LENTEN RULES ARE RECEIVED

Archbishop Messmer of Milwaukee Sends Out Annual Regulations To Catholic Priests

SEASON BEGAN WEDNESDAY

Catholics Who Have Completed Their Twenty-First Year Are Bound To Fast Except When Granted Excuse.

Archbishop Messmer of the Milwaukee diocese has issued the rules and regulations for the Lenten season which opened Wednesday and continues until Easter Sunday. Copies of the regulations have been received by all of the Catholic pastors in this diocese. They are as follows:

- All Fridays and fast-days are days of abstinence from flesh-meat. On Saturdays, which by law are also days of abstinence, flesh-meat is allowed by Apostolic indult at all meals, unless they happen to be fast-days.
- The following are fast-days of obligation: All days of Lent (except Sundays); the Ember-days; the Vigils or Eves of Pentecost, of the Assumption B. V. M., of All Saints; and of Christmas; lastly, the Fridays of Advent.

On fast-days only one full meal a day is allowed to persons obliged to fast. But indult and custom allow coffee, tea, chocolate, with a piece of bread in the morning, and the use of eggs, butter, milk, etc., in the evening. For sufficient reason the collation (lunch) may be taken at noon, and the dinner or principal meal in the evening.

During Lent, by Apostolic indult, flesh-meat is allowed only at the principal meal on week days, except all Wednesdays and Fridays and also the Saturdays in Ember-week (Feb. 15) and Holy Week (March 22). On fast-days in Lent, flesh-meat and fish (including oysters, crabs, frogs, turtles, etc.) are never allowed at the same meal a rule which applies even to the Sundays in Lent and to all persons, however otherwise excused or dispensed from the law of either abstinence or fast. But meals always be prepared with the drippings of either fat or lard.

Should the feast of the Nativity (Christmas), and the Circumcision (New Year's), the feasts of the Assumption and the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary, and the feasts of All Saints fall upon a day of abstinence or fast, a general dispensation from such abstinence or fast has been granted for such an occurrence by a special order of the Holy Father issued on July 2, 1911. The same holds good for parishes where the feast of the Patron Saint (titular) of the church is observed with solemnity and a large concourse of people.

Persons excused from fast may use flesh-meat more than once on the days when it is allowed at all, whether in Lent or outside of that season.

Catholic having attained the sufficient use of reason are bound by the law of abstinence. But when it is either physically or morally impossible to observe the law or when it would entail serious difficulties, they are excused from it.

In virtue of the Apostolic faculties granted us by the Holy See we hereby delegate pastors to dispense, in each single case, from abstinence the men actually engaged in threshing as well as the farmer families at whose place threshing is going on.

Catholics having completed their twenty-first year of age are bound to fast. But the causes of excuse just mentioned in regard to abstinence, apply also to the law of fasting. Hence the church ordinarily exempts from fasting the sick and those in feeble health (whether by sickness or old age) women nursing children; all who are engaged in laborious and exhausting occupations. Persons in doubt whether they are excused or not should consult their confessors or pastor for advice or dispensation.

In virtue of an Apostolic indult we permit workmen and their families the use of flesh-meat at the principal common meal on all fast-days and abstinence days throughout the year, with the exception of all Fridays, Ash-Wednesday, the Wednesday and Sat-

ON THE ACCREDITED LIST

Principal Simon Receives Letter Stating that the Local High School Is Placed on Accredited List for the State University.

Principal Simon of the local high school has handed the management of this office a letter from the committee on accredited schools for the University of Wisconsin, which places the local school on the accredited list. The requirements were met at the school board meeting held recently, when they took measures to supply the school with the needed wants. This news should be of great interest to the readers and no doubt will place the local high school as one of the leading high schools of the state. It will hereafter not be necessary for the graduates to go to some other school before entering the University. The letter received reads as follows:

Madison, Wis., January 29th 1913.—Mr. A. L. Simon, principal High School, Kewaskum, Wis.—Dear Mr. Simon: Professor Purin advised the Committee on Accredited Schools at our meeting January 25 last that the board of education of Kewaskum had taken measures to supply the needed equipment of laboratories and books for the library, so as to meet at least the minimum requirements in those respects. In view of this report, the Committee has recommended that the Kewaskum High School be placed on the accredited list for the school year 1912-13. Very truly yours, Wayland J. Chase, acting secretary of the committee.

LOOK OUT FOR PROMOTERS

Manager Campbell Warns Against Land Sharks.

Two far western orchard promoters are after good Wisconsin dollars. They are using half-page advertisements in the papers they want the readers' money One is a Bitter Root concern, and the other is "just as good as Bitter Root or Spokane." Let's see what the 1910 census has to say about the yield of those places in comparison with Washington county. The Bitter Root is in Missoula and Ravalli counties, Mont. Here are the figures:

Bearing Trees	Bushels	Value
Wash. Co. Wis.	84,059	$0.908
Missoula Co. Mont.	50,000	5.75
Ravalli Co. Mont.	335,758	23.84
Spokane Co. Mont.	418,336	29,947
Yakima Co. Wash.	397,377	29,246
Hood River Co. Ore.	155,392	12,423
Marion Co. Ore.	174,464	13,181
Clatskanie Co. Ore.	107,676	14,729

It is up to Mr. Washington Farmer, with the dollars in your pocket. Can you see why you should leave Washington where you have a market and can get from $1.00 to $2.00 per bushel for your apples if you grow them right, and go a thousand miles from the market and get—well, a receipt for the freight?

Get the fruit trade papers and see for yourself that the western apples are now bringing 75 cents to $1.50 per bushel in Chicago, after costing the producer 70 cents to grow and pack them, 50 cents for freight, and a good commission to the jobber—perhaps warehouse charges in addition. But take the figures just as they are in the above table and the returns are as follows:

Wash. Co. Wis. value of crop	per tree	$
Missoula Co. Mont.	50,000	36
Ravalli Co. Mont.	335,758	36
Spokane Co. Wash.	418,336	36
Yakima Co. Wash.	397,377	36
Hood River Co. Ore.	155,392	36
Marion Co. Ore.	174,464	36
Clatskanie Co. Ore.	107,676	36

Are you going to invest in the far western apple deal, or is Wisconsin good enough yet a while? Isn't Washington county better than the west? Study the above tables and see.

A. D. Campbell, Manager Wisconsin Advancement Ass'n Milwaukee, Wis.

URDAY OF HOLY WEEK AND THE EVE OF CHRISTMAS.

Persons excused or dispensed from the law of fast or abstinence ought to perform some other good work of piety and charity in the spirit of Christian penance and sanctification. Hence the pious custom of giving Lenten Alms, "Redeem thou thy sins with alms, and the iniquities with works of mercy." Dan. iv, 24. Also the custom of abstaining from intoxicating drinks, of staying away from theatres, dances, card parties and other, profane amusements, etc.

STATE LAW IS NOT OBEYED

Traveling Man Said to Have Frozen His Feet Tuesday Evening While Awaiting His Train.

DEPOT IS KEPT LOCKED

No Opportunity Is Given the Public to Keep Comfortable While Awaiting the 8:28 P. M. Train North.

That the state law, requiring that stations be kept open at all hours when trains are scheduled to stop for passengers, is being grossly violated at this village, since the company transferred Mr. Jos. Oppenorth to Campbellsport, for the time being, is a self-evident fact. On Monday evening several people among them a few ladies, were obliged to walk the platform in an endeavor to keep warm while awaiting the 8:28 P. M. train for the north.

On again Tuesday evening the same conditions were in vogue, several traveling men being among the number, some of whom went over to Nic. Marx's place to thaw out, expressing themselves more forcibly than elegantly as regards such conditions of affairs. One traveling man is said to have frozen his feet while waiting that evening for the train fore-said mentioned, which was several minutes late. He stated that not only would he bring an action against the railroad company for personal damages, but would at once refer the matter to the State Railroad Commission.

A Statesman representative inquiring into this matter was unable to learn the names of the parties above referred to, but satisfied himself that the facts of the case as related are substantially correct. Since Mr. Oppenorth has been transferred to Campbellsport, to have charge of that depot during the absence of the station agent at that village, the depot and the waiting room is locked soon after the departure of the 5:57 P. M. passenger train south.

As there is another train which stops at the station later in the evening, no bulletin is kept on the outside, as to whether or not the train is late. The only way for anyone wishing to depart on that train to do, is to kick their heels on the platform until it arrives, no matter how late it may be, nor how severe may be the weather.

The conditions aforesaid mentioned applies not only to the 8:28 P. M. train, but also the Sunday night train due here at 11:10. These conditions are very disagreeable to passengers waiting for these trains. We know not the reason for this, nor do we know whom to blame. It certainly is a detriment, not only to our home people, but for the general public. Further outcome should be watched by our home people and if remedies are not applied by those now making complaints, we should ourselves see that conditions are made better for our evening train service.

Regular Meeting Next Thursday.

Next Thursday evening the regular monthly meeting of the Kewaskum Advancement association will be held in the city hall. As very important matters will come up at this meeting all members are requested to be present. The association also invites others who are not members to come and join.

Still More Auto Dealers:

Joseph Smith of the town of Auburn, living near New Prospect wishes to announce that he has taken the agency for the Petrol Autos. He is in a position to demonstrate the car at any time. All interested in autos will do well by calling on Mr. Smith. Watch for his advertisement in this paper.

ARE AFTER A FACTORY

Kewaskum Advancement Association Is in Touch with Large Factory which would Like to Locate Here.

Prospects are looking brighter every day for a factory coming to this village. The Kewaskum Advancement Association is in touch with a concern that manufactures gasoline engines, who contemplate locating in this village. If the factory is secured, it will mean that Kewaskum will be booming. The factory will utilize a building 100 X 100 and have to have additional space for more additions. They employ 50 or more men of skilled labor. The men interested will be in the village within a few days to make the association a proposition. So let us hope that if the proposition is good that it will not be turned down. Why can't Kewaskum be progressive? There is plenty of room for more here. Everyone will be benefitted so why not get after this with all the energy we got. Do not be a knocker but help a good thing along. One factory in this village will mean that more will come. Show your color in promoting the welfare of all.

PLAY TWO EXCITING GAMES

Girls Play a Tie Game While Boys Lose to West Bend, Score 20 to 9

Following is a writeup of the double-header of basket ball played at West Bend last week Friday evening, which is taken from the West Bend News.

In spite of the inclement weather last Friday evening a large crowd was at Strube's hall to witness the Kewaskum and West Bend High School basket ball teams do battle. The first game was between the girls' teams of the respective schools and resulted in a tie, each side scoring two points. Both teams played hard but were unable to cage more than goal apiece, as the work of the guards was goods and the teams were well matched.

The boys' game resulted in a victory for West Bend by a score of 20 to 9. The high school lads played an excellent game, and until the game was safely stowed away by the locals kept the spectators in a high state of excitement. Kewaskum scored first, but West Bend soon took the lead and held it throughout. The local's team work and fast accurate passing were again in evidence, and to it can be attributed the visitors defeat. After considerable fast work the first half ended with West Bend leading by a score of 10 to 6. This they increased in the second half and held Kewaskum to a lone goal during the game. 20 to 9. Harvey Bruh started for the locals, while Kewaskum had no player who shone above his team mates.

LEGISLATURE GETS TO REAL WORK

Important Bills Are Introduced This Week.

INCOME TAX AMENDMENTS

Circuit Court Procedure; Election of U. S. Senators; Primary Election Date; Educational Control; Water Powers—Are Legislative Subjects

Madison, Feb. 7th, 1913. The real work of the session will begin this week. The important assembly committees have scheduled hearings for several days and as this is the last week of the session, most of the bills will be in by the end of the week, including many of the important measures.

INCOME TAX AMENDMENTS.

Among these will be one of the bills amending the income tax to be recommended by the state tax commission. This bill probably will be introduced by Senator Kileen of Waushara County.

CIRCUIT COURT PROCEDURE REVISED.

Another bill is a revisor's bill consolidating and amending all the statutes relating to circuit courts, adopting many provisions to shorten the "Law's delay" and incidentally increasing the salaries of circuit judges from $1,000 a year, with a $100 allowance for expenses, to $6,000 a year and expenses. The revisor's bill has been filed with the senate committee on judiciary.

OTHER IMPORTANT BILLS.

