OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

Right Grading Sheep Essential to Success
To make the best gains, sheep when brought into winter quarters, should be kept separate from lambs, rams and the feeding flock. Weak, thin ewes should be separated yarded so that they may get their share of the feed. Rams should be kept in lots of ample size so as to allow them plenty of exercise.

By taking these precautions and regularly providing the flock with suitable feed and an abundance of fresh water and by sheltering them in clean, well ventilated quarters, success in sheep husbandry is insured, according to Frank Kleinhenz, shepherd of the Wisconsin Experiment Station flocks.

Choice of feeds depends to a large extent, upon the condition in which the breeding flocks enter winter quarters. If in good flesh and having access to good roughage, such as clover, millet, alfalfa, hay and roots or corn silage, hardly any grain is necessary, but if the sheep are in a thin, weak condition, no time should be lost in supplying them with hearty grain rations. Otherwise results at lambing time will be disappointing. Pure water should be supplied the flock at all times, and salt should be kept where the sheep may have ready access to it. Successful flockmasters consider it a serious mistake to provide their sheep with salt but occasionally, for under these conditions they are apt to eat too much, which often times causes excessive drinking of water and a derangement of the digestive organs.

Soil Acidity Not Due to Feeding of Silage

"Feeding of corn silage to livestock and returning it to the land in the shape of manure will not tend to increase the formation of acids in the soil," E. B. Hart, chief of the department of agricultural chemistry of the University of Wisconsin thus contradicts a report from northern Illinois that the constant feeding of silage and spreading of manure from silage fed animals upon the farms gradually much of that soil in that region sour and acid.

Rare Farm Opportunities Offered in Wisconsin

"No one who expects to engage in farming should think of leaving Wisconsin until he has become acquainted with its splendid agricultural resources and was familiar with at least a few of the opportunities offered in the state for profitable farming," said LeRoy B. Smith, president of the California Polytechnic school, on his recent visit to the state.

I hereby wish to announce to the public that on last Wednesday, November 19th, I purchased the interest of Peter and Jacob Haug, together with all accounts, and am now the sole owner of the business, known as Meilahn & Haug's Furniture Store and Undertaking Establishment.

Another Nickel Appears

People who take the new nickles need have no fear of being buffaloed, for the Indian on the buffalo nickle is an "honest Injun."

This announcement was made by a local banker to reassure his friends who thought they had been swindled by counterfeit-cent pieces of a new Wild West pattern. A new die had been adopted at the Philadelphia mint, different from the one which the Denver mint uses.

The difference between the two dies is chiefly in the supporting mound beneath the buffalo. The original nickles at that spot have a large area of earth, giving so large an animal the support that it requires. On the side of the mound on the old nickles in raised letters are "Five Cents" and "D".

In the new design the ridge under the buffalo's feet is narrow, giving him the appearance of dancing on a tight rope.—Ex.

BUSINESS PHILOSOPHY

Stealing From Themselves

Dollars Control and Regulate the Wheels of Commerce and He Who Clogs Those Wheels in His Own Town by Sending His Money Away is a Business Ishmaelite.

Copyrighted 1913 by National Business Publicity Association, Milwaukee.
By THOMAS J. SULLIVAN.

The gravest crime which a man can commit against his neighbors, and the community in which he lives, is to send his money away from home to buy goods, which should and could be bought from the home merchant.

His method of purchasing his supplies robs his town of the financial nourishment which is necessary to preserve its industrial and commercial health. By so doing he not only cheats the entire community, but contributes to his own impoverishment.

Money is necessary to commercial life. Where money is lacking business is impossible, just as crops are impossible in a barren soil. Credit follows in the wake of capital. When capital is gone credit is gone; business slumbers and property values then are reduced to a deplorable state.

A town without capital is similar to a human senescent—worthless. As we go back over the pages of medical history we will discover that the ancient medical men practiced the art of bleeding their patients who were afflicted with the slightest ills, frequently killing them.

Bleeding a patient seemed to be the proverbial cure for all of the ills of the flesh, human and otherwise. In days prior to the perfection of medical science and skill, continued failure never deterred them in their belief that bleeding was the only cure, even though the patient died.

Today this barbarous practice is followed in commercial life. The thoughtless citizen, and the citizen who has prospered, profess to want something better than their local merchants have in stock, so they send their orders to the big city stores and pay big prices.

The farmer and the wage earner note the practice of their more successful townsmen, and send their orders to the catalogue house, and in most cases obtain cheap, inferior goods, not worth nearly what they cost.

Thus, the community is robbed of its commercial strength by both classes.

Every trade center, and center of population is a business unit. The residents of which largely depend upon one another for strength and sustenance. Their interests are mutual.

In a community where there are various industries properly balanced, by production and consumption, and where the controlling medium of exchange—credit—is on a firm and sound basis the products of the community are easily disposed of, prosperity and property values increase, and the community and its people are happy and satisfied.

But take from that community its principal element of strength—its credit, the effect would be inevitable, a weakening of the unit of strength.

Still, this is exactly what will happen to a community which is inhabited by a people who patronize the big city stores and catalogue houses, to the neglect of their own local retailers. They earn and produce their money by efforts in the community in which they live. But they do not consume any of the local retailer's product. They send their money to the big merchants in the big cities.

The big city benefits and the small local community loses. What excuse can a man advance for this disloyalty?

What return is given by the big city merchant or the catalogue houses for this trade? None; and none is expected.

They just exchange their goods for money, never money for the product of the home town.

Are they employers of labor in the community in which their customers reside and must earn their living? No.

They buy none of the product of the farms. They pay none of the local taxes. None of their money is kept in the local banks. They never buy an inch of space in the local newspaper. They never give a dollar's worth of credit. They do absolutely nothing but drain the town of its dollars.

Considering all of these facts, why would it not be good business to allow the local merchants an opportunity to compete with the big city dealers?

If given a chance they can do it. Just make your wares known and see how readily the goods of any grade or cost will be forthcoming.
Give your local merchants a chance to figure.

SETTLEMENT IS MADE FOR HOFFMAN DEATH

C. & N. W. R'y Co. Settles Fifty Thousand Dollar Case Out of Court. Terms Not Known

In circuit court this morning Attorney L. A. Williams, in behalf of the Chicago and North Western railroad, filed a notice of settlement in the case of P. A. Hoffman, as administrator of the estate of Dr. M. A. T. Hoffman, vs the North Western railroad. The terms of the settlement were not made known, but the inference is, however, that the sum is well up in the thousands. The case grew out of the accident which befell Dr. M. A. T. Hoffman on May 18 last when in crossing the North Western tracks at Campbellsport his automobile was struck by an extra train which was returning empty to Milwaukee. Dr. Hoffman was instantly killed and his little daughter injured to such an extent that for several days she hovered between life and death.

P. A. Hoffman, father of the accident victim, began suit against the road in behalf of Dr. M. A. T. Hoffman's widow and children for $50,000 damages. T. L. Doyle was retained to prosecute the claim. However when the call of the calendar at the present term of court was had it was reported that settlement was under way and papers filed today dispose of all claims which Mrs. Hoffman may have against the road by reason of her husband's death. It is understood there is another claim pending against the little girl who was hurt in the same accident.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth, Nov. 18, 1913.

GOING SOME A ROMANCE OF STRENUOUS AFFECTION BY REX BEACH SUGGESTED BY THE PLAY BY REX BEACH AND PAUL ARMSTRONG Illustrated by Edgar Bert Smith

CHAPTER III.—Continued. It was growing dark when the rattle of wheels outside the ranch-house brought the occupants to the porch in time to see Nigger Mike halt his buckboard and two figures prepare to descend.

"It's Mr. Speed!" cried Miss Blake. Then she uttered a scream as the velvet darkness was rent by a dozen tongues of flame, while a shrill yelping arose, as of an Apache war-party.

"It's the boys," said Jean. "What on earth has happened here?" But Stover had planned no ordinary reception, and the pandemonium did not cease until the men had emptied their weapons.

Then Mr. J. Wallingford Speed came stumbling up the steps and into the arms of his friends, the tails of his dust-coat streaming.

"Really? This is more than I expected," he gasped, then turning, doffed his straw hat to the halfrs veiled figures beyond the light, and cried, gaily: "Thank you, gentlemen! Thank you for missing me!"

"How do you do, Miss Chapin!" Speed shook hands with his hostess, and in the radiance from the open doorway she saw that his face was round and boyish, and his smile peculiarly engaging.

