OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

Wisconsin Varieties

Top The Market

It will be a matter of surprise to Wisconsin people that the Wolf River and Wealthy apples were in the lead in the New York market last week, but such is the report in the New York Fruit Trade Journal.

The report shows that the Wisconsin varieties brought $4.50 to $5.00 per barrel, while Kings "rarely exceeded $3.00" and generally sold for $3.00 to $3.50. Twenty ounces for $3.00 to $3.50. Greenings around $3.00 and other kinds about the same.

It is now about time that we discontinue our regrets that we cannot grow the kinds that bring the lower prices and content ourselves with the varieties that bring the top prices.

Certainly Diversified

The Oconto Falls Union Farmer-Herald, in its writup of the intertownship fair in Oconto county, says, among other things:

"As an illustration of the variety of crops that can be successfully grown in Oconto county we may mention the fact that in the agricultural department was a display made by Ferdinand Ehlinger, who has a farm a half mile west of the village limits on which he raised the almost unbelievable number of 113 varieties of fruits, grains and vegetables. Here is one of the greatest attractions of Wisconsin as an agricultural state—the diversified crops that can be successfully and profitably grown."

JURY'S VERDICT IS "NOT GUILTY"

Hunter, Who Was Arrested by Game Warden, Wins His Case

The case of the state of Wisconsin against Gustave Grandle, who was arrested by Deputy Game Warden Hall on the charge of shooting aquatic fowl in open water, came up for trial before Justice Thoma last Monday morning at 9 o'clock and resulted in defendant being found not guilty.

The defendant's attorney, J. C. Russell, called for a jury trial and accordingly jury was impaneled, consisting of D. D. Monroe, Peter Kreutz, John Klein, John Lacher, Adelbert Hagen and John Walters.

The case went to the jury about five o'clock, and after being out about ten minutes returned a verdict of "not guilty." Dist. Atty. Sawyer appeared for the state, and Mr. Hall, his son, Elmer, and Peter Weyer, a farmer residing near Pike Lake, were sworn as witnesses for the state.

Grandle testified that he was arrested on a boat in open water. The only witness besides Mr. Grandle sworn for the defense was Alex Janzer, who was fishing on Pike Lake at the time Mr. Grandle is claimed to have violated the law. Mr. Janzer testified that Mr. Grandle did not shoot in open water. Pleas were made to the jury by the attorneys on both sides and a large crowd was present at the trial. The cases against the other two hunters who were arrested on the same charge were dropped.—Hartford Times

New Story by Rex Beach

"Going Some"—that's the title of the next serial story to appear in the STATESMAN. Watch for the opening installment of this great story by Rex Beach in a future issue.

This romance of strenuous affection has proven highly successful as a play that has caused thousands of Americans to laugh. It tells of a house party on a western ranch to which comes a college youth who poses, or rather imposes, before his friends as a star athlete. As a matter of fact the youth's activities in this direction had been confined to the cheering line, and when the "boys" on the ranch arrange for a spitting match between the chap and a retired professional on a rival ranch, the fireworks start. It brings out some of the funniest situations imaginable. You can't afford to miss this story.

Change of Schedule on Local Rural Routes

Postmaster George H. Schmidt, acting official notice from Washington, D. C., last week of the change of the schedule time of which the rural carriers are to leave and return to the post office. Special allowance is made to carriers on route 1 and 4, these two carriers using automobiles to deliver the mail. They are to leave at 7:00 A. M. and return at 10:00 A. M., while they are using their autos. The old schedule provided that the carriers left the post office at 7:30 A. M.

Got Hand in Corn Shredder

George Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Johnson of Campbellsport, had an experience, which he will not forget so soon, last Saturday. He was feeding corn into a corn shredder, when suddenly his hand got caught in the shredder, crushing it severely. Medical aid was at once summoned and at first it was thought that the hand had to be amputated. He was taken Monday to the hospital at Fond du Lac, where it was learned that his hand could be saved. He is getting along nicely at the present writing.

PARCEL POST WARNINGS

Patrons of Parcel Post Must See That Parcels are Securely Wrapped for Mail

The following instructions relative to parcels improperly wrapped when presented for mailing, have been received here by Postmaster George H. Schmidt.

Washington, Sept. 30, 1913.—The Postmaster—Corn plants have reached the department of the frequent breakage or damage to articles sent through the mails as parcels post, due evidently to improper wrapping or packing. This condition indicates clearly that careful attention is not being given to section 57, Parcel Post Regulations, which states that "Postmasters" refuse to receive for mailing parcels not properly indorsed or packed for safe shipment.

Umbrellas, canes, gold sticks, and articles of like character must not be accepted for mailing unless they are strapped securely to strips of wood of the same length and are otherwise wrapped and made sufficiently strong to withstand the impact from heavier packages coming against them in the process of handling in their various stages of transit.

Perishable articles—particularly berries and fruit, also paints and oils etc., contact with which would be destructive to the contents of other parcels must be denied admission to the mails, unless the regulations with reference to packing as set forth in Sections 25 to 37 are observed strictly. Notices have come to the department where there has been carelessness in this regard and damage to other mail has resulted therefrom.

You are cautioned to give this matter particular attention and to instruct your employees accordingly, also to give the subject matter appropriate publicity in your district in order that the public may be better informed as to the rules in regard to packing and thus guard against the danger of damage to merchandise they desire to forward by mail.

Must Have Second Papers

All males of foreign birth who have not secured their second citizenship papers will not be able to vote at the next election. Even though they may have voted in the past, they will not be allowed to vote hereafter unless they have secured their second papers. This law was passed a number of years ago and goes into effect on the twenty-sixth of this month.

NEW AUTOIST HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Alfred Barth of Campbellsport Has Accident While Returning Home With a New Auto

A new Overland car, just purchased by Alfred Barth of Campbellsport, went over a four foot embankment and into a ditch Sunday afternoon, while enroute from Fond du Lac to Campbellsport. The accident happened a mile and a half north of Eden station. Barth was driving the car for the first time and with him were four of his friends, who went along to Fond du Lac to accompany him in the new auto.

The car was slightly damaged and the escape of serious injury to all was lucky considering the manner in which the accident happened. Barth, it is said, was unaccustomed to driving a car. The front axle of the machine was slightly bent and a section of the wind shield broken. The car was able to return to the city under its own power.

Frank Falk Passes Away

Frank Falk, aged 64 years, 7 months and 25 days passed away at his home in the town of Auburn last Monday, after an illness with his wife, whom he married in 1868 and whose maiden name was Miss Ernestina Scheling. ## CELLAR THIEVES AT WORK

Instead of Securing Loot, They Get a Nice Foot Bath

Cellar thieves were again busy in this village, for last week Friday evening, they entered the basement of Dr. Karl Hausmann on Fond du Lac Ave. The thief however, was not successful in his attempt, for he was scared away and secured nothing, but instead in his act, no doubt, received a foot bath, as the cellar was filled with water, caused by the heavy rain of the earlier part of the evening. The guilty party being heard by Dr. and Mrs. Hausmann, escaped without being noticed, which is regretted, as it perhaps would have wended up the mystery of numerous other cellar burglaries.

The same building was entered during the early part of Sunday evening, this time not in the cellar, but on the main floor. The Doctor and his wife were absent from the house at the time. Upon their arrival home about 10 P. M., they were astonished to see all the wash and clothes from a closet strewn all over the floor. Nothing, however, was found to be gone.

That the burglar or burglars, should do a trick of this kind is a mystery. Thinking perhaps they would get a revenge for the foot bath received a few nights previous. Something should be done to be done immediately to capture the cellar thief or thieves. After capturing the guilty party or parties, no sentence should be extended as to punishment, but the full extent of the law in regard to punishment should be given them.

High School Notes

Professor A. W. Tressler, secretary of the Board of Accredited Schools, was a visitor at the high school one day last week.

The school chorus is being improved under the instructions of Miss Reinke of Marinette, Wis., and the scales are being studied at present.

Here's to the Freshie, who's here with a smile, and the Sophomore who's here with a song. But the Juniors and Seniors are always worth while, when everything goes dead wrong.

Every high school boy and girl should say with fervor and devotion during the week "to test"—Do you know what it is? "If not don't try to find out as there is no cure for it unless it would be three or four zeroes applied to the class records about ten times a day for five days each week.

Two very popular freshman wish to organize a "Hikers Club" to teach the rest of the school how to make long distances and not get tired. This is a remedy which is guaranteed not to wear off more than ten pounds a day for a slender and more than twenty-three pounds for the porter.