Important measures that have been introduced are: By Assemblyman Holmes of Dane County, to amend workmen's compensation act so that all employers shall be under the act unless they elect otherwise, instead of making it necessary for the employers to elect to come under the act as present. The offense of contributory negligence is added to the defense taken away from those employers who do not come under the act, and this, it is considered, will induce practically all the employers of the state to come under the law.

OREGON PLAN FOR ELECTION OF SENATORS

By Senator Husting of Dodge County, a bill to adopt the Oregon plan for the election of United States Senators. This plan places the primary nominee for United States Senators upon the general election ballot and requires legislative candidates to sign a statement whether or not they pledge themselves to vote for the candidate for United States Senator who receives the highest number of votes at the general election. By Assemblyman Ross of Rock County, a constitutional amendment abolishing the office of state superintendent, university regents and normal regents, and placing powers of all three in a state board of education. By Assemblyman Johnson of Polk County, abolishing the fish and games department, park board and forestry board and investing a new state conservation commission with the powers of all three.

VOTING BY MAIL PROPOSED

Bills have been introduced to permit voting by mail and to change the September primary date to June and also to April. WATER POWER FIGHTING COMING. It is expected that the water power bill, which will receive the support when finally brought into shape, of those who want to see as much of the water power control as the constitution will permit retained by the people of the state, will be introduced this week, probably by Senator Husting.

Washington House Is Sold.

The Washington House in this city, which for a number of years has been the property of F. Day, changed hands last Thursday, Mr. Day disposing of it to Harrison Heinecke of Reedsville for $26,000 and 1.50 acres of land in Marinette county. Immediate possession was given to Mr. Heinecke. Just what the new owner intends doing with the building we have not been informed and we doubt whether he has any definite plans. He may move to this city to give the building his personal supervision.—West Bend Pilot.

HEARING HELD TUESDAY

At the Preliminary Hearing in Justice Rolf's Court, Two Are Discharged and One Bound Over to Circuit Court Under $500 Bail

The preliminary hearing of Fred Meinecke, Adolph Meinecke and Herschel Olwin, all of this village, was held at West Bend last Tuesday morning in Justice Rolf's court. The trio were charged with being implicated with the attempted holdup of August Martin in this village on Saturday night, January 18th. The state was represented by district attorney, H. A. Sawyer of Hartford. After hearing considerable of the testimony, the district attorney moved for the discharge of Messrs. Herschel Olwin and Adolph Meinecke, and also moved that Fred Meinecke be bound over to the spring term of the circuit court. The court sustained said motions and fixed the bail of Fred Meinecke for the amount of $500, which was furnished. Emil Siegel and Theodore Stern signing the bond.

STOVE PIPE CAUSES FIRE

Prompt Action on Part of the Campbellsport Fire Department Saves Potato Warehouse at That Place.

Fire caused by a defective stove pipe resulted in a loss of about $150 at the warehouse of the Knickel-Straub Potato company in the village of Campbellsport Tuesday morning at 8:15 o'clock. Prompt action on the part of the village fire department saved the entire building, containing hundreds of bushels of potatoes from being destroyed. The blaze originated on the first floor of the structure, a defective stove pipe setting fire to the woodwork. The flames burned along the joists to the side of the building and then shot upwards. A neighbor noticed the fire and sounded the alarm. After a short fight the blaze was extinguished.

The most of the loss is on the building, the potatoes not having been damaged to any great extent.

DANCE WELL ATTENDED

Prize Masquerade Dance Given by the Royal Neighbors Drew Large Attendance—Over Forty Were Masked.

The Prize Mask Ball given by the Royal Neighbors in Groeschel's hall last week Saturday evening was a financial as well as a social success. Over forty maskers being on the floor.

The judges for the evening were Joseph Schmidt, John Klessig and Prof. A. L. Simon. They had no easy time in making selection of the prize winners, which were as follows:

Group of five—German Band, consisting of the Meedames, A. M. Rosenheimer, A. L. Rosenheimer, N. J. Mertes, Chas. Groeschel and Louis Brandt.

Group of four—Gypsy Fortune Tellers, The Misses Ellen Wunderle, Adela Dahike, Leona Backhaus and Lauretta Schmit.

Best couple—German couple—Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bruessel.

Best Lady masked—Flower girl, Miss Lilla Petri.

Best Gent masked—Uncle Sam, Arthur Schaefer.

Breaks Left Leg.

William Krueger, who makes his home at the Republican House, last week Friday evening, had the misfortune of breaking his left leg, just above the ankle. The accident happened shortly before supper. Mr. Krueger during the day was assisting the proprietors of the hotel, Messrs. Schaefer & Schultz, in filling their ice house when nearly through, in an attempt to assist Carl Urban in fastening the ice prongs, stepped on a shovel, from which he slipped and fell resulting in the fracture of his leg. He was at once removed to his room and medical aid summoned. As the break is a severe one, it will require that the patient be idle for several weeks.

ARREST WOMAN FOR VAGRANCY

Mrs. Louisa Meyers Johnson Arraigned in Justice Blewett's Court Monday Morning

WAS AT CAMPBELLSPORT

Is Penniless, But Refuses Aid of Relatives and Poor Authorities—Wanders About Country

A new chapter in the "Life and Adventures of Louisa Meyers Johnson, wanderer," was started in Justice D. F. Blewett's court this morning when the aged woman, who has attracted public attention many times recently through her nomadic tendencies, was arraigned to answer to the charge of vagrancy.

Mrs. Johnson was arrested at Campbellsport, where it is understood she has playing the part of an unwelcome guest at the home of Ed. Campbell for the past three weeks. She went to that place it is said, after running away from the home of her nephew, Peter Lerch, of Lomira, where she was cared for after she had evaded the local poor officials who found her living in a deserted school house on Hickory street. She was brought to this city last night by Constable James Carew and was arraigned in Justice court Monday morning. She admitted that she was destitute and penniless, but placed her only hope in the faith the "God would provide." Her case was adjourned until February 8th.

She is thought to be somewhat feeble minded, and it is probable that she will be sent to the West Allis almshouse, to which she was committed early last spring. —Fond du Lac Reporter.

Obituary.

August H. Krueger, aged 37 years, died at his home near Oak field at 8 o'clock Sunday morning following a surgical operation performed some weeks ago. The deceased was born in Ehrenberg, Germany March 6, 1876 and came to this country with his parents in 1882, locating at Lomira and at the Oshkosh Normal of which he was a graduate. He was two years a teacher in the school at Elkhart. On Oct. 13, 1900 he was united in marriage to Miss Helen Parduhn, of Oakfield, by whom he is survived. He is also survived by four children, Arthur A., Walter C., Carl G., and Erman Helen and by three brothers, Henry, of Suring and Carl and Otto of Lomira.

McGOVERN IGNORES SENATE SUMMONS

GOVERNOR DEFIES BODY RIGHT TO INVESTIGATE HIS ACTS AS EXECUTIVE.

VOTE TO GO ON WITH INQUIRY

After Receiving Message from Governor, Senate Decides to Proceed With Investigation—Senators Burke and Ernowe Voice Protest.

Madison—Gov. McGovern in a message to the senate has refused to comply with its request and subpoena for his appearance before the senate to be questioned as to the removal of Insurance Commissioner Ekern and the incidents in connection therewith. He denied the power of one branch of the government to investigate another in courteous but explicit language. He in fact read the senate a lesson to which, however, the senate gave no heed. "It is not competent to review my acts," he told the senators. "The responsibility lies with the people, not with the senate or its committees."

RECALL PETITION IS ILLEGAL

Janesville City Attorney Holds Up Document as Defective—Clark Refuses to Call Election.

Janesville.—The second petition for the recall of Mayor James F. Fathers and Commissioners Chauncey Miltonore and Roy Cummins, was rejected as defective by the city clerk, who refuses to call the election. City Attorney Dougherty rules the petition defective. He claims the state law does not permit the recall of more than one official at one time; that sufficient cause must be shown for recall and that at least one-third of the last registered vote must sign—and that the petition does not comply with any of these conditions. The first petitions were thrown out a month ago, because the three were filed at one time. Separate petitions were then filed on separate days.

Produce Missing Ballots.

Madison.—A count of ballots in the Clarke O'Day contest for the Lincoln county assembly seat shows O'Day has 1,521 votes and Clarke 1,522, giving the latter a lead of one. An attempt has been made to have the assembly elections committee consider a number of missing ballots alleged to have been cast in the First ward of Tomahawk and which were not included in the official count. It is said the election in that ward was held in a private house and that a woman found the ballots the day after the election and preserved them.

Stoughton Mayor Quits.

Stoughton.—John Holtan, mayor of this city for the last five years, has resigned. The resignation is to take effect on March 4. During his incumbency the city has established a complete sewer system, built many miles of sidewalks and secured an economical water supply. Press of private business is the reason for his resignation.

Fair Profits $3,000.

Madison.—The state board of agriculture at its annual meeting voted to abolish the department of promotion and publicity, the work to be done by Secretary McKenzie. Receipts of the 1912 state fair totaled $125,000; disbursements were about $125,000; payment bills from 1911, however, makes the net gain for the last state fair nearly $3,000.

Plan Basketball Tourney.

Oshkosh.—At a meeting of the Oshkosh Normal school arrangements were made for a tournament of high school basketball teams of northeastern Wisconsin high schools Tuesday night.

Bloodhounds Trace Coal Thief.

Beloit.—Beloit's new bloodhounds recently purchased by the police department were given their first real test when they traced a coal thief from the bin where he extracted the coal to his home.

Twine Plant at Waupun Busy.

Madison.—Warden Woodward of the Wisconsin state prison at Waupun, states that the binder twine plant is turning out over six tons of product daily.

Marshfield Storage Plant Burns.

Marshfield.—Fire during the night, with the mercury at twenty degrees below zero, destroyed the potato warehouse and cold storage plant of the S. Miller Fruit company. The loss is about $7,000.

ADOPT AMENDMENT

INCOME TAX WINS OUT AND IS NOW A PART OF THE U. S. CONSTITUTION.

WILL PROVIDE $100,000,000

Wyoming, Delaware and New Mexico Votes Give More Than Needed Majority—Congress Will Enact Law at Special Session.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The Constitution of the United States has an income tax now as one of its provisions. Wyoming's ratification Monday of the income tax amendment—the sixteenth change in the Constitution and the first since the reconstruction—completed a list of thirty-six states, three-fourths of the Union, which have approved the provision. Congress will enact a law to levy the tax and it probably will become effective during the extraordinary session to be called by President-elect Wilson in March.

The new law probably will supercede the corporation tax and provide for a tax on all incomes above $5,000, although there has been some sentiment in favor of making the limit as low as $4,000. Congressional leaders who have been preparing for the final ratification by the states estimate an income tax would bring in about $100,000,000 a year to the government.

The provision authorizing an income tax will be known as the "sixteenth amendment" and reads as follows: "Article XVI.—The congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among the states, and without regard to any census or enumeration."

The three latest states to ratify the income tax amendment were: Thirty-sixth state, Wyoming; thirty-seventh state, Delaware; thirty-eighth state, New Mexico.

The senate Saturday night by a vote of 47 to 23—one more than the necessary two-thirds—adopted the resolution for an amendment to the Constitution providing for a single six-year presidential term.

Following is the text of the resolution as adopted: "The executive power shall be vested in a president of the United States of America. The term of office of president shall be six years, and no person who has held the office by election or discharged its powers or duties or acted as president under the Constitution and laws made in pursuance thereof, shall be eligible to again hold the office by election."

2 DEAD; 13 HURT IN FIRE

Flames Cause Wild Panic in Moving Picture Theater—Famous South Carolina Hotel Burns.

New York, Feb. 4.—Two women were crushed to death, 13 men, women and children were injured so badly as to necessitate their instant removal to the operating room of Bellevue hospital, and almost a hundred others were painfully hurt in a panic at the moving picture theater at 145 East Houston street, known as the Houston Hippodrome, Sunday.

U. S. LOSES SHOE CO. SUIT

Supreme Court Holds Organization of Big Leather Machinery Concern Did Not Violate Law.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The government suffered its first big defeat in the anti-trust campaign when the Supreme court Monday held that the officials of the United Shoe Machinery company had not violated the Sherman anti-trust law by organizing that company.

