.
One of the most important items in managing a fruit farm, and especially small fruits, is to prepare the soil in equal hills before planting.
Visit the chicken house at night and note the quality of the air and the breathing of the birds. If the house is stifling it needs more air.
When fruit is cheap and plentiful in the market its value for home use is not by any means lessened. Once put in glass jars it is good for many years.
Raspberries produce good crops in the same soil for years, while strawberries produce their best crops the first year they come into full bearing.
Beware of the tree agents. They may be dishonest and sell uncertain goods. It is best in all cases to deal direct with strictly reliable nurserymen.
The garden plow in late fall or winter can usually be prepared for planting a week or two earlier. Late plowing also is hard on insect pests wintering in the soil.
A coat of cheap paint will do much to improve the appearance of the wire fence and also to increase its period of usefulness.
For laying fowls, milk furnishes the animal protein that is necessary. In this way it takes the place of beef scraps, which is a packing-house product and somewhat expensive.
Careful study of the conditions necessary for the growth and abundant yield of fruit-bearing trees has conclusively demonstrated that the soil in the orchard must be cultivated.
Stud-books may be guarantees of good breeding, but they are not always guarantees of individual merit, and a horse that has not a combination of both these essential features should not be kept as a breeder.
No poultry house is complete without an adjoining open-front scratching shed. Here, during bad stormy weather or severe cold weather, the fowls may be confined and, if kept busy, will be happy, healthy, and what is more to the point, profitable.

SOMETHING NEW IN CUSHIONS BUT ONE SCENT PERMITTED

Well Not to Pile Them Up in Too Much Profusion, but Some Are Indispensable.
Fastidious Woman Knows Better Than to Overdo This Essential of the Toilet Table.
There is a value in perfumes as a safeguard against contagion, but most women of refinement never overdo this use, but confine it to a delicate fragrance that never offends, as do gross common scents. The dainty woman selects a special perfume and uses this only in all her toilet articles, and it is a fad to select the fragrance of some flower that corresponds with the favorite color. She also has her sachets, perfume, toilet water, powder and soap to correspond.
If any change is made it includes everything on the dressing table, for good taste decrees that only one favored scent is permissible for each individual. While a little really fine essence is delightful, a thimbleful of coarse alcoholic mixtures is disgusting to all sensitive nostrils. Sachets of all sorts are very much used, from large padded linings for shelf, drawer or wardrobe, to smaller and more personal sachets that are tucked into the bodice or hidden in the leaf of the satin corsage flower so generally worn.

HATS CATCH POPULAR FANCY

The "Drake" and the "Queen Elizabeth" Have Won Much Favor Here and in England.
The woman who admires the picturesque in hats will admire the "Drake" and Queen Elizabeth hats.
The former, with flat, full tam-o'-shanter crown, plumes sweeping to the shoulder, is a predominant note in winter millinery. Velvet quills to match the crown and brim edged with narrow feather fringe are also a popular form of trimming. Corbeau blue and vandyke brown are favored colors for the "Drake" hat.
The unlucky aigrette, despite the efforts to make it unfashionable, is enjoying no respite. Prices have soared to a fabulous figure, and it is used to trim many of the smartest "Drake" models.
The Queen Elizabeth hat has the sides of the brim curving upward. An exquisite example of this variety was of chestnut-brown velvet, with a white plume sweeping over the side. This was caught with a jeweled ornament.

"BRYDA"
Dainty Lunch Blouse in a Combination of Ivory and Yellow Chiffon and Lace Slip; Fine Lace Collar.

New Fashion.

A charming fashion recently revived at the Paris opera consists in pinning a couple of flowers upon the bodice of the simply draped gowns in white or black charmeuse. But these floral trimmings do not adapt themselves to the magnificent models in embroidered velvets, brocaded satins and gauzes recently launched upon the stage, nor do they figure on beaded creations. In the latter case the veiled effects in spangled tulle and lace, the draperies and the linings of damask and charmeuse give the required ornamentation to these beautiful toilets.

