OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

Urge Farmers to "Take Stock" Yearly

Farmers who take annual inventories of their farms and equipment find it quite as much to their advantage as does the city business man who over-hauls his entire stock once each year.

This is the announcement made by representatives of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin in a bulletin just issued by the Wisconsin Bankers' Association and distributed by local bankers in their respective communities.

An inventory, according to the bulletin, shows first of all, the farmers total investment, second, his net worth, and third, how much he has made or lost during the year.

It is a common mistake for those who do not take inventories to look at the amount of available cash at the end of the year as a gauge of their business success.

How to Organize a Cow Testing Association is the subject of the next bulletin to be issued by the Bankers' association.

The following table shows the value of the cattle, swine and sheep and goats in the state mentioned. Horses and mules have been omitted for the reason that in the main they are a part of the working capital of the farm.

State	Value	per farm	per acre
Wisconsin	$475	$4.02
Illinois	455	3.52
Indiana	314	2.46
Iowa	946	6.05
Kentucky	156	1.85
Michigan	289	3.15
Ohio	315	3.55
Minnesota	428	2.41
Pennsylvania	265	3.16
South Dakota	435	3.98
Missouri	107	2.36
New York	435	4.25
N. Dakota	293	2.76
Tennessee	126	1.53
West Virginia	221	2.13

The only states leading Wisconsin in the value of stock per acre in farms are New York, where more than $29,000 was paid out for feed, and in Iowa where the pork industry is supreme and where over $100,000 was paid out for feed, against five and a half millions in Wisconsin. While the stock industry is waning in both the states mentioned it is increasing in Wisconsin.

A Wisconsin Cow Makes Big Butter Record
A five-year-old Jersey cow in the herd of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin has just completed a satisfactory milk and butter fat record. During the seven days while under test she produced 337.5 pounds of milk which contained 15.3 lbs. butter. While under test she consumed daily about 10 pounds of hay, 12 pounds of grain, 25 pounds of silage, and 35 pounds of sugar beets.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH OF HARTFORD CITIZEN

James McManus of That City Found Dead in a Barn Last Week Wednesday Evening. Inquest Held, Mystery Remains Unsolved

James McManus, a well known resident of Hartford was found dead in a barn southwest of the city of Hartford last week Wednesday evening. The body was first discovered by Henry Reinhart, who lives in the city of Hartford. A nearby physician was at once notified and he stated that life had been extinct for over three hours. A jury was at once summoned and an inquest was held, the verdict being that Mr. McManus had died from some unknown cause.

According to the story of Mrs. Reinhart, wife of the man who found McManus, foul play is expected. She claims that in the afternoon she saw a man come out of the barn very slyly and that he ran across a field to a haystack and after that he could not be seen. She suspected something wrong and notified her husband, who went to the barn to investigate. He found McManus in the room which had been his sleeping quarters, lying on the floor with blood all over his face. The dead body was then taken to the undertakers and prepared for burial, which took place last Friday afternoon.

O. Quale, who had been sleeping with McManus in the same barn, was described by Mrs. Reinhart as being the same man who left the barn. He was found in a saloon and a warrant for his arrest has been made. However, nothing has been done up to the present time, the mystery seems to be unsolved for the jury returned a verdict of death resulting from an unknown cause.

Mail Boxes for the Rural Schools
If every rural school situated on a rural free delivery route were supplied with a mail box, a number of distinct advantages to the school would result. Considerable difficulty is now experienced in getting to the schools the periodicals which have been subscribed for owing to the lack of free mail delivery advantages which the home of rural communities now enjoy, but which the schools in these communities are not taking advantage of.

The state department of education, has through correspondence with the United States Department of Agriculture, procured assurances that if a rural school situated on a rural mail route it will forward mail to the school just as to a private residence, and that he will withhold the mail during holidays, Saturdays and vacations when school is not in session. There is, therefore, nothing in the way of providing this desirable facility with regard to mail for rural schools, and it is much to be desired that school boards provide mail boxes.

A. M. Garball of Albion, Mich., a vagrant, who visited this village on Tuesday and who left in company with another companion late in the afternoon in a southerly direction suddenly was seized with strangulated hernia, just outside of the village limits, alongside the railroad tracks. His companion noticing the danger hurried to the home of Arthur Stark nearby who assisted in removing the patient to his home where medical aid was summoned. It was found necessary to perform an operation at once the patient thereafter was removed to the Drissel-Heider hospital at West Bend. We have been unable to learn how the patient is getting along at the present writing.

In return he sold an eighty acre farm to Mr. Schmitt, which is located in town Trenton, three miles southeast of West Bend, which Mr. Day recently bought from Lucas Zambraski. Mr. Schmitt will take possession March 15th.—Hartford Press.

VICTIMS OF NEW EUGENIC MARRIAGE LAW

Miss Minnie Perschbacher, a Former Kewaskum Girl, and Tilden Mull Refused License to Wed

Tilden Mull, aged 37 years, of Richmond, Ind., was denied a marriage license to wed Miss Minnie Perschbacher by the county clerk of Milwaukee last Friday. When he asked the reason for not being able to obtain the permit, he was told that the new eugenic marriage law of this state was in effect and that he would have to get a certificate properly filled out by a doctor before he could be given a permit to wed.

Mull and Miss Perschbacher are both well known here. Mull was employed here as carpenter during the rebuilding of the malt-house. During that time he made a large host of friends. Miss Perschbacher, the young lady whom Mull sought to wed, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Perschbacher, who resided here until about year ago, when they moved to Milwaukee.