Uphold Martial Law.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The Supreme court Monday declined to interfere with the martial law ordered by Governor Glasscock in the Cabin Creek coal district of West Virginia, where trouble arose from a strike.

Chinese Loan Arranged.

Peking, Feb. 5.—The $125,000,000 loan to China by the six power group was arranged Monday. The loan is for 50 years at 5 1/2 per cent, redeemable in 15 years at par. The security is the salt of the Gabelle.

Mexican Rebels Kill Troops.

Mexico City, Feb. 5.—Rebel followers of General Zapata attacked a passenger train Monday running from Mexico City to Ouzumba, 45 miles south of the capital, killing the 20 soldiers in the train's escort.

Hold Saccharine Meet.

Paris, Feb. 5.—An international conference for the regulation of the use of saccharine and analogous substances was opened here Monday. Delegates from eight continental countries participated.

Frank M. Ryan Released.

Leavenworth, Kan., Feb. 4.—Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, was released from the Fort prison here on bail Sunday.

DUKE OF ANHALT

Herr Roth, a Leipzig genealogist, has announced that Frederick II, reigning duke of Anhalt, is a direct descendant of Brian Boru, and has a better right than any other living person to the Irish throne. The duke of Anhalt was born in 1856, and, in 1889, married Marie, princess of Baden. He has no children.

ADRIANOPLE IN FLAMES

TURKISH STRONGHOLD IS SET ON FIRE BY EXPLODING SHELLS.

Roar of Cannon at Tchataltja Indicates Fierce Engagement—Rioting in Constantinople.

Constantinople, Feb. 6.—The garrison of Adrianople has easily repulsed all attacks by the Bulgarians on the north and east fronts of the fortress according to the official report issued here Tuesday night. The village of Tchataltja, which has hitherto marked the limit of the Bulgarian lines, is in flames. Its destruction was apparently decided on for tactical reasons.

London, Feb. 6.—Fire started in several parts of Adrianople Tuesday night which are most exposed to the Bulgarian and Serbian bombardment.

The allied gunners spared no portion of the town. They determined their ranges with accuracy, and, while practically safe from Turkish fire, subjected all unprotected parts of Adrianople to a storm of shells.

Constantinople, Feb. 5.—The vast rumble and roar of many cannon was heard here Monday night and Tuesday indicating that the promised resumption of hostilities between the Turks and the allies was on. The city is in a perfect frenzy of unrest. Rioting has broken out in a number of places and the officials have their hands full in keeping a semblance of order.

It was reported here Tuesday that the allies, were storming Tchataltja and had been since seven o'clock Monday night. Their sorties were repeatedly repulsed.

Paris, Feb. 5.—M. Stansloff, Bulgarian minister to Paris, who, in his capacity as an officer of the reserve, took part in the war with Turkey, explained why the allies felt compelled to recommence hostilities.

"We were compelled to recommence the war," he said, "because of the territory which cannot be left under Turkish misrule and because Turkey refuses to pay a war indemnity."

20,000 IN RIOT AT CHURCH

Women Madly Battle Each Other in Effort to Hear Evangelist Sunday Preach the Gospel.

Columbus, O., Feb. 3.—Twenty thousand women battled with each other, battled with policemen, and were beaten and bruised, and crushed in an effort here Friday to get into the tabernacle where Rev. W. A. Sunday, the baseball evangelist, was conducting a revival, in which more than five thousand persons were converted.

Women fought with umbrellas and with hampers, policemen used their clubs. A score of women fainted, hundreds suffered injuries in being jostled against each other and against the building, and a dozen policemen received scratches and bruises. One cripple was badly hurt. A door was torn from the building and fell on to the mob jostling around it. The tabernacle holds ten thousand; as many as got into the building were forced to turn away. It was a meeting for women only and drew the biggest crowd that has yet attended the services.

OWNS TO OUTRAGES

NEW YORK MAN CONFESSES TO KILLING PERSONS BY SENDING THEM BOMBS.

JANITOR SOUGHT REVENGE

Clears Many Old Mysteries—Startles New York Police by Calmly Admitting Slaying Wife of His Superintendant—Killed Many.

New York, Feb. 5.—John Paul Farrell, a janitor, fifty-three years old, after maintaining his innocence through hours of a relentless "third degree" at the Tremont police station Tuesday, confessed to constructing and placing the bomb which exploded and killed Mrs. Bernard Herrera February 2, also the bomb which killed Miss Grace Walker, a year ago, and the bomb which exploded six weeks later in the library of Judge Otto Rosalsky and seriously injured an officer of the department of combustible gases who had been sent to open it.

Farrell was employed as handy man in the apartment at No. 1475 Fulton avenue, of which Herrera was superintendant, and in which he lived with his wife and Miss Sarah Fughtman Herrera had told him, he said, that he was to be discharged, and the bomb was sent to secure revenge.

"I wanted revenge," he declared, "and I went down to the basement, where I sleep, Thursday night determined to get it. I found a piece of lead pipe and a cigar box, and then I bought a bottle of nitro-glycerin, I saturated the inside of the pipe with the explosive, stopping up one end of the pipe with a percussion cap. Sunday night I finished the machine, stuffing it with nails, and when I heard Herrera go out, I put the machine on the mantelpiece in the hallway."

The Herreras found the machine on the mantelpiece at ten o'clock. Mrs. Herrera opened it and was instantly killed by the explosion. Herrera and Miss Fughtman were seriously injured.

Farrell said Grace Walker, known also as Mrs. Grace Taylor at the apartment house in West Seventy-second street in which she lived, was a former sweetheart.

"You see," he said, "I once lived with her and when she fell I couldn't bear it. So I mailed her a bomb."

This was a year ago. Miss Walker was killed instantly in exactly the same manner as Mrs. Herrera met death.

TAFT ASKS CHANGES IN LAWS

President Wants Statutes Relating to Shippers Manifests Amended by Congress.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Acting on the advice of Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh and Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel, President Taft sent to congress Tuesday a special message recommending that the laws relating to the preparation of shippers' manifests be amended in such a manner as to compel the preparation by exporters of accurate and complete lists in regard to merchandise sent out of the United States.

The president recommended that fines of $50 be provided for any omission or incorrect description of the merchandise in any manifest; the failure of the transportation company to procure from the exporter such a manifest and for the disclosure by any employee of a common carrier of any information regarding the merchandise carrier by it for exportation.

11 KILLED BY EXPLOSION

Dynamite Blast in Hardware Store at Cienfuegos, Cuba, Deals Death and Destruction.

Havana, Feb. 4.—A terrific explosion of dynamite in a hardware store at Cienfuegos Sunday killed eleven persons and injured more than a hundred others. A number of the injured will probably die. The cause of the explosion is unknown as the owner of the store, Jose Mayo, a Spaniard, is so badly injured that he is unable to talk. A number of buildings in the vicinity of the hardware store were wrecked and the shock was felt for 50 miles. Three Americans were injured.

DUNNE NOW GOVERNOR

CHIEF EXECUTIVE OF ILLINOIS IS INAUGURATED.

Reviews a Long Parade and Takes the Oath of Office in the State House.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 4.—A great concourse of people, mostly Democrats, from all sections of the state were in attendance on Monday at the inauguration ceremonies which included Edward F. Dunne into the office of governor. The ceremonies were quite elaborate, but in keeping with the occasion.

Mr. Dunne and the other incoming officers and all the outgoing officers except Governor Deneen, gathered at the St. Nicholas hotel, and at 10:30 o'clock entered carriages and reviewed the long parade, which marched past the hotel in it were political organizations from many cities and towns.

As the rear of the procession passed, the official party fell in behind and the whole assemblage proceeded through the downtown streets to the governor's mansion, where Governor and Mrs. Deneen joined it. The parade then moved on to the north door of the state house, where it divided to allow the carriages to drive between the ranks. The new officers alighted, and, with their wives, went at once to the floor of the house. There, precisely at noon, the oath of office, was administered to Mr. Dunne by Chief Justice Frank K. Dunn.

In the evening the usual formal public reception was held at the governor's mansion. No invitations were issued, and the affair was open to all who desired to attend.

THE WITCHEN CABIAET

SOME COMPANY DISHES.

The following is a wedding cake which makes two loaves, each weighing five pounds: A pound each of butter, sugar and flour, twelve eggs, two and a half pounds of currants, the same of raisins, three-fourths of a pound of citron, a teaspoonful of soda, half a teaspoon of cloves, a teaspoonful of cinnamon, half a teaspoonful of nutmeg, a fourth of a pound of candied lemon peel, chopped fine, a fourth of a pound of blanched almonds, chopped fine, one nutmeg grated. Bake in two loaves two and a half hours.

Nut Cakes.—A Cup of sugar, a cup of shortening, four tablespoonfuls of sour milk, two level teaspoonfuls of soda dissolved in the milk, two eggs, spices to taste. Cinnamon and cloves are good. A cup each of nuts and raisins chopped, and flour to make a mixture to drop. Drop on buttered tins and bake in a moderate oven.

Chili Con Carni.—Boil a pound of small red chili beans until tender. Just before the beans are soft enough, add one onion and a clove of garlic chopped fine; there should be about three parts of water in the beans. Add a can of chili powder or a few stewed red peppers chopped, and a teaspoonful of salt.

Chop a pound of suet, let it cook until all the fat is extracted, pick out the scraps and add a pound and a half of uncooked hamburger steak. Stir constantly for a few minutes then add the beans, and cook slowly in an earthen dish several hours.

Cabbage Salad.—A very simple and yet very popular salad is prepared by shredding a solid head of cabbage very fine. Let stand in cold water until crisp, then drain and mix with thick sweet cream, a little sugar, salt and vinegar.

There is a dainty dish which may be prepared from chestnuts which is both nourishing and tasty. Shell, blanch and cook until tender a cupful of chestnuts; add them to a rich white sauce, serve on toast or in timbal cases.

Apples, dates and nuts, with a boiled dressing, is a good salad combination.

SYNOPSIS.

Robert Cameron, capitalist, consults Phillip Clyde, newspaper publisher, regarding anonymous threatening letters he has received. The first promises a sample of the writer's power on a certain day. On that day the head is mysteriously cut from a portrait of Cameron while the latter is in the room. Clyde has a theory that the portrait was mutilated while the room was unoccupied and the head later removed by means of a string, unnoticed by Cameron. Evelyn Grayson, Cameron's niece, with whom Clyde is in love, finds the head of Cameron's portrait nailed to a tree, where it had been used as a target. Clyde pledges Evelyn to secretly investigate the case and speaks of finding the bowl of an opium pipe under the tree where Cameron's portrait was found. The Chinese boy is found dead next morning. While visiting Cameron in his dressing room a Nell Grayson mirror is mysteriously shattered. Cameron becomes seriously ill as a result of the shock. The third letter appears mysteriously on Cameron's sick bed. Direct threats against the life of Cameron. Clyde tells Cameron the envelope was empty. He tells Evelyn everything and plans to take Cameron on a yacht trip.

CHAPTER VIII.

Somewhere East of Nantucket. The Sibylla under stress of her powerful turbines was moving easily, reeling off her thirty knots with no seeming effort and scarcely a perceptible vibration. There had been a stiff breeze during the night, but it had died down at sunrise, and now, at noon, the sea was calm as the bosom of a nun. The sun blazed on the yacht's polished brasses, intensifying the snowy whiteness of her glossy paint, and turning to jeweled show-ers the spray which fell away from her sharp prow and caressed her long, sleek sides. It was wonderful weather for late October. On the nineteenth the temperature had risen to ninety in New York, breaking all records for that date; and now, two days later, here at the meeting of sound and ocean, with Point Judith just coming into view over our port bow, and Block Island a blur about our starboard beam, we sat, Cameron and I, shaded by spread awnings, on the after-deck, as though it were mid-summer. For he had been convinced, by my righteous truths, after repeated and emphatic dining, and had daily grown stronger; readily agreeing at length to a cruise along the coast, with Bar Harbor as objective. "That is precisely what I had the Sibylla built for," he told me, when my suggestion found acceptance. "Did you ever notice the inscription on the brass tablet over the fireplace in the saloon? No? Well, it's this: 'Sibylla, when thou seest me faynte, address thyself the gyde of my commandments.'"

"I found it in an old book, published in 1583, a poetic induction to 'The Mirror of Magistrates,' written by Thomas Sackville. You can fancy how my application distorts the original intention; but Sackville isn't likely to trouble me over it."

