OF INTEREST TO FARMERS By Cream by Grade to Improve Butter

Until Wisconsin creamery men refuse to pay as much for poor cream as they do for that of superior flavor and quality, they will continue in having difficulty in manufacturing and marketing a superior grade of butter.

This is the observation of E. H. Farrington, head of the University of Wisconsin Dairy School who believes that if Badger dairymen and buttermakers are to successfully compete with the creamerymen of Australia and certain other foreign countries, they must strive to manufacture and market only the superior grades heard for the officers of the asof butter.

Much of the foreign make that is now coming into our markets the fair grounds is now such that is a high class product and A- ranks with the appearance of the merican butter that is made from best ones, even the State Fair sour and tainted cream cannot compete with it.

Cream grading, says Mr. Farrington, offers one of the easiest and most effective means of improving the quality of butter produced in the state. This is a simple plan by which creameries agree to pay more for high grade cream, sweet and rich, than for that which is thin and sour. When it means money in their pockets, dairymen will bring in their cream often enough so that it will be sweet when it reaches the factory and with a high class raw product to start with, the creameryman can make a quality of but- the best ever held at the fair, ter that can compete with the

FAIR A BIG SUCCESS

The Fair This Year Was Far Better Than Any Previous One Held. Attendance Was Very Large

The Washington County Fair is now over and it was the greatest and best fair ever held in this county. All those that attended must readily admit that the exhibits, attractions, etc., were large and very good. The grounds as a whole were greatly improved, the management of the fair is to be complimented upon the changes, Nothing but good praise could be sociation by making numerous improvements. The appearance of grounds at Milwaukee.

All told the county fair this year was far the biggest and best ever held in Washington County. Everything was as advertised. The management of the association should be praised to the utmost by building up a fair that Washe ington County can feel proud of.

That Kewaskum and vicinity were well represented at the fair was shown by the number of Mckets that were sold at the local station and the sight of all the lowere present on the grounds. It is estimated that this locality alone sent to the fair on both days over 500 people.

Last Sunday, September 6th., ushered in one of the big events of the Ev. Peace church, in the form of a Mission Feast. This festival is held every year by the congregation and is always heralded with delightful anticipation by all who have had the pleasure of attending the former celebrations. But this year there was an added attraction in connection with the mission feast, which made it all the more enjoyable. This was the choir of the Ev. Christus church of Milwaukee, consisting of forty-five trained voices. The choir arrived here Sunday morning and proceeded directly to the church, where they assisted at both the morning and afternoon services. After the services in the afternoon, the entire choir assembled in the public square at the intersection of Main street and Fond du Lac Avenue, where they rendered a song of greeting to Kewaskum.  *  More than one thousand eight hundred pounds, nearly a ton, dressed buil heads, have been expressed out of Beaver Dam during the past twenty-four hours. It is quite probable that the greater part of the shipment went to Milwaukee and Chicago although the secrecy maintained by the employees of the express company prevents the general public from learning the names of the shippers and the point to which the baskets are consigned. That the express company's employes are determined that the general public shall not learn anything of the inner workings of the fish hog's trade was well illustrated at the local passenger depot last evening when an innocent stranger who was standing by the express truck and reading the shipping tags on the baskets was ordered, and not even in a polite manner at that, to desist, This brought on a spirited argument in which the stranger roundly upbraided the express company for attempting to conceal the identity of the shippers.-Beaver Dam Citizen.

Such an attack would appear to be in accordance with the plan of forcing this part of the French army back toward Paris and incidentally against the advancing German right, thus accomplishing the object of cutting off its line of retreat and possibly effecting its capture. There is a certain element of doubt about this attack on Nancy in view of the fact that the Germans had occupied Luneville, a strong fortress about eleven miles from it, some ten days ago and that the fortifications of Nancy are old and obsolete. It would sound more probable if the attack were directed on Toul.