Wanted—"Private secretaries" for all the wounded heroes of the 1913 basketball teams. Apply at Groeschel's hall on any Tuesday or Thursday evening, after practice. No experience required, but those that do apply, must not suffer from "nervousness." This will be incurable when the heroes discharge them from duty after the basketball season is over.

A petition has been drawn up and the senior, Junior and Sophomore classes will be asked to sign it. The petition reads:—"Classes of the K. H. S. We, the undersigned, on the fifteenth day of October, A. D. 1913, do petition the school board to install an elevator in the school to be used for the benefit of the Freshmen. It will save the stairway for the use of the other classes.

The basket ball teams of this season have begun their regular practice, and with an early start, good work may be expected of them this year. Officers of the boys' team are as follows: Coach, Prin. A. L. Simon; Manager, Harvey Brandt; Captain, Edgar Romaine; and secretary and treasurer, Erwin Mohme. The girls have elected the following officers for their team: Coach and Manager, Miss Lydia Guth, secretary and treasurer. The captain of the girls' team will be chosen when the regular team is organized.

Upper Wisconsin Booming

That the upper Wisconsin counties are on the boom is indicated by the fact that the Rusk county fair, produced such a wonderful array of farm products that the fair association could not resist the temptation to bring an exhibit to Milwaukee, where it provoked the admiration of thousands who had never thought of upper Wisconsin as a desirable farming region. The greatest surprise was the corn, alfalfa and apples.

It is time that all the upper counties got active along these lines and reinforced the work of the Wisconsin Advancement association with the real goods.

REMAINS OF MRS. NAUMANN FOUND

Lifeless Body Found in Creek Last Saturday Morning by Neighbor

After being lost for a week, the lifeless body of Miss Minnie Naumann of Beechwood, was found last Saturday under a bridge in a creek, which passes through the Frank Naumann farm. The place where she was found is about one thousand feet from Mr. Naumann's residence, from which she wandered away during the night of Oct. 3rd.

The body was first discovered by George Krautkramer, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Krautkramer, who are neighbors of the Naumanns. Mr. Krautkramer, was at the time engaged in filling a tank of water at the bridge, when he smelt a peculiar odor. Upon investigating he was horrified to see the lifeless body lying in the water. He at once proceeded to the Naumann home and told the news.

A coroner's inquest was held on Saturday afternoon, the jury proclaiming that Miss Naumann met her death by accidental drowning. Miss Naumann had been in ill health for over a year, and the right side of her body was paralyzed. What her reason was for leaving her home, will remain a mystery.

The funeral was held last Monday afternoon, with services in the Methodist church at Beechwood and interment in the Beechwood cemetery.

Bloomer Has Potato Record

We are in receipt of a remittance to the Statesman from Martin and Steichen of Bloomer, Wis. With their remittance came a newspaper clipping from the Chippewa Herald, which reads as follows:

O. A. Abrahamson of Bloomer, was here on probate business. He says that on Sept. 30th and Oct. 1 there were loaded at Bloomerside tracks 78 carloads of potatoes from the wagons. This is the record. On Saturday, Sept. 27, there arrived in Bloomer 327 wagon loads of potatoes, many drawn by four horses on account of the bad roads and Bloomer has some bad highways thereabouts. Most of the loads could have been hauled by two horses on good roads. Large quantities of potatoes were stored at Bloomer as it is predicted that the "spuds" will soar in price shortly. The market was hammered down by the great rush to market which was flooded with green potatoes.

In capturing the world's champion ship award on alfalfa upper Wisconsin made a tenstrike. The whole middle west is enthusiastic on the subject of alfalfa, and very properly so, and this distinction at the greatest national show in the world has brought attention to the cheap upper Wisconsin lands as nothing else could have done.

Inspect Your Heating Plant

Defective furnaces, boilers stoves and fireplaces, stoves, stove pipes and hot-air pipes too neat woodwork, defective chimneys, sparks from chimneys and chimneys burning out, and placing ashes in wooden receptacles, on wood floors or against wooden walls last fiscal year, were responsible for 595 fires in this state, over 24 per cent of the total number of fires, and a fire rate of $9,550 or over 18 per cent of total fire loss.

These fires were responsible for snuffing out many human lives. Ordinary care and timely repairs would have prevented most of this fire waste and loss of human life.

The danger season for this class of fires is fast approaching so do not delay to have your heating plant inspected by a competent man or make the needed repairs at once.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

High School Students Hurt

Three Jackson boys, students of the West Bend high school had quite an experience while returning to their home last Wednesday evening. Not wishing to wait for a later train they boarded a freight train, not knowing that the train would not stop at Jackson. They were determined to get off at Jackson, however, and while the train tore through the town at great speed they leaped. Edgar Schmidt had his nose broken, Walter Martin sustained the fracture of his left arm, and William Rheingans was badly bruised. A lucky escape at that for all of them, and it isn't likely that they will jump off any more swiftly moving trains.—West Bend Pilot.

Another Arrest

Richard Bielek, who is the cheese maker at the Six Corners factory, in the town of Addison, was arrested on a warrant sworn to by jury inspector E. J. Aderheld, who charged him with maintaining the said factory premises and utensils in an unsanitary condition. Defendant was brought before Justice H. J. Thoma, and entered a plea of guilty and admitted that he had been convicted on a similar charge once before. The court imposed a fine of $50 and costs of $8.96.—Hartford Press.

Sold Gingseng

Ernest Struebing, who has quite a large ginseng bed at his residence in the Kessel Wheelock addition sold a portion of the crop last week to a Fond du Lac buyer receiving $200 for same. As this is not the entire crop harvested this year it looks like a very profitable institute.—Hartford Press.

BUSINESS PHILOSOPHY

Which Is The Greater Robber?

The Farmer Who Robs His Soil, or the Man Who Robs the Community?

Copyrighted 1913 by National Business Philosophy Association, Milwaukee.

By THOMAS J. SULLIVAN.

In these days of advanced scientific farming, the farmer who robs his soil has become very unpopular among his neighbors. The agricultural press has for years exerted its influence in an effort to stop the soil robber.

The high grade, successful farmer is the farmer who increases rather than diminishes the fertility of his land. Every year he changes his crop with that one object in view, to enrich his soil and reads very carefully, the agricultural reports, paying particular attention to the reports on experiments made by advanced and progressive farmers.

Why he does this is plain. He knows very well that it would be useless to plant good seed in worn out soil. It is his wish and intention to make a profit on the investment in seed and labor as well as in soil, and this of course could not be accomplished if the soil were not fruitful.

These are all plain and evident truths, are they not?

We would ask this very same farmer, who would be insulted were he charged with neglecting to keep his soil enriched to the highest possible degree, to explain how he can deliberately rob his community by buying his goods from out of town concerns.

The farmer plants seed in the soil and in order to produce results he must keep that soil fertilized. Being himself planted in the community, he does his trading in a foreign city, and thereby assists his community in becoming poor.

Why should this farmer have greater respect for the seed which he plants than he has for himself, his family, or his neighbor?

There is a community in Wisconsin, in the center of which is a city, embracing about 10,000 people. It is conservatively estimated that something more than $300,000 annually is sent out of town to mail order houses for the purchase of goods which could just as well be secured at home.

This estimation is based on the figures secured from reliable sources in the fore mentioned community, that is, from the banker, express agent and postmaster.

This perhaps is the strongest evidence possible of "robbing" a community.

The answer to the above may be that a man has a right to buy where he pleases. It is his money he is spending, and he has the right to spend it away if he wishes, particularly if he feels that he is to be the gainer thereby.

Quite true! In this glorious America of ours every citizen is privileged to consult his own pleasures in spending his money. He can spend it or hoard it up, or he may contribute it for the purpose of building monuments to the memory of great men. No one can lawfully dispute that right.

Likewise the soil robber has the right to use his land as he wishes, and without any consideration for its future fertility. The land belongs to him and he can do as he pleases with it. He is a free man surrounded by hundreds of laws enacted for the protection of his rights.

After he has converted a once fruitful soil into a barren waste he is ready to sell, and move to parts where there is said to be rich virgin soil that can be had very cheap, and this is what the land robber invariably does. That also is his privilege.

The parallel drawn between the two cases has a tendency to give the community robber a chance to pause and consider. He should give the matter serious attention and thought, and endeavor to figure out a method by which he can by co-operating with the public spirited citizens of his community aid in increasing its wealth just as the honest farmer increases the richness and productiveness of his soil. In this way only can a large and substantial community be attained.

