SANATORIA CO-OPERATE TO FILL VACANT BEDS

Increased Accommodations Make It Possible For Some County Institutions to Admit More Tuberculosis Cases

In order that beds at one county sanatorium for tuberculosis shall not be permitted to remain vacant while the sanatoria in other counties of the state find it impossible to meet the demands of a long waiting list, the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association has volunteered to serve as a central bureau of information through which doctors, nurses and patients can learn of existing vacancies. Sanatorium superintendents who feel that no bed should be allowed to remain vacant while scores of patients are begging for institutional treatment, have welcomed the state association's plan heartily and are cooperating by sending weekly reports to the Milwaukee office.

Brown county, for instance has recently increased the accommodations at its sanatorium by the equipment of two large porches. Eau Claire county is building an addition which will increase the capacity of the sanatorium from thirty-two to fifty patients. In addition, the demand for beds is always greater in summer than in the fall or winter. Racine county, for instance, always has a waiting list during the winter months but now has one or two beds vacant.

"The principal reason why there are no beds available at some of the institutions is to be found in the fact that in the past the waiting list has been so long that doctors and nurses have become discouraged in their attempt to get patients into a sanatorium," said Dr. H. E. Dearholt. "When they find the institution in their own county full, they overlook the fact that the state law makes it possible for patients to be sent to other counties. Milwaukee, for instance, has a long waiting list at its sanatorium and receives many applications from other parts of the state. A few of these cases might be cared for in institutions which now have vacant beds. The Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association will be glad at any time to furnish information regarding existing vacancies."

Man Without Hands Drives Auto

An automobile driven about the streets of Juneau last week Tuesday by a man without hands attracted due attention. The driver, a man from Milwaukee, was very much handicapped in running the machine through the loss of his hands.

He had no trouble in making turns and frequently drove through the most crowded business districts of Milwaukee. During a conversation with the general manager of the Milwaukee Automobile Sales and Service Co., Mr. Smite stated that he had never used a self starter, and then demonstrated how easy it is to crank a machine with the foot. His arms are cut off just above the wrist, but he is very proficient in their use. By holding a peg between the extremities of the two arms he can write, you name in a very fine hand, such as would do credit to a professional card writer.—Juneau Independent.

CANDIDATE FOR POSTMASTER AT FOND DU LAC

Louis A. Lange, Owner and Editor of The Fond du Lac Reporter, Should Be Postmaster at Fond du Lac

Who is Fond du Lac's choice for the next postmaster? This question should be unanimously answered by voting Louis A. Lange, owner and editor of the Fond du Lac Reporter. He should be endorsed by every citizen of his city. Mr. Lange is deserving this appointment. He always has been a life long Democrat and a staunch supporter of his party. His work as a Democrat the past year has been marvelous and alone should carry enough influence to secure the appointment. Congressman Reilly should and ought to make the recommendation.

A Quiet Wedding

Last Saturday, Aug. 21, 1915, at about three o'clock p. m., Miss Jennie Schneider of here was quietly married to Mr. Henry Benke of the town of Barton at the Rev. Pastor Reiss by Rev. Mohme. The young couple were attended by Miss Esther Benke, a sister of the groom, and Mr. Walter Schneider, a brother of the bride. The bride wore a beautiful gown American made. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Aug. Falk, with only near relatives in attendance. The happy couple left on the evening train for Eau Claire, Wis., where they will visit with relatives.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. Henry Schneider, a former resident of this village and who is at present making his home with Aug. Falk and family. She is an accomplished young lady with a very amiable and cheerful disposition, which have won for her many friends. She graduated from the local high school with a class of 1914 in the year 1910, and since graduating has taught school every year up to now. The groom is an industrious young farmer of the town of Barton and in the community high standing in the community.

The young couple will be at home to their many friends on the groom's farm in the town of Barton after their return from their honeymoon trip and will be wished many years of happy married life, in which sentiment the Statesman heartily concurs.

This is the Redriver Special grain separator and the chassis beyond a separate engine of Battle Creek, Mich.

Signs of Prosperity

This farm crops are not a failure this year is clearly shown by some of the reports received at this office. Mr. Math Thilla farmer residing near Elmore, this week sold a crop of seed to the amount of $500. This valuable seed was raised on three acres of land and was purchased by L. Rosenheimer, who claims it to be the finest specimen of seed of any year. Another report is of Wm. Stagg, a farmer residing in this village, as having a specimen of oats that measured nearly six feet high and with fairly filled kernels. The corn crop which early in the season looked very scant is reported making rapid headway and if frost does not visit this part of the country too early it may prove better than at first expected.

Postmaster General Burleson authorized the issue of an eleven cent postage stamp for parcel post demand. The new stamp is dark green and bears the profile head of Benjamin Franklin, signed to meet the demand for one stamp to cover insurance and C. O. D. charges on parcel post matter. In addition all parcels for local delivery weighing 11 cents or thirteen pounds carry 11 cents postage, as do parcels weighing seven pounds in the first and second zones.

According to the government crop report issued Monday, Aug. 9, North Dakota will this year produce 116,000,000 bushels of spring wheat and this is the largest production of this product by any state in the history of the country. The oat crop is estimated at 50,000,000.

WHITE CIRCLE TO PASS THROUGH CITY

Secretary of Wisconsin Advancement Association Projects New Route Through Here

A. D. Campbell, agent for the Wisconsin Advancement Association, was in the city today for the purpose of having the Business Men's association mark the White Circle route from Fond du Lac north along the east shore of the lake. The route starts at Beloit and goes to Janesville and Milwaukee and up to this city via West Bend. From Fond du Lac it passes on the Military road to Neenah, Appleton, Shawano, Waubesa, Medford, Phillips, Oshkosh, Wausau, Bayfield and ultimately Superior.

Mr. Campbell has traveled 10,000 miles by auto since last October and he has arrived at the conclusion that the route is the best in the country, not the exception. He said that the White Circle route is marked with a circle flat upon two sides of the telephone posts, so that they show to the approaching vehicles. The last post at a crossing and almost the first post at the other side of the crossing are always marked, with the turns indicated with the letter "R" or "L", as the case may be.

At the present time there are about fifteen or twenty blaze auto routes in Wisconsin. The Wisconsin Advancement Association is to issue a map in a short time showing the different routes. The maps will be furnished to inquirers free. Mr. Campbell says 4,000 miles of highway is marked in the state at the present time. He declared that the number of non-resident autos in the state this year is from three to five times as many as there were a year ago.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

MEET WITH BAD AUTO ACCIDENT

Automobile of Eli Landvatter of Farmington Collides With a Cow Encountered on The Road

While out motoring last Monday afternoon on the road near Allenton Busch farmer residing about four miles southeast of the village, Eli Landvatter of Farmington ran into a cow encountered on the road. The car was going down hill and struck the cow while trying to pass across the road in front of the auto. The force of the collision was so great that the auto turned turtle twice and landed at the side of a high embankment.

The occupants of the auto landed underneath the car but one was able to extricate himself and he rescued the others. No one was injured. Two wheels of the car were smashed and a few other parts damaged. The auto was repaired by Ed. Wollmer of the Loehen and Heindl garage of West Bend and the party again proceeded on their trip.

Teachers Institute Well Attended

The teacher's institute held at West Bend last week was attended by about seventy teachers from all parts of the county. The teachers were enthusiastic in the work done during the week and all realized that they were greatly benefited by the institute. They get infinitely more real good out of a weeks county institute than they do out of a term at a summer school in the larger cities, where work taken up is less suited to the county schools. Although summer schools will again become popular it is expected the attendance will be increased if another is held next summer.

Get Ready For The Fair

A week from next Monday is the opening day of the county fair. The officers have done their share to make it a success. The fair has been arranged with choice attractions, as band concerts, side shows, hawkers, the merry-go-round, etc., have all been secured. Wednesday's program will include a grand parade, stock parade, all the prize winning animals will be in the parade. Wednesday will also be childrens day and all children under twelve years will be admitted to the grounds free.