She welcomed him appropriately; then said: "This reception is quite as startling to us as to you. You know, Mr. Speed, that we have with us a friend of yours." She slightly drew Helen forward. "And this is Mrs. Keap, who is looking after us a bit while mother is away. Roberta, may I present Mr. Covington's friend, and ask you to be good to him?"

"Don't forget me," said Fresno, pushing into the light. "Mr. Berkeley, Fresno, of Leland Stanford University." "Hello, Fresno!" Speed thrust out his hand warmly. Not so the Californian. He replied, with hauteur: "Fresno! F-r-e-s-n-o-o;" and allowed the new-comer to grasp a limp, moist hand.

"Ah! Go to the head of the class! I'm sorry you broke your wrist, however." The eastern lad spoke lightly, and gave the palm a hearty squeeze, then turned to Jean.

"I dare say you are all disappointed, Miss Chapin, but Culver didn't come with me, but he'll be along in a day or so. I simply couldn't wait." "I did think when you drove up that might be Mr. Covington with you," Miss Chapin remarked, wistfully. "Oh, no, that's my man," Speed glanced around him. "And, by-the-way, where is he?"

The sound of angry voices came through the gloom, then into the light came Still Bill Stover, Willie, and Carara, dragging between them a globular person who was rebelling loudly.

"Stover, what is this?" questioned Miss Chapin, stepping to the edge of the veranda. "This gent stampedes in the midst of our welcome," explained the foreman, "so we have to rope him before he gets away." It was seen now that Carara's lariat was tightly drawn about the new arrival's waist.

Then the valet broke into coherent speech, but he spoke a tongue not common to his profession. "Nix on that welcome stuff," he burst forth, in husky, alcoholic accents: "that goes on the door-mat!" It was plain that he was very angry. "If I had planned no ordinary reception, and the pandemonium did not cease until the men had emptied their weapons."

"How do you do, Miss Chapin!" Speed shook hands with his hostess, and in the radiance from the open doorway she saw that his face was round and boyish, and his smile peculiarly engaging.

CHAPTER IV. I was on the following morning that Miss Blake made bold to request her favor from J. Wallingford Speed. They had succeeded in isolating themselves upon the vine-shaded gallery at the rear of the house, and the conversation had been largely of athletics, but this, judging from the rapt expression of the girl, was a subject of surpassing interest. Speed, quick to take a cue, plunged on.

"I would have made the Varsity basketball team myself if I hadn't been so thin," said Helen. "I have always wanted to be tall, like Roberta." "I shouldn't care for that," said the young man. "You know she was a wonderful player?" "So I've heard." "Do you know," mused Helen. "I have never forgotten what you told me that first day we met. About your friendship for Mr. Covington. I think it is very unselfish of you."

"Oh, I wouldn't say that," ventured the young man, vainly racking his brain. "Nobody could help liking Culver." "Yes; but how many men would step aside and let their best friend win prize after prize and never undertake to compete against him?" Speed blushed faintly, as any modest man might have done. "Did I tell you that?" he inquired. "Indeed you did." "Then please don't speak of it to a mortal soul. I must have said a great deal that first day, but—"

so I have arranged a little plan whereby you can do something to prove your prowess, and still not interfere with Mr. Covington in the least." Speed cleared his throat nervously. "Tell me," he said, "what it is." And Miss Blake told him the story of the shocking treachery of Humpy Joe, together with the miserable undoing of the Flying Heart. "Why, those poor fellows are broken-hearted," she concluded. "Their despair over losing that talking-machine would be if it were not so tragic. I told them you would win it back for them. And you will, won't you? Please!"

"I'll take ten chances," he said. "Where does the raffle come off?" "Oh, it isn't a raffle, it's a footrace. You must run with that Centipede cook."

"I'll run a race!" exclaimed the young college man, aghast. "Yes, I've promised that you would. You see, this isn't like a college event, and Culver isn't here yet."

"But he'll be here in a day or so." Speed felt as if a very large man were choking him; he decided his collar was too tight.

"Oh, I've talked it all over with Jean. She doesn't want Culver to run, anyhow."

"Why not?" inquired he, suspiciously. "I don't know, I'm sure."

"If Miss Chapin doesn't want Culver to run, you surely wouldn't want me to, would you?"

"Not at all. If Mr. Covington knew the facts of the case, he would be only too happy to do it. And you, you know the facts."

Speed was about to shape a gracious but firm refusal of the proffered honor when Still Bill Stover appeared at the steps, doffed his faded Stetson, and bowed limply.

"Mornin', Miss Blake." To the rear Speed saw three other men—an Indian, tall, swart, and saturnine, who walked with a limp; a picturesque Mexican with a spangled hat and silver spurs, evidently the captor of Lawrence Glass on the evening previous; and an undersized little man with thick-rimmed spectacles and a heavy hanging holster, from which peeped a gun-butt. All were smiling pleasantly, and seemed a bit abashed.

"Good morning, Mr. Stover," said Helen, pleasantly. "This is Mr. Speed, of whom I spoke to you yesterday." Stover bowed again and mumbled something about the honor of this meeting, and Miss Blake cast her eyes over the other members of the group, saying, graciously: "I'm afraid I can't introduce your friends; I haven't met them."

The loquacious foreman came promptly to the rescue, rejoicing in an opportunity of displaying his oratorical gifts.

"Then I'll make you acquainted with the best brandt' outfit in these parts." He waved a long, bony arm at the Mexican, who flashed his white teeth. "This Greaser is Aurelio Maria Carara. Need I say he's Mex, and a preemier roper?" Carara bowed, and swept the ground with his high-peaked head-piece. "The Maduro good yonder is Mr. Cloudy. His mother being a Navajo squaw, named him accordin' to the rights and customs of her tribe, selecting the title of Cloudy-but-the-Sun-Shines, which same has proved a misnomer, him bein' a pessimist for fair."

Miss Blake and her companion smiled and nodded, at which Stover, encouraged beyond measure, elaborated. "He's had a history, too. When he reaches man's real-estate the Injun agent ropes, throws, and hogs-ties him, then sends him east to be cultivated. He spends four years kickin' a football—" Speed interrupted, with an exclamation of genuine interest.

"Oh, it's true, as gospel," the foreman asserted. "When he goes lame in his left leg they ship him back, and in spite of them handicaps he has become one rustlin' savage at a round-up."

"What college did you attend?" inquired Speed, politely. The question fell upon unresponsive ears.

"He don't talk none," Stover explained. "Conversation, which I esteem as a gift divine, is a lost art with him. I reckon he don't average a word a week. What language he did know he has forgot, and what he ain't forgot he distrusts."

Turning to the near-sighted man who had been staring at the college youth meanwhile, the spokesman took a deep breath, and said, simply yet proudly, as if describing the piece de resistance of this exhibition:

"The four-eyed gent is Willie, plain Willie, a born range rider, and the best hip shot this side of the Santa Fe trail!"

as one might very easily suppose, but an abbreviated and somewhat unusual adjective meaning north. The first two syllables are a changed form of the Latin word septem, meaning seven. The way "seven" happens to be in an adjective meaning "north" is that the ancients, who were great star gazers, associated the north with the seven stars forming the constellation of the Great Bear.

DEAD HORSE OF MUCH VALUE

Parisians Utilize Every Shred of Animal in the Manufacture of Some Article or Another.

When we see a dead horse in the street we either do not think of him at all, or we say "Poor horse," and pass on and forget all about him a minute later. Then after awhile the movers come along and cart the animal away to the dumping grounds, and that is the last of him. But that simple process would not end his career if he were a Parisian horse. As is to be expected, the wily Parisian, who is noted for his economical habits, knows better than to let dead horses turn to dust without any profit accruing to him. This is how they are utilized: First, the hair of the mane and tail, which amounts to about one-quarter of a pound, is cut off and used in brushes, switches, whips, and so on. The skin is then removed and sold to tanners. The shoes are sold to the "ole-rags-ole-iron" man. The feet are cut off, dried and beaten in order to make the hoofs come away, which are then sold to combmakers or manufacturers of ammonia or prussian blue. Every particle of fat is picked out and melted and used by makers of enamel and glass toys, for greasing shoe leather and harness, and in the manufacture of soap and gas. The workmen eat the best pieces of the flesh and give the poorer pieces to dogs, cats, hogs and poultry, or use them for manufacturing prussian blue. The bones are sold to fanmakers or cutlers, or are made into ivory-black. Sometimes they serve as fuel for melting the fat. The sinews and tendons are sold to glue-makers. The small intestines are made into coarse strings. And by the time all that is disposed of there isn't much of a horse left.

