BORNE FROM HIS GARDEN

Funeral of A. H. Olwin Held In the Open Air Amid His Trees and Flowers on His Lawn

BROTHER TO W. S. OLWIN

Oh, how he would have loved them. The flowers that everywhere abounded. They filled the Olwin home with beauty and bore tribute to the love of friends for the master of the house. The gift of flowers is an homage as lovely as nature's blossoms and for the funeral of A. H. Olwin Tuesday afternoon, they were everywhere. Garden flowers, such as had come into blossom in the last day or two in the garden of Mrs. Michael Hartmann, the family laundress. Of rare occurrence and significance beauty, the opened blooms typically the passion and death of Christ. The obsequies were held at 4 o'clock upon the broad veranda giving out upon the lawn toward the garden. Upon the greenward gathered friends and stop-employes for the leave-taking after the body had lain in state under its blanket of sweet peas from o'clock.

In the absence of Rev. Jones, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Rev. C. C. Todd officiated in the service, reading the scripture, speaking a prayer and a tribute to the man and his life. Mrs. Schultz sang "Face to Face" and with D. H. Lightner sang "In the Sweet Bye and Bye."—Aberdeen Daily American.

NEW PARCEL POST RATES COLLIDES WITH HORSE AND RIG

Redeemed parcel post rates in the local, first and second zones became effective last week Friday, August 15th, and by virtue of considerable decrease, particularly available with packages of greater weight for which the maximum has been advanced from 11 to 20 pounds. Postmaster Geo. H. Schmidt anticipates a healthy growth in the business and is also of the opinion that within a very short time the weight will be still more increased and the rates reduced.

Rates in the first and second zones are identical under the revision, but the 20 pound limit does not apply beyond them. The new figures are as follows:

Pounds Weight	Local Zone	First Zone	Second Zone
1	5	5	5
2	6	6	6
3	7	7	7
4	8	8	8
5	9	9	9
6	10	10	10
7	11	11	11
8	12	12	12
9	13	13	13
10	14	14	14
11	15	15	15
12	16	16	16
13	17	17	17
14	18	18	18
15	19	19	19
16	20	20	20
17	21	21	21
18	22	22	22
19	23	23	23
20	24	24	24

Under the old rate only 11 pounds could be sent as the maximum under these rates.

Thus it is shown that a 20-lb. package may be sent to any part of the second zone for 24 cents, whereas the old rate covered only 11 pounds at a cost of 46 cents.

RAILROAD EXCURSION BIG SUCCESS

Annual Picnic and Dance of the B. of L. F. & E. Last Sunday Was Largely Attended

COME WITH SPECIAL TRAIN

The largest crowd ever brought to this village by an outside society, was last Sunday, when the Phil. Sheridan Lodge No. 358 Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers of Milwaukee paid their annual visit for a picnic and dance to this village. The society with its members, families and friends, left the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad station at Milwaukee with a special train of 14 coaches, shortly before 9 A. M., and arrived here about 10:45 A. M. stopping at the picnic grounds, the North Side Park. It is estimated that about 1100 people were on this special train. Soon after the arrival of the train, a ball game was played between the C. M. & St. Paul Base ball team and the Kewaskum boys. The game proved to be very interesting throughout, but the Kewaskum lads outplayed their opponents and easily defeated them by a score of 10 to 1. They thereby won the special prize of $10, which was given by the Brotherhood. Dinner was served in the park by landlady, Mrs. Jos. Eberle. Soon after dinner, the crowd thronged the picnic grounds, where everyone present indulged in the enjoyment of the day. Dunker Military Band of Milwaukee furnished the music, both afternoon and evening. Their program was well carried out and proved to be very pleasing to the large crowd. The contest of the afternoon were started about 2 P. M. They were very interesting and pleased many of the people. The prizes that were awarded by the Society are very useful, and were well received by the winners. After supper, the doors of the dance hall were opened to all those who wished to enjoy themselves, by tipping off a few of the famous well satisfied with the hundred dance tickets were sold, including those that were sold in advance. At 10:30 P. M. the special train, together with its passengers, departed for Milwaukee, the people being satisfied with the enjoyment they had. Rumors could be heard that they will be in our midst again at the next annual picnic and dance in 1914. The committee in charge is to be congratulated as to the way they managed the affair and to help make it a social as well as a financial success. Mr. Schuster, chairman of the committee, assured the Editor of the Statesman, that they will be with us again next year. This can be only be accounted for the welcome extended to the society by the village people. The Society is an annual visitor to this village and their picnics and dances have been better attended as the years pass by. They are well known to the State wide, as a very ideal place for picnics and dances.

TRENTON MAN HANGS SELF AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

Body Found Tuesday Morning Dangling From a Rope. Man Had Once Before Attempted to Take His Life

Leaves a Large Family

Nic. Redinger, for many years an esteemed resident of Trenton, committed suicide Tuesday morning by hanging. Redinger resided a half mile north of the village of Newburg. Tuesday morning he was in a cheerful and happy frame of mind and went about his chores as usual. When he failed to return, after his family had waited for him for some time, a search was made for the man. He had previously made an attempt to take his life consequently the family had misgivings. He was finally found in the harness room at the barn, his body dangling from a rope. It is believed that his mind was unbalanced, for a loss of money some years ago preyed heavily upon him. Redinger is a married man leaving a wife and a number of children. Theo. Redinger, a salaried keeper at Newburg, is a brother of the deceased.—West Bend Pilot.

FOUND GOLD AT EL DORADO

A valuable discovery was recently made in the village of El Dorado, nine miles from Fond du Lac, where on a farm, a large rock, unearthened near the house, was found to contain a good sized deposit of gold. The name El Dorado would indicate that gold had been found in the vicinity on former occasions and the owner of the place is thought to have the rock crushed and further investigation made to locate the vein of gold-bearing quartz if such there be. The El Dorado property is owned by the Rev. Doane Upjohn, formerly of Fond du Lac, Wis., and of Plymouth, where he left a flourishing church a few months ago, to become rector of All Saints' Episcopal church, Appleton, Wis.—Hartford Times.

FARMER HAS LOSS BY FIRE

The barn of John Willkomm, two miles southwest of St. Mathias in the town of West Bend, was struck by lightning last Sunday morning at about 2 o'clock and in a very short time the barn burned to the ground. All of this year's crop of grain and hay, together with five calves and all of the chickens became the prey of the flames. The horses were rescued. There was $1,000 insurance on the barn and $500 on the grain, but this will not nearly compensate the owner for his loss.—West Bend News.

HORSE POISONED

Edward Kohl, proprietor of a resort at Cedar Lake lost a horse valued at $175 Tuesday. The animal was taken sick and Mr. Kohl took it to Dr. Kjetil, at Schlesinger, who said it showed symptoms of having been poisoned. The horse died and a postmortem showed that it had been given arsenic. Mr. Kohl has suspicions as to the guilty party and arrests will probably occur soon.—Hartford Press.

FORTY HORSE KILLED BY LIGHTNING

Robert Meiklejohn, who owns a farm near Waupun, had forty young hogs killed by lightning during the electrical storm last Friday. They averaged about one hundred pounds in weight. The hogs all huddled together under a tree, seeking shelter from the storm when the bolt struck the tree and killed the whole drove. We understand a small insurance was carried on the animals.—Hartford Times.

LOSERS A LEM

Joseph Pestrong, age 17, lost one of his legs last Saturday morning, while stealing a ride on a 1000 freight train. The accident occurred a few miles from Lomira and it is thought that he fell off there while sleeping on the train. He was employed by the Soo Railway.

Mrs. Wm. Hennings and daughter Viola spent Saturday and Sunday at Fond du Lac. A large number from here attended the Firemen's picnic at Kewaskum Sunday. Miss Johanna Aepler returned home after several days visit with relatives at Fond du Lac. The ball game held here last Sunday between Waucousta and Dundee, was largely attended. The score was 7 to 5 in favor of Waucousta. On Tuesday, August 12th occurred the death of Mrs. Mary Corbett nee Hurlgen, wife of Chas. Corbett of Dundee. She was born in Waukesha county, September 5th, 1854. She was married September 11, 1874 to Chas. Corbett, who survives her. Their union was blessed with eight children, seven of whom are living, namely: Gertrude, Mrs. White of Dundee, John of Oseola, Lawrence of Milwaukee, Charlotte, Mrs. Wm. Matthieu of Elmore, Anna, Joseph and Francis of Dundee. She also leaves four brothers and two sisters and ten grand children to mourn her loss. The many beautiful floral offerings in part, attested to the esteem in which Mrs. Corbett was held. Among the relatives from Oseola who attended the funeral were: Albert Hungen and Mrs. M. Meyer of Olivet; Wm. Hurlgen and sons, Jacob and John and daughter Clara of Hartland; Lawrence Hurlgen, wife and son Lawrence, and Mrs. Geo. Dahlke of Duplainville, Lawrence Corbett and wife and Wm. Strange Potato Malady Reported in Wisconsin

A peculiar potato trouble has been reported to the experts of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin from different points in the northern part of the state. According to the statements of growers, the disease has made its appearance in circular areas not more than a rod or two in diameter in the middle of healthy fields, affected plants suddenly wilting and dying. Some think the cause is lightning strokes. Prof. L. R. Jones, plant pathologist of the University, is ready to receive any information which will throw light upon the matter, and he suggests that farmers experiencing this trouble send samples of the plant tops and tubers to the department for examinations.

HORSE THIEVES MAKE A RAID

Steal Three Colts During Night From a Pasture Near Hartford

STOLEN ANIMALS ARE FOUND

A case of horse stealing came to light last Tuesday morning, when three 2-year-old colts were found missing from the pasture adjoining the cemetery at Pleasant Hill, west of this city. Two of the animals belonged to Amos Goulette and one to Joseph Petesch, of this city. As soon as the animals were missed, Constable John H. Courtney was notified, who learned that two men passed through Rubicon about 10 o'clock Monday night in a single rig and with three colts attached to the rear of the buggy. Constable Courtney, with Mr. Goulette and Mr. Petesch, started out Tuesday afternoon in pursuit of the men in an auto, and traced them as far as Iron Mountain, where they were followed by them. They continued the search, however, and were out nearly all night and the next day. Farmers and the authorities in the surrounding country were notified, and Mrs. Petesch made an auto trip to Watertown Monday for the purpose of making the theft known, and upon her return in the evening a telephone message was received from the chief of police that three strange colts had been found in a pasture near Watertown. Mr. Petesch and Mr. Goulette drove down to Watertown in the former's Kissel Kar to identify the colts and bring them home. The men were not apprehended, and no clue as to their whereabouts could be found at Watertown. They no doubt turned the colts out in the pasture in order to make good their escape.—Hartford Times.