Judge Backus Begins New Six Year Term
"Hear ye, hear ye, the Municipal court of the city and county of Milwaukee is now open," cried Sheriff Lawrence A. McCreel. When he had completed the first day of a new term of six years on the Municipal court bench was begun by Judge A. C. Backus. A throng taxed the capacity of the courtroom when the court was formally opened on Monday by the sheriff. The complexion of the crowd was truly cosmopolitan and included, beside the usual members of the bar association, several women attracted by the possibility of a trial along probation lines, was lauded by District Attorney Yockey and Attorney Edward A. Mook, who spoke in behalf of members of the bar association. In reply, Judge Backus mentioned the success of the probation system, declaring that out of 400 cases in which probation had been given only 32 per cent were returned for violation of their parole. He contrasted this percentage with a statement that 41 per cent of defendants imprisoned returned the bench on other charges while he sat as judge.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

New Law
Since Jan. 1 ice cream dealers and traders in oysters are required to conform with a new regulation by the weights and measures department of the state. Paper ice cream and oyster containers must be filled to a certain height and marked by a perforated line accompanied by the words, "Fill to the mark." The capacity of the paper bucket, must also be plainly indicated on the side or top. Many who relish limburger cheese have not been getting a square deal the department says. On one box containing sixty limburger, the quality of tin foil, wrapping paper and twine used weighed eight and one-half pounds for which the consumers were obliged to pay. On another box containing twenty-two brick cheeses the wrapping weighed five and one-half pounds. The department is preparing to enforce the new net container law, to be in effect in 1914. —Legal papers for sale at this office.

A number of rooters from West Bend accompanied their team but even with these encouragers, they could not succeed in hitting the pins for large score. Former Kewaskum Boy Dead
Jacob Bassil, son of Mrs. Paulina Bassil of this city, passed away in death at his home in the southern part of the city last Friday evening at 9 o'clock, having been ill with tuberculosis for about three years. The man was born in the town of Kewaskum on Nov. 5, 1838, and came to West Bend with his mother about seventy years ago. He received a common school education and thereafter worked for some time in the Lochen Box, saw-mill factory. He was a splendid boy, industrious, polite, and as well behaved as there was one in the city. He was liked by everybody and all who knew him esteemed him as a true friend. His untimely death, therefore, is regretted extremely by his many acquaintances. He is survived by his mother, three brothers, and three sisters—John of Bakersfield, Cal., Frank and Joseph at home, Mr. Clark, Bath of Chicago, and Annie and Francis of Seattle, Wash. His funeral was held this morning at 10 o'clock under the auspices of the Catholic church, interment being made in Holy Angels' cemetery. To the bereaved mother, brothers and sisters, we extend our heartfelt sympathy.

High School Notes
The seniors have received class fobs and as you can imagine they are "quite classy." The regular singing instruction by Miss Reinke was held Wednesday morning at the High School. "Why did the lemon drop?" inquired the fervent Freshie. "Oh just because it heard the orange peel!" replied the jaunty Junior.

To the regret of the entire High School, Miss McRae, of our faculty was unable to return to her duties this week. Mr. Simon and Miss Ogrenhorst are teaching Miss McRae's classes until her return. The local High School boys' basketball team will meet the Hartford High team next Friday evening, Jan. 9, 1914 at Groeschel's hall. Give the team your hearty support for it will insure victory. Well here we are at school again. Our trials and troubles to renew. To battle with our "studious brains." Our task and duties now to do. With New Years Resolutions still. New and fresh in our minds. It will not take us long until. We're back to High School pace and times.

JACOB HONECK IS SERIOUSLY INJURED

Horace Become Frightened and Mr. Honeck is Thrown From the Wagon. Two Ribs Broken and Other Internal Injuries

Reports were circulated on Tuesday that Jacob Honeck of the town of Kewaskum had been found unconscious on the road near Allenton that morning and that his team of horses had run away and were not found. Upon further investigation we have received the following: Mr. Honeck together with his son Kilian delivered some grain with two teams to Allenton on Monday. Upon returning home Kilian went in advance and did not pay any attention to his father in the rear, and arrived home unaware of any accident. When about three and one half miles northeast of Allenton, the tugs of the harness on the team which the senior Honeck was driving in some manner became unhooked and the wagon tongue dropped out of the neck, the horse frightening the team, which became unmanageable and ran away, throwing Mr. Honeck off the wagon and onto the ground near a wire fence. With special effort he was able to crawl to a nearby farmer, Mr. Peter Moritz, who assisted him in the house, and who at once summoned medical aid. Upon examination it was found that Mr. Honeck suffered from two broken ribs and other internal injuries.

The unfortunate man was removed to his home on Thursday and at the present writing we are glad to report that he is getting along very nicely.

GOING SOME

A ROMANCE OF STRENUOUS AFFECTION BY REX BEACH SUGGESTED BY THE PLAY BY REX BEACH AND PAUL ARMSTRONG

Illustrated by Edgar Bert Smith

CHAPTER IX—Continued. "You said just now you'd answer for him with your life. Well, we aim to make you live! We ain't a-goin' to lose this foot-race under no circumstances whatever, so we give you complete authority over the body, health, and speed of Mr. Speed. It's up to you to make him beat that cook."

"S-s-suppose he gets sick or sprains his ankle?" Glass undertook to move his body from in front of the weapon, but it followed him as if magnetized. "There ain't no time to be no accidents or excuses. It's pay or play, money as the tape. You're his trainer, and it's your fault if he ain't fit when he toes the mark. Understand?"

Willie lowered the muzzle of his weapon, and fired between the legs of Glass, who leaped into the air with all the grace of a gazelle. It was due to no conscious action on his part that the trainer leaped; his muscles were stimulated spasmodically, and he propped himself on the floor.

"Did you hear what I said?" demanded Willie in a voice that sounded like the sawing of a meat bone. Glass opened his mouth, and when no sound issued, nodded. "And you understand?"