A good local market is necessary to every community if it is to prosper.

BREAK WITH HUERTA

PRESIDENT WILSON SENDS MEXICAN WORD OF HORROR OVER USURPATION OF POWER.

U. S. WARSHIPS WILL FOLLOW

Lind Likely to Return When Warrent Republic's Chief Replies to Warning He Calls "Intemperate"—Cabinet is Alert.

Washington, Oct. 15.—The United States government informed President Huerta of Mexico Tuesday that it looked with abhorrence and amazement on his assumption of both executive and legislative powers, and that in view of his course it could not regard as constitutional the elections planned for October 26.

Two notes were sent to Huerta, one strongly phrased and written by Secretary Bryan, inquiring about the safety of the imprisoned members of the Mexican congress; the other drawn in forceful language by President Wilson himself and said to constitute probably the last efforts of the Washington government to deal with the Huerta authorities by diplomatic means unless there is a decided change of spirit on the part of the officials in Mexico City.

The negotiations through John Lind had proceeded to the point where the state department accepted the indorsement of Federico Gamboa for the presidency as meaning the elimination of Huerta, and where it was confidently hoped that a fair and free election would be held October 26.

President Wilson has made it clear now, however, that the Washington government, with the events of the last few days—the imprisonment of the deputies and the establishment of a dictatorship by Huerta—has lost all hope of seeing a constitutional election held by the Huerta regime.

The battleships Rhode Island, Nebraska, New Jersey and Virginia of the third division of the Atlantic fleet will leave Hampton Roads October 29 for Mexican waters. They will be commanded by Rear Admiral Clifford J. Bouché en route, but on arrival in the Gulf of Mexico will be turned over to Rear Admiral Fletcher.

The steps taken by the United States were formally communicated to all foreign governments.

Huerta's decrees proclaiming himself as in charge of the departments of interior, administration, finance and war were received during the day and the text was given out at the state department. The documents were read at the cabinet meeting. Members of the cabinet expressed themselves as astonished at the audacity of Huerta.

They were appraised by President Wilson of the nature of the two communications sent to Huerta through Charge O'Shaughnessy and all approved the vigorous representations.

The cabinet meeting was about to adjourn when press dispatches announced that Senator Querido Moberg, Mexican minister of foreign affairs, had characterized the American communication as "intemperate."

Telegrams from Charge O'Shaughnessy to the state department on Monday brought confirmation of the death of Senator Dominguez, whose body was found in the woods of the suburbs of the Mexican capital Saturday.

He was arrested upon Huerta's order in September for delivering a fiery speech in the Mexican senate. He disappeared soon after his arrest.

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan regard the assassination of Senator Dominguez as parallel with that of former President Madero. The news was astounding and dazed the president and secretary of state. Both believe that Senator Dominguez was murdered because of his political stand and, while they have no proof, they feel that Huerta is at the bottom of the murder.

A telegram received at the state department states that no harm has yet befallen the hundred deputies, all of whom still are in prison. The dispatch did not indicate a possibility of their being released any time soon.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy repeated his warning that the deputies stand in imminent danger of losing their lives because of their political faith and the fact that they oppose the administration of President Huerta.

T. L. WOODRUFF DEAD

FORMER LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR OF N. Y., PASSES AWAY.

Came to Metropolis a Poor Boy and Won Wealth and Political Fame by Own Efforts.

New York, Oct. 14.—Former Lieut. Gov. Timothy L. Woodruff died in his apartment on Sunday.

His condition had been critical for nearly two weeks after having been stricken with paralysis while addressing a Progressive party rally in this city. He was fifty-five years old.

Mr. Woodruff came of good Connecticut stock, and arrived in New York in 1880 at the age of twenty-two years with no capital nor prospective backing other than diplomas from Yale and a business college and a clear cut purpose to apply himself to commercial life and watch for opportunities.

Seventeen years later he was lieutenant governor of New York, a partner in the house in which he first found employment at eight dollars a week, the head of an insurance company and of a patent medicine concern, director in various banking and industrial corporations and a leader in Republican politics.

The fortune he had acquired in this period was augmented in later years by the extension of his activities until they included real estate operations on a large scale, notably the promotion of the Garden City and Jamaica properties.

His political ambitions also grew, and in 1900 he had the backing of the New York state delegation for the vice-presidential nomination at the Republican national convention, in Philadelphia.

He was arrested upon Huerta's order in September for delivering a fiery speech in the Mexican senate. He disappeared soon after his arrest.

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan regard the assassination of Senator Dominguez as parallel with that of former President Madero. The news was astounding and dazed the president and secretary of state.

Both believe that Senator Dominguez was murdered because of his political stand and, while they have no proof, they feel that Huerta is at the bottom of the murder.

A telegram received at the state department states that no harm has yet befallen the hundred deputies, all of whom still are in prison. The dispatch did not indicate a possibility of their being released any time soon.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy repeated his warning that the deputies stand in imminent danger of losing their lives because of their political faith and the fact that they oppose the administration of President Huerta.

400 MINERS PERISH

OVER 900 MEN IN WALES COLLIERIES HEMMED IN BY FIRE FOLLOWING BLAST.

Cardiff, Wales, Oct. 16.—Four hundred Welsh coal miners perished from fire and asphyxiation in the Universal colliery near here on Tuesday. A terrific explosion of gas followed the fire.

Official figures furnished by the company said that there were 931 men in the mine and less than 400 of these had been rescued during the afternoon, while the interior of the pit was a raging furnace and hope had been practically abandoned for the entombed men.

Fire followed the explosion and many of the men who were carried out alive were so badly burned they died.

From 700 to 900 men were at work in the pit when an explosion of coal dust with earthquake force rocked the surrounding country and shattered the interior of the shaft. All were imprisoned.

Fire which followed the blast was controlled but later burst out again. The mine is situated near Senghendy in the heart of the mining district.

Heroic rescuers carried out 327 men, after risking their own lives by venturing into the fiery, poison-laden atmosphere of the mine.

When the blast occurred representatives of the Lewis Merthyr Consolidated Colliery company, owners of the mine, said that the day shift of 759 men were in the pit.

So violent was the detonation that the country for miles around was shaken as though by an earthquake and from the severity of the shock it was feared that all the entombed men had been burned to death or blown to bits, making the disaster the worst in the history of Wales.

Shortly after 8 o'clock, not long after the day shift had gone down into the pit, the blast occurred. Cardiff trembled from the shock, fire followed.

Soon the work of carrying out the survivors began. Many of them were unconscious. Some had their clothing blown off.

Families of the miners rushed to the mouth of the pit, frantic in their grief and anxiety and determined to sacrifice their own lives, if necessary, in an attempt to save their loved ones penned in the shaft.

Hundreds of other persons, led by curiosity or the desire to give aid, clustered about the pit mouth.

Fire followed the explosion. Special trains and automobiles bearing rescue apparatus, medical supplies, doctors and nurses, sped to the scene. A first aid hospital and a temporary morgue were erected side by side not far from the shaft opening.

The excitement grew to such extent that hundreds of constables were placed on duty around the head of the mine. Lines were formed to keep the grief-stricken relatives of the seven hundred penned up miners from danger. The voices of hundreds of women and children lifted up in lamentations, mingled with the shouts of the police and the leaders of the rescue squads.

LINER VOLTURNO BURNED AT SEA; 146 PEOPLE DIE

Steamship From Rotterdam to Halifax Burned in Mid-Ocean.

CARMANIA TO RESCUE

Many Other Vessels Rush to Aid of Doomed Vessel and Helpless Passengers.

SCENE ON FATED SHIP AWFUL

Fire Started in Fore End of Craft and Ate Its Way Toward the Stern—Cries and Shouts of Terror-Stricken People, as They Rushed Aft on Ship, Reached Ears of Officers and Crew on the Carmania as It Rushed to the Rescue.

New York, Oct. 13.—At least 146 persons lost their lives on the burned liner Volturno, according to a wireless dispatch received by the Cunard line from Capt. Barr, of liner Carmania. He reported that 511 had been saved by the ten rescue ships and that there had been on the lost vessel 657 persons, as follows: Cabin passengers, 24; steerage passengers, 340; crew, 93.

Echo of Titanic Disaster. The Volturno disaster was an echo of the Titanic tragedy. Radiograms from the rescue fleet said that the number of lifeboats on the Volturno was insufficient to accommodate the passengers and crew.