U. S. Experts Examine Beet and Potato Fields

A comprehensive survey of conditions in the potato and sugar beet sections of the state was made by a visit to Wisconsin last week of Professor William Stewart, potato expert, and Professor W. A. Orren and H. W. Woolweber of the division of sugar and truck plants of the United States Department of Agriculture. According to their statements the outlook for a good yield of potatoes and sugar beets in Wisconsin this year is unusually gratifying. The only serious trouble manifest among the potato fields are instances of tip blight but this is not sufficiently prevalent to result in materially reducing the yield. Use of formalin has tended to check the spread of "black leg," a bacterial disease which affects potatoes in some fields in the red clay sections of the state. Prof. James G. Milward of the College of Agriculture and secretary of the Wisconsin Potato Growers' Association, accompanied Prof. Stewart on his tour of the potato district of Marathon and Oneida counties.

SECRET SERVICE

BEING THE HAPPENINGS OF A NIGHT IN RICHMOND IN THE SPRING OF 1865

THE PLAY BY WILLIAM GILLETTE; BY CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

ILLUSTRATIONS BY EDGAR BERT SMITH

COPYRIGHT 1912 BY DODD, MEAD AND COMPANY

SYNOPSIS.

Mrs. Varney, wife of a Confederate general, has lost one son and another dying from wounds. She reluctantly gives her consent for Wilfred, the youngest, to join the army if his father consents. The Federals are making their last assault in an effort to capture Richmond. Edith Varney secures from President Davis a commission for Capt. Thorne, who is just recovering from wounds, as chief of staff. She declares he must not go and tells him of the commission from the president. He is strangely agitated and declares he cannot accept. Thorne decides to escape while Edith leaves the room to get the commission, but is prevented by the arrival of Caroline Mitford, Wilfred's sweetheart. Mr. Arrelsford of the Confederate secret service, a rejected suitor of Edith's, detects Jonas, Mrs. Varney's butler, carrying a note from a prisoner in Libby prison. Arrelsford suspects it is intended for Thorne. The note reads: "Attack tonight. Plan 1. Use Telegraph. Arrelsford declares Thorne is Lewis Dumont of the Federal secret service, and that his brother Henry is a prisoner in Libby. Edith refuses to believe and suggests that Thorne be confronted with the prisoner. As a check the order comes from General Varney for Wilfred to report to the front at once. Edith is forced to carry out her part in the test of Thorne. The prisoner is thrust into the room alone with Thorne. Thorne recognizes him as his elder brother, Henry Dumont. They put up a fake fight and Henry accidentally kills himself. Caroline goes to the war department telegraph office to send a message to Wilfred.

CHAPTER XI.

Mr. Arrelsford again interposes. Nobody had any time to devote to Miss Mitford just then, for a perfect rain of messages came and went as she slowly composed her own dispatch. Messengers constantly came in while others went out. The lines were evidently busy that night. Finally there came a pause in the dispatches coming and going, and Foray remembering her, looked over toward the other end of the table where she sat. "Is that message of yours ready yet, Miss Mitford?" he asked. "Yes," said Caroline, rising and folding it. "Of course you have got to take it." "Certainly," returned the operator smiling. "If it's to be sent, I have to send it."

"Well, here it is then," said the girl, extending the folded paper which Lieutenant Foray took and unceremoniously opened. "Oh!" exclaimed Caroline, quickly snatching the paper from his hand. "I didn't tell you you could read it!" Foray stared at her in amazement. "What do you want me to do with it?" "I want you to read it." "Well, how am I going to send it if I don't read it?" "Do you mean to say that—" began

"I Didn't Tell You You Could Read It." The girl, who had evidently forgotten—if she had ever known—how telegrams were sent. "I mean to say that I have got to spell out every word on the key. Didn't you know that?" "Oh, I did, of course—but I had forgotten," said Caroline, dismayed by this unexpected development. "Is there any harm in my reading the message that I have to send?" "Why I wouldn't have you see it for the world! My gracious!" "Is it as bad as that, Miss Mitford?" he said laughing. "Bad! It isn't bad at all, but I wouldn't have it get all over town for anything."

"It will never get out of this office, Miss Mitford," returned Foray composedly. "We are not allowed to mention anything that goes on in here."

"You wouldn't mention it?" "Certainly not. All sorts of private messages go through here, and—"

"Do they?" "Every day. Now if that telegram is important, well I should think it was. It is the most important—"

"Then I reckon you had better trust it to me," said Lieutenant Foray.

"Yes," said Caroline, blushing a vivid crimson. "I reckon I had."

She handed him the telegram. He opened it, glanced at it, bit his lips to control his emotion, and then his hands reached for the key.

"Oh, atop!" cried Caroline.

Foray looked at her, his eyes full of amusement, his whole body shaking with suppressed laughter, which she was too wrought up to perceive.

"Wait till I—don't want to be here while you spell out every word—I couldn't stand that."

Caroline had evidently forgotten that the spelling would be in the Morse code, and that it would be about as intelligible to her as Sanskrit. The lieutenant humored her, and waited while Caroline turned to ward the door and summoned Martha to her. She did not leave the room, however, for her way was barred by a young private in a gray uniform. The newcomer looked hastily at her and the old negro, stopped by them, and asked them very respectfully to wait a moment. He then approached Foray, who impatiently waited until he could read the message. He saluted him and handed him a written order, and then crossed to the other side of the room. A glance put Foray in possession of the contents of this order. He rose to his feet and approached Caroline still standing by the door.

"Miss Mitford," he said.

"Yes."

"I don't understand this, but here is an order that has just come from the secret service department directing me to hold up any dispatch you may try to send."

"Hold back my telegram?"

"Yes, Miss Mitford," and Foray looked very embarrassed as he stared again at the order and then from the young girl to the orderly, "and that isn't the worst of it."

"What else is there?" asked the girl, her eyes big with apprehension.

"Why, this man has orders to take back your message with him to the secret service office."

"Take back my message!" cried Caroline.

"There must be some mistake," answered Foray, "but that's what the order says."

"To whom does it say to take it back?" asked the girl, growing more and more indignant.

"To a Mr. Arrelsford."

"Do you mean to tell me that that order is for that man to take my dispatch back to Mr. Arrelsford?"

"Yes, Miss Mitford," returned Lieutenant Foray.

"And does it say anything in there about what I am going to do in the meantime?" asked the girl indignantly.

"Nothing."

"Well, that is too bad," returned Caroline ominously.

"I am sorry this has occurred, Miss Mitford," said the lieutenant earnestly, "but the orders are signed by the head of the secret service department, and you will see that I have no choice."

"Don't worry about it, Lieutenant Foray," said Caroline calmly, "there is no need of your feeling sorry, because it isn't occurred, beside that, it is not going to occur. When it does, you can go around being sorry all you like. Have you the faintest idea that I am going to let him take my telegram away with him and show it to the man? Do you suppose—"

She was too indignant to finish her sentence and old Martha valiantly entered the fray.

"No, suh," she cried, in her deepest and most indignant voice. "You all ain't gwine to do it, you kin be right suah you ahnt."

"But what can I do?" persisted Foray, greatly distressed.

"You can hand it back to me, that's what you can do."

"Yes, suh, dat's de vey best thing you kin do," said old Martha stoutly, "an' de soonah you do it de quicker it'll be done—Ah kin tell you dat right now, suh."

"But this man has come here with orders for me to—" began Foray, endeavoring to explain.

He realized that there was some mistake somewhere. The girl's message had nothing whatever to do with military matters, and he quite understood that she would not want this communication read by every Tom, Dick or Harry in the secret service department. Besides all this, as she stood before him, her face flushed with emotion, she was a sufficiently pleading figure to make him most willing to help her. In addition, the portly figure of old Martha, whose cheeks doubtless would have been flushed with the same feeling had they not been black, were more than disconcerting.

"This man," said Caroline, shaking her finger at helpless Private Eddinger, who also found his position most unpleasant, "can go straight back where he came from and report to Mr. Arrelsford that he could not carry out his orders. That's what he can do."

Martha, now thoroughly aroused to a sense of the role she was to play, turned and confronted the abashed private.

"Jes' let him try to tek it. Let him tek it if he wants it so powful bad! Jes' let de othah one dare gib it to him—an' den see him try an' git out th' dis yah do' wid it! Ah wants to see him gib," she said. "Ah'm jes' waitin' fur de sight ob him git 'in' par' dis do'. Dat's what Ah's waitin' fo'. Ah'd lak to know what dey's pose it was Ah comed around yeh fo' anyway—den men wid dese ordahs astuffin' an'—"

"Miss Mitford," said Foray earnestly, "if I were to give this dispatch back to you it would get me in a heap of trouble."

"What kind of trouble?" asked Caroline dubiously.

"I might be put in prison, I might be shot."

"To you mean that they would—"

"Sure to do one thing or another."

"Just for giving it back to me when it is my message?"

"Just for that."

"Then you will have to keep it, I suppose," said Caroline faltering.

"Thank you, Miss Mitford."

"Very well," said Caroline, "it is understood. You don't give it back to me, and you can't give it back to him, so nobody's disobeying any orders at all. And that's the way it stands. I reckon I can stay as long as he can. She stepped to a nearby chair and sat down. "I haven't very much to do and probably he has."

"But, Miss Mitford—" began Foray.

"There isn't any good talking any longer. If you have got any telegraphing to do you had better do it I won't disturb you. But don't you give it to him."