"Then I guess that's all. It's up to you," Willie replaced his gun, and the fat man threatened to fall. "Come on, boys!" The cowboys filed out silently, but on the threshold Willie paused and darted a venomous glance at his enemy. "Don't forget what I said about Mr. Colt and the equality of man."

"Yes, sir!—yes, ma'am!" ejaculated the frightened trainer, nervously. When they were gone he collapsed. "They are rather severe, aren't they?" ventured Fresno.

"Severe!" cried the unhappy man. "Why, Speed can't—!" He was about to explain everything when the memory of Willie's words smote him like a blow. That fiend had threatened to kill him, Lawrence Glass, without preliminary if it became evident that a fraud had been practiced. Manifestly this was no place for hysterical confidences. Larry's mouth closed like a trap, while the Californian watched him intently. At length he did speak, but in a strangely softened tone, and at utter variance with his custom.

"Say, Mr. Fresno! Which direction is New York?"

"That way," Fresno pointed to the east, and the other man stared longingly out through the bunk-house window.

"It's quite a walk, ain't it?" "Walk!" Berkeley laughed. "It's two or three thousand miles!" Glass sighed heavily. "Why do you ask?"

"Oh, nothing. Jest gettin' homesick." He calmed himself with an effort, entered the gymnasium as if in search of something, and then set forth to find Speed.

CHAPTER X.

BUEENOS Aires, Senor" Carara bowed politely to Speed. "Good-morning again," said Wally.

"Turning to the trainer Carara eyed him from top to toe, removed his cigar, and flipped the ashes neatly and deliberately from it; then smiling disdainfully, said: "Buenos dias, Senor Fat!"

"Glass started. "You talkin' to me?" "Yes," Carara leaned languidly against the wall, took a match from his pocket, and dextrously struck it between the nails of his thumb and finger. He breathed his lungs full of smoke and exhaled it through his nose. "I would have spik to you bit fore, but the Senor Fat is—he shrugged his shoulders—"frighten" se bad he will not understand. So—) come back."

"Who's scared?" said Glass, gruffly. "Carara turned his palm outward, in gentle apology. "You been talk a gret deal to my Senorita—no? To Marietetta, eh?" "Oh, the Cuban Queen!" Glass winked openly at Speed. "Sure! I slip her a laugh now and then."

"She is not Cuban, she is Mexican," said Carara, smiling. "Well, what do you think of that? I thought she was a Cuban." Glass began to chuckle. "Senor Fat," broke in the Mexican sharply, while Larry winced at the distasteful appellation, "she is my Senorita!"

"Is she?" Well, I can't help it if she falls for me." The speaker cast an appreciative glance at his employer. "And you can cut out that 'Senor Fat,' because it don't go!" Then he gasped, for Carara slowly drew from inside his shirt a long thin-bladed knife bearing marks of recent grinding, and his black eyes snapped. His face had become suddenly convulsed, while his voice rang with the tone of chilled metal. Glass retreated a step, a shudder ran through him, and his eyes riveted themselves upon the weapon with horrified intensity.

"Listen, Pig! If you spik to her again, I will cut you." The gaze of the Mexican pierced his victim. "I will not keel you I will just—cut you!"

Speed, who had sat in open-mouthed amazement during the scene, pinched his nose. Like Larry, he could not remove his gaze from the swarthy man. He pulled himself together with an effort, however, undertaking to divert the present trend of the conversation. "W—where will you cut him?" he asked, pleasantly, more to make conversation than from any lingering question as to the precise location.

"Here," Carara turned the blade against himself, and traced a cross upon his front, whereupon the trainer gurgled and laid protecting hands upon his protruding abdomen. "Tot spik Spanish!" "No," Glass shook his head. "But you understand what I try to say?" "Yes—oh yes—I'm hep all right."

CHILD'S TOY CART IS NOVEL

Bottom Lets Down and Dumps Contents of Vehicle on Floor—Operated by Small Springs.

Children's toys nowadays reproduce almost everything used in real life, and an example of this is the toy dump cart designed by a New Hampshire man. The toy works on the same principle as a real dump cart, and by pressing a spring the bottom lets down and the contents roll out on the floor or ground, according to where the owner is playing. The bottom portion of this toy cart is fastened to the axle of the wheels, and an upwardly inclined portion is pivoted to the sides.

The sides and back of the cart are stationary. The back end of the bottom portion is connected with the back of the cart by means of springs, and can be released by quick slight pressure. When this is done the weight of the contents of the cart force the bottom down from the rear and roll out, the upper portion of the body of the cart being raised a little in the process.

This makes no difference, however, to the position of the horse, which trots along on its single wheel in the same attitude as before. Any little teamster will tell you that this dump cart is a big improvement over one that you have to pick the load out of by hand.

WHEN THERE WAS NO SHADOW

Interesting Occurrence in Midway on February 13, 1913—Sun Was Vertically Overhead.

Every one knows that when a person stands in the full sunshine his body casts a shadow which will be either short or long, according as the sun is high up in the heavens or near the horizon at sunrise or sunset. A little thought will bring it home to the reader that obviously, if the sun is exactly vertical over a person's head there can be no shadow. But the problem is to determine when and where this shall be the state of things. As regards the "where," that must evidently be at some place on the earth in the tropics, and the "when" must be the hour of midday. To get these two things to concur by prearrangement is a matter of no small difficulty. But as a matter of fact they did occur on a day in February, 1913—namely, the 13th, when a scientific friend of mine, W. B. Gibbs, was in mid-ocean in latitude 15 degrees south, the sun's declination being also about 15 degrees south. A photo, reproduced in the Strand, represents Mr. Gibbs and another man standing bolt upright on the deck facing one another, and clearly shows the absence of any sign of a lateral shadow—in other words, it proves that the ship was in such a latitude that the sun was vertically overhead, and that the time was noon, when the sun was at its highest altitude as between east and west.