The disaster occurred in latitude 48.25 north, longitude 34.33 west, or in the middle of the North Atlantic. The scene of the tragedy was about 1,200 miles from Halifax.

The following wireless message from the Carmania gave the first notice of the disaster: "Steamer Volturno, bound from Rotterdam for Halifax and New York with 600 immigrants on board, a fire and abandoned Friday night in latitude 48.25 north longitude 34.33 west. Two hundred and thirty-six passengers missing.

The Carmania was the first liner to pick up the "S. O. S." call which the operator on the Volturno was frantically sending out. The Carmania immediately repeated the calls to the other vessels, giving the position of the Volturno.

Liners Rush to Rescue. Nine other trans-Atlantic liners were within wireless range and sped toward the burning ship. The race was a thrilling one. A gale was sweeping the seas and the rescue ships had to pound their way through head-winds and raging waters.

In the rescue fleet were the following vessels: Carmania, La Touraine, Minneapolis, Rappahannock, Car, Narragansett, Devonian, Kronland, Grosener Kurfirst and Seydlitz.

The Carmania won the race to the Volturno. She found the vessel a mass of fire, her propeller fouled and wallowing helplessly before the wind. All the boats had left the burning ship. These still afloat were found half water-logged by the relief fleet, filled with half frozen, covering lifeless.

Wireless reports from the ten ships gave the following number of rescued: Carmania, 11; La Touraine, 40; Minneapolis, 30; Rappahannock, 19; Car, 102; Narragansett, 29; Devonian, 35; Kronland, 90; Grosener Kurfirst, 105, and the Seydlitz, 36, making a total of 521.

236 Reported Dead. The pursuer of the Volturno, who was taken on board the Kronland, reported that the number of passengers on the Volturno was 560 and that she carried a crew of 93, making 653 in all on board. According to the pursuer's estimate the death list reached only 132. The original figures of the Carmania, that 236 were dead, was accepted, however, by Lloyds and other marine agencies here.

The meagerly worded wireless dispatch from Captain Barr of the Carmania told a dramatic story. The dead on the Volturno were burned, crushed and drowned. Four of the six lifeboats carried by the ill-fated ship had been smashed in the storm, by being washed against the side of the burning ship, and all the occupants were drowned.

Officers of the Volturno. The officers of the Volturno were: Captain, R. C. Inch. Chief officer, H. P. Miller. Chief engineer, R. Dewar. Surgeon, Wm. F. Brown. Purser, Wm. F. Brown. Assistant Purser, H. C. Lang. Steward, Wm. Mahler.

First Officer Gardner of the Carmania was in command of a fleet of small boats which tried for two hours to reach the side of the burning ship. The huge rollers swamped the boats and smashed the oars.

In spite of danger Captain Barr then moved the Carmania to a position only 100 feet from the Volturno. Attempt thereby. And that may be why the crowd resents trousers for the women. Instinctive resentment here may be in the brain of the race, rather than in the individual brain—racial memory of the effect on men of women wearing the trousers.

More Than Pesticide Lenses. He—And aren't you fond of Omar Khayyam? She—Do you know, I'm not quite sure. It's so stilly of me. I always fix 'em up with Hunyadi Janos.

KING GUSTAV OF SWEDEN

Gustav, king of Sweden, is seriously and probably fatally ill, and the crown prince has been made temporary regent.

after attempt was made to throw life lines from the Cunard to the doomed vessel, but the wind prevented.

Scene on Doomed Ship Horrible. The scene on the stricken vessel was heartrending. The fire had started in the fore end of the ship and ate its way toward the stern. Before the onrush of the flames the immigrants and sailors were crowded to the after end. Their cries and shouts for help came to the ears of the officers and passengers on the Carmania, who had to stand by helpless and watch the victims perish before their eyes.

The rollers which crashed against the rescue ships were crested with bodies of men, women and children and charred wreckage. Billowing clouds of smoke were borne upward by the gale, adding its pall to the gloomy storm skies.

The glare of the flames in the darkness lighted up the surrounding seas. Flames Cause Boilers to Explode. The flames soon reached the engine room of the stricken ship and the boilers exploded. Dawn found the blackened hull still smoking and it was not until daybreak this morning that the officers of the rescue fleet were able to secure any definite information as to the number saved and missing.

In reporting to his company Captain Barr said: "A storm prevented our progress toward the scene of the disaster and also prevented the other ships from getting on the scene as rapidly as otherwise would have been possible. The Volturno was a fire and helpless when we reached her. We immediately sent out the international call for help and responses came from nine other liners."

Captain of Volturno Not Dead. A message to Lloyds stated that the captain of the Volturno had not died on his ship, but had been taken on board the Kronland with the second, third and fifth officers.

The Volturno was built for the Canadian Northern Steamship company, but is chartered by the Uranium line. She was a twin-screw vessel of 3,662 tons. She had two decks and a shelter deck. She was constructed in Glasgow seven years ago.

The Volturno sailed from Rotterdam on October 2 and did not call at any English ports.

The flames in the hull of the Volturno had evidently been burning for some time before discovered. They got beyond control of the sailors Thursday night and raged for twenty-four hours before the destruction was complete.

UNDERWOOD IS TARGET

HOBSON CALLS LEADER "DUMMY" AND CLASH FOLLOWS

"Does Any One Else Here Believe It?" Critics Accused Man and Congressmen Shout "No!"

Washington, Oct. 15.—Representative Hobson launched a hot attack against the senatorial campaign of Democratic Leader Underwood in the House Monday when he charged that his support of Underwood's presidential candidacy at the Baltimore convention was obtained under "false pretenses." Hobson had defended himself against charges by Representative Donovan of Connecticut of neglect of his official duties, when he branched off into an attack on Underwood. Hobson charged that Underwood in the recent presidential fight had the support of Thomas F. Ryan and Wall Street and liquor interests, and had obtained the backing of his home state through "false pretenses." Underwood demanded that Hobson furnish proof of his charges. Hobson admitted that his statement was based on the testimony of Senator Hank-head before the senate campaign fund investigating committee that Thomas F. Ryan had contributed a large sum of Underwood's presidential campaign fund.

"Now, is there any other reason the gentleman has?" demanded Underwood, "for saying that I am a tool and a dummy?"

"I think my friend is of the highest moral character," replied Hobson, "but I think he is the type of man that allows outside and perhaps improper interests to sit in and play in the game."

"What is the basis of your charge that I am a tool of the liquor interests?" demanded Underwood.

"I know the liquor interests tried to beat me in my district," replied Hobson, "and I believe they now are supporting you. 'If you were used as a dummy once you might be again.' 'No interest or set of men ever dominated me,' replied Underwood amid applause of the house.

MILITANT FLEES FROM POLICE. Dragged From Hall as Suffragettes With Benches and Chairs Seize Battle Office.

London, Oct. 15.—After a fierce struggle the police arrested Miss Sylvia Pankhurst at Bow Neaths, in the east end of London, where she was making a speech. But when they got her outside the building, with the intention of placing her in a taxi cab and rushing her to Holloway jail, the militants attacked the police so savagely they had to let her go and she escaped.

Miss Pankhurst, who has an uncompleted term of imprisonment, was not recognized until she threw aside the disguise which enabled her to elude the police and enter the building. She had been speaking only a few minutes when police with drawn truncheons, entered the hall and made a rush for the platform.

The audience arose and chairs began to fly, the invaders being the objective point. Some of the people in the galleries even dropped benches on their heads.

The police succeeded in dragging Miss Pankhurst down to the floor of the house.

Concentrating the attack on the policemen who had the militant leader in their grasp, the women, with the assistance of several men, succeeded in tearing her from their grasp and she slipped away. Miss Zelle Emerson of Jackson, Mich., whose imprisonment caused such a furor several months ago, was one of those injured.