Foray stared at her helplessly. What might have resulted it is impossible to say, for there entered at that opportune moment Mr. Arrelsford himself, relieving Mr. Foray of the further conduct of the intricate case. His glance took in all the occupants of the room. It was to his own messenger that he first addressed himself.

"Eddinger!"

"Yes, Mr. Arrelsford."

"Didn't you get here in time?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then why—"

"I beg your pardon," said Foray, "are you Mr. Arrelsford of the secret service department?"

"Yes. Are you holding back a dispatch?"

"Yes, sir."

"Why didn't Eddinger bring it to me?"

"Well, you see—" began Foray, hesitating. "Miss Mitford—"

Arrelsford instantly comprehended. "Eddinger," he said.

"Yes, sir."

"Report back to Corporal Matson and tell him to send a surgeon to the prisoner who was wounded at General Varney's house. If he isn't dead by this time. Now let me see that dispatch," he continued, as the orderly saluted and ran rapidly from the room.

But again Miss Mitford interposed. She stepped quickly between Arrelsford and Foray, both of whom fell back from her.

"I expect," she said impudently, "that you think you are going to get my telegram and read it?"

"I certainly intend to do so," was the curt answer.

"Well, there's a great disappointment looming up in front of you," returned Caroline defiantly.

"So!" said Arrelsford, with growing suspicion. "You have been trying to send out something that you don't want us to see."

"What if I have, sir?"

"Just this," said Arrelsford determinedly. "You won't send it out and I will see it. This is a case—"

"This is a case where nobody is going to read my private writing," persisted Caroline.

The young girl confronted him with blazing eyes and a mien like a small fury. Arrelsford looked at her with ill-concealed yet somewhat vexatious amusement.

"Lieutenant Foray, you have an order to give me that dispatch. Bring it to me at once," he said.

Although it was quite evident that Foray greatly disliked the role he was compelled to play, his orders were plain, and he had no option. He stepped slowly toward the secret service agent, only to be confronted by old Martha, who again interrupted.

"Dat Leftenant kin stay jes what he is," said the old negro defiantly. A struggle with her would have been an unseemly spectacle indeed, thought both men.

"Is that Miss Mitford's dispatch you have in your hand?" asked Arrelsford.

"Yes, sir."

"Since you can't hand it to me, read it."

"Caroline turned to him with a gasp of horror. Martha gave way, and Foray stood surprised.

"Read it out! Don't you hear me?" repeated Arrelsford peremptorily.

"Don't dare to do such a thing," cried Caroline, "you have no right to read a private telegram."

"No, suh! He ain't got no business to read her lettahs, none whatsomebah!" urged Martha.

"Silence!" roared Arrelsford, his patience at an end. "If either of you interfere any further with the business of this office I will have you both put under arrest. Read that dispatch instantly, Lieutenant Foray."

The game was up, so far as the women were concerned. Caroline's head sank on Martha's shoulder and she sobbed passionately, while Lieutenant Foray read the following astonishing and incriminating message: "Forgive me, Wilfred, darling, please forgive me and I will help you all I can."

It was harmless, as harmless as it was foolish, that message, but it evidently impressed Mr. Arrelsford as containing some deep, some hidden, some sinister meaning.

"That dispatch can't go," he said shortly.

"That dispatch can go," said Caroline, stopping her sobbing as suddenly as she had begun. "And that dispatch will go. I know one whose orders even you are bound to respect, and some one who will come here with me and see that you do it."

"It may be," answered Arrelsford composedly. "I have a good and sufficient reason—"

"Then you will have to show him, I can tell you that, Mr. Arrelsford."

"I shall be glad to give my reason to my superiors, Miss Mitford, not to you."

"Then you will have to go around telling them to every body in Richmond, Mr. Arrelsford," said the girl, as she swept petulantly through the door, followed by old Martha, both of whom were very much disturbed by what had occurred.

Perfection in Shipbuilding. The giant liner hapsator, which is rapidly approaching completion at Hamburg, was recently subjected to rigid tests to determine the strength of her bulkheads, which proved that the vessel would withstand the experience which befell the Titanic. New and efficient mechanism is being installed for launching lifeboats under unfavorable conditions. Anti-rolling tanks in the vessel will remove the danger of the lifeboats being crushed against the sides of the ship while being lowered. One of the lifeboats is equipped with a wireless telegraph system having a range of 200 miles, the antennae being a telescope mast. This lifeboat will serve as the flagship of the fleet of life boats in case of a wreck.

Then he went round and took a sample of blood from each of them, and these some of his own, in a bottle. He went to the doctor, who thought it rather a large sample, and the blood was duly examined, and a curative prescription given to Isaacsstein. "Ow much is it?" he asked the doctor. NEW COIFFURES ATTRACTIVE

The new coiffures have arrived; the most adorably pretty conceptions that we have had for years. They have come in answer to a general demand for something new. There are high ones and low ones, less simple than those that are passing and more fascinating. They still preserve some features of those demure but rather meager styles. For instance, in all the new designs the ears are still covered.

There is an unmistakable return to the small pompadour which was so universally becoming. A little fringe across the forehead is favored in the dressiest models, but the arrangement of the hair about the forehead varies so that every one may be suited.

The hair may be worn moderately low, as in the evening coiffure here, or extremely high, or just at the crown of the head in a Psyche knot (of which a glimpse appears in the second picture). It is very loosely waved and manufacturers of hair goods are using the same loose and almost imperceptible wave in switches and other hair pieces. Bewitching little clusters of three short, full curls appear either at the nape of the neck or at the sides below the ears.

The new styles are fuller and the effect sought for is for greater abundance of hair than in the severe and somewhat formless coiffures of the past seasons. This gives women a chance to improve the contour of their heads if need be.

These new coiffures are built on definite lines, the styles are more striking than those just preceding them, more vigorous, and the finished coiffures achieve the look of careful, perfect grooming, a consummation worth striving for; a charm within the reach of everyone.

The dressy coiffure shown with hair band and ostrich feather decoration is not difficult to arrange. A slight support in the form of a short, small hair roll forms the pompadour, extending over the top of the head just above the forehead. A strand of hair is brought back from the temples, and another strand is arranged in a loose puff over the ears and extends into the cheek. This puff has to be provided with a little support also. The remainder of the hair is arranged in big, soft curls across the back, having the appearance of irregular puffs. Three little curls are pinned in on each side just below the puff over the ears.

In the second figure the front hair is arranged in the same way except for the curls. The back hair is combed up to the crown of the head and coiled into a regulation Psyche knot. The strand at the nape of the neck is left becomingly loose. The knot is only slightly higher than the pompadour.

In the hats for the coming seasons great numbers have elongated crowns, so that there will be no difficulty in wearing them with any of the new coiffures. Soft, flexible crowns are to be immensely fashionable and they shape themselves to the head of the wearer.

Dressing the hair as in the model coiffure shown here may be simplified by using pinned-up puffs over the ears. With these and a short roll to support the pompadour there will be no trouble in copying these charming designs.

BROWN LEATHER IS EDICT

To Be Really Smart All the Various Belongings Must Be of That Color, No Matter the Material.

The brown leather era has arrived. You're not smart at all if the most of your small belongings are not of brown felt—real leather, walrus, seal or morocco grain—from your automobile dressing bag fitted with nickel or ivory backed toilet necessities to your strap bracelet holding a small gold-filled enameled watch. Between these two extremes in leather come innumerable conveniences. One of them, the handy pocket kit, comprises a neat leather case containing a large knife, a small saw, a chisel, a cork-screw and a wrench. Another is a pigskin case containing a flat, flash-like glass, a folding knife, spoon and fork, and a third is a leather combination case lined with silk and containing pockets for handkerchiefs, gloves, veils and pins. Not unlike the last mentioned case, is a silk-lined receptacle for neckties.

There are three types of sewing case from which to choose. The largest is bag shape, closes with a drawing-string, and contains a pin cushion, scissors, cases of needles and reels of thread. Next in size is a satin lined folding case fitted with a stiletto, tape needle, bodkin and two thread reels. Smallest of all is a brocade lined saskin book holding a leaf of needles and a leaf wound with threads.

At the sight of the word petticoat one is apt to start in these days, and say, "What, are there any?" There are still a few and the newest ones are slashed. The slash is made at the ankles on each side.

These are particularly popular in Paris just now, but many have come to us also. White embroidered ones may be had with the fashion-required slashes, and there are also some good satin petticoats laced up the sides with softer satin ribbon.

Effective Collar. The little black velvet collar that is so much seen on otherwise pale colored costumes is more effective than could be imagined by anyone who had not had an opportunity of seeing the same gown without this distinctive note. The form is of the simplest. The collar is of the same width all round, and stops short in front, leaving a space of about an inch and a half. This is filled in with the Byron tie, the ends floating rather loosely, as may be guessed from the title.

Wide Rose Bowl. In selecting the rose bowl decide upon one that is wide, shallow and flaring so that the flowers may expand unrestrained, and be seen to the best advantage, says the Chicago Journal. They are fascinating for the dining table, the tea table, the drawing room, the boudoir and the veranda of the country.

KING OF BRITISH JESTERS

George Bernard Shaw Has Succeeded in Ambition to Be Much-Talked-of-Man.

"I love order in all things," said George Bernard Shaw, at a public meeting some time ago. "For this reason I am not content with ordering my life; I also order my personality. I have cocoa-colored hair, so I wear cocoa-colored clothes and drink cocoa." Shaw today has reached the position of becoming a public institution. For more than twenty years he has succeeded in fulfilling his boast that every day some leading paper would have something to say about him. George Bernard Shaw is the jester at the court of King Demos. When years ago he was appointed dramatic critic to a well-known journal he refused to obey the iron-clad regulation that occupants of the stalls must wear evening dress. The first night he was stopped at the door of the theater by an attendant. "What do you object to?" inquired Shaw. "My cocoa-colored jacket!" The attendant assented. "Very well, then," said the critic. "I will remove it." And the next moment he was striding up the aisle in his shirt sleeves. "That won't do, sir!" shouted the attendant, running after him. "Won't do?" exclaimed Shaw, with a fine assumption of indignation. "Do you think I'm going to take off any more?" The nonplussed attendant handed him his jacket, and Shaw took his seat in the stalls triumphantly.—London Life.

