OF INTEREST TO FARMERS Cheesemakers Make Use of By-Products

About as little goes to waste around the average Wisconsin cheese factory as in one of the big packing houses of Chicago which are famous for the careful utilization of all by-products.

Many of the cheesemakers in this state, who regularly receive large deliveries of milk, are equipping their factories with the necessary apparatus to skim the butter fat from the whey. This is made into whey butter which, while it sells at slightly lower rates than the creamery product, nevertheless, materially adds to the income and profits of the business.

In a new bulletin, "Making Whey Butter at Cheddar Cheese Factories", J. L. Sammis of the dairy department of the university of Wisconsin refers to the case of a large American cheese factory located near Plymouth, whose patrons received one thousand dollars as their share of the profits for one year. Mr. Sammis estimates that from ten to 30 pounds of butter for each good cow contributing to a factory can be received from the whey.

But regardless of the advantages to be derived from separating whey, he urges patrons and managers of cheese factories before investigating in the necessary machinery (1) to explain the proposition to all of the factory patrons so that they will understand that the skimming will be profitable both for them and for the cheesemaker, and so that they will be willing to feed the skimmed whey to hogs; (2) to look for a near by market in which whey butter, or preferably whey cream can be sold to good advantage; (3) to make a close estimate in advance as to what under the local conditions of gross income, expenses and net prices from the enterprise are likely to be and (4) to decide upon methods of conducting the business.

A list of equipment and costs is given in the bulletin, a copy of which may be obtained by writing to the Director of the Experiment Station at Madison.

Seeds May Now be Tested at Madison

To protect the farmers of the state from planting worthless seed and introducing noxious weeds into their fields, the Wisconsin Legislature in 1913 passed the state seed inspection law.

It requires that every lot of agricultural seed over one pound in weight be tested and labeled before it is sold, and that the label contain the following information: 1, the name and address of the seedsmen; 2, the kind of seed; 3, the percentage of purity; 4, the percentage of germination; 5, the names of all noxious weeds in the seed, and 6, if corn, alfalfa or any of the cereals, the locality in which the seed is grown.

This law established a state seed testing laboratory where all samples may be tested for the nominal sum of 25 cents a sample. Recipients of the state desiring to have their seed tested should send samples to the State Seed Inspector, Agricultural Experiment station, Madison.

For more detailed information on the subject farmers and seedsmen are urged to see the last Bankers' Farm Bulletin. It may be obtained at many of the banks of the state.

Adopt Plan to Better Our Dairy Products

The number of creameries and cheese factories making butter and cheese of high quality is to be materially increased as the result of a plan recently adopted. The creamery men and cheese makers of the state will be invited to send samples of their product every other month, to the Dairy Department of the university where it will be scored and recommendations made for its improvement. This will reduce the number of exhibits held each year from twelve to six and will give the men carrying on the work an opportunity to visit factories making a product that is not up to the highest standard of quality.

More than 7,000 packages of butter and 3,000 samples of cheese from over 700 butter makers and 500 cheese makers have been scored during the seven years which the Wisconsin butter and cheese scoring exhibitions have been carried on. According to the new plan the scoring exhibitions will be held during the first week of May, July, September, November, January and March.

THERESA BANKER MUST STAND TRIAL

W. F. Briemann Bound Over; Bail Fixed at $5,000. Alleged Shortage $120,000

In Judge John D. Lyons' court Beaver Dam Monday, William F. Briemann, until recently the cashier of the Theresa Bank at Theresa, Wis., was bound over for trial in the circuit court under the charge of embezzlement. Judge Lyons placed Briemann under bail of $5,000 which he was unable to secure and he was taken back to the county jail at Juneau Tuesday morning by Deputy Sheriff Peter J. Veling to await trial.

Three witnesses were introduced in court on behalf of the state. District Attorney C. A. Markham appearing for the state. The first witness to be placed on the stand was Arthur Greiner of Theresa, the assistant cashier of the Theresa State Bank. Greiner was closely questioned by the district attorney as to Briemann's operations for several years prior to his arrest. His answers showed that the amount of Briemann's defalcation was in excess of $120,000 and that the stock holders of the institution had paid in an assessment of over eleven hundred and fifty per cent in order to make good Briemann's losses. He stated that the money appropriated by Briemann had been used in dealing in stock margins through New York and Milwaukee stock brokers, the dealings with the Milwaukee concern being in excess of $572,000. Reports by the brokers showing the extent of Briemann's operations were introduced in court and introduced in evidence.

The second witness placed on the stand was Assistant State Bank Examiner who conducted the examination of the affairs of the bank which led to the cashier's arrest. He gave a brief synopsis of the conditions as he found them at the bank. In conclusion he stated that the bank was now in a sound financial condition.

Dr. J. T. Stoye, one of the directors of the bank, was in the witness chair for fully an hour. He told of the issuing of "dummy" notes, secured by collateral, by Briemann, these "dummy" notes being used with the knowledge and consent of the directors of the bank. He stated these notes were issued at the suggestion of Briemann who represented to them that the transaction would be sanctioned by the state bank examiners. He stated that after the visit of the bank examiner several "dummy" notes which were not secured by collateral were discovered. The directors he stated, had no prior knowledge of the existence of these notes.

With the examination of the third witness the counsel for the state rested. Attorney A. W. Lueck, who appeared for the defendant also rested, no testimony being introduced in defense. After deliberating for a few moments, Judge Lyons bound the defendant over for trial in the circuit court, placing the amount of his bail at $5,000.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

Charles Gunther Passes Away

Charles Gunther, one of the few surviving veterans of the civil war passed away at the home of the G. Gunther family at Port Washington Monday forenoon.

Death was quite sudden and was due to the infirmities of old age. He attained an age of 76 years.

Mr. Gunther was born in Spargau, Saxony, Germany, and came to this country with his parents when about 14 years of age. They settled on a farm north of Kneislville. After several years he went to New York state. When the war broke out he enlisted in the 9th New York heavy artillery. After serving a short time he was taken sick and was confined to a hospital for seventeen months. Upon leaving the hospital he re-enlisted, this time in the 8th New York heavy artillery. He took part in numerous battles among them being Bull Run and was also present at the surrender of General Lee. He was three times wounded, twice by bullets and once by a bursting shell.

At the close of the war he received an honorable discharge and returned to New York state. Shortly after he was married to Miss Eliza Bohan. His wife died in New York state a number of years ago.

About 18 years ago he came to Port Washington and has since made his home there spending the summers at the home of his sister, Mrs. G. Groeschel at Fillmore and the winters with the G. Gunther family in Port Washington. Besides his sister he is also survived by one brother, Fred Gunther of Rochester, New York. He is also survived by a number of nephews and nieces.

BLACK HANDER AT WORK AT DUNDEE

Dr. B. O. Bendixen of Dundee Receives Threatening Letter. Fire Marshal and Postal Authorities to Make Investigation

Physician Lays Fire and Threatening Letter to His Enemies. Belief of Fire Companies That the Building Recently Burned Was Set Afire

Dr. B. O. Bendixen, of Dundee, whose new home together with all furniture and fixtures, was destroyed by fire a week ago, received a "black hand" letter on Tuesday, March 16th, telling him to leave Dundee immediately, and if he failed to do so he would be a victim of a dynamite plot.

Over telephone the Doctor refused to state the contents of the letter but merely thought it a bluff and is not in the least frightened. The latter, however, turned same over to the Insurance Companies, who in turn forwarded same to the Fire Marshal for further investigation. From a conversation over the telephone with H. A. Wrucek, secretary of the Campbellport Mutual Fire Insurance Company, the letter is given to the postal authorities.