I repeat this explanation now mainly to indicate the improved temper of the speaker. His mind was placid once again, and with this recovered placidity had come a return of his quiet humor. For my own part I was not altogether happy. My delight over my friend's recovery, and Evelyn's pleasure thereat, was curbed by self-reproach regarding the instrument I had employed to bring it about. A lie to a most contemptible agent, and to make use of one has been always abhorrent. In this instance I had saved my conscience in a measure with the old excuse that the end justified the means, but it was only in a measure, and I was far from being as happy as I pretended.

Moreover, I could not rid myself of an uneasiness—a misery, indeed, in which I was now without company—concerning the day and its menace. I say "without company," for Cameron, of course, had quite dismissed the subject, and Evelyn, who previously was greatly perturbed, had seemed to put away all apprehension directly she saw us safe aboard the yacht. There had been some talk of her accompanying us, but without signifying my real reason, I had managed to dissuade her.

For my disquietude there was certainly no logical ground. I had taken the precaution of having the Sibylla searched from masthead to keelson before sailing. The coal was examined as carefully as that of a battleship in time of war; every locker and cupboard was inspected; even the ventilators were metaphorically turned inside out and the record of every man of the crew was looked into with vigorous scrutiny. So I could see no loophole unguarded. But the past was an argument which set logic at naught. If such things could be as that which had happened a month ago in Cameron's dressing room, how much further might the inexplicable carry? Of what use were precautions against an enemy who with apparent ease defied all natural laws?

All the morning my thoughts had been running in this line. Foolish thoughts they must seem to one who reads of them; worthy only to be classed with the idle, superstitious fears of young girls and old women, and impossible. Ordinarily I should have given him scant heed, but today was no ordinary day, and my suspicions were superactive. Even the most trivial occurrences took on significance. And this was not a trivial occurrence. Certainly it was not usual. Fishermen blown to sea in storms and overcome by exposure, hunger and thirst were common enough, perhaps, but within the past week there had been no storm; the weather had been as mild as that of June, with an August day or two

"I see," he began, dropping the paper to his knees. "That China is really in earnest in her anti-opium campaign. Two Peking officials have died from the effects of a tooth-ache breaking of the habit. Men do not die in the attempt to obey mere paper reforms. The Chinese are a wonderful old people, Clyde."

"I lowered my glasses, all at once interested. "You've been in China?" I asked. "No, I haven't," was his answer. "I've always meant to go, but when I was nearest, all news drew me home; and so I never got closer than Yokohama on one side, and Scinagar, in Kashmir, on the other."

"You've seen something of them in this country, I suppose?" "No, very little. I attended a dinner once at which Li Hung Chang was the guest of honor; and I've eaten chop suey in one of those Chinese eating palaces they have in Chicago. That's about the extent of my personal Chinese experience. But I have always been interested in the country and its people. I have read about everything that has been published on the subject. By the way, did they ever find out who killed that boy of Murphy's?"

"Not yet," I answered. "They've had some of his own kind under surveillance, but no more arrests have been made."

"Murphy was released?" "Yes."

"He took up his paper again and once more I applied myself to sea-gazing. Far away to the northeast I made out what appeared to me to be a sea-going tug or pilot boat, steaming, I thought, with rather unusual speed for a vessel of her class. It was not much of a discovery, but the waters had been very barren that morning, especially for the last two hours, and insignificant as this object was I felt in a manner rewarded for my vigil."

Half an hour later she had slipped out of sight and I was busy in an effort to pick her up again, when a cry from the lookout forward directed my attention to a floating speck possibly two miles or more dead ahead, and not more than a point off our course. "Come," I said to Cameron, "let's go up on the bridge and have a look!"

"And have our trouble for our pains?" he returned, incredulously. "It's probably some bit of wreckage, a box or a cask."

"Very well," I agreed, starting off alone. "Even a box or a cask is worth while as a variation."

When on nearer approach the drifting object proved to be a fisherman's dory, with a man, either dead or unconscious, plainly discernible in the bottom. I should hardly have been human had I not experienced a degree of satisfaction over Cameron's failure as a prophet. That, however, was the least abiding of my sensations. In an instant it had given way to anxiety concerning the boat's occupant and interest in the business-like manner in which MacLeod, the stocky young executive officer of the Sibylla, was preparing to pick up our find.

The engine room had been signaled half-speed ahead, and already a sailor with a coil of rope in hand was stationed at the forward gangway. I have frequently seen river pilots make landings that were marvels of clever calculation, but I never saw any steering more accurately gauged than that by which MacLeod, here in the open sea, with the precarious swell and surge of ocean to combat, brought the yacht gliding within a bare three inches of the rolling dory's bow.

I was leaning over the rail as we came thus upon the castaway, and saw clearly enough for just a moment the huddled creature in dinks, silent and motionless in the stern, with closed eyes and wet, dark hair matted on his forehead. Then a sailor, dropping lightly into the boat, shut off my view for a little. There was a whirl of flung line; an exchange of quick-spoken, and to me unintelligible, words between the sailor in the dory and a sailor standing beside me on the yacht's deck; and then, the line was taut and straining, and the dory, which had sheered off astern, was being brought up slowly alongside.

"Now, I realized for the first time that our engines had stopped and that, save for the roll, we were almost stationary. They were lifting the fisherman aboard when Cameron, at length aroused by the unusual, strolled forward and joined me.

"There's your bit of wreckage," I observed, smiling.

"Poor devil!" he exclaimed, sympathetically. "He seems more dead than alive."

"He's breathing, sir," announced Brandon, the first officer, "and not much more. We'll take him below, and see what can be done for him, sir."

He appeared to be about forty years of age, a somewhat shrunken, weather-beaten creature, with face deeply lined and half hidden behind possibly a week's growth of dark beard. It is not easy to read a man with his eyes closed, but I was far from prepossessed by what of this fellow's features was on view. Ordinarily I should have given him scant heed, but today was no ordinary day, and my suspicions were superactive. Even the most trivial occurrences took on significance. And this was not a trivial occurrence. Certainly it was not usual. Fishermen blown to sea in storms and overcome by exposure, hunger and thirst were common enough, perhaps, but within the past week there had been no storm; the weather had been as mild as that of June, with an August day or two thrown in. How was it possible, then, for this bit of flotsam to have come where it was and in the condition it was?

To Cameron I gave no hint of my reasoning, but to Captain MacLeod I put the question without hesitation. "It does seem a bit odd, Mr. Clyde," he returned, judiciously, "but you see his mast and sail had gone by the board and his oars, too. It looks to me, sir, as if he'd been run down, maybe, and high swamped. Of course we can't tell till he gets his senses and lets us know."

Though this put the matter in a new light, it did not by any means relieve my anxiety; and I asked MacLeod to have a sharp watch kept on the fellow, adding that I would come to him later for anything he might learn. I took care, too, to caution him to make no mention of the affair in the presence of Cameron.

It was not until after dinner that evening that I found opportunity again to question the captain. I came upon him in his stateroom, a comfortably commodious cabin, far forward on the upper deck. On his table was spread a chart, over which he was bending when I entered. A briarwood was gripped firmly between his teeth and the grateful odor of clean pipe smoke greeted me as I entered.

"He's come around, Mr. Clyde," he informed me, turning about in his swivel chair, "and I'm just trying to check up some of his statements by means of this chart here, and our weather record."

"And how do they check so far?" I asked, a little dubiously.

"Quite to a dot, sir," was his answer. "There's no breakdown anywhere, so far. According to his story, he sailed out of Gloucester harbor on Monday morning. His name's Peter Johnson, and he lives in East Gloucester. He says the wind was strong from the westward, and he made the banks all right without mishap. But about noon, the wind died, and a thick fog came in from the northeast, chill and soporific, sir. He kept moving about, and finally in the thick of it lost his bearings. It had clouded over and after a little it began to rain. He made a try for Gloucester harbor, but he must have sailed southeast instead of northwest. Then the night came down, and the fog was like a dozen blankets, he says. His food was gone and most of his water, but he said he'd seem worse than that, many a time, and just prayed for the fog to lift and give him a sight of the stars."

And the next thing that happened was what I suspected, sir. He heard a steamer's whistle. He had his sheet out and was running before the wind, and that steamer coming upon him out of the fog, caught his boom, ripped off his mast and nearly capsized his dory. When she sighted, the steamer's lights were fading into the fog again, his boat was half full of water and his oars were washed away. Well, sir, to make a long story short, he must have caught a current that carried him well out beyond Cape Cod, and then slewed him around the southern end of Nantucket island. I questioned him about lights and fog signals, and making due allowance for his condition, his yarn works out pretty straight. He'd been drifting about for three days when we picked him up and was half dead of thirst and hunger. But he's come around better than might be expected, and—"

"And then I interrupted him. "Three days without water?" I questioned.

"And without food, yes, sir." "When did he tell you this story?" "About six o'clock, sir."

"Could a starving man recover that quickly?" "He might, sir," MacLeod answered. "The average healthy man can go ten days without food or drink."

"What have you done with him?" "He's in the seaman's quarters, forward, sir."

"See that he's kept there, Mr. MacLeod," I told him. "I'd feel better if you put a watch on him tonight. Tomorrow we'll run in to Gloucester and look up his people and friends."

"Very good, sir." "Thank you."

I thought of having a look at Peter Johnson, myself, for I was somewhat curious to study that face again when it was sentient, and had eyes open, but on second thought I decided to wait until morning. It seemed silly to suspect this seemingly honest but unfortunate fisherman.

We had not been speeding so well during the afternoon; there was some trouble reported from the engine room, and it was a question whether we had made over fifteen knots an hour since two o'clock. I know that at ten o'clock that night, when the moon went down, we were somewhere east of Nantucket, and directly in the path of the transatlantic liners.

The night was balmy as a night in springtime, and Cameron and I in light overcoats sat on the after-deck, watching the moon slide slowly below the dark horizon line. Our chairs were close together, facing the lee rail; his the farther astern. We talked of many things, I remember. He was always interested in my work, and especially in my ambitions to make The Week a power for national good; and I remember that we discussed several projects I then had in mind for bringing about reform in high places. But the subject which then interested me most, and regarding which I still experienced a vague, unreasonable uneasiness, he had avoided throughout the day and evening, with what seemed to me studied intent.

The sudden cessation of hostilities on the part of those whom he had been given every reason to look upon as his implacable enemies, was certainly strange enough to have invited endless debate; and I marveled that, after having accepted my falsehood as truth, he had not chosen to go over with me the whole marvelously perplexing business.

His mind, I knew, was relieved by what I had made him believe, or he would not now be the man he was; but despite that, it appeared to me, it would be most natural for him, on this day of all days—the twenty-first of the month—to question, at least, my previously emphatically stated conclusions.

There had been a moment of silence between us, and these reflections were dominant with me, as his bells, ringing out musically, announced that midnight was but an hour distant. At that instant, while in time to the bell's strokes, there echoed in my brain the words: "Know then, that before the morning of the eighth day hence—" Cameron, lowering his cigar, turned to me with:

"Clyde, I wonder if you have forgotten what day this is?" "I don't know why, coming at just that particular juncture, the question should be more upsetting than if it had come at some other time of day, but I know it seemed so to me."

For a little space my tongue refused its office. There was a lump in my throat which demanded to be swallowed, and I made a pretense of coughing to hide my plight. At length I answered, a bit lamely:

"No, I haven't forgotten. It's Wednesday, the twenty-first of October."

He returned his cigar to his lips and smoked in silence for a full minute. Then, he said, quietly:

"It's seven days since that empty envelope came."

"Yes," I returned. There was another slight pause and he went on:

"I have been thinking that possibly you were wrong about the significance of that empty envelope. Possibly those enigmatical persons intended that absence of a definite threat to imply the inconceivably terrible."

Now that he had started to talk about it, I wished that he had continued his silence. I could not understand how I had convinced him before, knowing all the while that I was without truth to support me. Certainly now, pervaded as I was with that grim disquietude, it would be even more difficult to carry conviction with my words.