ECZEMA SPREAD OVER BODY

Roxbury, Ohio.—"When my little boy was two weeks old he began breaking out on his cheeks. The eczema began just with pimples and they seemed to itch so badly he would scratch his face and cause a matter to run. Wherever that matter would touch it would cause another pimple until it spread all over his body. It caused disfigurement while it lasted. He had fifteen places on one arm and his head had several. The deepest places on his cheeks were as large as a silver dollar on each side. He was restless at night we had to put mittens on him to keep him from scratching them with his finger nails. If he got a little too warm at night it seemed to hurt badly.

"We tried a treatment and he didn't get any better. He had the eczema about three weeks when we began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I bathed him at night with the Cuticura Soap and spread the Cuticura Ointment on and the eczema left." (Signed) Mrs. John White, Mar. 19, 1913.

AN OLD NURSE

Persuaded Doctor to Drink Postum

An old faithful nurse and an experienced doctor, are a pretty strong combination in favor of Postum, instead of tea and coffee.

The doctor said:

"I began to drink Postum five years ago on the advice of an old nurse. "During an unusually busy winter, between coffee, tea and overwork, I became a victim of insomnia. In a month after beginning Postum, in place of tea and coffee, I could eat anything and sleep as soundly as a baby."

"In three months I had gained twenty pounds in weight. I now use Postum altogether instead of tea and coffee; even at bedtime with a soda cracker or some other tasty biscuit."

"Having a little tendency to Diabetes, I used a small quantity of saccharin instead of sugar, to sweeten with. I may add that today tea or coffee are never present in our house and very many patients, on my advice, have adopted Postum as their regular beverage."

"In conclusion I can assure anyone that, as a refreshing, nourishing and nerve-strengthening beverage, there is nothing equal to Postum."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Write for booklet, "The Road to Wellville."

Postum comes in two forms. Regular (must be boiled). Instant Postum doesn't require boiling but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in an ordinary cup of hot water, which makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate and have it served that way in the future.

Tomato Salad May Be Served in Numerous Forms—Ways of Removing the Skins.

A tomato salad is capable of as many variations as the fillings for stuffed tomatoes, but in whatever way prepared, do not irritate the skins upon the consumer. To remove the skins deftly, try either one of these two ways: Plunge for a second into boiling water, then skin and chill, or remove the stem and rub the back of a knife against the fruit, pressing gently with the dull edge from the stem and downward until all the surface has been covered. After a little experience this is almost as easily done as when scalded and the skin comes off as readily. For a breakfast salad, chill the tomatoes, cut into quarters, cover with a French dressing made by mixing vinegar with an even teaspoonful of salt and a liberal sprinkling of pepper, and serve directly from the ice so that it has not time to wilt. Tomatoes either sliced thin or quartered are excellent sprinkled with sweet peppers cut with the scissors into water-thin ribbons, with a sprinkling of chopped parsley, or chives or equal amounts chopped chives, tarragon and chervil. Spanish onions cut water thin are also delicious with tomatoes, whether served alone or on crisp lettuce leaves. Fine cut celery is another satisfactory combination to use with tomatoes.

IMPORTANCE OF TABLE LINEN

Well to Bestow Some Thought on Appearances Before They Are Purchased and Shopped. In buying a table cloth one should, if possible, have the exact measurement of the table for which it is intended, the usual length is from two and one-half to three yards. If the table is a square one, one-fourth to one-third of a yard is allowed to fall over the ends. Many of the new cloths have the design round on a square cloth, which makes them especially attractive for the round table, as the cloth can be cut circular without disturbing the pattern; usually there are a circle of flowers, or the satin bands, according to the design in the border, in the middle of the cloth to fit the top of the table. Napkins should match the cloths, and there ought to be two dozen allowed for each cloth; one dozen of each size.

Salads a la Printanier.

You may make a variety of most entrancing, though simple and inexpensive spring salads for luncheon and dinner by preparing the vegetables in same manner as for soup, dicing, shredding, slicing, cutting in cubes, oblong shapes, etc., cooking each separately, in salted water, and draining carefully. In the luncheon salads rice and meat, crab, lobster, shrimp and even nut meats may be used. Indeed, one has such an abundance of riches at their command, more is the pity we do not know how to make the best use of them, and there is no gainsaying the fact that too many women of today the preparation of food is a bore; the thought of providing three meals a day a nightmare.

Grate three or four cold boiled potatoes. To these add two thoroughly beaten eggs, a little salt and one-half cup milk. Stir in enough flour so you can form into balls with your hands. Be careful not to get too stiff and flour your hands. Drop into boiling salted water and boil about 20 minutes. When they have boiled about ten minutes turn over quickly without sticking fork into them and cover again. Pour gravy over them same as for potatoes.

Colonial Cushions.

For the bureau of old mahogany or the mahogany shaving case a pin cushion not too frilly is needed. Such a one is shown in a "colonial cushion," a copy of an antique. Even these modern copies come from old Salem. It is square in shape and of mahogany, standing on four half-inch high feet. Within the mahogany frame is the cushion made in any color. Of course, the cushion part may be renewed as often as one wishes, so it makes quite a durable article.

REMARKABLY PRETTY TABLE DECORATIONS MAY BE MADE.

Call Only for the Exercise of a Little Ingenuity, and the Quality of the Food is Not in the Least Impaired—Some Examples.

There are many artificial ways to make lovely decorations, but in the study of vegetable flowers we can show a simple way of making our everyday meals more appetizing and still not interfere with the palatable part of the dishes we prepare. These things will appeal to every one who may be interested in making home dishes with pretty garnishes. For instance, the small vegetable can be cut into flowers, as follows:

Beets—Cut beets in fancy shapes, they make a pretty garnish for any salad; cut as cups to serve salad in; carries out the red color scheme; sliced and cut like hearts carries out the valentine idea.

Cabbage—Cut cabbage head like flower; take out center and make into a bowl and serve in bowl. You can also serve hot cauliflower for lunch; in cabbage head or any other vegetable salad.

Cantaloupes—Cut cantaloupe in half, scallop, fill with green grapes and serve as first course; can also serve ice cream in the halves.

Celery—Cut celery about 3 inches long, slash each end with scissors and stand in ice-cold water until it curls; then serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise; this makes a good relish.

Lettuce—Cups are pretty to serve salad in. Use fresh, crisp lettuce.

Potatoes—Hot and cream well by running through ricer; season with a little butter, milk, white pepper and salt; when a little warm, color delicately, put into tube, and make into morning glories or nests and eggs. Make into cups large enough to hold raw egg, run in stove until egg is cooked, and serve around steak. Make mound, serve chops around it, and sprinkle with peas at base.

Radishes—Small red radishes can be cut to look like carnations or tulips; they make a beautiful garnish for aspic in green, and are pretty on lettuce with salad; cut in slices, they look pretty on meat salad; cut with celery, they are nice to serve in peppers with a taste of onion.

Tomatoes—Cut tomatoes like pond lilies; serve with slices of cucumbers, as a salad. Cut as cups, take out center, mix with cucumber and celery, and serve with mayonnaise; these cups can also be used for sweetbreads and chicken. Serve in slices, with cottage cheese between. Cut nice tomatoes in half and put cheese flowers in center; serve on lettuce leaves.

Vegetable Soup. A good vegetable soup is made in this way: Brown in three tablespoons of butter in a saucepan a sliced onion, a sliced carrot, a sliced tomato, a sliced turnip, a stick of celery and a parsnip. After they have browned for ten or fifteen minutes, add a quart slowly a pint of cold water and three or four tomatoes, two or three more stalks of celery, some parsley and a carrot, and simmer gently for an hour or so. Then add three tablespoons of bread crumbs and rub the soup through a strainer. Season well with pepper and salt, and after it is removed from the fire add a couple of tablespoonsful of butter. Serve with finely minced parsley sprinkled over the top and pass croutons with it.

Enjoying the Service.

Eight-year-old Donald was usually restless in church, so his mother was doubly gratified one Sunday morning to see him sitting with clasped hands and bowed head throughout a lengthy prayer.

When, later, she expressed appreciation of his attentive manner the boy's face softened with a pleasant memory. "That fly," he chuckled, "was in and out of my hands exactly 27 times."—Harper's Magazine.

GAME OF IDENTITY PLEASING

One Player is Asked Questions Until He Recognizes Character He Then Represents.

There are two ways of playing the game. The first method is to send one player out of the room. The others then decide upon a well-known character in history or fiction without the absent one is to represent. He is then recalled and each of the others, in turn, asks him a question about himself until he recognizes the character that has been thrust upon him. On his return the player may be assailed with such questions as: "Did you like life on an island?" "You must have grown tired of keeping your arms crossed on your chest for so many pictures, didn't you?" "How many of your brothers were kings?" "Is your present residence in Paris to your liking?" It would probably require no more questioning to indicate that Napoleon was the character chosen.

The other form of the game allows the person who goes out to decide upon a character to represent and then act it out for the others to guess. Sometimes the company is divided into two groups and each side in turn acts out an event in the career of the character chosen.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

THIS is the caution applied to the public announcement of Castoria that has been manufactured under the supervision of Chas. H. Fletcher for over 30 years—the genuine Castoria. We respectfully call the attention of fathers and mothers when purchasing Castoria to see that the wrapper bears his signature in black. When the wrapper is removed the same signature appears on both sides of the bottle in red. Parents who have used Castoria for their little ones in the past years need no warning against counterfeiters and imitations, but our present duty is to call the attention of the younger generation to the great danger of introducing into their families spurious medicines. It is to be regretted that there are people who are now engaged in the nefarious business of putting up and selling all sorts of substitutes, or what should more properly be termed counterfeiters, for medicinal preparations not only for adults, but worse yet, for children's medicines. It therefore devolves on the mother to scrutinize closely what she gives her child. Adults can do that for themselves, but the child has to rely on the mother's watchfulness. Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

ELEPHANTS ACT AS NURSES GOT OUT THROUGH SKYLIGHT

Indian Mothers Satisfied Their Children Are Safe From Prowling Animals When Near Their Big Guardian.