But the main attraction—if it is not improper or unloyal to use the expression in this connection—will probably be the visit of Governor E. L. Phillip on Tuesday, September 7. This day, they will be Governor's Day, something we have not had for half a human life. The Governor has promised to visit the fair on that day and the many thousand visitors will have a chance to see the head of our state government and exchange a friendly glance with him for a few words, for he is a modest and affable man. He will arouse so much more interest as he is a landholder and stock raiser of our county. He will find a hearty reception.

But do not forget the exhibitions and bring something if it is at all worth seeing. The more exhibits, the better for the Fair and for our standing as people that do things. Do not be afraid to bring it around. But by all means come yourself and bring the family.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

While in Fond du Lac on Monday where he attended the Barnum and Bailey circus, Otto Steiner of this village came near being relieved of his pocketbook by pickpocket while Mr. Steiner was boarding the evening passenger train three men began to crowd in ahead of him and began pushing. Mr. Steiner became suspicious of their actions and kept his "eagle eye" on the men. Just as Mr. Steiner stepped into the coach the trio again pulled off that "crowding" stunt and during this time one of these men reached into Steiner's pocket. The man did not get the purse, but Mr. Steiner got the man, and gave him a "shaking up" that he will not forget so soon. As there was no officer at the depot Mr. Steiner left the man go.—Lomira Review.

ITALY AT WAR WITH TURKEY

Declaration Handed to Porte by Ambassador—Failed to Free Italians.

Rome, Aug. 24.—Italy on Saturday declared war against Turkey. Official announcement to this effect was made here.

The grounds given for the declaration were Turkey's support of the revolt in Libya and the port's refusal to accede to the Italian demands that Italian residents of Syria be permitted to leave Turkey without restriction.

An ultimatum demanding that Turkey reverse her position on these two questions had been sent to the port. A time limit for an answer was set.

The time limit having expired on Saturday and no reply having been made by the Turkish government, the Italian ambassador to Constantinople, Marquis di Garroni, complied with previous instructions and presented to the port the Italian declaration of war. Simultaneously he asked for his passports. He left Constantinople Saturday night. The Turkish ambassador to Rome departed Sunday.

Dreadnaught Moltke, Three Cruisers and Seven Torpedo-Boat Destroyers Lost by Teutons.

London, Aug. 24.—A dispatch to the Central News on Sunday from Petrograd says: "The president of the duma has announced that the Germans lost the battleship Moltke, three cruisers and seven torpedo boats in the Riga battle."

The announcement of the president of the duma, as sent by the correspondent, follows: "In the Riga battle the Germans lost one superdreadnaught, the Moltke; three cruisers and seven torpedo boats."

The German fleet has withdrawn from Riga bay.

"The Germans tried to make a descent near Pernpin (Pernig), on the east shore of the Gulf of Riga, some thirty-five miles north of Riga."

"Four barges crammed with soldiers took part in the descent. They were repulsed by the Russian troop without the co-operation of artillery, the Germans being exterminated and the barges captured."

An official statement from the Petrograd war office also says the German fleet has left the Gulf of Riga.

"Our destroyers in the Black sea have sunk over a hundred Turkish boats," the statement adds.

8 DROWNED NEAR ST. LOUIS

Meramec River Sweeps 35-Mile Strip of Buildings—Thousands Flee—County Under Water.

St. Louis, Aug. 24.—Eight persons are reported to have lost their lives when the Meramec river, lined on both sides with pleasure resorts, club houses and summer cottages, went several miles out of its banks following a sudden rise, which started Sunday at the rate of a foot an hour.

Six persons are said to have been drowned at Valley Park and two at Meramec Highlands. The river is five feet higher than ever before in its history, and so rapidly did the flood come on that many persons were forced to climb into trees. A report that was not confirmed stated that every building on either side of the river for 35 miles had been swept away. The additional eight lost following the recent severe rainstorm to 22 in St. Louis county.

TWO AMERICANS LOST WHEN ARABIC WAS TORPEDOED

British Liner Sent to Bottom by Submarine.

16 U. S. CITIZENS RESCUED

Germans Fired Missile at Steamer Without Warning as She Was Seeking to Aid Another Which Had Been Hit.

London, Aug. 21.—The White Star line issued a statement on Friday night saying that 14 passengers of the Arabic, which was torpedoed on Thursday by a German submarine, were missing, and that it was feared they were lost.

Ambassador Page has sent a cablegram to the state department at Washington, saying that eight Americans are among the missing. They are: Mrs. Josephine L. Brugiere of New York.

Dr. Edmund F. Wood of Janesville, Wis.

TORPEDOED WHILE AT RESCUE.

All the information that is coming to London and which was allowed to become public confirms the fragmentary stories that the Arabic was torpedoed without warning. As a matter of fact she was sunk by a German submarine when proceeding to the aid of a Wilson liner which shortly before had been assailed by a German undersea boat. This vessel had been sinking by the submarine and was slowly sinking when the Arabic hoove in view.

The testimony of officers, crew and passengers is unanimous that no submarine was seen. The torpedo was sighted just before it struck the ship.

Survivors Drift Five Hours. The lifeboats, most of them, were not picked up for five hours. Captain Finch was the last man to leave the boat. He jumped as the vessel, which went down stern foremost, capsized. Wreckage kept him afloat until he was picked up by a boat. He said at Queenstown that if he had only a few minutes more time not a life would have been lost.

The survivors, some of whom were in their night clothes, suffered severely before they reached Queenstown. There was little panic among the passengers. A number of them were taking advantage of the beautiful weather to have breakfast on deck.

Captain Finch Tells Story. The first official statement from an officer of the boat came from Captain Finch.

"We were forty-seven miles south of Galleyhead at 9:30 in the morning," he said. "When I perceived the steamer Dunsley in difficulty. Going toward her I observed a torpedo coming for my ship, but could not discern a submarine. The torpedo struck 100 feet from the stern, making terrible havoc of the hull. The vessel began to settle immediately and sank in about eight minutes."

"My order from the bridge about getting the boats launched was promptly obeyed. Two boats capsized. We had taken every precaution while in the danger zone. There were plenty of life belts on deck and the boats were ready for immediate launching. The officers and crew behaved excellently and did everything possible in the circumstances, getting people into the boats and picking up those in the sea."

"I was the last to leave, taking the plunge into the sea as the ship was going down. After being in the water some time I got aboard a raft, to which I also assisted two men and women."

Fifty in Berths When Hit. "Most of the passengers were on deck or at breakfast when we were struck," said Joseph G. De Lorraine, Montreal lawyer and son-in-law of a former Canadian minister of marine. "Possibly fifty of the passengers were still in their berths."

"It was about nine o'clock, or a little after, when several of us sighted what we thought was a submarine, quite a distance to starboard, approaching a steamer we later found out was the Dunsley of London. While we were watching we caught the faint sound of an explosion and took it for granted that the Dunsley had been torpedoed."

"Our course was taking us over in the direction of the Dunsley. We were prepared for an attack at once. The crew ran about distributing life preservers and swinging out the boats."

"I adjusted my life preserver and ran below to get a suitcase full of important documents. I had just returned when I saw a white streak rushing toward the Arabic, churning up foam at a great rate. Then there was a tremendous explosion. The ship stopped almost instantly. She rocked from side to side and began to keel over. Most of the passengers were in the boats in an instant and there was not the slightest panic."

"I barely had time to make the last lifeboat. We were launched successfully, but didn't get clear when the Arabic rolled over and went down. She was half turned on her side and her starboard quarter struck our boat, caving in the side and throwing us into the water."

"I thought it was all over, but I finally came up and swam to a raft. I don't know what happened to the others. While I was clinging to the raft I saw another lifeboat about to sink."