Since the receipt of the "black hand" letter by Dr. Bendixen, it is the belief of the insurance companies, who carried the insurance on the destroyed building and contents, that the home was set afire. The doctor had received threats some time ago that if he did not leave "that he would be burned out" which was the case.

A few days before the fire Dr. Bendixen remarked to several of his friends of the threat, but all thought it perhaps a joke. The joke was, however, a reality, and came very near causing the doctor's death, as he was removed from the roof of the porch of the burning building in an unconscious condition just before the roof fell down.

The threatening letter received was mailed at Cascade, Wis., on Monday, March 15th, according to the postmark.

That a thorough investigation is to be instituted by the postal authorities after the letter is received by them is an assured fact, who will without a doubt find the guilty party or parties.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Manilla Klessig was absent from school the latter part of last week. Elvira Morgenroth was absent from school the forepart of the week.

A decision has been made for the selection of a Senior class play. The play selected is of a recent copyright, and was played at a large theatre at New York in 1907. It is "All of a Sudden Peggy."

Last Saturday evening our high school basketball five defeated the Random Lake high school girls' basketball five in a very slow game. The slowness of the game was no doubt due to the time called by the Random Lake girls. At the end of the first half the score was 3 to 2 in favor of Kewaskum. The second half was a little more exciting, our girls making five more points.

The following article pertaining to the basket ball game between the Kewaskum high school girls and the Monarch girls team of Beaver Dam played some time ago at Beaver Dam was taken from the Beaver Dam Argus:

"A score of twenty to one tells the tale of what happened to the Monarch Girls basket ball team at Amory K, last Friday evening, and the Kewaskum girls done the trick. Who ever heard of Kewaskum? Impossible! But it's a fact just the same, and from now on Kewaskum is on the map in letters an inch high. The way those Kewaskum girls tossed that ball about was a caution and before the Monarchs had had time to stop grasping for breath the end of the second half had been reached and the score stood as stated above, the locals holding the consolation score of one, far, from being discouraged, however, the Monarch girls are ready to profit by their experience and will come back in later contest with added strength gained through their experience on Friday evening."

A number of young men from Campbellport were Sunday visitors in the village.

TRAIN HITS BUS; DRIVER IS KILLED

"Dode" Rich, Juneau, Victim of Crossing Accident. Were No Passengers in The Bus

The Janesville passenger, which leaves Fond du Lac at 5:30 p. m., last Friday hit a bus driven by "Dode" Rich, of Juneau, as he was crossing the track at Gates' Crossing between Minnesota Junction and Juneau. The bus was struck broadside and cut in two. Both horses were killed and Mr. Rich so badly injured that he died at 5 o'clock Saturday morning without recovering consciousness. When the train was stopped he was found on the pilot of the engine. There were no passengers in the bus and no one can imagine how the accident occurred as the track is open for a long way on both sides of the road. Mr. Rich has driven over the road four times a day for the last twenty-five years.

The deceased was 55 years of age and a son of the late John Rich of Juneau, at one time a deputy warden at the state prison. His wife died many years ago. He is survived by his aged mother; brother, C. A. Rich of Juneau; and three sisters, Mrs. Theo. Hemmy of Juneau, Mrs. Nettie Binz of Chicago and Mrs. Harvey Markle of Oshkosh, formerly of Fond du Lac where the Markles kept a hotel on Forest avenue.

Mr. Rich was well known by the traveling public as he took passengers to and from Juneau to meet the C. M. & St. P. trains at Minnesota Junction.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

ARE INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

Roy Johnson and Collins Couple Must Stand Trial in U. S. Federal Court. Charge is Serious

Roy Johnson of Fond du Lac, William Collins and Mabel Collins both of Antigo and who lived in Fond du Lac at one time, have been indicted by the federal grand jury at Milwaukee and will stand trial in the United States federal court in that city, charged with sending obscene matter through the mails. It is understood that the trio pleaded guilty to the charges made against them.

As part of a nation wide syndicate Johnson and Collins couple are alleged to have aided in flooding the country with obscene pictures and literature. A girl employed in one of the local business houses, it is understood, was the model for some of the pictures and it was through the identification of this young woman by local post office officials that the federal authorities were able to arrest Johnson. Johnson, it is understood, developed the pictures from films supplied by Collins and also acted as mailing agent.

Working from three postoffices Oshkosh, Taycheedah and Fond du Lac, Johnson, it is claimed would send out, what were called feeler letters, written to men in all parts of the country presumably by a young woman who thrown out of employment was obliged to pose for the pictures in order to earn a living. A sample of these pictures was enclosed in each of these envelopes. A New York concern, thought to be part of the syndicate, is said to have supplied Johnson with mailing lists and for a time, it is said business flourished beyond Johnson's expectations. Answers to the letters were received from all parts of the country but an accident nipped the scheme practically in the bud.

A postmaster in Pennsylvania received one of these letters, with the sample photograph enclosed and referred it to the postoffice department which began an investigation.

WERE ARRESTED.

It was found that Johnson and the "girl" who signed the letters were one and the same persons and upon questioning the girl, who posed for the pictures, the evidence collected by the federal authorities was thought sufficient to arrest Johnson and the Collins couple. It is claimed by the post office authorities, that the trio were only a small factor in a ring that had been flooding the country with obscene literature and photographs for the past few years, and it was by the arrest of the trio that the federal authorities were enabled to begin a nation wide investigation which it is said will result in many startling disclosures and arrests before the business is finally stamped out.

A more serious charge, that of white slavery, had been talked of in the Collins couple case, as it is alleged that when they came to this city they resided together as man and wife, although they had not been married. They were married recently. The couple was also charged with luring the girl model of the photographs and it is said that on the solicitations of Mrs. Collins the girl was kept in a house near the city until the pictures had been completed. According to local authorities, however, the white slavery charge will not be preferred against the couple at this time.—Fond du Lac Reporter.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

Wednesday morning a member of the "Dusty Rhodes Society" called at the P. W. Steiner home for a free handout. He was given a place at the table and finished up to big plates of pancakes, bread, butter and two cups of coffee. Fifteen minutes later he was seated at Ed. Steiner's table only one half mile away, munching down another meal of breakfast food, one-half loaf of bread, a coffee cake, some home made sausage, butter, honey and two cups of coffee thrown in for good measure. At the A. P. Cortte home, one-fourth mile up the road, he got more breakfast food, meat, sandwiches, a half dozen pieces of cake and his accustomed two cups of coffee. A half mile further up the road he was sympathized with by another kind lady—Mrs. Cantzler—who fried some potatoes, a big dish of roast beef, gravy, more bread and this time three cups of coffee. When last seen this voraciously capacious being was making for the next farm house—no? we did not follow to learn of his depredations—we went to work. We hope two things. One, that he finally got enough—the other that he didn't "bust".—Lomira Review.

"During the last few days the carp have gathered at the head-gates of the dam and have been easily caught by local fishermen," says the Beloit Daily News. "Monday word came from game warden Shols to the effect that the fish are suffering with a deadly malady which renders them very dangerous for table purposes."

The disease is caused by a condition of the water and manifests itself in large blisters underneath the scale, also in general looseness of the skin and scales. The fish do not die of the disease at once, but are able to swim for a considerable distance while sick. They are comparatively very tame while in this condition and easily captured.

Warnings have been issued to people living along the Rock River by the game warden and it is hoped that no serious epidemic will result from these fish being eaten.

Norman Odekirk met with a painful accident while starting a gasoline engine at his home in South Eden last week Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Odekirk's left foot was drawn into the wheel of the engine, several bones were fractured and the foot badly bruised.