It is by no means uncommon in India for the children of a mahout (the keeper of an elephant) to be cared for by his animals, says Harper's Weekly. The whole family of the mahout thus become, as it were, parasites to the elephant by whom they earn their living. Instances are not wanting of a mother's systematic placing of her baby in an elephant's care and within reach of its trunk while the mother herself goes to fetch water or to get wood or materials to cook the family meal.

It is pointed out that no jackal or wolf would be likely to pick up and carry off a baby which was thus confined to the care of an elephant. Most people who have lived in the jungle know how very possible it is for an animal of the first class to carry off a baby when it is lying in a hut or when the mother is unprovided with means to fight off the marauder.

Children brought up in the companionship of an elephant becomes ridiculously familiar with the big pachyderm and take all manner of liberties with him, liberties which the elephant seems to endure on the principal that they do not annoy him while they amuse the child. One may see, it is asserted, a little native child, quite naked, about two feet high, standing on an elephant's bare back and taking it down to the water to bathe, vociferating all the while in most unbecoming terms of native abuse. On arriving at the water the elephant, ostensibly in obedience to the child's command, lies down and enjoys himself, leaving just a portion of his body, like a small island, above the water. Up on this part of the elephant the child will stand and shout, yelling all the more if he has several companions of his own age also in charge of elephants, all wallowing in the water around him. If the child should slip off his island the elephant's trunk immediately replaces him in safety.

These urchins, when they grow up, become assistants to the mahouts and in time eventually attain the dignity of becoming mahouts themselves.

Many a politician doesn't know which side of the fence he is on until he falls off.

Brooklyn Woman, Locked in Office Building, Left by the Roof In-stead of the Door.

A prisoner in her ladies' tailoring shop on the top floor of the factory building at 49 East Broadway, New York, Mrs. M. W. Winston, weight 180 pounds, was eventually rescued a few days ago from her predicament by two firemen, a policeman and a janitor, who lowered ropes from the roof of the building through the skylight.

Mrs. Winston, whose home is at 795 De Kalb avenue, Brooklyn, went to her shop in the morning to finish some work, and requested the janitor to leave the front door open so she could get out. The janitor forgot his instructions and Mrs. Winston found the door on the lower floor locked when she wanted to leave.

As she realized there was no other method of getting out she attracted a crowd by pounding on the glass panels of the door, but the spectators were unable to understand her predicament. She then returned to the fifth floor, wrote a note explaining she was locked in and threw it out the window.

The crowd read it and offered suggestions, while a more thoughtful person hurried to Engine Company No. 9, on East Broadway, and explained the situation to the firemen. Volunteers Stephens and Keil, with ropes and an ax, were sent to liberate the woman and they picked up Patrolman Little on the way.

Assisted by the janitor of the adjoining building, the rescuers got to the roof of No. 49 and smashed the skylight. Stephens was lowered into the room and, after considerable persuasion, Mrs. Winston allowed the rope to be tied about her waist.

The three men then pulled and finally got their burden to the roof. Stephens was pulled up later. After thanking her rescuers Mrs. Winston hurried home.

In Accord. "Do Elks and his wife agree?" "On one subject." "And what is that?" "The fact that they never should have married."

Query. "You should register on your party's side." "On the cash register?"

FOR BADGER FAIR

EARLY CLOSING EVENTS LIST
134 OF THE BIG CIR-CUIT LEADERS.

BIG PURSES DRAW THE BEST

Board of Agriculture Appropriates
$24,100 and Country's Classic
Speeders Respond.

GOOD CARD OF RUNNING RACES

The early closing events alone assure better racing than ever before at the Wisconsin state fair, Milwaukee, September 8 to 12. The board of agriculture this year raised the total amount for purses to $24,100, with surprising effect. The early bookings include 134 of the best horses following the various circuits.
Wisconsin horses entered demand special attention.

In the fast 2:05 pace three local horses alone promise to make the contest interesting. They are Manager H. and Peter Pan, owned by D.
G. Fenslow, Ripon; Knight of Strathmore, owned by George Heiler, Monroe; and Rob Roy, owned by John C.
Haley and C. F. Jordan, Madison. Theodore Stierman, Milwaukee, had Kivadinia entered in the three-year-old and 2:30 pace; Union Hal in the three-year-old pace; Claire Tramp in the three-year-old trot; Hal S. and Reba Gilbert in the 2:30 pace. E. R.
Kilgott, Madison, enters Question
Mark in the three-year-old and 2:30 pace, and C. L. Hood, La Crosse, enters Alice McGregor in the 2:18 trot.
Every one of the horses is of highly recognized merit. Other good horses entered in the 2:05 pace are Iowa
Todd, Warner Hall, Gold Hal, Sunny
Jim, Kirby Star, Mollie Darling, Hal
McKinney, Star Brino and King
Daphne.

Twelve are entered in the 2:10 trot. Every horse has a record for splendid performances. Among those best known are Pee Wee, Funny
Crack, Nada, Billy Buff, Arondo,
Denmore, Aquill and Right Guard.
Other classes well filled are the 2:16 trot, 2:24 trot, three-year-old trot,
2:13 pace and 2:30 pace.

Races for which entries close on August 15 are the 2:13 trot, 2:18 trot, 2:21 trot, 2:20 trot, 2:10 pace,
2:15 pace, 2:17 pace, 2:20 pace.
Many good horses are listed in those classes already, assuring good cards.
A special feature of the track this year will be the running races, five to number. There are many good runners in the country, and as the board has appropriated $1,000 to incentive this class of speeders, fast time and exciting contests are certain.

SPELLING MATCH AT FAIR

Board of Agriculture Provides Elimination Series and State Championship Contest.

An old-fashioned "spelling" match brought up-to-date, will be one of the best features of the Wisconsin state fair, Milwaukee, September 8 to 12.
County winners in preliminary contests between pupils of one department rural schools and two department state graded schools will meet at the state fair at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, September 10, and "spell down" for the state championship. Competitors will be provided with badges and the winner of the state championship will receive a silver medal.

In past years complaint has been made among employers that many young people otherwise well educated are deficient in spelling. The board of agriculture and Supt. George W.
Davies, North Freedom, of the education department, devised the state spelling contest with a series of preliminary competitions in the towns and counties as an incentive to direct attention to spelling, and with remarkably satisfactory results. A list of 2,000 words was prepared and by early summer the preliminary contests were in progress in three-fourths of the counties.

In order to confine the good work to the rank and file of pupils none who holds a common school diploma or a diploma of graduation from the eighth grade of a state graded school is allowed to compete. In order for a county winner to be eligible in the state competition, contests must be held in at least fifty per cent of the towns in a county and at least fifty per cent of the schools in each town must be represented in the town contest. Also at least fifty per cent of the towns must be represented in the county contest. County or district contests must be under the supervision of the county superintendents of schools. The state contest at the fair will be in charge of Supt. Davies.

Competitors in the state contest will be guests of the board of agriculture,
Tuesday and Wednesday, September 9 and 10. The board will reimburse these young guests their railroad fare both ways and provide free lodging and board Tuesday and Wednesday.
The preliminary contests must be written, but the contest at the state fair will be oral—genuine "spell down."

THAW SKILLED MAN

ARRESTED IN CANADA AFTER RURAL SHERIFF SEES HIM ON TRAIN.

FUGITIVE IS REFUSED BAIL

Slayer of Stanford White Faces Extradition or Deportation by Dominion Authorities—Has Engaged Counsel.

Sherbrooke, Que., Aug. 21.—Harry K. Thaw, after two days of madcap freedom in his prison again, after a wild flight from Matteawan last Sunday morning. He made more than 500 miles in various ways by automobile, train, farmers' wagons and walking through starlit woods until he reached the little French village of St. Hermeville de Garford, just over the boundary from New Hampshire.

Thaw faces deportation on the ground that he is an undesirable alien and extradition on a warrant charging him with bribery. The warrant already issued in New York state for his arrest on a charge of conspiracy will not suffice to extradite him.

These authorities received word that the district attorney of Dutchess county, in which Matteawan is located, was on his way here prepared to swear to a warrant charging Thaw with bribery—an extraditable offense—if necessary.

In his own defense, Thaw claims that he was merely passing through Canada on his way to Detroit when his passage was interrupted by arrest. He exhibited what he claimed to be transportation to Detroit in support of this claim and cited the case of Jack Johnson to bear out his contention that he cannot be sent back to the United States by the Canadian authorities as long as he is simply passing through the country and intends to go beyond its borders.

District Attorney Conger of Dutchess county, New York, it is understood here, wants Thaw deported. He wants Thaw returned to the United States over that part of the international line touched by the state of New York.

Thaw came into the dominion from New Hampshire, however, and if custom is followed he would go back to New Hampshire.

The Canadian immigration department at Ottawa wired the chief of police here to hold Thaw under the immigration act, indicating that steps will be taken to deport him. This theory was made almost a certainty by the information that the department had sent two inspectors to Sherbrooke with instructions to watch the case and institute proceedings to deport Thaw.

At Coaticook, where he was lodged in the lockup immediately after his arrest, Thaw engaged a local lawyer.

Deputy Sheriff B. H. Kelsea of Coos county, New Hampshire, boarded a Maine Central train at Lancaster and sat down in the smoker to read his paper. He was well on his way to Colebrook, his home, when a well-built man of erect figure, whose dark hair was slightly sprinkled with gray and into whose eyes there was stamped an unusual stare, arose and came to Kelsea's seat. The stranger wanted to know the name of the county seat.

"You don't know who I am?" asked the stranger quietly.

"I think I could give a good guess," Kelsea replied, now certain of his man.

"What am I?"

"You're Thaw—Harry K. Thaw."

"I am Thaw," he said in the same quiet, even tone.

"But you don't want me. You could not do anything with me. I was acquitted of that murder and they can't extradite me."

Taking his cue from Thaw, the deputy replied with equal quietude:

"No, I guess not. Where are you going?"

"I am going to Canada," Thaw said.

"Then I'm going to cross water," Kelsea got off, as he had planned, at Colebrook. One of three men who were with Thaw got off, too. Kelsea thinks to shadow him. Kelsea went home, and a few minutes later was off in a big powered automobile in a whirlwind chase of the train.