Cement From Beets. It is now reported that a French firm is making an excellent cement from a by-product in the process of making beet sugar. The scum that forms when the beets are boiled, and which has heretofore been thrown away, consists largely of carbonate of lime and water, and from 75,000 tons of beet treated 4,000 tons of carbonate of lime are obtained; to this 1,100 tons of clay are added, the resulting product being 3,162 tons of excellent cement.

Baton Comparatively Modern. In early days a bandmaster beat time with his foot. Not until 1820 was the baton first introduced.

SAYID M. W. GILANI

Sayid M. Wajih Gilani, who says he is the sheik-ul-Islam, a lineal descendant of Mohammed and the Imperial Ottoman religious commissioner to the Philippines, arrived in New York recently on an educational mission to the people of the United States on behalf of his co-religionists. He speaks many languages and dialects, and looks like a European.

They called to me and threw me a hawser. I tied it around the raft and hung partly to the hawser and to the raft until I was picked up exhausted.

"I counted ten lifeboats pulling away. One of them filled with water just after it cleared the Arabic's side and sank. A woman, whom I later learned was the sister of the Arabic's surgeon, was thrown into the water. One of the Arabic's sailors swam to her and helped her get into a boat. It was a fine piece of work."

ST. LOUIS COUNTY HIT BY THIRD BIG FLOOD

Twelve Lives and Many Millions of Dollars Worth of Property Destroyed.

St. Louis, Aug. 24.—St. Louis county is recovering somewhat from the third calamity which has descended upon this community in as many days—a flood which snuffed out at least twelve human lives—possibly many more, destroyed more than a million dollars' worth of property and made 2,000 families homeless.

Twelve deaths have been reported to the coroner, and almost a hundred persons were listed as missing. Rivermen who are closely acquainted with the situation fear the falling of the Meramec may disclose a heavy toll in human lives.

Equally distressing conditions prevail throughout southeastern Missouri and parts of western Illinois, where the toll, less severe in the number of lives lost, is far greater in damage to property and crops. Railroad, telephone and telegraph facilities in many counties are nil; the physical damage may aggregate $5,000,000, and tens of thousands of farmers and villagers are homeless.

Newport, Ark., Aug. 24.—Ten persons were drowned and the entire city of Newport was flooded, when the big levee protecting the town from White river broke, just above Newport. Steamboats are running over corn and cotton fields rescuing farmers and their families who are marooned.

ASKS THAT U. S. WAIT

GERMAN AMBASSADOR SENDS MESSAGE TO THE STATE DEPARTMENT.

TENSION RELIEVED BY MOVE

Von Bernstorff in Appeal to Delay Action Says Government Does Not Wish Submarines to Kill Americans or Sink Peaceful Vessels.

New York, Aug. 25.—If it was due to the action of a German submarine that American citizens lost their lives in the torpedoing of the steamship Arabic such action was contrary to the intentions of the German government, according to official advices received by the German ambassador from Berlin and telegraphed by him on Tuesday to Washington.

It was also said in the communication that the German government will deeply regret such a loss of life and would tender the sincerest sympathies to the American government.

The text of the message given out by Count von Bernstorff read: "The German ambassador received the following instructions from Berlin, which he communicated to the department of state: So far no official information available concerning the sinking of the Arabic. The German government trusts that the American government will not take a definite stand at hearing only the reports of one side which in the opinion of the imperial government cannot correspond with the facts, but that a chance will be given to Germany to be heard equally."

"Although the imperial government does not doubt the good faith of the witnesses whose statements are reported by the newspapers in Europe, it should be borne in mind that these statements are naturally made under excitement which might easily produce wrong impressions. If Americans should actually have lost their lives this would naturally be contrary to our intentions. The German government would deeply regret the fact and begs to tender sincerest sympathies to the American government."

The statement carried no signature. It was given out by Doctor Adler, the ambassador's secretary.

Washington, Aug. 26.—Germany, through her ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, asked the United States on Tuesday not to take a final stand on the sinking of the White Star liner Arabic, until all the facts were known. It was the first word from Germany since the incident.

The count telegraphed the state department, saying he made the request at the instruction of his government, and added that the German admiralty had not yet been able to get a report on the sinking.

It is taken to indicate that the German government may have some facts which, in its opinion, justify the action of the submarine commander. It comes as the first ray of promise on a situation which admittedly was growing darker with each hour of silence on the part of Germany.

Now, in view of the ambassador's request, the state department can do nothing but wait a reasonable time for word from Berlin. Ambassador Gerard has been instructed to watch for a report, but has not been told to ask for one. The German ambassador's request indicates that one soon may be volunteered.

According to Notice. During a sham fight which constituted part of a certain infantry battalion's training for the war a company was told off to follow up the retreating "enemy." For this purpose the pursuers, who had been having a strenuous time, had to cross a fairly wide river, and were marched to the nearest bridge, which was about four miles away. Imagine their disappointment on arriving to find this notice attached to the bridge of the "enemy": "This bridge is blown up." But the officer in command of the pursuers was a man of action, and promptly attached a notice to one of his leading men and proceeded to march his force across the bridge. They had almost crossed it, when an umpire suddenly appeared, frantically waving his hand and exclaiming: "The bridge is blown up; all these men are drowned!" The commanding officer made no reply, but simply pointed to his notice, which read: "This company is swimming across!"

Reliable Method. "Can you spell the name of this new high explosive?" asked the man who shrieks. "Yes," replied the one who I never at a loss. "How do you spell it?" "By looking in the dictionary."

The CZAR'S SPY
The Mystery of a Silent Love

I stood before him open-mouthed. Who in Russia had not heard of that mysterious unknown person who had directed a hundred conspiracies against the imperial autocrat, and yet the identity of whom the police had always failed to discover. It was believed that Kampf had once been professor of chemistry at Moscow university, and that he had invented that most terrible and destructive explosive used by the revolutionists. The ingredients of the powerful compound and the mode of firing it were the secret of the nihilists alone—and Otto Kampf, the mysterious leader, whose personality was unknown even to the conspirators themselves, directed those constant attempts which held the emperor and his government in such hourly terror.

Rewards without number had been offered by the ministry of the interior for the betrayal and arrest of the unseen man whose power in Russia, permeating every class, was greater than that of the emperor himself—at whose word one day the people would rise in a body and destroy their oppressors.

"You are surprised," the old man laughed, noticing my amazement. "Well, you are not one of us, yet I need not impress upon you the absolute necessity, for mademoiselle's sake, to preserve the secret of my existence. It is because you are not a member of 'The Will of the People' that you have never heard of 'The Red Priest'—red because I wrote my ultimatum to the czar in the blood of one of his victims knotted in the fortress of Peter and Paul, and priest because I preach the gospel of freedom and justice."

"I shall say nothing," I said, gazing at the strangely striking figure before me—the unknown man who directed the great upheaval that was to revolutionize Russia. "My only desire is to save Mademoiselle Heath."

"Are you prepared to do so at the risk of your own liberty—your own life? Ah! you said you love her. Would not this be a test of your affection?"

"I am prepared for any test, as long as she escapes the trap which her enemies have set for her. I succeeded in saving her from Kijana, and I intend to save her now."

"Was it you who actually entered Kijana and snatched her from that tomb?" he exclaimed, and he took my hand enthusiastically, adding—"I have no further need to doubt you." And turning to the table he wrote upon a slip of paper, saying, "Take mademoiselle there. She will find a safe place of concealment. But go quickly, for every moment places you both in more deadly peril. Hide yourself there also."

I thanked him and left at once. I found Elma in her room, ready dressed to go out, wearing a long traveling cloak, and in her hand was a small dressing case. She was pale and full of anxiety until I showed her the slip of paper which Otto Kampf had given me with the address written upon it, and then together we hurried forth.

The house to which we drove was, we discovered, a large one facing the Fontanka canal, one of the best quarters of the town, and on descending I asked the tiered dvornik for "Madame Zurliff," the name which the "Red Priest" had written.