At any rate, the presence of the kaiser in that war zone would mean that some decisive stroke is pending. The French have been apprehensive of determined German action in that terrain and are supposed to have a strong force there. This force, though possibly inferior in numbers, has an advantage in its defensive position and ought to give a good account of itself in the coming action which, for France, may be the final issue. Grand Rapids.—The largest trout ever caught in this part of the country was one caught by David Rowe of Wautoma, an 8-year-old boy, while fishing in Soules creek. It was a German brown trout and weighed ten pounds and eight ounces. Waupaca.-Mr. and Mrs. E. W Stration, living a few miles from the city, are receiving the congratulations of their friends on their fiftieth wedding anniversary. They are well known pioneer settlers in the county, having resided in the same home for over forty years.

Grand Rapids.-Joseph Fitche of Pittsville was badly burned about the face and hands, from an explosion of gasoline vapor arising from the engine of the gasoline roller, which is being used on the Pittsville streets.

Beloit .-- John M. Stevens of Milwaukee, who had smallpox at Camp Douglas during the National guard encampnient this summer, was stricken with blindness while on the street. It is feared his sight can not be restored. He is a member of Co. I of Milwaukee. Kenosha.--Letters show that Miss Minnie Larsen is now at a village near Hamburg and for weeks she has been attempting to get out of Germany. She declares that she has been treated with every consideration by the German people. Superior.—While digging a well on his farm about two miles south of Solon Springs, this county, Henry P. Haling discovered iron ore which appeared to be of excellent quality. He has sent samples of the ore to an assayer to determine its quality.

Waupaca - W. C. Eastman is probably the oldest hunter in the county, if not in the state. He applied for a hunting license at the office of the county clerk in this city and was given Madison.—Funds in the state treasury Sept. 1 totalled $4,862,379.45, of which $4,076,800.98 was in the general fund. The total in all funds on Aug. 1 was $4,112,397.84.

Madison. — Carroll Dyer, 20 years old, member of the senior class of the Madison high school, was drowned in Lake Waubesa, near Mc-Farland, by the capsizing of a boat in which he and two companions were riding.

Cumberland.—The committee in charge of the Farmers' Fall Carnival. which will be held in Cumberland Sept. 16, 17, 18, have completed all the arrangements for the event.

Waupaca.—George Murray of the Wisconsin Veterans' home is announced as the winner in the circulation contest that has been carried on by the Waupaca-Record-Leader. He was awarded a five-passenger automobile. Weyauwega.—The plumbing contract in connection with the village hall has been let to F. D. Burgess of Waupaca.

La Crosse.—After having been prominently identified for over half a century with the business life of Sparta, William Potter Palmer died of Bright's disease, aged 72 years.

Neenah.-Up to date, 717 hunting licenses have been issued in Winnebago county. More permits will be issued this season than any other previous year.

Lake Mills -- Safe wreckers got $200 in the Kypke & Drew"s grocery store here. The loot consisted of $70 in currency, some unset pearls and two diamond pins.

Grand Rapids.-James Walsh, veterinary surgeon and blacksmith, dropped dead here from an attack of apoplexy. Antigo. Two pioneers of Langlade county, George Wanninger and Moritz Friebel, died after short illness.

STATE FAIR OPENS

SPEED DEMONS TO BE SEEN IN SERIES OF VERY EXCITING RACES.

Special Efforts to Be Made to Have From 5,000 to 15,000 Automobiles on Grounds September 14.

GO TO THE FAIR Wisconsin is not only your state, but it is the greatest state in many respects in the Union.

Do you know a lot about all of the resources of Wisconsin
A visit of one; two, three, four or five days to the 1914 state fair will give you more first hand information concerning the fair than you could gather in years in any other

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 4.-The opening day of the fair, Sept. 14, will be devoted entirely to automobile races. Such stars as Tetzlaff, Carlson, Hughes, and half a dozen others of Emma Garber returned home national reputation, will compete in attieast six events. The program of races will not be announced until about Sept. 1, for the reason that those in charge of these events desire to arrange the best program possible. The state fair track is one of the fastest ordinary courses for auto nesota and Katie Schladweiler of Arivers in the world. Both Oldfield St .Francis are visiting with John and Burnam have broken world's records over it.