NOTES from MEADOWBROOK FARM

Never keep a scrub heifer. Keep the hens scratching. Get rid of surplus cockerels. Skim milk is best for growth. Whips do not improve horses. Keep salt and charcoal before the hogs. A long whip never made a man a good driver. Very beneficial to the farmer is the woodpecker. Feed floors save feed and keep it clean and wholesome. Allowing unnecessary limbs to grow is a waste of plant energy. Draining butter well before salting will help its keeping qualities. Birds are worth dollars and cents to the farmer and the orchardist. A dull plow is one of the most rapid money-wasters on the farm. Have regular hours for feeding your horse and give him sufficient time to eat. Good breed, good feed and good care are essential in producing good dairy cows. It would be a patriotic act to sow that weedy roadside to alfalfa or sweet clover. A pound of mutton can be produced at less cost than any other kind of meat. Hot bed sashes are usually 3 1/2 feet in dimensions, but smaller sizes may be used. Sacrificing good mothers and breeders has put many a farmer out of the hog business. Exercise is a better laying stimulant for the hens than heat-producing condiments. Handle the brood sows so that the young pigs will begin to grow from the time of their birth. Hogs running on alfalfa should receive grain rich in carbohydrates, for alfalfa is rich in protein. The irritation caused by a poor driver lessens the ability of a good horse to do its best work. If you are buying a horse, get him on a slow trot. Then, if ever, he will show any lameness he may have. The worst thing about it is that the man who has better birds at home really believes what he says. A weekly coal oil bath for nest boxes and roosts will not give lice and mites much of a chance to spread. Be so careful in the choice of a blacksmith that it is not necessary for your horse to wear an interfering boot. It is entirely possible that you may be able to double the income from your cows by selling half of them. It pays to let the flock have plenty of nourishing food during the moult. Moulting is quite a strain on a bird's vitality. There is nothing that produces stiffness, inflammation and unsoundness faster than standing still in a stall day after day. The Houdan is a small-boned fowl, having a thick breast, and the flesh is tender and juicy. They make fine broilers and the best roasters. All indications point to high beef and pork this winter. That being the case you may expect to see eggs soar too. Don't sell off too many pullets. Keep your horses well groomed, as a well kept animal not only appears better but keeps easier, feels better (like a man after a bath) than one neglected. So construct your poultry house that every piece of its contents is easily shifted and moved. By doing so you will greatly facilitate the inevitable war against parasites. The cow-horn turnip, when left in the ground, is a great soil improver, the decaying of which adds humus to the soil, and puts the land in the best possible condition for future crop production. Do not sell the horse that has grown old in your service to a buckster or a junk dealer, to be beaten, starved and abused. It is too much like sending one's worn-out father to the poor farm. The trap net is a regular detective. It tells the facts of the case, it tames the hens, it gives accurate reports, it arrests the robber hens, it gives an honest count and it exposes the fraudulent hens. The following formula for roup pills is recommended: Half a dram each of cayenne pepper, ginger and mustard, half ounce of plain vaseline or clear lard, mix thoroughly and add enough flour to make a stiff dough. Make into pills the size of pea. Dose, one night and morning. It is waste of feed to keep young cockerels after they weigh five pounds to the pair, as they are sold as old roosters after their combs grow. Horses are not driven out of the market by motor cars, as many persons believe. On the contrary, they are rapidly increasing in number and value. When the alfalfa turns yellow, better plow it up and seed again. Give the land a heavy dose of lime, too.

Never keep a scrub heifer. Keep the hens scratching. Get rid of surplus cockerels. Skim milk is best for growth. Whips do not improve horses. Keep salt and charcoal before the hogs. A long whip never made a man a good driver. Very beneficial to the farmer is the woodpecker. Feed floors save feed and keep it clean and wholesome. Handle the brood sows so that the young pigs will begin to grow from the time of their birth. Hogs running on alfalfa should receive grain rich in carbohydrates, for alfalfa is rich in protein. The irritation caused by a poor driver lessens the ability of a good horse to do its best work. If you are buying a horse, get him on a slow trot. Then, if ever, he will show any lameness he may have. The worst thing about it is that the man who has better birds at home really believes what he says. A weekly coal oil bath for nest boxes and roosts will not give lice and mites much of a chance to spread. Be so careful in the choice of a blacksmith that it is not necessary for your horse to wear an interfering boot. It is entirely possible that you may be able to double the income from your cows by selling half of them. It pays to let the flock have plenty of nourishing food during the moult. Moulting is quite a strain on a bird's vitality. There is nothing that produces stiffness, inflammation and unsoundness faster than standing still in a stall day after day. The Houdan is a small-boned fowl, having a thick breast, and the flesh is tender and juicy. They make fine broilers and the best roasters. All indications point to high beef and pork this winter. That being the case you may expect to see eggs soar too. Don't sell off too many pullets. Keep your horses well groomed, as a well kept animal not only appears better but keeps easier, feels better (like a man after a bath) than one neglected. So construct your poultry house that every piece of its contents is easily shifted and moved. By doing so you will greatly facilitate the inevitable war against parasites. The cow-horn turnip, when left in the ground, is a great soil improver, the decaying of which adds humus to the soil, and puts the land in the best possible condition for future crop production. Do not sell the horse that has grown old in your service to a buckster or a junk dealer, to be beaten, starved and abused. It is too much like sending one's worn-out father to the poor farm. The trap net is a regular detective. It tells the facts of the case, it tames the hens, it gives accurate reports, it arrests the robber hens, it gives an honest count and it exposes the fraudulent hens. The following formula for roup pills is recommended: Half a dram each of cayenne pepper, ginger and mustard, half ounce of plain vaseline or clear lard, mix thoroughly and add enough flour to make a stiff dough. Make into pills the size of pea. Dose, one night and morning. It is waste of feed to keep young cockerels after they weigh five pounds to the pair, as they are sold as old roosters after their combs grow. Horses are not driven out of the market by motor cars, as many persons believe. On the contrary, they are rapidly increasing in number and value. When the alfalfa turns yellow, better plow it up and seed again. Give the land a heavy dose of lime, too.

BRIER RABBIT.

Rabbit is in most places an inexpensive meat when obtainable and is also most toothsome when nicely prepared and cooked. For the taste of the majority the meat is best when hung but a day or two. The age of a rabbit may be told by the small nut in the paw, and also if the paw may be broken easily. If there is no nut the rabbit is best cooked as a stew. The gamey flavor which so many object to may be much modified if the thin muscular membrane which covers the intestines is carefully removed before cooking.

Barbecued Rabbit.—Open young plump rabbits all down the under side wash and clean thoroughly. Lay out flat in a pan of salty water for an hour with a weighted plate to keep them under the water. Wipe dry and wash across the back bone in eight or ten places, brush well with olive oil all over and broil before a clear fire, turning often. Lay on a hot dish, season with salt, pepper and melted butter, then set into the oven to season. Heat in a small pan two tablespoonsful of vinegar with a teaspoonful of made mustard, brush this over the rabbit while in the oven. Garnish with parsley and serve with or without currant jelly sauce.

Current Jelly Sauce.—Cook together in a small saucepan a tablespoonful of butter and a teaspoonful of onion. When the onion is light brown add a teaspoonful of flour and stir until smooth. Gradually add a half cup of stock or the gravy from the pan, a dash of salt, pepper, a teaspoon of vinegar and a bit of bay leaf, a clove and a tablespoonful of currant jelly. Simmer five minutes and strain before serving.

Fried Rabbit.—Stew the rabbit cut in eighths until tender, then roll in flour, well seasoned, and brown in hot fat. Make a gravy from the broth in which the rabbit was stewed.

Roast Rabbit.—Put the rabbit whole into a kettle, add a quart of water and a pinch of soda, stew gently until tender, then take from the broth and stuff with well buttered crumbs, softened with the broth, stuff the rabbit, add salt and butter and bake in the oven until a rich brown. Brown a chopped onion in butter, add flour and broth, cook smooth and serve with the rabbit.

To judge with candor and speak no wrong. The feeble to support against the strong. To soothe the wretched and the poor to feed. Will cover many an idle, foolish deed.

PALATABLE MEATS.

To prepare a roasted ham, let it soak over night, simmer two hours, then cover with flour and bake two hours. Remove the paste and skin, cover the flesh with cracker crumbs and sugar, slice clove about the edge and brown in the oven. Serve with cider sauce and pickled walnuts.

Meat Loaf.—Take four pounds of ground meat, two eggs, half a cup of suet, salt and pepper, add a little cream to the beaten eggs, mix well with the meat, then add enough toast crumbs to mold and keep in shape. Form into a loaf and put into a hot oven. A mushroom sauce is delicious served with such a loaf.

Italian Roast.—Take a nice piece of veal, cut around the bone and put in a small piece of garlic salt and a few allspice. Make incisions in several places, putting in the seasoning, use a leaf of celery on top of the roast, with a small red pepper. Pour over a little olive oil and cook until tender, according to the size of the roast.

Tough Steak Made Tender.—Take a tablespoonful of olive oil, two of vinegar and a little cayenne. Lay the steak upon it and let it stand for an hour, turning occasionally. Then broil or fry as usual. The vinegar softens the fiber. If the meat is very tough let it stand over night in the oil and vinegar.