"You mean the Princess Zurliff," remarked the man through his red beard. "Who shall I say desires to see her?"

"Take that," I said, handing to him the piece of paper, which, besides the address, bore a curious cipher mark like three triangles joined.

He closed the door, leaving us in the wide, carpeted hall, the stately in which showed us that it was a richly furnished place, and when a few minutes later he returned, he conducted us upstairs to a fine, gilded salon, where an elderly, gray-haired lady in black stood gravely to receive us.

"Allow me to present Mademoiselle Elma Heath, princess," I said, speaking in French and bowing, and afterwards telling her my own name.

Our hostess welcomed my love in a graceful speech, but I said: "Mademoiselle, unfortunately, suffers a terrible affliction. She is deaf and dumb."

"Ah, how very sad!" she exclaimed sympathetically. "Poor girl! Poor girl!" and she placed her hand tenderly upon Elma's shoulder and looked into her eyes. Then, turning to me, she said: "So the Red Priest has sent you both to me! You are in danger of arrest, I suppose—you wish me to conceal you here?"

"I would only ask sanctuary for mademoiselle," was my reply. "For myself I have no fear. I am English, and therefore not a member of the Party."

"Well," I said, "a mysterious tragedy occurred on the side of a wood near the house rented by Leithcourt—a tragedy which has puzzled the police to this day. An Italian named Santini and his wife were found murdered."

"Santini!" gasped Kampf, starting up. "But surely he is not dead?"

"No. That's the curious part of the affair. The man who was killed was a man disguised to represent the Italian, while the woman was actually the waiter's wife herself. I happen to know the man Santini well, for both he and his wife were for some years in my employ."

"The princess and the director of the Russian revolutionary movement exchanged glances. It was as though her highness implored Kampf to reveal to me the truth, while he, on his part, was averse to doing so."

"And upon whom does suspicion rest?" asked her highness.

"As far as I can make out, the police have no clue whatever, except one. At the spot was found a tiny miniature cross of one of the Russian orders of chivalry—the cross of St. Anne."

"There is no suspicion upon Leithcourt?" she asked with some undue anxiety, I thought.

"No."

"Then why did the Leithcourts disappear so suddenly?"

"Because of the appearance of the man Chater," I replied. "It is evident that they feared him, for they took every precaution against being followed. In fact, they fled, leaving a big party of friends in the house. The man Woodroffe, now at the Hotel de Paris, is a friend of Leithcourt as well as of Chater."

"He was not a guest of Leithcourt when this man representing Santini was assassinated?" asked Kampf, again stroking his beard.

"No. As soon as Woodroffe recognized me as a visitor he left—for Hamburg."

"He was afraid to face you because of the ransacking of the British consul's safe at Leghorn," remarked the princess, who, at the same moment, took Elma's hand tenderly in her own and looked at her. Then, turning to me, she said: "What you have told us tonight, Mr. Kampf, throws a new light upon certain incidents that had hitherto puzzled us. The mystery of it all is a great and inscrutable one—the mystery of this poor, unfortunate girl, greatest of all. But both of us will endeavor to help you to elucidate it; we will help poor Elma to crush her enemies—these cowardly villains who have maimed her."

"Ah, princess!" I cried. "If you will only help and protect her, you will be doing an act of mercy to a defenseless woman. I love her—I admit it. I have done my utmost; I have striven to solve the dark mystery, but up to the present I have been unsuccessful, and have only remained, even till today, the victim of circumstance."

"Let her stay with me," the kindly woman answered, smiling tenderly upon my love. "She will be safe here, and in the morning we will endeavor to discover the real and actual truth."

And in response I took the princess' hand and pressed it fervently.

I scribbled a few hasty words upon paper and handed it to Elma. And for answer she smiled contentedly, looking into my eyes with an expression of trust, devotion and love.

CHAPTER XV.

Just Off the Strand.

A week had gone by. The Nord express had brought me posthaste across Europe from Petersburg to Calais, and I was again in London.

It was a cold but dry November night and I sat dining with Jack Durnford at a small table in the big-well-lit room of the Junior United Service club. Easy-going and merry as of old, my friend was bubbling over with good spirits, delighted to be back again in town after three years' sailing up and down the Mediterranean, from Gib. to Smyrna, maneuvering always, yet with never a chance of a fight.

"Glad to be back!" he exclaimed, as he helped himself to a "peg." "I should rather think so, old chap. You know how awfully wearying the life becomes out there. Lots going on down at Palermo, Malta, Monte Carlo, over at Algiers, and yet we can never get a chance of it."

"Dinner finished, we went across to the Empire, where we spent the evening in the grand circle, meeting many men we knew and having a rather pleasant time among old acquaintances."

After the theater I induced him to come round to the Cecil, and in the wicker chairs in the big portico before the entrance we sat to smoke our final cigars. And there, in a carefully careless way, I told him the story of the Leithcourts.

"You seem a bit down in the mouth, Jack," I said presently, after we had been watching the cabs coming up, depositing the home-coming revelers from the Savoy or the Carlton.

"Yes," he sighed. "And surely I have enough to cause me—after what I've heard from you."

"What! Did the facts convey any bad news to you?" I inquired with pretended ignorance.

"Yes," he said hoarsely, after a brief pause. Then he added: "After Martin Woodroffe is engaged to Muriel Leithcourt. Are you certain of this?"

"Yes, quite certain."

For some time Jack Durnford smoked in silence, and I could just distinguish his white, hard face in the faint light, for it was now late, and the big electric lamps had been turned out and we were in semidarkness.

"That fellow shall never marry Muriel," he declared in a fierce, hoarse voice. "What you have just told me reveals the truth. Did you meet Chater?"

"He appeared suddenly at Rannoch, and the Leithcourts fled precipitately and have not since been heard of."

"Ah, no wonder!" he remarked with a dry laugh. "No wonder! But look here, Gordon, I'm not going to stand by and let that scoundrel Woodroffe marry Muriel."

"You love her, perhaps?" I hazarded.

"Yes, I do love her," he admitted. "And, by heaven!" he cried, "I will tell the truth and crush the whole of their ingenious plot. Have you met Elma Heath?" he asked.

"Yes," I said in quick anxiety.

"Then listen," he said in a low, earnest voice. "Listen, and I'll tell you something."

"There is a greater mystery surrounding that yacht, the Lola, than you have ever imagined, my dear old chap," declared Jack Durnford, looking me straight in the face. "When you told me about it on the quarterdeck that day outside Leghorn I was half a mind to tell you what I knew. Only one fact prevented me—my disinclination to reveal my own secrets. I loved Muriel Leithcourt, yet, afloat as I was, I could never see her—I could not obtain from her own lips the explanation I desired. Yet I would not prejudice her—no, and I won't now!" he added with fierce resolution.

"I love her," he went on, "and she reciprocates my love. Ours is a secret engagement, made in Malta two years ago, and yet you tell me that she has pledged herself to that fellow Woodroffe—the man known here in London as Dick Archer. I can't believe it—I really can't, old fellow. She could never write to me as she has done, urging patience and secrecy until my return."

"Woodroffe is at the present moment in Petersburg," I said. "I've just come back from there."

"In St. Petersburg?" he gasped, surprised. Then he is with that villainous official, Bar Oberg, the governor-general of Finland."

"No; Oberg is living shut up in his palace at Helsingfors, fearing to go out lest he shall be assassinated," was my answer.

"Ah!" he said, twisting his mustache thoughtfully. "That's just the question. She may be the victim of that blackleg Woodroffe, who is one of the most expert swindlers in London, and who has already done two terms of penal servitude."

"But he is an extremely friendly terms with Elma. It was he who succeeded in finding her in Finland, and taking her beyond Oberg's sphere of influence to Petersburg."

"Then it is certainly only an affected friendship, with some sinister motive underlying it."