Kelsea's road lay through the village of Hermegilde-Garford. He quickly learned of the arrival of the three strangers and telephoned the police at Coaticook. The police, consisting of the village constable, decided to let Thaw pass. At six o'clock in the morning, however, he went to Hermegilde-Garford and placed the three men under arrest. After Thaw's arrest Kelsea telegraphed the asylum authorities at Matteawan, claiming the reward.

39 DROWNED AT SEA

STEAMER STATE OF CALIFORNIA SINKS OFF ALASKA.

Passengers Perish While Asleep in Berths—Steamship Jefferson Picks Up Survivors.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 20.—Thirty-two passengers and seven seamen were lost when the steamer State of California of the Pacific Coast Steamship company's fleet, struck an uncharted rock and was wrecked in Gambier bay, Alaska, on Sunday.

The steamer sunk within three minutes after striking and many passengers were drowned before they could get out of their staterooms.

Dispatches from Juneau say that it is impossible to give the correct list of the missing, as the pursuer saved no records.

News of the wreck and the heavy loss of life did not reach Juneau until the steamship Jefferson arrived with some of the passengers and crew who had been rescued from the icy waters.

Members of the crew found on the raft could hardly be called survivors because they were more dead than alive. All but one died before arriving at Juneau.

The Jefferson steamed with all speed to Gambier bay. As it neared the scene of the wrecked vessel, a score of survivors who had taken to the life rafts were rescued.

Many bodies buoyed up by life preservers were also found floating in the sea.

The only names of passengers lost besides Mrs. Ward and her daughter, that have so far been secured, are as follows:

Miss Risdon and John Vanderlaas and wife.

Leslie Hobro, Miss May Dixon, Mrs. C. E. Spithill and child, Lilian B. Norman, Nick Pitulas, Ben A. Wade, Miss Anna L. Cassidy, W. A. Dyer, Minnette B. Harlan, Blanche Fridd, Miss Alice Johnson, Miss Beardon, J. Holmes, Miss Wilson.

DENIES ULTIMATUM

HUERTA DISAVOWS NOTE TO THE UNITED STATES; VERY CORDIAL TO LIND.

NEGOTIATIONS WITH MEXICO CONTINUE—REPLY TO UNITED STATES MEDIATION OFFER COMES PIECEMEAL—CRISIS STILL TO COME.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Hopeful, though puzzled by the day's developments, administration officials anxiously awaited the receipt of the Huerta government's complete reply to the American note communicated by John Lind, personal representative of President Wilson in Mexico.

The decision upon which both sides in the controversy have been pinning so much faith and the ruling apparently opens the way for Wilson to assume the reins of control without much further fight.

The decision followed close upon the failure of the trustees of state public buildings to meet with Governor Sulzer Monday. It had been intended for the board to meet and decide upon giving rooms to Lieutenant Governor Glynn for his office as acting executive, but when it was found that Governor Sulzer would attend the meeting and attempt to act as chairman, those members who are in opposition to him ignored the governor and did not appear.

The support of Sulzer's contention that he is still in the executive chair has been half-hearted, but the decision of the attorney general undoubtedly will drive the governor's few friends from his side and add to Glynn's faction. Adjutant General Hamilton already has recognized Glynn.

UNIONIZATION TOLL

FREES EMPLOYERS

WISCONSIN MUNICIPALITIES EXEMPTED FROM NECESSITY OF LIABILITY INSURANCE.

MANY FIRMS ARE AFFECTED

All Such as Are Financially Able to Pay Claims Under Workman's Compensation Law, Released, Order of Industrial Commission.

Madison.—The state industrial commission has issued an order exempting all municipalities from the necessity of carrying liability insurance to cover compensation that may be awarded to their employes for injuries under the workman's compensation law. The commission is authorized, under the law, to exempt such employers as may be fully able to pay any awards made against them. The commission believed that all towns, counties, villages and cities of the state are able to pay any awards that may be made against them.

The industrial commission has also exempted 100 private employers from the requirement of carrying liability insurance. These employers have convinced the commission of their ability to pay awards against them. The commission may exempt additional private employers if it is conclusively shown that such employers are financially able to pay all claims under the compensation law.

The commission is closely watching liability insurance companies operating in Wisconsin to see that they are not discriminating in their rates and are treating all patrons alike. These companies will in a short time be required to file in the commission's office a copy or an abstract of all policies issued in the state in order to show that they are dealing fairly with their patrons. The rates vary according to the hazard of the employment, ranging from 28 cents to $1.50 per $100 of wages paid by employers.

TO FIGHT NOXIOUS WEEDS

Question of Extinction of the Scourge Comes Before Farmers' Picnic at Madison.

Madison.—The spread of noxious weeds, such as the Canada thistle and quack grass, has become such a serious tax upon farmers in certain parts of the state that experts in the Wisconsin College of Agriculture have been investigating means by which these pests may be controlled or eradicated, and in many sections have already demonstrated the practicability of their systems of control.

State Senator Joseph A. L. Stone will give a report of the findings so far at a farmers' picnic to be held in Madison on Aug. 20, under the direction of the Chamber of Commerce of that city and the university.

Other speakers who will have a place on the program of the farmers' picnic are Prof. J. G. Sanders, who will discuss the white grub pest and suggest methods of control, and Prof. R. A. Moore, who will tell of the influence of the young people's grain growing contests on the improvement of Wisconsin grown grains.

WIDOW ACCUSED OF MURDER

Arrest of Mrs. Minnie Koehler Follows Verdict of Green Bay Coroner's Jury.

Green Bay.—Following the verdict of a coroner's jury that Otto Koehler, found dead in a field near his home, had met a violent end, Mrs. Minnie Koehler, his widow, was arrested and charged with murder.

The body of the man was found only a few rods from the home in Elk Summit, after the police had been notified of his disappearance, and the woman, who is the mother of fourteen children, had declared she could not find him.

The arrest was caused by the repeated statements of the woman that her husband had been struck by lightning and the fact that the body was found in plain view so near the home. The woman, assisted by one of her sons, put up a stubborn resistance when the sheriff arrived with his warrant and she was taken to the jail with difficulty. According to the testimony of two physicians, Koehler died as a result of a blow on the head.

News Notes of Wisconsin.

Madison.—The way of the self-help student at the University of Wisconsin will be easier by the establishment of a free employment bureau under the auspices of the Alumni association. This bureau originates because of the great interest in the last year of the number of students who earn their way through the institution, or supplement their incomes.

West Bend.—Frank Day found evidence, while scraping the "Horse shoe" hill road, that the man nearest him in Wisconsin lives in Washington county, and also why so many automobile tires had been punctured there recently. Some one had buried a board forty-three inches long in the roadway, with the points of twenty-one wire nails protruding through the road's surface.

Madison.—An order was issued by the railroad commission requiring the Chicago & Northwestern railway to build a viaduct over the track in the village of Mt. Horeb. The village must build the approaches outside the right of way, and settle all claims for damages arising therefrom.

Appleton.—A fund of $2,000 for good roads under the state highway improvement plan has been raised at Kaukauna. This means a total of $6,000 will be expended on good roads in that vicinity.

Madison.—The state board of control will meet Aug. 26, by which time it is expected that all sites for the new home for feeble minded will have been viewed.

Oshkosh.—During an electrical storm lightning struck twenty-seven houses here. Seven fire alarms were turned in.

Milwaukee.—Wisconsin Bull Moosers will probably hold a state conference in Milwaukee before Aug. 30. The session will be held before the big Chicago gathering of the Progressive party which occurs Aug. 30, according to present plans, so that Wisconsin delegates will go to the meeting with complete instructions as to policies.

Madison.—The body of the man found near Merrill Springs was identified as James H. Olforde, switchman, formerly of Milwaukee. He is believed to have died from exhaustion.

Madison.—Whether a person killed by lightning in the open is accidentally killed is a question that presents itself to the industrial commission. If being hit by lightning while performing the duties of employment may be termed an accident under the provisions of the workman's compensation law, then the employer's liability exists and the employe or his heirs are entitled to compensation.

FOR IS HAPPINESS, WHETHER TEMPORAL OR TEMPORAL, THE REWARD THAT MAKES US SEEK IT.

It is happiness, whether eternal or temporal, the reward that makes us seek it. Happiness is but the way-side campings; his soul is in the journey.

MORE GOOD THINGS.

Try some of these unusual dishes. They are as delicious as unusual.

Molasses Crumb Pie.

Mix a rich pie crust and line a pan, make a cupful of flour with a quarter of a cup of brown or granulated sugar, a quarter of a cup of shortening and a teaspoonful of baking powder. Rub these together thoroughly and put in the lined pan, pour over the following mixture, a quarter of a cup of New Orleans molasses, a quarter of a cup of boiling water. Bake in a moderate oven.

This is the season to begin the preparation for winter canned fruit.

Mangoes.

Take green cantaloupes, cut in half and remove the seeds. Soak in brine and scald in spiced vinegar. Stuff and tie together, cover with vinegar, hot or cold. For the filling, chopped cabbage soaked in brine, then well drained, season with horseradish, ginger root, sugar, nutmeg and celery seed. Red peppers are a good addition.

Spiced apples are delicious especially the young green ones in the early market. Prepare a moderately sweet sirup, boil five minutes with a few cloves and twice as much stick cinnamon. Pare the apples and cook until tender a few at a time, remove from the sirup and when all are cooked, cook the sirup until thick and pour over them.

Chow-Chow.

The vegetables used in this are cauliflower, string beans, green tomatoes, red peppers, lima beans, pearl onions, celery cucumbers, small and large. The beans and tomatoes should be soaked by themselves, the other vegetables cut in pieces are soaked in brine, then drain. To three quarts of vinegar make a paste of six tablespoonfuls of mustard, one of turmeric, a cup of flour, two of sugar and two teaspoonfuls of celery seed. Bring to the boiling point and pour white hot over the drained pickles.

My friend is one before whom I may be sincere. Before him I may think aloud.

If the stream at which you wish to drink is muddy, go higher! The fountain is clear.

HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS.