Baked Hamburg Steak.—Take two pounds of hamburger steak, half a cup of cooked cereal or bread crumbs, one onion chopped fine, a quarter of a teaspoon of allspice and cloves, an egg well beaten, salt and pepper to taste. Mix well and bake in a hot oven. Serve with tomato sauce. To one can of tomato add a bay leaf, a clove of garlic, salt and pepper, and a teaspoon of Worcestershire, a table spoonful of cornstarch. Cook until smooth. Pour over the meat and serve.

The wife of a wealthy business man was the daughter of a policeman. As they grew rich both she and her husband concealed the fact as much as possible for the sake of their social prestige. At a luncheon several society women of high position had been talking about their families.

Most Popular Fur-Trimmed Finery

EVERYTHING is trimmed with fur but short-haired furs, not so bulky, are invariably this season cut either narrow or wide.

In passing, it may be mentioned that furs must not be cut with scissors. The home milliner or dressmaker may cut them satisfactorily by marking a line with tailor's chalk on the skin side of the pelt and cutting along this line with a razor blade. In sewing seams two edges are held together and overcast. Furriers use a triangular needle, and it is far easier to sew skins with than the round needle. All three edges are cutting edges.

It will be seen from the picture that the muffs and hats are made to match, while the neckpieces are odd—of another kind of fur or plush. This is only a fancy not an established fashion. The vogue of plain skirts with plush jackets to match in color does away with the need of a neckpiece other than a band of fur around the collar. With such a suit a hat and muff to match, trimmed with fur like that on the collar, is delightfully chic and also delightfully comfortable. One can face any degree of cold with them.

The materials used for the muffs and turbans are many, velvets, plushes, broaded silks, broaded crepes, wide heavy broaded ribbons, satins and chiffon all contribute to the making up of these smart accessories.

Muffs are flat and soft. Lace is used for their trimming, and a touch of lace on the turban corresponds with that on the muff. As is usual when furs are much in fashion (they are never out) metallic laces have reappeared and are sparingly used as a decoration on fancy muffs and neck wear, and in touches of gold and silver on millinery.

Some of the muffs and turbans shown may be attempted by the home dressmaker with good chances of success. Before attempting them, however, she should examine a set made by professionals. There are many small items which if overlooked spell failure.

FILMY LINGERIE FASHION'S EDICT FOR THIS SEASON

CUMBERSOME clothes are things of the past. Soft and fine, the under garments of today do not confine themselves alone to sheer muslins, but call lace and even chiffon into their fragile make-up. The latter is used for ruffles and frills on garments which are seldom worn or that can be dry-cleaned. But the finest laces are woven to withstand careful laundering and garments employing them are practical. Some of these laces—

Cretonne Slips

Cretonne slips to put over frocks that are hanging in the closet or wardrobe are convenient. They are made of two pieces of cretonne, cut in semi-circular outline, a little bigger than a dress hanger. They are seamed together about the curved edge, with a little opening left for the neck of the hanger.

Modes for Children.

Fine crepes are being used for the lingerie dresses of children in the Russian tunic and empire styles. When in the Russian style the underskirt is generally of plain white crepe, while the tunic or smock is of white crepe embroidered or printed in dainty poses, and the long sleeves are of fine batiste finished with narrow valenciennes lace.

Novel Paris Bag.

Bags continue to be popular, and a new one which has come from Paris is all black, either striped or of solid case, mirror and a watch.

SYNOPSIS.

Mrs. Varney, wife of a Confederate general, has lost one son and another is dying from wounds. She reluctantly gives her consent for Wilfred, the youngest, to join the army if his father consents. The federals are making their last assault in an effort to capture Richmond. Edith Varney secures from President Davis a commission for Capt. Thorne, who is just recovering from wounds, as chief of the telegraph at Richmond. Capt. Thorne tells Edith he has been ordered away. She declares he must not go and tells him of the commission from the president. Mr. Arrelsford of the Confederate secret service, a rejected suitor of Edith's, detects Jonas, Mrs. Varney's butler, carrying a note from a prisoner in Libby prison. Arrelsford suspects it is intended for Thorne. The note reads: "Attack tonight, Plan 3. Use Telegraph." Arrelsford declares to Edith that Lewis Dumont of the Federal secret service, and that his brother Henry is a prisoner in Libby. Edith refuses to believe and suggests that Thorne be confronted with the prisoner as a test. An order comes from General Varney for Wilfred to report to the front at once. Edith is forced to carry out her part in the test of Thorne. The prisoner is thrust into the room along with Thorne, who recognizes him as his elder brother, Henry Dumont. They put up a fake fight and Henry accidentally kills himself. Caroline Milford, Edith's sweetheart, goes to the war department telegraph office to send a message to Wilfred. Arrelsford suspects a double meaning and refuses to let it go through. He and Edith secretly threaten to watch Thorne whose arrival Arrelsford expects. Thorne takes charge of the telegraph office. Arrelsford and Edith see Thorne at a dispatch from the secretary of war. Thorne is shot in the wrist by Arrelsford when he attempts to read it. Arrelsford calls the guard and when they appear Thorne turns the tables by ordering the arrest of Arrelsford. The removal of Arrelsford is stopped by the arrival of General Randolph. Arrelsford protests, declaring Thorne is sending a message to the front. Thorne is saved by Mrs. Varney, who produces his commission to watch the telegraph. She having seen enough to convince her he is a spy, bears him not to send the message. Thorne plans to escape from Richmond. Arrelsford calls at the Varney residence. A sergeant appears with an order to take Thorne to the house for Thorne. Wilfred Varney returns from the front wounded. Thorne appears in a room with a sword and immediately convenes a drumhead court-martial. Edith and Jonas witness the bullets from the rifles of the guards.

CHAPTER XIX—Continued.

In an incredibly short time, considering what he had to do, the old negro finished his task. He rose to his feet and stood staring triumphantly at the long stack of guns. He even permitted himself a low chuckle, with a glance across the hall to the court.

Now Edith Varney, who had observed him with mingled admiration and resentment—resentment that he had proven false to her people, her family, and admiration at his cleverness—stopped further into the room as he finished the last musket, and, as he started toward the lower end of the room to make good his escape, she coughed slightly.

Jonas stopped and wheeled about instantly, frightened to death, of course, but somewhat relieved when he saw who it was who had him under observation, and who had interrupted him. He realized at once that it was no use to attempt to conceal anything, and he threw himself upon the mercy of his young mistress, and with great adroitness, sought to enlist her support for what he had done.

"Deys gwine to shoot him, shoot him down lak a dog, missy," he said in a low, pleading whisper, "an' Ah couldn't b'ah to see 'em do dat. Ah wouldn't lak to see him killed. Ah wouldn't lak it no ways. You won't say nuffin' about dis 'o' de sake ob old Jonas, what always was so fond ob you ebad sense you was a little chille. You see, Ah jes' tek dese yeah"—he extended his hand, full of leaden bullets—"an' den dey won't be no ham cum to him whatevsehah, les's dey loads 'em up agin. When dey shoots, an' he jes' draps down, dey'll roll him obah into de guttah, an' he'll lak lak mad. Den Ah kin be neah by an'—"

He stopped, and if his face had been full of apprehension before, it now became transformed with anxiety.

"How's he gwine to know?" he asked, "if he don't drap down, dey'll shoot him, an' dey'll hab bullets in dem next time. What Ah gwine to do, how Ah gwine to tell him?"

Edith had listened to him as one in a dream. Her face softened a little. After all, this negro had done this thing for the man she—God forgive her—still loved.

"You tell him," whispered Jonas, "you tell him, it's de on'y way. Tell him to drap down. Do dis 'o' ole Jonas, boney; do it fo' me, an' Ah'll be a s'able to yo' as long as Ah lib, an' what Mars Linkum does. Lis-ten," said the old man, as a sudden commotion was heard in the room across the hall. "Deys gwine to kill him. You do it."

Nothing could be gained by remaining. He had said all he could, used every argument possible to him, and realizing his danger, he turned and disappeared through the back door into the dark rear hall. There was a scraping of chairs and a trampling of feet, a few words heard indistinctly, and then the voice of the old sergeant.

"Fall in! Right face! Forward—march!"

Before they came into the hall, Jonas made one last appeal. He thrust his old black face through the portier, his eyes rolling, his jaws working.