The injured man was taken to the office of Dr. Walters at Campbellport, where the bones were set and his wounds dressed. Although Mr. Odekirk is at present getting along nicely, it will be a number of weeks before he will have fully recovered from the accident.—Campbellport News

TO DEMAND DAMAGES

U. S. AGAINST ENGLAND FOR LOSSES IN SHIPPING AS RESULT OF BLOCKADE.

PRESIDENT IS AROUSED

Wilson Determined to Enter Emphatic Objection Against Britain's Action, But Will Stop With That.

Washington, March 18.—After a meeting of the cabinet officials disclosed that the United States will direct the main force of its protest against the British order in council to those declarations by which it is sought to control American and other neutral ships plying between neutral ports, and which may be "suspected" by Great Britain of carrying goods destined to Germany or originating in Germany.

The state department will advise Great Britain that her theory of justifying interference with neutral ships to neutral ports and in fact to any port except as to actual contraband of war, cannot be defended under international law. She is to be told that her order in council is defective because no matter what her collateral explanations may be, Great Britain and France have not declared a formal blockade of ports in German territory.

The International News service correspondent's informant said: "We have concluded that war is war. The substantial benefit to us of all our protests from the time of the seizure of the John D. Rockefeller and the Brindilla to the present protest, will be that we shall have put ourselves in position to make legal claim for indemnities against the allies. It may be that settlements will not be had till after the war."

All the questions involved in the order were discussed at the cabinet meeting on Tuesday. The original text differs in some respects from the press text, but it is certain that the word "blockade" does not appear in the official text. The opinion of the state department is that the United States could not enter into "any joint action" with European powers on the subject.

Los Angeles, March 18.—Aviator Frank Stites fell 200 feet with his machine at Universal City on Tuesday and was fatally injured, dying half an hour later in a hospital. Stites was a close friend of Lincoln Beachey and was greatly depressed over Beachey's fatal fall at San Francisco, Sunday he made an unsuccessful attempt at a flight and afterwards remarked to a friend that he had lost his nerve. While making the flight Stites apparently lost control of his machine and being too close to ground to regain it was dashed to earth. He sustained a broken leg and internal injuries, the latter causing death.

JOHN D.'S WIFE DIES

MRS. ROCKEFELLER SUCCEUMS SUDDENLY AT HOME.

Husband and Son in Florida When End Came—Hurry Home on Special Train.

New York, March 15.—Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, wife of the richest man in the world, is dead. She passed away Friday morning at 10:30 at the Rockefeller home at Pocantico Hills, after an illness of several months. She was seventy-six years old last September.

Although Mrs. Rockefeller had been an invalid for many months, it is understood that her death came unexpectedly. Her husband and her son were at Ormond, Fla., and were advised that Mrs. Rockefeller had taken a critical turn for the worse. Mr. Rockefeller and his son immediately engaged a special train. Mrs. E. Parmelee Prentice, Mrs. Rockefeller's daughter, and Miss Lucy Spelman, her sister, were the only immediate relatives present when she died.

Laura Celestia Spelman Rockefeller was born in Wadsworth, Ohio, of well-to-do New England parents, on September 9, 1839. She was her husband's junior by two months. As a child she lived in Wadsworth, in Burlington, Iowa, in Akron, Ohio, where her father, Harvey B. Spelman, achieved a competence in the dry goods business, and later in Cleveland. In the grammar school at Cleveland she met John Rockefeller, when they were fifteen years old.

Rockefeller was a country boy. She was the daughter of one of Cleveland's leading citizens. His home was a little farmhouse; hers, one of Cleveland's handsomest residences. Notwithstanding other differences, the awkward youth and the city girl had in common a love of study and simple tastes, and they became fast friends.

Young Rockefeller prospered beyond his fairest hopes. As soon as he felt that he could ask her to become his wife he did so. They were married September 8, 1864, the eve of her twenty-fifth birthday, and started to keep house in a little two-story brick residence on one of Cleveland's side streets. Upon her marriage she became a Baptist, and to her religion and her home she devoted her entire time.

The surviving children are Alta, wife of E. Parmelee Prentice; Edith, who married Harold Fowler McCormick of Chicago, and John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

London, March 15.—The admiralty issued an official statement reporting the loss of the auxiliary cruiser Bayonet while on patrol duty. Evidence points to her having been torpedoed by a German submarine. But 27 of the Bayonet's crew of more than 200 were saved. Fourteen officers drowned, including the commander. The Bayonet was a steel twin screw steamer of 5,984 tons. She was built in Glasgow in 1913, was 416 feet long.

MAKES WAR CRISIS

DEMANDS OF ITALY ARE HUGE—BELIEVED AUSTRIA WILL REFUSE TO CEDE LANDS.

ASKS POLA NAVAL BASE

King Victor's Subjects Clamor for Provinces and Cities from Vienna—Italians Expected to Join the Allies Soon.

Rome, March 17, via Chiasso, Switzerland.—The political pressure brought on the Italian government to pledge Italy's course in future, either to Germany and Austria or the Anglo-French-Russian allies, is believed to have almost reached a climax.

Prince von Buelow, German ambassador, is reliably reported to have given formal assurances that Germany will be able to induce Austria to concede to Italy the territory demanded, with a free hand in southern Albania. In addition, the central empires would further Italy's ambitions in the eastern Mediterranean.

The German diplomat pointed out furthermore that the marine supremacy of Great Britain and France would have the effect of crushing Italy. Representatives of the allies in their negotiations with the Italian government presented the matter in a different light. They united in saying the defeat of Germany and Austria-Hungary was inevitable, even without the participation of Italy. In case Italy refrained from taking part she would receive nothing from the allies when the settlements were made.

What is believed in high quarters to be an authoritative outline of the territorial demands of Italy and the position of Austria in regard to them was obtained during the day. The difference between the Italian and Austrian points of view, as thus indicated, appears to be so great that well-informed persons are not able to perceive any likelihood of an adjustment.

Roughly speaking, Italy desires a sweep of territory to the north and east which would extend her boundary around the northern end of the Adriatic sea as far south as Fiume, on the eastern coast.

This would include the Austrian naval base at Pola, as well as the provinces of Trent and Trieste, acquisition of which has been Italy's long cherished aspiration.

ROCKEFELLER HALTS BURIAL

John D. Pleads to Keep Wife's Body—Remains to Be Placed in Vault Later.

New York, March 16.—John D. Rockefeller and his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., decided at the last moment Sunday afternoon they could not commit the body of wife and mother to the tomb at present.

All arrangements had been made for temporary interment in the vault of John D. Archbold in Sleepy-Hollow cemetery. "We were not here when she passed away," said the elder Rockefeller in broken tones. "We want to have her with us until the last moment."

Their wishes were respected and the body will remain in the palatial home at Pocantico Hills probably for several days.

Sixty friends of the family were at the services. The Rockefeller train ran into an open switch at Milford, Va., and smashed up a freight train. The Rockefellers were shaken up, but were not injured.

RAIDER SUNK BY BRITISH

German Cruiser Dresden Destroyed in South Pacific—Ship's Magazine Explodes.

London, March 17.—The admiralty announced on Monday that the German cruiser Dresden, noted sea raider, has been sunk. The engagement occurred off Juan Fernandez island, the admiralty announced. The British warships Glasgow, Orma and Kent trapped the Dresden and closed in upon her. After five minutes of action, during which heavy damage was inflicted on the German cruiser, she hauled down her colors and ran up the white flag of surrender.

The Dresden was aflame when the white flag was run up. A magazine had exploded and her upper works were afire. Her crew was quickly taken off by boats from the British warships. Flames spread rapidly and with successive explosions the Dresden quickly went to the bottom. Fifteen wounded of the crew of the Dresden were landed at Valparaiso. There were no English casualties.

BEACHEY IS KILLED

FAMOUS AVIATOR DROPS TO DEATH AT 'FRISCO FAIR.

Wings of New Monoplane Fall and With Body Drops 2,500 Feet Into Bay.