Place a watch under a tumbler near the bed of a sick person, the ticking will not then disturb him, but the time piece may be soaked by themselves, the other vegetables cut in pieces are soaked in brine, then drain. To three quarts of vinegar make a paste of six tablespoonfuls of mustard, one of turmeric, a cup of flour, two of sugar and two teaspoonfuls of celery seed. Bring to the boiling point and pour white hot over the drained pickles.

When slicing tomatoes use a knife with saw teeth as they may be cut better and thinner.

When bottling ketchup or fruit juices, put the corks into boiling water and boil for twenty minutes, they will be pliable and easily inserted into the bottles.

Keep a roll of paper toweling in the kitchen which is absorbent and if grease is spilled use the paper instead of a cloth to wipe it up. The paper makes a good article to wipe out plates before putting them into the dish water.

Being For Angel Cake.

Put a cupful of confectionery sugar in a bowl, add the unbeaten whites of two eggs and mix with the sugar a little at a time until it is soft and creamy, add a few drops of vanilla and some cold water from time to time until soft enough to spread. Do not beat.

Rice Waffles.

To a cup of boiled rice add a cup and a half of milk stir until there are no lumps. Add one-half teaspoonful of salt, two well beaten eggs and two cups of flour, sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Bake quickly.

Heaven Within Them.

Ex-President Taft concluded one of his Yale lectures in the late spring with a wise word on the subject of vacations.

NOTES From MEADOWBROOK FARM

Help out short pastures. Lazy hens are unprofitable. Quality of food brings results. Salt the butter by weight, not by guess. Warm milk is best for the calf, no matter how old it is. Never think of milking a cow until the udder has been brushed. The merits of the scratching shed are shown during bad weather. The careful poulterer avoids large families and keeps his birds busy. Deliver the cream to the creamery or cream station early in the morning. It is the crowded, idle birds that are ever ready to get into some mischief. It is the practice in sections where corn cannot be raised but alfalfa can, to ensile alfalfa. Silage made of corn and soy beans is more digestible than that made from corn alone. Cleanliness in all its details is one of the important things to be borne in mind by the dairyman. The quality of the dam is as important as that of the sire in the production of good horses. Don't wean the pigs too early. Try letting the sow do that and there will be no set back at that time. If the milk sours before the cream rises you will make a poor quality of butter besides losing much cream. If you get tired hearing us talk about silage, throw the paper in the cob basket and go out and build one. Did you ever think that grabbing sheep by the wool makes a sore place on their bodies? It surely does; don't do it. Frequent stirring of ripening cream will make better flavored butter, as it causes the cream to ripen more evenly. There is very little profit in holding over a lot of ducks and geese destined for market after they are ready to go. The farm that is equipped with a small gasoline engine has the very best "show grease" necessary to turn the gasolines. Keep salt where the cows may always get to it. They will not consume too much if allowed to use their own "judgment." It is not too early to select future dairy cows from among this spring's heifer calves. Good dairy stock show their possibilities early. Train the tomatoes on trellis or on a pole like Lima beans. This treatment keeps the fruit off the ground and brings it earlier. Don't cut the asparagus after the middle of June. Give the beds a good cultivating, and keep the weeds out of it for the rest of the season. Golden self-blanching celery is especially desirable for planting late in the season, because it requires much less time to mature than the green sorts. It is cheaper to keep the herd up all the time than to neglect it for awhile and try later to bring it back to condition. The cow won't make up for lost time. Many items on the farm, such as egg-fruit, small potatoes, wastes from the kitchen, and other things which will not sell, find a good market through the hog. The ideal place for hogs in summer is in a wood lot through which passes a little brook. In such a place hogs will grow remarkably fast, even without large quantities of grain. Keep the cows as quiet as you can till the time comes for turning them out to pasture. They are not just easy these warm days. They are so anxious to get a bite of grass! Better to keep the bars up a few days longer, though. In the big cities many heartless contractors work their teams all day and hire them out for the night work, giving them only two or three hours rest in the twenty-four. These are the horses that are often sold to farmers in bargains when they are worn out. It costs a certain amount to produce every animal and every product raised on the farm. If it is sold for only the producing price the sale is a very poor one. Every dollar above that secured means profit and the better the salesman the better the net profit from the farm. When the farmer gets ready to pay something extra for the expense of producing a well-bred hog, and stops buying pure-bred culs, then he will have no reason to complain about

Get a new milk pail. Chicks relish skim milk. Comfortable hens are layers. Balking drivers make balky horses. Encourage turkeys to roost at home. Lazy hens, like lazy men, are not money makers. It is important to keep the poultry houses scrupulously clean. See that the dairy cows get all the salt they need these days. It is not the quantity of food that brings results, but the quality. Alfalfa hay is about the best roughage that can be given the cow. Let the colt have shelter from storm, but let him have access to pasture, also. Too much scientific work in the head business is a failure. Just use common sense. Give the ewes daily exercise and fresh air, but do not expose them to storms. Overcrowding is one of the worst and most frequent mistakes made by poultrymen. Selling too young and feeding too long are the two wrong ends of the hog business. Trees that are making a rapid growth of wood do not generally bear much fruit. Ducklings grow twice as rapidly as chickens, and so require more food for the first few weeks. The Hollanders have evolved the great milk breeds by working with and not against nature. Eggs ought to weigh a pound and a half to the dozen or fifty-five pounds net to the thirty dozen eggs. Where possible, a little grazing at night will help the cows keep up the milk flow at this time of year. The hens should be allowed any kind of food that is needed as an incentive to greater egg production. It's more "feed" than it is "breed," but without the latter as a foundation the former becomes wasteful exercise. A liberal amount of forage crops will never come amiss. If not needed for selling purposes they are good for hay. A cow must furnish 150 pounds of butter fat before she has paid her bills. After that, what she gives is profit. A good grain mixture for chicks is two parts cracked corn, two parts cracked wheat, two parts kafir and one part millet. Experiments have shown that the greatest gains in fattening are made by young stock when two to four months old. It is poor policy to change the quarters of hens or pullets while laying for it usually checks or stops egg production. All clover is rich in protein or muscle forming food, and it is one of the best kind of foods for growing pigs and for brood sows. Western dairymen are finding out that cowpeas are almost equal to clover or alfalfa as a dairy ration and are a much surer crop. Diversified farming is the safest, different soils require different crops, and upon all farms rotation is essential to profitable production. One point in favor of green manuring is that it distributes the fertility through the soil more evenly than can be done in any other way. After maturity an animal gains in fat only and so makes less gain in proportion to the food consumed and consequently less profit to the feeder. Alfalfa not only furnishes protein or flesh-making material, which is deficient in corn, but it tends to offset the heavy character of a ration consisting of corn alone. Hog raisers differ as to which is the best breed but, as an experienced breeder said recently, it makes little difference provided we have a good foundation to start with. When you hang a lantern up in the barn, fasten it so that it cannot be knocked down. Sometimes we put them where they will fall if we by accident rise and hit them with our heads. And then—well, then there is trouble, and maybe the barn is not insured, either. Attack Mine Assesment. Madison.—Suit was begun by the Kar-Piquette Mining company, Platteville, against the state to contest the income tax law as applied to income from mines. School Fund Held Up. Racine.—Because there are no apprentices in Racine factories, the industrial board of education has held up the state appropriation of $4,000 which should come to the Racine industrial schools. State officers will make an investigation next week. Land Brings Record Price. Neenah.—Barney Mickle, a farmer in the town of Dundas, sold his farm

STAMPS FOR THE CAPITOL

All State Officers to Get Furnishings and Supplies Under New Rule—Previously Were Received Through Secretary of State.

Madison.—Attorney Gen. W. C. Owen ruled in response to an inquiry from State Superintendent C. P. Cary that a board of education of a high school district can not lawfully establish and maintain at its own expense a training course for teachers in such school. Furthermore, under chapter 555, Laws of 1913, no high school board in a county containing a county or a joint county training school for teachers can lawfully establish a training course for teachers in its high school. The attorney general, however, held that the conditions prescribed in chapter 555, laws of 1913, did not interfere with training courses established and approved by the state superintendent of public instruction before the enactment of such chapter. In counties having county or joint county training schools for teachers any free high school district may, under approval of the state superintendent of public instruction, establish and maintain a training course for teachers and receive an amount of state aid equal to the amount expended by it for wages for teachers employed in such department. W. L. Essman, state superintendent of public instruction, is authorized under chapter 759, laws of 1913, to furnish office furniture, supplies, and stamps to all state officers in the capitol. Before the passage of the new law every department of state government and its commissions, boards, and bureaus secured their stamps and supplies through the secretary of state.

MAY ARREST PEA CANNERS

Are Charged With Failure to Obey Labor Law Rules Governing Hours of Employees.

Madison.—It is reported here that several pea canners are to be arrested on the charge of violating state labor laws. When the Wisconsin Industrial Commission granted an order permitting the canners to employ women for a longer time than ten hours a day for a period of two weeks, they laid down stringent rules as to the way in which the Wisconsin canners should be operated. A careful watch was kept on every cannery in the state. It is understood that where a substantial compliance with the laws was attempted by canneries there will be no arrests, but where there was little heed paid to the laws arrests will follow.

WISCONSIN GROCERS ELECT

F. Finger, Fond du Lac, Chosen President by Annual Convention at Racine.

Racine.—George F. Finger, Fond du Lac, at the closing session of the annual convention of the Wisconsin Retail Grocers and General Merchants' association, was elected president to succeed A. D. Hermes, Racine. W. H. Robinson, Kenosha, was elected first vice-president, and S. N. Fish, Appleton, second vice-president. James P. Dovern, Milwaukee, was elected treasurer and M. Slatery of Milwaukee, secretary. The convention will be held next year at Two Rivers. The convention favored national and state pure food laws.

THREE DRAGGED INTO RIVER

Runaway Horse Plunges Into Water at Nekosha and Woman and Children Nearly Drown.