Waist for a Velvet Suit.

Another blouse designed to wear with a brown velvet skirt has in the front and back bib-like pieces of the velvet, which also forms the epaulettes. The body of the waist is of a soft, subdued blue chiffon, tucked in clusters. The front piece of the velvet is cut low to display a yoke embroidered in shades of browns and blues, and the inevitable touch of fur is given by bands of skunk, which mark the shoulder lines and finish the tucked chiffon sleeves, which barely reach over the elbow.

Fashionable Poise.

It is curious how the dress of today reflects the fashionable poise of the moment. The fashionable poise for the feminine figure is that which used to be called the Roman bend— we have had it before, though it was long since discarded for the Grecian bend, which was the antithesis of the first. For the Roman bend we have the oblique line of trimming in the skirts, and the opening in front over the foot, corresponding with the cragging downward at the back of the draperies.

THE BANKS OF CANADA

The closing of the year 1912 has brought out the usual bank statements accompanied by the addresses of the Presidents and General Managers of these institutions. Their reading is interesting as they show in a striking manner the prosperity of the country, and deal with economic matters in a first hand way. Those who know anything of Canadian banking methods know the stability of these institutions, and the high character of the men who are placed in charge. In discussing the land situation the President of the Union Bank of Canada, whose branches are to be found in all parts of the Canadian West, said:—
"A good deal has been said about speculation in land. The increase in land values has added enormously to the assets of Western business, and has to some extent formed a basis for extended credit, but this is not felt to be a drawback when the value is real and convertible. We consider that a business standing which is strengthened and enhanced by property holdings is entitled to a reasonable enlargement of credit for legitimate business operations."
It will thus be seen that the banks recognize the certain rise in the value of farm lands in Western Canada. When the facts are known of the wonderful producing qualities of farm lands in the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, it is surprising to understand the liberal stand taken by the banks.
Living not far from Lashburn, Sask., is a farmer named Clarke who in 1912 secured a crop of Marquis Wheat, yielding 76 bushels per acre. This is spoken of as a record yield, and this is doubtless true, but several cases have been brought to notice where yields almost as large have been produced, and in different parts of the country. During the past year there have been reported many yields of from 35 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Oats, too, were a successful crop, and so was the barley crop. Wheat that would yield 40 bushels per acre, would bring on the market 70c (a fair figure) per bushel, a gross return of $28.00 per acre. At low $12.00 per acre (an outside figure) there would be a balance of $16.00 per acre net profit. This figure should satisfy anyone having land that cost less than $100.00 per acre. Very much less return than this proves satisfactory to those holding lands in Iowa and Illinois worth from $250 to $300 per acre.

The latest Government returns give an approximate estimate of four hundred thousand of an immigration to Canada during 1912. Of this number 206,000 will be from the United States. Most of these are of the farming class and it is not difficult to understand why farming lands in Canada will advance from ten to twenty per cent. within the next twelve months. Therefore investment in Western Canadian lands is not looked upon as being in the speculative class. Those fortunate enough to secure free homesteads in Canada will acquire in the intrinsic value of the land alone the best possible start for a splendid future. Advertisement.

Weighted in the Balance.

The young man was something of a bore and the young woman sent word that she was out.
"But he has a box of candy with him," was the word that came back from the maid.
The young woman reflected.
"No," she finally said, "it isn't worth it. Tell him I'm out."

Galsworthy Aphorisms.

Nothing that's true is cynical, and nothing that is cynical is true.
The word "smart" is the guardian angel of all fashions, and fashions are the guardian angels of vulgarity.
"For Love of Beasts," by John Galsworthy.

A Diplomat.

Son—Pa, is a diplomat a man who knows how to hold his tongue?
Father—No, my boy. A diplomat is a man who knows how to hold his job.

No Hurry for That Vehicle.

A short-sighted old lady in a hurry to mount a tram car held up her umbrella and shouted to the driver of a passing vehicle, "Stop! Stop!" to which the driver replied, "Don't be in a hurry, mum, it ain't your turn yet." It was a hearse.

