and at the High School building at West Bend, Wis., April 6, 7, and Isadore Marx and family have an experence they long will remember. Auto turns turtle. No serious injury.

> Last Tuesday evening while on their way home from West Bend with an auto, midway between West Bend and Barton, an automobile, driven by Isadore Marx of this village served off the nar-row road and went down a five foot embankment, turning turtle. In the atuomobile at the time were Mr. Marx, his wife and two children and Miss Adela Marx. The accident was due to the steering gear, which went wrong. Mr Marx was pinioned under the automobile, but was quickly re-leased by several men who were near and had witnessed the turnover. The only injuries he ceived was a cut on one of his hands by the fragments of glass from the windshield. The other occupants escaped injury. After his hand was dressed the auto was righted he piloted the car back to his home in this village, thankful that nothing more serious hap-pened. This is the first automo-bile accident reported this season

President Tells What Office

Means to Him.

Chief Executive Finds Pose of Dignity Irksome and Declares When Term is Over He Will Visit Washington on Sightseeing Tour.

SIZE OF TASK TREMENDOUS

Washington, March 23.-Woodrow Wilson unbosomed himself to the members of the National Press club of Washington Friday, telling them in a frank, conversational way how he felt as president of the United States; how difficult it was for him to that I will have to get out presently. imagine himself as the chief executive with the formal amenities of the position, and how he had struggled to be as free as the ordinary individual without the restraints of his office.

It was an intimate picture of Woodrow Wilson-the man-drawn by himself, on the occasion of the "housewarming" at the Press club's new quarters.

The president did not intend to bave his remarks reported, but later, that in certain companies the presi-Wilson, as He Sees Himself.

"I was just thinking of my sense of confusion of identity sometimes when I read articles about myself," the president said. "I have never read an article about myself in which I recognized myself, and I have come to have the impression that I must be some kind of a fraud, because I think a great many of these articles are written in absolute good faith.

"I tremble to think of the variety and falseness in the impressions I make—and it is being borne in on me so that it may change my very dispoaltion—that I am a cold and removed person who has a thinking machine inside which he adjusts to the circumstances-which he does not allow to be moved by any winds of affection or emotion of any kind-but turns like a cold searchlight on anything that is presented to his attention and makes it work.

Feels Responsibility Keenly. "I am not aware of having any detachable apparatus inside of me. On the contrary, if I were to interpret myself. I would say that my constant embarrassment is to retain the emotions that are inside of me.

"You may not believe it, but I sometimes feel like a fire from a far from extinct volcano, and if the lava does not seem to spill over it is because you are not high enough to see into the basin and see the caldron boil. Because, truly, gentlemen, in the position which I occupy there is a sort of -I do not know how else to express it than to say-passionate sense of being connected with my fellow men in a neculiar relationship of responsibility of office, but God knows there are enough things in this world that need to be corrected.

Fear He'll Disappoint People. 'I have mixed first and last with all sorts and conditions of men-there are mighty few kinds of men that have to be described to me, and there are mighty few kinds of experiences that have to be described to me-and when I think of the number of men who are looking to me as the representative of a party, with the hope for all varieties of salvation from the things they are struggling in the midst of, it makes me tremble.

"It makes me tremble not only with a sense of my own inadequacy and weakness, but as if I were shaken by the very things that are shakingthem, and if I seem circumspect it is because I am so diligently trying not to make any colossal blunders.

"If you just calculated the number of blunders a fellow can make in 24 hours if he is not careful and if he does not listen more than he talks. you would see something of the feeling that I have.

Always Eager to Get Advice. "I was amused the other day at a remark that Senator Newlands made. I had read him the trust message that I was to deliver to congress some ten days before I delivered it, and I never stop 'doctoring' things of that kind until the day I have to deliver them.

"When he heard it read to congress he said: 'I think it was better than it was when you read it to me.' I said: Senator, there is one thing which I do not think you understand. I not only use all the brains I have, but all I can borrow, and I have borrowed a lot since I read it to you first.'

"That, I dare say, is what gives the impression of circumspectness. "That would not make him the government itself or the thing itself. It would just make him responsible for running it the best he knew how.

Office So Great; Man So Small. "The machine is so much greater than himself, the office is so much greater than himself; the office is so much greater than he can ever be, and the most he can do is to look grave enough and self-possessed enough to seem to fill it.

"I can hardly refrain every now and again from tipping the public the wink, as much as to say, 'It is only me that is inside this thing! Laddie by Gene Stratton Porter.

A clean wholesome story full of the beauties of nature and the joy of living about people who are the backbone of the country.