"Whatever they intended," I ventured, yielding a fraction of a point, "it seems to me that they'll have some difficulty in carrying it out. There are no portraits here to mutilate and no mirrors to smash. For the previous performances there must be some more or less simple explanation. Neither you nor I believe in the supernatural; therefore the things that happened at Cragholt were brought about by natural means, seemingly inexplicable as they were. Now no natural means can be brought to bear to perform any such legerdemain on this yacht. You know that. There's not a man here, except that poor old fisherman, that we don't know all and everything about. So, I say, no matter what they planned; this time they are outwitted."

And even as I said it, I saw clearly before my vision these words: "Say not Heaven is high above our deeds, daily inspecting us wheresoever we are."

"I don't agree with me? You think something may have been planned?" "I wouldn't pretend to interpret their symbolism," I answered evasively. "The empty envelope impressed me as synonymous with saying, 'Nothing more at present!' Even now I think that if they had meant to continue they would have said so. I'm almost sure they would."

I was quite sure, of course, but I dared not say so.

Cameron smoked on quietly for a while in a ruminative mood. Eventually he threw the end of his cigar over the rail, and leaned forward.

"The captain shrugged his shoulders. (TO BE CONTINUED.)"

"I don't know," he said perplexedly. "I don't know."

This I hoped was to be the end of the matter, for tonight at least; but presently he began to talk of those first two letters, to conjecture, to wonder, to dissect phrases, to dig out subtleties of meaning from euphemistic expressions. And then I knew that he had every word memorized, just as I had.

Seven bells had struck and we were still talking. But now and then there were pauses in our converse—intervals of silence of varying length—during which I sat with my gaze stretching out over the black waters and my hearing strained for any unusual sound. More than once during the evening I thought I had detected far off the pounding note of a motor boat's exhaust, but had put the notion aside as too improbable for entertainment. Now, faintly, I seemed to hear it again; not so distant, but muffled. I got up and stood close to the rail, and listened with ear bent. Then I determined to go to my cabin for a night glass which I had included among my traps. But at that moment the sound, which I had made sure of, ceased, and I stood a second or two longer, expecting it to resume.

Altogether it was not over a minute or two that I stood there. It seemed much less than that. Then I turned with a question for Cameron. I wondered whether he had heard the sound too.

"I say, Cam—" I began, and stopped, started, with his name half uttered. His chair was empty. He was not on deck. I ran to the saloon. He was not there. I flung open the door of his stateroom. He was not there, either. I had the yacht searched for him. He was not on the yacht.

CHAPTER IX.

A Craft Without Lights. Composure is second nature with me. I claim no credit for it; it is a matter of temperament rather than cultivation. But now my temperament was all awry, and my composure fled. I was excited. More than that, I was frantic, distracted, rattled. I wanted to do a dozen things at once; to get answers to a score of questions in a single moment. And the consequence may be imagined. For five—ten minutes, nothing was done whatever. Then the search-light was got into play, sweeping the waters on all sides, far and near; but with patery result. Five or six miles astern we made out a power boat, similar to that which I had seen through the glass earlier in the day. To the eastward a steamer, with two funnels was just coming into view. The white sails of a coasting schooner showed to westward. Trailing in our wake was our squallid salvage, the dory of the fisherman.

MacLeod, trained to coolness, retained his wits. Systematically he set to work. Likely and unlikely places aboard the yacht were looked into. Before I knew what he was about, we were going back over the way we had come with the search-light swinging in a circle and a half-dozen sharp-eyed seamen scanning every square foot of rolling wave.

"I can't understand it," I kept repeating aloud, with senseless iteration. "I can't understand it." "I was standing alone, well forward, leaning over the rail. Presently MacLeod laid a hand on my shoulder. "We can't do anything more than we are doing, Mr. Clyde," he said in his matter-of-fact way. "For my part, I can't understand it, either; but since Mr. Cameron's not aboard, there's only one conclusion, and that is that he's overboard. And since there was no one interested in throwing him there, then it seems very clear that he must have jumped."

"Jumped!" I cried, in irritation. "My God, man! Don't tell me that I was not three feet away from him, and only for a minute or two? How could he have jumped without my hearing him? How could he even have got out of his chair, without my hearing him?"

Strategy of a Bushman

How a Little Native of South Africa Put a Fierce Lion to Flight.

The little bushman of South Africa is not only small in size, but feeble in mind. Yet there is on record an encounter between a bushman and a lion which shows the man as cool in danger and fertile in resource. Harperts Weekly says: "This bushman, while a long way from home, was met by a lion. The animal, assured that he had his victim completely in his power, began to sport and dally with him with a feline jocosity which the poor little bushman failed to appreciate. The lion would appear at a point in the road and leap back again into the jungle, to reappear a little further on."

The bushman, however, did not lose his presence of mind and presently hit upon a device whereby he might outwit his foe. This plan was suggested by the lion's own conduct. "Aware that the beast was ahead of him, the bushman dodged to the right and feeling pretty sure of the lion's whereabouts resorted to the course of quietly watching his movements."

When the lion discovered that the man had suddenly disappeared from the path he was a good deal perplexed. He roared with mortification. Then he espied the bushman peeping at him over the grass.

The bushman at once changed his position, while the lion stood irresolute in the path, following with his eye the shifting black man. In another moment the little man rustled the reeds, vanished and showed himself at another point. The great brute was first confused and then alarmed. It evidently began to dawn upon him that he had mistaken the position of matters and that he was the hunted party. The bushman, who clearly recognized the situation, did not pause to permit the lion to recover his startled wits. He began to steal gradually toward the foe, who now, in a complete state of doubt and fear, turned tail and decamped, leaving the plucky and ingenious little bushman master of the situation.

Along the Peruvian Coast. Off shore—there was neither bar, nor light in the even line of surf—a deserted brigantine at anchor dipped slowly with the long Pacific swells, its yards and decks whited like a leper from the unmolesed frigate birds and sea fowl that made it home. Beyond, and there, a patched sail of no particular size or shape was barely filled by the lightest of breezes; occasionally as one crept past the outfit developed into a raft on the after part of which raised a rough platform of palm on which was housed the Indian fisherman and his crew or family. A few abandoned square tins—the well-known export tins of Rockefeller—held the drinking water, an earthen pot their food, and on this flimsy contraption they would put out miles to sea. In beating to windward a loose board or piece from a packing case is poled through the crevices to act as a centerboard.—Outing.

Value of Swimming Lessons. Florence Sheppard, a Windsor school-girl, recently demonstrated the value of swimming being included in the school curriculum, when in a most plucky manner she rescued another little girl, aged five years, from drowning in the Thames. Without waiting to call for help, Miss Sheppard jumped into the river and went to the rescue of her companion, who had already gone down twice before she reached her.—London Telegraph.

Middle Mem. Modesty has been said to be woman's last and finest garment.

SETTING TABLE TO DO HONOR TO ST. VALENTINE

SOMEHOW or other, Cupid never seems half so busy as at St. Valentine's day. Then the little god of love holds full sway. How Cupid came to be connected with the idea of St. Valentine's day is rather vague. There has been a current belief for ages that on the fourteenth of February the birds choose their mates; possibly that is the origin of the idea.

St. Valentine lived in the third century, and ever since that period his birthday, the fourteenth of February, has been named in his honor.

Formerly it was the custom on St. Valentine's eve to drop an equal number of names of young men and women in a box. The maiden whose name was drawn was presumed to be the young man's valentine. This was considered an omen predicting the happy termination of a love affair.

The old-fashioned valentines were usually "home-made" with the verses written especially for the person they were intended for and conveyed many real affectionate sentiments. Though the present valentines are factory made, and many thousands can be bought of similar kind, surely the maiden of today welcomes the verses printed on lace paper and decorated with hearts, or forget-me-nots, with much the same enthusiasm as did the girl of long ago, for a valentine is a message fragrant with love, or friendship, and causes many a heart-throb.

The day which has an entrancing charm, especially for young people and children, is a favorite occasion on which to entertain friends. A Valentine's party could be called a "heart party," because hearts play such a prominent part in the decorations and games.

"All the world loves a lover." So perhaps that is the reason valentine affairs are so popular. With little expense one can decorate a table for a valentine luncheon, or dinner, which will call forth expressions of surprise and admiration from your guests.

Send your invitations on heart-shaped cards, or postal card valentines. If it is to be a children's party, buy a supply of candy motives and hide them in different places about the room, then allow 20 minutes for a merry hunt. Award a prize, something that is in keeping with the event, to the one who collects the greatest number.

Another way to entertain the youngsters is to have a large heart of paper with a small red heart in the center. Blindfold each child in turn and see who can pin a paper arrow nearest the heart.

An interesting game which adds to enjoyment of the affair is to cut paper hearts of different colors in small pieces and scatter them about the room. Award a prize to the one who is successful in putting together the most hearts of the same shade. If the guests are old enough, request each one to write an original valentine, either serious or comical, addressed to another child; read the verses aloud and let the children judge which is the cleverest.

A unique way to choose partners for the supper is made by having an immense heart of cardboard covered in red crepe paper. The girls take turns in standing in front of the heart, while the boys march in front of them to the music of some lively song. When the player stops suddenly the girl who is framed in the heart becomes the partner of the youth in front of her.

Red and white have always been the acceptable colors for decorating a valentine table, but lately there has been a strong indication towards pink. Cupids, hearts, bows and arrows, are the most appropriate decorations for this holiday. "All the world loves a lover" so the more hearts and Cupids that adorn the table, the prettier the effect will be.

The table illustrated had two ruffles of crepe paper gathered around the edge of the table as a soft background for the drapery of hearts cut out of red crepe paper in graduating sizes; these hearts were strung on red baby ribbon. The candle shades were of white and red hearts pasted on. The nut boxes were in the form of hearts decorated with small cardboard Cupids. The place cards are four inch hearts set in the corner of a gilded card. The favors are three inch hearts of white with a small red heart in the center. These hearts are fastened to a gilded stock and finished with a bow of red ribbon or crepe paper.

The centerpiece is suspended from the chandelier and is made of three fourteen inch hearts tied together with red baby ribbon. This forms sort of a Jack Horner bag, which can be used to hold valentines or souvenirs. Strings of smaller hearts hang from the center. The large hearts have an arrow pierced through them.

For the menu carry out the "heart idea." The sandwiches can be cut heart shaped with a cookie cutter. The salad can be decorated with hearts cut out of pickled beets. The ice cream can be served heart shaped and decorated with candy hearts. A pretty cake has candy mottoes placed all over the surface of the cake before the icing is hard. Each one has to read their motto aloud. Two rings are baked in the cake. The parties receiving the rings are supposed to be the next married.

Decorations well worth the effort, and different from any other table, had for its main decoration a chariot placed in the center of the table. This chariot is easily made of cardboard and covered with crepe paper, or a little toy wagon can be used, either gilded or covered with fringed paper. The chariot is trimmed either with small roses or carnations. A small doll is dressed as Cupid with sash and wings made of crepe paper of tulle, glittered with gold. The doll stands in the center of the chariot holding ribbons which are long enough to reach to each plate, a place card decorated with small cardboard Cupids holding a rose are attached to each ribbon. A small strip of party-board is pasted to the back of the card to form an easel so the cards stand up.

The favors are attractive nosegays of artificial roses, with tiny hearts hung among them. The rose idea can be carried out further by hanging garlands of artificial roses around the table.

On the place cards write a compliment for each person commencing each word with the letter of their name, and let them find their places in that way.

These ideas may help you to originate others of your own, possibly no other festive occasion offers so many ways to decorate and entertain in a "heart" way.

The favors are small nosegays or artificial hearts with small hearts hung among them. A valentine design in crepe paper is ruffled around the table and finished with garlands of artificial flowers. Candy Cupids are easily obtained at this season of the year. The favors are small envelopes containing hearts made of silk or paper. Some hearts are large, while some are small. Some are soft, and some are hard. All kinds of hearts which are supposed to be the heart fortune of the recipient.

The decorations for a valentine table can be made with little expense, and as the work progresses you will find yourself originating many unique ideas. Every hostess aims to have her affair just a little bit different than previous ones, and when your guests see the results of your efforts with exclamations of admiration, you will feel amply repaid.

The Sea Gull. The woods are full of merry minstrelsy; Glad are the hedges with the notes of spring. But o'er the sad and uncompanioned sea No love-lorn voice rings.

Gray mariner of every ocean clime, If I could wander on as sure a wing, Or boat with yellow web thy pathless sea, I, too, might cease to sigh.