"She wrote a letter from her island prison to an old schoolfellow named Lydia Moreton, asking her to see Woodroffe at his rooms in Cork street, and tell him that through all she was suffering she had kept her promise to him, and that the secret was still safe.

"Exactly. And now the fellow fears that as you are so actively searching out the truth, she may yield to your demands and explain. He therefore intends to silence her."

"What! to kill her, you mean?" I gasped, in quick apprehension.

"Well, he might do so, in order to save himself, you see," Jack replied.

I tried to get him all that he knew concerning Elma, but he seemed, for some reason, disinclined to tell. All I could gather was that Leithcourt was in league with Chater and Woodroffe, and that Muriel had acted as an entirely innocent agent.

"We must find Muriel," he declared, when I pressed him to tell me everything he knew. "There are facts you have told me which negative my own theories, and only from her can we obtain the real truth."

"But surely you know where she is? She writes to you," I said.

"The last letter, which I received at Gib, ten days ago, was from the Hotel Bristol, at Botzen, in the Tyrol, yet Bartlett says she has been seen down at Eastbourne."

"But you have an address where you always write to her, I suppose?"

"Yes, a secret one. I have written and made an appointment, but she has not kept it. She has been prevented, of course. She may be with her parents, and unable to come to London."

"You did not know that they had fled, and were in hiding?"

"Of course not. What I've heard tonight is news to me—amazing news."

"And does it not convey to you the truth?"

"It does—a ghastly truth concerning Elma Heath," he answered in a low voice, as though speaking to himself.

"Tell me, what? I'm dying, Jack, to know everything concerning her. Who is that fellow Oberg?"

"Her enemy. She, by mere accident, learned his secret and Woodroffe's, and they now both live in deadly fear of her."

"But Chater?"

"I know very little concerning him. He may have conspired with them, or he may be innocent. It seems as though he were antagonistic to their schemes, if Leithcourt and his family really fled from him."

"And yet he was on board the Lola. Indeed, he may have helped to commit the burglary at the consulate," I said.

1915 LEGISLATURE AT LAST ADJOURNS

FINAL RITES ARE ATTENDED BY HANDFUL OF SENATORS AND ASSEMBLYMEN.

GOVERNOR VETOES 3 BILLS

Lawmakers Sustain Executive's Disapproval of Plumbing, Girls' Industrial School and Mineral Rights Taxation Measures.

Madison—At last the legislature of 1915 has adjourned. The last rites occurred at 4 o'clock p. m., August 24, immediately after the members of the joint committee, Messrs. Nye, Grell and Heim, on behalf of the assembly, and Senator Ackley and Kellogg of the upper house, appointed to wait on Gov. Philipp, had returned and reported that the executive had no further communication to make.

Gov. Philipp's veto of the plumbing bill, the bill placing the industrial school for girls in the hands of the state board of control and the bill providing for the taxation of mineral rights, were sustained by unanimous vote in both houses. A bill correcting the fish and game laws so as to permit Vernon county sportsmen to go the bag limit in shooting prairie chickens was introduced and passed and signed by the governor.

Assemblymen present at the closing session, besides Speaker Whittey, were Messrs. Nye, Grell, Whitcomb, Budlong, Heim, Keller and Nelson.

WISCONSIN NEWS BRIEFS

Janesville—Funeral services over the body of Benjamin Courtney Kimlin, famous race horse owner and trainer, who died here, were held from his home on Main street. Mr. Kimlin was a member of the Modern Woodmen and Tribe of Ben Hur and is widely known throughout the middle western states. Mr. Kimlin owned Don Labor, with a record of 2:05¼, and trained Ernest Axtell, 2:05¼, the horse which broke the track record here a year ago. He also brought to the front of the horse world, Bird Grattan, 2:09¼, and Bertia C., 2:09¼.

Kenosha—Stephen Corr, prominent Kenosha man, was held in bonds of $3,000 in the Municipal court pending the hearing of charges brought against him by Mrs. Mattie Lightfoot of Waubesa. The woman claims that Carr brought her to Kenosha last January with promise to make her his wife and that since that time they have lived together in Kenosha hotels. Carr declined an invitation to marry the woman made in court, and declared that he would fight the case.

Kenosha—John W. Willis, the Italian consul at St. Paul, Minn., is making an effort to get possession of the estate of the late Constantino Costanzo, who was murdered here two years ago. The estate is sought for a son who resides in St. Paul. Costanzo was murdered here on Sept. 7, 1913. Leonardo De Carlo is now serving a life term in the state prison for the alleged offense.

Marquette—Mrs. Agnes Pinkowski and William Duval were less than a mile on a street car, but both now face charges under the Mann act. According to the confession of the woman, she and the man met in Menominee, Mich., just across the river. They came to Marquette on a street car and spent the night here, she says. The man is held under a bond of $700 and she under $50.

Madison—Charles Holman, director of the university press bureau, who has been investigating land and agricultural conditions in Ireland for the last four months, returned to Madison. Mr. Holman made his investigations for Sir Horace Plunkett and his associates with a view of applying the Irish methods of handling the land tenure and agricultural co-operation problems in the United States.

Racine—Alexander Jouat, 22 years old, of Chicago, who was injured about six weeks ago in a collision with an instant motorcycle rider, who was instantly killed, died here. He came to Racine to recuperate after being discharged from a Chicago hospital as having recovered from his injuries, and his case is puzzling to physicians.

Madison—During July Wisconsin's fire losses totaled $197,120, covered by insurance amounting to $520,980, according to a state report. This is a reduction of nearly $200,000 over the July record of 1914.

Deperre—The work of building a sixteen foot concrete highway four miles long between this city and Green Bay through the town of Allouez will be begun shortly. The sum of $7,000 was raised among Deperre, Green Bay and Allouez business men. The township voted an additional $7,000 and the county and state will appropriate $14,000 more each.

Superior—When the funeral was held one coffin contained all that could be found of the bodies of two sons of Pearl Phelps, a farmer near Solon Springs, who were blown to bits by a dynamite explosion.

Racine—Dr. A. W. Foster received what may prove to be fatal injuries as a result of the collision of his automobile with a Chicago and Milwaukee electric car. Miss Mabel Uner, a nurse, who was in the automobile with Dr. Foster, sustained a broken collar bone. The automobile was wrecked.

Kenosha—Knelling at the same altar where Miss Helen Hobbs of Evansville became the bride of John Peter Milton of San Francisco. The ceremony was performed at St. Matthew's church by the Rev. Fred Ingley.

RIGHTS OF SERENADING CATS

Seems That One May Throw Boot-jacks at Them, but You Mustn't Shoot Them.

There is a widespread impression that a squalling cat which keeps a law-abiding citizen awake at night is a nuisance, and that to end it cries quickly and painlessly makes a man a public benefactor. But a Trenton (N. J.) resident, who tried that sort of treatment on a neighbor's pet singer, has been sent to jail because of his refusal to pay the fine which was assessed on him by a local judge.

He considers himself a martyr and says he will live on bread and water sooner than admit that he has done any wrong.

This brings up an issue which will interest sleepless men and women the world over. There does not seem to be any question as to the right of the serenading cats. Indeed, his time-honored privilege of hurling bootjacks, hair brushes, cakes of soap, sippers and other articles of wearing apparel and personal adornment at the offending tabbies and tomnies remains unimpaired. The real point at stake is his right to shoot cats that disturb his slumber.

Most cats may be shot with impunity, but not all cats. In this, as in many other mooted questions, it all depends upon whose cat you shoot.

"Use a Fork?" He Asked Surgeon.