"Fo' Gawd's sek, missy, tell him to drap down," he whispered as he disappeared.

Wilfred, not waiting for the soldiers, came into the room, and Caroline followed him.

"Where's mother?" asked Wilfred.

"She's gone up to Howard; I think he is staying," said Caroline. "She can't leave him for anybody or anything."

If Edith heard, she gave no sign. She stood motionless on the other side

CHAPTER XX.

The Last Reprieve.

General Randolph was evidently in a great hurry. Public affairs of great moment pressed upon him, and it was the case of Captain Thorne that he gave him even a minute of his valuable time. He had come on horseback, and everybody could see that he was anxious to get through with his appointed task and get away.

"Ah, sergeant," he said, answering the latter's salute as he brought the guard to attention, and then his eye fell upon Captain Thorne. "You have the prisoner, have you?"

"Just taking him out, sir," answered the sergeant, saluting again.

"To prison?"

"No, sir."

"Where then?"

"To execute the sentence of the court, sir."

"Oh!" exclaimed the general, looking hard at the sergeant. "He has had his trial, has he?"

But Arrelsford, who chafed at thus being left out of the game, now stepped over and took up the burden of the conversation before the sergeant could reply.

"We have done everything according to regulation, sir," he said, saluting in a rather cavalier manner. He did not like General Randolph. If it had not been for his interference, the affair would have been settled long ago, and he still cherished a grudge against the latter for having arrested a man so important as the trusted agent of the secret service. "The findings have gone to the secretary."

"Ah!" said General Randolph blandly. "He did not like Mr. Arrelsford any better than Mr. Arrelsford liked him."

"Yes, sir."

"And he was found guilty, I presume?"

"Certainly, sir."

"And what are you going to do with him?"

"There is no time for a hanging now, and the court has ordered him shot."

"Oh, indeed. And what were the charges?"

"Conspiracy against our government and the success of our arms, by sending a false and misleading dispatch containing forged orders, was the particular specification."

"Well," said General Randolph, "I regret that the court has been misled."

"What?" cried Arrelsford, in great surprise. "The testimony was very plain."

"Yes, indeed, sir," interposed the sergeant.

"Nevertheless," returned the general, "the man is not guilty of that charge. The dispatch was not sent."

Dogs and Music.

Dogs as a rule like music. But it must be remembered that their acutely developed nervous system, which renders them such faithful watchers, also makes keen and high pitched sounds extremely painful to them. Thus the high notes of a trumpet or even of a violin are torturing to a dog, who will howl under the influence of the other hand, soft melodious tones undoubtedly give him dogs' pleasure. Cats, also, like many other animals, are fond of music. But no animals appear to suffer so much from keen, harsh sounds as dogs, and more in smooth, soft harmonies. A soothing "diapason movement" is the kind of music most agreeable to the intelligent dog.

Good Kinder.

In some sections kindlings are very hard to secure, owing to a lack of timber of all kinds. An inexpensive kinder may be made as follows: Take to one pound of resin three ounces of tallow, and while still hot after melting mix with fine sawdust, straw or any inflammable material and mold in small pieces about one inch square. One pair will start a fire in the stove.

CASH REGISTER WAS BROKEN

Conductor Refused to Run Car Farther Because He Couldn't Ring Up Fares.

Wind, snow and falling temperature were doing their worst to make the lives of homegoing city folk miserable when the conductor on an uptown car joined forces with nature and announced that everybody would have to take the car ahead or the car behind because the car wasn't going any farther. Protesters rather more numerous and violent than common greeted that announcement.

"Can't be helped," said the conductor stolidly. "This car is all out of fix. It ain't fit to travel."

So, according to their custom when ordered to do a thing, the crowd did it; but one of the number continued to ponder on the disability of the abandoned car. No fuse had blown out and it had run with only the ordinary noise and friction. What then ailed it? Presently he said to the bus conductor:

"What was the matter with that car we were hustled out of back there? What was broken about it?"

"The cash register," said the man. "They couldn't ring up any more fares."

Applies With Concrete Cores.

Charles Bauermeister, who has a farm in Fairfield, near here, says he is done with up-to-date tree surgery. Last fall one of his apple trees showed signs of decay and, following directions in a farm journal, he plugged the affected parts with concrete. The tree thrived this spring, and today Bauermeister picked several of the apples. He hit into one, and cracked off his best gold-mounted tooth on a hard substance.

Examination revealed that the apple had contained a hard piece of concrete, which Bauermeister believes was absorbed from the trunk. Bauermeister says all the other apples appear to be similarly affected, and he intends to feed them to his chickens in the hope that the concrete they contain will create hard-shell eggs for the export trade.—Caldwell (N. J.) Dispatch.

"You'd Better Look at Your Rifles."

Edith looked from Caroline's flushed, eager face, to Edith's pale one. After all, what was the harm? He nodded his head, but no one moved. It was the sergeant who broke the silence.

"The lady," he said, looking at Thorne, and pointing at Edith. As he spoke, he added another order.

"Matson, take your squad and guard the windows. Prisoner, you can go over to the side of the room."

The sergeant's purpose was plain. It would give Edith Varney an opportunity to say what she had to say to Thorne in a low voice if she chose, without the possibility of being overheard.

"One of the servants," began the girl in a low, utterly passionless and expressionless voice. "Jonas, has taken the bullets from the guns. If you will drop when they fire, you can escape with your life."

In exactly the same level, almost monotonous voice, Thorne whispered a pertinent question:

"Shall I do this for you?"

"It is nothing to me," said the woman quietly, and might God forgive her, she prayed for that falsehood.

Thorne looked at her, his soul in his eyes. If her face had been carved from marble, it could not have been more expressionless and indifferent. He could not know how wildly her heart was beating beneath that stony exterior. Well, she had turned against him. He was nothing to her. There was no use living any longer. She did not care.

"Were you responsible in any way for this?" he asked.

The girl shook her head and turned away without looking at him. She had not the least idea of what he was about to do. Not one man in a thousand would have done it. Perhaps if he went to his death in some quiet way, he might redeem himself in her eyes, had flashed into Thorne's mind, as he turned to the guard.

"Sergeant," he said, saluting. He spoke in a clear, cool, most indifferent way. "You had better take a look at the rifles of your command. I understand that they have been tampered with."

"What the hell!" cried the sergeant, seizing a piece from the nearest man. He snapped open the breech-plug and drew out the cartridge and examined it. Someone had bitten off the bullet! He saw everything clearly.

Old People Need A Bowel Stimulant

The Ideal One Is a Mild Laxative. Tonic That Will Keep the Bowels Gently Active.

Healthy old age is so absolutely dependent upon the condition of the bowels that great care should be taken to see that they act regularly. The fact is that as age advances the stomach muscles become weak and inactive and the liver does not store up the juices that are necessary to prompt digestion.

Some help can be obtained by eating easily digested foods and by plenty of exercise, but this latter is irksome to most elderly people. One thing is certain, that a state of constipation should always be avoided, as it is dangerous to life and health. The best plan is to take a mild laxative as often as is deemed necessary. But with equal certainty it is suggested that cathartics, purgatives, physics, salts and pills be avoided, as they do temporary good and are so harsh as to be a shock to a delicate system.

A much better plan and one that thousands of elderly people are following, is to take a gentle laxative- tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which acts as nearly like nature as is possible. In fact, the tendency of this remedy is to strengthen the stomach and bowel muscles and so train them to act naturally again, when medicines of all kinds can usually be dispensed with. This is the opinion of many people of different ages, among them Mrs. Mary A. P. Davidson of University Mound Home, San Francisco, Cal. She is 78 and because of her sedentary habits had continual bowel trouble. From the day she began taking Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin she has had no further inconvenience and naturally she is glad to say kind things of this remedy.

A bottle can be bought of any druggist at fifty cents or one dollar. People usually buy the fifty cent size first, and then, having convinced themselves of its merits, they buy the dollar size, which is more economical. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded. Elderly persons of both sexes can follow these suggestions with every assurance of good results. Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

Not Guilty as Alleged.

The man had been accused of committing an annoyance by flashing a mirror in the eyes of passersby. "You are quite mistaken," he said to the big policeman. "I haven't any mirror. What these people saw was the reflection of my shining serge coat—I'm a married man and the coat is four years old."

And, turning hastily, he threw the dazzling reflection from his back and elbows into the policeman's dazzled eyes. And by the time the officer recovered he was well on his way.