The Inside of the Cup, by Winston Churchill. A powerful American novel dealing with one of the work with questions of life in the most vital questions of life in the present day. By far Mr. Churchill's greatest and most mature achievement. Your United States, by Arnold Bennett, Arnold Bennett was welcome to this country with an enthusiasm such as has not been accorded to any English writer since Thackeray. He saw more in a brief visit than most of us see in a lifetime. He is free from prejudice, gifted with unique pow-er of observation, and best of all, he has a sense of humor.

REO the FIFTH $1175

Fully Equipped

Would you buy an automobile of which you knew nothing about? Would you buy a car that had no features? Would you buy a car that gave you no honest return for your money? EMPHATICALLY "NO!" You would want a car that you had carefully studied. You would want a car which you consider safe and reliable. You would want a car that contained all the latest popular features. And, above all, you would want a car that gave you full value for every dollar you invested----a car in which you had absolute faith and trust.

We ask you then to study carefully the 1914 Reo the Fifth and compare its real features and its real values with any car on the market. And we are positive that an hour's time spent in inspecting this latest automobile creation will convince you that it is a machine wherein you can safely place your money without the slightest fear that it has been invested foolishly. The features that it embodies are those shown in cars of double the price and the material used, in its manufacture could not be better.

Should you consider buying an automobile this season by all means let us talk to you about the Reo the Fifth before you do so. It is our business to talk about the car, but we know that you will readily see wherein we lay claim to its being the ideal car-the one you should buy. A postal card to us will bring you all the information you desire to have about the machine, and should you care to talk to us the telephone is right at your hand, or better still you can pay us a personal visit. Think it over.

Unwarranted Alarm as to Future Food Supply

Those who are alarmed lest the future food supply of the nation should be inadaquate will do well to look closely to the correctness of the data upon which that con-clusion is based. For illustration it is stated that the corn crop of 1909 was 114,000,000 bushels less than that of 1899. It is true that the United States census so indicates, but it is also true that the the census of 1900 on the crop of 1899 was very defective. that census was printed it dwelling.

There were inaccuracies in other states. What the total is no one knows, but with these errors pointed out it would appear preposterous to compare the very complete census of 1910 with the defective one of 1900 for the purpose of making it appear that there was a decline in corn production during that de-cade. All other evidences indiproduction-and this applies also to other crops. Production prob ably is not keeping pace with population, but there is no cause for immediate alarm.

SYNOPSIS.

Cowboys of the Flying Heart ranch are heartbroken over the loss of their much-prized phonograph by the defeat of their champion in a foot-race with the cook of the Centipede ranch. A house party is on at the Flying Heart. J. Wallingford Speed, cheer leader at Yale, and Culver Covington, inter-collegiate champion runner, are expected. Helen Blake, Speed's sweetheart, suggests to Jean Chapin, sister of the owner of the ranch, that she induce Covington, her lover, to win back the phonograph. Helen declares that if Covington won't run, Speed will. The cowboys are hillarious over the prospect. Speed and his valet, Larry Glass, trainer at Yale, arrive. Helen Blake asks Speed, who has posed to her as an athlete, to race against the Centipede man. The cowboys join in the appeal to Wally, and fearing that Helen will find him out, he consents. He this that however, that he shall be entered as an unknown, figuring that Covington will arrive in time to take his place. Fresno, glee club singer from Stanford university and in love with Helen, tries to discredit Speed with the ladies and the cowboys. Speed and Glass put in the time they are supposed to be training playing cards in a secluded spot. The cowboys tell Glass it is up to him to see that Speed wins the race. Willie, the gumman, declares the trainer will go back east packed in ice, if Speed fails. A telegram comes from Covington saying he is in jail at Omaha for ten days. Glass in a panic forces Speed to begin training in earnest. The cowboys force Speed to eat in the training quarters and prepare him a diet of very rare meat. Miss Blake bakes a cake for Speed and is offended when Larry refuses to allow him to eat it. Covington arrives on crutches. He says he broke his toe in Omaha. Mrs. Keap, engaged to Covington and in love with Jack Chapin, exposes Speed to Helen, because Speed had failed to prevent Covington from joining the party. Speed decides to cripple himself, but Sidnner, the Centipede runner, appears with a proposition to throw the race. Ghas attempts to e

The silence was flattering, and more Gallagher announced loudly, and made loudly now, so that Skinner might hear, he added: "If your man tries to call han'some treatment for Mr. Speed, beat the gun, I'll have him wingin' an' only wish we might retain it at his way to lands celestial before he the Centipede as a remembrance. In a dull trance he followed his trainer back to the track, his eyes staring, his bones like water. Not until he heard the welcoming shout of the Flying Heart henchmen did he realize that the worst was yet to come. He heard Larry still coaching earnestly: "If you can't bite him, trip him up," and some one said:

"Are we ready?" Glass held out his hand. "Good-by, Mr. Speed."