"The last time I had a spell of sickness," stated J. Fuller Gloom, "I made the folks send for old Doc Bitters, who lives seven miles away and is a moss-grown bungler who hasn't learned anything worth mentioning of young Doctor Prissy, who resides right around the corner and graduated last year with high honors and is really a very bright young man and a highly competent physician. You see, noticing the latter's correct civil engineer whiskers, his profound respect for the dignity of his profession, and his persistent insistence on being addressed as 'Doctor,' with the accent on both syllables, I was so awfully as to ask him, a few days before my attack, if he used a fork with his knife when he performed a surgical operation. So, naturally, being of sound though pessimistic mind, I preferred to suffer in silence during the longer period necessary to get old Doc Bitters here than to call in young Doctor Prissy and learn the answer to my inquiry from ocular demonstration."—Kansas City Star.

Business an End in Itself.

What had he thus far learned from making bedsteads? Had he ever considered there was anything to be learned from that occupation? The uncouth figure of his father began to grow before him, gazing at him accusingly from under shaggy brows. Was it possible, then, that business was in a sense an end in itself, aside from the gaining of money? Was it the overcoming of obstacles; the sharpening of character against routine; the winning in competition; the waiting for unseen ends—that kept the world at the daily treadmill, yet keen eyed and eager? In that moment it came to him it was so.—From "Dalhousie's Lady of the Morning," by David Gray in the Saturday Evening Post.

ODD "CURES" FOR MALADIES

Superstitious Remedies That in Ancient Times Were Thoroughly Believed In.

For sore eyes a touch from an old gold wedding ring is a popular remedy, and many an old woman's ring has earned for itself a great name as an eye healer. Apparently reliable authorities can be found who assert that they have been cured by a touch of this description. Borlase asserts as a fact that a halter with which anyone has been banged will cure headache instantly if tied around the head, and he adds, "Moss growing upon a human skull, if dried and powdered and taken as a snuff, is no less efficacious."

Brand tells of several superstitious remedies or charms: "Hollow stones are hung up in stables at night to prevent nightmares, or epilepsies. They are usually called in the north of England 'holy stones.' The chips of gallows and places of execution are used as

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, remedied it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. YACHTS FIGHT STORM

CHICAGO BANKER TOWED INTO LITTLE STURGEON BY "OMOO"

Sheboygan Man Comes to Rescue in Time to Save Smaller Boat When Engine Fails.

Sheboygan.—The story of a thrilling experience in a storm at Green Bay, during a pleasure cruise, and the rescue of J. Thompson, a Rockford, Ill., banker and his wife from another yacht, was brought here by Ivar Lohmann and party.

Mr. and Mrs. Lohmann, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Kempf and Mrs. Charles Rose left Sheboygan on Aug. 9 for a two weeks' cruise in Lake Michigan and Green bay on the cruiser Omoo, a pleasure yacht.

"The water was as smooth as on a river and we were making good time when a northwest wind struck us," said Mr. Kempf. "We were in the worst storm I ever saw. We were abreast of Oconto, but the wind was so strong and the waves so high we had no chance to make that port. I headed with the wind, but we were tossed about like a cork."

"The clouds were getting blacker all the time and it was becoming dark, when we sighted another yacht in the trough of the waves, helplessly and flying signals of distress. I headed for them and succeeded in throwing them a tow."

"She was the Nepahwin, owned by J. Thompson, who with his wife and engineer, was aboard. The engine had broken down. When four miles out of Little Sturgeon bay, we were met by the tug, Little Bob, which put about and assisted us in towing the Nepahwin into Little Sturgeon.

ADMITS SLAYING HIS FATHER

Mystery Surrounding Wausau Murder is Cleared When Youth Makes Confession.

Wausau.—The mystery in the murder of Peter Wehrley was cleared when his son, Alfred, aged 18, confessed to having shot his father.

Estranged from his father, the boy lived in a hotel. He said he thought that if his father was dead he would have a home with his mother. He went to the home while all were away, opened the door with a key found in the mail box, unlatched the back door, then locked the front door from the outside and replaced the key in the mail box and re-entered the house by the rear door.

When he heard the family return in an automobile he went upstairs and hid under the bed in his father's room. After all were asleep he crawled out.

His father moved and started to sit up and the boy fired. Running down the stairs and out the back door he went to the river into which he threw his automatic pistol. Then he went to the hotel and to bed.

When arrested his shoes were wet with dew. He was seen running through the backyard and a little later in the hotel corridor. When these facts were told him, his confession followed.

DR. WOODS AMONG MISSING

Janesville Physician Reported Lost on Arabic Aided in Caring for English Wounded.

Janesville.—Dr. E. F. Woods, who is reported to have been lost on the Arabic, has been a practicing physician and surgeon in this city the last twenty-five years. He came here from England when he was a boy and received his education in the Rock county schools and at the University of Wisconsin.

The doctor was in Europe when the war broke out and remained there some time, doing work in hospitals. He returned to Janesville and put his business in shape for a longer stay in Europe, leaving again last May for England, where he became connected with one of the large base hospitals. At one time he was offered charge of a large field hospital in France, but declined because he lacked a thorough knowledge of the French language.

He did not join the Red Cross society because that would have necessitated enlisting for several years, which he did not wish to do.

A letter was received by his wife, in which he said he would return to Janesville, sailing on the Arabic.

Dr. Woods took out his second naturalization papers in Rock county on Dec. 23, 1896, so there is no question as to his citizenship.

Vom Schauplatz des europäischen Völkerrkrieges

Die größte Schlacht der Weltgeschichte, die sich auf einer Front von 5-600 Meilen in Polen und den Tschechoslowakei seit Wochen vor den Augen der Welt abspielte, ist für die verbündeten deutschen und österreichisch-ungarischen Truppen gewonnen.

Auf die Erfüllung Warschau's durch die tapferen Bayern ist bald die Eroberung der starken Weichsel-Flungel durch die modernen österreichisch-ungarischen Truppen und der Durchbruch der Deutschen bei der Stellung Georgiewitz gefolgt.

Die Zertrümmerung dieser außerordentlich starken russischen Befestigungsstellungen in der Karem-Weichseline ist ein gewaltiger Erfolg, so beabsichtigt die deutsche Heeresleitung den nächsten Schritt durch die Vernichtung der russischen Armeen zu wagen.

Der deutsche offizielle Bericht gibt offen zu, daß sich der Generalstab bei weitem nicht mit der Einnahme der Festungen begnüge, sondern die Verfolgung und Umzingelung des fliehenden Feindes mit aller Entschiedenheit beabsichtigt.

Teile der russischen Armeen sollen nämlich, um der Einschließung in den Festungen zu entgehen, schon vor dem Falle derselben den Rückzug angetreten haben. Die Armeen der Heilmarschälle von Finnbundung im Norden und Westen im Süden, in weiterer Ausdehnung die Armeen des Generals von Wilow im äußersten Norden sind auf dem letzten Wege, die Russen auf ihrem geordneten (?) Rückzug zu vernichten.

Aus diesem Grunde wird an die Verfolgung des fliehenden Feindes der letzte Hauch von Wagem und Hohn" gelegt.

Es besteht deutscherseits die Absicht, den fliehenden Feind in den humpelnden Schritten föhlich von Preil-Attaken zu heilen, was dadurch beabsichtigt wird, daß eine große österreichische Kavallerie-Abteilung mit außerordentlicher Schnelligkeit auf dem Rücken des Zug vorkommt.

Und dieses Sumppgebiet bei Preil-Attaken wird, wenn nicht alle Angelegenheiten, das Grab der russischen Hauptarmee werden, wie es bereits zweimal der mehrfache Sechsdrittel gemeldet ist.

Sobald die deutsch-österreichischen Truppen den Feind von Süden her gegen die Sumppregion bei Preil-Attaken abdrängen, muß Großfürst Mikolauß seine Rückzugslinie nach Norden nehmen, wo die deutschen Streitkräfte in Courland und an dem Narewfluß bereits zum blutigen Empfang bereit stehen.