> Because of the fact that Sept. 14 will be devoted entirely to auto races, special efforts will be made to have as many automobile owners of Wisconsin Iowa in attendance as posible.

> The Wisconsin Motorist is making earnest efforts to have a big showing of motorists, in addition to what is being done in this direction by the fair board itself. There are nearly 50,000 owners of automobiles in Wisconsin, and of this kee county. Efforts are being made to have 15,000 automobiles on the grounds on Automobile Day. Figuring five passengers to a car as an average, 75,000 would be taken to the grounds in autos, if auto owners turn out as they are expected to on this, day. If only half of this number turn out, however, a crowd of nearly 50,000 will be on the grounds on opening day.

For the first time since the fair has been in existence, an auto can be driven from the center of Milwaukee all the way to the fair gates on asphalt pevement by the time the fair opens. The Blue Mound road has been paved to the Hawley road, and the Hawley road is being paved from the Blue Mound road to National avenue at the present time. This gives a roadway without a rut all the way to the fair.

A special attraction to all auto owners also will be the automobile display this year, bigger, and better than ever. The superintendent of the department announces that he will have on exhibition the 1915 models of cars used principally in Wisconsin, thus beating all automobile shows in this line of ex- Bile and rids your Stomach and hibits by at least four months. Labor Day

Committees have been active in preparation for the celebration of Labor Day. I wonder if the holiday has the significance for the general public that its founder Farrell and Meixensperger of hoped that it would have? Like other holidays, Labor Day has become, primarily, an added day Wm. Wedde of Campbellsport of recreation. The school chil-The laborer has two holidays together. Good and evil are associated in the celebration.

Recreation is a valuable thing. Not all that is called recreation is so in fact. Much that is not considered recreation may be made genuinely re-creative. Does the typical celebration dignify labor in the eyes of those 'who toil not,' if there are any such worthy of being impressed? I wonder if all the physical energy and cash expended in "celebration couldn't be as enjoyably directed to the construction of a lasting memorial, a 365 day testimonial to the honor and dignity of LABOR.

How would it be, if, in a smaller city, for example, instead of Anna Boolander and Amanda displaying its strength (and it must be confessed its awkwardness at times,) in parades, Labor were to Gilbert Strobel and family of demonstrate its dignity and strength in one day of altruistic labor for fellow beings? How would it be, if on Labor Day Capital and Labor should combine in a community programe and erect a building, let us say, for the housing of a medical dis-And Strachota and family, Mr. pensary, or a community social center? Doesn't it seem reasonable to suppose, that, as a consequence, each might compel more respect and understanding from Minn., and Mrs. Peter Kreis of the other, and both assume a Fond du Lac spent several days new dignity and honor before the members of neither class? This isn't an entirely fantastic dream. Think what enjoyable holidays have been afforded in the road making campaigns which have attracted moving picture and newspaper publicity in all parts of the country. Governors, girls have contributed their share in preparing and serving picnic meals and refreshing drinks. In the smaller cities a "temple of health,' or a temple of general welfare, feven though it were but a rough board shack, would impart a permanent blessing up-on any community whose people "got together' for a real "Labor Day" of day labor. I am quite certain that a good, organizer would have no difficulty in raising the necessary contributions of money and raw materials with which to construct such a memorial as is here suggested.

Mark Truitt, encouraged by his sweetheart. Unity Martin, leaves Bethel, his native town, to seek his fortune. Simon Truitt telis Mark that it long has been his dream to see a steel plant at Bethel and saks the son to return and build one if he ever gets rich. Mark applies to Thomas Henley, head of the Quinby Iron works, for a job and is sent to the construction sang. His success in that work wins him a place as helper to Roman Andsrejsski, open-hearth furnaceman. He becomes a boarder in Roman's home and assuits Piotr, Koman's son, in his studies. Kasse, an adopted daughter, shows her an adopted daughter, shows her gratitude in such a manner as to arouse Mark's interest in her. Heavy work in the intense heat of the furnace causes Mark to collapse and Kazia cares for him. Later Roman also succumbs and Mark gets his job. Roman resents this and tells Mark to find another boarding place. seriously.