Lord Rosberry, speaking to some English grammar school boys, dwelt on the "enormous commercial value of manners." He urged every boy present to cultivate manners "not for the higher consideration," but because they "will give him a value which he will never possess without them."

His lordship neglected to specify the particular commercial centers where manners command a premium. But it has not been observed that manners have much to do with business success in New York, or for that matter in Chicago or Berlin, however it may be in London. If Wall street regarded manners as possessing a commercial value it would long ago have capitalized them. But good manners never looked a traction system or organized a trust or created the necessity for federal regulation. No captain of industry has ever been indicted for politeness, and the manners of railroad presidents and bankers have not been extolled for their value, says the New York World.

The son-in-law of Lord Rothschild apparently takes an academic view of manners. They have their uses in some walks of life and are an asset to creators of swollen fortunes, who seek to break into "society." But generally speaking, books of deportment do not seem of much value to youths ambitious of commercial success. The captains of industry are not captains of courtesy.

which is a closed scroll fitting closely against the frame when the stand is upon the ground. A padlock, of suitable size and shape, fastened over the stay and through the loop of the scroll, prevents the stand from being raised in order to move the machine.

SIGHT OF MICE AND SNAILS Little Rodents Are Good at Distinguishing Different Degrees of Illumination and Colors.

How much does a mouse see? To look at a mouse, one would think that sight counted for a great deal in its life, but experiments go to show that this is only true within certain limits. Mice are good at distinguishing different degrees of illumination and different colors (preferring red and yellow to blue and green), and they are quick to detect movements, but they have little sense of form and little binocular vision.

Does a snail see? Field observations suggest that the animal avoids the light. Laboratory experiments, on the other hand, suggest that it prefers the light. Prof. Emile Yung of Geneva has reinvestigated the question and finds that both these conclusions are wrong. He made over 2,000 observations on 170 snails and found that they were quite indifferent to all sorts of light stimulus, that they do not prefer lighted or shaded areas, and that they do not see obstacles in front of them, and that their eyes have no visual significance.

Careful Father. Young Harold was late in attendance for Sunday school and the minister inquired the cause. "I was going fishing, but father would not let me," announced the lad. "That's the right kind of a father to have," replied the reverend gentleman. "Did he explain the reason why he would not let you go?" "Yes, sir. He said there wasn't bait enough for two."—Harper's Magazine.

Both Lost. Benevolent Old Lady (to little boy in street)—Why, little boy, how did you ever get such a black eye? Small Boy—Me and Sammy Jones was fightin' for an apple in school an' he smashed me.

Benevolent Old Lady—Dear, dear! And which glutton got the apple? Small Boy—Teacher, ma'am.—Harper's Weekly.

Question of Sex. A New England school teacher recited "The Landing of the Pilgrims" to her pupils, then asked each of them to draw from their imagination a picture of Plymouth Rock. One little fellow hesitated and then raised his hand. "Well, Willie, what is it?" asked the teacher.

"Please, teacher, do you want us to draw a hen or a rooster?"

MYSTERIOUS WRITING SNAKE

Bar Magnet and Few Braided Strands of Tinsel May Be Used in Making Quite Amusing Toy.

An amusing piece of experimental apparatus may be made using a bar magnet and some braided strands of tinsel, says the Popular Electricity. Fasten the bar magnet to a wooden stand as shown, and between the binding posts connect a very slack braid of tinsel. Connect the binding posts to a switch and three or four dry cells. By arranging a double pole, double throw switch not shown and throwing it over first to one side and then to the other, the tinsel will wrap itself in one direction around the magnet and then uncoil and coil itself about the bar in the opposite direction, depending upon the direction of the current through the tinsel.

To prevent the bar from short circuiting the tinsel, the bar may be wrapped with a layer of paper or linen tape.

MANNERS A BUSINESS ASSET

English Lord Urges Boys to Cultivate Politeness Because of the Commercial Value They Give.

Lord Rosberry, speaking to some English grammar school boys, dwelt on the "enormous commercial value of manners." He urged every boy present to cultivate manners "not for the higher consideration," but because they "will give him a value which he will never possess without them."

All that is necessary is to insert a knife in the catch of the ring holder, lift the hinged top, substitute the new center and then close the hinged top until the catch clicks.

Fanning the Feather. Divide the children into two parties, and give each child a small fan made from a folded sheet of newspaper. Stretch a string across the room at the height of the players' shoulders. Have a good-sized feather pulled out of a pillow. Throw this up in the air and let the children fan it.

Each party tries to fan it across to the other side of the string. If the feather falls to the ground a point is scored against the party standing on the side of the string on which the feather falls.

The feather must never be touched with the hands, except when it has fallen, and has to be picked up from the floor.

The Way of Woman. Home study for Tommy had just begun, and he found it hard to apply himself to regular hours. At bedtime one evening his father said: "Tommy, I am not at all pleased with the report your mother gives me of your conduct today."

"No, father, I knowed you wouldn't be, and I told her so. But she went right ahead an' made th' report. Jest like a woman, ain't it?"

How Children Should Act. A mother who was going to take her children visiting with her had been instilling the old rule of "Children should be seen and not heard."

"And now, what are your children going to act like?" she inquired as a last precaution.

"Like movin' pitchers," came the ready response.—Delineator.

TO ACCOMPANY MEAT

PREPARATIONS OF VEGETABLES THAT ARE FAVORITES.

Scalloped Tomatoes Will Always Be Enjoyed—Spaghetti in Real Italian Style—Red Pepper Salad Is Excellent.

Scalloped Tomatoes—In the bottom of a buttered baking dish put a layer of tomatoes (peeled and cut in small slices); a sprinkling of sugar, salt and pepper; then a layer of chopped onion and green pepper. Add a few bits of butter, cover with bread crumbs, then another layer of tomatoes, etc., until the dish is filled, the top layer of fine bread crumbs covering the dish, and bake in a moderate oven about 45 minutes to brown the top. Remove the cover ten minutes before the tomatoes are done.

Spaghetti—Spaghetti, Italian style, can be prepared with very little trouble in the following manner:

Put the spaghetti (without breaking) into boiling salted water, boil rapidly uncovered from 30 to 40 minutes. While it is cooking open a can of tomato soup, heat the contents in a saucepan, add a lump of butter, a good sprinkling of onion salt (or a spoonful of onion juice), a little celery salt and a dash of pepper. When the spaghetti is done, drain and cover with this sauce. Serve at the table with grated Parmesan cheese.

Lentils—Wash the lentils and soak them overnight. Next morning drain, cover with boiling water and cook slowly one hour. Drain and press through a colander. Return to the saucepan, season with salt and pepper and add a good-sized lump of butter. Heat thoroughly over the fire until hot. The lentils should be of the consistency of mashed potatoes. Pour over each serving a tablespoonful of tomato sauce or chili sauce.

Red Pepper Salad—Wash, and cut the peppers in halves (lengthwise), removing the seeds. Cover with cold water and cook until tender, but not too soft. Cool and cut into strips. Serve on lettuce with French or Italian Dressing.

Aunt Selina Braddock's Cherry Pie. Line your pie tin with rich crust. Mix four tablespoonfuls of sugar with two of flour, and sprinkle a little more than half of it over the bottom of the crust. Have ready a pint of seeded cherries; put in half of them and sprinkle over them the remainder of the sugar and flour. Then put in rest of the cherries and juice and sprinkle with heaping tablespoonful of sugar. Wet the edges of the under crust, put on a thin top crust, cutting slits in the middle for escape of steam. Press the edges of paste together and bake in a moderate oven for 20 minutes to half an hour.

Roxbury Cake. One-half a cup of butter, one cup of sugar, one cup of molasses, one cup of sour milk, four yolks of eggs, three cups of sifted flour, two teaspoonfuls of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of cloves, grating of nutmeg, three eggs and one teaspoonful of soda, whites of four eggs, one cup of currants or nut meats.

Prepare in the usual manner, sifting the soda and spices into the flour and then sifting the whole together. The recipe makes three dozen small cakes.