San Francisco, March 16.—Death came to Lincoln Beachey, world-famed aviator, Sunday afternoon, when he dropped through the air for 2,500 feet, before thousands of spectators at the Panama-Pacific International exposition. The accident which ended the life of the man who had defied death so long came when the wings of his new monoplane collapsed while Beachey was attempting to right the machine after a perpendicular drop through space of several hundred feet.

The stress on the new monoplane was too great and one of the wings was seen to fly upward like that of a wounded bird. In a flash the second wing of the monoplane gave way and the shining engine and propeller blades gleamed in the sunshine as the crippled machine fell.

There was no chance for escape, although Beachey and his collapsed monoplane landed in the waters of San Francisco bay. The force of the fall was so great that the machine and its daring pilot was buried in the mud of the bay in forty feet of water. He struck the water near the United States army transport docks in a narrow patch of water between two transports swinging at anchor.

Immediately a rescue crew was dispatched from the battleship Oregon, which was lying in the stream. After two hours the machine and body were dug from the mud by a diver from the Oregon's crew. Beachey was found entangled in the wires of the wrecked machine and all of the bones in his body were broken.

Beachey was born March 3, 1887, in San Francisco. His father is in the soldiers' home at Dayton, O., and his mother lives at Moreland, Mich.

U. S. MAN SLAIN IN MEXICO

J. M. McManus Murdered in Home at Mexico City by Zapatistas—U. S. Flag on House.

Washington, March 15.—President Wilson and his cabinet, in session on Friday, were informed of the assassination by Zapatistas in Mexico City of John B. McManus, an American citizen of Chicago; that the American flag was ignored and insulted, and that the United States consular seal on the residence of McManus was violated when he was shot. The cabinet discussed the case at length. Later Bryan announced that the demand for punishment and indemnity would be insisted upon. The American demands were served by Brazilian Minister Cardozo directly upon General Salazar, the Zapata general in command of Mexico City.

Two thousand Mexicans stormed the national palace in the capital to secure the liberty of 250 priests said to be imprisoned. The effort failed, but it was followed by a riot in which Gustavo, the chief of police of Mexico, was stabbed. Two Mexicans were killed and at least twenty persons injured. It was said that when the Zapatistas had control of the city McManus had trouble, and when they attacked him in his home he killed three of them. After killing McManus the slayers are said to have looted the house.

Vom Schauplatz des europäischen Völker-Krieges

„Wel Geschrei und wenig Wolle“, so muß man sagen, wenn einem heute die ellenlangen Londoner Berichte über die angebliche Verstärkung der Dardanellen Flotte durch die englisch-französische Flotte zu Gesicht kommen. 32 Kriegsschiffe haben die Flotte am Eingange der Dardanellen Straße über zwei Monate lang mit den schwersten Geschützen bombardiert. Doch nach einem solch unehrer Anstand von Energie nicht dem dazugehörigen Kulter und Glück, sondern der Verstärkung einiger dieser Flotte kommt, ist leicht erklärlich: denn nicht nur die englische und französische Bevölkerung hat zu dieser Zeit, da es auf die alliierten Streitkräfte zu Wasser und zu Land recht subtile deutsche Flotte regnet, eine Siegesnachricht zur Verhütung nötig, sondern auch dem russischen Verbündeten, der sich unter Sündenburs' Schlägen in den letzten Zustimmungen windet, muß man wenigstens die guten Willen zeigen. Und bei diesem guten Willen bleibt es, nämlich der Erfolg über die Dardanellen Flotte ist nichts als einer jener papiernen Siege, wie sie die alliierten Propagandisten in Zeiten der Not mit der gebührenden Schreibmaschine erringen. Und darum weil der Sieg mir in der Phantasie leuchtet, wird den geliebten Russen von den englisch-französischen Brüdern auch der Erfolg deselben als Deute in Aussicht gestellt. Konstantinopel soll das Ziel sein, das man dem russischen Varen auf die Wunden fließen läßt, die ihm deutsche und österreichisch-ungarische Waffen geschlagen haben. Allerdings nur in der Hoffnung und im Genuß. Denn wenn wirklich nur die geringe Aussicht vorhanden wäre, Konstantinopel zu nehmen oder überhaupt die Durchfahrt durch die Dardanellenstraße zu erzwingen, so würde der nimmerleutende John Bull sich diese Beute schon selbst zu Gemüte führen. Eine nette Vergabe für den englischen Seeheermeister zu Gibraltar, dem Sueskanal, der Insel Malta etc. Doch da die Sache absolut aussichtslos ist, selbst wenn, wie London berichtet, drei türkische Flotten gesammelt sein sollen, so wird der russische Flottenkommandant Konstantinopel und den Bosporus an Russland, Irland, welches von Deutschen, Österreichern, Ungarn und Türken zusammengehauen am Boden liegt und sich wohl kaum vor einer inneren Revolution bewahren kann, in freigegeben. Um nun seinen gefahrenen Wut etwas aufzurichten und die fünfte Hoffnung auf die gewaltige russische Dampflinze etwas zu heben, werden die Dardanellen und Konstantinopel als Lockspeise dem jaherfalligen russischen Varen vorbehalten.

Eine kurze Beschreibung der jetzt so eifrig besprochenen Dardanellenstraße dürfte unsere Leser interessieren. Die Dardanellen, im Altertum Hellespont, sind eine Meerenge, welche das Marmarameer mit dem Ägäischen Meer verbinden. Von dem Marmarameer führt dann eine andere Meerenge, der Bosporus, mit Konstantinopel und Samsun als stark besetzten Eingangspunkten, nach dem Schwarzen Meer. Diese Durchfahrt von Schwarzem Meer durch den Bosporus, das Marmara Meer und die Dardanellenstraße hat schon immer das Ziel aller russischen Bündnisse gebildet, um auf diese Weise einen eifrigeren Ausgang zu Wasser zu gewinnen. Und dies Verlangen ist ohne Zweifel auch die Hauptursache der Teilnahme Russlands am Kriege und andererseits des Eintretens der Türken für Deutschland und Österreich gegenwärtig. — Die Dardanellenstraße ist 65 Km. (etwa 44 bis 45 Meilen) lang, im Durchschnitt 5 bis 6 Km. (3 bis 4 Meilen), an der schmälsten Stelle eine halbe bis zwei Drittel Meile breit. Die im Bosporus, im Meer und durch die Dardanellen eine doppelte Wasserströmung, eine obere vom Marmara Meer und eine untere vom Ägäischen Meer her.

Allmählich wird es ihnen klar

Aus den nun eintreffenden europäischen Zeitungen erkennt man, wie lebhaft englische Blätter sich mit der Monopolisierung des Brod- und Wehlerfaufs durch die deutsche Regierung und der Einschränkung des Brodkonsums für den einzelnen beschäftigen. Im allgemeinen wird offen zugegeben, daß durch diese Maßnahmen des deutschen Staates die Gefahr einer Hungersnot für die unteren Schichten der Bevölkerung zu vermeiden angehen werden muß. So schreibt die „Times“:

„Diese durchgreifende Maßregel des Bundesrats wird zwar von den einzelnen als sehr drückend (?) empfunden werden, wird aber nach allem, was wir bisher von den Zeitungen gehört haben, die Gesamtsumme nicht in einer Weise beeinträchtigen, daß irgendeine föhrlbare Bedrohung zu vermerken sein wird.“

Auch andere Blätter geben zu, daß der Plan, Deutschland auszunütern seinerlei Ansicht auf Erfolg hat und folgende andere Mittel zur Erreichung dieses Zweckes vor. Sie fordern die englische Regierung auf, sich ihrerseits ihre Taktik zu ändern und angesichts der Verhältnisse der Vorräte Deutschlands von nun ab alle Getreidebeständen in jedem Falle als Kriegstrenterhande anzusehen, auch wenn sie nach neutralen Werten bestimmt sind. Der „Globe“ schreibt:

Die Einschränkung von Waifen an unsere Feinde müssen wir aber unter allen Umständen verhindern. Wir können nur wiederholt darauf hinwirken, daß von nun ab alle Schiffe, die Getreide nach neutralen Häfen bringen, dies auf ihre eigene Gefahr tun.“

WISCONSIN NEWS BRIEFS

Madison.—Two university students, Philip K. Robinson of Green Bay and Miltonmore Brush of Green-wood, O., decided to indulge in a game of marbles on a downtown street. Asked to move along, the students commenced an argument, it is said, which resulted in the arrest of Brush. Arraigned in Municipal court, on a charge of disorderly conduct, Brush pleaded not guilty, but was fined $5. He has appealed to the Circuit court. Brush and Robinson are seniors.