CHAPTER X.

Wounded on the Field.

The accident was one that happened often. Occasionally, after a tap, water would be turned into the cinder pit that the cooling slag might harden and be broken without delay. Not seldom the water would be conveyed under the crust, come into contact with the still molten slag and be converted suddealy into steam. Then there would be an explosion. Men might be seriously injured, or even killed, which was very sad-but one of the hazards of the employment. It happened when Mark had been following his straight road ahead for more than five years.

Five years during which he had won success, substantial if not brilliant! The lack of brilliancy might have been disputed by those few who knew that sundry labor-saving devices installed in the Quinby mills during this period were of his invention.

When Henley heard of the accident he frowned; Henley detested accidents, which spoke of inefficiency somewhere. But when the information was added that the foreman of the open-hearth battery was among the injured, he said: "Damn!" and in person at once called the hospital and his own physician by telephone and through these agencies commandeered the best surgical skill and care for that valuable workman.

The doctors gathered in solemn conciave and did various things to Mark's shattered body. They dogged his steps into the very shadow of death and would not let him die. They did that, knowing they condemned him to a life of pain, and having the security of Thomas Henley's word that their bills should each and every one of them be paid.

While Mark still lingered in the vale of mystery that leads to full knowledge, two men began their daily-and nightly-watches. One was a thin faded man who wore the rusty black of the country preacher. The other was an awkward, gray little man who would sit motionless by the hour, never taking his eyes from the still form under the white sheet

Mark did not die. His broken body began slowly to mend. He passed out of immediate danger; he was even allowed to talk and to be talked to a littie. Simon's glance did not waver, nor did he try to evade with a soothing "Ye'll never walk easy again. Ye'll have to use a crutch, leastways a cane, always."

"It's my hip?"

'Yes." "Is that all?"

'Ye were hurt innardly. Ye'll have to be careful always. No more work in the mills." Mark closed his eyes, uttering no complaint. But within was a turmoil of protest and rebellion. A cripple, a partial invalid for life! Half a man! So had ended the dreamed campaign of conquest. Tears of futile rage seeped out through his closed eyelids. His recovery was slow and very painful; six years of driving ahead at top speed had left him but little reserve vitality for the emergency. The mood of rebellion died down from sheer exhaustion. He accepted his misfortune; but sullenly, with no swelling heroic resolve to defy untoward circumstance.

There was no conscious desire to return to the mills from which he had been banished. They were too much the object of his smoldering resentment just then. He felt toward them as the betrayed toward the traitor.

"I think," he said once to Simon and Richard Courtney, who had not yet left the city, "I'll go back to Bethel." "It will be a good place to recuperate," said the preacher.

"But I mean to stay."

We shall be glad to have you back." Thoughts of Bethel naturally revived the memory of Unity Martin, Mark found a certain grim humor in the recollection.

A slight tremor passed over him. To meet the embodiment of a shadow by whom one has been filted-or whom one has filted?-is at least mildly exciting. A slight tightening of the reins was sufficient to stop that horse. "Hello, Unity!" Mark felt that this greeting fell short of the dramatic proprieties. "Oh! How do you do?" she an swered colorlossly.

WAYS OF PREPARING BEEF HEARTS.

The price of beef hearts varies in different districts and it is hardly safe to say that any kind of meat is low but little waste in hearts it is quite an economical dish to use occasionally. If the heart is to be cooked whole it should be well washed to remove all the blood. The ordinary method of serving them is to stuff and stew or roast them, About two hours should be allowed for the roasting and they should be well basted during the process. When stuffing, cut through the partition so that there is but one cavity to fill. A stuffing of sausage meat to which two or three onions have been added makes a most savory dish. To make a sage and onion stuffing chop a large onion and boil it for ten minutes in a little water, add a cupful of bread trumbs, salt, butter, sage and the beaten white of an egg, season well with pepper and fill the heart.