Would I could share thy silver-flashing swoop, Thy steady poise above the bounding deep, Or buoyant boat with thine instinctive trust, Rocked in a dreamless sleep!

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh of the Bladder. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment, Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

A TONIC LAXATIVE

Pe-ru-na, an Up-to-Date Family Medicine That Should Be In Every Home

S. B. HARTMAN, M. D.

Nearly everybody is obliged more or less to take a laxative. There are of course a few exceptions. A great many people also need occasionally to take a tonic. Probably few households exist that do not make use of tonics and laxatives.

The remedy Peruna is a laxative tonic. It not only operates as a gentle laxative, but also as a tonic.

The benefit derived from such a remedy is a great deal more in the prevention of disease than in the cure. After a person has really become sick, it is not only difficult to get him to eat, but it is also difficult to get him to take medicine. It is therefore better to prevent disease than to cure it.

The benefit derived from such a remedy is a great deal more in the prevention of disease than in the cure. After a person has really become sick, it is not only difficult to get him to eat, but it is also difficult to get him to take medicine. It is therefore better to prevent disease than to cure it.

MEAN OF HIM.

Newswid—Say, old man, don't you know what I miss by not being married?

Bachelor—I guess not. Do you count your money every night and morn'g?

Temperate Humanity.

The driver of a brewery wagon stopped at a restaurant where he delivered beer and prepared to water his horses. He had filled a pail from the street hydrant and was about to offer it to the near horse when the command "Put that down" caused him to drop the bucket with a splash. Then a woman plunged a thermometer into the water.

"Too cold by several degrees," she said. "Get a pail of hot water from the restaurant."

The driver mumbled "What for?" but he was awed by the woman's commanding manner and he fetched the hot water as directed.

"Now," she said, "pour some of that cold water out and pour hot water into the pail until it registers about 57 degrees. Then water your horses. It is crucial to make a horse drink water colder than that, and every member of the S. P. C. A. that I have any influence with is going to keep an eye on you drivers and see that you temper the water you give to your horses."

Hit the Danger Spot.

A tippler with a very red nose got a day's work as a laborer in a boiler works. The same day he appeared before the surgeon at the hospital with his nose smashed.

"Good gracious!" exclaimed the surgeon. "How did you manage to get your nose smashed like that?"

"Oh, cried the sufferer, "I put my nose through a hole in the boiler for a sniff of fresh air, and the man outside with the hammer mistook it for a red-hot rivet. And he only hit once—that's all."

Prefers a Big Ton.

Customer—I want a ton of coal.

Dealer—Yes, sir. What size?

Customer—Well, if it's not asking too much, I'd like to have a 2,000 pound ton.

Constipation causes and aggravates many serious diseases. It is thoroughly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Laxative. The favorite family laxative. Adv.

Appropriate Connections.

"So Miss Jiggers had an eye to the vaudeville stage."

"Yes, but she got the hook."

Its Kind.

"Don't you think this Peace Prize idea is a grand thing?"

"Truly, it is a Nobel thought."

Baker, Prop., 118 Boston St., Boston, Mass.

sense has really gained a foothold in the system, a person was to take a dose or two of a good tonic laxative the great majority of cases of sickness would be prevented.

Peruna is a remedy that should be kept in the house. Its virtue as a preventive to disease is the thing I wish chiefly to emphasize.

A slight condition of constipation may lead to serious sluggishness of the bowels, biliousness, reabsorption of poisonous matters and finally sickness. Or spasm of the stomach in which the food is not released, may gradually lead to atonic dyspepsia or to the acquisition of some acute disease. For either one of these conditions a few doses of the tonic laxative Peruna would set matters right. This is why the remedy should always be kept handy.

When once the value of Peruna as a household remedy is understood no home would be without it. Cathartics, pills and powders would be discarded. Irritating factors would be no longer taken. Alcoholic drinks would have no place. With a few doses of Peruna a vigorous appetite is produced and if there be any sluggishness of the bowels their function is gradually restored.

Most laxatives are weakening in their effect. A tonic laxative guards against this weakening effect. Until right living has become so thoroughly established that all medicines are superfluous, Peruna will be needed. It is exactly the remedy that meets numerous necessities of the household. Sold at all drug stores.

Mr. John B. Perkins, 22 Whiting St., Plymouth, Mass., writes: "I think Peruna is a number one medicine. I was troubled with catarrh and bowel complaint. I tried several doctors, but could only find temporary relief. I took Peruna and am glad to say that it cured my catarrh and corrected my bowels."

Peruna, Man-a-lin and Lascopia manufactured by the Peruna Company, Columbus, Ohio. Sold at all drug stores.

SPECIAL NOTICE—Many persons inquire for the Old-Time Peruna. We have the Peruna that the River Fathers and Mothers used to take. The old Peruna is now called Katarina. If your druggist or dealer does not keep it for sale write the Katarina Company, Columbus, Ohio, and they will tell you all about it.

ONE SALOON FOR EACH 500 PERSONS

ASSEMBLYMAN GANNON'S BILL FOR REPEAL OF THE BAKER LAW.

SHORTER HOURS FOR CLERKS

Madison.—A bill to repeal the Baker law was introduced by Assemblyman Phillip Gannon of Superior. It provides that a saloon license shall be issued to an individual for every 500 inhabitants instead of 200 as at present. By making the license to an individual it makes them transferable, but only one transfer is allowed to each license. The bill is effective the first Tuesday in July.

The Frederick bill provides a fine of from $5 to $25 for permitting horses to remain in the cold on the streets or highways.

Mr. Hinkel of Milwaukee introduced a bill permitting cities of the first and second classes to establish a municipal bank and Mr. Richards offered one by request which requires only one year's residence in the state instead of two as a requisite to securing a divorce.

Shorter Hours for Drug Clerks.

A bill by Mr. Walsh offers relief to overworked drug clerks. It provides that drug stores may not keep open from 8 to 10 a. m. Sundays and from 6 to 8 p. m. Employees are limited to 65 hours labor weekly with 24 hours of every fourteen days. This is like the New York and Oregon laws on the subject. Mr. Walsh also offered a bill requiring railroad, telegraph or public utility companies to pay their employees taxes biweekly or at shorter intervals, if it is so agreed. Several exceptions, notably as to traveling men, are provided for.

Inheritance Commission Claims.

A claim for $3,647.07 as commissions due for services in the collection of inheritance taxes bobbed up in the senate together with a contract executed on behalf of the state by Gov. J. O. Davidson and Attorney General Frank L. Gilbert in an agreement to pay to the claimant, Alfred Yankman of New York, for such services. The contract was executed May 23, 1910, and the claim is for services in connection with thirty-nine estates, the duties of service running from April, 1911, to December, 1912, the last being in the matter of the estate of Russell Sage. The claim was referred to the finance committee for investigation.

REALLY NAMED FOR STATE

Mississippi River Steamers Originated Cognomen That Has Now Become Universal.

On the Mississippi river in olden days the passenger steamboats were very ornate affairs, vying with each other in garish glory. One owner hit on the idea of naming his steamboat's cabins instead of numbering them. So he named them in honor of the states of the union, each having above the door the gilt title of some state, the big central cabin being called the "Texas" after the largest state. Other boat owners took up the idea, and thus the word cabin was gradually alternated by "state" room. For years the best cabin was still known as the Texas. Then that sobriquet died with the ebbing glory of the old river steamers. But the word "stateroom" became incorporated into our language, and in time even broke into the dictionary, as does many another catch phrase. Not one person in a thousand who occupies a stateroom knows the term once meant "a room named for a state."

Brightening Flower Pots.

Flower pots frequently fade into a dingy color from their original bright and cheerful brick red. They may be easily brightened again by putting ordinary red ochre in water until it is about as thick as paint, then painting the flower pot, which absorbs the color and holds it.

His Status.

"Is that druggist well thought of in the community?"

"Sure. Isn't he a pillar of the church?"

His Calliber.

"Humph! He must be a man of mettle."

There isn't much use in turning over a new leaf unless you put a weight on it.

COFFEE THRESHED HER.

"For over fifteen years," writes a patient, hopeful little hills woman, "while a coffee drinker, I suffered from Spinal Irritation and Nervous trouble. I was treated by good physicians, but did not get much relief."

"I never suspected that coffee might be aggravating by condition. (Tea is just as injurious, because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.) I was down-hearted and discouraged, but prayed daily that I might find something to help me."

"Several years ago, while at a friend's house I drank a cup of Postum and though I had never tasted anything more delicious."

"From that time on I used Postum instead of coffee and soon began to improve in health, so that now I can walk half a dozen blocks or more with ease, and do many other things that I never thought I would be able to do again in this world."

"My appetite is good, I sleep well and find life is worth living. A lady of my acquaintance said she did not like Postum, it was so weak and tasteless."

"I explained to her the difference when it is made right—boiled according to directions. She was glad to know this because coffee did not agree with her. Now her folks say they expect to use Postum the rest of their lives." Name given upon request. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

"Postum now comes in concentrated, powder form, called Instant Postum. It is prepared by stirring a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water, adding sugar to taste, and enough cream to bring the color to golden brown."

Instant Postum is convenient; there's no waste; and the flavor is always uniform. Sold by grocers—45 to 50-cup tin 20 cts., 90 to 100-cup tin 50 cts.

A 5-cup trial tin mailed for grocer's name and 2-cent stamp for postage. Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.—Adv.

Income Tax Amendment.

Senator Killeu in behalf of the tax commission has introduced important amendments to the income tax law. The most important change in the law relates to the amendment of the schedule and rate as it applies to assessments of corporations. The first amendment of significance prohibits the voting of excessive or unreasonable salaries to members of a firm or corporation so that the purposes of the income tax law can not be defeated. When only a part of the income is assessed, only a corresponding deduction can be made in payments.

Initiative and Referendum Passed. The assembly has followed the example of the legislature of two years ago and went on record overwhelmingly in favor of the initiative and referendum. The vote by which the constitutional amendment resolution was advanced through the assembly in its course through a second legislature was 69 to 12. After the measure passes the senate, which it undoubtedly will, it will be ready for submission to the people.

Would Change Primary Law. An amendment to the primary election law was offered by Assemblyman Allison. It provides that candidates for a party nomination must swear they voted for a majority of the candidates of that party at the last election. It also provides for the payment of fees by candidates to go toward the expenses of the primary. The highest fee to be charged is $100 for candidates for the United States senate and the amount of the fee is graded downward.

The Hansen bill permitting county boards in their discretion to increase the per diem pay of members from $3 to a maximum of $5 was killed, 50 to 32, the committee's report being upheld. Everett's bill for the naming of farms was likewise defeated, as was Roesler's relating to duties of county treasurers and clerks and asylum trustees. The Smith bills permitting "peaceful picketing" and prohibiting "coercing or influencing" of employers to discharged employees were also killed.

The state board of agriculture, which met Monday night, audited the bills of the last state fair held in Milwaukee in September and found that it would have about $7,500 which to begin preparations for the next state fair. The board will ask the legislature to appropriate about $200,000 to provide for permanent improvements during the ensuing year.

Other important calendar work done in the assembly included the indefinite postponement of the Ross bill to give owners of cattle slaughtered for supposed tuberculin tendencies, but found not to be diseased, full compensation for the animals.

GREAT DISCOVERY OF IRON ORE MADE

LARGE AREA IN SOUTHEASTERN WISCONSIN FOUND TO BE RICH IN MINERALS.

DEPOSITS IN THREE COUNTIES

Big Mining Corporation Seeks Leases on Lands in the Kickapoo River Valley as Result of Recent Exploration and Tests of Ore Bodies.

Milwaukee.—What may be the greatest iron ore discovery in the world's history, become known here with the arrival here of Frank R. Honzel of Prairie du Chien to close arrangements for the leases on an enormous tract of land to a local representative of some of the biggest mining operators in the United States.

The tract is in the southwestern part of Wisconsin, extends over parts of three counties, and the discoverers believe that an area sixty miles long and forty miles wide is largely underlaid with iron ore of a rich percentage in metallic iron. Assays range from 54 per cent to over 60 per cent metallic iron, most of it non-bessemer, but with possibilities of development and the amount of the ore is graded downward.