Scotch Muffins. One and one-half pints flour, one cupful honey, one-half teaspoonful salt, two teaspoonfuls baking powder, two tablespoonfuls butter, three eggs and a little over one-half pint milk of thin cream. Sift together flour, salt and powder; rub in butter, cold; add beaten eggs, milk or thin cream and honey. Mix smoothly into batter as for pound cake; about one-half fill sponge cake tins, cold and fully greased, and bake in good steady oven seven or eight minutes.

Potted Corned Beef. Simmer corned beef four hours or more until tender, then leave in liquor until almost cold; then turn into a colander and place a saucer or plate over it; on that put a heavy weight. I use a large sun glass that fits into saucer, and on the flat side of that one eight-pound iron wrapped in paper. My meat cuts in thin, smooth slices. Some let the meat soak in liquor overnight, then heat to just warm and press.

Good Substitute for Butter. An economical substitute for butter, especially for use in seasoning vegetables, etc., is made by frying out ham, bacon or poultry fat, either raw or cooked, also the droppings from sausages, or the fat skimmed from soup or gravy, allowing to each half pint a small onion, a little thyme, a teaspoonful of salt and a little pepper. Try out at a low temperature, strain through cheesecloth and keep in a cold place.

Crust Wheat Meal. Put one pound of flour, a pinch of salt and a half teaspoon of baking powder into a basin. Mix them well, then rub into them six ounces of fresh butter. Work the mixture with a knife or fork into a paste by the addition of half a pint of water. Roll it out once or twice and it will be ready for use. Sufficient one pound for a pudding large enough for three or four persons.

Lemons for Pie. I find it a great help when grated lemons are needed for pie, instead of grating to cut in pieces and remove the seeds, then put through a food chopper, using the fine knife blade, writes a contributor to the Modern Priscilla. It is a saving of time. This can be applied to citron, figs and nuts for fruit cake.

Apple John. One generous pint of flour, two tablespoonfuls of baking powder, two tablespoonfuls butter, one cup milk. Make it to fit a dish in which are sliced about a quart of apples. Put it on top of apples and bake. When done, reverse it and cover with a cup of sugar, a little spice and butter. Serve hot, with milk or cream.

FACE ITCHED AND BURNED

383 No. Union St., Aurora, Ill.—"My ailment started with a little pimple and it always itched and burned terribly. I scratched it and in a few days my face was all covered with sores. It ran up to my eyes and the day after I could not see out of my right eye. I was unable to get any rest. I couldn't go to bed, being afraid of getting the clothing all soiled, although I had my face all bandaged.

"I was given two jars of salve but it kept getting worse. It was something like a running sore because every time I used some of the salve I had to wrap bandages around my neck to keep the water and pus from running down my body. I wrote for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in a few days I received these and washed my face with the Cuticura Soap and put on some Cuticura Ointment and the next morning my face felt cool and somewhat relieved. After using the sample I bought some Cuticura Soap and Ointment at the drug store. I followed this treatment just twenty-six days and after using one cask of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was cured." (Signed) George Miller, Jan. 1, 1913.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."—Adv.

Then He Pulled Him Out. Chancellor David Lloyd-George, one of the best known figures in England, tells this story at his own expense: "A man saved some one from drowning and was given a public testimonial. When after the mayor had sung the man's praises, he was called upon to reply, he said: 'Really, I have done nothing to deserve this reward. I saw the man struggling in the water, and as no one else was near by I saw he would be drowned if I didn't save him. So I jumped in, swam to him, turned him over to see that it wasn't Lloyd-George, and then pulled him out.'"

Essentials. "Why don't you have a den at your house?" "What's the use? I've quit smoking and I don't happen to own a Malay kris."

A Large Package. "One can send almost anything nowadays by parcel post." "Yes. A girl in a neighboring state sends her love that way."

Ought To. "Pop, trees won't grow by the seaside, will they?" "No, my son."

"I should think the beech would."

Styles in Suits. "Our colonial ancestors used to slit ears." "I don't care for such styles. Slit skirts are bad enough."

Preaching and Practice. "I have never listened to a speech that was more vituperative." "What was the orator's theme?" "Temperance."

Gowns of the Season. "I see the latest in styles is the cataract gown." "Yes; the very thing for the fall season."

FAMILY OF FIVE All Drank Coffee From Infancy. It is a common thing in this country to see whole families growing up with nervous systems weakened by coffee drinking.

That is because many parents do not realize that coffee contains a drug—caffeine—which causes the trouble. (The same drug is found in tea.) "There are five children in my family," writes an Iowa mother, "all of whom drank coffee from infancy up to two years ago."

"My husband and I had heart trouble and were advised to quit coffee. We did so and began to use Postum. We now are doing without medicine and are entirely relieved of heart trouble. (Caffeine causes heart trouble when continually used as in coffee drinking.)

"Our eleven-year-old boy had a weak digestion from birth, and yet always craved and was given coffee. When we changed to Postum he liked it and we gave him all he wanted. He has been restored to health by Postum and still likes it."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Write for the little book "The Road to Wellville."

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be boiled. Instant Postum is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. Grocers sell both kinds. "There's a reason" for Postum.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

VICTORIA IS TAKEN

CAPITAL OF TAMAUPLIAS LOST TO FEDERALS AFTER BLOODIEST BATTLE OF WAR.

TAMPICO REPORTED TAKEN

Carranza's Aid Demands Credentials of Hale and Negotiations Are at an End—Huerta Is Increasing His Army.

Brownsville, Tex., Nov. 20.—Victoria, capital of the state of Tamauplias, Mexico, was captured Tuesday by the constitutionalists after what Gen. Pablo Gonzales, rebel commander, describes as the bloodiest battle of the revolution. General Gonzales says hundreds of the federal garrison were killed. A large number of the federals made a last stand in the city after being driven from a convent. Every one of these was slain.

The fall of the capital gave the insurgents control of the entire state except the important seaport Tampico, where a strong force of rebels is operating.

Gonzales reported his victory to rebel headquarters at Matamoros. He said that bodies lay everywhere in the streets and were thick in the courtyard and halls of the government palace, where part of the federal garrison made a last stand after being driven out of a Catholic sanctuary. Every one of these defenders was slain. The greater portion of the garrison of 2,000 men, however, evacuated the city after 40 hours of fighting.

The federals retreated to Tula, where they were overtaken by the constitutionalists and again defeated. They fled into the hills. Generals Rabago, Arzamendi and Eugenio Aguilar commanded the federals. The attacking constitutionalists were reported to number 5,000 men. Their loss was four officers and between 30 and 50 men. Many handsome buildings not razed by shell were leveled with the torch in the hand-to-hand fighting. Victoria has a population of 15,000.

City of Mexico, Nov. 20.—President Huerta's friends said that he regarded intervention by the United States as probable. An order was sent to the state governors Tuesday to report immediately how many soldiers they could have ready by November 20.

The departure of Americans from Mexico continues, although in decreasing number, which indicates that the majority of them intending to leave have gone.

Invitations to the opening of the Mexican congress have been sent to the diplomatic corps.

Nogales, Sonora, Nov. 20.—Francisco Escudero, minister of foreign relations of the Carranza cabinet, asked William Bayard Hale, President Wilson's agent, to present his credentials before continuing conferences that had been under way informally. This was interpreted as a vital demand for recognition of the constitutionalist revolution before the diplomatic exchanges between Carranza and the Washington government could be concluded.

The indications were that the Washington government was demanding of the revolutionists certain guarantees which the latter apparently believed vitally concerned their dignity and independence of action.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 20.—Federals are advancing north from Chihuahua City in the direction of Juarez, captured by the rebels. A battle took place between the advancing federals and the rebels' rear guard at Laguna, midway between Juarez and Chihuahua. Pancho Villa, captor of Juarez, admitted losing five men, killed in the battle, but said the federals lost 35.

SIDNEY MOULTHROP IS JIMMIED

Man Who Threatened President and Lawmaker With "Exposure" Placed in Cell at Washington.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Sidney Moulthrop, the stenographer accused by James Hamilton Lewis, senator from Illinois, of having falsified and published the letter informing H. M. Pinell of the terms upon which he would be made ambassador to Russia, is in jail here. He was arrested on a warrant charging him with forgery. Moulthrop refused to make any statement.

The specific charge is that he forged a check on Senator Lewis for $200, the complaint being made by Edward Sullivan, private secretary to the senator. The arrest came just as the secret service men in this vicinity were about to hunt for Moulthrop as the alleged writer of a letter received by President Wilson saying that unless the president makes Senator Lewis cease prosecution of Moulthrop a letter involving the president himself will be made public.