So ist ganz offensichtlich, daß die Teile der russischen Hauptarmee, welche sich durch den frühzeitigen Rückzug zu retten suchten, dem sicheren Verderben in die Arme laufen. Die deutsche Strategie hat sich in dieser größten aller Schlachten aufs Beste bewährt und jetzt geht auch der flauenden Welt ein Licht darüber auf, weshalb und zu welchem Zwecke die Armeen des Generals von Wilow so weit nach Norden vorgezogen sind.

Eine erfolgreiche Schwertführung bringt die russische Hauptarmee in Gefahr von den deutschen Truppen isoliert und erobert zu werden, worauf die Untertausche des Petrograd in das alte deutsche Petersburg erfolgen wird.

Rußlands mifliche Finanzlage.

Berlin, drahtlos nach Saville, N. J. Dem russischen Reich gehen nicht nur in militärischer, sondern auch in finanzieller Beziehung die Arzte aus. Wie der volkswirtschaftliche Mitarbeiter der "Westfälischen Zeitung" in einem längeren Artikel ausführt, hatte das russische Reich nach den Angaben des russischen Finanzministers Part, bis zum 1. Januar dieses Jahres bereits die horrend Summe von zehn Milliarden Rubel für Kriegszwecke vorausgeschickt. Da nun als Resultat der aufgeregten Kriegsanleihe nur 6500 Millionen Rubel eingegangen sind, fehlen zur Deckung dieser Kriegsausgaben immer noch mehr als drei Milliarden Rubel.

Der König Italiens als ein Verräter bewiesen.

Aus Haager diplomatischen Kreisen wird gemeldet, daß die Hauptschuld an dem Eintritte Italiens in den Krieg auf den König Viktor Emanuel falle, weil dieser schon lange vor den Verhandlungen mit Österreich Italiens Politik an der Seite der Dreiverbündeten durch einen persönlichen Briefwechsel mit dem König von England, dem Zaren und Bismarck festgelegt hatte und mehr er im letzten Augenblick von den bereits eingegangenen Verpflichtungen zurücktrat, unliebsame Entschuldigungen aus dem Dreiverbündeten zu erwarten gehabt hätte, weshalb er die Wiffion Oströmerie bereitete. Und derselbe erbärmliche Intrigant und Verräter auf dem Königstron verhielt sich zu derselben Zeit seine bisherigen Bundesgenossen seiner unumwandelbaren Treue!

Knitted Silk Bonnet for Small Girl

Now that industry has become fashionable and everyone is knitting or crocheting or doing some sort of needlework, the evidences of the "keep-busy" fad blossom out in all directions. The family, from baby to grandma, revels in pretty things in the way of dress accessories, and the house is decked out with fine specimens of needlecraft.

Among the most successful of all the articles knitted or crocheted, baby bonnets, hats for little girls, and boudoir caps and hats for grown-ups testify to the adaptability of this kind of work to headwear. Baby bonnets, either knitted or crocheted of silk, have long been among the coveted luxuries that each mother manages somehow to secure. They are very durable and very beautiful. Crocheted headwear is somewhat expensive, and one must either have the time and knowledge of the work required, to make it, or be prepared to pay the price which elegant, handmade things will bring.

The small knitted hat of silk shown in the picture is moderately priced at four or five dollars. It is knitted of heavy silk thread in cream color, and consists of a cap which covers the crown of the head, and a fringe of lace, knitted of the same silk as the cap. It is finished with a tassel made of the silk.

Bewährte gegen Deutschlands "Militarismus".

Der Vorwurf des Militarismus gegen die Zentralmächte hört sich nachgerade komisch an. Wenn Russland, Frankreich, England dem Deutschen Reich den Militarismus als Verbrechen vorwerfen, so wollen sie damit nur ihre Hut darüber bemerken, daß sie selbst nicht genau so kampfbereit waren. Und jetzt Ausbruch des Krieges läßt man sich hauptsächlich in England keine Gelegenheit entgehen, das Verfaulene nachzuholen, da man die fatalen Folgen zu spüren anfängt. In England ging man den alten Schlenkeran. Die Flotte war prachtvoll, aber mit "H-Booten" hatte man nicht gerechnet und sieht sich nun gezwungen, die Prachtflotte hinter Schleusenfenster zu halten. Und mit der Armeemacht man im Anfang und macht man noch jetzt eine hochtrauerige Figur. Hinterher empfindet man jetzt bittere Reue, daß man nicht beiseiten vorgezogen hat. Aber anstatt dieses einzugehen, schimpfte man auf Deutschland los. Man sagt in Kreise und Parlament nicht: Deutschland hat seine Schuldigkeit getan, und wir haben unsere Pflicht verfaulamt — nein, man setzt: Deutschland hätte das auch nicht tun dürfen! Die Erfüllung seiner Pflicht ist also im Falle Deutschlands "reiner Militarismus".

Between-Seasons Hats

Created for those whose needs demand hats for the period between two seasons are hats made for the warm, bright days of early autumn, with an edge to the frost that may overtake them in the midst of their usefulness. Here are three of them, in fashionable black and white. They will solve the problem of the woman who feels that it is too late for the purchase of a summer hat and altogether too early to wear one belonging to wintertime. She will find these just suited to bridging over the interval between two seasons.

Very popular with the younger people, small turbans are made in combinations of black velvet with white silk or satin and trimmed with fancy feathers or wings. The pretty example shown in the picture has a coronet of velvet and a crown of satin. White wings, in the smart pose, on the crown, are the only trimming used and all that is needed.

One of the new wide and drooping brimmed shapes may be made of silk or velvet or of the two combined. It reflects the fad for needlework in its decoration. Parallel rows of long stitches made of heavy white silk adorn the crown, and a single row finishes the brim-edge. A band of velvet ribbon confines the crown, and a butterfly of white crystal beads suggests a bit of frost painting. This is a beautiful and unusual development of the picture hat.

Suited to the matron as well as to the younger woman, the sailor hat of white corduroy and satin, faced with black velvet, is of the sort that may be worn anywhere. The upper brim and top crown are of corduroy, and the side crown is covered with satin laid in folds. Odd, new ornaments of beads and curving ribs of feathers, or "feathers," as they are called, are applied to the crown.

Baby's Everyday Dresses. To make everyday dresses for baby, purchase white washable crepe. Make the little garments plain, with a sleeve that goes to the neck. Few seams are required and but one buttonhole. Time and labor are saved in laundering, too, as no ironing is needed.

Waterproof Matches.

Hint for camping and fishing parties. Many of you have encountered the annoying experience of finding yourselves miles from a store and all the matches in your possession so damp that they could not be used. A fact worth knowing is that matches can be made waterproof without injury by dipping them in very hot melted paraffin, allow them to cool and they are ready for use. The paraffin does not interfere with their use in the regular way and they are absolutely protected from dampness.

TRIBUTE TO THE CANDIDATE

Had Known Him All His Life But Didn't Know What He Looked Like.

One morning, when Tom Shipp was running for congress in Indianapolis, a man called him up on the telephone and requested an interview with him. Shipp had a busy day before him, and intimated that opportunities for interviews were limited.

"Well, Tom," said the voice over the telephone, "you certainly ought to talk to me. I've known you ever since you were a little bit of a kid. You know that, don't you?" "Yes," said Tom mendaciously. "I know that."

"And I've loved you as if you were my own son," continued the voice. "I've always been devoted to your interests. You know that, don't you, Tom?"

"Of course," agreed Shipp. "And always," relentlessly pursued the admirer. "I've watched your career and noted with unspeakable pride your rapid advancement. It has made me happier than I can say. You know that, don't you, Tom?"

"Certainly," replied Tom, whose arm was beginning to ache from holding the receiver. "You say you're too busy to see me in your office?" asked the admirer in an incredulous tone.

"I've got an engagement somewhere else," explained the candidate. "Where will you be about half an hour from now?"

Shipp considered for a moment. "In the lobby of the Claypool hotel," he gave the information.