MOTHER! LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE

If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs"

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation, poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness. Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Adv.

THE PROFESSOR'S STATEMENT.

Prof. Aug. F. W. Schmitz, Thomas, Okla., writes: "I was troubled with Backache for about twenty-five years. When told I had Bright's Disease in its last stages, I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. After using two boxes I was somewhat relieved and I stopped the treatment. In the spring of the next year I had another attack. I went for Dodd's Kidney Pills and they relieved me again. I used three boxes. That is now three years ago and my Backache has not returned in its severity, and by using another two boxes a little later on, the pain left altogether and I have had no trouble since. You must use my statement. I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills when and wherever I can." Dodd's Kidney Pills, 50c. per box at your dealer or Dodd's Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

Diogenes was searching the streets of Athens for the honest man, when suddenly the spirit of Ananias sidled up to him and whispered: "Diogenes, I am a man!"

Submerged Timber.

The strength of a hemlock stick a foot square that had been in water for almost forty years was recently tested in the 600,000-pound testing machine at Researcher Polytechnic Institute at Troy, in New York. The timber, which was 16 feet 9 inches long, had formed part of one of the piers of the Congress street bridge at Troy. When the pier broke down after the flood in the spring of 1913, the timber was turned over to one of the material-testing laboratories of the institute. It was kept in the open air for three months, and then placed in a dry room for a little more than nine months. When placed in the testing machine, the column failed under a load of 354,000 pounds; that is, the long-submerged wood showed an ultimate strength of 2,670 pounds to the square inch. In the opinion of Prof. T. R. Lawson, who conducted the test, the remarkable strength of this piece of hemlock seems to show that being immersed in water for a long time does not decrease the column strength of timber that is subsequently permitted to dry out.—Youth's Companion.

CHILDREN SHOWED IT Effect of Their Warm Drink in the Morning.

"A year ago I was a wreck from coffee drinking and was on the point of giving up my position in the school room because of nervousness. "I was telling a friend about it and she said, 'We drink nothing at meal time but Postum, and it is such a comfort to have something we can enjoy drinking with the children.' "I was astonished that she would allow the children to drink any kind of coffee, but she said Postum was not coffee, but a most healthful drink for children as well as for older ones, and that the condition of both the children and adults showed that to be a fact. "I was in despair and determined to give Postum a trial, following the directions carefully. It was a decided success and I was completely won by its rich delicious flavor. "In a short time I noticed a decided improvement in my condition and kept growing better month after month, until now I am healthy, and do my work in the school room with ease and pleasure. I would not return to nerve-destroying coffee for any money." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages. Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins. Both kinds are equally delicious and cost per cup about the same. "There's a Reason" For Postum. —Sold by Grocers.

PARROT & CO HAROLD MACGRATH Author of The Carpet from Bagdad, The Place of Honeymoons, etc.

Warrington, an American adventurer, and James, his servant, with a caged parrot, the trio known up and down the Parrot Club as Parrot & Co., are bound for Hongkong to cash a draft for 300,000 rupees. Elsa Chetwood, rich American girl tourist, sees Warrington and asks the parrot to introduce her. He tells her that Warrington has beaten a syndicate and sold his claim for $20,000. Warrington puts Rajah, the parrot, through his tricks for Elsa and they pass two golden days together on the river. Martha, Elsa's companion, warns her that there is gossip in Hongkong. Warrington banks his draft, pays old debts, and overhears and interferes in a row over cards, finds that the row is caused by an enemy, Newell Craig, and threatens to shoot him unless he leaves town. Elsa is annoyed by Craig and stabs him with a hatpin. Warrington bids Elsa good-by. Warrington discovers Elsa on the Singapore steamer and realizes his hopeless love and his duty to protect her against himself. Elsa tells him of her engagement. He avoids Elsa who thinks he may be ill and makes inquiries regardless of the misinterpretation of her concern. Craig is aboard.

CHAPTER VIII—Continued. Warrington turned his dull eyes upon his ancient enemy. "So it's you? I understood you were on board. Well?" uncompromisingly. "I've been looking for you. Bygones are bygones, and what's done can't be undone by punching a fellow's head. I'm not looking for trouble." "I went on Craig, gaining assurance. "I am practically down and out myself. What stand are you going to take on board here? That's all I want to know." "It would give me great pleasure, Craig, to take you by the scruff of your neck and drop you overboard. But as you say, what's been done can't be remedied by bashing in a man's head. Well, here you are, since you ask. If you speak to me, if I catch you playing cards or auctioneering a pool, if you make yourself obnoxious to any of the passengers, I promise to give you the finest thrashing you ever had, the moment we reach Penang. If you don't go ashore there, I'll do it in Singapore. Have I made myself clear?" "That's square enough, Paul," said the gambler resignedly. There wasn't much money on board these twenty-four boats, anyhow, so he wasn't losing much. Warrington leaned forward. "Paul? You said Paul?" "Why, yes," wonderingly. "Better go." "All right," Craig returned to his mattress. "Now, what made him curl up like that because I called him Paul? Bah!" He dug a hole in his pillow and tried to sleep. "Paul!" murmured Warrington. "He stared down at the flashes of phosphorescence, blindly. The man had called him Paul. After ten years to learn the damnable treachery of it suddenly he clenched his hand and struck the rail. He would go back. All his loyalty, all his chivalry, had gone for naught. This low rascal had called him Paul.

CHAPTER IX. Two Short Weeks. When Elsa stepped out of the companionway the next morning she winced and shut her eyes. The whole arc of heaven seemed hung with fireballs, east, west, north and south, whichever way she looked, there was dazzling iridescence. What a wonderful world! What a versatile mistress was nature! Never two days alike, never two human beings; animate and inanimate, all things were singular. She paused at the rail and watched the thread of frothing water that clutched furtively at the red water-line. Never two living things alike, in all the millions and millions swarming the globe. What a marvel! Even though this man Warrington and Arthur looked alike, they were not so. In heart and mind they were as different as two days. She began her usual walk, and in passing the sanatorium door on the port side she met Warrington coming out. How deep-set his eyes were! He was about to go on, but she looked straight into his eyes, and he stopped. She laughed and held out her hand. "I really believe you were going to snub me." "Then you haven't given me up?" "Never mind what I have or have not done. Walk with me. I am going to talk plainly to you. If what I say is distasteful, don't hesitate to interrupt me. You interest me, partly because you act like a boy, partly because you are a man." "I haven't any manners." "They need shaking up and reading-justing. I have just been musing over a remarkable thing, that no two objects are alike. Even the most accurate machinery cannot produce two nails without variation. So it is with humans. You look so like the man I know back home that it is impossible not to ponder over you." She smiled into his face. "Why should nature produce two persons who are mistaken for each other, and yet give them two souls, two intellects, totally different? Is nature experimenting, or is she slyly playing a trick on humanity?" "Let us call it a trick; by all means, let us call it that." "Your tone." "Yes, yes," impatiently; "you are going to say that it sounds bitter. But why should another man have a face like mine, when we have nothing in common? What right has he to look like me?" "It is a puzzle," Elsa admitted. "This man who looks like me—I have no doubt it affects you oddly—probably lives in ease; in fact, a gentleman of your own class, whose likes and dislikes are cut from the same pattern as your own. Well, that is as it should be. A woman such as you are ought to marry an equal, a man whose mind and manners are fitted to the high place he holds in your affection and in your world. How many worlds there are; man-made and heaven-made, and each as deadly as the other, as cold and implacable! To you, who have been kind to me, I have acted like a fool. The truth is, I've been skulking. My vanity was hurt. I had the idea that it was myself and not my resemblance that appealed to your interest. What makes you trust me?" bluntly; and he stopped as he asked the question. "Why, I don't know," blankly. Instantly she recovered herself. "But I do trust you." She walked on, and her face fell into her stride. "It is because you trust the other man." "Thanks. That is it precisely; and for nearly two weeks I've been trying to solve that very thing."