Calf's Heart on Casecrole,-Wash the heart and stuff with any desired forcement. Arrange a half cupful of onions and carrots in a casserole, then lay in the heart. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika, dredge with flour and bake for two hours. Remove from the dish and make a brown gravy, using four tablesnoonfuls of the fat with three of flour, adding two cupfuls of boiling water. Serve with the gravy and vegetables around the heart.

Heart a la Francaise.-Fill the heart with veal stuffing made as follows: Take a half cupful of crumbs, two ablespoonfuls of finely chopped suet, a teaspoonful of parsley chopped, some sweet herbs, sait and pepper to taste, bind with a beaten egg. This stuffing s especially nice for veal. Fasten the heart with string well sewed to keep the stuffing in, rub over with fat of melted suet, and fold in a buttered paper or put into a paper bag used for cooking. Roast for three and a half hours. Berve garnished with spinach and cooked tomatoes and serve with a brown sauce.

OLD AGE AND FOOD.

After middle life the organs that are concerned with elimination are not as active as they are in youth. The appetite may be good and temptation to satisfy it is great, if not greater than in earlier life. As the power of the liver, lungs, kidnevs and skin is considerably diminished the food is not eliminated as thoroughly and rapidly and so accumulates to clog the wheels. This debris acts as foreign matter. During the last half of life less food is required and each individual, if good health is maintained, must study his own system to know just what is required without leaving a dangerous waste to disturb the machinery. The eating habit is one which is fully as bad to overcome as any other intemperate habit. The first requisite then, for the aged especially, is to pled beggar accosted them. Henley guard against over-indulgence. Another important point is to select such foods as are easy of mastication, and avoid tough and fibrous foods. Milk is a valuable food for the aged in any form. If it seems to disagree it should be tried in various ways before it is given up. It is the nearest to a perfect food we have as it more nearly resembles the blood > than any of our foods The aged often find a condiment of some nature an agreeable help in digestion. Junket, custards and soft cooked egg dishes with milk make easy assimilated food which should be used largely in the menu.

A large proportion of those extremely aged will find it better to eat a light meal four or five times a day rather than the ordinary three meals. If troubled with the common trouble of old age, insomnia, a glass of warm milk or gruel on retiring or on awak-

ing in the night will often prove very effective in producing sleep. Buttermilk and koumis are other forms of milk which are especially good for both old and young when the digestive apparatus needs extra

GOODYEAR TIRES AT ANTE-BELLUM PRICES

The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. Tires." Mr. F. A. Sieberling, president of the Company, thus explains their unique position.

"We advanced Goodyear prices, as others did theirs, when the rubber panic came. Almost in a day crude rubber rose in New York from 55 cents per pound to much over a dollar.

The New York supply was too small to consider. We cabled our London people to buy up the pick of the rubber there. By acting quickly and paying cash they obtained 1,500, 000 pounds of the finest rubber.

"That big supply of rubber is now nearly all on the way to the Goodyear factory in Akron. It constitutes the best of the London supply.

"We are using the same grade of we always have used in these tires. "We are running our factory with three shifts of men, twenty-four hours a day. So long as we remain in this fortunate position on rubber, we shall supply tire users at before-war prices to the limit of our capacity."

FOOD FACTS

What An M. D. Learned.

A prominent Georgia physician went through a food experience which he makes public.

"It was my own experience that first led me to advocate Grape-Nuts food and I also know, from having prescribed it to convalescents and other weak patients, that the food is a wonderful rebuilder and restorer of nerve and brain tissue, as well as muscle. It improves the digestion and sick patients gain very rapidly, just as I did in strength and weight,

"I was in such a low state that I had to give up my work entirely, and went to the mountains of this state. but two months there did not improve me: in fact, I was not quite as well as when I left home.