The ore is near the surface, being in places only twenty feet below the surface, while in the best exposed tract the mineral is eighty feet below the surface, and has been tested through a depth of forty feet. The properties include a deposit of red hematite, assaying over 60 per cent, near Viroqua in Vernon county. This is as far north as the explorations have proceeded. In the center of the field, in the Kickapoo valley, one of the oldest settled portions of the state, is a deposit of limonite, this being the forty acre tract thoroughly explored. Surrounding properties bear extensive outcroppings. Still further to the south, nearly fifty miles from Viroqua, is another deposit of hematite, near Roscobol.

AGED COUPLE FOUND SLAIN

Avoid Rentz, Young Man Living in Neighborhood, Near Sparta, Confesses of Crime.

Sparta.—Arrested on suspicion of being implicated in the murder of Mr. and Mrs. August Harmon, who lived on a farm six miles from this city, Avoid Rentz, a young man living on an adjoining farm, was arrested and is now lodged in the Sparta jail. The authorities claim that he has confessed the crime.

The terribly mutilated and bloody corpses of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon were discovered by two neighbor lads, sons of Martin Schultz, who went to the house on an errand for their father. They discovered the body of Mr. Harmon clad in an overcoat about six rods from the house. There was evidence of a desperate struggle in the tracks about the spot where the body lay. Going into the house, the boys found the body of Mrs. Harmon in the kitchen, with her face badly battered and her clothes, head and arms covered with frozen blood. The floor, chairs, table and walls were splashed with blood and the overturned chairs bore mute evidence of there having been another terrific struggle between the aged victim and her slayer.

The strong box in which Harmon had kept some money, and valuable papers, was found near a corn crib not far from the farmer's body. It had been broken open and the money had been taken.

Mueller, Portage; vice-president, H. Blumenthal, Columbus; secretary, G. F. Kexler, Plymouth; treasurer, Henry Scheele, Jr., Sheboygan.

Shoots at Girl; Slays Self.

Superior.—Vernon Delaney, a student at the Superior normal school, after a quarrel at a dance at Trego, attempted to shoot Helen Sawlees and the shot struck her brother. He then killed himself.

Racine Woman Cremated.

Racine.—Mrs. Frederick Miller was fatally burned when she mistook the gasoline can for that containing kerosene. She poured the contents on a fire and an explosion followed.

Co-Operate for Good Roads.

Reedsburg.—The business men of this city and the farmers surrounding are co-operating with a view to making public highways leading into Reedsburg the best in the state.

Runners Cut Lad in Two.

Shawano.—The 10-year-old son of Otto Fischer was killed when a six-ton watering tank used to sprinkle the ice roads at a logging camp near here ran over him. His body was nearly severed by the sharp runners.

To Start Mail Delivery.

Washington.—The first assistant postmaster general has directed an investigation preliminary to instituting the free delivery service at Sturgeon Bay, Wis.

Postoffice for Menomonie.

Menomonie.—Word is received from Washington that the contract for the $50,000 postoffice here has been awarded. The government purchased a site two years ago for $10,000.

Burglars at Spring Green.

Spring Green.—The business places of Lins & Hood and W. G. Carroll were entered by thieves who entered the rear windows. Clothing and $70 was the booty taken.

Infantile Paralysis.

The horrors of infantile paralysis will not be alleviated by the note of Dr. Simon Flexner and two associates, appearing in the Journal of the American Medical Association, that the healthy parents of patients may be carriers of the disease. Dr. Flexner reports that washings from the nasopharynx of the parents of a child suffering from an acute attack were inoculated on October 28 last in a monkey, the Macacus cynomolgus.

Recovery from the anaesthetic was prompt and the animal remained well until November 11, when it was noted to be excitable and to drag the right leg. The left leg proved to be weak November 12 the right leg was definitely flaccid.

Two days later portions of the spinal cord and medulla "showed typical lesions of experimental poliomyelitis."

Irreclaimable Skeptic.

How big an income should a young man have before he is justified in getting married? This question is asked in various departments of the Sunday papers at various seasons of the year, and it is variously answered. Conditions change and domestic happiness changes with the conditions.

The best answer we remember to have heard was given by a cynical bachelor and skeptic last week. This person was in the newspaper office when the woman editor opened her mail and read forth this question: "Could a young couple be happy on $900 a year?"

"Sure they could," answered the skeptic eagerly. "They couldn't live together on it."

To Pop Corn.

Very often corn will not pop quickly, even over a very hot fire. If you will put the corn to be popped in a sieve and pour cold water over it, not allowing the water to stand on the corn, it will not only pop quickly, but be open kernels will be larger and lighter and more flaky than they otherwise would have been.

The Young Bride's First Discovery.

Their wedding tour had ended, and they entered their new home to settle down to what they hoped to be one long uninterrupted blissful honeymoon.

But alas! the young bride's troubles soon began, when she tried to reduce the cost of living with cheap big cake baking powder. She soon discovered that all she got was a lot for her money, and was not at all baking powder, for the bulk it was cheap materials which had no leavening power. Such powder always uniform and wholesome food. And because of the absence of leavening gas, it requires from two to three times as much to raise cakes or biscuits as it does of Calumet Baking Powder.

Thus, eventually, the actual cost to you of cheap baking powders is more than Calumet would be.

Cheap baking powders often leave the bread bleached and acid, sometimes yellow and alluring, and often unpalatable. They are not always of uniform strength and quality.

Now the bride buys Calumet—the perfectly wholesome baking powder, moderate in price and always uniform and reliable. Calumet keeps indefinitely, makes good cooking easy, and is certainly the most economical. ## After Long Suffering

Women Are Constantly Being Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Worth mountains of gold," says one woman. Another says, "I would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all the other medicines for women in the world." Still another writes, "I should like to have the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound thrown on the sky with a searchlight so that all suffering women could read and be convinced that there is a remedy for their ills."

We could fill a newspaper ten times the size of this with such quotations taken from the letters we have received from grateful women whose health has been restored and suffering banished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Why has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound accomplished such a universal success? Why has it lived and thrived and kept on doing its glorious work among the sick women of the world for more than 30 years?

Simply and surely because of its sterling worth. The reason no other medicine has ever approached its success is plainly and simply because there is no other medicine so good for women's ills.

Here are two letters that just came to the writer's desk—only two of thousands, but both tell a comforting story to every suffering woman who will read them—and be guided by them.

FROM LINCOLN'S GREAT SPEECHES

I had not provided the flag; I had not made the arrangements for elevating it to its place. I had applied but a very small portion of my feeble strength in raising it. In the whole transaction I was in the hands of the people who had arranged it. And if I can have the same generous co-operation of the people of the nation, I think the flag of our country may still be kept floating gloriously.

Speech in Independence Hall, Feb. 22, 1861.

I am loath to close. We are not enemies, but friends. We must not be enemies. Though passion may have strained, it must not break our bonds of affection. The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriotic grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angles of our nature.

First Inaugural Address, March 4, 1861.

In regard to the Great Book, I have only to say that it is the best gift which God has given man. All the good from the Saviour of the world is communicated to us through this book. But for this book we could not know right from wrong. All those things to man are contained in it.

Receiving a Bible from Colored People of Baltimore, October, 1864.

The importance for man and beast of the prescribed weekly rest, and the sacred rights of Christian soldiers and sailors, a becoming interest in the best sentiments of a Christian people, and a due regard for the Divine will, demand that Sunday labor in the army and navy be reduced to the measure of strict necessity.

General Orders, November 15, 1862.

Lincoln's Usual Swear Word.

On one occasion Lincoln, when entering the telegraph office, was heard to remark to Secretary Seward, "By jings, governor, we are here at last." Turning to him in a reproving manner, Mr. Seward said: "Mr. President, where did you learn that inelegant expression?" Without replying to the secretary, Lincoln addressed the operator, saying: "Young gentlemen, excuse me for swearing before you. 'By jings' is swearing, for my good old mother taught me that anything that had a 'j' before it was swearing. The only time, however, that Lincoln was ever heard really to swear was on the occasion of his receiving a telegram from Burnside, who had been ordered a week before to go on to the relief of Rosecrans at Chattanooga, who was in great danger of an attack from Bragg. On that day Burnside telegraphed from Jonesboro, further away from Rosecrans than he was when he received the order to hurry toward him. When Burnside's telegram was placed in Lincoln's hands he said, 'D—n Jonesboro!' He then telegraphed Burnside as follows:

"If you are to do any good to Rosecrans it will not do to waste time at Jonesboro. A. LINCOLN"

Abraham Lincoln
By W. J. LAMPTON

WHICH reminds me—
He loved sunshine
And through the drear-
ful night
That held his land
In its bloody hand
He was the beacon light
Of Freedom and of Union,
And sad, though brave and strong,
He held the Nation faithful
To right instead of wrong.

"Which reminds me"—that the glory
Of Lincoln shall not fade,
And what he gave
To freedom and slave
Forevermore has made
This Nation one in spirit,
The spirit that shall hold
Our Flag unfurled
To the whole wide world
In a story God has told.

ALWAYS NEAR CAPITAL
Lincoln Never Had Complete Rest During Civil War.

Unpretentious House, a Cottage in the Soldiers' Home Grounds, Where He Spent the Hot Months. Still is Object of Reverent Interest.

While our recent national chief executives have fled from Washington and its summer heat and moved to cool summer capitals, as, for instance, Buzzards Bay, Oyster Bay and Beverly, Lincoln in his day was forced over to remain on guard in the nation's capital the year through.

During his four troublous years in Washington he took no vacation and his summer residence was within easy ride of the seat of government. The Anderson cottage, in the soldiers' home grounds, was his summer home, and it was here, guarded by a company of cavalry, that he lived while handling the reins of government through the Civil War. He rode to the White House every day and returned at night, the hour more often than not being late.

His simplicity of taste was such that he would gladly have ridden without escort, but the secretary of war, the trenchant Stanton, insisted on the cavalry escort, for the president's safety.

Lincoln said he did not want it; he "couldn't hear himself think" with the soldiers clattering along beside, before and behind him. But with his usual complaisance in what he deemed non-essentials, he yielded. Sometimes he rode horse-back, accompanied by the escort. At times he was called on to make a sudden journey from his cottage to the White House. One such call was on the receipt of news of the reverse at Chickamauga.

But with his usual complaisance in what he deemed non-essentials, he yielded. Sometimes he rode horse-back, accompanied by the escort. At times he was called on to make a sudden journey from his cottage to the White House. One such call was on the receipt of news of the reverse at Chickamauga.

Lincoln's Summer Home.

In the moonlight to the White House, to take up the task of organizing the means of ultimate triumph out of what looked like defeat.

Visitors to Washington today look at the summer home of Lincoln with reverent interest. It is about four miles from the White House, to the north, and though tall bellfines lie between it and the heart of the city, a little vista has been kept open through which may be seen from the grounds the dome of the Capitol.

Why Lincoln Laughed.

Lincoln was annoyed greatly in the spring of 1863 by a trio of doctors representing the homeopathic interests, says the Philadelphia Times. The president listened to them patiently day after day, and finally dismissed them by saying he was too busy with the war to give the matter attention. The doctors then tried Stanton, but he told them they must get the decision from Lincoln himself. When they returned Lincoln greeted them with a loud, unctuous laugh, and explained the mirth, when asked, by saying he had been thinking of the story of a boy who tried in Sunday school to read the biblical passage about the three men who went down into the fiery furnace. Their names—Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego—troubled the boy greatly; he could not pronounce them. The teacher helped him twice; but again he encountered the names in his reading and began to cry.

"Don't cry, Johnnie," said the teacher.

"I c-can't h-help it!" sobbed Johnnie, "for here comes those three d—n fools again!"

But the pests had fled.

Lincoln and the Humorists.

During some of Lincoln's daily visits to the war department there were many spare moments while he waited for fresh news from the front or for the translation of cipher messages, and when he did not fill up the otherwise idle time by telling stories he would read aloud some humorous article from a newspaper, as, for instance, Orpheus C. Kerr's droll reports from Mackerelville, or Petroleum V. Nasby's letters in sarcasitic vein; at other times Artemus Ward's inimitable lectures. Some of Nasby's letters were irresistibly funny, especially those relating to the continuous struggle for the postoffice at "Confederate Cross Roads" and to the backwardness of some of our generals, relates David Homer Bates in the Century.

CUT THIS OUT
Recipe that Breaks a Cold in a Day and Cures Any Curable Cough.