Chapin came forward and spoke with artificial heartiness, "Good-luck, Wally; beat him at the start," and Covington followed.

"Remember," he cautioned, sadly, what I told you about the start-it's your only chance.' "Why don't you fellows think about the finish of this race?" faltered the runner. Then, in a voice broken with excite ment, Helen Blake spoke, holding out Mr. Speed," she said, "will you try to remember this?-remember to run before he does, and don't let him catch up to you. If you do that, I just know you'll win." This magnificent display of confidence nerved the athlete, and he smiled at her. He wished to speak,

There it lay, no "Did the man you trained for the more than a lane leading down between ranks of brown-faced men wi Never mind that. Does this frame eyes were turned upon him. On the up go through?" It happened that top rail of the corral perched Willie, tle of feminine skirts. Skinner was standing like a statue, his toe to the mark, his eyes averted, "You'll start here and run a hun dred yards out yonder to the tape,"

"I refuse!" said Speed firmly. For one breathless instant there was a hush of amazement, then a cry of rage. Still Bill Stover hurled the nearest man out of his patch, and strode forward, his lean face ablaze. He wheeled and flung up his hand as if to check some hidden movement of Willie's. "No voylence yet, Will! What d'you mean, Mr. Speed?" Speed uttered what he knew was his final joke on earth. "I mean that refuse to run straightaway. I'm an all-around athlete, and I must run all around comething." Amid shouts of confusion, those who had taken position along the course came crowding back to the startingpoint. Willie wrapped his legs about the top rail of the fence and drew a second revolver, while the two fore men bellowed indistinguishable threats at each other. Chapin lost no time in withdrawing his guests out of the turmoil, but Helen kept her place, her face chalky but her eyes very bright. "What are you tryin' to hand us?" roared Gallagher. Still Bill was quick to take a cue 'Don't get hectic!" said he. "There's nothin' in the articles about runnin' seemed to break simultaneously. "Humpy Joe ran straightaway," de clared Gallagher.

What might logically happen as a result of this cumulative habit on the part of forty or fifty thousand lads in one country almost stunned him.

He fired question after question at the little chap in uniform, who stood there, lantern in hand, that drizzling, foggy night. He learned that a scout's first duty is forgetfulness of self and service to others, especially in time of danger. Nearer and of the idea of organizing a correspondnearer came the light and soon the ing movement for American lads. And American perceived that it was borne that is how the Boy Scouts of America came to be started.

Since the time when it was placed on a permanent footing, just four years ago, the Boy Scouts of America have grown by leaps and bounds. Today there are more than 300,000 scouts in the whole country, but only 7,000 scout masters, and the need for more men to help develop and guide boy life is growing keener month by month.

The activities of the scouts are most varied and comprehensive. training dogs and horses, setting up and working wireless apparatus in town or open country-these are only a few of the many features which enter into scout work. And at the basis of all is that single principle of selfcontrol and service for others which includes rigidly the rule of "one good turn every day."

In Massachusetts, Boy Scouts are now making a census of trees, describing the species, size, growth and location, so a record may be compiled by the forestry commission. In several states they act as deputy game and fish wardens. In other localities they are regularly enlisted as aids of the official fire wardens of great forest tracts. In city after city, especially in the middle west, they have carried out campaigns of cleaning up neighborhoods

Philadelphia has enlisted the cooperation of Boy Scouts in protecting the city squares and parks. William H. Ball, chief of the bureau of public property, declares that they can do far more than regular attendants in preventing other lads who are thoughtless from destroying shrubbery and damaging fine trees.

Governor Deneen of Illinois enlisted the services of Boy Scouts in helping the public safety commission of Chicago and Cook county. The job of the scouts is especially to help other children understand and avoid dangers in the streets; to guide very little folks them how to keep their heads when unexpectedly caught in a maze of vehicles. Each of these scouts had been furnished with a safety commission button, so that other children-and adults, too-have no hesitation in calling on them for assistance and advice. Scouts of Texarkana, Ark., have been kind to a woman who was in great need after the death of her husband. In all probability she thanked the boys, but she also wrote a letter headquarters, in which she told

Salad of Veal and Peas-One-half pound of cold veal cut in tiny dice and one pint of small green peas (canned may be used); mix with French dressing and chill; when ready to serve, put by spoonfuls into cups of crisp lettuce leaves; pour over it more French dressing, to which has been added a little green mint, mustard and a dash of celery salt.