It's easy for a man to resist temptation—if he has something better in sight.

A man may worship the woman beautiful, but he usually marries the woman dutiful.

Neat Differentiation.

Senator Lodge, at a dinner in the Back Bay district of Boston indicated very neatly the difference between a statesman and a politician.
"A statesman," he said, "thinks of the next generation; a politician of the next election."
"What would you recommend as the fish diet for sailors?"
"Roe, of course."
It takes a genius to save money or write good poetry.

Stops Backache

Sloan's Liniment is a splendid remedy for backache, stiff joints, rheumatism, neuralgia and sciatica. You don't need to rub it in—just laid on lightly it gives comfort and ease at once.
Best for Pain and Stiffness
MR. GEO. BUCHANAN, of Welch, Okla., writes:—"I have used your Liniment for the past ten years for pain in back and stiffness and find it the best Liniment I ever tried. I recommend it to anyone for pains of any kind."
SLOAN'S LINIMENT
is good for sprains, strains, bruises, cramp or soreness of the muscles, and all affections of the throat and chest.
Get Entire Relief
R. D. BURGONNE, of Maysville, Ky., RR. 1, Box 5, writes:—"I had severe pains between my shoulders. I got a bottle of your Liniment and had entire relief at the fifth application."
Relieved Severe Pain in Shoulders
MR. J. UNDERWOOD, of 2000 Warren Ave., Chicago, Ill., writes:—"I am a piano polisher by occupation, and since last September have suffered with severe pain in both shoulders. I could not rest night or day. One of my friends told me about your Liniment. Three applications completely cured me and I will never be without it."

Have You a Disordered Stomach and Liver?

Do you start the day feeling that the whole world is against you? You cannot hope to "make good" under these circumstances. Nobody can. You must have a clear brain and every organ in perfect trim to do justice to yourself.
Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery
Will Bring Quick Relief
Dr. R. V. Pierce found years ago that a glyceric extract of Golden Seal and Oregon grape roots, queen's root and bloodroot with black cherry bark, would aid in the assimilation of the food in the stomach, correct liver ills and in nature's own way enrich the blood, tone the entire system and consequently help in the restoration of perfect health. Many who have used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery testify that they have been restored to health when suffering from stomach and liver ills. Let this famous old medicine start today to lead you to health and strength.
Now—if you prefer—you can obtain Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription tablets of your druggist at $1 per box, also in 50c size or send 50 one-cent stamps to R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, for a trial box.
You can learn all about hygiene, anatomy, medicine, etc., from the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, a newly revised, up-to-date edition of which is now offered, in cloth covers, post-paid, for 25 cents in one-cent stamps, to cover cost of wrapping and mailing only. Address, Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.
Don't be poisoned by sluggish bowels. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar coated, tiny granules.

Does Your Tie Annoy You?

Your tie slides easily in your collar if your linen is done up by us. We iron the inside of your collars as smooth as the outside and shape them so they do not pinch your tie. You certainly will appreciate this point.

IT SAVES YOUR TIES, prevents muzzing and tearing of your collars and preserves your temper, particularly at times when you are in a hurry.

A Trip Through Germany.

By Mr. Mich. Schneider.

Kewaskum, Wis., Oct. 8, 1912, Editor Kewaskum Statesman.

On September first I left Frankfurt, going to Hamburg, where on September third I boarded the ship bound for America.

The trip to Hamburg was very interesting. The beautiful forests and meadows, the hills and valleys and the many charming little villages, the buildings of which are covered with a red, slate roofing present a most charming effect. Especially grand in the view of the "Thuringer Forest" where thousands of people from all over the world spend the summers to enjoy the beautiful scenery and to breathe the invigorating air. Another beautiful view is the "Lueneburger," a large stretch of level land, but it is to be regretted that this soil cannot be successfully cultivated to produce crops, as many families could be supported on the same.