"From your druggist get half ounce of Globe Pine Compound (Concentrated Pine) and two ounces of Glycerine. Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half pint of good whiskey, shake well and use in doses of one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bedtime. Smaller doses to children according to age. But be sure to get only the genuine Globe Pine Compound (Concentrated Pine). Each half ounce bottle comes in a sealed tin screw-top case. If your druggist does not have it he will quickly get it. Many mixtures are of large quantity and cheap, but it is risky to experiment. This formula comes from a reliable doctor and is certain. This was first published here six years ago and local druggists say it has been in constant demand ever since. Published by the Globe Pharmaceutical Laboratories of Chicago.

FACE A SIGHT WITH TETTER

Moberly, Mo.—"My trouble began with a small pimple on the left side of my face and it spread all over my face and to my neck. It would be scarlet red when I got warm. My face was a sight. It looked very unpleasant, and it felt uncomfortable. My face was in agony all the time. Some said it was tetter, and some said it was that awful eczema, but I rather think it was tetter. I had been troubled with it for about two years and tried many remedies, but got no relief until I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

"When I would wash my face with the Cuticura Soap and apply the Cuticura Ointment it would cool my skin and draw great big drops of matter out of the skin. You would think I was sweating; it would run down my face just as though I had washed it. It itched and smarted and I suffered in the day time most. I used the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment for a month and I was cured of it." (Signed) Mrs. J. Brookshire, April 15, 1912.

When the Peanuts Ran Out.

For two hours an old back country man, who had never before seen an elephant, had been standing before a row of them in enrapt silence dealing out peanuts one at a time. When the last was gone and no more forthcoming, Jumbo, the largest elephant, reached over and removed the enterprising man's hat from his head to the top of a lion's cage nearby.

For the first time in two hours the old man expressed his emotions in words: "You old two-tailed Indian-rubber nuisance you!" he exclaimed, indignantly. "If I knew which end your head was on, I'd slap your face."

BOY OBEYED ORDERS GIVEN
Meant Well, But Information Was Not Welcomed by Hotel Manager Just at That Time.

A certain New York hotel manager is one of these nervous men who constantly warn their employees against keeping them in ignorance of any happening around the place. He hired a new bell boy recently, and gave him the usual warning:

"Remember," he warned, "if anything happens around here I'm to be the first person to know about it."

Soon after that he was showing three haughty Daughters of the Confederacy one of the best rooms in the place, when the new bell boy rushed in with his hair on end.

"Something's happened!" he yelled.

The three Daughters of the Confederacy turned coldly, and the manager, anxious to get rid of the boy, demanded to know the trouble.

"That old cat down stairs," said the boy, "has just had kittens! What shall we do?"

The manager's suggestion was rough.

Two old cronies had been sitting in cafe on Cortland street one Saturday afternoon for several hours and were pretty much the worse for their lengthy tea-sate.

"Well, I'll tell you, Bob. My father came from Glasgow, so you see I'm half Scotch."

"And the other half settler, I guess," put in his companion.—Saturday Evening Post.

WHY THE MEAL WAS HALTED

Nothing Seriously Wrong, but Old Gentleman Had Some Trouble With the Elusive Onion.

An aged country couple, on the urgent invitation of a grandson who lived in the city, were on for a visit. The grandson's wife was very anxious that the first meal should be one which the aged couple would enjoy after their long ride in the train, and accordingly the table groaned under its burden of good things to eat.

In the course of the repast she noticed several times that the old man seemed to be making little progress with the meal.

"What is the matter, grandfather?" she asked, "don't you like my dinner?"

"No, no, granddaughter," mumbled the old man, "it isn't that. Only I've a pickled onion in my mouth, and I ain't got but one tooth left, so it's harder'n Sam Hill to catch it, it's so lively. Just rest easy a spell till I get a hot on it and I'll be all right!"

"What do you mean by bringing home a bird of that size?"

"Well, we can make up for the size by stuffing it good."

"Pop," he said, "my teacher don't know nothin'!"

"Why, son, what's the matter now?" asked the father.

"Well," replied the youngster, "she held a big red apple up in front of us this morning and said: 'Children, what is this I have in my hand?'"—Indianapolis News.

Think Before You Speak.

If thou thinkest twice before thou speakest once thou wilt speak twice the better for it. Better say nothing than not to the purpose. And, to speak pertinently, consider both what is fit and when it is fit to speak. In all debates let truth be thy aim, not victory, or an unjust interest; and endeavor to gain rather than to expose thy antagonist.—William Penn.

A cloth jacket is warmer than a fur lined coat, there being less temptation to leave it open.

Friendly Blow.

Louis Brownlow, Washington newspaper man, paused in a drug store in Greensboro, N. C., not so long ago, to ask for a match. While he was there a young colored chap came running in with a big bash the whole length of his skull, and apparently a good deal put out about some accident that had befallen him.

"What's happened to you?" asked Brownlow, excitedly but sympathetically.

"A friend hit me with a batchet," replied the bleeding stranger.

Acid Kills Waterfowl.

That sulphuric acid, discharged into the water of Grant Salt Lake, Utah, is responsible for the death of two million water fowl last year has been ascertained by Dr. Buckley of the pathological division of the bureau of animal industry. The American Game Protective Association sent Dr. Buckley to Salt Lake City, thinking that some contagious disease caused the death of so many birds.

Higher Up.

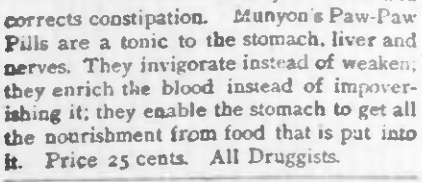

"I suppose you have tried motoring, judge?" he asked.

"No, I have not," replied the judge, "but I have tried a lot of people who have."—Pathfinder.

CONSTIPATION

Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are the most reliable laxatives or cathartics. They coax the liver into activity by gentle methods, they do not scour; they do not grip; they do not weaken; but they do start all the secretions of the liver and stomach in a way that soon puts these organs in a healthy condition and corrects constipation. Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are a tonic to the stomach, liver and nerves. They invigorate instead of weaken; they enrich the blood instead of impoverishing it; they enable the stomach to get all the nourishment from food that is put into it. Price 25 cents. All Druggists.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

NO ALCOHOL NO NARCOTICS

Has been recommended for over forty years as a remedy for ailments peculiar to women. Thousands of grateful women have testified to its effectiveness. You, too, will find it beneficial. As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health.

This tonic, in liquid form, was devised over 40 years ago for the womanly system, by R. V. Pierce, M. D., and has benefited many thousand women. Now it can also be obtained in tablet form—from dealers in medicine, or send 50 one-cent stamps for a trial box.

Every woman ought to possess Dr. Pierce's great book, the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a magnificent thousand-page illustrated volume. It teaches mothers how to care for their children and themselves. It is the best doctor to have in the house in case of emergency. Over half a million copies were sold at $1.50 each, but one free copy in cloth covers will be sent on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of wrapping and mailing only. Address

A Case In Kind

"I wrote to you about six months ago for your kind advice in regard to my case," writes Mrs. Lizzie White. "At times I was hardly able to be on my feet. I believe I had every pain and ache a woman could have. Had a very bad case of uterine disease. Ovaries were very much diseased and my back was very weak. I suffered a great deal with nervous headaches, in fact I suffered all over. I followed your directions as closely as I could, and was well pleased with the results. I have taken your 'Favorite Prescription' and Golden Medical Discovery' for about three months and can now say that my health was never better. I can highly recommend Dr. Pierce's remedies to any woman suffering from female disease, and I do recommend them to every one I see. Have induced several to try your wonderful medicines." ## "Feed Dr. Hess Stock Tonic on Three Months Test at Our Expense."—Dr. Hess & Clark.

John Marx, Kewaskum, Wis.
Dear Sir:—We want every stock raiser that comes into your store this Fall to go home with a package, sack or pail of DR. HESS STOCK TONIC. This is asking a good deal perhaps, but if you will read the conditions of this request we believe you will agree with us that there is not a single, solitary farmer in your whole community that would not avail himself of this opportunity. Here it is:—
"Mr. Feeder:—Take home from your dealer's store a package, sack or pail—of ten if you like of Dr. Hess Stock Tonic, feed it to your horses, cows, hogs, etc., all Winter and Spring. It costs less than a cent a day for a horse, cow or steer, and 8 cts. a month for the average hog. If, after it is used you are not satisfied with the extra profit it has made you, in increased growth and milk production, besides keeping your animals healthy and free from worms, take back the empty package and your dealer is compelled to refund your money."
We authorize you to make the same iron-clad guarantee on DR. HESS POULTRY PAN-ACEA, to make hens lay, to shorten the moulting period.
INSTANT LOUSE KILLER we guarantee to destroy lice on horses, cattle, sheep ticks, etc.
Refund every cent if these preparations fail and we will reimburse you.
Very truly yours,
DR. HESS & CLARK.

To meet the demand of this guarantee, we have a large stock of Dr. Hess Stock Tonic, Poultry Pan-acea, Etc. on hand. Come in and take home any quantity you desire. We will have more goods on the way, so we can supply every customer.

FROM OUR EXCHANGES

Both Legs Cut Off.
A very deplorable and shocking accident happened in this city last Friday when Adam Monemas, a molder employed in the Kiesel Kar factory, had both of his legs cut off below the knees as a result of being run over by the engine of a freight train. The accident happened just west of the freight depot and while Mr. Monemas was returning to work after dinner. He was walking on the railroad track and when he got near the depot stepped over onto another track to get out of the way of a freight train coming from the east. He did not seem to notice that an engine was coming along on the other track, or at least did not notice it in time to avoid being run over, although the train crew and several other tried to attract his attention. There was another engine taking water at the tank near by, which was blowing off steam, and this no doubt prevented him from hearing the approaching train. He was seen to slip and fall on the track before the engine struck him, and managed to crawl off far enough to prevent ground into pieces.—Hartford Times.

Fire At Monches.
The residence and barn of Mrs. William Fallon, a widow residing a quarter of a mile north-east of Monches were destroyed by fire Sunday morning together with the greater amount of household furniture.
Mrs. Fallon was at church at the time, and had left the house in the care of her son. The latter who had been working on the ice, was not feeling well, and had remained in bed. During the forenoon one of the neighbor boys saw smoke coming from around the roof of the Fallon home and ran over. He found young Fallon asleep upstairs and woke him up to get out. It was impossible to save more than a few household articles. It is probable, with the progress the fire had made that Fallon might not have been able to get out in time had the neighbor not wakened him. The fire spread to the barn but the stock and machinery were taken out before the barn went down. The loss is some over $2000.—Hartford Press.

Falls In Bed of Fire.
George Wagner, aged 25 and employed as cheesemaker in the Kennedy cheese factory at Friendship Corners, had a narrow escape from being burned to death this morning, when fire destroyed the cheese factory. The fire was discovered at 3:30 o'clock Monday morning. Wagner was asleep in a room in the second story of the building. He woke up in a dazed condition, his room being filled with smoke. Groping his way downstairs in his nightclothes, Wagner fell exhausted at the exit and was barely able to unlock the door and escape. His face, hands and hip were painfully burned and in falling Wagner was prostrate in the fire. A physician was attending Wagner this morning, and the report is that he will recover.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

Killed In Oklahoma.
William Gensman, a former Schleisingerville boy died at Enid Ok., last week as the result of injuries received in an accident. Mr. Gensman and his brother Fred were riding in an auto, and in turning a street corner ran into an auto fire engine. Both men were hurt but William the more seriously, his death resulting a few hours later. The deceased was born in Schleisingerville 37 years ago. He leaves a wife, two brothers and four sisters. One of the latter is Mrs. Albert Theil of Schleisingerville.—Hartford Press.

Auto Causes Child's Death.
An automobile the identity of the driver of which is unknown, is believed to be responsible for the death of four-year-old John Franklin Hendricks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace E. Hendricks, 101 West Arndt street, who was found with a fractured skull, lying in the street near the corner of Doty and West Arndt at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening.—Fond du Lac Reporter.

Tax Farmers' Dogs.
Assemblyman Gudice of Schleisingerville, representing Washington county, has introduced three bills in the legislature. One proposes to tax farmers' dogs, leaving one dog exempt. Another bill makes it the duty of the District Attorney to prosecute assault and battery cases. The third abolishes the office of incomes, the duties of that office to be performed by local assessors.