A WELCOME GUEST.

"I'm awfully glad you're going to take dinner with us."

"It's nice to hear you say so."

"Cause if you hadn't come there would have been just 13 of us to sit down to the table, and mamma is so superstitious she'd have made us wait."

Ready for Rain.

The boy had just handed his father a sizable haberdasher's bill with the request that he pay it.

"You are an extravagant idiot," roared the irate parent. "Does it ever occur to you to provide for a rainy day?"

LINGO OF MANY LOCALITIES

Strange and Varied Phrases and Expressions Greet Traveler in Journeying Around United States.

It is probable that only the drummers really know how many types of vernacular are used in this country and which are the favorite pastimes. For the average man is confused by those which come to his attention in even a short journey, remarks the New York Sun.

If he leaves the Grand Central station, for instance, and rides in the smoking car, he may be asked to take a hand at bridge before the train has pulled out of the subterranean cavity at Forty-second street. But he need not expect that a similar invitation will reach him after he has left that train at the South station in Boston, walked a few blocks and boarded another train at the North station.

From there on the suggestion will be phrased "Play pitch." "Play pitch" and the word bridge won't be heard. And those who have experimented affirm that pitch is the deadlier game of the two, at least for the novice.

Should your footgear give out almost anywhere in the United States except in one little corner you will tell the cobbler that you want your shoes half soled and heeled. But do not make the mistake of using that phrase in the New England region devoted to the pursuit of the frisky mackerel and the somnolent cod, for the shoemaker won't know what you mean. The proper phrase to use thereabouts is "heeled and tapped."

Why tapped? Why, because that is a relic of the time when a sewed sole was unknown and the cobbler tapped, tapped all day long with his little hammer on the wooden pegs that held the shoe together.

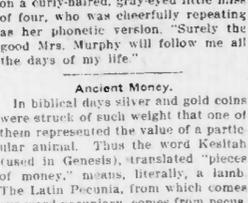

Possibly you are not yet so bitten by speed mania but you still enjoy driving across country behind a good horse. If you get up near the Canadian line, you will seek in vain for a lively stable in case you wish to put up over night. What you must ask for thereabouts is a "baiting stable, for horses are still "baited and bedded" in that part of the country, just as they were a hundred years ago.

Even the epithets vary, and that mildest one of all, the "by golly" of the southern negro, has been transmuted into "by gorry."

JOY RIDES FOR YOUNGSTERS

Little Car Constructed Especially for Son of Cleveland Engineer—Complete in Every Detail.

There is nothing pleases the child quite so much as having something "just like father's." In this instance the small car shown was constructed especially for Master Tom Hoyt, son of the well-known consulting engineer of Cleveland. The little car is complete to the last detail, is driven by a small electric motor with clutch and two brakes and has a dummy shift lever. The driver of the car will never be molested for exceeding the speed limit of most cities, as the greatest speed to be obtained is but six miles per hour. It has been considered the most practical and complete little car ever constructed.

In the Infant Class.

A teacher in a Protestant mission school on the lower west side was instructing her class of four or five year-olds to recite in unison the Twenty-third Psalm. When the little folk came to the "surely goodness and mercy shall follow me," etc., she noticed that some one was in error, but was unable for some time to detect the one who was departing from the text. Tip-toeing softly down the aisle with her ear inclined first on one side and then on the other, she came on a curly-haired, gray-eyed little miss of four, who was cheerfully repeating as her phonetic version, "Surely the good Mrs. Murphy will follow me all the days of my life."

Ancient Money.

In biblical days silver and gold coins were struck of such weight that one of them represented the value of a particular animal. Thus the word Kealtah (used in Genesis), translated "piece of money," means, literally, a lamb. The Latin Pecunia, from which comes our word pecuniary, comes from pecus, a general name for sheep and the smaller animals. In early times coins bore figures of a horse, a bull or a hog, together with the names of the animals pictured. Afterward, as values changed, the figures upon the coins no longer bore representations of their value in cattle, but figures representing a rose, an eagle, etc.

WONDERFUL GROWTH OF THE CANADIAN WEST

The Cities of Western Canada Reflect the Growth of the Country.

As one passes through Western Canada, taking the City of Winnipeg as a starting point, and then keeping tab on the various cities and towns that line the network of railways that cover the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, and covering the eyes as the gaze is bent on these it is felt that there must be "something of a country" behind it all. Then gaze any direction you like and the same view is presented. A field after field of waving grain, thousands and hundreds of thousands of them, farming hands and laborers are at work converting the virgin prairie with more fields. Pasture land in every direction on which cattle are feeding, thriving and fattening on the grasses that are rich in both milk and beef properties, but it is unfortunate that more cities are not seen. That, however, is correcting itself. Here we have in a large measure, the evidence of the wealth that helps to build up the cities, and it should not be forgotten that the cities themselves have as citizens, young men who have come from other parts, and brought with them the experience that has taught them to avoid the mistakes of eastern and southern cities. They also are imbued with the western spirit of enterprise, energy and push, and so Western Canada has its cities. At a banquet recently given in Chicago, a number of prominent citizens of Winnipeg were guests. Among the speakers was Mayor Deacon of Winnipeg, in speaking of the remarkable growth of that city, which in thirty years has risen from a population of 2,000 to one of 200,000, he spoke of it as being the gateway of commerce and civilization.

"Now, how great the idea of commerce is you will have some conception of when I tell you that the wheat alone grown in the three prairie provinces this year is sufficient to keep a steady stream of one thousand bushels per minute continuously night and day going to the head of the lakes for three and one-half months, and in addition to that the oats and barley would supply this stream for another four months."