"My food did not sustain me and it became plain that I must change. Then I began to use Grape-Nuts food and in two weeks I could walk a mile without fatigue, and in five weeks returned to my home and practice, taking up hard work again. Since that time I have felt as well and strong as I ever did in my life.

"As a physician who seeks to help all sufferers, I consider it a duty to make these facts public." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Trial 10 days of Grape-Nuts, when Bread in Jars.

If bread and cake and similar food stuffs are kept in large stone jars or crocks instead of a tin bread box they will keep much better, as there is very little tendency to become moldy. The best penetrates the tin so easily that bread often becomes moldy overnight; in the stone jar the bread does not become so heated. "Right-Cut" is the Real Tobacco Chew. Made of pure, sappy, full-bodied tobacco -seasoned and sweetened just enough.

It's glad news that a man can't help telling his friends about as soon as he learns the facts himself.

The taste lasts longer. You use less tobacco.

Take a very small chew-less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real obacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end. It is a ready show, gut fine and short shord so that you went to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied t makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and rice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

waukee called on their parents for [Copyrighted, 1914, by Thomas J. Sullivan] An acorn is not an oak when it is sprouted. It must go through long summers and fierce winters and endure all the frost and snow and thunder and storms and side striking winds before it is a full grown oak.

Not Half a Man. So man is nor a man when he is created. He is only just begun. His manhood must come with years. He who travels through life prosperous and goes to bis grave without a wrinkle is not half a man. Difficulties are God's errands and trainers, and only through them can one attain to the fuliness of manhood. And what a chimera is man, what a confused chase, what a subject of contradiction-a proposed judge of all John Polzean left for Kansas things and yet a feeble worm of the earth; the great depository and guardian of truth and yet a mere huddle of uncertainty; the glory and scandal of the universe!

Women Greatest Shoppers.

Man is a sort of dependent creature. and that is why woman took him in charge and relegated him to the rear of the procession, at least so far as the purchasing agent of the home necessaries goes. Some extravagant guesser has guessed that 80 per cent of all retail buying is done by women.

We guess that that guess is too high. Men have more to do with the family shopping than they are often willing to have their wives, daughters and sisters admit to friends.

Men are the court of last resort, and the case is often reversed, as the exchanged and returned goods department of almost any store can testify. Perhaps the expense of these depart ments would be largely reduced if the stores were made more attractive t embarrassing for them to shop. Cer-M. E. Church Sunday on account tain it is that, even though the women make 80 per cent of the family pur chases, the men must be catered to in any store that is to succeed.

Women Very Observing. But property the store are to women. They make up the majority of every merchant's customers. For Miss Olive Terlinden left Friday | them the right merchandise must be kept up to the woman's standard Many men who are good merchant in other respects fall here and then wonder why they do not get the trade -wonder why it goes to the big city stores or to the retail mail orde

Attractive Stores Win.

Observing women who are careful and conscientious housekeepers are not going to buy in disorder and coufusion. One way a merchant can place himself out of reach of competi ous for its attractiveness, its cleanli ness, its immaculate order, its convenience for women, that even the most particular of the sex will show her delight in it. This is the most effective and least expensive advertising a merchant can do. In the business world of today there is no place for a weakling. Busines is a man's game and must be played in a man's way. Shiftless Merchant Fails

The failure of the merchant who keeps a dirty, sloppy store, in an in dolent, shiftless way, means another revolution of the wheel of progress. His trip to the scrap heap is, for the general good, for the betterment and advancement of the industry be would keep in disrepute. That man is at ready on the greased side of the toboggan. It is but a question of time when you will hear him fall. Woman's keen eye soon sorts out the storekeeper from the real alive, up to date merchant, and it does not take her any great length of time to forget that the dead, sleepy storekeeper ever existed, and he is so dumb and brainless that he can't account for the loss of her trade.

She Will Tell Him.

Let blm ask any woman in his town why he failed to get her trade, and she can and will soon tell him that the sooner such a business man or storekeeper as be retires and leaves the field to his more progressive competitor the better it will be for himself and the entire community.