Why Old Backs Ache

What a pity that so many persons past middle age are afflicted with lame backs, aching kidneys, poor eyesight, sick headache, dizziness, gravel, dropsy or distressing urinary ills. Kidney weakness brings these discomforts in youth or age and is a dangerous thing to neglect, for it leads to Bright's disease and uric acid poisoning. Doan's Kidney Pills have brought new strength to thousands of lame backs—have rid thousands of annoying urinary trouble.

An Indiana Case

Samuel Hater, 922 W. W. St., Port-Jackson, Ind., says: "My kidneys and bladder were in terrible condition. My kidneys acted too frequently and my back ached terribly. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. This did not take them long to cure me and I believe they saved my life."

COLLECT DEPOSIT OF CARBON

Soot is of Fineness Desirable for Various Purposes—Work of Bruno Thieme of Berlin.

Wires are somewhat blackened when thrust into a candle or acetylene flame, but it appears that an electrified wire may collect a large deposit of carbon. Bruno Thieme of Berlin places in the flame two copper wires, one about half an inch above the other. These wires are electrodes of a battery current, and the carbon on the cathode or negative—quickly forms a thick growth, branching out into the flame. The greatest effect is obtained with a current of 12 to 25 volts. Reversing the current transfers the carbon to the other wire, and with the current of an electric influence machine or induction coil there is sometimes a deposit at the anode. The soot being of a fineness making it desirable for various purposes, an apparatus for producing it continuously was devised. A long flame was formed by gas issuing from a series of holes in a horizontal tube, and a wire was passed through it with a piece of wire gauze suspended above. By means of an electro-magnetic relay the soot was automatically shaken off when it reached to the gauze and short circuited the current. By introducing copper or other salts between plate or wire electrodes, metallic deposits were obtained, similar to the electroplating from solutions, but usually at the anode.

CATCH RATS BY ELECTRICITY

Weight of Rodent's Body Causes Primary Circuit to Close, Hurting Little Animal Into Can.

The latest of the many forms of rat traps to have been devised is one constructed by Mills Knickerbocker of New Lenox, Ill. A wooden box with an incline cover is placed beside a deep tin can with perpendicular sides. At the end of the cover is a hinged platform held in place over the can by springs, says the Popular Electricity. This platform is connected by a copper wire with one side of the primary circuit of an induction coil, and two dry batteries are located inside the box. A small hook to which bait is fastened is attached in front of the platform. The only way in which the rat can get to the attractive morsel is by way of running up the incline cover and onto the platform, which is immediately pressed downward by the weight of the rodent's body. The downward move of the platform is the shelf under it to which the other side of the primary circuit is attached, causes the primary circuit connection to be closed. The electrical current which is suddenly developed by the secondary winding is then sent into a pair of copper wire windings on the platform. This gives the rat a severe shock and hurls it into the tin can, from which no rat can escape. The platform springs back into place just as soon as the rat leaves it.

NEW ELECTRIC BARBER POLE

By Day It Revolves and by Night It Is Illuminated by a Small Electric Lamp.

It is said that the striped barber pole originated in those good old days when every barber was supposed to be a surgeon. In days of old, when knights were bold, cuts, contusions, bruises and wounds were not at all infrequent. Then it was part of the barber's business to dress wounds. The striped pole served to guide the unfortunate one to the nearest barber-surgeon. Whether or not this skill in surgery helped when the razor slipped is not stated in history.

Only recently has the barber pole been electrified. By day it revolves and by night it is illuminated by a small electric lamp. The electric or revolving barber pole has for a mid-die section a glass cylinder that is two feet or more in height by about eight inches in diameter, this section being supported on an ornamental base or on a stout brass rod rising from the sidewalk. The glass section of the pole is surmounted by an ornamental cap.

Within the glass section of the pole is another cylinder made of a thin light-weight, translucent material upon which are painted the traditional spiral stripes of red, white and blue the familiar sign of the barber. This inner cylinder is pivoted top and bottom and made to revolve by means of a tiny electric motor attached at the top. Current is carried to this motor on a wire leading from the building and up out of sight inside the pole's base. Within the inner cylinder of the electric revolving barber pole are two incandescent electric lights by which the pole can be illuminated at night.

Indirect electric lighting is now extensively used in large buildings. The leaf and zinc mines of the middle west are adopting electric power.

ELECTRICITY TO KILL FLIES

Insects Strike Charged Wires and Fall Dead Into Trough—One Feature Is Its Cleanliness.

Few things are more significant of the earnestness of the campaign against the fly than the invention by an Arkansas man of an electric fly killer. A few years ago a piece of adhesive or poison paper was considered sufficient. This new method of execution consists of a test-shaped wire frame with troughs at the bottom, the troughs forming the base. This frame is connected with an electric light socket, and the wires charged so that the instant a fly strikes them it is killed, and rolls down the

THEN HE ABANDONED VISIT

Missionary Found Out Why He Was Being Sent as Messenger to Cannibal King.

Jack London, preparing to embark on another cruise around the world, told in Santa Barbara of the strange experiences of his last cruise. "But we had no such hairbreadth escapes as that of a missionary we met in Samoa," he said. "This good fellow was preaching in one of the islands in which cannibalism is practiced. While trying vainly to make converts he was captured by a cannibal king. To his surprise, he was immediately released. His release, however, was made on the condition that he carry a small sealed packet to a neighboring king.

"The missionary was so grateful that, meeting unexpectedly a detachment of English sailors, he refused to accompany them to safer territory. The sealed packet from his benefactor would be delivered as he had promised. But an officer in the midst of the discussion opened the packet. "Therein, besides a number of pungent little onions, was a letter containing these simple but significant words: "He will be delicious with these!"

Alert Center.

While Abdul Hamid was still upon the throne of Turkey, the president of the American Missionary college at Tarsus sent to New York for a large assortment of textbooks in due time all except the chemistries came safely. At first the president could not find out what was the matter, but finally the commissioner of the post sent for him.

"Christian," he said, sternly, "it is not for you to complain. It is for you to give thanks to Allah that you did not follow your diabolical books into the flames. Here is one copy that we saved for a witness. Not all of its deadly elphers could we read, but this is plain even to the eye of a babe." Pointing to the symbol H<sub>2</sub>O, he read with triumphant air and voice, "Hamid Second is Nothing!"—Youth's Companion.

Made a Great Blaze.

With a face as ruddy as an apple Farmer Tullett drove along the quiet country road in his trap.

As he drew near the little village he met the minister walking along, with downcast head and a very meditative look upon his face.

"I'm right sorry to hear of the fire at your house last night, sir," he said. "Was there any serious loss?"

"Indeed there was, my good Tullett," said the minister dolefully. "Ten years' sermons were completely burned."

The old farmer touched his horse with his whip and a sly twinkle came into his merry eye.

"Aye," he retorted as the trap moved off, "they'd make a grand blaze, sir! They were so dry, you see!"

Mosquito Pest Overcome.

Fighting mosquitoes was one of the construction problems of the power development at Stava Falls, British Columbia. Two years ago the pests were so annoying at the height of the mosquito season that for two weeks work was suspended altogether. It is reported that this season there have been practically no mosquitoes as a result of the fact that a man was detailed to spend his time putting oil on pools in the neighborhood.—Engineering Record.

PIMPLES ALL OVER FACE

1413 E. Genesee Ave., Saginaw, Mich.—"Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me of a very bad disease of the face without leaving a scar. Pimples broke out all over my face, red and large. They festered and came to a head. They itched and burned and caused me to scratch them and make sores. They said they were seed warts. At night I was restless from itching. When the barber would shave me my face would bleed terribly. Then scabs would form afterwards, then they would drop off and the so-called seed warts would come back again. They were on my face for about nine months and the trouble caused disfigurement while it lasted.

"One day I read in the paper of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I received a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and it was so much value to me that I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment at the drug store. I used both according to directions. In about ten days my face began to heal up. My face is now clear of the warts and not a scar is left." (Signed) LeRoy C. O'Brien, May 12, 1913.

No Doubt About It.

There was humor of a dry kind in the old duke of Wellington, the conqueror of Waterloo, and it came out in the story by a lady whose French poodle once ran into the grounds of Walmer castle. "Blucher, Blucher!" called the fair owner of the poodle to the disobedient animal.

The duke looked over the wall. "Madam," said he, "time was when I, too, should have been extremely glad to see Blucher."

Wonderful Resemblance. "The violin resembles the human voice."

"Yes, I noticed that when my son practices. It sounds like the voice of some poor human being who is suffering horribly."