After a pause he asked: "Have you ever read Reader's 'Singleheart and Doubleface'?" "Yes. But what bearing has it upon our discussion?" "None that you would understand," eagerly. His tongue had nearly tripped him. "Are you sure?" "Of this, that I shall never understand women."

"Do not try to," she advised. "All these men who knew most about women were the unappreciated." They made a round in silence. Many an eye peered at them; and envy and admiration and curiosity brought their shafts to bear upon her. It was something to create these variant expressions of interest. She was oblivious. "We stop at Penang?" she asked. "Five or six hours, long enough to see the town."

"We went directly from Singapore to Colombo, so we missed the town coming out. I should like to see that cocoanut plantation of yours."

"It is too far inland. Besides, I am persona non grata there." As, in-turned his dull eyes upon his ancient enemy.

deed, he was. His heart burned with shame and rage at the recollection of the last day there. Three or four times, during the decade, the misfortune of being found out had fallen to his lot, and always when he was employed at something worth while.

Elsa discreetly veered into another channel. "You will go back to Italy, I suppose."

"Yes, I shall go to Italy once more. But first I am going home." He was not aware of the grimace that entered his voice as he made this statement.

"I am glad," she said. "After all, that is the one place."

"If you are happy enough to find a welcome."

"And you will see your mother again?"

He winced. "Yes. Do you know, it does not seem possible that I met you but two short weeks ago? I have never given much thought to this so-called reincarnation; but somewhere in the past ages I knew you; only you weren't going home to marry the other fellow."

She stopped at the rail. "Who knows?" she replied ruminatingly. "Perhaps I am not going to marry him."

"Don't you love him?" "I beg your pardon, Miss Chetwood!" "You're excused."

"I still need some training. I have been alone so much that I haven't got over the trick of speaking my thoughts aloud."

When Warrington found Craig the man was helplessly intoxicated. He lay sprawled upon his mattress, and the kick administered did not stir him. Warrington looked down at the sodden wretch moodily. Craig's intoxication was fortunate for him, otherwise he would have been roughly handled; for there was black murder in the heart of the broken man standing above him. Warrington relaxed his clenched hands. This breathing thing at his feet was the primal cause of it all, he and a man's damnable weakness. Of what use his "God bless you for that!" She liked him because there was lack in his words and tones that element of flattery so distasteful to her. "Would you like to sit next to me at the table?" "May I?" eagerly. "I'll have Martha change her chair for yours. Do you speak Italian?" "Enough for ordinary conversation. It is a long time since I have spoken that tongue."

"Then, let us talk it as much as possible at the table, if only to annoy those around us." Craig had been eyeing the two, evilly. Set the wind in that direction? An idea found soil in his mind, and grew. He would put a kink, as he vulgarly expressed it, into that affair. He himself wasn't good enough for her. The little cat should see Warrington's ultimatum of the night before burned and rankled, and a man of Craig's caliber never accepted the inevitable without meditating revenge, revenge of a roundabout character, such as would insure his physical safety. There was nothing loyal or generous or worthy in the man. There is something admirable in a great race; but a sordid one is a pitiful thing. Craig entered the smokeroom and ordered a peg. At luncheon he saw them sitting together, and he smothered a grin. Couldn't play cards, or engineer a pool, eh? All right. There were other amusements.

That afternoon Martha chanced to sit down in a vacant chair, just out of the range of the cricketers. She looked back and idly watched the batsmen. And then she heard voices. "She is Elsa Chetwood. I remember seeing her pictures. She is a society girl, very wealthy, but something of a snob."

Martha's ears tingled. A snob, indeed, because she minded principally her own affairs!

"They think because they belong to the exclusive sets they can break as many laws of convention as they please. Well, they can't. There's always some scandal in the papers about them. There was some rumor of her being engaged to the duke of What-a-his-name; but it fell through because she wouldn't settle a fortune on him. Only sensible thing she ever did, probably."

"And did you notice who sat next to her at luncheon?" "A gentleman with a past, Mr. Craig tells me."

"I dare say Miss Chetwood has a past, too, if one but knew. To travel alone like this!"

Busybodies! Martha rose indignantly and returned to the other side of the deck. She had lived too long with Elsa not to have learned self-repression, and that the victory is always with those who stoop not to answer. Nevertheless, she was alarmed. Elsa must be warned.

All Elsa said was: "My dear Martha, in a few days they and their little-tatt will pass out of my existence, admitting that they have ever entered it. I repeat, my life is all my own, and that I am concerned only with those whom I wish to retain as my friends. Gossip is the shibboleth of the mediocre, and, thank heaven, I am not mediocre."

While dressing for dinner Elsa discovered a note on the floor of her cabin. The writing was unfamiliar. She opened it and sought first the signature. Slowly her cheeks reddened, and her lips twisted in disdain. She did not read the note, but the natural keenness of her eye caught the name of Warrington. She tore out the letter to scrape which he teased the man was! He had had the effrontery to sign his name. He must be punished.

It was as late as ten o'clock when she and Warrington went up to the bow and gazed down the cut-water. Never had she seen anything so weirdly beautiful as the ribbons of phosphorescence which fell away on each side, luminously blue and flaked with dancing starlike particles, through which, ever and anon, flying-fish, dripping with the fire, spun outward like tongues of flame.

"Often, when I was stoking, during an hour or so of relief, I used to steal up here and look down at the mystery, for it will ever be a mystery to me and I found comfort."

"Are you religious, too?" "In one thing, that God demands that every man shall have faith in himself."

How deep his voice was as compared to Arthur. Arthur, Elsa frowned at the rippling magic. Why was she invariably comparing the two men? What significance did it have upon the future, since, at the present moment, it was not understandable?

"There is a man on board by the name of Craig," she said. "I advise you to beware of him."

"Who introduced him to you?" "The anger in his voice was very agreeable to her ears. "Who dared to?"

"No one. He introduced himself on the way up to Mandalay. In Hongkong I closed the acquaintance, such as it was, with the aid of a hat pin."

"A hat pin! What did he say to you?" "Nothing that I care to repeat."

"Stop! I am perfectly able to take care of myself. I do not need any valiant champion."

"He has spoken to you about me?" "A letter. I saw only his name and yours. I tore it up and threw it overboard. Let us go back. Somehow, everything seems spoiled. I am sorry I spoke."

"I shall see that he does not bother you again," ominously. They returned to the promenade deck in silence.

DAIRY FACTS

DEVELOPMENT OF THE UDDER

Great Deal Can Be Done to Correct Faulty Udder by Method of Milking—Some Good Ideas.