Salad Dressing-Yolks of three eggs, well beaten, one tablespoon mustard, a bit of pepper, one-half cup vinegar, one tablespoon butter, small teaspoon of flour; stir all well together, put in a double boiler, set on the gas to thicken; when cool add the whites of three eggs, beaten stiff, and one cup of milk,

Small things, such as table napkins or tray cloths, must be ironed all over on both sides, beginning with the right. The pressure of the iron on the damp linen will polish it and raise a bright gloss, which must be on the upper surface. If the wrong side is ironed first it will be glossy and the right side dull.

To remove blisters from stiffened linen press the part with a clean, wet rag; place the iron on the spot, remove it, and the blister will have disappeared. Blisters arise generally from imperfect starching, so care should be taken that every portion of the fabric gets well starched.

Be careful not to iron cotton or muslin materials when they are too dry or they will have a rough appearance and no gloss. Prints and colored goods must not be froned with too hot an iron or the colors will be spoiled. Iron embroidery on the wrong side over flannel so as to raise the

A boy in Fond du Lae county raised over 130 bushels of corn to the acre in 1913 and another over in Racine county came near that mark. Others in various portions of the state approached 100 bushels to the acre. The average of the state was 40 bushels to the What is the conclusion? 40 bushels per acre was more than the so-called states averaged, but is it enough when boys grew over 100 bushels? Why not raise the average of the state to bushels and then to 60 hushels, and then more? Why not;

Why not have a county order of the Wisconsin Experimental association in every county, and get down to business in this matter of larger crops?

SEWER GAS GHOSTS

In the "good old days" ghosts were frequently invented to have something upon which to hang responsibility for deliltry which was in no wise of spiritual origin. Modern sanatarians are coming to look upon sewer gas as a ghost with a similar pedigree. What is called sewer gas, is in reality, only the air of sewers, It smells bad. Smelis however don't cause disease. Experiments have don't cause disease. Experiments have demonstrated that sewer air is apt to be purer, as regards germs, than ordinary street air. Whatever gases are given off are in too small quantities to cause disease. Sewer gas has been, and still is, popularly held to be responsible for typhoid fever, measles, dip-theria, scarlet fever, dysentery, other infectious diseases. We are certain that all these diseases are due to germs. The germs of ty-phoid fever and dysentery are oc-cassionally present is sewage. It's a mistake to think they multiply or even thrive there. Germs are solid matter. As such, they are not apt to be taken up by the air of sewers. Nobody would suggest that wet mud will give off

Throughout history, man has sought reasons for natural phely is he satisfied with unreason-able explanations. Some popular explanations of disease are as ridiculous as the savage's expla-

ing. There is a certain plausi-bility about attributing to it di-sease which is not easily explan-ed on other grounds. When we known, however, that probably all infectious diseases are of germ origin and something of the nature and habits of germs, the old interesting fact that workmen employed in large sewer systems are rather more than ordinarily strong

Credit Due to Others.

The big daily papers and magazines of the country, regardless of their political beliefs, in commenting on the first year's doings of President Wilson, speak only in terms of praise. There is no question but what our president has made good his promises to the people, and he is deserving of all the many kind manifestations of appreciation. But it is not medical fraternity. Catarrh be-President Wilson alone who was ing a constitutional disease, reinstrumental in bringing about the reforms that the people were clamoring for—the congress and ternally, acting directly upon the senate should not be overlooked, blood and mucous surfaces of the and due credit should be given the members who so nobly stood by the chief executive. And right here we wish to call the attention of our readers to the fact that our congressman, the Hon. M. E. Burke, should receive his share of credit also. Mr. Burke is an out and out progressive, a man whose every heart beat is in ac-cord with President Wilson's policies, and who during the past year, yes all the time he has been in congress, has labored untiring-ly in behalf of the common peo-Mr. Burke's record is one of which every democrat may well feel proud, a record which will stand the closet scrutiny and then will be found flawless. With such a record Mr. Burke can come before the people and in all fairness ask their continued support, and the voters of the district would be rank ingrates if they did not give it to him. The district, we have every reason to believe, has come to recognize in Mr. Burke a fearless man, one who has shown his true worth as a representative, and we see no reason why he should not be returned to congress, and that, too, by a vote that will speak in unmistakable terms that the services of a faithful servant should be retained.—West Bend Pilot.

Farm Poultry Products

The better types of incubators are rapidly finding a place upon general farms and most cases proving to be advantageous in raising bet-ter numbers of sound, healthy chickens which will be strong and nicely grown before hot weather and well matured and laying before winter sets in.

In addition to this, the fact that many of the modern farm breeds of poultry are more inclined to produce eggs than to hatch them makes it more advisable in the opinion of J. G. Halpin, head of the poultry department of the Col-lege of Agriculture of the Univer-sity of Wisconsin, for many farmers to purchase good, reliable incubators. It is easier to keep a nen laying than it is to start her laying in cold weather. For this, if no other reason, the modern incubator is a valuable substitute.