It is said similar letters were sent to Senator Lewis declaring if the senator persisted in the prosecution the threat of making public other letters would be carried out.

INDIANS DEFEY U. S.

1,500 RED MEN DEFEND EIGHT RENEGADES.

Navajo Army Encamps on Mountain and Stir Whole Tribe to Open Rebellion.

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 20.—Fifteen hundred Navajo Indians rallied Tuesday in defense of eight renegades, and are reported in armed encampment on Beautiful mountain, thirty-five miles southwest of the Shiprock agency, defying United States Marshall Hudspeith to take prisoner the renegades, who are wanted on federal warrants charging horse stealing, assault and bigamy.

Two troops of cavalry have been sought by the marshal, and the request has been referred by the war department to Maj. Gen. Carter, in command of the border patrol. It is feared that before the cavalry arrives the renegades will be joined by many more at the command of the medicine men and of the plural wife men, who are reported to be stirring the Navajos to rebellion.

The Indians are fortifying on a high table mountain, the summit of which is approachable by only one tortuous road.

Marshall Hudspeith, after surveying the position, returned here with three of the original eleven renegades he was sent from here ten days ago to arrest. The eight others escaped and rallied their tribesmen.

An investigation by the marshal and the Indian agents showed that the Indians surrounded the renegade leaders had rounded up their cattle and sheep, harvested their corn, and otherwise made ready for a siege.

The Indians are led by Chief Black Horse and 150 bucks.

DOCTOR SLAYS MAN

OFFICIAL OF MISSOURI VALLEY ASSOCIATION SHOTS WIFE'S ADMIRER TO DEATH.

PAIR MET SECRETLY AT HOTEL

Physician Arranges to See His Alleged Rival by Appointment, Then Kills Him in Kansas City Hotel—Tells Two Stories of the Tragedy.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 20.—Dr. W. T. Elam of St. Joseph, officer in the Missouri Valley Medical association and one of the faculty of the Central-Ensworth medical college, shot and instantly killed William Putnam Cramer of 2800 Lake Park avenue, Chicago, at the Hotel Baltimore in this city, following a meeting on Tuesday.

Back of the shooting is the story of a secret romance and the relentless tracking of Cramer by an angry husband, who, under the guise of a friendly conference, took occasion to wipe out his alleged wrongs by death.

The Elams have been married five years and they have no children. Mrs. Elam is now in Detroit attending her mother, Mrs. J. N. West, who is seriously ill. She knew nothing of the shooting until a relative sent a telegram to her. Cramer was married and a traveling advertising solicitor for a magazine.

Cramer and Mrs. Elam had met by appointment once, but another woman was present. They dined at the Hotel Baltimore and afterwards went to a theater. Cramer is said to have expressed confidence that he could fully explain this to the angry doctor and bring about harmony.

Cramer and the husband met in the reception room of the hotel. The meeting had been arranged through letters. Cramer's attorney and Detective Jack Glynn, who had been employed by Dr. Elam to trace his wife and Cramer, were present. Then the Chicagoan and the doctor adjourned to a room on the second floor of the hotel to "talk matters over."

The two men had been in the room 15 minutes when the shooting occurred. The doctor said: "He grappled with me and I shot him by accident." Afterwards he said: "I knew Cramer was lying and I shot him."

BROWN QUILTS AS ROAD HEAD

New York Central Head Says He Has Earned a Rest—Rail Service Fifty Years.

New York, Nov. 20.—William C. Brown, president of the New York Central lines, resigned on Tuesday. His resignation was presented at the meeting of the directors and was accepted to take effect January 1. His successor was not selected. It is generally believed, however, that Alfred H. Smith, who became senior vice-president of the Central lines in March last, will be elected president in the near future. President Brown has been contemplating his retirement for some time. He was appointed president in February, 1909. His desire to seek a well-earned rest after 50 years' service in railroading, the fact that his hearing was impaired and his contemplated return to Iowa, where he spent his early years, are given as the reason.

FIND SPENCER GUILTY

MURDER FIRST DEGREE RETURNED AGAINST SLAYER.

Curses Jurors and Judge—Loses His Nerve When Attempt at Insanity Fails.

Wheaton, Ill., Nov. 17.—"We, the jury, find the defendant, Henry Spencer, guilty as charged, and we fix the penalty at death," read the clerk.

That verdict was returned on Friday in the case of the state against Henry Spencer for the murder of Mildred Allison Rexroat, the tango teacher, who Spencer killed near Wayne, and whose body he left on the railroad tracks in the hope that it would be so mangled as to conceal the crime.

Spencer heard the verdict read to him in the courtroom and instantly became a wilder animal than he had been at any stage since his arrest.

"They'll hang me!" he shouted. "By God, they got me!" Then he cursed the judge, the jury, his own lawyer and himself.

Spencer sank fainting into his chair. It was several minutes before he could be even partly revived. And then he began mumbling, a low, indistinct, almost gibberish succession of incomplete thoughts.

"How does that jury know I am crazy? They think I was just acting—well, maybe I was and maybe I wasn't—the jury don't know—they just make a guess and they string me up."

Attorney Anton Zeman, who has represented the prisoner through the trial, was not present, and so Judge Slusser himself ordered an entry of the usual motion for a new trial, and set the hearing for a week from Saturday. Spencer heard and jerked up his head and cursed his attorney.

STATE SUFFRAGE MEET AT MADISON

WISCONSIN WOMEN PLAN CAMPAIGN FOR BALLOT AT ANNUAL CONVENTION.

PARTY SEEKS 60,000 VOTES

Amendment to National Constitution Granting Equal Suffrage Is Proposed—Suffrage Planks Are Urged.

Madison.—The state suffrage convention at the opening session listened to the address of Mrs. H. M. Youmans, Waukesha, president, and a variety of papers on many phases of the suffrage problem.

The speakers urged the importance of a federal amendment and increased educational work. The resolution for the amendment to the constitution was presented by the Rev. Olympia Brown of Racine. She said that an amendment was the easiest way and the most secure method of securing the ballot for women in all the states.

A resolution was adopted that every party be asked to put a suffrage plank in its platform.

Mrs. Henry M. Youmans, president, in her address, said: "At the last election on woman suffrage in Wisconsin a year ago we polled 135,000 votes. The opposition polled 90,000 more than we did, so that, at that time we needed nearly 50,000 more votes than we received to win. When our next election on woman suffrage rolls around, some of our friends will have passed away; possibly some will have had the bad taste to change their minds; the population of the state will have increased. We shall have to convert 60,000 or 70,000 more men in Wisconsin to the belief in our cause before we women of Wisconsin can win the ballot."

Madison.—The state suffrage convention at the opening session listened to the address of Mrs. H. M. Youmans, Waukesha, president, and a variety of papers on many phases of the suffrage problem.

Hutchinson, it is said, attempted to kill Dunnebecke and then turned the gun on himself.

NEWS NOTES OF WISCONSIN

Madison.—Attorney John Ollis, 74 years old, one of the leading members of the Dane county bar, died at his home here after a long illness from a complication of diseases incident to old age. Mr. Ollis was born in Norway, practiced medicine in Deforest, Dane county, for some years, and later studied law in the University of Wisconsin, graduating in 1884. In 1878 he was a member of the lower house of the legislature of Wisconsin.

Janesville.—With the work on the new bridge across the Rock river at Milwaukee street nearly completed, the Gould construction company of Davenport, Ia., which has the contract for the work, has been sued for 10 per cent of the construction cost by the Lutton Patent company of Chicago, for infringements on their patent method of pouring reinforced concrete.

Manitowish.—Rev. Adolph Bredesen, for the past twenty years pastor of Christ Lutheran church at Stoutland, died here, aged 63 years. Forged by ill health to retire last September, he came here to live with his mother. He was in charge of parishes in Dane and Columbia counties and other sections in Wisconsin.

Madison.—That Wisconsin and its university are negligent in their attitude toward military history and that the historical library is sadly deficient in its provision of up-to-date books and records relating to that subject is the opinion of Capt. R. H. Wescott of the United States army, now assigned as inspector of the Wisconsin National guard.

Unity.—Herbert Stecker, a young farmer of the town of Green Grove, Clark county, was struck by the Soo Velvet special and was killed. The idea seems to prevail that young Stecker was murdered and placed upon the track to cover up the crime, as neither his watch nor pocketbook, which he was known to have on his person, have been found.