The value of the grain crop alone grown in the three prairie provinces would be sufficient to build any of our great transcontinental railroads and all their equipment, everything connected with them, from ocean to ocean.

"Now, if we are able to do this with only ten per cent. of our arable land under cultivation, what possibilities are there when 258,000,000 acres of the best land that the sun shines on is brought under the plow? Do you not see the potent of a great, vigorous, populous nation living under those sunny skies north of the 49th parallel? And if with our present development we are able to do as we are doing now, to purchase a million dollars worth of goods from you every day of the year, what would be worth when we have fully developed the country?"

"Now, you shall assist us to level out this great empire that is there? Shall it be the alien races of southern Europe or shall it be men of our own blood and language? In the last three fiscal years no less than 358,000 American farmers have come into Western Canada, bringing with them goods and cash to the value of $250,000,000, and I want to say here that no man who sets foot on our shores is more eagerly and heartily welcome than the agriculturist from the south.

"So long as these conditions remain I consider that this is the best guaranty that the sword will never again be drawn in anger between the two great branches of the Anglo-Saxon race. The grain crops of Western Canada in 1913 have well upheld the reputation that country has for abundant yields of all small grains—Ad-vertisement.

Reflection on Hospitality.

At a certain Scottish mansion notorious for scanty fare, a gentleman was inquiring of the gardener about a dog which some time before he had given to the laird. The gardener showed him a lank greyhound, upon which the gentleman said:

ECZEMA BURNED AND ITCHED

"203 Walnut St., Hillsboro, Ill.—"My child had a breaking out on the lower limbs which developed into eczema. The eczema began with pimples which contained yellow corruption and from the child's clothing they were greatly irritated. They seemed to burn, which made the child scratch them, resulting in a mass of open places. They made her so cross and fretful that it was impossible to keep her quiet. They caused her to lose much sleep and she was constantly tormented by severe itching and burning.

"I tried several well-known remedies, but got no relief until I got a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, which did so much good that I got a large quantity that cured her in ten days after she had been affected for two months." (Signed) Mrs. Edith Schwartz, Feb. 28, 1913.

HURRIED AWAY BEFORE THAW

Traveler Left While the Conversation Nuisance Was "So Cold He Could Hardly Talk."

In a country town in the English Midlands there is a man who is so noted for his conversational abilities that his acquaintances avoid giving him unnecessary opportunities to talk.

One cold morning this man rode up to a hotel in the neighborhood just as the guests were finishing breakfast.

He dismounted, walked in, saluted the landlord in his usual loud tones, and declared that he was so cold that he could hardly talk.

Just then a nervous traveler, who was present, stepped up to the landlord and, taking him by the coat, said:

"Mr. L—, have my bill brought as soon as possible."

"What is the matter, my dear sir?" inquired the anxious landlord. "Has anything happened?"

"Nothing, nothing. Only I want to get away from here before that man thaws."

New Thought Rare.

A new thought is a very rare thing and it would be a magnificent creature to catch. The only things I can think of that one would really catch "new thoughts" would be certain clever brained things, certain scientific discoveries and a few less frequent cases of a really original argument used in an old controversy.—K. RIGHT METHODS OF BINDING

Strengthening Edges of Material Means Adding Indefinitely to Wearing Power.

Binding is used to neatness or strengthen the edges of material by means of covering them with strips of the material, tape, ribbon or Prussian binding. The long flannels used for infants are frequently bound with soft silk ribbon.

To bind with the same material as the garment, cut sufficient lengths of the material into strips, but all must be of equal breadth.

They must be cut on the straight if you are binding a part that is straight, and a crossway piece of the material
when the part is on the cross.

To sew on the strips, first neatly join all the pieces together until you have the required length, fold them lengthways, and make a crease.

Place one edge of the binding strip against the edge of the material on the right side, the wrong side of the binding being uppermost, and run it along about a quarter of an inch from the edge.

Press the seam well with the thumb
to make as flat as possible, fold it down exactly at the crease you first made in the middle, and hem it neatly on to the wrong side.

If you are using Prussian binding, tape, or any similar article that has not a raw edge, simply fold it lengthwise in half, and make a crease, lay
it over the edge to be bound, half on one side and half on the other, tack securely in position, and hem with small stitches, first on the right side
and then on the wrong.

not a raw edge, simply fold it length-
wise in half, and make a crease, lay
it over the edge to be bound, half on
one side and half on the other, tack
securely in position, and hem with
small stitches, first on the right side
and then on the wrong.

Press the seam well with the thumb
to make as flat as possible, fold it down
exactly at the crease you first made in the middle, and hem it neatly on to the wrong side.

NOTES From MEADOWBROOK FARM By William Pitt

Get rid of the old hens.

Roup is a dangerous disease.

Geese rarely contract disease.

Give the hogs what they will eat.

Keep pure, fresh water always within reach.

Having things convenient saves labor and discouragements.

To avoid disease, it is better to breed away from it.

Regularity of feeding and work makes long lived horses.

Salt should always be accessible, as well as fresh, pure water.

There are 4,336,000 mules and 20,
567,000 horses in the United States.

If kerosene is rubbed into leather hardened by water, it will soften it well.

Be careful and not close a can containing warm milk which has not been aerated.

Animals must be fed on food that they relish, in order to produce the best results.

The guinea fowl is a great forager and destroys many insects that other fowls will not touch.

The Mediterranean or egg breeds are Leghorns, Minorcas, Spanish, Blue Andalusians and Anconas.

Don't house the sheep too closely.
Cold is not as bad as damp, foul air.
Give shelter instead of warmth.

See that the garden tools are dry and properly stored. A little paint and oil will make the matter surer.

Remove from the dairy herd at once any animal suspected of being in bad health and do not use her milk.

Stock can be fed with profit only when they make a steady gain. Any falling off costs double to regain.