When it comes to the showing a great deal depends upon the symmetry of the udder and its general development. For simple raising also a cow with a well-balanced udder is better liked than one with an udder large behind and small in front. With a fault like this a great deal can often be done by the method of milking.

The quickest and best way to develop the fore part of the udder seems to be by keeping on milking the two front teats longer than the hind teats when the cow is being dried. The development of a quarter largely depends upon the amount it is used, and when the hind teats are not used, the rear part of the udder naturally shrinks in size, while the front quarters, being used, retain their size and a better balance is made between front and rear. This is done very naturally at the end of the lactation period and by milking two weeks longer in front than behind quite a change can be made in the shape of the udder when the cow freshens again.

In ordinary times the fore part of the udder can be developed somewhat by milking the front teats out about half, then milking out the hind teats entirely and returning to the front teats again to finish milking, but the most effective method for developing the front of the udder to give it a better balance with the hind part is to keep milking the front teats about ten days or two weeks after stopping milking the rear teats.

KEEPING UP THE MILK YIELD

Almost Impossible to Bring Cow Back to Her Normal Flow After It Has Once Declined.

Butterfat is scarce. The price is high, and is going higher. It will pay to produce more butterfat, but it cannot be done by feeding the cows full grass, cornstalks and timothy hay, writes F. M. Bradford in an exchange. It is important that the milk yield never be allowed to decline. It is almost impossible to bring a cow back to her normal flow after it has been permitted to decline.

It is important that fall feeding be commenced now before the milk flow is cut down by short grass and scant feed. Those who are fortunate enough to own a silo should give each cow about twenty-five pounds of silage a day. Every cow should have all the clover, alfalfa or cowpea hay she will clean up. This amount will be about ten pounds a day if the silage is fed. If silage is not fed, more hay should be given. It is well to remember that cowpea hay is one of the cheapest of dairy feeds.

Cows giving over a gallon of milk a day should be fed grain. A good grain mixture is corn chop mixed with bran or cotton-seed meal. Corn and cob meal may be substituted for the chop. A pound of this mixture should be given each day for every three pounds of milk produced.

The best of cows will not produce milk unless fed liberally on the right kind of food.

FEED NECESSARY FOR COWS

Lack of Sufficient Nutritious Food Often the Cause of Shrinkage in the Cow's Milk Flow.

By T. L. HAECKER, Minnesota Experiment Station.

It sometimes happens that farmers are in possession of extra good cows, but not realizing the amount of feed required by cows giving a large yield, they are soon allowed to shrink in milk because the feed given does not provide sufficient nutriment. While cows in good condition can, for a time, give more milk than the feed provides, by drawing upon the fat stored in the body, yet if the cows lose in body weight, there will soon follow an abnormal shrinkage in milk flow, and also a decrease in the quality of milk yielded.

Keep Cream Cool. Keep the cream cool. It should be near 50 degrees F. as possible, if it is desirable to keep it sweet and check bacteria action.

Keeping the Cow Busy. Don't expect a cow to put in all her time feeding. Give her credit for working when she is chewing her cud.

Dampness Breeds Disease. Allowing dampness in poultry buildings is one way of squandering a needlessly amount of bird energy. Fowls naturally breathe at a rapid rate, and damp air causes them to breathe still faster with a consequent utilization of energy that might better be expended in production of eggs or meat.

Cow in Perfect Condition. Nourish the cow by supplying all the food necessary to repair the waste of her system and keep her in perfect condition.

KITCHENER A HARD DRIVER

Head of British Military Organization Believes in Making Subordinates Work.

Among the most interesting of the many stories told of Kitchener is the following: It happened that during his Egyptian command he wanted a certain bridge to be built, and sent for an engineer to give him the orders. When the command was finished, he added: "I will inspect the bridge on — naming a certain date. The engineer expressed his doubt whether the bridge could possibly be finished in so short a time. He was told that on the day Kitchener would come to the spot, and if the bridge was not finished there would be trouble. There the interview ended.

The engineer set off on his labor of Hercules. He was young, devoted and ambitious. He worked by night and by day, did incredible things, and at the moment when Kitchener arrived had everything ready for the inspection.

His eyes shining with pleasure, his face wet with perspiration, his hands still grimed with the anxious work of last touches, he advanced to Kitchener, saluted and said, with a smile: "Well, sir, we've just managed to do it in time." The only answer he received, the dreadful eyes fixed upon him, the voice cold with authority, was this: "Yes, but you ought not to appear before me unshaved."

ORDER MOST HIGHLY PRIZED

Grand Cross of Maria Theresa is Bestowed Rarely and Only for the Greatest Services.

The grand cross of the Order of Maria Theresa is today the most exclusive and perhaps the most brilliant of surviving orders. It was founded by the great empress of that name in 1757, in honor of the victory of her troops over Frederick the Great at Kolin. Its members are elected by ballot on the part of the chapter, the sovereign having no voice in the matter unless he happens to possess the order, although he is the instrument of its bestowal and the signer of the patent. In the past hundred years only 58 members had been thus admitted to the order, and at the beginning of 1914 there were but three knights left, all of the third and lowest class. One was the Emperor Francis Joseph, who won the cross in 1848, on the battlefield of Santa Lucia, against the Italians. The second was the duke of Cumberland, father of the sovereign duke of Brunswick, who received the cross of gallantry at the battle of Langensalza, where, as crown prince of Hanover, he helped his father, the blind King George, to direct the operations of his troops. The third was Prince Alphonse de Bourbon, claimant to the throne of the two Sicilies, and popularly known as the count of Caserta. He won his cross by the part he played in the superb defense of Gaeta, the last stronghold of the Bourbons.

The Shot That Missed.

In controversy it is better to be intellectually honest than to be consistent.

In an ecclesiastical discussion that occurred at one of the general assemblies of the Presbyterian church in the United States Doctor Krebs was pressing his antagonist, Doctor Breckinridge, hard with his authorities, and at last, as the New York Times relates, came down on him with this: "And now I will proceed to quote Breckinridge against Breckinridge."

Without rising from his seat, Doctor Breckinridge instantly retorted, "And you could not possibly cite an authority that would have less weight with me!"

KIDNEYS CLOG UP FROM EATING TOO MUCH MEAT

Take Tablespoonful of Salts If Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers—Meat Forms Uric Acid.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.—Adv.

It Pays to Pray, and Advertise. "Do you believe in the efficacy of prayer?" asked the new minister.

"You bet!" triumphantly replied Sam Stinger, the enterprising real estate dealer. "Why, at the prayer meeting last Thursday night, I prayed loud and long for blessings on our progressive little city, incidentally mentioning a few of the advantages it possesses for profitable investments, and next morning I sold four lots in my new Sky High addition to a stranger who had happened to drop in at the services!" —Kansas City Star.

Green Bay.—The body of the Rev. Joseph J. Fox, bishop of the Catholic diocese of Green Bay, who died at the Alexian Brothers' hospital in Chicago was brought here for burial.

The bishop's death was unexpected. Some days ago he was operated on for tumor. He was reported as slowly improving, but he grew suddenly weaker and the end came.

Bishop Fox was born at Green Bay Aug. 2, 1855. He got his elementary education at the Green Bay Cathedral school. He took his degrees in philosophy and theology at the American College and University of Louvain, Belgium, destroyed in the German bombardment of that historic city. Until six weeks ago Mr. Spohrleider had been his wife's only attendant through her long illness, and when he was taken ill their only living child of a family of six, Mrs. August Ehrling, came to this city to care for them.

While confined to their beds they prayed together that their deaths might come together, that they might never be separated by death. Their golden wedding anniversary was spent in bed.

They were born in Germany, played together and attended the same school classes and soon after marriage came to Wisconsin, settling in Sheboygan county. They leave besides Mrs. August Ehrling, nine grandchildren and eleven great-grandchildren.