Upon my arrival in Hamburg I found that owing to the inclement weather, many members of our original party had already left for their homes in America. The rains also prevented the farmers between Frankfurt and Hamburg from getting their crops harvested, much of the grain rotted in the fields, many acres of land being completely covered with water.

The time on the train from Frankfurt to Hamburg was pleasantly spent. The interesting landscapes and congenial traveling companions made me feel that life was worth living. On this trip I met a marine soldier, and with him had an english conversation, much to the amusement of our fellow passengers.

Upon our arrival at Hamburg I was directed to a good hotel and found it to be reached New York. The first class and the landlord and servants did everything in order to make their patrons feel at home.

September 3, we went via train to Cuxhafen, where at 10 A. M. we were taken on board the steamer "Hamburg," which under the most favorable conditions, started for America one hour later. The passengers were all in good humor and a more pleasant day could not be had. Towards evening however, a high wind came up, which continued until we reached New York. On September 13 a terrific electrical storm destroyed our wireless telegraph apparatus.

Owing to the high sea, most of the passengers were afflicted with sea sickness. Strange to say, I, being the oldest person on board, did not suffer any ill effects, and had a good appetite during the entire voyage.

On our return trip across the ocean I was again known as "Grandpa." Passengers, the ship's officers and crew were all very kind toward me, and given a special privilege was given me. I also saw the machinery of the ship, a privilege extended but to very few.

I was anxious to see these monstrous boilers and engines so I started down the winding stairway, but immediately was accosted by an officer with a pleasant, "hold on Grandpa, where are you bound for? After telling him where I was bound for, he told me that it was against the rules, for passengers to visit those parts of the ship where the machinery is located, but in consideration of my age, an exception to rules would be made, and accordingly, an escort accompanied me through the entire machinery departments.

I appreciated this favor, shown me by the officer, and extended to him my hearty thanks, which he acknowledged by replying "that's all right Grandpa."

On account of the storms and heavy seas, we did not arrive at New York until Sept. 14, being two days late according to schedule. The time we spent on this voyage was eleven and one half days.

Sunday, September 15, I spent in New York City. I left New York Monday morning at ten o'clock and after a ride of 30 "hours" duration I arrived in good old Campbellsport.

Considering the whole journey made on ship, railroad, with team and the many miles that I walked I consider it to be quite an undertaking for a boy of 77 years of age.

Yours very truly,
MICHAEL SCHNEIDER.

"Feed Dr. Hess Stock Tonic on Three Months Test at Our Expense."—Dr. Hess & Clark.

John Marx, Kewaskum, Wis.

Dear Sir:—We want every stock raiser that comes into your store this Fall to go home with a package, sack or pair of DR. HESS STOCK TONIC. This is asking a good deal perhaps, but if you will read the conditions of this request, we believe you will agree with us that there is not a single, solitary farmer in your whole community that would not avail himself of this opportunity. Here it is:—

"Mr. Feeder:—Take home from your dealer's store a package, sack or pair—or a ton if you like of Dr. Hess Stock Tonic, feed it to your horses, cows, hogs, etc. all Winter and Spring. It costs less than a cent a day for a horse, cow or steer, and 5 cts. a month for the average hog. If after it is used you are not satisfied with the extra profit it has made you, in increased growth and milk production, besides keeping your animals healthy and free from worms, take back the empty packages and your dealer is compelled to refund your money."

We authorize you to make the same iron-clad guarantee on DR. HESS POULTRY PAN-ACEA, to make hens lay, to shorten the molting period.

INSTANT LOUSE KILLER we guarantee to destroy lice on horses, cattle, sheep, ticks, etc.

Refund every cent if these preparations fail and we will reimburse you.

Very truly yours,
DR. HESS & CLARK.

To meet the demand of this guarantee, we have a large stock of Dr. Hess Stock Tonic, Poultry Pan-acea, Etc. on hand. Come in and take home any quantity you desire. We will have more goods on the way, so we can supply every customer.