Dairy cows should be fed twenty-five to forty pounds of silage, supplemented with five to ten pounds of hay, daily.

Scratches, grease-heal and other animal diseases come directly from not taking proper care of the horses' feet.

Blackberries should be given space in the garden, for there are few, if any, fruits that give quicker and better returns.

Use a metallic strainer; it is practically impossible to keep cloth strainers sweet and clean, and free from bacteria.

Aim to bring the pullets into laying condition at a time which will be most consistent with a continuous winter production of eggs.

It costs no more to keep a flock of known good layers than it does to keep a flock of poor layers and the first kind is profitable.

In selecting the brood sows, as in other lines of farm work, the man who can think three or four years ahead is the man who will succeed.

Water scalding hot is not good to thaw out the grindstone with in cold weather. Better take a little longer and use water fairly hot, but not boiling hot.

Root crops, such as parsnips, beets and carrots, may be prevented from shriveling in the winter if they are covered slightly with dry sand in the bin or box.

Plan to put away some good clover alfalfa hay to feed the hens. They will more than pay you for your trouble by the increased amount of eggs that will be produced.

Every farm ought to have a little work shop stocked with a few good tools and plenty of bolts of various sizes, nuts, rivets, a few pieces of round and strap iron and such things.

Green forage crops of some sort can be grown on most any farm, and they yield a large amount of fine feed.
Oats and field peas, rye, rape, corn and vetch are some that can be sown with results.

A pig's tail is said to indicate unerringly the condition of the animal.
If it hangs loose it shows that the pig is not well and that its food should be changed; if it is curled tightly, the pig is healthy and happy.

The successful poultryman must plan each year to raise a few more chickens than he has hens. In this manner he will be enabled to cull freely. Keep only the best and carry over at least half as many pullets as hens.

If any of the fowls have rough, mealy scales on their shanks, wash the shanks with kerosene, then apply vaseline and apply the vaseline continuously every other day until the scales have returned to their normal appearance.

Keep the hens active by making them work for their food. Put it in straw or other similar material so they will have to scratch for it. This will prevent them from getting fat, and this is important, as fat hens do not lay a great number of eggs.

Do not use any hogs for breeding purposes except those that show evidence in form, disposition and breed of inclination to early maturity. Hogs are raised only for their flesh and the fewest days it takes a pig to accumulate enough to be of marketable size the more profitable it is for the owner.

A trap nest is a nest into which the hens go when they want to lay, and which shuts them in so that the caretaker can be sure which hen lays the egg. The nests must be watched and the hen let out when she has laid.

Poultry keepers generally do not realize the part that clean, pure water plays in successful poultry keeping.
It makes up by far the greater portion of the egg and a larger proportion of the body of the fowl.

Pathos in Youngster's Longing That Made Strong Appeal to Rich and Charitable Man.

The late Edward Morris, the Chicago meat packer, was worth over $50, 000,000, and contributed every year to charity as much money as he spent upon his home.

Mr. Morris, like most charitable souls, had a host of anecdotes that threw a quaintly pathetic light on poverty. Thus at a Christmas dinner in Chicago Mr. Morris once said:
"Every eater of a Christmas dinner should think of the little urchin who stood in front of a rich man's basement kitchen, inhaling rapturously the rich odor of roast turkey that gushed forth from the open window, and nutterling over and over to himself:
"Gee, I wish I had a slice of bread to go with that there smell!"

A GRATEFUL OLD MAN.

Mr. W. D. Smith, Ethel, Ky., writes:
"I have been using Dodd's Kidney Pills for ten or twelve years and they have done me a great deal of good. I do not think I would be alive today if it were not for Dodd's Kidney Pills. I suffered my back about forty years ago, which left it very weak. I was troubled with inflammation of the bladder. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me of that and the Kidney Trouble. I take Dodd's Kidney Pills now to keep from having Backache. I am 77 years old and a farmer. You are at liberty to publish this testimonial, and you may use my picture in connection with it." Correspond with Mr.
Smith about this wonderful remedy.

WHY FARMERS SHOULD KEEP A BANK ACCOUNT!
Their Bank Deposit Book affords them a complete record of their Cash receipts, while the stubs of their check books are a perfect record of expenses and payments. Paying a laborer, or store account or any other bill with a bank check is much safer than with money; because you avoid the risk of handling the actual cash, and the endorsed check returned by the bank is the best kind of a receipt.
We furnish you with Check Books and Deposit Books free of cost.
Over fifty farmers have opened accounts with us the last half year. Ask the satisfied customer that checks with us.

IRONWORKERS LOSE

RYAN AND 23 COLLEAGUES ARE AGAIN HELD GUILTY IN DYNAMITE CASES.

SIX ARE GIVEN NEW TRIALS

United States Court of Appeals at Chicago Upholds Verdict Rendered in Indianapolis Court in Big Majority of Cases of Labor Heads.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers, must serve a sentence of seven years in the penitentiary.

This sentence, imposed upon him by United States District Judge A. B. Anderson, at Indianapolis, was on Tuesday affirmed by the United States circuit court of appeals in Chicago.

The opinion in these cases which grew out of the dynamiting scandal, revealed by the confession of the dynamiters, now in San Quentin prison, was read by Judge Seaman.

The following sentences were affirmed by the court of appeals: Six years' imprisonment: Michael J. Young, Boston; Frank C. Webb, Hoboken, N. J.; Phillip A. Covley, New Orleans; J. T. Butler, Buffalo; J. E. Munson, Salt Lake City. Four and a half years' imprisonment: Eugene A. Clancy. Four years: P. J. Smith, Cleveland, O.; John H. Barry, St. Louis. Three year terms: Henry W. Legistman, Pittsburgh; Parnell, Springfield, Ill.