"What part of the lobby?" "Say, why do you want to know that?" asked Shipp.

"Well, you see," confided the other, "I want to be sure of finding you—and I really don't know what you look like." —Popular Magazine.

They met on the high road and shook hands. "Shure, Pat," said Murphy, "bettin' a shockin' bad habit."

"Shure, Murphy," said Pat. "But why?"

"Ye know Costigan?" "Troth I do!"

"Well," said Murphy, he bet me sixpence to a shilling that I couldn't swallow an egg without breaking the shell of it."

"And did ye lose the bet?" asked Pat.

"No, Pat, I won it," replied Murphy. "Then phaw's allin' ye?"

"Shure, it's the egg that's allin' me," groaned Murphy. "If I jump about I'll break it and cut me stomach wild the shell, an' if I kape quiet it'll hatch an' I'll have a Shanghai rooster scratchin' me inside!" —Pearson's.

Coal Is Dethroned.

The Norfolk & Western railroad has electrified 100 miles of its system in West Virginia, one of the heaviest coal carriers in the world. The electric locomotives in use weigh 270 tons each and two of them attached to a 4,000-ton train recently carried it with ease up a two per cent grade at the rate of fourteen miles an hour, a rate twice that attained by the most efficient steam locomotives formerly used on the system.

MOTHER OF SCHOOL GIRL

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Daughter's Health.

Plover, Iowa. — "From a small child my 13 year old daughter had female weakness. I spoke to three doctors about it and they did not help her any. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had been of great benefit to me, so I decided to have her give it a trial. She has taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound and according to directions on the bottle and she is cured of this trouble. She was all run down when she started taking the Compound and her periods did not come right. She was so poorly and weak that I often had to help her dress herself, but now she is regular and is growing strong and healthy." —Mrs. MARTIN HELVIG, Plover, Iowa.

Hundreds of such letters expressing gratitude for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished are constantly being received, proving the reliability of this grand old remedy.

SEA FIGHT SPOILED FOREVER

At Least So Far as Being Favorite Theme for Artists Is Concerned.

Truman H. Newberry's comments on our naval equipment serve to remind us that a favorite theme of the artist—the sea battle—is spoiled forever. Modern vessels fight at from ten to seventeen miles, if they fight at all, and thrilling pictures such as Jones, Perry, Farragut, Nelson and Dewey have inspired probably will not be painted again.

Marine warfare has become very largely a matter of hide-and-seek anyway. So far as the gunmaker outstripped the armorplate builder that were equally matched vessels to engage, a few seconds' firing would reduce millions of dollars' worth of ships to scapiron shambles.

And when the skulking menace of the submarine is considered we can understand how completely the traditions of sea fighting have been upset. It was predicted that modern warfare on land would be stripped of all its former aspects, but we are told of bayonet charges, of trenches 40 yards apart, of steel helmets and even of full suits of armor being used. Yet on the sea what destruction has been wrought has been through methods far removed from the old-fashioned stand-up fight through which heroes of other days won their fame.

DAIRY FACTS

NO PLACE FOR COUNTERFEITS

Difficulty of Replenishing and Starting Herds With Good Animals Worries Dairy Farmer.

The development of the increasing demand for well-bred dairy cattle is based upon the recognition of the fact that under present production conditions, the counterfeit dairy cow has no place on the pasture or in the feed-yard.

During the past few years, difficulty in replenishing and starting herds with good animals has confronted the dairy farmer at every turn. High feed bills have demonstrated the futility of expecting satisfactory returns when keeping poor producers, and the wide-awake, progressive, business dairymen are centering their demands on merit, of which there must be a greater supply to meet this demand. Foreign competition has created a well grounded impression that the most effective way of evading it is by greater production per animal and better products.

BUILDING UP A DAIRY HERD

Not Necessary to Go to Great Expense, but Few Years of Time Are Required for Purpose.

Are you satisfied with your present herd of nonpaying common cows? If not why not begin now to improve them and get out of the old rut? When developing the dairy herd from common stock it is not necessary to go to great expense, but a few years of time are necessary in which to accomplish this.

The amount of time called for will to some extent, be dependent upon the character of the stock that you now have, or the one you intend to use for a foundation herd.

In some instances two or three generations of correct breeding will build up a common herd to a fine paying herd. In other instances a longer time will be required but it should not require more than four or five generations to effect the changes sought.

NEED OF WATER FOR A CALF

Necessity Not Generally Understood and Young Animal Is Quite Frequently Painfully Thirsty.

The young calf does not receive all the moisture it needs from the skim milk which it gets as a regular ration. At a very early age it will drink a little water if it has an opportunity and it will do this a number of times during the day.

It is a good plan to have water before it at all times. This need of the calf for water is not generally understood and the young animal is usually painfully thirsty as well as hungry at feeding time. The result is that it gorges itself with the milk or drinks too rapidly when it has a chance. Thus it does not get the full benefit of the milk and digestive troubles will result. Remember that milk is the calf's food. Water should be its drink.

Care of Calf After Weaning.

Make sure that the calf does not get to the cow again, once it is separated from her and put on the skim-milk diet, as it will tend to spoil, not only the calf, but will cause the cow to worry after the calf and reduce her milk flow.

Leave Calf With Cow.

It is a good practice to let the calf suck the cow for about forty-eight hours after birth, after which it should be taken from its mother. In the case of a weak calf, however, it is better to let it remain two or three days longer.

Cleanliness Is Necessary.

In raising calves, remember this: Cleanliness in all of the feeding operations is extremely necessary.

Use Artificial Coloring.

If it is desired to use artificial coloring, it should be added to the cream just before churning.

Care of Cow's Udder.

The cow's udder should be well washed and dried with a coarse cloth before milking, and the milkster's hands should be washed after every cow.

Properly Fed Cows.

Five cows properly cared for and fully fed will return much more than ten half fed.

Avoid Dirty Separator.

A dirty separator is a veritable incubator of high bacterial counts in cream.

Sea Sleds for Coast Defense.

Sea sleds are the latest craft to be considered by the United States navy for coast defense work. The navy is experimenting with a half-motor boat, half-hydroaeroplane, which neither flies over the water nor cuts through it, but skips along its surface. A24-foot boat of this type has made 36 1/2 miles an hour at a navy test. It is hoped to obtain a boat that will carry men at 55 or 60 miles an hour. It is said 200 of such craft could be built at the cost of a single scout cruiser and would be much more effective.

HIDDEN IMPURITY

"If American women knew how much of our coffee lies on the ground for days, before the berries are finally swept up and harvested, greater care would be exercised in purchasing this food. For this coffee is impure. But its moldy odor is lost in the roasting, and the partial decay is concealed until it comes up harsh and bitter in the cup. This fact is not generally known to importers, for few of them have studied conditions existing prior to the arrival of their ships in port." So writes F. C. Harwood. And Mr. Harwood knows. His long experience in the tropical coffee growing countries, his deep intimacy with plantation owners, his close study of their customs, their methods and the "Tricks of their Trade" has acquired for him a fund of knowledge which places him far in the leadership of coffee connoisseurs, both here and abroad.

Denison's Coffees are selected by F. C. Harwood, personally, and it is here that his power in the Coffee Industry manifests itself to the qualification of Denison's Brands. His wisdom and critical discrimination is appreciated by Coffee Growers the world over, and their respect gives him first choice of the world's finest crops. "This lady has a Jericho horn on her auto." Patrolman Helmuth made this accusation to Recorder Gaskill against Mrs. E. B. Students of the Old Testament will remember that when Joshua and his hosts blew the then auto siren the walls of Jericho fell. Mrs. Frost denied indignantly that she broke the antispeed law, although Helmuth charged that 40 miles an hour is a lame gait when Mrs. Frost drives. "Five dollars fine," said Recorder Gaskill gently. "A warning, this fine try to add to the city's quietude by muffling that Jericho horn. I beg of you, madam." —New York World.