La Crosse.—Patrick Welsh, Chicago, was run over by a passenger train near the station here. It is thought that he fell asleep on the platform while waiting for his train and rolled onto the tracks. An employee of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road while going to work found a man's thumb on the track. This led to the discovery of the accident.

Madison.—Game Warden Williams arrested six Milwaukeeans for buying six deer. John Krueger shouldered the responsibility and paid a $100 fine. The warden confiscated the deer and the six hunters bought them back at $10 each. Three local men who sold the deer were fined $25 each.

Iron Ridge.—Fire supposed to be of incendiary origin destroyed the barn and contents on a farm two miles north of here owned by the Northwest Iron company and occupied by Hubert Voss, consuming five horses. Loss $4,000.

Wausau.—While he had gone to supper and had neglected to place his jewelry in the safe, the store of W. F. Manecke was visited by burglars and practically all of his stock carried away.

Washburn.—Women residents of the county are the holders of 112 deer hunting licenses as is shown by the records in the office of County Clerk Nels M. Oscar. In the little town of Cable, which has a population of about 500, twenty-six women hold licenses. Iron River comes second with twenty-five.

Grand Rapids.—While engaged in cutting wood Burt Kadroski nearly lost his left arm. Kadroski attempted to pick up a broken chain while the machine was running and his arm was caught by the saw, nearly severing it at the elbow.

Baraboo.—Arthur Huebing, former city clerk of Reedsburg, was arrested charged with a shortage in his accounts while in office. Experts found Huebing to be about $9,000 short, it is alleged.

Neenah.—The Fox river is at a lower level at the present time than it has been for many months. Water-power users are using about 70 per cent of the usual allowance.

Merrill.—Martin Jens is suffering from a crushed skull and other serious injuries caused by a big log rolling on him while he was engaged in loading logs at Bloomville.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

OR wisdom is better than riches; and all the things that may be desired are not to be compared unto it. A mind content both crown and kingdom is mind.

There is always time for courtesy.—Emerson.

PRACTICAL HINTS.

When making hard soap, get a good patent lye. Follow the directions for making soft soap, put in three pints of water and five pounds of fat and a handful of borax. Mark off into cakes before it hardens.

Devonshire Cream.—This is so delicate that more people should know how it is prepared. Put two quarts of fresh milk on the stove in a pan of cold water, bring very slowly to the scalding point and keep it hot for nearly an hour, being careful to never allow it to boil; then remove from the stove, set in cold water with ice for six hours. By this time the cream is all collected on top, which is removed with a skimmer and kept until ready to serve.

Rice Flour Pound Cake.—Cream a quarter of a cup of butter with one cup of powdered sugar, add the beaten yolks of two eggs, one teaspoonful of vanilla, the grated rind of a lemon, and half a cup of cold water. Mix thoroughly and add one and a half cups of rice flour, sifted, and one and a half teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Add the whites of the eggs beaten stiff. Bake in small gem pans and cover with fancy frosting. Garnish with candied cherries.

Vinegar and salt will clean brass well, though it is not pleasant to use, if you have any broken places in the skin of the hands.

German Cream Soup.—Cut thin slices of bread as thin as shavings, put them with a small amount of butter into a saucepan and stir until well browned, then pour over enough boiling water to make the amount of soup needed. Add salt to taste, and let the water boil up; then remove the saucepan and stir in a large cup of sweet cream. If a richer soup is desired, add more cream to the soup. Be sure to have it well salted, or it will taste flat. This is a good recipe to give the sick.

Scraped beef is another good dish to serve the sick. Scrape round steak with the sharp edge of a spoon; season well and cook in a hot frying pan.

BEING FRIENDS IS JOY ENOUGH

If folks are made of proper stuff; The twinkling clasping of the hands, The smile of one who understands; Words in the season, or the call Of silence that is blessed calm— I pledge, until this old world ends The goodly folks who are good friends.

CANDY FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

Candy which can be pulled is always a delight to the childish heart, and taffy will hold a warm corner.

Taffy.—Take two and a half cups of brown sugar, half a cup of butter, four tablespoonfuls of molasses, three tablespoonfuls of water, two of vinegar, and boil twenty minutes, adding a teaspoonful of vanilla. Cool and pull.

Peanut Candy.—This is most delicious when made properly. Shell a pound of peanuts and crush them with the rolling pin until like coarse bread crumbs. Boil together, stirring constantly, a pound of light brown sugar and six ounces of butter for eight minutes from the time the first large bubble appears. Add the nuts and pour at once into a greased pan. Mark off in squares almost immediately, as the candy hardens very quickly.

Mexican Candy.—Boil together two cups of brown sugar, one cup of milk, one cup of granulated sugar, one tablespoonful of butter and a tablespoonful of starch. Cook all together until a hard ball is formed when dropped in water. Flavor with vanilla, add a cup or two of nuts, beat until nearly cold, then pour out on a plate. Slice when cold.

Cocoanut Cream Candy.—Boil together a cup and a half of sugar, a half cup of milk and two teaspoonfuls of butter twenty minutes, stirring until the sugar is dissolved. Remove from the fire and add a cupful of cocoanut and a half teaspoonful of vanilla; beat until creamy and pour into buttered tins. This is especially delicious poured over chocolate fudge.

Fig Brittle.—Melt one pound of white sugar in a granite sauce pan; stir in one-half pound of chopped figs, then pour into a greased pan an inch thick. Cut in strips and serve.

Nellie Maxwell.

See? The man who plays the bass drum makes more noise than anybody else, but he doesn't lead the band. There is a moral to this.

Man's Views. "Hubby, buy me one of those $35 handbags." "All you carry is a powder rag and a few samples." "What's the use of having a $35 bag to hold ten cents' worth of junk?"

Their Quality. "Don't you think the old country dances are better than these new-fangled high jinks?" "I must say I think the old-fashioned dances are the real thing."

Habits of the Hired Man. "Well, did them picture people get moving pictures of everything on the farm?" "Everything but the hired man," said Farmer Heck. "They couldn't ketch him in motion."

Miraculous. "There is something uncanny about that railroad." "What is it?" "It hasn't had but one fatal wreck in ten years, and then the company never blamed it on the engineer."

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

Guineas are profitable.
 Mules are money makers.
 Use care in the cow's ration.
 Sheep must have clean water.
 Some fall plowing is desirable on most farms.
 Cellars should have a drain, also a window or two.
 Lime may be applied to the soil at any season of the year.
 If your hogs have cholera put up a sign, "Hog Cholera Here."
 The farmer takes less risk with his dairy than with his other crops.
 Laying hens should have their head-est feet just before roosting time.
 Keep the ticks away. Dipping pays. Ticks take the life blood from sheep.
 It will pay to gather and destroy all wormy and decayed fruit in the orchard.
 Hogs are susceptible to rheumatism if allowed to sleep in wet or damp beds.
 The lack of organic matter is the greatest trouble we have in the vineyard.
 The most important point about hog troughs is that they may readily be cleaned.
 These are excellent days to start cuttings, to be used later in the window garden.
 Alfalfa is rich in protein, which makes it an especially good feed for growing fowls.
 Reliable statistics show that sheep are relatively free from diseases dangerous to man.
 Do not expect too much from your young sows, especially if they are bred too young.
 Definite plans should be made for next year's crop before the ground is covered with snow.
 Train up a colt in the way it should walk and it will never grow into a horse that will balk.
 Select the really first-class ewe lambs to reinforce the flock. Fatten the inferior ewe lambs.
 A poultryman that is too careless to keep the hen house free from vermin does not deserve to succeed.
 It is desirable to either plant at once, or stratify in sand or leaves, any nuts that are to be planted.
 The pumpkin crop will have to be raised out of cans in a large section of the west. Too dry for them.
 Clean up the garden, remove and burn all weeds and trash. They harbor insects through the winter.
 The eggs of the codling moth are difficult to locate until one gets accustomed to looking for them.
 Some farmers market their corn by the basketful in the hog lot, and then market the hogs by the wagonful.
 It is a good plan to encourage the pigs to eat as much as possible so as to relieve the drain upon the sow.
 Soft-shelled eggs are often caused by fowls being confined, becoming overtired, and from lack of mineral matter.
 One thing is certain; it will not pay to carelessly feed, it is better to sell them.
 Care should be exercised in training the colt to drive. When the training begins keep at it until it is broken.
 As a general proposition it may be said that the sow that has pigs before she is a year old will disappoint her owner.
 Poultry raising offers to women an excellent means of making money because the work is not too taxing for their strength.
 Salt, hardwood ashes and charcoal are ideal to keep in hog pasture and if there is any other one thing needed it is roses. One was attended by Miss Nora Geidel, a sister of the groom, as maid of honor, and Til-a-herbe as bridesmaid. The bride was gowned in an embroidered voile dress and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The room was attended by George Gibbel as best man, and Alfred Geidel as groomsmen.
 Immediately after the ceremony, the wedding party repaired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Kibbel where a sumptuous wedding dinner was served, only near relatives and friends being in attendance. The house was prettily decorated with red, white and blue crepe paper, and wedding bells.
 The bride is a young lady, who sheep must have access to plenty of good pasture. Continuous grazing on the same pasture is undesirable.
 A poor dairy cow takes up as much space as a good one and will cost as much if not more to keep. Weed out the poor cows—the Babcock test will do it.
 One of the essential conditions which makes for good seed corn with the proper per cent. of germination is good storage conditions and this condition is just as important, or nearly so, as the selection of the seed ears.
 It is probable that more fruit trees have died during the dry season of 1913 than in any other year in the history of the country. It is not very probable that many of these trees will be replaced, not at least for some years.