The following other cases where the sentences were reversed and the cases sent back to Indianapolis for trial:

Alfred T. Tveitmo, San Francisco, six years; W. J. McCain, Kansas City, three years; James E. Ray, Peoria, three years; Fred Sherman, Indianapolis; William Bernhardt, Cincinnati.

Commenting upon the conduct of the trial which Federal Judge Albert B. Anderson held at Indianapolis, the court of appeals said: "The evidence preserved in the bill of exceptions makes several printed volumes, and it is notable that no error is assigned for reception or rejection of testimony throughout the extended trial, except as to the admissibility of the testimony of two witnesses, McManigan and Clark, who were defendants under the indictment, but testified on behalf of the prosecution."

None of the defendants will be sent to jail on one. Attorneys for the convicted men, Elijah N. Zolne and Patrick H. O'Connell, have thirty days in which to apply to the U. S. Supreme court for a writ of certiorari that the decision may be carried to the highest court for review.

This is the story brought here on Tuesday by Angelo Pugliese, one of the 25 who escaped when the frail flatboat in which they were being transported across the river was wrecked on a rock. He says the 25 who escaped all were injured more or less. The tragedy occurred in British Columbia, west of Fort George.

Governor Ferris Begins His Inquiry Into Conditions at Houghton, Michigan.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, Tuesday offered to end the strike in the Calumet copper mining district upon the sole condition that the union men be permitted to return to work.

"We shall not ask recognition of the Western Federation of Miners," the wounded leader declared. "We shall not ask for a shorter working day or for increased wages. We demand only that the mine owners do not discriminate against members of the federation."

The announcement was made during a recess in the conference of the executive committee of the federation in Mr. Moyer's room at the New Hotel Gault.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 7.—Governor Ferris has taken hold of the strike situation in the copper country. With his coming Monday a practical truce went into effect and both sides expressed a willingness to await his findings before initiating new measures in the industrial warfare.

BRITAIN SHIFTS SIR CARDEN

Diplomat at Mexico City Gave Interview Reflecting on American Policy in Mexico.

London, Jan. 7.—Sir Lionel Carden, British minister to Mexico, is shortly to be transferred to Rio de Janeiro as minister to Brazil. The successor to Sir Lionel at Mexico City will probably be Charles Murray Merling, senior counselor in the British diplomatic service, now accredited to Turkey. Although no reason for the change is given at the foreign office the transfer of Sir Lionel Carden recalls several instances of friction with Washington since he has been at Mexico City. One grew out of Sir Lionel's action in presenting his credentials to Huerta on the day after President Wilson had formally communicated to the Mexican ruler his determination never to recognize his government.

URGES U. S. POWER

SAMUEL UTERMAYER ASKS FEDERAL BODY TO RULE AS CURB TO COMBINES.

CENSURES "ONE MAN" IDEA

Pujo Inquiry Counsel, Speaking in Chicago, Requests Executive Commission to Administer Law as Remedy—Cites Standard Oil Case.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—A powerful federal executive body to administer the Sherman anti-trust law is the prime remedy for the country's financial ills, according to the statement of Samuel Utermayer on Monday at a luncheon of the Illinois Manufacturers' association here. Mr. Utermayer was the counsel for the Pujo committee, which recently investigated the "money trust." The subject of his address was "A Legislative Program to Restore Business Freedom and Confidence."

Mr. Utermayer ridiculed the court "disolution" of the Standard Oil trust as "flagrant and pitiful," with no restoration of competition among the component companies. He also gave warning against lodging in the attorney general the power of negotiating "consent decrees" like that which has broken up the American Telephone & Telegraph company.

There must, however, he said, an executive authority to assist the courts and the attorney general in the practical application of laws to liberate business from the thralldom of illegal combinations, and this authority Mr. Utermayer would give to the industrial commission. The speaker did not recommend any plan for the appointment of the commission.

Mr. Utermayer directed the attention of the business men who heard him to the fact that anti-trust legislation is the next big problem to which the national administration must devote its energies. Business men, he said, should co-operate with congress in a spirit of patriotism and not in the attitude of hostile criticism which characterizes utterances by banking organizations and individual leaders before the passage of the income tax and currency measures.

In addition to a law for the industrial commission, Mr. Utermayer said congress should pass bills embodied in the 22 recommendations of the Pujo committee, dealing with banks, interlocking directorates, stock exchanges, clearing houses and the administration of the Sherman act.

At one point, talking about "dummy" directors, he referred to the withdrawal of the house of Morgan from participation in the affairs of 28 corporations and said it is "most substantial."

GALE ON ATLANTIC COAST DOES GREAT DAMAGE.

Tank Steamer Oklahoma Sinks and Eight Are Rescued—Five Lives Lost in Hurricane.

New York, Jan. 7.—The oil tank steamer Oklahoma broke in two amidships without warning south of Sandy Hook Monday and 32 of her crew of 40 men perished.

The stern section, in which was situated all the heavy machinery of the vessel, and on which there were 32 members of the crew, sank immediately. Eight members of the crew were rescued by the Hamburg-American line steamer Bavaria, whose captain says some of the Oklahoma's men told him they saw an open boat with ten men in it.

Five lives were lost in the hurricane that swept the coast from Portland, Me., to Norfolk, Va., Saturday. One million dollars' damage was done. The New Jersey coast has suffered the greatest damage, but with the shifting of the wind the high water, which threatened to wash away thousands of houses on the New Jersey coast, was partially removed.

At Atlantic City a 500-foot extension of the million-dollar pier has been carried away and nearly a mile of the board walk at Chelsea, adjoining Atlantic City, was washed away. The sea has inundated a number of costly homes in Chelsea and a large portion of the sea wall there has been washed away. The board walk of Atlantic City was damaged.