Grand Rapids.—Mrs. James Damek and her two children of the town of New Rome, Adams county, had a remarkable escape from drowning when their horse took fright and ran directly for the ferry which crosses the Wisconsin river at Nekosha. The animal ran onto the waiting ferry and plunged off the opposite end with the wagon and occupants into the swift current. The ferryman succeeded in rescuing Mrs. Damek, and the next one on the scene rescued the 7-year-old girl, but the swift current carried the baby beyond the reach of the shore rescuers. The baby's clothes acted as a float and kept the child above water while being carried swiftly toward the dam a few hundred feet below, and a rescue was made.

BIG SUM FOR GOOD ROADS

Preparing to Spend $150,000 the Coming Year for Improving Highways.

Monroe.—A total of about $10,000 has been subscribed by the residents of Green county for road improvement which will mean an expenditure of six times that much or $60,000 on the specified in the petitions filed with the different town clerks of the county. The clerks have until Sept. 1 to send the petitions to the county clerk. This amount of $10,000 raised by subscription must be met by a like appropriation on the part of the townships and the county in turn must supply $20,000 to the fund, then the state must provide the same sum as the county, thus making the grand total six times the amount raised by subscription. In addition to this sum of road money, there are the regular funds voted by the townships at the spring election which both the county and state must meet. It is evident that the total amount to be spent on the highways of the county in 1914 will run well over $150,000.

Dies at Age of 108

Milwaukee.—William Walsh, aged 108, said to be the oldest man in Wisconsin, and known to horse racing fans as "Dad" Walsh, is dead at his home in Waldo. Mr. Walsh was born in Kerry county, Ireland, and came to this country at the age of 9 years. About fifty years ago he came to Wisconsin and purchased a farm where the town of Waldo is now located and developed a keen interest in race horses, possessing a number of them. Even as late as eight years ago he accomplished the remarkable feat of driving a colt in a race at Plymouth, Wis.

JUDGE JOHN W. SALE IS DEAD

Pneumonia is Fatal to Jurist Who Was Long on Bench of Rock County Probate Court.

Janesville.—John Wesley Sale, for twenty-seven years judge of the rock county probate court, died here of pneumonia. He had served ten years as district attorney, twice as an alderman of this city, and was a congressional delegate at the convention nominating James G. Blaine. Judge Sale was born on a farm in La Porte county, Indiana, in June, 1842, but his parents moved to Rock county and settled on a farm just west of the city of Evansville, three months after his birth. After graduating from the University of Michigan law school, Judge Sale settled in Janesville, forming a partnership with the late C. G. Williams, which continued until Mr. Williams was elected to Congress. He was appointed by the late Gov. Rusk county judge of Rock county to fill the unexpired term of Judge Pritchard. He remained on the county bench since his appointment, having been, without opposition, elected each four years.

MARRIAGE LAWS CAUSE INQUIRIES

ATTORNEY GENERAL IS RECEIVING MANY LETTERS FROM NON-RESIDENTS OF STATE. ACT IS EXPLAINED BY OWEN

Head of Wisconsin's Legal Department Says Thirty-Day Residence Period Required Only Where Application is Made for Waiving Delay.

Madison.—Persons desiring to get married in Wisconsin do not have to be residents of the state for thirty days, as has been generally reported in the newspapers, said Attorney General W. C. Owen. "Some one," he said, "started a story to the effect that the legislature had recently passed a law requiring parties to be residents of the state for a period of thirty days before they could be married legally here. No such law was passed. The law probably referred to provides that a person who applies to a court of record for an order authorizing marriage without the delay of five days after the issuing of a license for the marriage must be a resident of the state for at least thirty days. Either party to a marriage or the parent or guardian of the female concerned may apply for such an order."

MINE TAX LAW IS ATTACKED

Platteville Company Contends Ore Taken Out Should Be Considered Depreciation.

Madison.—Suit has been started in circuit court of Dane county by the Kar Piquette Mining Co., Platteville, against the state to contest the income tax law as applied to income from mines, levied and collected for the year 1912. The question to be brought to issue in the suit is that of depreciation, the company claiming that the value of the ore mined should be figured as depreciation of the mining property. The state tax commission, while it holds that a certain percentage of depreciation should be allowed for the ore taken out, does not agree with the company entirely.

PHONE CASE TO HIGH COURT

La Crosse Physical Connection Is to Be Taken Before United States High Tribunal.

Madison.—Plans to take the La Crosse telephone physical connection case to the United States supreme court are disclosed by the appeal from the ruling of the railroad commission, which has just been filed with Atty-Gen. Owen. Last May the commission ordered the "Bell" company to connect the local telephone system in La Crosse. The "Bell" company has now started suit against Frank Winter, the La Crosse Telephone Co., and the railroad commission to have the order set aside.

Sons of Herman Disbanded.

Neenah.—All old officers of the Sons of Herman were re-elected at the annual state convention here, and then the organization disbanded. The Sons of Herman is one of the oldest fraternal organizations in the country, and with which the state body was affiliated until nearly twenty years ago. Since that time it has been an independent organization, securing new members and paying its own death benefits. There were 469 members in Wisconsin.

WILLIAM A. RADFORD EDITOR

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 138 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

A seven-room cottage house that may be built for about $2,000 under favorable circumstances, is illustrated in the architect's perspective and floor-plans here given. Downstairs there are a parlor, dining room, and kitchen, with one bedroom, besides a bathroom having one entrance from the bedroom and another entrance from the kitchen, which facilitates warming the bathroom from the kitchen when there is no fire in the furnace. There is a convenient grade entrance to the cellar, which may be reached by four steps down from the kitchen. This arrangement leaves room in the corner of the entrance for a good-sized refrigerator—a provision that is valuable in any house, and one that is appreciated by every housekeeper. The size of this little cottage is 28 feet wide by 38 feet long, exclusive of the porch, which is not very large on the ground and not very high; but there is room for four rooms downstairs and three rooms upstairs, with a good, unfinished attic for storage; and there is plenty of closet room. A woman never gets too many closets. Architects are often worried because of the demand for more closets than they can find room for. One advantage of arranging bedrooms in a roof like this, is that the low portions of the roof may be used to advantage for this purpose. Some women prefer an attic over the bedroom, but many would rather have a storeroom of this kind because it saves climbing two pairs of stairs. It is impossible to have every good thing included in one plan. Cottage houses may be lighter in construction than two-story houses, and they are more economical where the roof space is utilized as it is in this house. The three bedrooms on the second floor represent just that property cost about $1,075, which was $1,000 more than the owner had to put into it. It required good persuasive powers to induce a money-lender to advance such a fabulous sum as $1,000, and the borrower had to put up personal security as a side issue to a money shark to get the deal through—all of which illustrate the difference between doing business in good times and bad times. It will be noticed that the rooms, while not large, are big enough to accommodate the necessary furniture, and big enough for comfort. There is not a room in the house that is small enough or awkward enough to be ashamed of. A house of this size gives an opportunity to have a bedroom downstairs—a convenience that every house does not possess. There is generally, in most families, at least one old person who objects to climbing stairs. It would be difficult to arrange a more comfortable bedroom than this one; in fact, few large houses have a room of this kind. As a usual thing, when building, too little attention is paid to the comfort of the old people. They have spent their lives in the interests of the family, and it much room that you do not have to provide siding for. The roof answers for both cover and side enclosure. Some years ago a man built a house like this on a good street in a thriving city. All the other houses on the street were larger, and he was abused for building a small house; but he finished it up nicely, planted vines and flowers in front, and at the side, and made the ground very rich to grow plenty of grass for a green, thrifty lawn. In less than a year's time, his little cottage was pointed out as being the most attractive home on the

is only right that they should be remembered in their old age. We frequently see aged people who are compelled to stay upstairs day after day because they dread the trip up and down. The appearance of this house depends a good deal on the colors and stains used for outside decoration. On general principles, it is a good plan to avoid all shades of green. Green paint is almost certain to fade; and during the process, it is likely to take on some very flicky shades of color that are extremely disappointing. Nothing looks better than a light shade of green when it is first put on; but nothing looks worse after it has been exposed to the sun and storms for five or six months. If a man ever wants to kick himself for doing something absurd in the decoration line, it is for painting a house green. Drabs and browns are always agreeable; and generally such paints are lasting. Colors, however, depend so much on the quality of the materials used that great care is necessary in making the purchase if you buy the paint yourself, or in making a contract if you have a painter do the job.

A movement is on foot to bring about government inspection of paints, something after the present manner of food inspection. It seems ridiculous that dishonest paint manufacturers are permitted to grind up any sort of old junk and sell the pasty product for pure white lead. No wonder honest manufacturers have become disgusted with such work, and it is hoped their efforts to secure protection for honest goods will be successful.

It makes a great difference whether the painter himself thoroughly understands the business. A man who knows paint is not likely to be badly deceived. If he gets pay sufficient, he would much prefer to use good materials. There are two classes of painters to avoid—one don't know, and the other don't care.

street. Instead of being a damage to other property, it was a valuable acquisition. A great deal depends on the way things are done. It is easy to put up a big barn or a house that no one likes, and it is just as easy to build a cottage house like this for a small outlay and make it into a very interesting property proposition. "Rose Cottage," as he called his little home, was talked about, and soon became known away beyond its immediate neighborhood, because it was such a neat, pretty home. It was built soon after the hard times in the early nineties, when building materials were plentiful and money was scarce, when grass grew between the piles of lumber in the yards, and lumber was rotting in the piles while good mechanics were begging for work at any kind of wages. DID YOU EVER STOP TO "THINK"

About the "Twin Tables"

Up to this time, Pedestal Tables have been made with a single pedestal, but their shortcomings are so many that one manufacturer has succeeded in overcoming them by using two pedestals—each oval or oblong and complete in itself. They are called

"Twin" Pedestal Extension Tables

They are superior to others because:

No troublesome lock necessary. Gaping or standing open at bottom impossible. As perfect extended as when closed.

Extending a "Twin" to 6 ft. the top open without spreading pedestals. Prevents marring of finish on legs. If extended further than this the pedestals spread, giving the most rigid support possible without exposing unfinished surfaces, locks, bolts, etc., as is the case with the single pedestal tables, a feature worthy of your attention, especially when entertaining friends at luncheon or if table is constantly used in the extended position.

"Twin" are made in numerous designs and finishes.