DEFY STATE HEALTH BOARD
 Teachers and Pupils in Smallpox Afflicted District Decline to Undergo Treatment.
 Madison.—School teachers and children in Mount Horeb and Portage, where an epidemic of smallpox has broken out, are defying the state board of health, which has issued orders that all of them be vaccinated as required by law where contagious diseases prevail. Many of the children and their instructors have refused and are still attending school. Orders have been issued by the board of health to the school officials of both towns to arrest any one who attends school who can not show a certificate of vaccination.
 At Mount Horeb there are fourteen cases reported, while at Portage there are twelve. Local physicians at first were inclined to report the cases as chicken pox, but an examination made by experts for the state left no doubt that smallpox in a virulent form existed. State officers have been dispatched to the scene of the epidemic.

DEDICATE A NEW MASONIC TEMPLE
WISCONSIN SCOTTISH RITE CATHEDRAL IS CONSECRATED AT LARGE CONCLAVE.
MORE THAN 800 PRESENT
 Nearly Every County in the State is Represented and Grand Lodge Officials Attend—Eve of 50th Anniversary.
 Milwaukee.—With the largest gathering of Masons in the history of the Wisconsin consistory present the new Scottish Rite cathedral, Van Buren and Oneida streets, was dedicated and consecrated to its new use.
 Over 800 Masons, almost half of them in the thirty-second and thirty-third degrees, the highest degree attainable under the Scottish Rite, filled the main auditorium of the building to take part in the impressive ceremonies attendant upon the event. The new class of 383, made up of men from nearly every county in the state, was present. The class is 250 larger than any of its predecessors. There is a larger percentage of young men than ever before entered this consistory. Among the members are men in all of the professions. Gov. F. E. McGovern and Secretary of State John S. Donald are in the class, along with thirty-six other Madison candidates.
 The importance of the occasion was enhanced by the fact that the dedication came on the eve of the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Wisconsin consistory. The consecration rites were purely Masonic. Barton Smith, Toledo, sovereign grand commander of the supreme council, thirty-third degree, of the northern Masonic jurisdiction of the United States, had charge of the ceremonies. He was assisted by George H. Beuzenberg, T. E. Baiding, past commanders-in-chief of the Wisconsin consistory; William P. Kenny, present commander-in-chief; Andrew D. Agnew, sovereign prince of the Wisconsin council, Princes of Jerusalem, and John Campbell, George E. Thwaites and Robinson Locke, W. W. Perry, grand secretary of the grand lodge, officiated as chaplain.
SUES PUGNACIOUS HUNTERS
 Racine County Farmer Seeks $15,000 Damages for Alleged Injuries.
 Racine.—William Rowe, Rochester, a farmer, has begun suit against Otto and Arthur Schultz of Milwaukee for $15,000 for injuries alleged to have been inflicted in an argument on the Rowe farm last February. The Schultz brothers had been hunting on Rowe's farm. Rowe ordered them away. Words ensued and neighbors found Mr. Rowe unconscious, with hands and feet frozen and a bad gash in his head. The Schultz brothers paid fines of $100 each in municipal court. Now Rowe starts a suit to recover damages.

WILL STUDY WISCONSIN LAW
 Committee of New York Legislators Coming for Investigation of Mothers' Pension.
 Madison.—A commission of New York investigators, about seventeen in all, appointed by the 1913 session of the New York legislature, will come to Madison the first week in December to make a study of the Wisconsin mothers' pension law and learn about its operation.
 The commission is headed by Aaron J. Levy, chairman, somewhat noted recently for his connection with the prosecution of the impeachment proceedings against Gov. Sulzer. The secretary of the commission is Richard M. Neusted and in its service is Robert W. Hebard of New York city as director and chief investigator.
 In a letter to Secretary Tappins of the state board of control the commission expresses a desire that arrangements be made here for a thorough hearing on the subject, and that it be given an opportunity to secure a quick and result-getting conference.

RULING FAVORS N. P. ROAD
 Supreme Court Denies Application for Forfeiture of Road's Charter in Wisconsin.
 Madison.—The supreme court has denied the application of the attorney general's office to forfeit the charter of the Northern Pacific, but held that an alternative writ of mandamus be allowed commanding the road to do the particular things which are alleged to ought to have done or neglected to do.
 The state sought to annul the charter of the Northern Pacific in Wisconsin for alleged failure to pay fees approximating $250,000 for increases in capital stock. Certified resolutions evidencing the increases are alleged not to have been filed with the secretary of state. The attorney general's application was for leave to file an information in the nature of a quo warranto against the company to forfeit its franchise. The total increase of stock involved was $240,000,000.

SMALLER DEMAND FOR LABOR
 Approach of Winter Conditions Described by Statement from State Free Employment Bureau.
 Madison.—Demand for labor is falling off and unemployment is increasing, according to reports received by the state industrial commission from the state employment offices.
 Help wanted at the Milwaukee free employment office decreased 20 per cent in October, 1913, as compared with October, 1912. Applications for work increased almost 70 per cent. Outside of Milwaukee the decrease in demand has been slight, but the increase in the applications for work has been very great.
 Despite the increase in demand the state employment office has found positions for a greater number of workers this year than last: October, 1913, 2,900; October, 1912, 1,800.

New Trains Established.
 Janesville.—Better train accommodations to Milwaukee over the Milwaukee road have been inaugurated after several years of agitation on the part of Janesville business men. Early passengers to Milwaukee need not make a four-hour ride on a milk train, as a new train leaving here at 6:15 a. m. will make connections at Milton Junction with the train from Madison. A later train, leaving here at 7:20 a. m., will also make the trip without delay.

Pioneer Stage Driver Dead.
 Madison.—David P. Pihlmaale, Sr., who drove stage from Stevens Point to Chicago fifty years ago, died here, aged 93.

Madison Population Increases.

May Reassess Oshkosh.
 Madison.—The state tax commission will hear arguments on the petition for a reassessment of the taxable property in Oshkosh.

RACINE LOSES ITS "GRAND OLD MAN"
STEPHEN BULL, FOUNDER OF J. I. CASE COMPANY, EXPIRES AT AGE OF 91.
AROSE FROM HUMBLE START
 Well Known Manufacturer Began Life on a Farm and Later Conducted Country Store in Wisconsin—Blind for Last Seven Years.
 Racine.—Stephen Bull, Racine's most widely known citizen, founder of the great J. I. Case Threshing Machine works, manufacturer, banker and philanthropist, died at the advanced age of 91. He was the remaining member of the "big four" who founded the Case company, now a $40,000,000 corporation, and had been since 1857 a resident of Racine.
 Stephen Bull was born March 14, 1822, in Scipio, Cayuga county, New York, and until eighteen years of age worked on a farm. In 1845 he came west, lived in Racine for a year and then moved to Spring Prairie, Walworth county, where he operated a general store for ten years. Returning to Racine in 1857 he entered the employ of his brother-in-law, Jerome I. Case and in 1863 the J. I. Case Threshing Machine company was organized by Jerome I. Case, Stephen Bull, Robert H. Baker and M. B. Erskine. Mr. Case was president of the company for many years and on his death Mr. Bull became president. Owing to advanced age and failing health Mr. Bull retired from active business about ten years ago. His eyes failed him and during the last seven years of his life he was blind. He was a prominent Mason.
 Factories, business houses and schools were closed here during the funeral and for five minutes street cars were stopped and practically every wheel of industry ceased turning as a mark of respect for Mr. Bull.