One-Hundred-Dollar Tree. The government has received $99.40 in payment for a single sugar pine tree that a trespasser cut in the Stanton National Forest in California. It yielded more than enough actual lumber for a good-sized house, or for a two-foot board walk nearly two miles long. The tree scaled 18,933 board feet, and was valued at $5.25 a thousand feet. Officers of the forest service believe that although national forest timber is frequently sold at a higher rate a foot, no other tree ever felled in a national forest has been worth so much.—Youth's Companion.

THE PROSPECTOR IS EAGER TO DO THE GOOD JUDGE A FAVOR TOO

ONE good turn deserves another, and it is no small service to have put a man next to a good thing like the Real Tobacco Chew.

But chewers are a big hearted lot—glad to pass the good word along.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—cut fine, short shred—seasoned and sweetened just enough, cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is the Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and sucrose. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste to "Right-Cut."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

Electric Fire Hazards

Our records show a fire loss of $349,000 for the last fiscal year, due to defective work. Electricity is the best and safest light when properly installed, and there is no excuse for this great loss. It is due to ignorance or carelessness of the workman and often to wilful "skinning" of the job. Proper regulation and supervision would remedy this.

The state insists that a barber must be examined and qualified to ply his trade, although we could easily avoid a poor barber or an unclean shop. The state provides no qualification for the electrician and thus unfortunately permits any one to introduce all sorts of electrical fire hazards into buildings to cause much property loss and often loss of life. The average layman is at the mercy of these so-called electricians as he does not understand electrical work and cannot guard against its great dangers.

In this bulletin we aim to give a few instructions for the guidance of all.

MATERIALS. Be sure that approved fixtures, appliances and approved rubber covered wires are used, and that the insulation on your wiring is perfect at all times.

ENTRANCE. Petticoat insulators of glass and drip loops should be provided on the outside at the point of entrance, and the wires should enter through porcelain tubes, slanting upward or through conduit. We recommend the latter.

SERVICE CUTOUT AND SWITCH. Inside, at an accessible point near where the wires enter, an approved service cut-out and switch, in metal cabinet, should be installed.

FUSES. The service cut-outs and all branch circuits should be properly fused. The fuse is the "safety valve" of the entire system. Fuses should never be installed or replaced except by competent men.

WIRE FASTENINGS. In concealed work such as attics and partitions the wires should be stretched tight and fastened to porcelain knobs every 4 1/2 feet and there should be a distance of 1 to 10 inches between the wires. In open work, as on ceilings and walls, porcelain cleats may be used every 4 1/2 feet. Where wires are fished down through partitions, in old buildings, a continuous piece of loom should be used from the last porcelain fastening down and through the wall to the switch or side-light.

BUSHINGS. Where wires pass through walls, partitions, floors or timbers, they should run through separate porcelain tubes, extending clear through, unless in conduit. When wires cross pipes, moldings or other wires or objects, porcelain tubes or loom should be used to keep wires from contact.

CONDUIT. Where wires are exposed to injury and in damp places, such as basements, it is best to use conduit.

JOINTS. All joints should be soldered and properly taped.

SOME DON'T'S. Do not tamper with electric wires and apparatus unless you are an electrician, nor allow your employees to interfere with them.

Do not carry lamp cords around your premises, unless they are the reinforced kind and the globes are protected with a wire basket guard.

Do not hang lamp cords on nails, hooks, pipes, gas fixtures, shafting, machines or other conductors or fasten cords or wires with staples, nails or wood cleats.

Do not attach paper, cloth or other inflammable materials to wires, cords, lamps or sockets.

Do not put stock, boxes, barrels or other articles on or against wires or lamps.

Do not change the wiring or attach electrical devices yourself. Get a competent and reliable electrician.

Immigration and Disease

Immigration is one of the most important problems which confront the American people. While the country needs strong men and women in its development, we are securing too large a proportion of the other kind. The inspection at our ports of entry is too rapid to permit of as thorough an examination for disease, mental defects and degeneracy as is desirable. Intelligent admission or exclusion is of far-reaching importance, inasmuch as it is now a well established fact that today's mental degeneracy must affect the sanity and stability of future generations.

According to the report of the United States Immigration Commission, "there are in the United States many thousands of insane or feeble minded persons of foreign birth." President Wilson has disapproved of the proposal to make the ability to read one of the tests of fitness of the immigrant.

The investigations of the above commission have shown that literacy is no guarantee against insanity or mental degeneracy. On the contrary, the report says, "In general, the nationalities furthest advanced in civilization show, in the United States, a higher proportion of insane than do the more backward races."

FREE OFFER.
The United States Public Service has just issued an 18 page pamphlet on "Scarlet Fever, Its Prevention and Control," which ought to be thoroughly read and circulated by every parent, health officer, school superintendent, teacher and librarian in the state. This publication is sent free upon request to the above named department. Washington, D. C., until the allotted number of free copies is distributed, after which time a charge of but five cents per copy is made.

Were the information set forth in this splendid booklet understood, and the teaching religiously followed, hundreds of children, now doomed to die of this disease would be saved.

School boards, and other public officials can effect a great saving of the taxpayers' money by substituting such easily acquired knowledge for existing and very costly ignorance. Invest a postcard and a few minutes of time now and let Uncle Sam do the rest.

Avoid Frozen Silage by Building in Mow

When the barn was built on the branch station farm at Ashland Junction, the weather man was foiled by building the stave silo in one end of the mow where, while out of the way, it still could be surrounded by hay, straw, or other roughage. The result is that in spite of the fact that there was a spell of "way below zero" weather none of the silage was frozen.

You Corn Growers Can Have Perfect Seed Beds Now

Every time you leave a bad spot in the seed bed—every time your ordinary harrow jumps and skips, leaving hard chunks and a rough surface—you lose corn, so of course you lose money.

There's one way to have a perfect seed bed and that is in the use of the JAMES Flexible Harrow—because it absolutely adapts itself to all known ground. One tooth-bar may be in a hollow, the others on a ridge, but they will all be working.

While one bar strikes a stone, it leaves the ground just long enough to get over and enters the ground again as soon as it passes. While the one bar is clearing the obstruction, the others are doing their work.

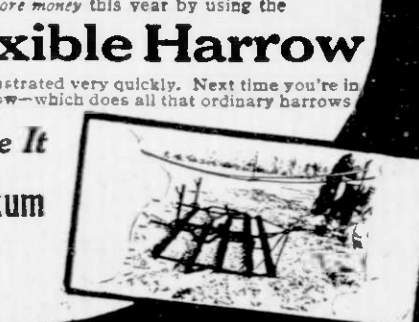

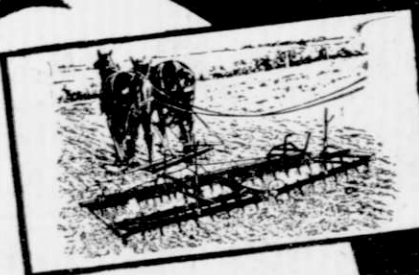

Flexibility of the JAMES Harrow makes it the greatest harrow in the world for dragging young corn. Each tooth bar, operating by itself, loosens up the top crust and destroys weeds around young corn, leaving no untouched patches. Teeth are slanted so they will pass over corn without hurting it.

Position of teeth controlled by convenient lever—slant of teeth quickly adjusted to suit requirements, either when using harrow rigid or flexible. Teeth cannot track, even on a side-hill. One, two or three tooth-bars raised at the same time to clear trash—and this is done while harrow is in motion. You will save time and labor and make more money this year by using the

JAMES Flexible Harrow

Many superior points can be demonstrated very quickly. Next time you're in town, be sure to see this great harrow—which does all that ordinary harrows ought to do but won't.