Nearly 200 persons are homeless.

OWEN WARNS M. D.'S

PROBE FOR AGREEMENT OPPOSING EUGENIC LAW.

Attorney General Holds That Tactics Bear Indications of a Possible Conspiracy.

Madison.—That physicians who make agreements not to make tests under the eugenics marriage law come dangerously near to forming a conspiracy is hinted in an interview with Atty. Gen. Walter C. Owen. Mr. Owen's attention was called to the agreements being signed by some of the physicians in villages and cities not to make the tests.

"The physicians who sign agreements not to make the tests, as they are doing in some communities, come dangerously near conspiracy in obstructing the administration of law," said the attorney general. "The signing of an agreement coupled with the refusal to make an examination certainly bears strong indications of a possible conspiracy. Such conditions will be looked into."

During the first five days of January, 1913, there were five licenses taken out here, whereas there has not been one taken out this year in the same period, although there are at least three doctors in Madison who are willing to issue a health certificate for $3.

SHOOTS WOMAN; KILLS SELF

Jilted Man Blows Out Brains When Surrounded by Enraged Citizens of Wausau's County.

Wautoma.—In a fit of jealous rage Fred Hannan, superintendent of the Shaw stone quarry at Lohrville, ten miles southeast of Wautoma, shot and mortally wounded Mrs. Charles Freere, following her refusal to elope with him, and then blew out his brains when pursued by a posse of enraged citizens.

Freere and his wife separated some time ago and since then Hannan had prevailed upon the woman to consider a plan to live with him. He went to Wautoma to close a bargain for the renting of a house where he and the woman, together with her three children, were to live.

Returning to Lohrville, he stopped at the Freere home and informed the woman that everything was in readiness. He was amazed when she informed him that the differences between her and her husband had been adjusted and that she would go to live with her husband.

When she refused to yield to his plea, Hannan, in a sudden rage of jealousy, drew a revolver from his pocket and fired two shots at her, one of the bullets striking directly over the heart and the other piercing the right breast. Hannan fled to his office at the quarry, while the woman was rushed to Oshkosh. It is said that she will not live.

News of the shooting spread so rapidly that a posse of citizens surrounded Hannan's office shortly after he reached there. Seeing that he had no chance of escape, Hannan shot himself through the head.

WILLIAM A. RADFORD, EDITOR

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF CHARGE on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address: 121 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

One of the most comfortable little cottage houses ever built is shown in this design. When you come to corral all the necessary modern improvements and fit them into a little house only twenty feet in width and thirty feet in length you have quite a job on your hands; but that is exactly what has been done in designing this little five room cottage. "Bungalow" some people would call it, because the word bungalow is very fashionable just now, but a bungalow properly speaking is a one story house with a flat, or at least a low roof.

It often happens that a family is very anxious to own a home and they find houses and lots so expensive that after looking around for several months they are obliged to give it up, at any rate for the time being. It is to meet just such cases that I recommend such small low cost houses as this.

American as a rule have rather large ideas in regard to dwellings. As a usual thing we want large rooms and plenty of them, but I find that public opinion is passing through a change and it has been brought about largely through the influence of city flats, many of which contain little conveniences that are not common in houses.

Taxes in larger cities are double what they were ten or twenty years ago. Skilled mechanics cost four or five dollars a day where formerly they got two or three dollars; and the same scale of expense follows through all the different departments of building. The result is that architects have learned how to work the necessities from comfort into very small compass together with a great many luxuries; and to combine the many good features into dwellings of very small proportions.

But there is one objection to a flat that no amount of skill on the part of the architect can overcome, and that is the scarcity of air and light. For this reason more than any other I have advocated the building of small houses in the suburbs; for although it many furnaces are placed in the most objectionable positions just because the owners neglected to think up on the subject before the heating plant was installed.

It makes no difference to a furnace man where the heater is placed except that some pipes carry hot air better than others; and they should be longer and others should be shorter in proportion for this reason. But such calculations apply more particularly to larger houses. In a little house like this where the pipes are all short the furnace may be placed on one side of the chimney just as well as to put it on the other side. The only question to decide is where the owner wants it and the owner should not only know but he should know why.

Eyesight Worth Money.

The man who can walk about the lawn or in the park and pick up four-leaf clovers has an eye that is worth big money to him. He can easily be trained to see things that ordinary men will miss or have to look a long time to find.

Some men who go hunting can see a squirrel in an oak or hickory tree with apparent ease, while others will go strolling about the timber and never see the game at all. It is the same way in the open field. The rabbit can be found sitting by some, while others will almost run over the creature before it is detected.

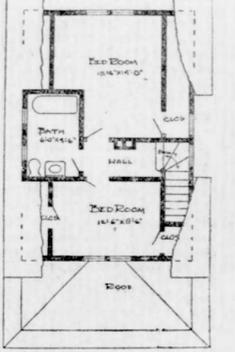

This ability is a gift. This is not only a gift developed by some and undeveloped by others as a result of their surroundings, but it measures the exact amount of intelligent effort they have expended in attaining this ability, also their perseverance in the line of endeavor. Aside from the external causes that have made us what we are, environment and heredity, is an inherent capacity of individual intelligence, or, in other words, natural ability.

Praise for the Cabaret.

"Do you like these places where you have music with your meals?" "You mean the cabaret restaurants? I'm very fond of them. I'm for anything that'll keep you from hearing people eat soup."

WE CAN'T DO THE IMPOSSIBLE

If it is not advisable to make the effort, we will tell you so. Our specialty is watch repairing. So if you need your watch repaired, cleaned or regulated, bring it to us. Regularity is the keynote of success in a watch or clock; if it doesn't keep time, you might as well sell it for old metal. Every timepiece which leaves this store is in A. No. 1 order.