GOVERNOR SHOOTS BIG BUCK
 McGovern Successful on Hunt in Northern Wisconsin Woods—Had Easy Shot.
 Madison.—Gov. McGovern returned from the north woods, near Glidden, where he was successful as a hunter, bringing down his one deer, the limit allowed by the law. State Treasurer Johnson and Dr. John McGovern, members of the governor's party, also were successful in bagging one deer each.
 Gov. McGovern's deer is a five-pointed buck and weighs 217 pounds. The chief executive was favored by the big fellow with a fine opportunity for a deadly aim by walking carelessly in the open wood.

STATE TITLE TO LAWRENCE
 Ripon Loses Fierce Gridiron Battle With Appleton College by 12 to 0 Score.
 Appleton.—In one of the most desperate gridiron battles ever seen in Appleton, Lawrence defeated Ripon here by a score of 12 to 0. In the first period Ripon advanced the ball to Lawrence's one yard line and was held for downs. Sylvester punting forty-five yards out of danger. The game was played in mud ankle deep and the back field men could not get started. The losers fought gamely to prevent a large score and they were successful, but on a dry field they could not have stopped the terrific plunges of the Lawrence backs.

New Arms for State Guard.
 Appleton.—Officers, first sergeants buglers and bandmen in the Wisconsin National guard, are to be armed with automatic pistols, information to that effect having been received from Maj. C. R. Williams with instructions to send in the Colts revolver now in possession of the guardsmen into Camp Douglas at once.

Prepare Series of Reservoirs.
 Oshkosh.—The Wolf River improvement company has a large force of men at the head waters of the Wolf river making surveys and preparing to construct a series of reservoirs to regulate the flow of water in the Wolf river, Lake Winnebago and Fox river in accordance with a grant made to the company by the last legislature.

Summit Lake Skater Drowns.
 Antigo.—The body of Anton Janaszak, 31 years old, a telegraph operator at Summit Lake, Wis., who drowned while skating, has been recovered.

Green County Protects Crows.
 Monroe.—Because crows do more good by picking up white grubs than harm by eating corn, Green county has taken the 25-cent bounty duty off. During the past year $557.25 was paid out in this bounty.

Father of Twenty-nine Dies.
 Neenah.—August Stelow, aged 89, father of 29 children, is dead. Mr. Stelow lived here 49 years and was married three times. Of the 29 children 16 are living.

Defeat Agricultural School.
 Monroe.—The advocates of an agricultural school for Green county went down in defeat when a majority of the board of supervisors voted against the proposition of opening a school in this city.

Squirrel Hunter Shot.
 Coon Valley.—Shot through the abdomen by his friend, with whom he was hunting squirrels, Selmer Elhle was taken to a La Crosse hospital fatally wounded.

Pretty Costume for Club Meeting

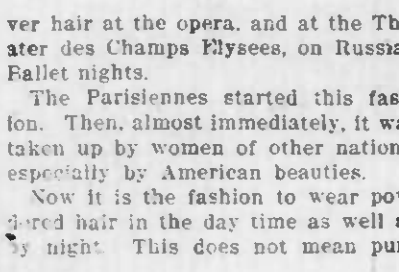

FOR the club woman, or one who attends any informal afternoon function, here is a simple and smart costume. It is designed on very conservative lines, but provided with the most popular of the present styles touches to make it acceptable to the most up-to-date wearer.
 It is a model especially well adapted to a stout figure. The small coat hangs closer than the majority of those equally smart. Its cut sets the material close to the arm and narrows the shoulders. The sleeves are easy, in straight lines and three-quarter length. There is a deep and rather narrow "V" at the throat, and the basque is long, sloping down toward the back. It is unfinished except for the sewing at the bottom. Thus the long line of the figure is not broken by the separate coat. It is noticeable that all the lines of the coat tend to preserve length of line, in the figure.
 The skirt is fuller than the average, with the effect of being a double skirt at the front. It is cut wide enough to allow it to be caught up in plaits at the left knee under a soft rosette of chiffon. A piece is let in at the front, but the split or overlapping breadth is absent and there is worn enough for a comfortable step. At the long "V" at the front a little soft white chiffon is let in and a strand of the ever-present white beads finishes the neck dress.
 The jacket laps at the front with fastening concealed by an inverted

PARISIAN WOMEN OCCUPIED WITH TWO NEW "FADS"

AT the present moment there are two very prominent fashions governing Paris. One of these is white hair. The other is red fox.
 Early last spring there was noticed the growing fashion of wearing powdered hair. All through the summer season one saw the most wonderful, and often very beautiful, heads of silvery hair, such hair as one sees at a fancy dress ball. The powdered hair now so fashionable in Paris is, as a rule, quite dark in parts. It is obviously powdered at the sides and in front.
 The great drawback to this fashion is this: Powdered hair makes considerable demands upon one's toilet, and upon one's personality, generally. It seems to silently call for a special style of dress. It cannot be worn, successfully, with "just anything."
 In the evening these difficulties disappear entirely, for modern evening gowns are so ornate and elaborate that they seem to harmonize, naturally, with powder.
 As to the second "fad" what can be said? Red fox skins have become ubiquitous in Paris. All through last summer, and autumn, the most exclusive Parisian beauties were making sensational successes in white linen and satin sea-side costumes, accompanied by a brilliant red fox skin, in the shape of a flat tie.
 Skins or the ordinary red fox looked all right when adopted as an eccentric "fad" by ultra smart women, and in conjunction with fragile summer dresses; they look hopelessly common when adopted as a regular winter fur and worn with handsome tailored suits of cloth and velvet. Nevertheless, the red-fox-rage is apparently in a healthy condition. It seems likely to last all through the winter. And the pity of it is that already the shop windows are filled with imitation red-fox skins, worthless furs which have no meaning and which would make any costume look ordinary. This was, of course, inevitable, but it is nevertheless deplorable.
 The newest combs are large and flat, and the correct thing is to wear them at the back of the head, low down, in Greek style. Some of these combs are of rare beauty. The artistic jewelers of Paris are past masters at work of this kind, and the most wonderful things are done with carved jade, inset with precious stones, and with transparent horn incrustated with diamonds and traced over with gold.
 Sometimes these beautiful combs are accompanied by an elaborate clasp which is worn at the breast or is used to fasten the wide sash, at one side.
 Philately and History.
 An interesting chapter in philatelic history, and in the history of Europe, is closed by the decision to suppress the foreign postal agencies in Crete as the result of the union of that island with Greece. Austria, Great Britain, France, Russia, and Italy have all maintained post offices in Crete, as in Turkey, and there is at the moment much speculation in philatelic circles as to whether the Levantine post offices maintained by the powers, among which Germany is also included, will not be closed as well.

CEGAR LAWN.

In our issue of Nov. 8, we made several typographical errors in the write-up of the Long-Gudex case. We have this week corrected same which reads as follows:

The case against John L. Gudex was dismissed Monday, Nov. 3 when circuit court convened. A few days after the case was started the following petition was signed by 120 representative citizens of Campbellsport and vicinity:

To the Hon. R. C. Fairbanks, Justice of the Peace of Fond du Lac County:

We, the undersigned citizens and tax-payers of Fond du Lac County do hereby petition you in behalf of the public good to take into consideration, the facts as they exist in the case entitled: The State of Wisconsin vs. John L. Gudex, in which J. Weller Long is the complainant, charging the said John L. Gudex with libelous and defamatory statements in the article published in the Campbellsport News of Aug. 5, 1912.

Now we have good reason to believe the article referred to, was written and published by the defendant with malice, and in the belief that the statements made were true, and that the community ought to be made aware of the facts bearing on the character of the complainant, which for truth and veracity in this community is bad.

Now, therefore, we, the undersigned citizens of Fond du Lac County, petition you to secure good and sufficient security from the complainant for the purpose of defraying all costs, which may arise through all the court proceedings pertaining to this case, and we further believe the complainant to be a non-resident of the state of Wisconsin, who seems to be determined to persecute the public.
